Campus Cops Fine 2,000

Police Crack Down On First Week Violators

Campus police have placed over 2,000 parking tickets on illegally parked student cars in the first week of their quarterly drive against campus traffic violations. The campaign began last Monday when the officers passed out blue warning slips to violators, but handed out no fines.

Tuesday the color of the slips as well as the penalty for violations changed. The slips became a pretty pink and the first five tickets rated a dollar fine. Two dollars will be charged for each tag over five, and $25 for each ticket after the ninth.

A violator must report to the traffic department in the Service Building within three days after getting a tag. He must either pay his fine or take an appeal to the Student Court.

Money from the fines goes into the Student Loan Fund. Last year 30,000 tickets netted the fund $22,217.

Research Speeds Fresh Foods To City Markets

Vegetable growers and food distributors near large markets will benefit from an extensive research program in progress at the University.

Dr. Charles W. Hauck, department of rural economics, and John J. Crawford, research assistant, are working on new procedures for handling fresh vegetables. The project is sponsored through the Ohio State Research Foundation by the Ohio Association of Ice Industries.

The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station and the U. S. Department of Agriculture are also co-operating. The object is to help farmers deliver higher quality merchandise to nearby markets.

Enrollment Hits 23,643 Including 12,000 Vets

Total fee payments for the Autumn Quarter have reached 23,643, Jacob B. Taylor, business manager, announced today. Veteran enrollment has passed the 12,000 mark, although the final figures have not been verified.

100 Universities Will Join Ohio State In Launching Anniversary Program

Delegates from more than 100 universities and colleges throughout the United States will join Ohio State in launching the University's 75th anniversary celebration. Official delegates from Canada and Mexico will also be present.

Representing Canada will be James J. Hurley, consular officer at Detroit, Mich. Mexico will send Ramon Gaul, now stationed at Cleveland. Both foreign consulars will speak briefly at the formal anniversary banquet at 7 p. m., Oct. 15, at the Neil House.

The two day program will open with an academic procession and convocation at 2:30 p. m., Oct. 14, in the Men's Gymnasium. President Bevis will preside at this session, and President J. L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota, will deliver an address.

Final arrangements for the two day event are being completed by the general anniversary committee and 15 subcommittees. Chairman of the subcommittees are: Frederick Heimberger, program

Home, Sweet Home—Now

Double-decker bunks and steel lockers, reminiscent of Army days, are part of the equipment of the Stadium Dormitories. These have been augmented by individual desks and lounge chairs by the residents of the dorms. Here is an everyday scene in the Ohio Club. Left to right are: Edwin Nelson, Bill Harris, Paul Luoma, Dick Norling, and Joseph Riley, all busily engaged in working on their point-hour—a favorite pastime of stadium residents.

Good Living, High Grades Prevail In Stadium Dorms

It's very convenient to be able to sit on the roof of your house and see all of the Ohio State football games. This is only one of the advantages the 780 residents of the six stadium dormitories enjoy. Another is the $141 quarterly cost of room and board which fits the GI check.

Scholarship must be helped by living in the dormitories, because the point-hour average of Stadium students was second only to that of professional fraternities last year.

The six dormitories are divided into 37 sleeping units equipped with double-decked bunks and steel lockers. Two dining rooms, a kitchen, study rooms, and recreation rooms complete the facilities.

The Tower, Stadium, and Buckeye clubs were founded in 1933. Last year the Scioto, Olentangy, and Ohio clubs were opened and now all are filled to capacity.

Members of the original clubs did their own cooking and house-keeping. This cut room and board bills to $40 a quarter. Now, seven janitors and 11 maids do the house-cleaning. A staff of 30 cooks, countermen, and dishwashers, three dietitians, and 25 part-time students prepare the meals.

Group captains elected by members of each unit are responsible for discipline. Superintendent Lowell A. Wrigley has charge of the dormitories and also serves as assistant baseball coach for the University.

15,000 Storm Ticket Window At Fenway Park

BOSTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—A cold and hungry crowd of 15,000 stormed Fenway Park today to get 8,500 bleacher seats to the Red Sox-Indians' pennant-playoff game. More than 2,000 fans spent the night camped outside the park waiting for the box-office to open at 9 a. m. EST.

The temperature was only eight degrees above freezing during the night—but the cold didn't discourage many, if any.

Several persons fainted either from hunger or exhaustion and several fist-fights developed over places in line.

Social Board Foots Fees For Use Of Men's Gym

The Ohio State Social Board has devised a new plan whereby it will pay service charges of $150 on the Men's Gymnasium for University organizations which hold dances and other campus affairs there. The former practice of underwriting affairs was abandoned by a decision of the Board late in the Spring Quarter.

The organizations will pay a tax on their profits to the Social Board in order to build up the Social Board's operating fund. The tax will be 10 per cent for profit up to $250, 15 per cent for profits from $250 to $500, and 20 per cent for profits over $500.

The Social Board is compiling a master list of activities to be available at the Administration Building. The social calendar will be made up, as near as possible, two quarters in advance. This will avoid conflicts in dates for the organizations on campus.

Council Told It Lacks Jurisdiction

PARIS, Oct. 4—(AP)—Russia told the United Nations Security Council today it has no right to consider Western charges the Soviet blockade of Berlin is a menace to world peace.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky led off his fight to keep the Berlin issue out of the Council's hands. He declared the Western demand for UN consideration of the dispute was "devoid of any ground, as it does not fall within the scope of the Security Council."

The issue, he said, should be sent to the Big Four Council of Foreign Ministers, as a formal note from Moscow proposed earlier today.

Vishinsky declared the UN charter forbids the Council to discuss anything concerning Germany until the four occupying powers have written a peace treaty for the beaten country.

Taking the argument to the Foreign Ministers' Council, he said, offers the only legal way to settle the problems of Germany. He charged that the currency reform in Western Germany last June was an "act of aggression" against the Russian occupation authorities and had forced the Russians to take "defensive measures."

17 On Plane Lost At Sea

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 4—(AP)—A twin-engined charter airliner with 21 persons aboard was "presumed down at sea" today after it sounded distress calls somewhere between Charleston, S. C., and Nassau Bahamas.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration official listed the plane as owned by the New England Air Express Company of Teterboro, N. J., and said "an accident is presumed to have occurred."

The plane's gasoline supply was exhausted at 4:45 a. m. (EST). It was last heard from, calling the international distress signal "Mayday" at 1:44 a. m.

"We can only presume the plane is down somewhere between Charleston and the Bahamas," the CAA said.

More than a dozen aircraft already were on the search.

The Coast Guard said the area to be searched is dotted with squall and shower areas but visibility is "pretty fair."

Photographic History Of University Preserved In Huge Campus Photo Files

The progress and development of Ohio State's 75-year history is being carefully preserved in the photographic-history files of the department of photography.

Begun in 1885 by the late Prof. Joseph Nelson Bradford the collection of pictures provide a range of views from a brand new University Hall, in a cow pasture, to football triumphs on old Ohio Field.

Today there are some 25,000 negatives and prints in the collection. The earlier photos were taken by Professor Bradford and his students. Any of the faculty members that could master the difficult techniques of photography in its "wet plate" era, also made contributions.

In 1931, the Board of Trustees authorized Professor Bradford to engage in full-time work as a photo-historian. After his death in 1943 the photography department carried on the work. Professor Bradford's personal knowledge of photography has proven to be a great asset to them.

Prof. Francis W. Davis, present head of the department of photography, said that he and his staff are interested in taking any pictures that will have historical significance. "We ask ourselves what the University will want to look at 50 years

The Navy provides the regular student with his books, tuition and $50 per month subsistence pay in addition to uniforms. The regular must take three summer cruises before graduation, after which he receives a regular commission in the Navy and goes on active duty for a 15 months minimum period.

Under the Selective Service Act of 1948, the contract student must agree to serve two years on active duty with the Navy in order to be deferred until his requirements for graduation are fulfilled. The contract student receives subsistence only during his junior and senior years and takes a cruise of three months duration before his senior year.

Teaching Aids Laboratory Provides Film Service

Professors Can Now Get Motion Pictures
For Classroom Use In Any Department

Like to watch the "March of Time," or the armies of the revolution in action? The Teaching Aids Laboratory, Room 13 Page Hall, is a central source on Campus of information about motion pictures in all subject fields, including these.

The laboratory has been operating under the direction of Dr. Norman Woelfel for the last four years to maintain and furnish free educational aid to all faculty members and departments of instruction. Dr. Woelfel said that his department acts as a central pool for motion picture projection equipment, and has trained student projectionists who are available to show films for any agency desiring this service.

If a faculty member desires a film for one of his classes, he may have a projector and screen brought into the classroom, or may show the movie in room 108 Derby or room 10-C Page Hall. These rooms are maintained by the Teaching Aids Laboratory expressly for the purpose of showing pictures to classes.

Dr. Woelfel said that this department is not the only one that carries films. There are many departments of instruction that do not subscribe. However, the Teaching Aids Laboratory procures films from any office on campus, taking full responsibility for them, when they are desired.

The services of the Laboratory have expanded a great deal since 1946. In 1946, 706 class sections were shown movies while, in 1947 the number jumped to 1130 sections. There were only 19 special evening showings in the former year, but there were 407 last year. The Laboratory procured 1203 films from the State Department of Education, and 354 from Industry last year.

Buckeye Banter

By John Fisher

What a difference a year makes. That should be the theme song of Coach Wes Fesler as he watched the same boys who couldn't win for losing last year, smash their way to convincing wins in their first two games this season.

What brought about this almost miraculous change? The year's experience undoubtedly helped transform last year's green and inept line into as rugged a forward wall as has worn the Scarlet and Gray in many years.

More important, however, is the Bucks determination to make good. At the end of Spring practice, Fesler told his charges that they were only a fair team on paper, but determination and hard work could convert the fair team to a good team. Fesler repeated this message at the beginning of practice this Fall. The squad took the advice.

We are glad for Fesler. He was a very unhappy man last year, even though he made no excuses and remained optimistic clear up to the closing game. His patience and belief in his players is paying off.

Bucks Learn Hard Way

We are even happier for the players' sakes. They took both a physical and mental beating last year. They worked hard five nights a week pushing each other around in practice, only to get shoved around themselves on Saturdays. They learned the hard way—by losing.

They undoubtedly are finding football is a lot of fun this year, not just a lot of work with few rewards. They find practice sessions as well as Saturday games are more than worth while. The team's spirit has been almost unbelievably high. Injuries to key players has not dampened spirits a bit. Squad moral picks up as Saturday gets closer and the injury list grows.

The coaching staff also deserves its share of praise. Lyl Clark has done a terrific job with the Buckeye line. Fesler and the rest of the staff deserve a verbal pat on the back for the defensive arrangements that confused Missouri and Southern California. A fine scouting job by Dick Fisher helped immensely in preparing for Southern California.

Bucks Are Dark Horse

We still can't see Ohio State as anything but a dark horse in the Big Nine race. Northwestern's impressive win over Purdue marks the Wildcats the team to beat. Northwestern clashes with Minnesota on Saturday and Michigan the following week. Either of these two teams could upset the Wildcat appletart.

Purdue is not to be counted out of the running despite defeats in its first two games. Look for the Boilermakers to bounce back against Michigan, Saturday. Minnesota can sneak into the championship on percentage points, since it plays seven Western Conference games as compared to only six by the other leading contenders.

Ohio State's biggest enemy from here on in may be overconfidence. The next three Buck opponents are Iowa, Indiana and Wisconsin. Iowa has been the least impressive of the three, but we feel that they may have the best chance of beating the Bucks.

The Scarlet will be inviting disaster if they overlook Iowa to look towards Indiana and Wisconsin. You have to play them one at a time in the Big Nine, or be beaten by a team you considered a breather. There are no breathers in the Big Nine.

Bucks Improved Says Wallace As Trojans Fall

Football writer Francis Wallace, who was a press box spectator at the Buck-Trojan game Saturday, called the Buckeyes a greatly improved team.

In a pre-season magazine article, Wallace picked Ohio State to win only three of its nine games. "Ohio State looked only moderately improved when I saw Wes Fesler's Spring practice game," wrote Wallace in the magazine article.

Ohio State's performance led Wallace to realize that he had underrated the Bucks. "The Ohio State line is tremendously improved," said Wallace Saturday.

Jolting Joe

JOE WHISLER
Ohio State Fullback

Buckeye Fullback Joe Whisler was held out of practice sessions for the Southern California game, because of headaches from the head injury he suffered in the Missouri game.

Southern California suffered Whisler headaches too, as Whisler smashed over for two touchdowns and was generally a headache to the Trojans all Saturday afternoon.

Whisler has now scored three touchdowns—he also had one against Missouri—in abbreviated appearances in two games. There is no telling how tough Whisler will be when he is again able to play full time.

Conference Opener Looms After Win Over Trojans

By Ben Sunbury

The rejuvenated Ohio State Buckeyes, with two straight victories under wraps, will focus all attention on the Iowa Hawkeyes who are due here next Saturday. It will be the Conference opener for the Bucks. Coach Eddie Anderson's Hawkeyes were sidetracked in their Big Nine debut last Saturday when Indiana made a first period touchdown to win, 7-0.

After a somewhat shaky season in '47 when Anderson didn't know from one week to the next whether he was going to stay on as the Hawkeye boss man, Iowa (the team and fans) has settled down to normalcy. Iowa was given that old pre-season jinx in '47 when they rated as a Conference powerhouse.

With a few bad Saturdays, Anderson found himself in a situation, far from unfamiliar in Big Nine football, where the fans desert the cause of a losing grid squad. The fans flocked back to his support after he had tendered his resignation. For on the following day, the Hawkeyes rallied to dump favored Minnesota, 13-7. Anderson stayed on.

Anderson lost four key men from his '47 starting eleven. The Shoener twins, two of the most outstanding wings in the conference, graduated last June. Capable halfback Bob Smith was also lost at graduation, while Halfback Emlen Tunnell joined the pro ranks.

Returning to the fold is Quarterback Al DiMarco, whose deadly screen and jump passes led the Hawkeyes to their 13-13 deadlock with the Bucks last year. The Hawks have a couple of able backs in Bob Longley and John Tedore, but in general their backfield lacks experience.

Five starters have returned to bolster the Hawkeye line. They are tackles Jim Shoaf and Bill Kay, guards Joe Grothus and Earl Banks and center Dick Woodard. Sophomore Quarterback Glenn Drawn has taken over Smith's chores in the punting department. Rookie Drawn compiled a 40-yard average in seven punts in Iowa's victorious opener with Marquette two weeks ago.

The Hawkeyes, sometimes down but never out, have shown surprising spirit thus far in the infant grid season. One thing is certain—the Bucks will not take them lightly.

Ohio State surprised a lot of people last Saturday, as they pounced on the Trojans for their convincing 20-0 triumph. Trojan Coach Jeff Cravath, who was probably as surprised as any of the 75,000, ventured a guess that the Bucks will continue to "surprise a lot of people." At any rate the Bucks have come a long way since last season in their bid for, as Fesler put it, "more pleasant Saturday nights."

Again it was the Buck forward wall that all but stymied the opponents ground attack. The Buck line and line-backers held USC for a net ground yardage of 50, while it opened holes for Whisler, Clark, Krall, Inc. to amass 161 yards in the same department. Quarterback Pan Savic continued to find his mark as he completed four passes in five attempts for 45 yards and one touchdown.

*death one-game finale at Fenway Park off a closing surge that gave them one more chance when all hope appeared lost.

Going into the final day of the regular season, they were one down with one to go. All the Indians needed was a closing victory to sew up its first series date since 1920. In a few brief hours, Hal Newhouser's brilliant pitching and the Sox's 10-5 crushing of the New York Yanks reduced the Tribe from odds on favorites to long shot underdogs.

Now they come into Fenway, where the Sox make a living playing Yankee Doodle on the left field wall. Although their season record is 11-11 with Cleveland, the Boston sluggers lowered the boom on the Indians in five of their last six starts in the Hub park.

Both McCarthy and Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland club are being cagey about their starting pitchers. It hardly figures to be a mound classic. If it comes down to hand to hand conflict on the home lot, Ted Williams, Vern Stephens, Bobby Doerr and Co. are a tough lot.

Mel Parnell, a stylish lefthander who has been a most important factor in Boston's rise from seventh place to a pennant tie, is the logical choice for Boston.

McCarthy mentions Parnell along with Ellis Kinder as possibilities. He might also add lefthander Mickey Harris and veteran Denny Galehouse. Parnell probably will get the nod for his record against Cleveland.

Parnell had a 3-2 mark against the Tribe but that is most deceiving. His three victories all were complete games. One of the defeats was 2-0 and the other was suffered on relief. Last time out against Cleveland he was an 8-4 victor over Gene Bearden.

Brussels Alliance; A Defense Plan And "Monty"

The appointment of Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery as head of the new five-power joint military defense was made known Thursday.

The renowned British general was named to the post following a two-day secret meeting in Paris of the Defense Ministers of the five Western European powers, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, and Luxembourg.

The speedy manner in which these countries have handled the intricate problem of co-ordinating defense plans is significant.

It shows that these nations, well remembering Hitler's blitzkrieg thrusts in the recent war, realize the gravity of the present world situation.

Many observers, knowing the long-standing enmities existing between European states because of their generations of nationalism, predicted that the Brussels Alliance could never get anywhere.

These experts must now admit that when the stakes are high enough, even traditional enemies can—and must—work together for their common defense.

The joint defense force which "Monty" will direct is evidently patterned after the Allied Supreme Headquarters during the war. "Ike" Eisenhower's SHAEF command has evidently made its impression on Europe's military leaders.

"Monty's" appointment came just a few days after the story here that "phantom" war orders are being readied for American industry, so that if war should come, our production could get under way at top speed.

It seems that lessons in preparedness have been learned on both sides of the Atlantic.

We do not want war, nor do the five nations of the Brussels Alliance. But if war is to come, we want to be ready for it. The last time, we were not.

Check, Double-Check

Now comes word of the University's newest development—a baby checking service.

Children from three to 10 years old can be left in competent hands on Saturday afternoons, enabling student parents to attend the football games, according to a story in Wednesday's LANTERN.

We think the idea has merit, and congratulate Richard C. Larkins, athletic director, who is credited with conceiving the service. Also to be commended are the nurses and supervisors who will watch the children, thereby missing the games themselves.

But several annoying little doubts flashed unbidden into our mind. The first image is that of a checkroom, with toddlers hanging from coat-hooks, properly tagged, and hoping that their parents will not lose the check stub.

This thought is quickly dismissed as being ridiculous. Then comes a more insistent idea:

perhaps, after all, it would be healthier for a child from three to 10 to experience the color and enthusiasm of a football game on a lovely Fall afternoon than "play" with a collection of strange children.

But this, too, passes. We soon realize that it would be impossible for the parents to enjoy—or even see—the game while wondering if Junior will fall off the Stadium, or trying to explain the game to him.

With this last thought permanently routing the rest, we return to our first conviction. It's a fine idea, and should be appreciated by student parents.

Still—we can't help but feel slightly sorry for those nurses and supervisors.

What They're Saying—

"The basis of our policy (in the West) is fear. Not the fear of the coward—the fear of someone who looks ahead and considers the horror and tragedy which faces us, may face us in the future."—Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian Premier, addressing UN, Sept. 28.

"We don't want war, and if we don't want it badly enough, each one of us can do his part to see that it doesn't happen again."—Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia University, addressing Columbia students, Sept. 28.

The Buckeye Beat

By Chuck Miller

After almost four months away from the old brain factory, we find it satisfying to return to the campus and to all it stands for.

There have been very few changes, with, of course, the exception of the student body. The buildings are the same, although some have been given a dab of paint and a manicure, and the Oval is a bit worse for the summer wear and tear.

Although freshmen come and freshmen go, they always remain the same—eager to start on a new career and a bit awed by the size of our happy hunting ground.

Two such undergrads, Nick Wilhelm and Joe Yoackum, have a complaint to register about this vastness. They have stiff necks from looking up at the big buildings.

The lines at the book stores never seem to change, and the students waiting patiently to lay their hard earned dough on the counter always wear a look of frustration. One exasperated co-ed, who wishes to remain anonymous, thinks that her best opportunity to beat the lines would be to arrive somewhere shortly after 6 a. m. It's an ideal!

One major difference that can be found around here this year is the topic of conversation. In the campus hangouts, the words are flying about the outcome of the American League race.

We happened to be in Brown Hall the other day, and we noticed with particular interest a picture that had been posted on the bulletin board.

The photo showed several members of the football team in a huddle with their coach, and the caption mentioned the names of the athletes, one of whom was Bill

Trautwein. Evidently the engineers take professional pride in Bill's gridiron accomplishments, for his name was underlined in black ink! Such is glory.

Students Place Stamp Of Approval On New Athletic Book System

Could it be that Ohio State has at last found a good way to sell and distribute the student tickets to the University athletic events? Out of 100 students polled by the LANTERN this week, 75 indicated that they considered the plan used this year "satisfactory."

Although the "yes" answers were plentiful in all the groups questioned, the men under 21 turned in the largest percentage of affirmative answers—28 out of 33.

Those students who registered complaints often said that the new method makes it difficult for groups to obtain seats together.

Question 1. Are you satisfied with the method used to sell and distribute student athletic books this year?

Tuition Plan Begun At Lehigh

BETHLEHEM, Pa.—(IP)—Abolition of credit-hour tuition fees and the adoption of standard comprehensive tuition rates for Lehigh University students became effective this Fall.

The new policy means a slight increase over existing charges, but the new rates apply without charge for extra hours. Tuition for undergraduates in the College of Arts and Sciences or the College of Business Administration will be charged at the rate of $275 a semester.

Political Notes...

By Tony Biesada

The great political football season is here. With just a little more than a month to go before the "Rose Poll" game, the situation looks like this:

Obviously the battle-weary Democrats are on the defensive. They've been champs for a long time—ever since I can remember. Without the services of their great field general the Dems are a team divided against itself and chances are that it will not stand. The opposition is really tough this time.

Amiable Earl Warren's insertion into the GOP lineup is of invaluable help. He adds the necessary touch of liberalism designed to lure the independent voter. Dewey chose his team wisely.

Republican chances are better than they have been since "normalcy" days if we are to believe the cycle theorists and Elmo Roper.

President Truman is determined to "give 'em hell." Barkley is aging but full of the old college try. However the Democratic forward wall is riddled with injuries. The backfield has confused its plays.

party away around right end. Henry Wallace is attempting to buck the left side of the line with the Communists overtly running interference.

To further clutter up the gridiron the perennial Norman Thomas is back in the game. His chances for a T.D. are nil but optimistic socialists predict their biggest yardage since 1932.

Dry-hard Prohibitionists are prepared to charge into the melee at any moment with bucket in hand chanting their campaign song "Clear, Cool Water."

What side will the independent voter play on? His choice is a difficult one. A disgruntled engineer friend of mine is going to go Vegetarian. He says his will be a protest vote—against the high price of meat.

Idle Hours Can Be Used

"But there's nothing to do—"
Once again we hear the cry of the freshmen. As classes get under way, even homework, dates, and the usual bull sessions just don't take all the time after the mad scramble of Orientation Week.

With all the campus activities open to freshman students, there are many, many ways to solve the problem of idle hours.

Pomerene Activities is one of the best for freshman women. They may sign at the office of the dean of women, and lend a helping hand on the activities committees. At the same time they become acquainted with Pomerene Hall, its activities, and the important part it plays as the women's union.

With a choice of one of seven committees, there is an opportunity to satisfy the interests of practically any woman student.

Not only is the work helpful and interesting, but it also has its reward. After working at least thirty hours per quarter for two quarters, an activities committee member is eligible for a Pomerene pin. Then the student may petition for a position on the Pomerene Council for one year. Following this she may petition for a membership in the Pomerene Board of Control.

All committees are under the supervision of the Pomerene Board of Control. Patti A. Kepler, Com-4, is the student chairman, and Mary E. Browning, assistant to the dean of women, is the activities' supervisor.

Tying The Knot Isn't Easy . . .

Saying 'I Do' May Mean More Than You Think

Planning a wedding is no simple procedure, believe you me. Ask any gal lucky enough to ensnare that freedom-loving male of hers. By the time the "I do's" are exchanged, the poor girl involved is worn down to a frazzle.

Of course the first thing the smart young woman thinks of is the wedding dress. Should she wear the dress that her grandmother and eight second cousins once removed wore and make it an all-Gay Nineties affair? Or should she be more blasé and buy a new off-the-shoulder job which—she hopes—will create a small riot in the church?

According to the experts, the wise young thing will buy yards and yards of satin stuff and a 25-cent pattern, and have her dress made. If she's not the sentimental type, she can turn the wedding dress into a smart evening or street dress.

The biggest problem today for that ever-lovin' young couple is The Apartment. They want to have their own home so they can fight all by themselves. Who wants in-laws taking sides in a personal quarrel? Helpful friends may suggest a garage, a small $20,000 mansion, or even a dog house. But usually even these unique suggestions are not available.

The home-planning problems are nothing compared to the trouble incurred several days before the ceremony. Pick up the wedding license from the courthouse, and don't forget to have the minister sign it—where is that license, anyway? Blood tests, ring-buying, hair dressing, manicures and the lease signed on the potential apartment, to say nothing of consoling mother and promising sister that the bridal bouquet will drop right into her hands, are only a few more considerations.

The questions of how many bridesmaids to have is easily settled. Make a poster announcing that little sister will be maid of honor and then have the neighborhood friends and sorority sisters draw lots for the chance to precede you down the aisle.

After the wedding comes the reception. Young bride-most-fluttered forgets all the guests' names and smiles hopefully. The groom wipes his brow and the parents say "yes" to everything from "It was a lovely ceremony," to "Did you say they were going to Niagara Falls or the Adirondacks?"

Everything is complete when the couple rushes out to a waiting car after the reception. Pelted with rice and with hands sore from being shaken, they settle down in the car to find tin cans, shoes, and other assorted oddments tied to the rear bumper.

Now they are hitched. They are sailing on the sea of matrimony. They haven't a care in the world except paying for the engagement ring, wedding ring, the installment on the car, and living on $37.50 a week.

The fact that our heroine has to write a million and one thank you notes doesn't faze her in the slightest. One of her most cherished wedding gifts was a mimeograph machine.

"Some people think," Patti said, "that the only affairs connected with Pomerene are the Saturday night dances. This is entirely false. Other activities are musical interludes, bridge and dancing classes, as well as publication of Pomerene's newspaper, the Scoop."

For two years Miss Kepler has had a great deal to do with Pomerene activities. In the Summer of 1946 she started working for Pomerene, the Women's Union, as a hostess for the Saturday night dances. At that time organizing a successful dance was more difficult than today. She, with seven other girls, took care of all publicity, made name tags and put up the decorations on Saturday morning, as well as acting as hostesses at the dance.

In the Fall of 1946, eight girls, including Miss Kepler, drew up a constitution and formed committees which became the basis for the first Pomerene Council. In the Spring of 1947 she was chosen to serve on Pomerene Board. This board acts as an overseer to the Council and each member is an advisor to three committees. Because of Miss Kepler's co-operative spirit and her participation in Pomerene activities, she was chosen student chairman of the Pomerene Board of Control this past Spring. This chairmanship automatically makes her a member of WSGA, Student Senate and chairman of Pomerene Council.

"The best advice I can give freshmen concerning activities," remarked Patti, "is to join one major and two minor activities. Too many freshmen reverse the procedure and shortly find out that they can't assume all the responsibility at once."

A million ton pile of dust and dirt, twice the size of the Empire State Building, is the amount of dirt American housewives fail to remove from their homes each year because of inadequate and inefficient cleaning equipment.

Varsity 'O' Men Lose Tickets For Homecoming

Nov. 20, the day of the Michigan game, will be "just another day" to Varsity "O" members.

Oscar L. Thomas, director of ticket sales, advised club members Thursday that the Homecoming game should be omitted from any applications made in the future. A refund will be made to 1,500 members who had previously paid for tickets.

The unusually large demand for student tickets made the move necessary, Mr. Thomas said.

Social Science Emphasis Asked

ST. LOUIS—(IP)—A thoroughgoing re-examination of "What the High Schools Ought to Teach" was proposed recently by Dr. John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education.

Suggesting that more time be devoted to the social sciences, he declared that "every pupil should have the chance to learn how difficult it was to establish freedom of speech and of the press, freedom of religion, the right of habeas corpus and the other American freedoms."

Migration Tragedy

Police and ASPCA agents in New York were baffled at the phenomenon of hundreds of small birds, falling dead and dying into the streets surrounding the Empire State building. Two of the theories advanced for the mishap were: one—the birds flying in the darkness, struck the side of the world's tallest building; two—they had been poisoned on the way. An ASPCA agent and a policeman are shown putting the stricken birds in a box.

Teacher Shortage Stays

Bumper Baby Crop Blamed For Increase Foreseen In Elementary School Enrollment

Ohio's unprecedented demand for grade school teachers may continue for the next ten years, an official of the State Department of Education predicted today.

The state's shortage of elementary teachers probably will become "increasingly acute" in the future, Harold J. Bowers, supervisor of teacher education and certification in the state department, says in the current issue of the Educational Research Bulletin.

The reason is the bumper crop of babies born during the last six years. Ohio's birth total was more than 197,000 last year.

Even though the birthrate should level off at about 150,000 a year, Mr. Bowers predicts that elementary school enrollment in 10 years will double the present figure of 798,545.

"This does not necessarily mean that we shall need twice as many elementary school teachers as are currently employed," Mr. Bowers says, "but it does mean that we shall need many more teachers than we have ever previously employed."

"It seems reasonable to assume that the schools of Ohio will demand a minimum of 3,000 new elementary school teachers annually for the next five or possibly ten years.

"With 851 new teachers available since June, 1947, one can readily see that the shortage of elementary school teachers of recent years is very likely to become increasingly acute in the years ahead."

A shortage of high school teachers is not foreseen by Mr. Bowers. He says that upper grade enrollment will not show any significant increase for the next six years.

Three Students Take 500-Mile Bicycle Tour

A 500-mile bicycle tour of New England was recently completed by three Ohio State students.

Student hostellers included Virginia J. Martin, A-1, George R. Lewis, Engr-4, and Wendell L. Ryder, Ag-3. Their tour included visits to Mt. Washington, the highest mountain in New England, Echo Lake and Flume Gorge.

Highlight of the trip was a holiday of swimming and boating at Martha's Vineyard off the coast of Cape Cod.

Recording Machine Eases Problem Of Restoring Romance Or Capital

If you wish to "say it with flowers," but don't have the money, there is a way out. You can now "say it with words."

There is a recording machine in the lounge of the Ohio Union which records two minutes of any kind of sound. It might be a "Dear Pop" letter putting the touch on the old man, or it might be a vocal love note.

Maybe you hate to write letters or maybe you can express yourself more readily on the phone than you can on paper. All you have to do is insert 25 cents, pick up the phone, and talk.

It is a very simple mechanism to operate, so don't let the thought of a new machine frighten you. There are eight boxes of directions which light up in rotation so the operator will not become confused.

After the record is finished there are several courses of action which may be followed, depending on the individual's wish for publicity or privacy. If the operator uses the phone receiver, only he hears the playback. If he is proud of his effort, he may cradle the phone and air the playback over the loudspeaker. Or, if the operator is in a hurry, the recording may be delivered without a playback.

For another nickel an envelope is delivered in which the masterpiece may be mailed home, or elsewhere. You can't lose, if you have 30 cents.

Religious Groups Co-operate

New Counselor's Program To Aid Troubled Students

The program of Milton D. McLean, recently appointed counselor of religious activities at Ohio State, has "shifted into second gear" in its efforts to help the student realize a better appreciation of life and his American heritage.

Mr. McLean's first general move toward the improvement of religious activity on the campus was the establishment of a student religion co-ordination program. "Its purpose is to make it easier for the student to cope with any problem that may arise," he said.

The program will concentrate on the following aims:

1. To associate the resources in the religious field with the rushed life of a student on the campus. This should be greatly aided by the professional religious representatives at the student centers.

2. To knit the life of the student and faculty members with the surrounding community. He plans to conduct round table discussions as well as individual interviews.

3. To acquaint students with the activities of the church and church organizations.

An advisory board is in the process of development. It is intended to include 15 members, who will be chosen from members of the faculty, student religious leaders, delegates-at-large, and denominational leaders.

Praising the campus church organization and the YM and YWCA for their splendid work in dealing with students, Mr. McLean related, "They have had a strong, effective plan in operation for some time.

Contributions from the University's 15 student religious centers and the finance office of the Alumni Development Fund have made this newly-created office possible.

Mr. McLean came to Ohio State from Lincoln College, Ill., where he was serving as president of the institution. Mr. McLean has been an educational counselor for 28 years. He studied engineering at the University of Minnesota. He served with the Army during First World War, and upon return, completed his education at Minnesota. After graduation, he attended the McCormick Theological Seminary and the University of Chicago.

Affable Mr. McLean urges all students, regardless of religious belief, to visit him at his office and discuss their problems with him. His office is located at 1221 Derby Annex.

WOSU Ends Talent Hunt

50 Of 75 WOSU Auditioners To Be Heard On 'Ohio School Of The Air' Programs

WOSU's successful talent hunt ended today after 75 persons were auditioned. The overflow of interested applicants appearing Friday, and the lack of time to hear them, necessitated the extra day for try-outs.

Of the 75 persons heard, two-thirds will be chosen for casting and will appear on future Ohio School of the Air programs. The majority of try-outs were undergraduate and graduate students with a sprinkling of townspeople.

These applicants were mainly students who had participated in commercial or high school broadcasts and were seeking more experience in the field of radio.

Producer Paul Bogen said that anyone who was unable to appear at the auditions, and is still interested in appearing on WOSU broadcasts during the Fall Quarter, may make an appointment for an audition. Try-outs will be held again at the beginning of Winter Quarter.

The educational activity of WOSU is being spurred on by two new features, the Beginning French class which replaces the former Spanish program, and "Comic Worlds of the Theater," a new program designed to present humorous plays from the world's literature.
