

ARCHITECTURAL DESIGN PROFILES

NA1 A665

Architectural Design is an international journal published in London which provides critiques of current architectural theory and practice. It began as Architectural Design and Construction in 1930 and took its current form and name in 1969. In 1977 profiles focusing on a specific theme or architect began to appear as part of each issue. Over one hundred of these have now been published. The titles for these profiles are listed below along with the volume, number and the year in which they appeared. You will find the most recent five years' issues on reserve. Earlier years are shelved on the upper level.
