ASA Roll Call Set For Wednesday

Wednesday has been designated as American Student Alliance "Table Day," when signatures for the "Human Rights Roll Call" will be solicited in University buildings. The campus drive is part of a movement in which signatures are being solicited by ASA chapters throughout the country.

May 26 and 27 have been set as the tentative dates for the ASA conference on "Education for Democracy and Democracy for Education." University and local organizations will be invited to attend the conference.

Goldman Will Direct Glee Club Concert

Samuel R. Goldman, Grad, department of music, will direct the concert of the Junior Men's Glee Club at 8 p. m., Wednesday, in University Hall Chapel. The program will consist of a group of Irish and Russian folk songs, Brahms' waltzes and love songs.

"The Veteran of Heaven," from the poem of the same name by Francis Thompson and adapted by Baldwin, will be presented. Solos will be given by Robert Eppley, A-1, baritone; George B. Pitts, A-2, and George Michalos, Engr-2, tenors.

Ag Society to Hear Band

Hugh H. Austermiller, Ag-4, and his German band will entertain members of the Townshend Agricultural Education Society tonight at 7:30, room 206, Horticulture and Forestry Building. Several members of the Tower Club will present a short skit.

AGNES ONDRAK
Represent University

Doris I. Maxon and Agnes Ondrak will represent Ohio State Wednesday night when they compete with co-eds from Denison and Ohio Wesleyan Universities and Otterbein College for the title of "Central Ohio College Queen." Maestro Dick Stable and his band will judge.

1940 Makio Staff Candidates Named

William A. Smith, Bernard Rosenson, Albert Goldberg To Compete for Editorship

William A. Smith, A-2; Bernard J. Rosenson, A-2, and Albert A. Goldberg, Com-2, will appear before the Board of Publications late this month as candidates for editorship of the 1940 Makio, Amon E. Gross, present editor, announced today.

Candidates for associate editor include Dorothy S. Krakoff, Florence V. Priest, Anna M. Sims and Janet R. Gates.

Business Manager

Robert J. Kahn and William W. Stanhope are candidates for business manager.

June F. Haas and Doris A. Arnel will compete for the position of assistant business manager.

Major staff positions on the yearbook are filled by the Board of Publications, a body composed of six members of the University teaching and administrative staffs. The 1939 Makio will appear May 25, Gross said.

Funsters to Brave Gong At 'Collegiantics' Show

"Eating-off-the-bone technique," with large biceps and bulging biceps as qualifications for sorority membership, will be illustrated at 8 p. m. Thursday in University Hall Chapel as members of Alpha Xi Delta sorority lampoon present-day rushing methods in a skit for "Collegiantics," an amateur night program sponsored by the Arts College Council.

Leo G. Staley, director of intramural sports, will be master of ceremonies for the affair. A large trophy cup will be awarded as grand prize for all divisions, and three smaller cups will be prizes given to the winners in sorority, fraternity and independent divisions.

Judges Listed

Mary E. Moss, general secretary of the YWCA; Louis J. Peppe, manager of Valley Dale, and Professor John Younger, chairman of the department of industrial engineering, will be the judges.

Matrix Speaker Awarded 1938 Pulitzer Prize

Mrs. Marjorie Rawlings
Author of Best Novel

Mrs. Marjorie K. Rawlings, author of "The Yearling," guest speaker at tonight's annual Theta Sigma Phi Matrix Table dinner, has been awarded the Pulitzer prize for the most distinguished novel for 1938.

The novel, "The Yearling," is based on the life of a boy in an isolated section of Florida and the simple events which bring him happiness.

The winner of the $1000 prize will be introduced at the Neil House at 7 tonight by Mrs. Harriett Daily Collins, assistant secretary and assistant editor, Ohio State University Association.

800 Guests Expected

Eight hundred guests are expected at the banquet. Mrs. John W. Bricker, Mrs. Myron B. Gessaman and Mrs. William McPherson will attend. Ten senior co-eds will be honored for service to the University at the dinner.

Other awards made by the Pulitzer committee in the fields of letters and arts include: Robert E. Sherwood, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," $1000 for the prize play; Frank Luther Mott, "A History of American Magazines," $1000 history prize.

Carl Van Doren, "Benjamin Franklin," $1000 for biography; John Gould Franklin, "Benjamin Selected Poems," $1000 poetry prize.

Speakers Named For Job School

E. A. Wanner, P. D. Parkinson to Talk Thursday;
Professor Nolen to Preside

With the first session of the Job Hunters' School set for 7:30 tonight in the Social Administration Building Auditorium with O. W. Prasan of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company and Professor John Younger, department of industrial engineering, as speakers, the complete program for the school was announced today.

Thursday, P. D. Parkinson, personnel manager of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, and E. A. Wanner, personnel manager of the Jeffrey Manufacturing Company, will speak on "The Interview." Professor Herman C. Nolen, department of business organization, will act as chairman.

Held to Appear

Next Tuesday, Dr. Felix E. Held, secretary of the College of Commerce and Administration, will speak on "Application Letters." Charles W. Reeder, junior dean of the college, will discuss "Self Analysis and Work Abilities." John F. Mee, placement manager for the college, will be chairman.

Thursday, May 11, Harry Young, personnel manager of the F. & R. Lazarus & Company, will talk on "The Initial Conduct on the Job," and Dr. Harold E. Burt, department of psychology, will speak on "Personal Relationships in Business," with J. Frederick Stecker, assistant dean of men, acting as chairman.

Bird Student Hunting Nest

Students who read the LANTERN advertisement from a "bird student" can discard all fears of weird bird men from Mars or any such notions—it's just a co-ed.

She is Frances Gustafson, A-3, and she really is a bird student. Being a member of Dr. Donald J. Horner's ornithology class, she must find herself an occupied bird's nest to study and observe throughout the quarter.

Miss Gustafson, who takes her nest-hunting seriously, has peered and pried about the campus for weeks, has pounced upon many a nest only to find it untenanted, rejected it, and continued her search. To date, she has just one lone kill-deer's menage complete with unhatched family to show her efforts.

"Only," wailed Miss Gustafson, as she concluded her tale, "so far I haven't had any results. Does anyone know where I can find some birds' nests?"

Scarlet and Gray Chairman Chosen

Combine Will Be Led by
Goldberger; USP Continues
Reinstatement Efforts

Melvin T. Goldberger, Com-3, was elected chairman of the Scarlet and Gray political combine at a special meeting Monday afternoon at the Delta Upsilon fraternity house. Goldberger, a member of Ohio Staters, Inc., Council of Fraternity Presidents and Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity, will take office immediately.

At the same meeting Orville K. Knight, Ag-3, was appointed head of the combine's publicity committee. William S. Moore, A-2, and Mark E. Wright, Com-3, will assist Knight.

No definite plans were made in preparing for the election of members of the Ohio Union Board of Overseers, Goldberger said.

Efforts are being made by the United Students' Party to have Robert H. McCormick, Com-2, declared ineligible due to late petition, reinstated as a candidate.

If the USP is unsuccessful in its attempt to get McCormick reinstated it will be without a candidate for the two year term in the election Friday.

State Incorporates WSGA Residences

With the filing of articles of incorporation at Secretary of State Earl Griffith's office Friday, the WSGA Cooperative Residences became a legal entity. Selection of officers and a board of trustees will be postponed until later in the quarter, according to Joan N. Zimmerman, Com-3, chairman of the committee in charge.

Application blanks are now being prepared in the dean of women's office for eligible junior and senior co-eds, she added. They will be sent as soon as possible to a list of candidates selected by Dean of Women Esther Allen Gaw on the basis of interest and suitability. Fifteen members will be admitted to the first house which is to be opened autumn quarter as a non-profit organization.

Success of the first cooperative residence will result in the establishment of similar houses throughout the University district in an effort to cut women students' living expenses, members of the committee stated.

Engineering Student To Weigh 'Big Bertha'

The student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will be entertained at its meeting at 7:30 tonight in Robinson Laboratory by Robert F. Johnson, Engr-4, who will talk on "Big Bertha," the massive German gun of wartime fame.

Johnson has made a study of the gun both in its technical and practical aspects and will illustrate his speech with lantern slides. A short business session will precede the lecture.

Mu Beta Chi to Hear Held

Professor Felix E. Held, secretary of the College of Commerce and Administration, will speak before Mu Beta Chi fraternity at a dinner to be given at 6 tonight in Pomerene Hall. His subject will be "New Opportunities in the Commercial Field."

Radio Institute Demonstrates Class Program

Six Authorities Evaluate Radio Education

A demonstration of the utilization of a classroom broadcast was featured on this morning's session of the Tenth Annual Institute for Education by Radio in the Social Administration Auditorium. Miss Helen Moore, a Detroit public school teacher, conducted the demonstration in which the sixth grade pupils of the Upper Arlington School took part.

Following the demonstration an evaluation of the program was made by Sterling Fisher, American School of the Air of the Columbia Broadcasting System; Franklin Dunham, Education Director of the National Broadcasting Company; Joseph Reis, National School of the Air of Station WLW; Professor Louis Rath, Bureau of Educational Research of the University; Edna Morgan, Paul Revere School of Cleveland, and Katherine Wilson of the Bretano Vocational Center of Chicago.

Chief criticisms of the broadcast and the class discussion was that programs were too advanced for children of the sixth grade and contain so many points that they were confusing to the children.

A dinner at 6 tonight at the Deshler-Wallick is the one social event

ROTC Honorary To Drill at Dayton

University Pershing Rifles
Company Will Compete with Six Other Schools May 12

The annual Pershing Rifles drill meet for the first regiment will be held in Dayton, Friday, May 12, according to Captain Lyle E. Seeman, faculty adviser for the University company.

The event will be similar to the one held last year. It will include competition among companies from the Universities of Kentucky, Dayton, Akron, Ohio, Cincinnati and Ohio State.

Schedule Listed

Rifle teams will fire in the afternoon and drill competition will be held at night under lights.

In the afternoon there will be competition for individual excellence, with two representatives from each team to be selected.

Regimental Lieutenant-Colonel Paul E. Smith, Engr-4, is co-ordinator for the meet and J. Robert Linn, Engr-4, is captain of the University company.

A trophy will be awarded the winning drill team, and medals will be given members of the winning rifle team as well as individual victors.

Club to Present Hobbies

"Hobbies of Our Gang" will be presented by the Industrial Arts Club at 7:30 tonight in room 100, Derby Hall. Club members will present illustrated talks on their hobbies.

Burkhart Advises Co-Eds To Burn Bridges at Altar

By JEAN STORY

When you finally get a boy up to the altar, girls—the best way to get him there is to have a fine womanly personality; a mind that is alive, a clean body and a life that is radiant—be prepared to burn all your bridges behind you "for better or for worse." That goes for the boys too—all except the womanly personality of course.

This is the advice of Dr. Roy A. Burkhart, pastor of the First Community Church, who gave his last lecture in a series on "Dating, Courtship and Marriage" in University Hall on Monday night.

Wrong Philosophy

"The real reason marriage fails, when it does, is because people have the wrong philosophy of life, and they try to adjust themselves to that something that is wrong," Dr. Burkhart said. "They try to erect marriage on a foundation of self-centeredness instead of building it out

Mask Production Removes Shadow Of Financial Death

No, it looks like the ghost of Scarlet Mask will not have to go back to the grave, because of the success of its production, "Cheer as You Go."

According to Harry T. Vallery, Com-3, the business manager of the organization, it netted around $400. If so, Scarlet Mask is on the road to recovery and its work for the past months has shown results.

Ohio Staters, Inc. Will Hold Picnic At Atkinson Farm

Finals of State-Wide
Interfraternity Sing to Be Held at Annual Carnival

Final plans for the Ohio Staters picnic, which will be held at the farm of Herbert S. Atkinson, member of the Board of Trustees, May 23, in New Albany, were laid at the regular meeting of that organization in the Ohio Union at 12 o'clock today.

Ohio Staters voted today to purchase label buttons to serve as identification marks similar to those worn by members of the corresponding organizations at Michigan.

On the advice of Dr. Bland L. Stradley, University examiner, Ohio Staters will not solicit high school students who visit the University. Dr. Stradley advised that it might be interpreted as taking an unfair advantage over other state-supported universities.

Committees Named

Plans for the carnival moved forward at the meeting with discussion of plans and appointment of committee heads. Finals in the state-wide Interfraternity Sing contest will be held at the annual Ohio Staters' Spring Carnival, May 20, according to George L. Packer, A-3, chairman of the carnival.

The following committee chairmen have been appointed: Edward S. Drake, Fred E. Bernard and Paul H. Elleman, advisers; John W. Miller and Herbert M. Jay, entertainment; Tom J. McFadden, publicity, and R. James Foley and George C. Miller, arrangements for pig roast.

Archer E. Reilly and William H. Allen, fraternity and sorority concessions; Jacob A. Shawan, service arrangements; Charles H. Kent, dance; Edward D. Dodd and Robert E. Elsas, decorations, and James A. Rutherford and Clarence A. Isaac, door prizes.

Dush Is Selected For Senate Seat

Robert Dush, Ag-3, was elected as the College of Agriculture student senator for the coming year Monday night.

Reports of the interracial, camp and May Week committees of the Senate are scheduled to be read at the weekly meeting of that body Thursday.

Second readings of constitutional amendments to abolish the seats of Ohio Staters, Inc., the Student Publications Board and Scarlet Key are tentatively planned.

New Memorial Entrance Way To Be Proposed

Committee to Suggest
Senior Class Fund

The senior class memorial committee will recommend that the class contribute to a fund to erect a memorial entrance way to the campus at Fifteenth Avenue and High Street at a mass meeting of the senior class, announced for Thursday.

Jacob A. Shawan, Ag-4, chairman of the committee, said today that his committee would recommend that Richard T. Baker, Com-4, class president, appoint a committee of 50 members to initiate a comprehensive fund drive among members of the senior class.

$1300 Available

Thirteen hundred dollars, raised several years ago by alumni as a part of a Patriarch's Fund for University development, would be available for the proposed construction, Carl E. Steeb, University business manager, said.

Plans for the entrance way have been completed by H. Dwight Smith, University architect, but details will not be made available until after the class has passed on the recommendation.

Tentative Plans

Tentative plans call for the construction of four pillars on Fifteenth Avenue, two on the north side of the street and two on the south. It is hoped that future graduating classes will add to the fund.

Sphinx and Mortar Board were to meet at 5 p. m. today at the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity house to discuss bookings of an orchestra for the Senior Prom, for which no definite date has been set. The band and other class committees will report at the general meeting.

News Flashes by United Press

Russian Alliance Hits Snag

LONDON — Clement R. Attlee, labor leader, warned Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in the House of Commons today that "many people are disturbed by the slow progress" being made in lining up Soviet Russia in the "peace front."

It was understood that British negotiations are reaching a critical stage because of the government's reluctance to enter a military alliance with Russia which would risk alienating Japan and driving it into a German-Italian-Japanese military alliance.

Japanese Warn Agitators

SHANGHAI — A joint Japanese army and navy statement issued today demanded suppression of all anti-Japanese activities in Shanghai including the incitement of anti-Japanese sentiment by citizens of third powers. The statement was regarded as an implied threat to occupy the foreign settlement and the French concession.

Poland Plans for Emergency

WARSAW — The government decided today to ask Parliament to grant President Ignacy Moscicki emergency powers until next November 1. Under the emergency powers, President Moscicki will regulate all economic, financial, and defense matters without parliamentary action, except changing the value of the zloty, which will be kept at its present level.

Bankhead Seeks Adjournment

WASHINGTON — Senator John H. Bankhead drafted a resolution today calling for the adjournment of congress on June 15 and postponement until 1940 of action on neutrality and other controversial legislation.

FBI Believes Witness Is Alive

KANSAS CITY — The Missouri River yielded no trace today of Edward K. Schneider, close business associate of Democratic boss Tom J. Pendergast and a key witness in Federal prosecutions of Pendergast. Federal authorities declared that he had not committed suicide.

Schneider's "suicide" or disappearance was a severe blow to the government's case against Pendergast. Federal agents were looking for him, convinced that he was alive.

No More Babbitts?
A Sinclair Lewis of 2000 A.D. will never write another Babbitt if the educational ideals described to the American Association of Collegiate Registrars by Vice President J. L. Morrill are realized.
Citing reports to show that the predictive correlation between intelligence tests and college grades will collapse under improved course planning, Mr. Morrill made a plea for "selective treatment and training, in terms of individuality" instead of the old notion of straining college prospects through a standardized educational sieve and retaining only the residue for diplomas.
This has been the problem of free-thinking, progressive educators longer than they would care to admit. Until 1929 it didn't make a great deal of difference, because a machine-made education apparently could logically prepare every student for a machine world.

Before 1929, the best way for a student to "get ahead" was to specialize more than his competitors, so liberal education was sacrificed on the altar of machine progress while educators readily answered the plaintive wails of students for practical instruction that was certain to lead to a job.
The fact that this instruction did not enable, and could not have enabled them to realize their capabilities which should be developed by a liberal higher education seemed to make little difference, because the world was a great golden bubble that was being blown to eternity by the extraordinary financial speculation and over-optimistic industrial expansion.
Although the way is not quite clear, the trend, happily, seems to be toward a more liberal humanistic education which will regard students as free individuals who can make their own decisions and discipline themselves, and not as standardized intellectual robots.

Treason with Reason
What must have sounded like rank heresy was hurled against the ears of three shocked Senators last Thursday night as they heard a report of the membership committee condemning the validity of Senate representation for Ohio Staters, Inc., Scarlet Key and the Student Publications Board because they "have no business on the Senate."
These were harsh words coming from their brother Senators. Yet, because of cross-representation, these three organizations and others which do not represent more than a fractional and unrepresentative clique of the student body could well be eliminated from the Senate without destroying the democracy that is supposed to exist within and about the hallowed jurisdiction of the Student Senate and its environs.
This is no reflection on these three Senators, who, like all Senators, are a bunch of swell fellows. Who thinks so? Senators think so. It just seems that the good Senators, like sinners, shall not rest, and that is the price they must pay for the guidance and order they lend to a confused and groping student body.

Whatever the Senators do, it must be remembered that they are all brothers under the skin, and with the exception of a few stout-hearted democratic souls who will be castigated and branded as most foul traitors to the perpetuation of these ruling student oligarchies, the Senators will rise as one to kill these amendments or wishy-washily delay action.
"After all," they will try to rationalize, "you can't kick your own brothers out," and no one will argue with them, because the Senators are a bunch of swell fellows and it is their solemn and righteous duty to look out for brotherhood and friendship, as well as the more odious duties of sponsoring dances and the annual Senate banquet.
Who thinks so? Senators think so. And they are a really swell bunch of fellows.
Sic transit lirago senatus.

No Axes to Grind
By ROBERT W. FERGUSON
Number one laudable project on State's campus today is the Alumni Development Fund. To it, from graduates and friends, moneys will come to create and to refine a greater all-purpose University. Enthusiastic were the alumni when approached on the Fund idea, and now the students should welcome it in the same manner, since theirs is the primary advantage from the success of such a plan.
Conceived a year ago because of visionary men, the Fund was officially launched last February 17 and 18 at a conference held on the campus. Organization plan, program and a first year goal of $75,000 was adopted at this two-day meeting. For the first time it was starkly brought to the attention of the alumni that Michigan's graduates had contributed $25,000,000 to their school while Ohio State had received $685,000, and that during the last six years to Michigan was donated $3,000,000 and to Ohio State $85,000.
It is generally conceded that one of the state government's first obligations is education, but today, with constantly increasing governmental expenditures and other social demands, the University can only look to the Legislature for the absolute needs. Those things which go to make a University unsurpassed, such as the finest of research equipment, must come from other sources.
William A. Shimer, formerly of the University department of philosophy and now National Secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, said, when hearing of the Fund origination, "a university cannot begin to realize its potentialities for greatness until the alumni show a real and active interest in its development." Mr. Shimer aptly sums up the objective of the now active program.
The word "development" has in itself a meaning so closely allied with education that it is a most integral part and by such attachment elevates Ohio State alumni to a new pronounced and prominent status. Although $75,000 is a modest beginning it is hoped that in time this sum will be the nucleus of an endowment program which will have everlasting, uncomparable educational effects.
One significant part of the Fund's program is the earmarking of some of the contributions to direct student aids such as loans, scholarships and fellowships. Since our present loan facilities are totally inadequate this provision will insure the continued enrollment of worth-while students financially unable to stay in school, and will encourage more persons to take graduate work.
For these reasons and countless others, the student body must become aware of and proud of the Alumni Development Fund. To graduate from a University which is growing and rising as the result of alumni interest will have a fuller and finer meaning.

Backstage Chatter
... by Paul E. Jacobs
Now that we are rounding out a year and a quarter in the critical corner we feel that the time has come to take a bit of inventory and see where we stand.
We have taken various courses in criticism at the University and have found that in actual practice they won't stand in good stead unless the writer chooses to be academic—a thing we abhor. For technical classification we believe that we are of the impressionist school hoping to satisfy those that are sticklers for classification and definite labeling.
At all times we have tried to remain impartial and unbiased and free from persuasion of friends asking for good reviews. We have dealt out good, bad and indifferent criticism as we felt the show called for it. Of course we have favorites and are prejudiced in regard to some of the local talent, but they too have felt whatever sting our typewriter keys may have.
The greatest lesson to be learned from the job is that criticism can make more friends and enemies than ever Dale Carnegie dreamed a man might have. It has taught us that the guy who was calling you "pal" yesterday thinks you a rat, the next day. It has taught us that talent that parades itself before an audience thinks it should have nothing but praise simply for trying. Yet when the criticism is unfavorable they pour out upon the writer all the plagues that ever tormented Job.
Campus talent has always failed to realize one important factor. Their acting is amateurish and so also must be the critic's writing. If the critic earned his livelihood therefrom he wouldn't be seated in the audience watching their performance. They accuse the writer of thinking in terms of Broadway and professionalism. If that were so, even the usual caustic comment of George Jean Nathan would smell like lilac hand lotion when he pours out his vitriol.
A comment that is made in analogy with a double meaning both good and bad will always be taken as good by the actor when the author thought otherwise. Generalities are great things and a critic should never be without them. The best word and dearest friend any reviewer ever had is "but." It enables the commentator to shake the actor's hand and subtly knife him in the back with the other. The pain is not felt until hours after the partial vivisection has been done.
That it is a devilish task to think of the proper words to describe the show after one has seen it and has a deadline hanging over him is another accomplished lesson. That reviews cannot be turned out like so much hack stuff if it is to be honest and objective is still another.
Something that we have learned and something which is basic is that true criticism is really a creative art.

BY THE WAY
THE IDLER'S CHRONICLE AND COMMENT

Musical Madness
I am quite willing to put my neck out to the lovers of one kind of contemporary music when I say that composers like Hindemith, top-notchers of the modernists, are distinctly too much for me. I have not yet, after nearly two weeks, fully recovered from what I experienced at the last performance of the University Ensembles,—all the music beautifully played and directed, you understand. But I still find myself with mental and emotional resentments and unpleasant visceral stirrings as I recall those twenty minutes of lugubrious cacaphany and amorphous discordant wanderings which to the best of my recollections just once,—though I'm told it happened three times, actually,—jellied into a tonal relationship on which the sense and the spirit could momentarily rest. If such composition isn't musical lunacy, I'll eat my oldest hat! As Dudley Fitts recently said in a review of Robinson Jeffers' poetry, one of these days somebody is going to laugh right out loud. Perhaps the most astounding feature of this particular piece of music was that awful piano part, brilliantly and triumphantly played by Miss Jean Seybold, paralleling in rhythm but in nothing else the dissonance and moaning distressfulness that was going on beside it. It ran on and on, up and down, just like the hysterical, uncontrollable talk of a madwoman, of which it made me think all the time,—"I don't know what I'm saying but I can't stop for an instant do stop me stop me O no you can't I must go on and on what is this all about I'm sure I don't know but I must keep it going yes I know I'm all out of key but I can't stop,—" well, as I say, that kind of thing is a bit too thick for me. The audience sat in a sort of polite paralysis, obviously unable to believe its ears, yet apparently determined not to reveal the fact that its musical common sense was being betrayed and its very spirit outraged. At the end, it burst into a glad relief of applause, and went out laughing.
Yes, there was the Mozart. Thanks, I'll take Mozart, please. You see, I was born too early.

Town and Gown
The ancient phrase, "Town and Gown," applied originally, of course, to men in the English universities in their contact with the youth who were outside academic purview; but somehow one thinks of it again as one notes the tremendous difference in appearance between the young women on our campuses and their sisters down in the cities. There could scarcely be any greater contrast than that shown in the garb of these two groups. Take a look at the co-eds and observe their sport clothes, their bare legs, their flat-heeled shoes, their sweaters, their hatless heads, their general air of informality, the very swing of their walk, their apparent indifference to the way they look. And then think of the business and office girls in the city, who appear at quarter after seven in the morning at the corners where they take the car into town, hatted, gloved, perfectly made up cosmetically, chic shoes and stockings in perfect order, costumes like those on Fifth Avenue, almost,—they are the absolute and complete contrast to college girls in looks and manner. Each group is, one supposes, correct for its own section and work, and each would look out of place in the surroundings of the other. They may all be sisters under their skins, but they certainly look like sisters in no other way.
I think a lot of us will be much relieved when the college fashion among the girls of going without stockings passes into oblivion. Nothing could be more unprepossessing than all these raw legs, so to speak, which we must put up with these days. Bare legs may make for comfort, but they certainly don't make for beauty. Fat legs and thin ones look less fat or thin if they are covered; and the well-proportioned and graceful legs have their good lines enhanced by stockings of the right texture and shade. I suppose these bare appendages are a kind of hangover from high school days. I wish they might suddenly become unpopular. A change would improve the general appearance of our campuses in marked degree.

Filming the Classics
A very interesting paper might be worked up by a student who should study the methods of the novelist as contrasted with those of the screen dramatist who revamps a book for the film audiences. Such a study might be especially profitable in connection with the current practice of our film producers of using the great classics of literature. In recent years Treasure Island has been filmed, planned during the Institute's session.

Vice President J. L. Morrill will preside. Governor John W. Bricker will be the speaker and a part of his address on "Radio and Your Government" will be broadcast at 6:30 by the National Broadcasting Company.
Television a Blessing And a Big Headache
"Television one grand headache," Dr. Charles W. Horn, National Broadcasting Company, told Institute listeners at a work-study group Monday afternoon at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel.
Comparing television to the transference of a picture or image from the brain of one person to that of another, Dr. Horn said, "It seems reasonable to assume that we can transmit intelligence more completely by means of television, particularly television accompanied by sound, as against sound alone."
"The difference between sound broadcasting and sight broadcasting, particularly when sound accompanies sight, is that the listener is called upon to use less of his imagination, as the scene is already portrayed for him."
He concluded his talk by citing the use of television in the homes. "Here we have a medium which eliminates distance," he said, "and has the possibility of making an entire community or region one large classroom, with all of the students actually in the presence of the instructor."

David Copperfield, Jané Eyre, Of Human Bondage, The Scarlet Letter, The Three Musketeers, to name but a few. A version of Madame Bovary is, I believe, under way in England; and the latest sensation is the production of Wuthering Heights, now to be seen locally, though at this time I have not yet had a chance to enjoy it. Done by an English cast under fine direction, it seems to have pleased audiences and critics alike, and to have preserved more faithfully than usual the right tone and atmosphere. The screen can do wonders with such settings as Wuthering Heights demands; and while no film or stage play can recreate exactly the feeling a reader has for a great book, or offer to the eye what has come to the reader through his imagination, none the less we welcome a really serious and intelligent attempt to make use of worthy material in a worthy fashion, and to offer to the more intelligent members of the moving picture audiences drama and characterization on a decent level intellectually. I remember seeing, a few years ago, a London production of a play made from Charlotte Brontë's novel,—indeed, there were two plays based on the book going there at the same time. One of these was later brought to New York, with what success I do not know.

Plays University Golf Course and Finds It In Excellent Shape; Football Game Saturday To End Six Weeks' Spring Training Period

Lantern Sports Editor

For the first time this season, we played the University golf course and to say we were pleased with the layout is putting it mildly. . . . Without a doubt it is one of the finest setups for a golf course that we have ever seen. . . . The course is in wonderful shape from tee to green. . . . Every sand trap. . . and there are plenty of them. . . is filled with honest-to-goodness sand. . . . The greens are fast and tricky. . . . and to make an iron shot stick on them is to pull off a good shot. . . . The fairways are practically perfect. . . . Three years from now the course should compare favorably with any other in the country. . . . Don't think that it is easy. . . . The course is long and tricky. . . . and numerous traps do not make it easier for us dubs either.

Saturday's football game at the Stadium winds up the six weeks' training period which Coach Francis A. Schmidt has put his boys through. . . . The intra squad clash should be a humdinger for the boys will pull no punches in their efforts to impress Schmidt and the remainder of the coaching staff. . . . The game will start as soon as the track meet with Notre Dame is completed. . . . The baseball tilt with Northwestern will complete a busy day for the major sports program here.

Don't Miss Baseball Film . . .

Don't miss the baseball film which will be shown at University Hall on Monday and Tuesday of next week. . . . This film shows the complete history of baseball as prepared by the major leagues in honor of the hundred years of baseball which are being celebrated this year. . . . Two showings on Monday and one on Tuesday will give all a chance to see this picture. . . . It is really something to see according to Fritz Mackey who will present it to the students here.

The intramural schedule which has been hampered by the rainy weather is now running under full steam. . . . Unless another siege of bad weather sets in, the championships in the different sports will be decided soon. . . . Two big spring quarter sports to be held yet are the championships in swimming and track. . . . Swimmers will compete for the championships on May 10, and the intramural track meet will be run off on May 23. . . . Varsity or freshman competitors in these events are ineligible to compete in these championships.

Baseballers Face Uphill Fight . . .

If their hopes of winning a Big Ten championship can be realized yet this year, the baseball team must go through the rest of the season with no more setbacks. . . . The double defeat to Illinois gave the Bucks a record of one won against three lost for Big Ten competition so far. . . . Another defeat will put the team out of the running unless the race develops into a close affair with many upsets.

Buck Baseballers Prep for Twin Bill With Northwestern

By KERMIT KAPNER

Back again on the home diamond after Friday and Saturday's double defeat at the hands of a strong Illinois baseball team, Ohio State's hopes for a Big Ten championship will either be blasted entirely this week end or lifted once more.

The two games against Northwestern should tell the tale. A double victory will put the Bucks back in the midst of the Big Ten scramble, while a double defeat might be fatal. An even split will only keep championship hopes lingering lightly.

The downfall of the pitching staff, considered one of the best in the Conference, gave Coach Fritz Mackey new cause for worry. John Dagenhard and Jim Sexton, the Bucks' ace fingers, were both hit freely.

Another gloomy spot is the Bucks' inability to hit. Such star performers as Dick Wulffhorst, Bill Laybourne, Bob Lynch and Beryl Hensel have failed to come through with hits when they were most needed.

Another gap in the Buck machine is the left side of the infield. Ralph Waldo's eccentric playing at shortstop caused Mackey to bench him and move Bob Lynch over from third. Beryl Hensel, a good fielder but weak hitter, was placed at the keystone sack.

The Bucks will be hard at work the rest of this week preparing for the Northwestern invasion. With only a short time in which to work, Mackey will have to patch up the infield and improve the team's hitting.

Base running is another point which Mackey is stressing as an important factor of the game. At Monday's practice, Mackey had the players running the bases as the hit and run, squeeze and steal signals were put on.

When the team took the field for infield and outfield practice, Jay Ingram was in left field. Ingram, a sophomore, has been clouting the ball consistently in practice games, and Mackey might decide to start him in the Northwestern series in an effort to find the needed batting power.

Tobik looked especially good on the southern trip and if he can show some of this early season form, he will be a great aid to the harling

Injury Keeps Nosker Out Of Spring Game

Trainer Tucker Smith reported today that Bill Nosker is suffering from three broken ribs. Nosker received the injury in the intrasquad scrimmage game played Friday.

Nosker was hurt when he blocked the hard charging Chuck Anderson early in the game. The extent of the injury was not known till Nosker underwent a thorough examination at University Hospital, where it was established that he had three broken ribs.

Nosker's injury marks the first serious injury of the Bucks' spring practice. Of course he will be unable to participate in the Bucks' annual spring game Saturday.

Preceding the football game, the Scarlet track team will engage Notre Dame. The track meet is scheduled to start at 1:30 with the football game following immediately.

Co-Op Houses Hold Net Tournament

The University cooperative houses' tennis tournament, now in progress, will determine the champions of each house who will meet in a play-off for the championship sometime next week.

Softball, with four of the houses having teams entered in the intramural league, and track will make up the athletic program of the five houses. Plans are being made for an inter-house track meet to be held before the end of the quarter.

Buck Netters Who Will Battle Northwestern Thursday

Buck Golfers In Upset Win Over Dayton

Ohio State linksmen upset a favored University of Dayton golf team Monday afternoon, 18 to 0. The match, played at the Dayton Country Club, was the Buckeyes' third win in four starts.

Previous to this meet the Dayton team, winner of the Ohio intercollegiate championship for the past three years, had won its first three matches by overwhelming scores, but in the Buckeyes it met a tartar. The Buckeye players showed that they were right at home on a strange course, as they made short work of their opponents.

Frank Bellino continues to show brilliant form as his 72 took low scoring honors of the day. Captain Charlie Carl shot a 73, Chick Evans a 75 and John Gardiner a 77.

In beating the strong Dayton team the Bucks established themselves as a strong contender for Big Ten championship honors. A 20-4 Michigan defeat stands out as the only blot on an otherwise perfect record.

The Bucks will have a chance to erase the sting of this defeat from the record and even matters up when they play Michigan a return match at Michigan this Saturday. The Bucks will also meet Michigan State Friday afternoon and Detroit U. Monday. Both of these games will also be away from home.

Coach Bob Kepler will select the players for these matches on the basis of three things: the first being his own judgment, the second a qualifying round on Wednesday, and thirdly the ability of the players to play in competition.

The Bucks proved in Monday's match that they were not a home course team. They showed that they can play good golf on any course. If this holds true and the players continue to show fine form, a clean sweep of the three week-end matches is not impossible.

Netters Inaugurate Busy Week at Home With Bishops Today

The Buck netters will inaugurate a busy week at home when they meet Ohio Wesleyan's tennis team at 3 p. m. today on the Varsity courts. Thursday, the Scarlet netters commence their Big Ten season against Northwestern, and Saturday they again return to the wars to engage Michigan.

Ohio Wesleyan's outfit is much improved over the aggregation which went down to a 7-2 defeat before the Buckeyes last season. They have many new additions to their ranks including Harry Zinc and Tracy Jones, reputed to be two of the best collegiate players in the state.

Zinc hits a tennis ball harder than any netter in Ohio collegiate tennis circles. Last summer he topped Bill Maul, Wayne University star, in three grueling sets.

In spite of the prowess of these men, Ohio State is conceded the edge because of its all-around strength. The first four men on the State roster are practically on a par, with the other members of the squad not far behind.

The match between Mechir, Buck captain, and Zinc should be one of the best of the season. Both have powerful forehands and good backhands. If Mechir's cross-court backhand is working, he stands a good chance to win. However, Zinc is favored because of his greater power and experience.

The Bishop's other star, Tracy Jones, will probably hook up with Pinky Steinman in what should be another thriller. Steinman's game has been off the last few days and Jones should cop this set-to.

Coach Herman Wirthwein figures to take most of the singles matches and all of the doubles. The Scarlet doubles combinations have dropped only one match this spring, and that to Wayne University's undefeated netters in Saturday's tilt.

The Buckeyes have a .500 average so far this season. They swamped Ohio University in their opener and lost a heart-breaker to Wayne Saturday.

Captain George Mechir has not been defeated this season. He easily ran through his Ohio U. opponent, and came from behind Saturday to top Wayne's Jack Schlesinger in three sets. Mechir's victory over Schlesinger was something of an upset as the Wayne man was a finalist in the National Public Parks tournament and holds a decision over Cincinnati's Billy Talbert.

All the other members of the Scarlet squad have met defeat this spring. The season is still too young for boys to settle down to their normal games, and the next few matches should find them greatly improved.

It is in the doubles that the

Shackers Set Intramural Scoring Mark

The echoes of the sustained barages of base hitting which rolled out over the intramural horseshide front Monday afternoon heralded the death of an existing intramural record and the subsequent birth of a new one.

Hitting the ball with reckless abandon, the Snack Shackers, an independent outfit, crossed home plate 49 times in annihilating Stadium Club No. 1, 49 to 3, and thus smashed the record for runs scored in a single game.

When the game was called in the fourth inning the Shackers were still at bat and gave no indication that they were going to relinquish their position. Off to a "slow" start, the Shackers rolled across three runs in the first inning. In the second they proceeded to really pour the wood in and 15 men trekked over the plate. Apparently warming to their task as they progressed, the Shackers added 20 points to their total in the third and had pushed 11 more around the bases at the time the slaughter was called by a merciful umpire.

If this marathon produced any particular feature which might be said to have stood out above the hectic contest as a whole, it was probably the sum of 14 home runs which were lashed to all sectors of the greensward by the victors.

Of the 15 softball games scheduled for the afternoon, 12 were played while three were forfeited.

Of the three scheduled baseball tilts, only one was played. This one was contested between Stadium Club No. 5 and the Jitterbugs, an independent nine. Mike Hunyadi, hurling for the Stadium Club, was definitely more than the bugs could cope with. Mixing up an assortment of fade-aways, inshoots and hooks, Hunyadi did a very effective job of pitching.

The third inning found him faced with the Jitterbugs' only serious threat of the contest. In this frame the Jitterbugs scored four runs and apparently they were on the road to solving Mike's delivery. But thereafter Hunyadi gave reason to believe that his flatterer was due only to the fact that he had been hit in the head by a pitched ball early in the contest and was temporarily shaken, for in the remaining three stanzas he was nicked for only one run.

Plan Puppet 'Peep Show'

Walter Wilkinson, well-known English author and puppeteer, and his wife will present a puppet show called "The Peep Show" at 8:30 p. m. Thursday in Campbell Hall Auditorium. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson will also discuss drama and the stage.

CO-ED SPORTS

By MARY LOU EATON

When the ruffled water of the Natatorium had calmed and the honors of battle were distributed, the intercollegiate women's swimming meet came to a close with the following total team scores:

First, Lake Erie 25.

Second, Ohio State 10.

Third, Antioch 8.

Fourth, Ohio Wesleyan 2.

Following the meet the Swan Club entertained its guests with something new and different in aquatic pageantry. The unique feature of the exhibition was the way in which every girl was used in each of the five transitions in an even flow from one movement to the other.

Today the Swans will entertain the Badminton Club in Pomerene pool.

The traveling equestriennes of the Boot and Saddle Club returned from the riding meet at the University of Illinois with their share of the coveted ribbons as follows:

Jane Simmons, second place, five-gaited horsemanship class; Hilda Fulton-Jane Simmons, third place, pair class, and Betty Fickell, fourth place, jumping.

On the baseball diamond Student Center bowed to the Satellites Monday afternoon.

Many club tryouts were held over the week end with the following results:

The Golf Club chose Margaret Grimes, Dorothy Graham and Audrey Landle.

Foil and Mask took Eleanor Maxwell, Jessie Smith, Odette Black, Mary Strausbaugh, Joan Evans and Betty Blue. Foil and Mask has planned an interclass meet to be held at the end of the quarter.

The Spur Club chose Dorothy Tubman and Betty Armbruster.

The Physical Education Club will present a faculty-student panel and election of officers will be held at the meeting on May 4.

The Outing Club will have its bait-casting party at the University Golf Club on May 5.

'Kappy' Gives Up Stage and Kappas For Grid Contract

The rumor that has been floating around our spacious campus for so long has finally been verified by the party of the first part, Carl (Kappy) Kaplanoff, co-captain of last year's football squad, who will use his 260 pounds in trying to help the Brooklyn Dodgers, professional football team, gain the National League title next fall.

When asked for a statement Kappy said, "I just signed for all games with the Dodgers. I'm now officially through with the stage and being the Kappa housemaster."

"From now on I'll have shoes to fit me and won't have to reduce to get clothes to fit me. Brooklyn, here I come."

Burt Nominated As PMC Chairman

Eleanor Burt, A-3, has been nominated as chairman of the Peace Mobilization Committee for the coming year, the nominating committee announced today.

The committee, composed of Margaret C. Henry, A-4; Robert W. Harper, Com-3, and Maurice M. Greenfield, A-4, has also selected the following candidates for the other offices: Albert H. Socolov, A-1, and Carl Moore, A-2, secretary, and Hubert F. Wilson, A-4, and Andy F. Henry, A-1, treasurer.

Other candidates may be named from the floor at a meeting of the Peace Mobilization Committee Wednesday. Election of officers will take place the following Wednesday.

Campus Guests Await Matrix Table Tonight

University Dames to Hear Blind Student;
Hillel Plans Week-End Skating Party

By MARDELLE KLEINMAN

Tonight's the night, and we who have been lucky enough to receive invitations are quite "in a dither" about it. Of course you know we're talking about the annual Matrix Table sponsored by the alumnae chapter of Theta Sigma Phi. It's set for 7 p. m. at the Neil House.

The 800 guests will include Mrs. Bricker, Mrs. Gessaman and Mrs. McPherson. Campus people who've been invited include actives, pledges, alums, faculty members and faculty members' wives. Harriett Daily Collins (she's in the alumni office), as chairman of the event, will introduce the speaker, Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, author of "The Yearling," which won her the 1938 Pulitzer prize. This will be Mrs. Rawlings' first public appearance as a Pulitzer winner.

University Dames
The University Dames will meet tonight in Pomerene Hall. The time is 8 o'clock; the place, the grand lounge. Mitchell Darling, a blind student, will be the speaker, and his subject will be "The Light Shining Inward."

Skating Party
We're a bit early for week-end stuff, but we're anticipating a heavy mail bag around the end of the week, so we'll start off now. The Hillel Foundation is having a skating party at Smith's Skating Rink. You can come alone or with a date or with a gang, as long as you come, because it's going to be one of those regular good times.

Wedding Bells

The date's been set for the Helen Jones-Sam Lambert wedding, and it's only two and a half weeks away. The date is May 20 and it's to be an afternoon wedding. Sam was an SAE on the campus, and the future Mrs. Lambert was one of the Kappa gals.

Co-Op Houses Plan Dance for Friday

The victrola dance for University cooperative house members and their friends will be held at 6 p. m. Friday in the Ohio Union, Theodore P. Kunkle, Engr-3, said today.

A scholarship trophy has been selected, and will be awarded to the house acquiring the highest point-hour ratio for each quarter. The cup will become the permanent possession of the house which wins it for three successive quarters.

Individual member who receives the highest point-hour ratio will be awarded a pin after meeting the requirements of residence in a cooperative house for three quarters.

Insignia pins will be distributed to all members at a banquet tentatively set for June 5 in Pomerene Hall.

Artist Milton Caniff, 1930, Remembers His Alma Mater

By GERRY MANYPENNY

The friendship alumni hold for the University was shown last week when Milton Caniff '30, famous artist, sent his dollar for a patron's ticket to the Scarlet Mask production, "Cheer as You Go."

A short time ago, Mr. Caniff, creator of the comic strip, "Terry and the Pirates," aided the Development Fund by posing for the March issue of the Alumni Monthly, which introduced the Fund to alumni.

Shortly before that, he presented the University chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity with a skillfully done pen and ink drawing of its Constantine chapter, founded during the Civil War by a group of Sigma Chis in the Confederate army.

BMOC Caniff

While in school, Milt was on the staffs of the Makio, the LANTERN and the Sundial. He was also a member of Sphinx and Bucket and Dipper. He also found time to be president of Strollers Dramatic Society and a leading player in Scarlet Mask.

Terry Gets Around

Since those carefree college days, Milt has become one of the nation's leading newspaper cartoonists and now his colorful characters appear in 125 newspapers throughout the country.

If estimates are correct, 14,000,000 people follow the adventures of "Terry" and his associates daily.

A New York company handles foreign translations for Mr. Caniff's strip and Milt admits that he is often surprised at the dialogue of the characters.

"In Norway," he recently said, "it's called 'Jim and the Pirates'."

and they'll use a big, long word where I've only said something like "Oh boy!"

Duce Bans Pirates

"Mussolini and I are just like that," he says, spreading his arms wide apart. His comic feature was the first to be barred from Italian newspapers.

MILTON CANIFF

The Spanish civil war halted publication of his strip in Madrid. His characters appear in a Japanese newspaper and in a Japanese-owned paper in China, as well as in newspapers in London, Melbourne and the Scandinavian countries.

A native of Hillsboro, Milt moved to Dayton with his family in 1919. He came to Ohio State in 1925, entered the College of Arts and Sciences and graduated in 1930.

Important Notice to Members of the University Faculty

The University Faculty at a meeting held April 25 discussed the report of the committee of three authorized by the Board of Trustees to frame a plan for the creation of a committee which shall represent the Faculty in an advisory capacity to the Board of Trustees through the President of the University. The Faculty unanimously adopted the report of the committee of three (Alpheus W. Smith, Henry R. Spencer, Charles A. Doan) which contains the following provisions:

Report Adopted

(a) The President of the University shall be requested to appoint a nominating committee consisting of five members of the University Faculty, who shall select persons who are known to be University-minded rather than representative of specific interests.

(b) Not later than April 27 this nominating committee shall present to the President of the University a list of 15 members of the Faculty who have demonstrated effectiveness and judgment in responsible situations and who are known to have the necessary training and breadth of vision to represent the whole University.

(c) Immediately after this list is received the President of the University shall publish it in the Daily Bulletin for the information of the Faculty.

(d) Any group of individuals who may have reason to feel that any interest of the University is not adequately represented by the candidates selected by the nominating committee shall have the privilege of adding nominations by petition.

(e) Nominations by petition must be signed by not less than 25 members of the Faculty and must be received by the nominating committee not later than May 2. They shall then be included in the list of nominations prepared by the nominating committee.

Nominees Listed

This committee of five (W. L. Evans, chairman, J. A. Leighton, N. Paul Hudson, F. E. Lumley and W. L. Everett) presents the following list of nominations:

B. H. Bode	F. W. Marquis
W. W. Charters	R. E. Mathews
C. A. Doan	H. C. Ramsower
E. E. Dreese	A. W. Smith
G. W. Eckelberry	L. H. Snyder
G. R. Havens	H. R. Spencer
W. E. Henderson	H. R. Walley
H. E. Hoagland

This list is printed simply for the information of the Faculty in order that any other nominations may be made in accordance with articles (d) and (e) printed above. All such nominations should be sent to Professor W. L. Evans, chairman of the committee, not later than the evening of May 2.

Later a ballot containing the list of candidates, consisting of those nominated by the nominating committee as well as those nominated by petition, will be mailed to each person having the right to vote with the request that each voter shall vote for 10 candidates. From the 10 names receiving the highest number of votes, the Acting President will select five and these shall constitute the committee to represent the Faculty in an advisory capacity to the Board of Trustees.

WILLIAM MCPHERSON,
Acting President.
