LOST HOLIDAY — Student nurses at Neil Hall gazed longingly out at the world Veteran's Day. Their plans for the day of vacation from classes were cancelled when they were quarantined Tuesday morning. A large number of the coeds living in the dorm had become ill with a version of influenza.

Ike's European Jaunt Vital, Says Dr. Nemzer

By Ron Bingham

Should President Eisenhower's trip to Russia next summer prove even moderately successful, that success will certainly be reflected in the November elections.

This was the opinion of Dr. Louis Nemzer as he spoke Tuesday night to 37 persons at a meeting of Ohio State's Young Democrats.

DR. NEMZER'S topic for the evening, "The Significance of the Eisenhower - Khrushchev Visits," ranged between two broad areas: the significance of the visits in international relations; and their significance in American politics.

Dr. Nemzer expressed home hope, but little optimism for major success in this top-level exchange. He pointed out that the exchange is by no means unique. There have been a number of high level conferences between Russia and the West since World War II.

These current visits are not of the kind that should lead us into any great optimism, he said.

SINCE PREMIER Khrushchev came to the U. S. last summer, Russians and Americans alike have been living under a certain euphoria. We have developed a sense of hope and relief as a result of his tour. This feeling may last at least until President Eisenhower repays the visit, Dr. Nemetz said.

"I feel there may be some minor agreements reached next summer," he continued. "But it appears unlikely that any major problems will be solved."

Senate Commission Softens Discrimination Resolution

By Vern Frame

A Student Senate commission took some of the sting out of a resolution on housing discrimination Tuesday and will put it to a vote on the Senate floor next Thursday night.

The resolution, which would ask the administration to tell all landlords housing students that their places cannot be registered by the University unless they practice non-discrimination, was handed the Educational Affairs Commission by its subordinate Human Relations Committee.

THE PROPOSAL, in original form set a December 15 deadline for indiscriminate housing registration. The Commission felt that this was too radical a move and took the stipulation out.

"The question of this deadline is unrealistic," said Niki Schwartz, chairman of the sub-commission. "If the administration does accept the policy change, they can work out the details."

Bob Young, Education Affairs chairman, said that the resolution was not so much of a "method" to ban housing discrimination as it was a formal stand by the University on the issue.

If the Senate O.K's the resolution next week it will go to William S. Guthrie, executive dean of student relations, and the Faculty Council.

Virus Attack Brings Neil Hall Quarantine

By Monica Mandula

The long-anticipated Veteran's Day holiday was spent quietly indoors by the 278 residents of Neil Hall.

A quarantine was placed on the hall early Tuesday morning when 60 of the co-eds became ill with a version of the flu.

By Wednesday the number totaled 150 but reports indicate that the attack is slowing* down. Only seven new cases have been reported since Tuesday midnight. The quarantine is expected to be lifted some time today.

Dr. Paul S. Fancher, director of the University Health Service, emphasized that none of the girls was seriously ill.

"Tests are being made to determine the exact cause," Dr. Fancher said, "but the ailment appears to be a non-bacterial gastroenteritis probably due to a virus."

He explained that the quarantine was established at 4 a.m. Tuesday because nearly all of the coeds living in Neil Hall are student nurses working at the University Health Center.

It was first thought that the quarantine might be lifted within 24 hours, the approximate acute stage of the disease. However, increased numbers of cases caused a two-day extension of the quarantine.

First cases began appearing at Neil Hall Sunday. Isolated cases of this nature had been reported on the campus previously but no large groups had been affected. When other dormitories were checked yesterday there had been no outbreak in any other.

Dr. Fancher said he will receive reports of cases in other dormitories but hoped that the illness would remain localized.

CFP Makes White Judge

At the shortest Council of Fraternity Presidents meeting of the year Tuesday night, Bob White, Delta Tau Delta, was appointed a senior justice on the Interfraternity Court.

IN HIS Senate report, CFP president Jim Tjoflat warned about the re-appearance of spot cards on the campus. He pointed out that spot cards represent a form of gambling which is illegal in the state of Ohio.

Phil Cramer in his scholarship report announced that the committee is going to investigate the effects of "Help Week" on grades. He also said the committee will investigate why only 43 per cent of the 1958-59 pledges went active.

Dean George Caronis warned the council about drinking by fraternity men at the football games.

Tucker Pleases Audience

By Phyllis Cashman

Richard Tucker, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Association appeared in concert before an appreciative audience at Mershon Tuesday night.

Little fault could be found with the quality of his voice (he is an acknowledged master), but Tucker's selection of numbers and timing of the program somewhat marred the performance.

There was a noticeable shortage of selections from operas—the tenor's forte—a disappointing element for Tucker enthusiasts.

Time lapses between numbers, although necessary for the performer, in Tuesday night's performance, seemed awkward. Somewhat longer than the usual voice breaks, yet considerably shorter than an intermission, these pauses were the single feature that caused the performance to drag.

On several occasions, members of the audience got up to leave thinking it was an intermission, only to find that Tucker had returned to the stage for his next number.

Most of the selections were too short to give the audience time to get in the mood, but this was not a serious fault. The program was obviously designed to include numbers that would best exhibit the tenor's range, quality, and volume.

Some of the brightest moments of the concert were provided by Tucker's four encores which included a Jewish folk song, a number by Puccini, and in a more popular vein, "Falling in Love."

ENGINEERING MEETING

Faculty Speaks . . .

Purpose of Television Ought To Be Defined

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Lantern is happy to present again, its "Faculty Speaks Column." Different members of the faculty are invited to write on different subjects. We feel it is good to know what they think outside the classroom.

It is hoped that the column will be read by all. Today's guest writer is Howard J. Pincus, associate professor of geology. (See biography, third column.)

Charles Van Doren's rise to prominence is perhaps greater cause for concern than his fall. The tragic figure of the fallen idol, his family, and the professors who accepted him as colleagues and Ph.D. shrink nearly to points when viewed within the larger picture of the public's self-deception and the irresponsibility of commercial television.

CLEARLY, THE television viewers were deceiving themselves when they accepted Van Doren's truckload of odds and ends as legitimate masterpieces of learning; it is fitting irony that the junk had been stolen. Certainly the public was not endorsing scholarship and teaching by admiring the glittering answers; whether or not this self-deception was conscious is really not material here. It is material, however, that veneration of trivia characterizes much of our culture, and that there seems to be little disposition, either in high or low stations, to do some hard, if painful thinking about this.

The irresponsibility of commercial television and the advertising interests which nurture it has now become a widely discussed issue, providing viewers and legislators alike with the opportunity to be wise and sanctimonious. Where were these sages and saints during the rise to prominence of the quiz shows?

TELEVISION executives now tell the House Special Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight that they will clean their houses, but they do not disclose what they believe television's role in society should be. At the very least, they ought to define what they believe to be the purpose of this vast, influential institution.

It is precisely at the point of searching for purpose that one comes upon a deficiency which characterizes so much of the shoddy behavior in the quiz scandal. The published version of Van Doren's celebrated confession before the subcommittee leads the reader directly to the conclusion that this man, in whom the world of letters had invested so much, had so little sense of purpose that he could be persuaded by specious arguments to partake in deceit. Call this lack of purpose, weakness, or infirmity, it is deplorable behavior under any name, even without association with deceit.

BUT VAN DOREN is not the sole irresolute character in the drama. The network heads clearly displayed lack of positive producers and directors who prostituted contestants gave testimony which could be described charitably as reflecting tangled purposes; their jabberings about using the make-believe of entertainment as justification for deceit indicate no appreciation for integrity as an end in itself, and they might just as well plead that fiction justifies.

Lack of purpose characterizes much of our behavior outside of television. At the time of Nikita Khrushchev's visit to this country, Walter Lippman called attention to our country's lack of purpose in conducting its affairs. One does not need Mr. Lippmann's astuteness to sense lack of purpose in government, in the leadership of many kinds of institutions, in family life, and in the behavior of individuals.

IT IS LACK OR infirmity of purpose which leads people and institutions to seek comfort in the superficial answer, and by so doing, to impede progress and to obscure the principles by which they would like to believe they are living.

Our educational institutions, especially at the university level, have the mission of helping young minds to grow so that each emerging citizen can acquire his own sense of purpose of recognizing challenges, understanding the principles by which society expects him to live, and assessing the aids afforded and the burdens imposed by his resources, tastes and traditions. Educational institutions have in addition the equally important mission of demonstrating to all of society, through the individual and collective action of their scholars and administrators, that they have the sense of purpose to live by the principles they teach.

COLUMBIA University's actions in the Van Doren case, as reported in the newspapers, are clear evidence of commendable institutional resolve. During the period of rumor, grand jury queries, conferences with the district attorney, and the like, Assistant Professor Van Doren continued in his post. When he needed time to collect his thoughts, he was given leave. Only after he had made his confession to the House Subcommittee did Columbia's administration depart from the presumption of innocence, and then his resignation was accepted quickly and mercifully, the subcommittee imprudent advice to Columbia notwithstanding.

There are other fairly bright spots in the picture. The public has had an eminently clear demonstration of how easy it is to be deceived by displays of fragmentary knowledge. And, commercial television has shown that it can produce some highly meritorious programs. Further, there are people in this world with very firm purpose; one need only look about the campus or schoolroom to find some of them.

ONE CANNOT help but wonder about the long range significance of much-publicized events like the quiz scandals. It is highly unlikely that this most recent drama will materially affect our culture. Perhaps there will be some breast-beating and some legislating, but tomorrow will also have its fallen idols and their critics.

'Y's' Give Support To Faculty Stand

To the Editor:

We, the officers of the Ohio State YM-YWCA, lend our support to the stand taken by the faculty of the department of political science in their letter to the LANTERN on Nov. 3.

Racial and religious discrimination have no place in any community, especially in a supposedly democratic university community. This discrimination is contradictory to the basic principles of our organization (and of many other campus and community organization), thus we happily support the faculty's recommendation of action on this issue.

'Old Grad' Speaks For Fraternities

To the Editor:

More than 25 years ago I was initiated into a fraternity at Ohio State and have a son here now who is also a member. I can see both good and bad in this particular fraternity, and in the system itself.

I agree that the Greeks aren't the only groups doing things for charities, special events, etc. and neither are they the only ones to have "alcoholic beverages stashed away illegally."

AS TO snobbishness, maybe I'm just lucky, but I haven't known very many snobs in my lifetime, either in or out of fraternities and sororities. Now some Greeks may be snobs, but please don't paint them all with the same brush.

As to being "pushed, prodded, and cajoled" to limit dates to sorority girls, the freshman fraternity-sorority parties obviously make it easy for Greeks to become acquainted with each other early in their school life, so it seems that a natural result is a continuation of these alliances. However, if a Greek decides to date an Independent, most of his fellow Greeks would have no more objection than I.

ONE LETTER writer felt very strongly about discrimination as it applies to fraternities and sororities. Now it should be fairly obvious that any organization that has any standards at all for membership practices discrimination. Boy Scouts don't accept girls, churches (most of them, anyway) don't accept atheists.

I fail to understand by what authority, legal or moral, one letter writer, Mr. Nemec, concludes that discrimination, per se, is wrong and must not be permitted. Doesn't he ever care to be referred to as a "person of discrimination," or one with "discriminating tastes?" Doesn't an individual, or a group voluntarily formed for certain specific purposes, have the privilege — nay, the right — of free association?

HELL WEEK has improved but little since I was in school, and I join Mr. Nemec in condemning it. I hope the University administration, the Interfraternity Council and the fraternities themselves, will take steps to outlaw many of the week's objectionable practices.

Social fraternities provide a "home away from home," in a sense, which is certainly less impersonal than a dorm or rooming house. They provide group housing in and feeding on a cooperative basis, with the group being self-supporting, and assuming (almost) complete responsibility for the success or failure of the enterprise in all its phases—financial, business, social, etc.

Fraternities provide contact with other colleges. They provide a high code of conduct to which each individual at least gives lip service in order to become a member; if the individual or the group fails to live up to these ideals, more's the pity; at least with some regularity. There are many other values, both practical and aesthetic, too numerous to mention.

ROTC Program Comes Up Again

To the Editor:

The time has evidently come again this year when all tried men and true are seeking to abolish compulsory ROTC. This stain must be erased from our exalted bastion of freedom and knowledge, say these saviours of the world.

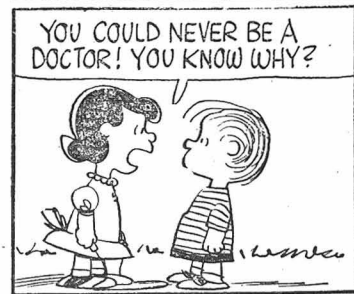

I must concur with their judgment. But I do not concur because I am convinced by their arguments. I concur because of the evidence presented by the people in ROTC. Let it be understood, however, that I am referring in this letter only to the majority who are in uniform only because they are forced to be and who do as little as possible while they are in ROTC.

The youth of today, the hope of tomorrow, would take advantage of all the opportunities this great land affords for advancement, both materially and spiritually, and yet would not spend a few hours a week learning how to defend these opportunities against those who would deny them to us.

If this be the state of our youth, indeed of our country, today—if these people cannot see it in their hearts to contribute a small portion of their time to their country—if these men cannot do a reasonable amount of work to learn the things being presented to them—if, indeed, they must make a mockery of the uniform of their country's service—then I must join with those who would raise the hue and cry for the abolishment of compulsory ROTC.

Veterans Club Looks To Era Free of Arms

The year 1953 heralded the beginning of an organization on the Ohio State campus of students serving in the armed forces of the United States and her Allies.

Although the Ohio State Veterans' Club is still active, its membership hopes that ultimately the organization will exist only in history.

"We feel that mankind can live without war. When there is no threat of war, there will be no need for the armed forces. We hope that the future will bring this to pass and that veterans' clubs everywhere will be dissolved," explained Robert C. Weaver, president of the club.

OUTLINING the various functions of the organization, Weaver pointed out that it is a service to the community as well as a service to campus veterans.

"Every Spring Quarter we take orphans to the Columbus Zoo," he said. "We depend on support from Columbus businessmen. Everything we get is free—hot dogs, tickets for rides at the amusement park across from the zoo, and numerous other items."

In order for an individual to qualify for membership, he must be a veteran of the United States' Armed Forces or of her Allies. He must also be a full-time student.

WEAVER SAID that he considered the club as highly beneficial to the veteran as a means of helping him evaluate his ideals, as well as other ideals.

"In the service veterans recognize actions and people that should be criticized, but they are not allowed to do anything about them.

When they leave this environment, however, they should learn to criticize when the need is felt," he explained.

Commenting on the club's loss of its seat on the Student Senate earlier this year, Weaver pointed out that veterans are different in many respects to other students and need to be represented as a unit.

"Student Senate considers the Fields May Be Number 1

The Bucks slugged it out for two hours in a chill rain yesterday, stressing offense and pass defense.

After practice coach Woody Hayes said he will probably go with Jerry Fields at first string quarterback against Iowa Saturday. Tom Matte's left shoulder, injured in the Indiana game, has not been responding to treatment, Hayes said.

It's not too late to hop on the right one—before graduation time.

Bucks Best Against Hawks

By Frank Evans, Sports Editor

The Iowa game acts on some Buckeye football players like a ton and a half of vitamin pills.

Ask Bob White.

ASK JERRY Fields, he'll back him up.

Or ask Vic Janowicz—his performance topped them all.

Two years ago, White played steam-roller and crushed a rugged Iowa squad into the Ohio Stadium turf. Last year in Iowa City, White scored three touchdowns and helped smack down another Hawkeye band as Ohio State knocked off Rose Bowl-bound Iowa, 38-28.

BUT THE BIG noise in the 1958 game was supplied by Jerry Fields. His long touchdown aerial to Jim Houston, blended with superb field generalship, brought a stunning victory for the Scarlet and Gray underdogs.

The 1957 and 1958 battles against Iowa still rank with the top performances of an Ohio State team.

OF THE '58 struggle, Coach Woody Hayes said: "This was the finest football game I have ever seen."

But turn the calendar back to 1949 and you'll uncover one of the brightest chapters in football history.

The season had barely opened. Vic Janowicz, destined to become one of the best-ever Buckeyes, turned in his greatest collegiate game.

AGAINST IOWA, that year, the fans had just settled in their seats when Janowicz began leading the Buckeyes to one of the most lopsided triumphs in their history.

Although he played only about half of the game, this football magician scored two touchdowns, passed for four more, and kicked a Conference record 10 of 11 extra points. He also handled kickoff duties and sparkled on defense.

When the fireworks had subsided, the score read—Ohio State 83, Iowa 21.

TREMENDOUS momentum for nationwide recognition began on that day.

Rushing, passing and kicking, Janowicz led the Bucks through the season.

Although Ohio State didn't repeat as Big Ten champions, Vic Janowicz was truly a national champion. He was a unanimous All-American at halfback and won the Heisman Award as collegiate football's outstanding player of 1950.

THIS SATURDAY, White, Fields and Co., will be trying to do it again to the Hawkeyes.

But old No. 31, the great Vic Janowicz, will be looking on from the stands.

For Iowa fans with long memories, it's probably better that way.

VIC, THE MAGICIAN—Vic Janowicz produced one of the greatest single game performances in college football when he scored two touchdowns, passed for four more and kicked 10 of 11 extra points against Iowa 10 years ago. He was the first Buckeye to star against Iowa. Eight years later, Bob White stole the show and last year White and Jerry Fields "upset" the black and gold Hawkeyes, 38-28.

Jeter, Horn Lead Fancy Iowa Offense

By Bill Teague

If Iowa flashes the form Saturday that it has displayed since the Purdue game, fans are sure to see a spectacular offense.

The Hawkeyes have scored 86 points in their past two games.

HEADING THE Hawks' touchdown parade is fullback Don Horn, who has scored six times. Horn has carried 47 times for 157 yards and a 3.3 yards average.

But carrying the brunt of the attack have been halfback Bob Jeter and Ray Jauch. Jeter has carried 68 times at six yards a clip for 410 yards and two touchdowns. Jauch, hobbled by injuries part of the year, has carried 56 times for 274 yards and one touchdown.

THIS MAKES Iowa a solid threat on the ground. And in the air, quarterback Olen Treadway has been setting records all season. He's thrown 111 passes without an interception, has completed 73 of them for 875 yards, five touchdowns and a .613 per centage of completions.

Treadway's favorite targets are Don Norton, who has caught 27 passes, and left end Jeff Langston, who has hauled in 15.

Added to this offensive punch, the Hawks have a tough defense. Last year Iowa was notoriously weak on defense, and had to rely on outscoring their opponents. This year they've tightened their line, and have allowed only 53 points in seven games. Their last two opponents, Kansas State and Minnesota, have failed to score.

IT'S A SAFE BET that Coach Forrest Evashevski will have the Hawkeyes fired up for Saturday's game. For the past two years Ohio State has surprised Iowa with the final quarter charges of fullback Bob White. Evashevski wants to win this one.

But then, so does Coach Woody Hayes. After the Buckeyes' frustrating tie with Indiana last Saturday, Hayes said, "We'll be better next week. I'll guarantee you that."

If the Bucks hold form, they should be better. They seem to be up one week, down the next. This is their week to be up.

Goldberg Paces While He Speaks

By Brenda Workman

At B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation Sunday evening, facing an extra-large and diversified crowd of students, faculty and Columbus citizens, Dr. Harvey Goldberg spoke on "The Social Bandit: Significance of a Type."

Ignoring the lectern, he stepped down to audience level in order to have room to do his customary pacing. Dr. Goldberg stated that he had not planned to talk about the strike situation or he'd have titled it, "The Anti-Social Bandits."

He said that over the past 150 years there have been social protest movements by unorganized "pre-political" groups throughout the world, and that only by understanding these movements can we comprehend the revolutionary period in which we live.

USING THE rural people of Italy as examples, Dr. Goldberg drew upon his prodigious memory and extensive reading to vividly and wittily illustrate his points. He began by giving a picture of the "social bandit," a type of Robin Hood who, while he violates government laws, nevertheless has the support and approval of his village.

Perhaps this "bandit" has no humanitarian impulse, Dr. Goldberg said, but he may try to fulfill the role created for him by the peasants in their songs and stories. Social banditry is futile, however, for the bandit has no vision of a new society. He merely tries to right what he deems are social wrongs within the fragments of existing society.

WHEN BANDITRY upsets tradition, outside law assumes authority and the next stage of protest, such as the Mafia, comes into being. Providing a collective consciousness, it is a reformist movement superseding the country's law.

This secret, ritualistic group maintains tradition against outside influences by selling security to the peasants. The people thus pay only a traditional amount of money but can disobey the foreign government in power with impunity.

The third expanding step in social banditry, maintained Dr. Goldberg, is the one that is most likely to rise out of socialism and communism influence. This is "millenarianism," a revolutionary ideal out of which would rise a completely new society.

Women Have Busy Intramural Season Autumn Quarter

The Women's Recreation Association Board met on Oct. 29. The Association has been active this quarter with the following clubs playing. The Hockey Club has played 4 games and won one. Practices are held Wednesday and Thursday from 4 to 6 and all girls are welcome regardless of skill.

Swan Club was hostess to the Michigan State swimming team recently and in a dual meet, Michigan State was the victor. Outing Club has planned a bicycle hike on Nov. 11, and they plan to go horseback riding on Nov. 15 at Blacklick Woods. University Dance is planning a workshop at the end of this quarter.

The intramural program, consisting of volleyball and bowling, has had more students participating this year than in previous years. There are 30 teams participating in volleyball on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and 72 teams in bowling with many more on the waiting list. A skating party and fencing and badminton meets have been proposed.

Prof. Spitz Will Lecture At Hillel Sun.

Guest lecturer at the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation on Sunday evening at 8 p.m. will be Dr. David Spitz, professor of political science at Ohio State.

Dr. Spitz, a popular campus lecturer, has just returned from a year leave which he spent at Cornell University as visiting lecturer.

Professor Spitz is the author of "Patterns of Anti-Democratic Thought" and "Democracy and the Challenger of Power." He has contributed numerous articles to scholarly reviews. His latest article, which appeared in the October, 1959, issue of "Commentary" is entitled, "Freedom, Virtue and the New Scholasticism."

Dr. Spitz's topic will be "Conservatism, Radicalism, Liberalism, Three Roads to Political Salvation."

RALEIGH, N. C. —(UP)—C. Robert Adams yesterday appealed a $2,750 damage suit against a supermarket to the state supreme court.

Adams claimed the store sold him a box of breakfast food so hard he broke a tooth trying to eat it.

THIS MOVEMENT believes that the world is irreparably evil, but that a Messiah will come to reign for 1,000 years, a golden age of the world. Believing that human nature will change, millenarists will put forth superhuman efforts to achieve their ideal society.

After the audience had recovered its breath, Dr. Goldberg clarified recent nationalist movements in terms of social protest in the question-and-answer period.

An evening of Dr. Goldberg's dynamic and expressive speaking makes one want to take the advice of the chairman, Sandy Lewis, to read his collection of essays, "American Radicals," sign up for "The Age of Liberalism" next quarter, or become a history major.

LUCKY STRIKE presents

Dear Dr. Frood:

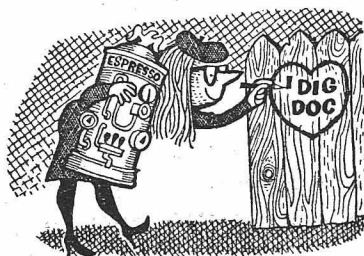

Dr. Frood, Ph.T.T.

DR. FROOD'S MORAL OF THE MONTH

When the world seems dark . . . when the sun refuses to shine, do not fret. It happens every night.

Dear Dr. Frood: A professor here says I'm so dumb I can't spell my own name. What should I do?
Willylum

Dear William: He's just teasing.

Dear Dr. Frood: Like you're the most. I mean like you're out there . . . so cool you're Iceville. Like you're the ginchiest.
Chick

Dear Chick: Like you're sick, Chick.

Dear Dr. Frood: Several girls' colleges nearby depend on our college for dates. Some girl is always calling and asking me to go out. How can I politely refuse?
Bothered

Dear Bothered: Say you have a headache. Better still, admit you have no head.

DR. FROOD ON A CURIOUS DECISION

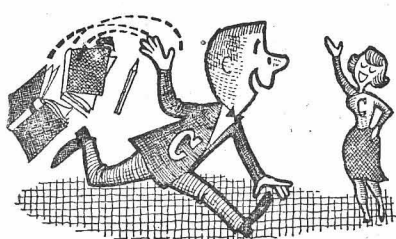

There is considerable talk in tobacco circles about the introduction of new cigarette flavors. It is expected that you will soon be able to buy cottage-cheese cigarettes, sarsaparilla cigarettes and fresh-garden-vegetable cigarettes. You will be happy to know that Lucky Strike has decided to stick with its own remarkable taste—that of fine tobacco only. A pleasant decision, I'd say.

Dear Dr. Frood: I have gone steady with four different boys in the last three weeks. Would you call me fickle?
L.N.

Dear L.N.: I would call you seldom.

Dear Dr. Frood: I hear that at some schools they let you smoke in class. How can I convince our administration to do the same?
Hopeful

Dear Hopeful: Wherever you smoke Luckies, you're smoking in class.

Dear Dr. Frood: My girl is the best-looking doll on campus . . . honey-blond hair, beautiful face and figure. I date her so often that my marks are suffering. What should I do?
Daddydo

Dear Daddydo: Better your marks suffer than you.

COLLEGE STUDENTS SMOKE MORE LUCKIES THAN ANY OTHER REGULAR!

When it comes to choosing their regular smoke, college students head right for fine tobacco. Result: Lucky Strike tops every other regular sold. Lucky's taste beats all the rest because L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco.

TOBACCO AND TASTE TOO FINE TO FILTER!

Retail Sales Rise In Spite of Strike

Despite the steel strike, September sales of Ohio retailers rose one per cent, maintaining the usual seasonal relationship to August levels, the "Ohio Retail Annalist" reported.

AFTER AN August drop, attributed to the strike, the anticipated further decline did not materialize in September, according to the "Annalist," published by the Bureau of Business Research at Ohio State.

September retail sales showed a 10 per cent gain over the corresponding month of last year and a smaller increase than in some earlier months of 1959 (15 per cent in June and 16 per cent in July).

FOR THE first three quarters of 1959, sales volume has maintained a 10 per cent increase over the same nine months of 1958.

September sales in four kinds of business of failed to achieve September, 1958, levels general stores; women's ready-to-wear stores; heating and plumbing equipment dealers, and other apparel stores.

Famed Geologist Gives Lecture About Ice Age

By Virginia MacIvor

Prof. Paul Woldstedt from Bonn, Germany, delivered an interesting lecture in Mendenhall recently to a varied audience, from professional geologists to curious listeners attracted from out of town to hear the eminent geologist from Germany. Professor Woldstedt's lecture topic was entitled "Basic Pleistocene Stratigraphy of Northern Germany and the Alps."

Dr. Woldstedt is a leading European geologist and professor of geology at Frederick Wilhelm University in Bonn. Prior to 1952, when he went to Bonn, he had conducted a number of geological studies in Europe concerning glacial changes in the earth's surface, archaeological, and anthropological studies. He is the author of two recent volumes in the field of geology entitled "Das Eiszeitalter."

PROFESSOR Woldstedt lectured with slide diagrams, which he called Pollendiagramms, charts of vegetable deposits found in the formation of the earth's strata in Northern and Central Europe. These diagrams clearly and as nearly accurately as possible revealed the old and new glacial boundaries and their origins in Northern Europe and the Alpine area up through the Pleistocene, the last glacial epoch.

Football Banquet Set For Nov. 23

Season's end is only two weeks away, but students planning on attending the annual football appreciation dinner had better plan now on buying tickets.

Ohio Staters will again sponsor the dinner this year. The 23rd annual affair will be held Monday, Nov. 23, 1959, in the Ohio Union. The banquet will start at 5:45.

Tickets will be on sale in the Ohio Union in room 326 beginning Monday and lasting until the 13th. The price of the tickets is $2.00.

Men's sideburns were popularized by Civil War Gen. Ambrose E. Burnside.

The scientist pointed out the definite correlations between particular types of changing tree (interglacial) deposits in earth basins and mountains—(whether the trees had been coniferous or deciduous, living in cold or warm temperatures)—and thus the sequential glacial epochs, the rise and recession of continental ice sheets, which certain tree types indicate on the chart.

Dr. Woldstedt also compared the European terrain of the regions with various types of soil strata at certain periods in North America. Professor Woldstedt discussed particular marine as well as pollen deposits—and their interest to geologists as a main dividing line of glacial periods in Northern Germany.

WIDELY FAMILIAR with European soil, Dr. Woldstedt admitted some doubt whether the pre-Pleistocene oscillation of the earth shown on the diagram marked definite glacial periods.

He pointed out facts of extreme interest unknown to many listeners for whom such extensive geological research in Northern Germany and the Alps had not been possible.

Nemzer Tells Of Eisenhower's Trip

Turning next to the American political scene, he said that if President Eisenhower achieves minor success in Moscow, the Republican party will definitely benefit from it in the presidential election.

IF MAJOR Soviet-American agreements are reached, the Republican party would gain an overwhelming political advantage. Richard Nixon would be "almost unbeatable," he said.

Only definite failure and disappointment would damage Republican election hopes.

Dr. Nemzer, formerly with the U. S. Department of Justice and the Department of State, has recently returned from Russia, and is considered an authority on Russian affairs.

BACK TO DUTY

President Eisenhower reconvened his special steel fact-finding board yesterday to keep an eye on union-management negotiations and help try to prevent renewal of the steel strike next January. The board includes Dr. Paul N. Lehoczy of Ohio State.

CADET TRYOUTS

Tryouts for the Co-ed Cadet Corps will be held at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Hagerty Hall Auditorium.

Art Gallery Will Become Culture Area

Just as a laboratory is a necessity for the chemistry student, an art gallery is essential for the art student.

The facilities of the new Hayes Hall Art Gallery, which opened officially Nov. 8, will enable the students of art to observe and appreciate the various techniques and styles of art.

This Art Gallery will serve not only as a source of reference for the study of art, but also as a culture center for the University and the community.

Numerous outside displays will be brought to the University through the support of the Ohio State University Development Fund. The object is to make the University and community aware of the integral part the visual arts play in our lives.
