Towing appeals to remain

Brunson, director of traffic and parking. Brunson had asked Havercamp for legal advice on whether the Division of Traffic and Parking could unilaterally terminate the appeals process without going through proper channels.

going through proper channels. The current policy allows students, staff and faculty to appeal a towing violation with a letter, or in person. He proposed the policy change because he feels students who are legally towed are in the wrong and the university does not arbitrarily tow cars, Brunson said.

"Our illegal tows are nil to nothing. I can't remember it ever happening," Brunson said.

safety. If Chismon endorses the proposal, it would then be passed to the office of Business and Administration, the OSU Board of Trustees and the State Board of Trustees, for final approval. "Delicities will not be implemented

Students overlook insurance

BEIRUT, Lebanon - Prime Minister Rashid Karami was assassinated Monday when a bomb exploded in an attache case under his seat on a military helicopter.

The helicopter was halfway between Karami's summer residence in Bqaa Sefrine and Beirut, 60 miles to the south.

Injured in the explosion was Interior Minister Abdulla Rassi and three of the other 12 aides and crewmen on the aircraft. Military sources initially said Rassi was critically wounded, but doctors said later he was treated for superficial cuts.

Sources at the army command said the blast was a "premeditated assassination by a time bomb." The sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

A man identifying himself only as apt. Hammoud claimed responsibility Capt. for Karami's assassination on hehalf of the previously unknown Lebanese Secret Army. The caller, who spoke in Arabic, made the claim in a call to a Western news agency in Beirut. There was no way to authenticate the claim

The 65-year-old Sunni Moslem had been Lebanon's longest-serving prime minister, holding office 10 times in 32 years. He was backed by Syria, the main power broker in Lebanon.

President Amin Gemayel, a Maronite Catholic, ordered an "immediate investi-gation to determine the cause of the explosion," according to radio reports.

Karami was prime minister when Lebanon's civil war broke out in 1975. He said last month he was resigning because of the failure of his half-Christian, half-Moslem cabinet to deal with the country's economic crisis, which stemmed from the war.

However, Karami later said he would not submit his resignation to Gemayel as required by the constitution, and Gemayel refused to accept it.

It is the only residential neighborhood in the city with a greater daytime than overnight population. Nearly 100,000 people are in the area on a daily basis. About half of those are commuters.

In addition, eight of the nine most densely populated census tracts in the Columbus metropolitan area are in the University District.

Celeste wants to discuss nomination with Glenn

Gov. Richard Celeste on Monday acknowledged that it would be difficult for both him and U.S. difficult for both him and c.b. Sen. John Glenn to seek the Democratic presidential nomina-tion, but he did not offer to step aside. I Cleate reid he hoped I Cleate reid he hoped I Cleate reid he hoped Instead, Celeste said he hoped to meet with his fellow Ohio Democrat soon to discuss the matter.

"I just think that it's very difficult for two people from a state like Ohio to be raising money for a presidential race, to be putting together the kind of unified effort that's really impor-tant, to be successful. It's some-thing that we ought to discuss," Celeste said.

The governor said he hoped to meet with Glenn soon after he returns from a trip to the Persian Gulf.

Celeste, at a news conference following a two-week business and pleasure trip to Europe, said he still had not made up his mind about whether to enter the 1988 to investigate an Iraqi attack on comment that came to mind.

Celeste dismissed a question about whether he would yield to Glenn should the former astronaut decide to seek the nomina-tion. "I think that kind of question is totally speculative," the governor said.

Ohio Democratic Party Chairman James Ruvolo has called for a meeting of the two potential candidates in an attempt to avoid a divisive battle that he said would split contributors as well as voters.

Celeste also found himself answering a question related to the withdrawal of Gary Hart from the campaign.

and other officers did not order certain precautionary maneuvers as a warplane approached the frigate, Pentagon sources said

Monday. The sources, who agreed to discuss the matter only if not identified, stressed that the Defense Department still believes the Stark had no reason to expect the Iraqi warplane would actually open fire on the ship on the night of May 17.

But the sources said the investigators were nonetheless question-ing the ship's officers about why the Stark failed to execute a standard air-defense maneuver by turning its stern toward the airplane as it drew closer than expected.

Such a maneuver is considered necessary for a frigate like the Stark to overcome blind spots in its radar and electronic detection coverage caused by the ship's superstructure. Moreover, the fri-gate's last line of defense against a missile attack - the so-called Phalanx anti-missile gun - is located on the ship's stern.

Details of the investigation were reported in Monday's editions of The New York Times

The sources said Monday that the investigators had not ruled out the possibility of equipment problems on board the Stark, but said they were "concerned" by the fact the ship never changed its heading. The Iraqi plane fired its missiles at the Stark almost compensation.

head-on toward the bow.

There was no reason to think, that plane was going to fire at the ship," said one official. "But the ship perhaps could have defended itself if it had turned around."

Officials have told The Asso ciated Press that in the current situation in the Persian Gulf, U.S. ships were to assume that Iraqi planes were friendly and do no thing.

The sources said the skipper of the Stark, Capt. Glenn R. Brindel and three other officers had been named "interested parties" - or subjects of the inquiry - and been assigned legal counsel. The sources described that step as routine for any such military inquiry.

HEARINGS DISCLOSE CIA DECEPTION: Suspended CIA station chief Joe Fernandez, in secret sworn testimony made public Monday, said the CIA's covert operations chief misled Congress last fall when he testified the spy agency never facilitated private efforts to resupply Nicaragua's Contra rebels, even indirectly. Fernandez said that in fact his CIA superiors knew he was using a sophisticated KL43 encryption device supplied by Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North to pass on intelligence information to Contra leaders and private U.S. citizens to assist air drops of weapons and other supplies.

Fernandez's testimony was delivered on Friday before a closed session of the House and Senate Iran-Contra hearings. CIA censors worked over the weekend to delete portions of the 240-page transcript, in one instance covering an entire page with black ink leaving only the words "Top Secret" at top and bottom, before the rest of the transcript was released.

The task force, which put together the conditions of the planning overlay, was guided by the need to increase owneroccupancy and to offer a diversity of housing opportunities while continuing to provide clean and safe housing for OSU students.

The current Columbus Zoning Code was written long after the University District was developed. Although the code is generally adequate for the rest of Columbus, it is often not able to address the unique problems of the Uni-versity District, UDO officials said.

They added that what may be They added that what may be development objectives in the suburban parts of Columbus all too often result in "loopholes" in the code, bringing haphazard or inappropriate development to the University District.

Another problem with the cur-rent code, UDO officials said, is the lack of definitions for additions, resulting in six-unit apart-ment buildings being built in backyards.

Proposals to meet the UDO's objective to improve new construc-tion standards and reorganize on-street parking include the es-tablishment of an appearance review process. These specialized standards are

The plan enables more cars to ark in a smaller amount of space by allowing stacked parking (parking cars in front of and behind other cars), and making future parking spaces smaller, Ridihalgh said.

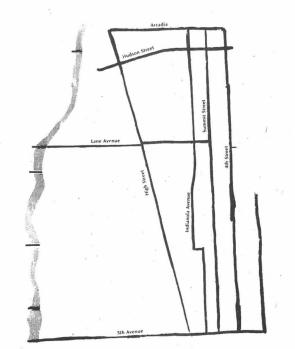

The current residential parking shortage is likely to be solved by permit parking, Ricksecker said.

The number of transfer stu-dents admitted to the Columbus campus for summer and autumn quarter will be restricted to meet state enrollment limitations, ac-cording to university officials.

Thomas Schriner, associate di-rector of admissions, said 641 transfer students have applied for summer quarter and 3764 transfer students have signed up for fall quarter, but there is no way to know how many students have been closed out.

James Mager, director of admissions, said transfer students with sions, said transfer students with for hor transform students, and less than 90 transferable hours of the Freshman Foundation Prog-credit must have submitted appli- ram designed for minority stucredit must have submitted applications postmarked by April 7 to be considered for admission to the Calurchick and the sugned for minority stucolumbus campus for either sum-mer or fall quarter encouraged to consider alternate the enrollment limitations man-dated by the state. The state places enrollment limitations on the university because the state is only willing or able to provide a certain amount able to provide a certain amount of money, Mager said. Schriner said Ohio State could be fined if the enrollment limit is exceeded. The amount of the fine would depend on the number of students that were over enrolled.

Schriner said Ohio State always reserves a couple hundred transfer spaces for special programs, such as the Honors Program, for high ability students; special programs for non-traditional students; and mer or fall quarter. Mager said it is necessary to enrollment options, Schriner said. The options include:

or commuting as a part-time student on an evening or weekend basis only

State law requires the enrollment be limited to 40,000 full-time students or its equivalent. This means if two students attend part-time, under 15 hours, they count as one. This is why it is possible to have an enrollment of more than 40,000 students.

In addition, the 40,000 full time equivalency limit does not include students enrolled in professional schools, agriculture students or part-time evening students who commute.

Mager said agriculture students are not included in the enrollment limitation because Ohio State has the only four year agriculture program in the state.

He said the Office of Admissions has accomplished several things, in regard to improving the transfer system, over the past year under the leadership of

"We now have an on-line course equivalency system with over 5,000 courses," Mager said. "We also are now able to give advice to students who wish to take courses over the summer at other institutions around the state and we have worked directly with some two-year colleges to try and pro-vide them with helpful information.

Schriner said the course equivalency system is designed to make the transfer system easier. It includes courses from 10 other state-assisted institutions: the University of Akron, Bowling Green State University, University of Cincinnati, University of Toledo, Ohio University, Miami University, Youngstown State University, Kent State University, Cleveland State University and Weight State University

"This is a truly exciting deve-lopment and there is not another system like it in the state," Schriner said.

He said the system will be expanded to include colleges such as Marion Technical College and Lima Techincal College in the next few months sian Gulf has become an arena in which the superpowers face an increasingly unpredictable Iran that has become frustrated by a stalemate with Iraq and by foreign pressure to end the long war. The United States and Soviet Union have increased efforts to isolate Iran by selling weapons to Arab gulf states that oppose Tehran's fundamentalist government, and by helping Kuwait protect its shipping.

Iran claims Kuwait supports Iraq in the war that began in September 1980, and has begun attacking Kuwaiti ships and others that trade with the emirate.

Pentagon sources have told The Associated Press privately that plans are being made to move an aircraft carrier and an advanced Aegis-class cruiser into the region.

U.S. Navy strength in the gulf stands at six vessels after the May 17 Iraqi missile attack on the frigate USS Stark, in which 37 sailors were killed and 21 wounded. Soviet merchant ships have been hit and the Kremlin is said to have sent three minesweepers to join the Soviet destroyer and frigate that patrol the gulf.

Iraq's attack on the Stark, which the Iraqis said was unintentional, illustrates the risks posed by a greater U.S. presence in the will react "firmly" to Iranian Persian Gulf, through which ab- attacks, but have not been speout 20 percent of the non-

Whether the mine was laid by Iran or Iraq was not clear, but Western military analysts said the Iranians have intensified mining in the gulf.

OSU graduate aids disadvantaged students

It's 7:40 a.m. and the first period bell has just sounded at Columbus South High School. The room fills with a muggy morning heat as the students form groups and rehearse lines for a play they are about to perform and videotape. Linda Heine, a graduate student in education, is the student teacher for the Reading Development class. She moves from group to group fielding the students' last minute questions.

Heine walked into Columbus South High School nine weeks ago, eager to begin her student teaching in a Columbus City high school. After completing her gra-duate course work in education at Ohio State, she said she was ready to put her theory into practice.

Heine was aware when she applied at the largest high school in the Columbus public school district that it was one that has suffered at times from a variety of image problems. High attrition rates, racial tension and teen pregnancy had cast a shadow on the school's reputation.

"The first thing I was told by the teachers in the English department was that it would be a miracle if I could do anything to motivate if to build on anything to motivate the kids in the reading development class," Heine said. "The second thing they told me was that I didn't have to be afraid of the students. The policy at Columbus. South is that if incidents occur between students and teachers, the teacher always the students at South. He began his plan by cleaning up the school building and re-moving unsightly graffiti. He also implemented a closed-lunch program and now only seniors are permitted to leave the premises for lunch. Voyles said he has encouraged parent involvement through a new policy which re-quires them to pick up their child's grade card two times during the school year. Heine met with Voyles before

In preparation, her students read simplified prose versions of the play and viewed a segment from the television show "Moon-lighting" that portrayed an up-dated rendition of the story. The students then wrote and produced their own '80s version of the comedy. They were astounded by their own success as they

Florida banker says Warner provided misleading advice

Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich. - Marvin Warner, former owner of the defunct Home State Savings Bank, strongly encouraged a Florida banker to do business with ESM Government Securities Inc. in 1984, the Florida banker testified Monday.

Shepard Broad, founder of American Savings and Loan Asso-ciation of Florida, said Warner praised ESM co-founder Ronnie Ewton as trustworthy and said Home State had done much successful business with ESM of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Broad, testifying in a 24-hour videotaped deposition in U.S. Dis-trict Court, said Warner never mentioned any losses incurred in ESM deals, although this occurred just seven months after a $700 million deal between ESM and Iome State had gone sour. ESM was closed by federal Warner bought an interest in American Savings and tried to buy out Broad, but was defeated by Broad and his allies as a result of a dispute between the two over the ESM deals.

Broads' deposition was played as prosecution evidence against War-ner in his trial on federal charges of wire fraud and conspiracy. Prosecutors allege that Warner wanted American Savings to in-vest in ESM to prop up the securities dealer and to ensure that ESM had money to continue to provide operating funds for Home State.

Defense lawyers say, however, that Warner was unaware of ESM's precarious financial posi-tion and that he viewed his dealings with them as good invest-businessman, served as U.S. am-bassador to Switzerland in the Carter administration.

Broad testified that Warner arranged a $1 billion transaction between American Savings and ESM that was put through in May and June 1984 without Broad's prior knowledge. Broad said he would not have entered such a transaction, even though he had been assured by Warner that it was "riskless."

Broad said he asked the New York law firm of Kelley, Drye and Warren to investigate the transaction. Broad said their report supported his concerns. Broad said the called a meeting for Sept. 5, 1984, with Warner, Ewton and other ESM and American Savings officials

Ernest' loses humor on way to camp

By Tracie Borstelman Lantern staff writer

When Ernest goes to camp, let's hope that it's far away, and he stays for a long, long time

The slapstick comedy, starring Jim Varney as Ernest, is a lost cause for humor. If you need a laugh, perhaps you will get it, not because it's funny, but because the entire movie is so stupid.

Ernest, that familiar face of television commericials we've all come to know and be annoyed by, is a maintenance man at Kamp Kikakee. His ultimate goal is to become a counselor for the all-boys camp. When a group of six hoods from an institution for wayward beca institution for wayward boys comes to camp, he gets the chance. The 'bad boys' eventually drive out their first counselor, and of course, Ernest is the only available person to fill his position.

Immediately, Ernest is re-garded as a 'nerd' but when Moose, the runt of the group who can't swim, is thrown into the lake, Ernest comes to his rescue, becoming a hero. However, he is only a hero to Moose, not the other hoods.

The story continues with the star constantly hurting himself, and being hurt by others. His accidents are so violent, sometimes, the humor is lost and the audience is left wondering how Ernest survived the unrealistic mishap. Like any movie with a group of kids, there is the tough kid, the smart kid, the fat kid, and the runt. The movie, however, doesn't give a very good representation of real hoodlums. This group is the cleanest bunch of 'bad boys' I've ever seen. Typically, the tough guys can't get along with the good guys, and there is a constant rivalry between the two groups. Kamp Kikakee stands on an old Indian ground now owned by one of the two tribe survi-vors, Win Cloud. The other Indian left is Win Cloud's granddaughter, Miss St. Cloud. Win Cloud speaks no English and only two people can com-municate with him, Miss St. Cloud and Ernest. The lands of Kamp Kikakee are very rich in petrocide, which is some important chomical and Ernest bond together to fight the mining company. They are joined by two of the previous enemies, the 'good boys,' and Win Cloud, himself, joins in the fight.

The contraptions they use for weapons are more than imaginative, and add just a glimpse of silly humor to the movie.

The only other part of the movie that is even remotely funny are the two zany camp cooks who are constantly in-venting and conjuring up new delicacies for the campers. Even they join in the battle against the miners.

As a whole, the movie may be funny to an 8-year-old kid, but if you're looking for a knee-slapping comedy, you'd better try another camp.

PITTSBURGH -Cincinnati Reds center fielder Eric Davis ended May in grand – make that grand slam – fashion.

Davis hit two home runs, in-cluding a record third grand slam in May, and drove in eight runs as the Reds took over first place in the National League West with a three-game weekend sweep of the Pittburgh Piretee the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Davis finished the first two months of the season with 19 homers, breaking the former NL record of 18 homers in April and May, held by three players. He was one short of the major league record set in 1956 by Mickey Mantle of the Yankees. Davis also became the first NL player to hit three grand slams in a month.

With less than a third of the season gone, Davis, 25, is batting .347 with 19 homers and 52 runs batted in, which Reds Manager Pete Rose calls "triple crown

"I don't use the word great very often, but 'great' describes Eric Davis," Pirates Manager Jim Leyland said.

Davis homered on successive nights against Pittsburgh on pitches that Leyland said would have gotten out most hitters. Davis one-handed a solo homer in the Reds' 13-6 victory on Friday, then hit his grand slam Saturday on an inside breaking pitch by Dorn Taylor that even Davis said was "a pitcher's pitch." The last threesome of the final round of the Memorial Tournament, Don Pooley, Curt Byrum and Scott Hoch, receives a standing ovation on the 18th green Sunday.

Tournament host Jack Nicklaus recieves help for his injured back on the 12th tee Saturday.

Tournament winner Don Pooley tees off on the first hole Sunday. Pooley came from four strokes behind to capture the title.

Muirfield Hoch's downfall is Pooley's gain in Memorial win

Don Pooley won the 1987 Memorial Tourna-Don Pooley won the 1987 Memorial Tourna-ment Sunday at Muirfield Village Golf Club- with a little help from third-round leader Scott Hoch. Pooley took advantage of a poor final round 78 by Hoch to grab a four-shot victory. "It depended totally on Scott," Pooley said. "If he shot a good score, I wasn't going to catch him."

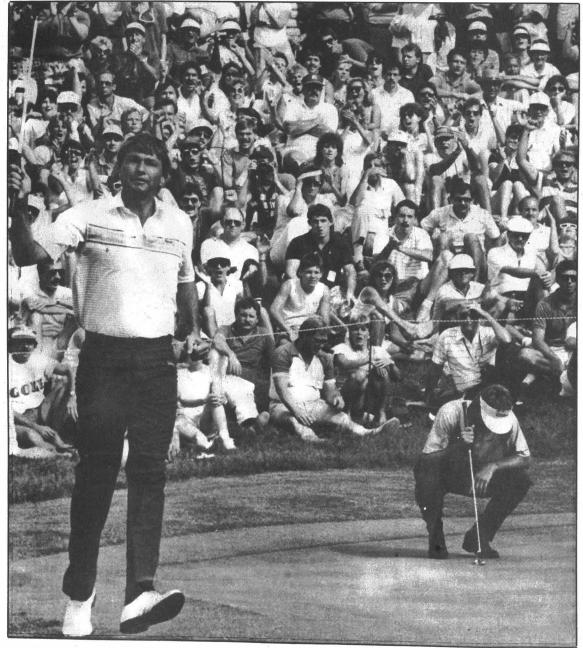

Hoch led by four strokes entering the final round. After avoiding any bogeys on the first 55 holes of the tournament, Hoch bogeyed the second, third, and fourth holes Sunday allowing Pooley to catch him early.

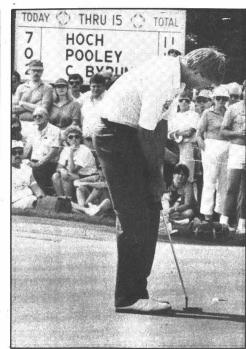

While Hoch faltered, Pooley played steady golf. He offset two bogeys with four birdies for a final round 2-under-par 70. His birdie on the 17th hole was the clincher as it gave him a two stroke lead going to the last hole. A birdie on the 18th was just icing on the cake.

"I'm inspired playing here," Pooley said. "It's a beautiful place, and I consider it an honor to win on a course so closely associated with Jack Nicklaus."

Tournament host Nicklaus injured his back while warming up Saturday and finished tied for 66th. Nicklaus said he had to manufacture a different swing on Sunday in order to get through the round.

Former Ohio State golfers John Cook and Joey Sindelar finished tied for ninth and 24th places respectively.

A birdie on the 17th hole leaves Pooley with a two-shot lead with one hole to play. Runner-up Curt Byrum bows his head in apparent resignation.

Pooley grabs a one-shot lead with this short putt for par on the 16th hole. Runner-up Byrum's three-putt bogey opened the door for Pooley's par.
