

Limit Homecoming Queen Skits

Story Of Sally Lacks Goblins

By Ed Wier

During the day she's a prim school miss, attending the College of Education.

Ah, but comes the dusk and she's transformed into a glamorous model and TV star. (She doesn't turn into a pumpkin at midnight, however.)

Sounds like something out of "The Shadow" or at least a switch on the old Cinderella tale—but it's really happening to Sally Poston, Ed-3. You'd probably recognize her better by her TV name of Sally Arvin.

Until last April, Sal was just like any other coed, although better looking. Then she enrolled in a modeling school. She did some work on WLW-C, although she says, "All you got to see of me were my hands, some guy was always putting a ring on my finger. It was very frustrating."

Through a happy circumstance, she was noticed by an Arvin representative, who signed her for the Arvin wrestling show on Saturday nights at 11. She was to be the mystery woman, the "Velvet Voice of Television."

She was pretty disgusted for the first six weeks, for no one saw her —she was the voice behind the scenes. "First they'd show my eyes, then my mouth, then my hands—guess they were displaying me piece by piece," she said.

Finally—her moment of triumph came—her face was revealed. From that time on she was up on Cloud 68, and appeared every week. Then the show was taken over by Glicks, for whom she now works.

She has been featured on the back cover of the Columbus Star twice, once in a prim pose, and once in Hollywood-type cheese-cake. After that appeared, she got nine phone calls from strange (or at least unusual) men, and a letter from a fan in Delaware, which particularly tickled her.

Sally got her start in speech work while in North High here in Columbus. Here on the campus she is a pledge member of University Players, and appeared last Spring in the Browning Dramatic Society's production of "Comedy of Errors."

Asked as to future plans, Sally smiled, blushed daintily (or however girls blush) and replied, "Probably just get married, although I would like to have a career if things work out."

Judging by her looks, and the impression she created in the LANTERN office, things ought to definitely work out.

Seven-Point Plan Passes Senate; Parades Are Out

By Roy Garvin

Student senators Thursday night heard several proposed changes for a bigger and better May Week next Spring Quarter. They also adopted a seven-point program to govern the procedure of the homecoming queen elections.

Candidates' petitions must be in the Student Senate office no later than 5 p. m. Wednesday, Nov. 8. Preliminary judging will take place Nov. 10, and elections will be held Nov. 16.

A Senate committee first presented a plan for the election procedure. The committee had met with representatives of both Pleiades and Pan-Hellenic Council. Two senators then introduced plans, and the Senate compromised by voting point-by-point for the following plan:

1. The elections committee of the Student Senate will handle the procedure of the election.

2. There will be no wearing or carrying of campaign publicity on the campus.

3. There will be no parades except when sponsored by the elections committee, and all available candidates must be included.

4. There will be one skit presented for each candidate, if so desired, at a rally or rallies. The time and place of the rally or rallies will be designated by the elections committee.

5. Night serenading is permitted. 6. Candidates may be introduced in a group at all University-recognized housing units, as designated by the elections committee.

7. Candidates will be limited to ten 11"x14" campaign posters, to be placed in the recitation halls, and to five which can be placed in business establishments.

A report given to the senate by Suzanne Williams, A-4, cited the need of several improvements in Ohio State's May or Traditions Week.

According to the report there is a lack of general student participation. The May Week schedule has not been set up to best advantage, and the planning period which the committee has been given is too short to make air-tight organization possible.

Other faults listed by the report concerned financial losses and uncomplimentary public opinion.

Miss Williams, who had worked on a plan during the Summer with Jug Durea, Senate public relations advisor, made recommendations which she believed would create more interest and participation, and which could

Stylish Return Is Promised By Delts Saturday Night

A fraternity long missing from the campus social scene will make an impressive return Saturday night as Delta Tau Delta members fete the entire Greek system of the University.

The dance, which conflicts with only one other fraternity party, is scheduled for the Neil House ballroom from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Actually, it is the first major function the Delts have sponsored since social privileges were revoked November, 1949, after the death of a member following a shooting melee.

At the Neil House dance, which probably will attract one of the largest gatherings of the Fall season, Tommy Dale's orchestra and the Three Bees and a Honey will furnish musical backgrounds.

An Alpha Tau Omega semi-formal dance will be held in the Gold Room at the Fort Hayes Hotel from 9 to 12 p. m. the same evening. Parents are invited to this Dads' Day dance at which Ziggy Coyle's band will furnish music.

Delt Social Chairman Raymond Martin, Ag-4, said their Greek dance had been "tentatively planned for Oct. 27 at the Neil House." However, a dinner in honor of Sen. Robert A. Taft was recently scheduled for that evening, and the Delts chose an alternate date, the 28th.

Bill Greenzalis, Com-2, social chairman of the ATOs, said, however, the date of the dance did not conflict with the Saturday function his fraternity planned last Summer.

He added the Delts informed him that their "All-Greek Ball" would be given on a Friday.

Claim Vote Plan 'Stolen'

A student accused of fraud in Spring Quarter elections believes he has actually helped better student government and voting procedures.

In fact, today Stahley Zucker, A-3, said that he advanced the college office voting plan to be used in future elections.

"The only reason Senate officials disregarded recognition of the plan is because I am supposedly connected with vote frauds in May Week elections," Zucker declared.

In July, when the Senate election committee considered having all voting done in a single booth on the Oval, he presented a rough draft of his proposal to Bill Reidenbach, Senate secretary-treasurer, Zucker claims.

Reidenbach told him to write his plan more fully, and submit it to Dean of Men Joseph A. Park and Mylin Ross, assistant dean.

They later offered suggestions and he mailed finished written copies to F. O. Tresemer, advisor to the Senate elections committee, Dean of Women Christine Y. Con-

NW Tickets Fail To Move

Only 60 tickets have been sold for the Ohio Staters' special train to the Northwestern game, Jim Thompson, A-4, publicity chairman for Ohio Staters, said today.

Tickets will remain on sale at the rally tonight, at the Ohio Staters' booth at the game Saturday, and at the Ohio Union lobby starting Monday.

The train will leave the University siding at 12:01 a. m. Saturday, Nov. 4, and arrive in Chicago at 9 a. m. It will leave Evanston at 1 a. m., Nov. 5, and arrive in Columbus at 9 a. m.

Tickets for the game and the "grid special" sell for $14.75, and students with tickets already purchased may ride the special for $11.25.

Newmanites Open Fall Social Season

First Fall social event on the calendar of the Newman Association will be a hayride and wiener roast Saturday night at the Duros Riding Academy.

Members and guests will assemble at the Newman Club at 7:30 p. m. where transportation will be provided. Reservations may be made by calling Greg McCann at EV-7330 or John Clifford at WA-1609.

Charleston Invades Iowa Rally Tonight

While odds continue to lengthen for Coach Wes Fesler and his football team, point makers also are increasing odds for success of tonight's torchlight rally on the long walk.

Chief reason for this action is a marked change in student spirit which may push attendance near the 5,000 mark.

Three weeks ago a similar rally failed miserably as Fesler and his squad found themselves almost alone at the Pittsburgh pre-game rally.

Tonight, however, members of Council of Men's Organizations have moved to avert a repeat performance, this time scheduling the rally on the Long Walk at 7 p. m. instead of the usual Museum steps location.

Tonight's rally will not follow usual procedure but instead will meet on the Oval long walk at 7 p. m. following a parade through the University district.

Rallies previously met at 15th and High.

Several fraternities and sororities will participate in the program. Delta Gamma members, eight strong, have scheduled a

Charleston chorus line. A Pi Kappa Alpha sextet will sing "Three Little Words" and "Clementine."

Three ukuleles will further carry the theme, "We'll Do As Dad Did," with Joe Marino, Ed-2, and Wally Keller, V-Med-1, both Sigma Chis, performing with the assistance of Wally Bollinger, Com-3, who will also serve as master of ceremonies.

Others scheduled for roles on the program are Sally Flowers, WLW-TV; Jack Buck, WCOL, sportscaster; Tom Manning, WTAM sports announcer; and Roger Nelson, WBNS-TV and Ohio State Journal sports editor.

Bucks Set For Pass Marathon

Curcillo, Janowicz Versus Drahn In Air Battle

By Jim Mee

Can the vaunted Ohio State line stop the running attack of Iowa or will the Hawkeyes take to the air where the Bucks are known to be none too strong? That is a question that only Saturday's game between the two schools will answer.

The Buckeye defensive line has held two opponents to a total of 37 inches per try. Iowa, in three conference games, has rushed for 202 yards while passing for only 109. Ohio State has given up 137 yards through the air to gain distinction of being next to last in the Big Ten in pass defense.

Good Runners

In Jerry Faske and Bill Reichardt head Hawkeye Coach, Len Raffensperger, has a potent one-two punch. Faske has averaged 5 yards per carry, while Reichardt is averaging 5.1 per try.

Glenn Drahn, the Black and Gold quarterback, ranks sixth in the Conference in passing. In three games he flipped 37 passes and completed 16 for a total of 247 yards and four touchdowns. All reports from Iowa City this week indicate that Drahn has been sharpening his eye for the Buckeye tilt.

Rounding the backfield for the Hawkeyes is Don Commack. Commack, a 165-pounder, has swept through the three Big Ten games with a four yards per try average. However, he may be unavailable for the game due to a bruised shoulder.

Up front the Hawkeyes will throw a line at the Scarlet that has held its opponents to 2.4 yards per try average.

Although the Iowa forwards will not average as much as the Buckeye pickets, Hurbert Johnston at 240 presents a lot of tackle. Teaming with him at the other tackle will be Andy Buntz at 205.

At the ends Jerry Long and Bob Hoff will probably start for Iowa. A 6-2, 210-pounder, Long broke into the Iowa lineup last season when Ralph Woodard fractured his leg and this season has proven to be an outstanding performer. Hoff is a two-year letterman from Cedar Rapids. Last year he worked mostly on defense.

Austin Turner and Louis Ginsberg are due to get the starting nod at the guard slots. Turner weighs in at 205, while Ginsberg will enter the game around 195. Turner, a junior, won a varsity "I" last season. Ginsberg is the only wartime holdover for the Black and Gold and is out to pick up his fourth monogram.

Holding down the center position is John Towner. He was the number two pivot man for the Hawkeyes last year and has moved into the starting spot this season.

An added incentive for the Bucks to win their third straight Big Ten victory is revenge. Two seasons ago the underdog Iowa team upset the Scarlet 14-7 to the disappointment of some 67,000 fans. This week the Hawkeyes are again the underdog, and Ohio State is hoping not to give a repeat of the 1948 performance.

Left to right, Jerry Faske, Bill Reichardt, Mike Riley, and Glenn Drahn will carry the brunt of the Hawkeye attack when the Iowa team moves into Ohio Stadium to face the Buckeyes Saturday. Faske, Reichardt and Riley will do most of the running, with Quarterback Drahn flipping most of the Black and Gold passes. Faske is currently one of the top ballcarriers in the Conference, averaging 5.0 yards per carry.

Lantern Crystal Gazers Oppose Experts; Pick Hoosiers To Defeat Fighting Illini

Last week our forecast hit on 16 games, missed three, and had a tie. Throwing out ties we had a 84 per cent mark. This brought our season average above the 80 per cent figure.

For the third straight Saturday our upset special came through and this trip we're taking Indiana to beat Illinois. But this is the weakest special we have had yet.

OHIO STATE over IOWA—Two offensive minded teams put on one of the season's top shows. Remembering '48 we'll take the Bucks by fourteen.

INDIANA over ILLINOIS—A terrific game but our hunch says an upset with D'Achille being the difference.

MICHIGAN over MINNESOTA—Michigan is going to be hard to beat by anybody, last week Wisconsin found out; so will Minnesota.

ARMY over COLUMBIA—At least a four touchdown margin for the top ranking Cadets.

TEXAS over RICE—The Longhorns are tuning up for the big SMU tilt next Saturday.

NEBRASKA over KANSAS—Probably wrong here but the Cornhuskers were impressive against Penn State.

PENN over NAVY—The Quakers are pointing toward Army and might get fooled, by a Middle team that is quite ready.

STANFORD over WASHINGTON—The games this week seem very tough. Could feel just as safe picking the other way.

MIAMI (Fla.) over PITTSBURGH—It is not as easy as it sounds. Pitt is improving and may give the Hurricanes the air.

UCLA over PURDUE—Holcomb's boys are in bad shape after the Iowa loss.

MICHIGAN STATE over NOTRE DAME—Only a point after touchdown is the difference here. Don't bet on this one.

WISCONSIN over NORTHWESTERN—Homecoming at Madison and the Wildcats get knocked off.

ALABAMA over MISSISSIPPI STATE—Something to raise our average with.

MISSOURI over OKLAHOMA A&M—The Tigers had better start winning.

Robinson Downs Olson In Twelfth

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27—(AP)—The promoters are still marching in the lambs and Ray (Sugar) Robinson continues to slaughter them in the master style of the Harlem dandy.

Thursday night it was Carl (Bobo) Olson who faced the Robinson fists. Fresh from the Hawaiian Islands, 22-year-old Olson tried to win Robinson's Pennsylvania-version middleweight championship. All he got for 5,500 miles of traveling was his fourth defeat in 53 fights.

Robinson set Olson down for the count in 1:19 of the 12th round of a scheduled 15 rounder at Convention Hall.

Coach Foresees Good Year Ahead For Gymnasts

By Ralph Haas

Six lettermen will return to outmaneuver the other Conference gym teams when competition resumes on Jan. 13, 1951 against Kent State. This will mean the third year of competition for Coach Joe Hewlett's squad, with each year showing a marked improvement.

A fine performance can be expected on the parallel bars and rings by Donald McCoy and Jack Thompson, who also put on a capable display on the side horse. Sam Mano, an excellent all around gymnast, will handle the tumbling and high bar assignments, aided by veterans Frank Stone, Steve Neago, and Donald Schimpf.

Headlining the freshman team is Dennis Harget, who is outstanding on the trampoline, rings, and tumbling. Coach Hewlett said, "In my estimation he is one of the greatest artists in the field." Other prospects include Thomas Franklin, Andrew Briener, Robert Martin, Robert Henning, Herbert Jones and Walter Marsh.

All in all the Bucks are expected to field a generally well balanced squad that will be stiff competition for any opponent.

Strip Mine Visit Planned By Conservation Society

The Buckeye Grove . . .

By John Nalley

Last week Coach Fesler announced that from now on Tony Curcillo would pilot the Ohio State offensive unit on the field. From this side of the fence there could be several reasons for this move.

First it would take some of the pressure off Vic Janowicz. In a university the size of ours and a town as football crazy as Columbus, the pressure can get overwhelming. "Little Vic" does just about everything a coach could ask for on a football field. Add to this the responsibility of directing the Buckeye attack and you have a super-human task.

Every quarterback is always faced with the task of calling his own plays. When a team's attack is built around the quarterback, a real problem develops.

Now Janowicz can concentrate on his running, punting, and passing game which is enough for any ball player.

On the other hand Curcillo's field generalship against Indiana was great. One of the finest Buck drives of this year came under his hand. Taking the ball on their own 25-yard line, the Scarlet marched all the way for the TD. The climax came on Skip Doyle's jump pass to Ray Hamilton for the score.

Curcillo was faced with the problem of fourth down and two yards to go for the first down, with the ball inside the Hoosiers' 10-yard line. Most of the long drive had been made on the ground with the Bucks backs going four and five yards a clip. Curcillo, realizing the defense would be pulled in, called for the pass.

Against the Gophers, the Elyria sophomore not only proved he could direct the team, but also put on a display of his own running and passing ability. A fellow should feel quite proud of directing the offenses of a club which sports-writers compare with the great Notre Dame team of the Four Horsemen.

Directing the forces of one of the biggest football powers of the nation is a tremendous task. But with what we have seen of the man from Elyria so far, Curcillo will do the job as well as any man Coach Fesler could choose.

Harriers Face Unbeaten Pitt Here Saturday

Coach Charles Beetham is counting on a couple of sophomores to bolster Ohio State's chances against Pittsburgh's undefeated cross-country squad Saturday morning.

Beetham believes that if Aubrey Jenkins and Dave Titsch can finish up among the leaders, his team has a very good chance of upsetting the Panthers. Both Jenkins and Titsch showed plenty of promise in their first race against Michigan State last week.

Doug Williams, Bill Uber, and Dave Youmans have looked good in practice this week and should pick up some necessary points.

This will be the final home appearance for the Buck harriers. They will meet Indiana at Bloomington Nov. 11 and then close the season at Chicago Nov. 17, competing in the Big Ten meet.

Muskingum Tops Ohio Conference

Among the top football attractions Saturday is the clash of undefeated Muskingum, out in front in the Ohio Conference with three wins, with Denison at Granville. Mount Union, winner of two straight loop events, entertains Slippery Rock of Pennsylvania.

Ohio Wesleyan and Oberlin, each with a conference win, meet at Delaware and the winner could go ahead if Denison upsets Muskingum.

Two outstanding games are on tap in the Mid-America Conference, with the three leading squads seeing action. Cincinnati goes to Western Michigan to try for its second straight in Conference play. Miami's Redskins play at Ohio University. Each team won its opening Conference contest, but Miami is a solid favorite over the Bobcats.

Ohio Northern, leader in the Mid-Ohio League with two straight, will try to extend its string by playing twice-defeated Defiance on the latter's field.

The Musketeers of Xavier, statewide leaders with six victories, tangle with Dayton's Flyers Sunday in Cincinnati.

Other Saturday games: Wooster at Akron, Butler at Western Reserve, Cedarville at Wilmington, Heidelberg at Findlay, Capital at Kenyon, Hiram at Ashland, Case at Carnegie Tech, John Carroll at Marshall, Upsala at Baldwin Wallace, Bowling Green at Toledo, Wilberforce at Lincoln (Mo.), and Bluffton at Taylor, Ind.

Games tonight will see Otterbein at Marietta, Niagara at Youngstown, Northern Illinois State at Kent State, and Wittenberg at Georgetown, Ky.

Utah Rocks Take Beating During Geology Field Trip

"Go West, young students," is still the cry of the geology department.

Each summer juniors in geology take a field trip to Utah. It is a required course and 12 hours credit are given to participants who are gone about 11 weeks.

During the Autumn Quarter, a* professional geological report must be written about findings on the trip. Three credit hours are given for reports.

Last summer, 46 men and three women students made the journey in transportation furnished by the University. They were accompanied by four instructors including Dr. Edmund M. Spieker, chairman of the department and group leader; Dr. George E. Moore; Dr. J. A. LaRocque, and Siegfried Meussig, a graduate student.

The group left Columbus June 14, and arrived five days later at Ephraim, Utah (115 miles south of Salt Lake City). Living quarters are provided in a small college located there.

During the first week, the students get a general look at the mountain area surrounding them. They are split into groups of three and each group is assigned a 40 mile zone which is mapped geologically.

Breakfast was served at 6 a. m., with each group leaving for its particular area. Lunch was eaten in the field, with the groups reporting back to camp at 5:30 p. m. In the evening students played volleyball, tennis, and softball.

Several trips were taken to Salt Lake City and Grand Canyon. The trip to the Grand Canyon lasted five days.

"I think the trip was a very valuable experience," said Ray Pennell, A-4. "It certainly helps to prepare geology students for the future."

Theater Appoints New Tech Aide

Harold B. Obee has been appointed technical aide of the University Theater for the 1951-52 theater season.

Obee completed his master's degree at Ohio State in 1946 and has been on the theater staff at Bowling Green for the past four years.

'Our Dads . . .'

Saturday is Dad's Day at Ohio State.

It's the one day during the year when we repay Dad in some small measure for all the things he's done for us throughout the entire year.

He'll be King tomorrow. Sororities and fraternities are planning special luncheons and open houses in honor of him. All Dads possible are being urged to attend the Iowa game. And the football Dads will sit right next to the bench, wearing their sons' numbers on their backs. Special half-time ceremonies are also planned.

We've picked out a Mansfield man as "Dad of Dads." He'll represent, tomorrow, all the thousands of Dads there, and the many other thousands who would like to be here, but could not make it, for one reason or another.

Too often we tend to think of Dad as merely the man behind the checkbook, and the limitless source of money.

So here's a long overdue tribute to the finest guys there are—Our Dads.

Back On The Job

President Truman indicated this week that he will try to call Congress back 12 days early, to get much needed legislation, including some definite action on rent controls, passed.

Screams of anguish no doubt will emanate from some Congressmen.

We think the Chief Executive has a fine idea here, and we don't see why he didn't call for reconvention sooner.

We are now at one of the most critical points in our history. The foreign situation even with the brightness of the Korean picture is far from settled.

Worse yet, runaway inflation threatens the nation. The vicious circle of the wage-price spiral is ever upon us. While demand for civilian goods is going up and up, supply is shrinking, because of a shift in production from consumers goods to DO (Defense Orders).

So what happens—at this critical point?

Congress goes home.

Evidently they feel that their campaigning and re-election are more important than the general welfare of the nation.

We don't particularly like to have this type of legislator representing us.

We say the sooner they get back on the job the better.

The guys fighting over in Korea go no such break. Neither should Congress when its services are needed.

'Mighty Have Fallen'

How the mighty have fallen!

Mighty Notre Dame, the titans of the gridiron for lo these many years, are distinct underdogs in their Saturday game with the Spartans of Michigan State.

We can't remember the last time the "Fighting Irish" went into a football game not favored to win.

Which just goes to show, as Bob Zuppke was so fond of saying, "A football takes funny bounces."

Salute To Student Newscasters Who 'Slave' On WOSU Programs

It's about time someone saluted the student newscasters who plug away in the WOSU newsroom. These guys slave away behind the microphone daily and on week ends broadcasting the day's news. Sometimes it's a thankless job. They receive no pay and the only remuneration they can expect is a few hours of academic credit. However, they do get invaluable mike experience* and whip that radio bogey of "mike fright."

Currently, Jerry Epstein, Jack Martin and Hal Roeder broadcast the news, and Bill Kimmelman airs the sports. Howard Back, newsroom supervisor, directs the shows and does several daily stints behind the news scene too.

Few people realize how much work goes into a 15-minute show. The news is received on United Press teletype and must be edited for clarity and readability. The copy must also be checked for accuracy of fact and spelling. The correct pronunciations have to be found for "toughies" (difficult words), then the news units are assembled and stapled to backing sheets. By now the show is ready for broadcasting to thousands of listeners.

Some of these listeners aren't always kind about their comments when a word is mispronounced. After a flood of complaints about Hal Roeder's use of FDR's name (he said Rooz-uh-velt instead of Roz-uh-velt) Hal threw up his hands in despair and exploded with, "... vultures." Maybe he's a Republican.

The second appearance of "Campus Serenade" on WBNS-TV Sunday featured Delta Gamma and Alpha Tau Omega. The Kappa Sigs, runners-up in last Spring's Interfraternity Sing led off the parade of Greek songsters last week in the initial performance. Each chorus is limited to 35 voices but joint serenades by a fraternity-sorority team are planned to expand the size of the choral shows. The Tri-Delts and Sigma Chis pair up this Sunday at 4:30 p. m.

The speech department has completed a listing of former and present students who are successfully working in radio and television. The group is a huge one numbering close to one hundred. Many of them are already top-flight entertainers. The list is admittedly incomplete, according to Dr. H. B. Summers, and includes only those who have taken courses in the radio programming area. We'll keep close tabs on them and will report later developments in future columns.

Herbert Marshall made his TV debut on the "Nash Airflyte Theater," CBS-TV (WBNS-TV), at 10:30 p. m., Thursday, Oct. 26. He appeared in the television dramatization of O. Henry's "Municipal Report," and thus joins the ranks of illustrious film and stage personalities who have leaped into the TV arena.

An Englishman, Marshall first directed his energies toward a business career, which proved not to his liking. Then he became the manager of a theatrical troupe, and, since the actors seemed to make more money, decided to try his hand at acting. He moved up the ladder fast and after a brilliant London success came to New York's Broadway. Not long after he was in Hollywood. His first screen role was in the "Secrets of a Secretary," playing opposite Claudette Colbert. Since then he has consistently held his own among Hollywood's foremost leading men.

Editor's Mail Bag . . .

Editor, the LANTERN:

Now is an appropriate time to air one's views about campus election reforms so that the interested student senators and school officials will do something of a permanent nature to stop the traditional practices in cheating at campus elections. At last the administration officials seem to have taken an interest in helping the Student Senate conduct their all-campus elections . . .*

They could either be motivated by a desire to clamp a censorship on the further airing of the Spring Quarter election frauds simply by taking the matter behind closed doors or they could be sincere in their effort to help the Student Senate conduct their elections. Perhaps their true motive can be brought to light by their reactions to the following suggestion.

For just a small fraction of the $35,000 in scholarship losses attributed to last year's campus election frauds (one-tenth of that amount) they could purchase three voting machines which could adequately handle the entire campus if voting were stretched over a two-day period instead of the present unfair practice which prevents many engineering students from casting a ballot because they have lab classes from 8 to 5 on the particular day chosen for voting.

My practical experience in campus politics over a long period of years together with my numerous courses in political science led me to believe that the use of voting machines is the only practical and sure-fire way of eliminating the many loopholes that are available for misconduct in campus elections.

To use more than three voting machines would be a wast of funds and storage space. However, for demonstrational purposes the use of 10 machines with the voting being concentrated into one day would be less expensive for a company putting on an exhibition of voting machines in the campus election and I would have no objections to same. But from the viewpoint of the person charged with the responsibility of supervising the operation and conduct of the election it would be much better and easier to have only three machines over two days than to have 10 machines over one day in operation and then stored and kept in good order . . .

Mr. Anderson, the assistant sales manager of the Automatic Voting Machine Co. at Jamestown, N. Y., informed me in a long distant telephone call in April, 1949 that they would be only too glad to send 10 voting machines plus a crew of men to instruct everyone on the campus interested in using the machines for voting in a campus election.

It would be the same kind of deal as they did in 1936—free of cost or obligation—when they brought 10 voting machines on the campus for our Fall Quarter elections which resulted in "the cleanest election in campus history," according to the LANTERN's story of the experiment . . .

Since 1948 many Ohio communities have installed voting machines as the answer to lower election costs and prevention of election frauds. The Ohio State Journal carried an article on Saturday, Oct. 21, page six, stating that the Franklin County Board of Elections has asked the Automatic Voting Machine Co. to install 30 voting machines as an experiment in 1951.

I mention this because if the Student Senate acts now they will find the company doubly enthusiastic about educating people here on the campus on how to use voting machines while next year they will be too busy over the county to bother with same.

Seeks New Missionaries

"We are not merely interested in aiding people materially but also spiritually. That is where we have the edge on Communism," Dr. I. M. Moomaw, former resident of India and holder of the British Empire Service Medal stated this week.

Dr. Moomaw, education secretary for Agriculture Missions, was here to interview students for foreign mission work.

Dr. Moomaw stated that the undeveloped nations are of vital importance today. Aside from aiding the citizens themselves, we are preserving our way of life, he said.

He emphasized however, that the work does not mean changing other peoples to our ways. It is working out their problems with them. Aid consists in part of improved seed, better livestock, insect control, and the important development of co-operatives. On a trial plot in India, Dr. Moomaw obtained an 84 per cent increase in cotton and grain sorgum yield.

Those with whom Dr. Moomaw has worked are "most appreciative of missionary aid," he said. Their appreciation is shown by the British Empire Service Medal, awarded him by the people of India.

The fields of service are primarily agriculture, home economics, and rural church work. Men and women are badly needed to fill positions in Latin-America, India, Japan, the Philippines, and Africa.

The qualifications for the positions are first good scholastic ability, preferably the upper 20 per cent. Good health, personality, and social aptitude are important. Finally the applicant should have a definite religious philosophy.

His permanent address is: Dr. I. M. Moomaw, Agriculture Missions, 156 Fifth Ave., New York City.

Defense Priorities May Cut Into Civilian Goods

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 — (AP) — Except for these things—income tax, buying a home, buying goods on installments—you probably haven't felt the touch of the defense program.

That is, if you're not a businessman. The government has cracked down on some business fields. But, all in all, what the government has done so far in its defense work is fairly mild compared with what may lie ahead.

Since this defense program may last a long time, the government has three main problems on its hands:

1. It has to see that certain materials needed for armaments go into armaments, even though civilians do with less of their usual goods.
2. With everyone working, money plentiful and some goods, which the money would buy, getting scarcer, the government has to move against inflation.
3. At the same time, because a big armament program is expensive, the government has to find the money to pay at least some of the cost.

What follows are the steps taken by the government so far to handle all three of those problems:

1. Income and corporation taxes were raised, starting Oct. 1. This will help pay defense costs and, taking some of the spending money out of people's hands, hold down inflation a bit.
2. Buying one or two-family homes has been made tougher because now you have to put down a larger first payment and pay up faster. This is intended to curb some of the spending urge, too, while channeling needed building materials into defense.
3. Buying things like cars and household appliances has been made a little tougher; larger down payment, pay-ups faster. Here again the purpose was to cut down on spending.

All the rest of the points listed here were steps taken to be sure certain materials were available for military needs.

4. Rubber manufacturers will have to use less pure rubber, more synthetic. This will save the natural rubber supply.

5. Manufacturers must reduce their on-hand supply—called inventory—of 32 materials essential for defense.

6. Manufacturers have been told to give right of way—priority—to orders from the Defense Department or the Atomic Energy Commission which makes bombs.

Meanwhile, other controls can be expected in the business field since representatives of various industries are being called in here every day to talk over problems which affect their business and the defense program.

Alpha Chi Omega and Alpha Gamma Delta will honor new housemothers with teas Sunday afternoon at the chapter houses.

All fraternity and sorority presidents and head residents, alumnae, and certain University officials have been invited.

The AChiO tea from 3 to 5 will introduce Mrs. J. Henry Kaughman to the campus, and the Alpha Gammas will honor Mrs. Dorothy W. Morrow from 3 to 4:30 p. m.

Mrs. Kaughman was born and educated in Columbus, but has lived in Columbia, S. C. for the past 35 years. Although she has never been a housemother before, she attended the head resident training school at Purdue University last Summer.

She has two children, a son who is a captain in the Army, and a daughter living in Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Morrow decided to become a housemother at the wish of her son and daughter, both of whom were married this Summer.

Although this is her first experience as a housemother, she has taught at the Leslie Ellis School in Cambridge, Mass., was resident director with the YWCA at Roanoke, Va., and was a hostess at a resort hotel one season.

She is a native of Indianapolis.

Sororities Hold Slumber Parties

The floor of the Alpha Chi Omega and Alpha Phi living rooms will be a sea of sleeping bodies this week end.

Alpha Phi's will be Saturday night, and the AChiO snooze session will be Friday. They will begin at 1 a. m.

Goblins, Ghosts Hop On Merry-Go-Rounds As Fraternities, Sororities Go Halloweening

By Lela Gae Beren

The arrival of the eerie night for witches, black cats, and leering jack o' lanterns will be heralded this week end by almost everybody, for Halloween parties sure will be predominating!

Tonight will find the Alpha Gamma Rhos and their dates in costumes, drinking cider and eating doughnuts around a big bonfire, while the Alpha Zetas dunk for apples at their costume party. Phi Delta Chis and Sigma Alpha Mus will have their houses decorated with all the trimmings too, and Phi Mu Deltas will be entertaining and feeding their costumed guests, also as befits the season.

Phi Kappa Sigs claim they will be serving the original witches' brew at their celebration, and will award a trophy to the best-dressed couple of the evening. Jug Durea and Wally Bollinger will entertain at the Triangle party.

Theta Xis and their dates will be entering via the cellar window, with jack o' lanterns as admission fares. In the meantime, the Phi Mus will lure their dates through the jaws of a black cat, with the promise that one of the girls will do a skeleton dance later in the evening.

Sigma Pi's will be entertaining with a sport dance at Edgewater Park, the Theta Upsilon pledge class will treat actives to a scavenger hunt party, and the Tower Club will treat the girls to a wiener roast on the dike Friday night.

Oak Park will be occupied by the Chi Phis' square dance, while Delta Theta Sigma will be square dancing at home, with an elected "Duchess" to reign. The Delta Sigma Deltas will also be dancing at home.

Phi Sigma Delta will be sponsoring its annual "Circus" affair this evening, with live animals decorating the house, and everybody in circus costumes! The men of Phi Sigma Kappa, however, will be dressed in the rags and flour sacks of the poor at their "Poverty Party," which celebrates the fact that everyone is broke!

Theta Chis will be heading for the Chrysler Farm, and the Sigma Chis to Wrightman's Farm for hayrides. Civitas and Pleiades will adjourn to Rollerland for an evening on skates.

For those who won't be attending the Delta Tau Delta all-Greek Ball, and lots of the parties are breaking up early in order to attend, Saturday night also will be a very busy night.

In celebration again of All-Hallow's Eve will be a hard-time dance, at a "no-electricity" Summer cabin, by the Alpha Phi Deltas, who are hunting for a victrola cranker, and costume parties with prizes, food, and ghostly entertainment at the Alpha Psi, Alpha Sigma Phi, Omega Tau Sigma, Tau Epsilon

Phi, Alpha Kappa Kappa and Alpha Rho Chi houses.

The Phi Epsilon Pi's will have a scavenger hunt with their festivities, and the Phi Kappa Taus promise a three-ring circus of tricks during the evening!

Spotting The Spatz Shop . . .

With Shirley McQuown

Here's news for fashion-wise buyers! Raissa Masket, who designs for Masket Brothers, is offering her sportswear to Ohio State women. The Spatz Shop, at 1978 N. High St., now carries the Masket label on several of their separates.

After reading about Miss Masket in the Fall fashion magazines, and seeing her innovations in sportswear, we agree with those editors who assure us that she has gained the goal for a designer—fashion acceptance.

The one that first attracted us was a black velvet jumper which doubles in brass simply by the addition or omission of a blouse. It has a high, open neckline, emphasized with almost-inch-deep braid binding. The bodice does not appear to be sleeveless, because the shoulder line is broadly extended. The skirt is straight and slim, and designed to accent a good posture.

Just as we were moving to the Masket skirts, Carole Basinger, H-Ec-3, came in for a fitting of the jumper. She was having a portrait sitting next door, and the picture will be in the shop window this coming week. For the picture Carole selected a white-on-white companion blouse, and it was definitely a good choice.

While Carole was dressing we had a chance to see the skirts Miss Masket offers. One, in Cambridge grey, has six pretend-pockets, (three down either side.) Slim in cut, the skirt has as its focal point these braid-bound pockets. The color, Cambridge grey, by the way takes to bright colors like metal to a magnet.

We hope you'll try to see the Masket-label clothes this week and decide for yourself. Meet you here next Friday. Same spot!—Advertisement.

Shot For Shot, Women Get Army Sgt's. Top Acclaim

An army sergeant trusted with instruction of University rifle teams thinks women students are more adept on the firing range—at least at first.

Sgt. Leon Kapeghian, who has tutored campus rifle squads for years, said today that women pick up instruction more quickly than men.

"Right now marksmanship of women doesn't compare with that of males, but the girls are improving rapidly," Kapeghian declared.

Recently women students, some 25 strong, organized their own club which meets on the ROTC range at 7 p. m. Tuesday, with Sgt. Kapeghian as instructor.

Membership in the organization is open to all women students although members are required to pay a small social fee. Ammunition costs are paid by the women's division of the physical education department.

Margaret E. Blunt, of the physical education department, serves as faculty advisor for the group.

She already has arranged postal matches with other universities throughout the nation. No definite team fires for each match as girls posting highest scores during practice sessions comprise the match squad.

Officers of the club are Marian Shebanek, Ed-3, president, and Marilyn Smith, Ed-3, secretary-treasurer.

Only Results Combat Reds, Speaker Says

Civilian products and markets are "bound to contract" as materials become scarcer and as purchasing power is siphoned off to higher taxes and savings.

This forecast was issued Thursday night by Gen. Robert J. Smith, Washington, D. C., vice-chairman of the National Security Resources Board, who addressed Ohio State's Conference of Sales Managers at the Neil House.

"To business management, including sales management, industrial mobilization will no doubt essentially be summarized in the slogan, 'Exhaustion Is Not Enough,'" General Smith said.

"But the point behind that slogan is that there is a new competitor on the market—more formidable than any other—a competitor who wants your life as well as your business.

"To anyone who truly grasps the nature of the Soviet business, exhaustion cannot be enough," he declared. "Only results are enough."

General Smith, who is principal assistant to Mobilization Chief W. Stuart Symington, said that "this nation has to expand its physical plant; contract its surplus inventory; hold down its prices; ration its manpower and its womanpower . . . ; up its taxes and down its luxuries."

There is an "understandable reluctance," he said, on the part of business management to undertake plant expansion unless markets can be sustained beyond the war emergency.

"This is no reflection on business patriotism," General Smith said, but is "normal common sense."

"Unfortunately, Soviet imperialism is not normal common sense," he added, and this nation therefore needs expansion in steel, aluminum, and electric power, thousands of new freight cars, and additional operating mines to facilitate defense plant expansion.

On the subject of taxes, General Smith declared that "we are not yet by any means on the pay-as-you-go basis we will have to be before this is over."

The "number one" objective of United States foreign policy today, he said, is the creation of "situations of strength around the world so that the forces of aggression will be deterred in the first instance and overcome if not deterred."

Domestically, he said, this country's objectives include an adequate military defense, maintenance of an expanding economy, control of inflation, a higher standard of living, and maintenance of individual liberty.

Queen Skits Are Limited

make a definite improvement over past May Weeks.

One of the major changes advocated was having the May Dance at the beginning of the week, giving the queen a chance to reign throughout the entire week.

Following is a suggested May Week schedule, tentative at present.

May 2—elections; May 4—May Week begins with float parade, rally; May 5—fraternity, sorority, and dormitory open houses. All sport contests; and May 6—Religious panorama and May Picnic.

May 7—Freshman-sophomore day, initiation of Mirrors, Romophos, Links, and Coffee Bags; May 8—Junior day, Chimes, Bucket and Dipper; May 9—Senior day, Mortar Board, Sphinx; and May 11—May Week closer dance.

The Religious Panorama (Sunday, May 6) would give the week its first serious note in some years. The recommendation suggested University groups, such as the Symphonic choir and band, compete. It was also suggested that guest artists be invited and the program be broadcast, giving favorable publicity to the University.

The proposed plan has been set up with the strong recommendation that all plans be completed by the end of the Winter Quarter

Jazz Forum Makes Return

The Jazz Forum will open its fourth season at 8 p. m. Wednesday in University Hall chapel.

Among program features will be a "Gentleman of Jazz," spotlighting Al Sillman and his tenor saxophone. Sillman, a veteran performer, recently returned from New York where he studied under Stan Getz, Jazz Musician of 1950.

Getz is originator of jazz now used very successfully by George Shearing.

A blues combo featuring vocalist Tolula Finney and headed by Jim Bushman on the tenor sax will be played for benefit of Dizzy Gillespie fans.

A bop combo will feature Jim Carlini on the tenor sax.

At each concert, the forum will present an outstanding campus musician in a solo spot.

The Forum's 17-piece jazz band, known as the Hedonaires, is headed by saxophonist Bart Deming.

The first 200 freshmen to appear with fee cards and identification will be admitted free.

Snow Enters Korean War

SEOUL, Oct. 27—(AP)—Thinly clad Allied troops trudged over snow and tortuous summits tonight toward Manchuria's Communist frontier.

The forward troop movement was from the Korean west coast across the spiny peninsula to the Sea of Japan.

The shivering troops braves wintry blasts but met few enemy troops near the border.

Behind the forward most troops, however, Red forces put up a fight.

A U. S. 8th Army spokesman here said the South Korean (ROK) First Division had beaten back an attack by a Red force containing "Chinese and North Korean element" 50 miles south of the border.

The battle raged all day around Unsan, directly south of Chosan.

At nightfall a U. S. 8th Army Headquarters spokesman said the South Korean First Division had beaten back the attacking Reds and driven them west of the town.

At Chosan, where the ROK Sixth Division was perched on the banks of the Yalu River opposite Manchuria, not an enemy soldier was visible. The river forms the boundary.

Two battalions of U. S. and ROK Marines were rushed south of Wonsan to stop a marauding band of 4,000 Reds striking from the Diamond Mountains. That is 30 to 40 miles from the big east coast port where U. S. Marines and Infantry and ROK Marines began landing Thursday.

Voting Plan 'Stolen' Zucker Tells Senate

away, Park, Ross, and Reidenbach.

"I heard nothing further about the matter until this Fall," said Zucker, "when it was announced that Dean Fordham, of the College of Law, had devised the college office voting plan. The plan I originally submitted this Summer is, in essence, exactly the same as Dean Fordham's plan."

Zucker's plan called for a two-week registration period before the actual election.

The plan stipulated that a two-week waiting period follow the registration period, in which there would be ample time to compile a master list of all students who had registered for the election. Ballots would then be printed for the exact number of students who had registered.

Faculty Member Gets Fellowship

Prof. Sydney N. Fisher, of the department of history, has been elected a Fellow of the Royal Historical Society of London, England, according to word received in Columbus.

An authority on Turkey and the Near East, Professor Fisher has written a book, "The Foreign Relations of Turkey, 1481-1512."

Prior to joining the history faculty at Ohio State in 1937, Professor Fisher taught at Robert College in Istanbul, Turkey, for four years and traveled widely throughout that country and the Near East.

During World War II he served in Washington with the Department of State, being responsible for the economic relations between this country and the Republic of Turkey.
