

Science & Engineering Library News

Autumn 2010

Library Resources &
Services

New Science Books Spotlight

- An Introduction to Science and Technology Studies (ebook)
- Science Without Boundaries: Interdisciplinarity in Research, Society and Politics (ebook)
- Presenting Science: A Practical Guide to Giving a Good Talk (ebook)
- Mathematics Under the Microscope: Notes on Cognitive Aspects of Mathematical Practice (print book)
- In Praise of Science: Curiosity, Understanding, and Progress (print book)

Many of our databases allow you to easily check for online or print access via the Find It! Button.

When you click on the button, it checks for online access. If there is no online access, you are shown print holdings and offered a link to interlibrary loan the item. This interlibrary loan link can be used when we don't have the item or if you want the our print copy to be scanned. When you click on the interlibrary loan link and log in, most of the form will be filled out for you!

Did You Know? Dissertations & Theses

Many OSU students are busy writing dissertations and theses. Students may want to see others' theses or dissertations. These resources are also excellent sources for information.

We have several dissertations/theses databases, many with electronic full text. Several are international in scope.

Not sure where to go? Or where to find an OSU dissertation? We have a guide that may be of assistance, which also includes how to find both print and electronic OSU dissertations and theses.

Resources Spotlight

ebrary

An increasing number of books are being bought as ebooks. ebrary is one of our sources for ebooks. You can search the full text of thousands of ebooks. You can also, view, copy, print, search for definitions, and more within a book. Some books may allow only one user at a time, but others may be unlimited! Take a look at ebrary!

Contact Us

Circulation: 292-0211

Subject librarians

OSU Libraries questions