Ohio GOP Bid To Go To Nixon

By the (P)

Ohio Republicans yesterday asked an obviously willing Richard M. Nixon to seek the GOP presidential nomination this year.

State Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss avoided answering the point-blank question from newsmen: "Is Nixon an avowed candidate?"

THE OFFICIAL Ohio GOP move to get Nixon's name on the May primary ballot as a presidential candidate came during the first meeting of the Ohio Republican state central and executive committee since last June.

Bliss will carry the Ohio GOP's request to Nixon personally today.

The Ohio chairman said he hopes to get Nixon's consent today, but he didn't sound too certain.

The committee voted to make Republican State Auditor James A. Rhodes the presidential second choice on the ballot with Nixon.

BLISS WAS almost as noncommittal on his own plans for the coming campaign as he was on Nixon's. He conceded, by implication, that Washington Republican circles still are urging him to take a top spot on the 1960 national campaign but he asserted:

"At this time I have no intention of leaving Ohio. I am willing to be as helpful in the national picture as my time will allow."

Bliss said the delegation itself would decide who would lead it to the Republican convention in Chicago this summer.

A SELLOUT

Ticket director George Staten announced yesterday that all tickets for the Indiana game have been sold. This includes the allotment to students and faculty as well as the general public.

Political Feudin' And Fussin' Party Tactics Questioned

Fourteen Indegreek members discussed last night the effects of their party campaign letter and future tactics.

Indegreek committeeman Bill Brown distributed about 2,500 propaganda sheets in dormitory mailboxes Monday night. The sheets charged that the Buckeye Political Party is "misleading the student body."

SINCE THEN BPP president, Jim Pappas, has denied the charge.

Indegreek president Jim Turner said that Pappas was not correct in claiming the sheet was written in "poor taste."

Other members said that the sheet would neither attract Indegreek support nor turn it away. They said that the propaganda was published to keep party interest alive.

PARTY SECRETARY Mary Boggs said that she "hates to see Indegreek starting its campaign by slamming the other party. This letter came close to that. Such procedure can only create skepticism of our party and may strengthen the opposition."

RUSHING RUSHEES—Sorority rushees leave Pomerene Hall following a question and answer session with their student advisors after a general meeting in Merston. Questions ranged from "Are bobby sox acceptable for rushing parties?" (Yes), to "When do we study with all these parties to go to?" (No answer).

Sorority Hopefuls Are Told About 1960 Rushing Program

By Susan Moss

Merston Auditorium was filled with over 800 sorority rushees last night as the Women's Panhellenic Association officially opened the rushing program for 1960.

Marica Thone, president of Panhellenic, gave the opening speech and introduced the officers of the organization.

DEAN OF WOMEN Christine Y. Conaway spoke to the women about rushing and sorority life at Ohio State. The reason for deferred rushing, she said, "is to give the students a chance to become adjusted to University life and get a good start academically."

She also noted that since this plan was adopted three years ago, about 85 per cent of the girls that rushed were able to make grades to become active sorority members.

"The sorority members are just as anxious to meet you as you are to meet them," she said, and as a last word of advice her recommendation was to "be yourself."

A FASHION show was presented by the rushing counselors so that the rushees could have a good idea of what to wear to each of the parties.

Jane Tener, chairman of the rushing counselors, narrated the show.

For the Casual Capers party the rushees should wear sweaters and skirts, shoes and sox. Wool dresses, heels and hose, are in order for the Sunday tea and for the Sneak Previews slacks, skirts or Bermuda shorts will be perfect. The final or Traditional parties require cocktail dresses and heels.

The rushing counselors sang the Panhellenic good-bye song and the meeting was concluded by a speech from Miss McCormick, assistant dean of women. She summarized the sentiments of all the sorority women when she said, "good luck and have fun."

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — (UPI) — A gleaming Atlas ushered in a new year of American missile testing last night with a thunderous intercontinental flight over the Atlantic, headed toward Ascension Island, the target area.

The 85-foot rocket, carrying a new style nose cone, rose from its pad on a column of smoke and fire at about 8:41 p.m. This marked what probably will be the busiest year in history for the nation's No. 1 space port.

Some of the heaviest snows in a decade hit the South yesterday. A snowstorm marched from the southern plains to the Atlantic coast, leaving at least 19 persons dead, icy roads, and snarled communications.

Housing Issue Ready For Faculty Council

The Council on Student Affairs, in a four-hour meeting last night, went over in detail, material that will be presented to the Faculty Council on the off-campus housing issue.

The Faculty Council will meet next Tuesday to discuss the issue being forwarded by CSA at the request of Student Senate.

Senate had asked CSA to give the faculty group a Senate-passed resolution opposing the University's registering of any off-campus rooming house in which the landlord practices racial or religious discrimination in renting rooms.

The Faculty Council will receive, reported Dean William S. Guthrie, a transmittal letter from him, one from Senate President Kay Wagner and two supporting letters.

Also, if prepared in time for the faculty meeting, Senate will forward a six-page document on "Off-Campus Housing Resolution, Why?" Miss Wagner presented the report to CSA, and members said it was not ready to be forwarded in present form.

A special committee, Deans Mylin H. Ross and Christine Y. Conaway, Prof. Arthur Cullman and Miss Wagner, was appointed to prepare a final draft. If this is not ready for the Tuesday faculty meeting, it will be forwarded for a later meeting.

CSA CHAIRMAN Guthrie said his letter was sent to all 80 members of the Faculty Council. He speculated that the faculty group might refer the issue to one of its active committees or give it to another group for study.

The supporting letters are being sent by the Albright-Otterbein Student Fellowship and Delta Sigma Theta sorority. Both groups back the Senate action on the issue since more than 300 members of the teaching staff have backed it.

THE SENATE report, in essence, gives a background of the issue, anticipated results of such a University policy and opinions of householders taken from a Senate survey. The report, prepared by the Human Relations Subcommittee, notes:

"No one expects the declaration of the desired policy by the University to usher in complete acceptance of the principle. Prejudice will not disintegrate overnight. However, we are not so much concerned with attitudes as we are with practices. By altering practices, eventually attitudes will be changed which wouldn't have changed by themselves."

"In terms of principle, no state institution supported by public tax dollars, should condone, sanction or aid racial and religious discrimination."

IT CONCLUDES that the University (if it does pass a non-registration law) "would not be infringing on the rights of the landlords. The landlords have the right to rent to whomever they wish. However, they do not have a right to University registration; that is a privilege which is granted (Continued on page 7)

Jim Thurber To Dedicate Denney Hall

Jim Thurber, called by many "Ohio State's most famous alumnus," will be the principal speaker at the dedication of Denney Hall on April 1, Dean J. Osborn Fuller of the College of Arts and Sciences announced yesterday.

The dedication will begin at 2 p.m. and will be held in the student entrance lobby of the new building on 17th Ave. The short ceremony will be followed by a reception and an open house.

The five-story building is named in memory of Joseph Villiers Denney, a former dean of the College of Arts and Sciences for 20 years. He was also a professor in the English department.

Thurber, in town for the premiere of "A Thurber Carnival" tonight at the Hartman Theater, said that Professor Denney was one of his favorite professors. He has written about the former dean in some of his works.

Thurber was a news editor of the LANTERN in 1917. He also worked on the Columbus Dispatch before joining the staff of The New Yorker magazine.

Anti-Bias Group Plans Drive

By Vern Frame

Senate's subcommittee on human relations yesterday went to work to put more support behind the Senate-sponsored bill to eliminate racial and religious discrimination in off-campus housing.

The subcommittee originated the bill which asks the administration to take University registration away from off-campus landlords who discriminate in renting rooms. The bill was sent to Dean Guthrie's office of student relations and the faculty council.

NORM CLARY, chairman of the commission's housing division, said that he plans to send about 60 students into the housing district within two weeks to talk with the landlords.

Clary said that the students will travel in pairs to cover the 417 University-registered houses. Each pair is to cover five houses a week.

Clary said that the 30 teams will report the landlord's reasons for discriminating or not discriminating in renting rooms.

CLARY SAID that he will enlist the support of the 15 fraternity presidents who signed a petition last quarter to help with the polling. The Ohio State Commons Club and another service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, have pledged their support.

The subcommittee chairman, Niki Schwartz, expressed hope that the commission will finish the job as soon as possible.

Clary will organize the pollers at a housing division meeting in the Ohio Union next Wednesday.

Question Of Policies

One of the time-honored practices of politics and public life in general is to gloss over things.

Ugly things get covered up by nice labels; long phrases come in handy for hiding the fact that nothing has been done and is likely to be done; and statements like "complete consideration of all the alternatives involved is necessary before making a decision" hide the fact that the speaker is reluctant to make up his mind.

There may have been a time when this sort of thing was "practical" in the long run as well as just between elections. Some issues do tend to fade away if nothing is done about them for a long enough period of time.

But this does not apply to cases where the problem concerns fundamental values—the things you live by. In such cases, dawdling can lead only to the loss of these values.

If an individual believes in the sort of values that were taught a few generations ago—honor above all, keeping one's self-respect by fulfilling all promises (and damn the consequences)—he may be completely lost after a few years of compromising with "reality."

On the other hand, the person who believes in expediency above all, in looking out for number one, also may become bewildered through following one line of action and then attempting to justify it on principles which derive from another.

The same, of course, applies to groups of individuals, right up to the national level. On that level, too, we have been talking the language of previous generations while apparently trying to live according to the rules of life as it seems to be.

As a result, here, too, there have been wavering and confusion. This is especially noticeable in foreign affairs. When one does not know what path he wants to follow, he hesitates, then at last steps out blindly only when there is no choice left. He is not a captain of his fate but a pawn of circumstances.

In national life, we have tried to cover up a woeful indecision with a lot of words about the difficulties of decision. On the one hand we talk earnestly and hopefully of world peace. On the other hand, we prepare for war.

Perhaps nationally as well as individually we ought to be frank with ourselves; perhaps we ought to redefine the principles on which we are willing to stand or fall. We may never find out what "a world of peace and happiness" is like, or even whether it is possible unless we seek to bring it about through re-established, or newly established, principles.

If we believe that Soviet imperialism is the peril to us and our way of life that we say on the one hand it is, then we should deal with this peril on the basis of stated principles that would dictate foreign policy. If we believe, as we say on the other hand, that Soviet imperialism can be lived with in peace, if not in total harmony, again principles should be the pattern for our line of action.

President Eisenhower's decision to resume nuclear testing seems to be a step in a definite direction. It is to be hoped that in the 1960's such steps will be the result of a definite policy based upon firm principles.

Ike Returns To Open Congress

By Merriman Smith,
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — (UPI)

President Eisenhower yesterday joined in prayers for the returning Congress and then met with his cabinet to review the legislative proposals he will place before the lawmakers today.

Accompanied by cabinet members and Congressional leaders, the President attended a special communion service at the National Presbyterian Church to mark the opening of the second session of the 86th Congress.

SPEAKING informally afterward, Eisenhower said this nation should boast of its religious values as much as the Russians brag about their Sputniks and space exploits.

The two-hour cabinet meeting which followed featured a report by Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell on their roles in the settlement of the marathon steel strike.

But most of the session dealt with the state of the union message the President will deliver personally today to a joint session of the House and Senate. His speech is expected to require from 45 minutes to an hour.

THE MESSAGE, which has gone through more than a dozen preliminary drafts, was subjected to more than the usual amount of revision because of the steel strike and the President's 11-nation good will tour.

The unexpected settlement of the steel dispute forced some last minute changes in the language devoted to labor.

The cabinet officers joined in a general discussion of the message, but White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty indicated no material changes were suggested.

THE PRESIDENT, just back from a golfing vacation at Augusta, Ga., was joined at the church service by Nixon and a large Congressional delegation headed by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) The President's remarks about religion afterwards were prompted by his examination of the architect's plans for a new building to house the National Presbyterian Church, where Eisenhower regularly worships.

The President commented that exponents of atheistic communism frequently boast about their accomplishments, including their successful ventures into outer space.

"THIS IS spectacular, but we also should be willing and anxious to exploit our own philosophy—that man is a creature of God and dignity," he said. "We should not forget our spiritual strengths and should not get too hysterical about materialistic accomplishments."

Dr. Arthur L. Miller, moderator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, presided over the 45-minute service, which was co-sponsored by the Washington area Council of Churches.

Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, the President's pastor, delivered a special prayer for divine guidance for the nation and its leaders.

Taylor Urges A Revisal Of U.S. Strategy

NEW YORK. — (UPI)—Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, former Army chief of staff, warned yesterday that the United States must quickly revise its military strategy to avoid "a most dangerous period of military inferiority" to the Soviet Union starting about 1961.

THE RETIRED general said in an interview that the placing of major reliance on massive destruction for our national security and that of our allies "has lost all justification in view of the Soviet progress in atomic weapons and long-range missiles."

"Such a policy has reached a dead end," Taylor said. "It needs to be overhauled completely in the light of such present and future realities as the missile gap and our lack of missile defense."

Declaring that "we can't wait—the time for action is now"—Taylor said there are "quick fixes" which should be carried out at once.

THESE "FIXES," he explained, include such measures as improving our readiness for limited war which he described as "clearly the most probable military threat we face."

He suggested using the mobile Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile to help fill the missile gap, increasing the dispersion of Strategic Air Command to reduce its vulnerability to surprise attack and initiating a simple fall-out protection program for America's civil population.

Taylor's declarations came in comment on his new book, "The Uncertain Trumpet," which appeared just in time to set off expected discussion during the session of congress which opened yesterday.

Maloon Predicts Sales Tax Raise

By the Associated Press

State Finance Director James H. Maloon said yesterday that any inflation resulting from the steel strike would increase the cost of state government, thus forcing increased spending budgets.

HE SAID that general fund revenues stood nearly five million dollars below estimates at the end of November because some taxes yielded less than expected, despite an over-all gain in sales taxes.

Maloon, predicting a further increase in sales taxes following the strike settlement, warned: "The steel strike settlement and the apparently vitality of demand does raise the specter of possible additional inflation..."

"IN THIS connection, the budget for the present biennium has been determined and it will be held within the limits prescribed by the legislature."

The current state budget covers the two-year bookkeeping period that started last July 1.

Opening Day Of Congress Is A Bit Drab

WASHINGTON. — (AP) — The opening of Congress yesterday lacked some of the glitter of the usual first day.

Only a few corsages brightened the dress of the 17 Congresswomen.

THE VISITORS' galleries were less distinguished than usual. They'll probably draw the high level spectators for the President's state of the union message today.

Among the presidential hopefuls, only Mrs. Hubert Humphrey, wife of the Minnesota Democrat — and Mrs. Lyndon Johnson — wife of the Senate Democratic leader — turned up to watch their husbands perform on the floor for the brief Senate session.

And Humphrey's elderly mother was there from Huron, S. D.

THERE WAS a sad note in the background—the death today of 33-year-old Mrs. Jean Crouch Thurmond, wife of Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.). From the gallery, she often had watched the Senate in action.

The 25-minute Senate session was almost over when Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), the only woman in the Senate, rushed in late from a meeting of the Maine Congressional Delegation.

She's up for re-election this year and talks with Maine colleagues can be important.

Tall, white-haired Mrs. Smith didn't forget to wear a red rose, her usual trademark.

AND THE dean of the Congresswomen, who almost daily sports an orchid, 78-year-old Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers (D-Mass), was in the front row of the House as usual.

A prediction in just about everyone's mind on Capitol Hill today—"It's going to be some year!"—was voiced by Mrs. Estes Kefauver, wife of the Democratic Senator from Tennessee, as she left the Senate gallery.

But today, handshaking and happy new year greetings were about the biggest item of business.

GOOD NEWS

WASHINGTON. — (UPI) — The government has come up with an extra $266,000,000 in unexpected revenues which may be enough to keep the 1960 Federal budget in the black, it was announced yesterday.

The extra revenue, from the Federal Reserve System, plus an early loan repayment of $250,000,000 by Great Britain in October, may more than offset tax losses caused by the long steel strike, officials said.

November Retail Sales Fail To Maintain Trend

November sales of Ohio retailers failed to maintain a rising trend and dropped 11 per cent below October levels, according to the "Ohio Retail Annalist," published by the Bureau of Business Research at Ohio State.

November retail sales rose only two per cent above year-ago November levels. However, for the first 11 months of 1959, sales volume averaged nine per cent higher than the corresponding period of 1958.

BECAUSE OF the steel strike and ensuing new model car shortages, sales of motor vehicle dealers failed to rise above 1958 levels for the first time since January, 1958. In contrast to previous months' increases ranging from 30 to 58 per cent, November vehicle dealers' sales dropped six per cent below the previous November sales levels.

Significant November-to-November increases were achieved by jewelry stores, up 17 per cent; department stores, up 13 per cent; and men's clothing-furnishings stores and filling stations, both up 12 per cent.

Largest sales volume decline for this same period was experienced by heating and plumbing equipment dealers, whose sales dropped 19 per cent.

For the first 11 months of the year, all but four of the 25 businesses listed achieved sales increases. A sales drop was shown by grocery stores, down two per cent;

House Burns; Men Debate

MINEOLA, N. Y. — (UPI) — A widow whose home burned down while two fire companies argued over who had the right to put out the blaze has no right to sue them, a judge ruled yesterday.

MRS. AGNES MATLOCK, mother of five children had filed a $12,000 damage suit against the fire departments of New Hyde Park and Garden City.

The suit charged that her house in New Hyde Park caught fire Feb. 22, 1958 and she sent her children to summon the fire department. Fire equipment from New Hyde Park arrived first, the suit charged, then the Garden City department arrived and said the fire was in their jurisdiction.

While they argued, the suit charged, the house burned down. By the time jurisdiction was decided and the Garden City firemen went into action it was too late, Mrs. Matlock charged in her suit.

SUPREME COURT Justice Fred J. Munder ruled today that Mrs. Matlock could not sue because there is no law requiring a municipality to provide fire protection and none holding it responsible where fire protection fails.

Mrs. Matlock's attorney, Martin Baron said he would appeal the ruling.

Music Club Plans Jan. Dinner Party

Food, talk and music will be the fare at the Musical Supper Party to be given by the Women's Music Club on Jan. 17, at the Athletic Club.

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. following which Dr. Thor Johnson, musician, conductor and teacher, will speak on "Is Music an International Language?" Also violin virtuoso, Sidney Harth, will present a program. Harth, concertmaster of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, won the Naumberg Award in 1948 and second prize in the Wieniawski violin competition in Warsaw, Poland, in 1957, the highest prize in the latter competition ever won by an American.

women's ready-to-wear, down fractionally; miscellaneous apparel shops, down five per cent; and heating and plumbing, down five per cent.

DESPITE A November volume decline, the most significant sales increase over the 11 months was shown by motor vehicle dealers, up 35 per cent.

In the eight major Ohio cities, sales volume rose above November, 1958, levels in all but the steel-producing areas of Canton and Youngstown, where one per cent declines were experienced.

Toledo achieved the largest November-to-November increase as sales rose nine per cent above year-ago November sales levels. The greatest increase for the 11 months of 1959 as compared with the same period in 1958 was achieved by Dayton, up 17 per cent.

Ben's Money Won't Move For 31 Years

BOSTON—(UPI)—The state supreme court ruled today that "one thousand pounds sterling" left to the city of Boston by thrifty Ben Franklin in 1791 must remain untouched for another 31 years although it has grown through interest to $1,500,000.

Franklin who died in 1790, stipulated in a codicil to his will that the money be left to his native Boston to accumulate for 200 years. Since the will was probated in 1791, the fund matures in 1991.

THE HIGH COURT ruled on a bill adopted by the state legislature in 1958. The bill asked that the money from the fund be used now for expansion and other needs of the Franklin Technical Institute, which was built in 1906 under terms of the codicil. Franklin stated in the codicil that part of the fund could be used for "some public work" after the first 100 years.

Another stipulation by founding father Franklin was that small loans could be made from the fund to "young married artificers," but the last such loan (to tradesmen) was made in 1886.

Franklin made a duplicate gift to the city of Philadelphia in the codicil.

THE MASSACHUSETTS supreme court said that "We observe in the codicil an intent to provide substantial gifts to future generations in two cities. We shall not defeat that intent by destroying the trust now as to the commonwealth and the city of Boston." The state was to share equally in final disposition of the will.

"No useful purpose would be served by analysis of the cases cited by the plaintiff," said Chief Justice Raymond S. Wilkins in writing the court's decision. "Franklin's will is unique."

Authorities estimated that Franklin's original "one thousand pounds sterling" will be worth $3,500,000 by 1991.

Ohio Traffic Courts Hold Conference

Ohio's traffic court will undergo an early new year evaluation at the Ohio Traffic Court Conference at Western Reserve University's School of Law in Cleveland, Jan. 13, 14 and 15.

PRESENTED BY the Ohio State Bar Association, Western Reserve University School of Law and the Ohio Department of Highway Safety, the conference is the first follow-up meeting to the Ohio Law and the Layman Conference which studied the same problem in broader scope in Columbus.

Also cooperating in this traffic court conference are the American Bar Association and the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University.

DELEGATES WILL study traffic court procedures, accident-arrest policy, drunk driving cases, the uniform traffic ticket, traffic enforcement, driver improvement schools, and needed legislation.

Delegates will receive certificates and a reference text book, "Know the Law" by Robert L. Donigan and Judge Edward C. Fisher of the Northwestern University Traffic Institute. Judge Fisher himself will present two of the conference subjects.

Speakers include Mark McElroy, Ohio Attorney General; James P. Economos, director of the American Bar Association's traffic court program; and Ohio Highway Safety Director J. Grant Keys.

MacMillan Flies To Africa; Tries To Win New Friends

LONDON — (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold MacMillan flew to Africa yesterday to try to win new friends for Britain on that rapidly-changing continent.

Rising nationalism and racial tensions on the restless continent gave an air of the unexpected to the trip.

THIS MAY well be the year of destiny for Africa and many Britons regarded MacMillan's journey as the most important he has made in three years and 100,000 miles of globe-trotting.

He will be away for a month in which he will visit:

—Ghana, first independent black nation in the British Commonwealth.

—NIGERIA, which is scheduled to receive independence next October, its 40 million inhabitants making it Africa's most populous nation.

—The Central African Federation of the Rhodesias and Nyasaland, where 300,000 whites are resisting the demands of 7,500,000 native Africans for political equality.

Ohio Museum Opens New Exhibition Hall

Designed to house changing exhibits of arts and crafts materials, a new major exhibit hall will be opened at the Ohio State Museum this Friday.

The hall, which has a 1500 square foot floor area, is immediately south of the rotunda at the High St. entrance.

ERWIN C. ZEPP, director of the Ohio Historical Society, said the public is invited to inspect the new hall and view the exhibits. Museum hours are 9 to 5 daily and 1 to 5 on Sundays.

A collection of rare Lotus Ware, probably the largest ever assembled, will feature the opening. Made in Ohio during the 1890's, Lotus Ware is one of the world's finest ceramic products and in great demand by collectors.

Developed by the Knowles, Taylor and Knowles pottery at East Liverpool, it gained early recognition by taking the gold medal at the Columbia Exposition at Chicago in 1893. It was produced in limited quantity for only a short period of time.

LOTUS WARE recently was in the national limelight when a collection was sold at auction in New York. A bidder at the Parke-Bernet Galleries paid $1,100 for a Lotus Ware ewer, and other items were taken at correspondingly sensational prices.

More than 100 pieces will be seen in the collection at the Museum. They are mainly from a private collection placed in the Museum by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brunner of Dayton.

The exhibit will offer examples of all the known Lotus Ware forms, colors and decorative techniques. Two pieces are believed to be unique, even in a field of rare examples. They are a large vase with a jeweled decoration, made for the president of the pottery firm, and a reclining figure, used as a delicate paper weight.

Fredericks And Crew Leave For Madison

by KEN KOBLITZ

Wearing a grin of anticipation, Coach Casey Fredericks is putting his Buckeye grapplers through their paces in preparation for this Saturday's quadrangular meet at Wisconsin.

The young team is a promising outfit which should improve from week to week as it becomes battle hardened. Sophomore Don Green at 123 pounds looks like a comer, and Dave Camaione, senior captain will be after the Big Ten 130-pound title for which he was runner-up last season.

John Fletcher, normally a 123 pounder, will fill in for the ineligible Bobby Weissberg at 137 and sophomore Mike Barnett looks extremely promising at 147. Al Myers holds down the 157-pound slot with Dave Hull following at 167.

Vince Gonino, a senior, looks ready to end his career in a blaze of glory, and heavyweight Bill Sexton is much improved and will cause plenty of trouble in the Big Ten.

The Bucks leave Thursday night for Wisconsin where, in addition to the Badgers, they will meet Wheaton and the Milwaukee Branch of Wisconsin in the second quadrangular meet of the season. In their first four-way encounter the Bucks ran up 75 points to 56 for O.U., 42 for Miami, and 19 for Baldwin-Wallace.

The following week the Bucks swing into dual meet competition, meeting archrival

Michigan here on Jan. 16, in the Men's Gym.

A lack of transportation caused the Bucks to miss out on some valuable experience over the holidays. Fredericks had planned to meet his squad at Wilkes Barre, Pa. and enter them in the invitational meet there.

The meet draws some of the finest talent in this part of the country, and would have been a good test for some of the young matmen. Unfortunately, due to car breakdowns and no car at all in one case, Bill Sexton was the only varsity grappler to compete in the tourney. He went to the semi-finals before suffering a slight neck injury, and his showing was encouraging.

Graduation, Injury Bug Hurts Bucks

by PHIL ROHR

Some coaches are widely known for their ability to wield the crying towel and continually knock down their team's chances for success. They consistently talk about how bad their team is faring, how injuries and graduation losses are cutting their team to shreds, and that if they win even two games, they will be lucky.

Although Larry Snyder, coach of the indoor track squad, is not quite this pessimistic, even he will admit that the injury bug and graduation losses will hurt his squad this season.

THE MAIN graduation loss is of course, the incomparable Glenn Davis. Davis sparked Snyder's indoor teams for four years, and set a host of records while doing it. Davis could be counted on for anywhere from 15 to 30 points a meet.

Another major loss was sprinter and hurdler Lee Williams. Whenever Davis wasn't gathering points, Williams was. These two were the spark plugs of the record-shattering mile relay team of last season.

Another member of this record-breaking quartet, Ted Storer, captain of last year's squad, also graduated, and his loss, especially in the middle distance events, also will be sorely felt.

THE INJURY BUG, although hitting only one man this season, may prove to be a disastrous one. Bob Riley, the Buckeyes' only hurdler, and a man Snyder figured on for at last 15 points a meet, is out for practically the whole season with a broken ankle.

Snyder said that Riley may be ready by the last weeks of the indoor season, but that he would be entered as a contestant only, and would not be expected to garner many points.

Snyder still holds out a ray of hope for Riley, despite his injury. "As soon as a man is injured, sometimes he gets to be even better," said Snyder.

The Old Stadium Dorm "Ain't What She Used To Be"

Out With The Old . . .

Stadium Dorms Get New Look

The stadium dormitories still look the same on the outside, but on the inside there has been a complete change. Even the name is changed. It's now called the Stadium Scholarship Dormitories. The Tower Club, Ohio Club and the others are things of the past.

The men living there are selected by the Student Financial Aids and Scholarship Office. Freshmen are usually in the upper 10 per cent of their high school classes and upper classmen are in the upper third of their class.

THE MEN DO all their own cleaning, maintenance jobs and most of the kitchen work, including ordering the food. Of course the cooks see that everything is done properly and prepare the main dishes, but the fellows take care of everything else.

The Stadium Scholarship Dormitories are run on a cooperative basis as they were before World War II. The men pay only $360 a year for room and board. Each man is required to work from five to eight hours a week at various jobs such as in the kitchen, cleaning up the place or doing maintenance work.

The 160 men living in the dorm now are divided into seven units. Each unit leader supervises the work in his unit. Basically the program is in the hands of the men with Richard Judd, the head resident serving as advisor and director.

JUDD POINTED out some interesting aspects of living in the dormitory. Since the men are selected there is not much of an adjustment problem. He also pointed out that the residents were treated to a concert every evening when the Ohio State marching band practiced behind the stadium last quarter.

"Some weekends we have as many as 83,000 guests," he claimed. No other dormitory can make this statement. The famous "Huckleberry Hound," of Homecoming Week fame, even lives in the dorm.

Inside the dorm, the old 26-man rooms have been made into modern two-man rooms. When the work is finished, the dorm will house close to 400 men and will be as modern as any on campus, except on the outside.

So don't let the cover of the book fool you. Inside it just isn't the same anymore.

TODAY ON CAMPUS

This Bulletin will be the official medium for all authorized announcements. Faculty and students—especially officials of all organizations—are requested to look to the Bulletin for information. University officials and executives will be guided by the Bulletin in preparing for meetings. In the interest of efficiency and to avoid conflicts, the following announcement is made: No meetings or functions of any sort will be permitted or provided for either on the campus or in the University buildings unless authorized and announced in the Daily Bulletin. The University assumes no responsibility for unauthorized or unannounced meetings. Notices should be at the office of the Executive Dean, Special Services, not later than three days, excluding Saturday and Sunday, before the date of publication. Notices of Monday's Bulletin must be received Wednesday morning.

IMEDE

The Management Development Institute, a Nestle Alimentana Foundation under the patronage of the University of Lausanne in Switzerland, announces its program in business administration for men from 28 to 40 years of age who hold responsible positions in industry, commerce, or banking. Teaching at the Institute, known as IMEDE, emphasizes international and European problems. It corresponds otherwise in its coverage of subject matter to the middle-management programs offered by leading American universities. The faculty of IMEDE is chosen from American universities and makes use of material furnished by the Harvard Business School, as well as cases and technical notes concerned principally with European business problems. Teaching and discussion are in English. Further information may be obtained from the International Students Office, 112 Administration Building, or by writing to: The Secretary General, IMEDE, P.O. Box 306, Lausanne-Gare, Switzerland.

Creole Grants

The Cordell Hull Foundation for International Education has announced that it will award three Creole Foundation Scholarships of $4000 for graduate study in Venezuela in 1960-61. These are available for research and study in the fields of engineering, economics, international studies, sociology, anthropology, public health, forestry, and tropical agriculture. Applicants must be proficient in Spanish and have received an undergraduate degree by June, 1960. Applications must be sent by March 1, 1960, to: Cordell Hull Foundation, 607 Gravier Street, New Orleans, Louisiana.

Million Dollar Gift Of Rose Is Hill-Bound

NEW YORK. — (UPI) — Showman Billy Rose is giving Israel his million-dollar statuary collection for a five-acre garden on a hilltop in the middle of Jerusalem, it was announced.

Disclosure of Rose's gift was made at the annual dinner-concert of the America-Israel-Cultural Foundation. The affair honored movie magnate Spyros P. Skouras.

SAMUEL RUBIN, foundation president, announced that Rose not only has donated his entire 50-piece statuary collection to Israel, but will finance the construction and landscaping of the garden in which they will be displayed.

The collection includes many statues of heroic size. Included are works of Rodin, Maillol, Daumier, Jacques Lipchitz and Sir Jacob Epstein.

The statuary formerly stood in the garden of Rose's Mount Kisco, N. Y., estate. The house was severely damaged by fire a few years ago and the statuary was removed.

"IT IS ONE of the finest privately-owned collections of sculpture in the world," said Karl Katz, curator and director of the National Museum of Israel.

Rose's gift actually is going to the museum, through the cultural foundation. Included in the gift will be the hiring of Isamu Noguchi, Japanese-American sculptor who designed the UNESCO Gardens in Paris. Noguchi will go to Jerusalem next month to supervise construction of the garden overlooking the 1,500-year-old Byzantine monastery in the Valley of the Cross.

A LETTER FROM Israel Premier David Ben-Gurion was read at the dinner. He thanked Rose for his "magnificent gift" and congratulated him for making it.

Rubin, in making the announcement, said the garden would give an impetus to development of the prestige of Jerusalem as an art center.

Good Design Is Reflected At All Prices

CHICAGO — (UPI) — Price had little effect on the good design of furniture at the January International Home Furnishings Market.

In the past, the best designs and highest fashions in furniture were generally concentrated in the costly collections at the merchandise mart. This year, however, the popular-priced collections at the American Furniture Mart also reflected the newest, handsomest trends in home furnishings.

BOTH THE affluent designers represented at the Merchandise Mart and the popular ones at the American Furniture Mart added period touch to contemporary furniture in a mutual striving for warmer designs.

For the luxury market, designer Edward Wormley (for Dunbar) added touches of rosewood and antique brass to modern walnut chests and cabinets. A maker of popular-priced furniture (Kroehler) made similar use of exotic woods.

While Wormley tapered and shaped high-backed chairs and cantilevered the arms of a sofa to make it less straight and architectural, designer Lawrence Peabody (for Richardson-Nemshoff) achieved the same end by curving the top and flaring the arms of his sofas. Peabody used the same regency and empire lines in modern dining chairs with curved and carved-out plywood backs.

IN ADDITION to this blending of contemporary and period design, there was more period furniture, particularly Italian and French provincial, in every price bracket at the market. Early American designs also were popular.

While some of the very costly period furniture included actual reproductions, most moderately-priced period furniture was scaled and interior-engineered for modern homes. Like the contemporary furniture at this market, it was tall, narrow and space-saving for today's smaller homes.

Some of the best space-saving designs made their first appearance in popularly-priced furniture collections. One such collection (by Kroehler) featured wall-hung cabinets, book cases and a desk. All units in the walnut collection were hung on strips of molding called a space wall. Metal knobs on the units fitted into keyholes on the molding and made it possible to move the units to different positions on the wall.

Faculty Program Set For Encore

The Faculty Club's Family Night program scheduled for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the studios of WOSU-TV is proving so popular that a repeat performance has been arranged for next week.

Staff of the Club reported today that reservations for this Friday have been closed because of space limitations at the studios. However, those unable to obtain reservations will be accommodated the following Friday, Jan. 15.

Members of the Club and their families on both nights will either leave the Club at 7:15 p.m. or go directly to the studios, at W. Lane Ave. and North Star Rd., arriving not later than 7:30 p.m.

At the studios the visiting faculty members and their families will be conducted on tours, participate in a demonstration of the new videotape equipment and hear a talk by Richard B. Hull, director of Radio and TV Broadcasting at the University. Refreshments will be served.

History Of 1860 Hits News Again

CHICAGO—(UPI) — Thirty Indians have been slain and the same number injured in a battle with federal troops near Long Valley, Calif. . . . and an Illinois senator named Douglas say he's "all used up."

The details:

A SPOKESMAN for the Heel River Rangers of the U. S. Cavalry said the detachment had been attacked by 90 red men.

Army officials said at least 30 of the Indians were killed and one officer critically wounded.

In Washington, Sen. Stephen A. Douglas (D-Ill.) said he feels "down in the mouth."

"I FEEL ALL used up, as if I'm no longer of any use to my party," Douglas is reported to have said. "And I see no hope of resurrection."

These news items are not precisely fresh. They're exactly 100 years old and grist for the mill of the Century Gazette, a fortnightly 16-page tabloid which makes its debut Saturday.

The Gazette is the brain child of Mrs. Mildred Plumbley, a 35-year-old Morrison, Ill., housewife who wants to make history as exciting as today's newspaper.

ALTHOUGH THE Century Gazette hasn't yet published its first edition, Mrs. Plumbley said, she already has 1,000 orders from all over the country.

"I began kicking the idea around 10 years ago when I was back in my home town of Little Rock," Mrs. Plumbley said.

"My younger sister would not study history. Instead of criticizing her, I recalled that I resented studying it, too, because it was usually presented in such a dull manner," she said.

MRS. PLUMBLEY, who lives with her husband in a 100-year-old mill by a stream, said the Gazette "appeals to people because it is kind of alive."

"Americans in the last few years have started a pace they can't possibly keep up," she said. "They're only concerned with the present and the future—and usually it's the future. They forget entirely about their fascinating past, unless they catch a glimpse of it in a distorted adult TV western."

"But the Gazette is no stuffy masquerade. It's real and printed just the way 1860 news was printed, and if there was ever an interesting time in a vital place it was 1860 in the United States."

MANY OF THE orders for the Gazette are for colleges and universities but "a surprising number have come from the general public," Mrs. Plumbley said.

"We may or may not make money," she said, "but this country needs something to make it look back—and that's the Gazette."

Grades Drop 885 Students

Undergraduate academic dismissals at the close of the Autumn Quarter represented 5.02 per cent of undergraduate enrollment for that period, Registrar Kenneth R. Varner reported yesterday.

A year ago, dismissals for the comparable quarter totaled 4.09 per cent.

Varner said the increase probably is accounted for by the fact that this was the first fall quarter in which the University's new academic standards affected the entire enrollment.

The somewhat higher scholastic requirements were enacted in 1957 but did not affect the University's entire student body until 1959.

With an approximate undergraduate enrollment of 17,643 last quarter, there were 885 academic dismissals. In the corresponding period of 1958, undergraduate enrollment was 17,958 and dismissals, 733.

in return for meeting certain standards."

Dean Guthrie reported that at a Dec. 15 meeting the President's Cabinet decided not to take further action on the issue until the matter was forwarded to the Faculty Council and to other groups for study.

Party's Tactics Are Questioned

The party tried to outline its campaign strategy for the senatorial elections.

President Turner said that the party should make an appeal to dormitories and small fraternities and sororities to support members who are running for office.

"We should point out that even though many of them are not interested in student government," said Turner, "there are people in these areas depending upon them for support. The disinterested people should back those who have an interest."

POINT HOUR IS 2.45

Bob Chaffin cannot run for the Student Senate presidency because his Autumn Quarter point hour was a 2.0 and this caused his accumulative point hour ratio to drop to a 2.45. Candidates for Senate presidency must have an accumulative 2.5. The LANTERN yesterday incorrectly printed that Chaffin had an accumulative point hour ratio of 2.0. He will remain as personnel director of the Senate.
