OSU Libraries Web Site Redesign

The Libraries are currently in the final phase of a web site redesign. Specifically, work is now proceeding on the development of the home page. The Libraries' staff is posting new "iterations" of the site every few weeks, and seeking comments and suggestions as the page layout and design continue to evolve. It would be very helpful to the Libraries if you could take a few moments to look at the current iteration and provide your feedback using the tool provided. It would also be helpful if you could revisit the site over the next several weeks and provide your input on the evolving design.

You can access the iterations and the feedback tool from the Libraries' web site, library.osu.edu (follow the links in the image at the top of the page) or follow this link: <http://library.osu.edu/redesign/> Please direct your feedback to the most recent iteration, currently listed as "Wireframe C1."
