Supreme Court Upholds Decision On Merit Raises

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Employers who grant merit pay raises without the consent of the union representing their workers, may run afoul of the labor laws.

That is the effect of the Supreme Court's refusal to change a lower court ruling that merit pay is part of the compulsory collective bargaining process.

Under its broad terms any employer violating the principle runs the chance of being held guilty of committing an unfair labor practice.

Jack Frost Due Tonight; More Cold Wednesday

Ohio's pre-season Winter weather will continue today. The forecast for today and Wednesday is fair and continued cool.

Jack Frost will make his first appearance of the season tonight. The billing calls for clear and cooler weather with some scattered and light frost tonight.

UMW Increases Monthly Dues

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12—(AP)—John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers' Scale Committee today proposed a shorter work week at higher pay as part of the union's 1949 contract demands.

Delegates also voted to boost the miners' dues from an average of $2 a month to a flat $4. They also raised the fee for joining the union from $10 to $50.

City Observes Columbus Day; Banquet To Honor Long-Dead Sailor From Genoa

Ohio honored a long-dead sailor from Genoa, Italy, today.

The sailor, who made a specialty of wandering in this hemisphere, was named Cristoforo Colombo—or Christopher Columbus, as he is called in this day and age.

This is Columbus Day, just 456 years after Christopher and 90 of his seamen clambered ashore in

Russia Hits Anglo-Saxon Racial Policy

PARIS, Oct. 12—(AP)—Russia accused the United States, Britain and South Africa today of practicing "a shameful, dirty and unfair racial discrimination."

A black bearded Soviet delegate, Alexei Pavlov, made the charge during Social Committee debate of a draft declaration of human rights. He also accused Cuba of seeking to water down an article pledging "equal protection of the law against any discrimination." He said a Cuban amendment would open the door to discrimination.

Pavlov spoke of "terrorizing of Negroes" in the South of the United States. He alleged oppression of Indian minorities in South Africa and "discrimination against natives" in British colonial territories.

LATE NEWS

Soviet Arms Compromise

PARIS, Oct. 12—(AP)—Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky made a cards-on-the-table offer in the East-West dispute over arms reduction proposals. In a reply largely conciliatory in tone, he said Russia would provide full information on her arms and armed forces if the United Nations adopted the Soviet proposal for an immediate one-third cut in big-five armaments.

France Gets Power Cut

PARIS, Oct. 12—(AP)—Electric power was cut throughout France today as a Communist-led strike sapped the nation's industrial life. This will be France's ninth consecutive winter of power cuts.

Hillel Foundation Plans Services For Yom Kippur

Yom Kippur, the most holy day in the Jewish religious calendar, will be celebrated beginning at sun down today and continuing until sundown Wednesday.

Coming at the end of 10 days of penitence following Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, Yom Kippur, "the Day of Atonement," is a day of fasting and prayer.

The Hillel Foundation will sponsor services for University students in the Indianola Methodist Church at 8 p. m. today and at 10 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Wednesday Taps Ceremony Will Honor Soldier

Wednesday morning's taps blowing ceremonies, honoring World War II dead of Ohio State, will be dedicated to Pvt. William W. Ackerman. He died in Egypt in 1945, following injuries suffered in the line of duty.

Pvt. Ackerman, of Mansfield, was graduated from Ohio State in March, 1943. He was inducted in April, 1940.

While at Ohio State, Ackerman was a member of Tau Beta Pi and Phi Eta Sigma. He is the son of Mrs. Albert S. Netting of Mansfield.

'Little Six' Mediation Still Failing

PARIS, Oct. 12—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France joined today in a move to speed up Security Council action on the Berlin crisis.

This coincided with Secretary of State Marshall's return by air from Washington talks with President Truman. He did not appear at UN headquarters immediately on his arrival in Paris.

The three big Western Powers, despairing of mediation efforts by the so-called "Little Six" on the United Nations Security Council, are drafting a resolution for firm action to lift the Berlin blockade, Western sources said.

These sources said the "Little Six" attempts to patch up the East-West differences over Berlin remained fruitless after almost a week of go-between work.

There was still no reply from the Kremlin to questions put forward Saturday by Juan Atilio Bramuglia of Argentina, spokesman for the "Little Six" and president pro tempore of the Council.

Western informants said Britain, France and the United States would prefer that a resolution on the Berlin blockade come from the debating powers. But if nothing turns up in the next 24 hours, they are ready to take the initiative themselves.

Battle Between Allen And Music Show Renewed

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—(AP)—The running battle between radio comedian Fred Allen and radio give-aways flared anew today.

The American Broadcasting Co. and the producer of its super-give-away, "Stop The Music," fired counter blasts to Fred Allen's statement that people who are called during give-away shows are notified in advance so they'll be sure to be by the telephone.

Allen's personal feud with "Stop The Music" began last season when it went on ABC at the same hour he was on NBC and his audience rating suffered a drastic drop.

Naval Reserve Examinations Are Scheduled

OXFORD, O., Oct. 12—(AP)—Annual Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps competitive examinations will be held in 28 Ohio communities next Dec. 11.

Capt. Rupert M. Zimmerli, commanding officer of the Miami University NROTC unit, said all male high school seniors and graduates between 17 and 21 are eligible to apply. Success brings a full four-year college education at one of 52 colleges and universities.

Ohio State and Miami Universities are the only two schools to have such a government-sponsored program.

Eisenhower Installed

NEW YORK, Oct. 12—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of Columbia University since last June 7, will be formally installed today.

Grain Crop Harvest Tops 1946 Record

Corn Crop Production Opens Way For New High In Meat Products

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—With a record crop volume practically assured for this year, farmers already are turning their attention to planting for another big output in 1949.

The Agricultural Department estimated this year's total crop production will exceed the 1946 record by eight per cent.

Favorable weather in September virtually nailed down earlier forecasts that 1948 production will top all others.

Fall plowing, field preparation and seeding of such fall-sown grains as winter wheat, rye and oats is progressing seasonally, the Department said.

This year's record corn crop will turn out to be larger than the Department had previously predicted. Yesterday's report put the crop at 3,567,955,000 bushels—a boost of 39,000,000 bushels from the September forecast.

Surpassing the 1946 record by ten per cent, the new corn crop opens the way for a big boost in production of meats, dairy and poultry products. Consumers should feel the benefits in the form of lower prices by late 1949, officials said.

With farm prices in general now down about five per cent from the January peak, an Agricultural Department economist said today a further drop of 15 per cent may come by the end of 1949—if peace prospects brighten.

The combined crop of food grains—wheat, rye, rice, and buckwheat—was said to be the largest on record.

New Staff Rank Decision Stays In Committee

The establishment of the rank of University Professor that was recommended last year by a faculty committee is still under consideration by University officials.

Prof. William F. McDonald, department of history, who is chairman of the committee in charge of arranging the new program, said Monday that the committee had no new developments to report.

Under the plan suggested by the committee last year, the holders of the new rank would receive a minimum of $10,000 per year. They would be freed of all departmental and college responsibilities of administration and teaching, except those which they may care to undertake upon the approval of the appropriate deans and departmental chairmen.

Gets New Office

Ohio Bell Will Have Open House At University-Walnut Exchange

The Ohio Bell Telephone Company will open its University-Walnut central office in the University district for public inspection from 2 to 9 p. m., Wednesday and Thursday, it was announced today.

A feature of the "open house" at 1265 Indianola Ave. will be a conducted tour of the building to give visitors an idea of how telephone calls are handled. In addition there will be special displays, including various kinds of cable, an exhibit of old-type telephone instruments and the 433 parts in a modern cradle telephone.

"At the time the University-Walnut office was converted to dial operation in 1933, there were slightly more than 9,000 telephones here and now that total has jumped to nearly 25,000 instruments," said W. E. MacDonald, Ohio Bell commercial manager. This represents a surprising growth of more than 175 per cent, reflecting the rapid development of this section.

"Since the war we have constructed two building additions and installed eight additions of central office equipment in the University-Walnut exchange. More central office equipment now being installed will establish the Klondike unit to provide service for nearly 2,000 subscribers."

The total investment of Ohio Bell in land and building for the University-Walnut office amounts to nearly $280,000.

Executive Group Of Dads' Club Plans Meeting

Members of the University's Dad's Association executive committee will meet on the campus, Saturday, Oct. 23, for the annual business session and luncheon in the Ohio Union building.

Park, executive secretary of the association. The group then will attend the Dad's Day football game between Ohio State and Wisconsin.

The clinic staff includes: Dr. * John F. Cuber, department of sociology, director and counselor; Dr. Robert A. Harper, counselor; Dr. Raymond F. Sletto, director of research; Bernard N. Desenberg and Herman Lantz, instructors in sociology, technicians; and Dr. Perry P. Denune, department chairman, ex officio member.

Dr. Cuber emphasized that the services of the clinic are available to all students, married and non-married alike. He added that all members of the staff are fully qualified for this counseling, and are able to give expert assistance upon any problems students may bring to them.

Although some use will be made of the material supplied by the clinic in research work, and a few graduate students will do some work in the clinic as a part of their work, the primary function of the clinic is to supply competent counseling.

All information given to the counselors is held in the strictest confidence, and all records are kept in code to insure absolute secrecy to all concerned.

Students desiring to take advantage of the services offered by the clinic may make appointments with Mrs. Eddinger, receptionist in the department of sociology, Room 112, Hagerty Hall.

Broadcasts Of 75th Anniversary Programs Planned By WOSU And Network Stations

Ohio State will be "on the air" nationally as well as state-wide and locally during its 75th anniversary program, Thursday and Friday.

The Columbia Broadcasting System will carry a 15-minute address by Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology at 11:15 p. m. Friday.

Dr. Compton will summarize his remarks made earlier at the University's Seventy-fifth Anniversary Dinner at the Neil House, starting at 7 p. m. He will be introduced to the radio audience by President Bevis.

At 6:30 p. m. Friday, the University will be the subject for "The Ohio Story" broadcast, carried over a statewide hookup of radio stations. This 15-minute program, written by Frank Siedel, an Ohio State graduate, will be entitled "The Broad Guage University." It will portray the early conflict between those who would have limited the University to a narrow educational program and those who succeeded in dedicating it to its present broad program. The "Ohio Story" is carried in Columbus over Station WBNS.

Station WLW at Cincinnati,

which on Monday evening broadcast a brief recorded address by President Bevis concerning the University's anniversary, will record some of the proceedings for later broadcast.

Definitely scheduled is a recording of the major portion of the address by Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, of Union Theological Seminary, to be given Friday afternoon in the University Chapel. WLW will rebroadcast Dr. Niebuhr's address at 5 p. m. Sunday.

The entire anniversary program, which starts at 2 p. m. Thursday, and concludes with the formal dinner the following evening, will be broadcast by radio station, WOSU. Addresses and sessions being given during the daylight hours will be broadcast "live" by the station. Those taking place during the evening, after the station goes "off the air" will be recorded for later broadcast.

Alumni groups and other Ohio State organizations throughout the state are being alerted as to the broadcasts so that those unable to attend the University's 75th anniversary program will be able to hear the proceedings by radio.

SPORTS SCOPE

By Morris Rokeach

Old Man Upset played roughshod with the nation's grid picture as many gridiron powerhouses were tripped by Dame Fortune. Wes Fesler's overconfident Buckeyes learned that a football takes funny bounces as Iowa converted one fumble into a TD.

Iowa upset Buckeye aspirations in their conference lidlifter 14-7, the first time the Hawkeyes have beaten the Scarlet and Gray since 1928.

Wes Fesler was earning All-American honors the last time Iowa measured the Bucks, and oddly enough by an identical score.

The pre-season prediction script also came in for revision as Missouri bounced back with a vengeance to trip SMU 20-14. TCU uncorked another surprise by edging Indiana 7-6. Other upsets saw Holy Cross drop from the unbeaten ranks as Dartmouth prevailed 19-6. Oklahoma downed Texas 20-14, winning its first game from the Longhorns in nine seasons, and Baylor downed Arkansas 23-7.

Pan Savic's pass percentage still borders on the sensational. Completing four heaves in nine attempts against Iowa gives him a season record of 13 completions for 19 attempts. . . . Jerry Krall used low-cut shoes for the first time against Iowa. . . . The innovation started with George MacAfee and Ray Nolting of the Chicago Bears. . . . Bill DeCorrevont, former Northwestern and Chicago Cardinal star, has signed with the Bears.

Former Ohio State basketballers are well represented with Harris Jewelers, local cage quintet. Jack Underman, attempting a game comeback after both legs were broken in an auto accident, joins Stu Jones, Jack Pfeiffer, Dick "Razor" Campbell and Herb Russell. . . . "Tippy" Dye's cage squad sustained a blow when lanky Neil Johnson signed a professional baseball contract with the Philadelphia Phils. Johnson tossed a no-hitter with the Buckeye J-V nine last Spring.

Bearden, Indians' Top Series Hero

BOSTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Gene Bearden, a carefree rookie with ice water in his veins, is the undisputed hero of Cleveland's first World Series title since 1920.

"We owe it all to Bearden," said Manager Lou Boudreau after yesterday's tingling 4-3 victory over the Boston Braves for the championship. "Give him all the credit. That goes back to the playoff game, too."

What else could the boss say? The handsome southpaw, conqueror of the Boston Red Sox in the pennant playoff game, had just sauntered in from the bull pen to save the series finale.

The Bearden of the final game, carried to the clubhouse on the shoulders of his teammates, was not as sharp as the Bearden of last Friday who shut out the Braves, 2-0, on five skimpy hits, but it was Bearden at his best—in a tough spot.

A mere ball game can't bother a 28-year-old war vet who spent two years in hospitals after the Japs torpedoed the U.S.S. Helena. He still carries aluminum plates in his head and left knee.

Headache Cure

MIKE CANNAVINO
Ohio State Halfback

The injury-riddled right halfback spot caused the Bucks a lot of trouble in the Iowa game, but the Scarlet should be in good shape for Indiana with the return of Mike Cannavino and Alex Verdova.

Cannavino has been troubled with injuries all season. He was able to appear only briefly against Missouri and was out entirely for the Southern California and Iowa games.

The 168-pound Cleveland Senior has been shifted from right to left halfback as often as Brooklyn switches managers. He was strictly a defensive halfback in 1946 and despite his lack of poundage was the Bucks' crispest tackler.

Last season, Mike started as a right halfback, but was switched to left half late in the season to replace the injured Jerry Krall and Bob Brugge. He starred in the Michigan game—making 57 yards in 10 rushes.

Mike was slated to start this season at the tailback spot, but was switched to wingback when Jerry Krall made a comeback. Coach Wes Fesler said he wanted his best two runners in the game at the right time.

If Indiana overshifts, as did Iowa, to stop the strong side runs of the Buckeye tailbacks, they may find Cannavino racing around the short side on reverses.

'Hoosier Starting Eleven Tough,' Godfrey Warns

By Don Mathews

"A starting eleven that is as good as any in the conference," is the scout's report on the first stringers of the Indiana Hoosiers, the Buckeyes' opponents this coming Saturday.

And the roster supports this evaluation given by Coaches Ernie Godfrey and Esco Sarkkinen.

to the downtown press and radio luncheon, Monday. All of the 11 regulars have earned at least two letters and Fullback Chick Jagade, Right Half John McDonnell, Left End Frank Hoppe, and Right Tackle John Goldsberry are veterans of three campaigns.

Probably the strongest spot in the Hoosier lineup is at fullback where Jagade is backed by Milan Sellers, a 200-pound sophomore, whom Godfrey describes as "almost as good as the veteran starter." The Bucks' coach warns that these two with Center Joe Polce give Clyde Smith's squad some topnotch linebacking.

Another important member of the Indiana lineup is George Taliaferro, who does most of the passing from the single wing, which is the primary Hoosier offense. Godfrey warns that his comparatively poor record this year is deceiving and that the big halfback will bear careful watching.

Rounding out the backfield are McDonnell and Quarterback Nick Sebek, whose ability as a field general is rated by scouts as one big reason for the success of the Hoosiers. John Goldsberry, right tackle, and the Bartkiewicz brothers, Walt and Joe, at guard and end, respectively, on the right side of the line are standouts.

Speaking of Saturday's 14-7 loss to Iowa, Head Coach Wes Fesler told the assembled members of the press, "We beat ourselves. I still think we have a better team."

The knowledge of the battered condition of the Buckeye wingbacks enabled the Hawkeyes to shift their defense to halt the Scarlet running attack. Fes said that if no more injuries occur the right halfbacks should be ready to go against the Hoosiers.

Part of the cause of the defeat was that the team was not up mentally as much as for the two previous games. The type of luck which the Bucks have had with the injury jinx in the past two years was evident on the last play of the game when big Pete Perini was somewhat bruised. Fesler had nothing but praise for the defensive game the big quarterback played against the Hawks and he hopes to have him ready to go Saturday.

No practice was planned for the Bucks today as time was set aside for studying pictures of the Iowa game. The movies showed clearly some of the mistakes which prevented the team from making yardage on several occasions when good holes had been opened in the Iowa line.

Show Iowa Game Movies

The Ohio State-Iowa football movies will be shown at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Oct. 14, in Room 100, Hagerty Hall.

Admission will be 25 cents with a fee card and 50 cents for all others. The movies are sponsored by Civitas and Varsity "O".

130 Teams, 32 Leagues Begin I-M Football Play

By Bill Davies

Intramural touch football got underway Monday when the first group of 130 teams, operating in 32 leagues, swung into action.

Of the 130 teams entered, 59 are fraternity-active teams, 27 are pledge teams, and 44 are independent outfits.

The independent leagues will operate on Monday and Tuesday nights. The active leagues will play Tuesdays and Wednesdays, while the pledge leagues will battle on Thursdays. Professional fraternities will meet on Wednesday nights, and the Stadium dorm leagues will tangle on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

All contests will get underway at 5:15 p. m., with postponed games to be played on Fridays.

League play will continue through October, with the play-offs beginning in November.

A new plan for the play-offs will go into effect this year, allowing every team to get into the play-offs. The play-offs will be divided into four classes. Teams that win their respective league championships will compose class I, while the other clubs will form classes II, III, and IV according to their position in the league standings.

In the first games of the season last night, 22 independent clubs went against each other in 11 contests.

Feature of the first day's play in the Independent League was the thrilling 19-14 defeat the Men's Physical Education Association hung on the Newman Club, last year's runner-up for the Independent championship.

In another interesting contest the Shamrocks won a close 20-19 decision over Indianola Wesley Foundation, garnering the winning point in a tie play-off after regular playing time had run out with the score knotted 19-19.

Outstanding teams in the first games of the season, and clubs to watch in Independent League play, are the Southerners, who scored a decisive 38-0 victory over the Baker Bills, and the Bisons, who swamped the NROTC 37-0.

Sorority Rushing: Many Said "Too Confusing"

The Women's Pan-Hellenic Association, now that this year's formal rushing period is over, is faced with the problem of improving the current system.

The method used this year for sorority rushing was an improvement over last year. Its schedule was easier on sororities, and it achieved a more even distribution of rushees to the various parties.

Out of the 609 women enrolled for rushing, 373 were pledged to sororities. From that 61 per cent of women who pledged, Pan-Hellenic has a right to feel that rushing was pretty successful.

However, there are two obvious weaknesses to be considered. Of the 609 women who went out for rushing, 194 never turned in preference cards for pledging.

More than half of the 194 women dropped out at the height of rushing with the explanation that it was "too confusing." And it's no wonder. Orientation Week, even without sorority parties, would keep any new student sufficiently occupied.

To try to crowd rush parties into this one week seems unfair to both rushees and sororities.

The other weakness lies in the fact that throughout the period, a rushee has, at most, four hours with the sorority of her preference. In this short time she cannot possibly become very well acquainted.

Many women have pledged at the end of such a rushing period and have been happy with the group they chose.

But statistics show that a woman who pledges later in the school year is more likely to be initiated. She has a chance to make grades before she pledges, and she has a better chance to really know the sorority.

Knowing these facts, Pan-Hellenic must work toward correcting them. Judging from the situation at other campuses, there are two possible solutions.

One would extend rushing over a period of two or three weeks after classes have started. That would eliminate the confusion and quick judgments prevalent in the one-week rush period. Such a system is now in use at Syracuse University.

The other alternative is deferred rushing, which is in practice at smaller colleges. Whether this system would work at Ohio State has been debated. A good indication will be found in the results of deferred rushing at the University of Minnesota. The system is being initiated at that campus this year.

If it meets with any success there, it is possible that Ohio State could use it to advantage, since conditions on the two campuses are very similar.

Friday Cheers

Despite the continually threatening weather Friday afternoon, our rally correspondent tells us that the third pep gathering was a minor success.

There were more people there than at either of the preceding rallies, and the cheering was slightly more spirited.

But the rally was still a far cry from those of the past.

With almost two weeks to plan and promote the Wisconsin rally, we look forward to the biggest and best one yet.

To paraphrase a familiar bromide, publicity breeds support. Let's go, COMO.

John Baker's Letter Home: . . .

"Dear Pop..."

So you've never heard of Um-tum-ten-tweeni! Well, don't feel badly about it. Not many people have, or a certain geography prof wouldn't have offered a "special prize" to any student who could find it.

I heard the story from Mouse's brother, Eddie. Eddie's geography prof was so sure nobody could find Um-tum-ten-tweeni on the map that he offered the class a proposition: find the place, and I'll make it worth your while—in a non-financial sort of way.

I'm no more sure of what the prize was than I am of the spelling of this Um-tum-whatever-it-is. Eddie couldn't tell me. But it must have been a good one. Eddie is a good student, but he rarely knocks himself out over a course. Except this time.

He played it just like Sherlock Holmes. First he wrote to a dialect specialist, found out the name was in the dialect of a very small South African tribe. Then he wrote letters to that neighborhood, addressed to consulates, chambers of commerce, and everything else he could think of.

He got results, too. And do you know where? IN THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY!

I mean it. While he was waiting for answers to his letters, he scoured the library. As the prof later told him, there is only one book in the library with such information. And Eddie found it. Good thing, too, because all the African folks who answered him were completely ignorant of such a place.

Three weeks before the end of the quarter that was. Into class marches Eddie, with the full dope on Um-tum-ten-tweeni—an African community of about 50 people. Dumbfounded, the prof admitted Eddie had scored.

So Eddie was satisfied with a tough job well done. The prof? He took off for Europe a few days later.

Your devoted son,
John.

Ohio State Presidents Are Lawyers, Ministers

(Editor's note: This is the third in a series of stories on the history of the Ohio State University.)

The ministry and law have figured prominently in the backgrounds of the men who in the 75 years since its opening in 1873 have headed the Ohio State University.

Three of the seven presidents were ministers, and a fourth gave up his study of theology only because of bad eyesight and turned to geology.* The other three were lawyers.

The diversified backgrounds of the seven gentlemen who have held the Ohio State presidency, also have included boyhoods spent in rural areas, some teaching experience in country schools, and the receiving of several academic degrees. Some were college professors and presidents of at least one other university before coming to Ohio State.

Six of Ohio State's chief administrators have been native sons. The only "foreigner" was First President Edward Orton, New York-born geologist who became an Ohioan by adoption. Orton had served one year as president and seven years as professor of natural history at Antioch College before he was named president of the new Ohio Agricultural and Mechanical College in Columbus in 1873.

Dr. Orton's successor to the presidency of Ohio State was the Rev. Walter Quincy Scott, a native Daytonian, and a Civil War veteran. A graduate of Lafayette College, he had studied theology at the Union Seminary and had served as pastor of a large Presbyterian church in Philadelphia.

Another Ohioan

Trustees chose another Ohioan, another minister and another Scott (no kin). Dr. William Henry Scott was a native of Athens County, Ohio, and a graduate of Ohio University. An ordained Methodist minister, he had served successive charges in Chillicothe and Columbus before returning to his alma mater, first as professor of Greek and later as its president. With his resignation in 1895, it appeared that he would leave a vacancy impossible to fill.

One stumbling block in securing a suitable successor was the $3,000 salary offered for the job. It took several years of work and the polite refusal of the prestigious position by several prominent educators before the figure was upped to $6,000 and the position accepted by Dr. James Hulme Canfield, chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

Two years after President Canfield took office, student enrollment topped 1,000 for the first time.

Real Titan

But the man who was to become the real titan of the University was William Oxley Thompson, elected as Ohio State's fifth president after the resignation of Canfield in 1899.

Editor's Mail Bag . . .

Editor, the LANTERN:

In the paper Friday there were some things said about me that were incorrect. I should like to make them clear. Misunderstandings have made me very much trouble, especially with my fellow-Turkish students.

I do not blame the person who wrote the story. It is perhaps because of some difficulty which I still have with the English language that he did not understand me.

The questionable point was a paragraph near the end of the article. It said something like this: "Bilen believes that if his nation of Turkey held the wealth and power of the United States, it would use that power to conquer the world."

What I said was this: There are some European nations which would quickly try to conquer the world, if they had the wealth and power of the United States.

It should be obvious that I would not make the first statement about my own country, even if it were true. And it certainly is not true. I wish you would include all of this letter in one of your issues as soon as possible. I am receiving very much criticism because of the mistake which was made.

Thank you very much.
—I. Nezir Bilen, Engr-4

ration as head of Ohio State, began a 26-year-long administration noteworthy for achievement and internal peace.

The story of Dr. Thompson's successor to the Ohio State presidency is an Horatio Alger-like tale of the son of a poor Lawrence County charcoal foundryman who achieved the highest educational honor in his state.

President George Washington Rightmire's 13-year program at the University was built around the student himself and evidenced the educator's personal sympathy with the poorer students.

Great Expansion
Ohio State's current president, Dr. Howard L. Bevis, spent the first 20 years of his life on farms in Hamilton County.

He was professor of government and law in the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard University, when he was asked to return to his native state to accept its highest educational honor.

Under President Bevis Ohio State has known the greatest expansion in its history.

In education, research and service to the community, state and nation the largest educational institution in Ohio throughout three quarters of a century has maintained an outstanding record.

To the seven gentlemen who have guided it through those 75 years must go a large share of the credit.

"Curley" Harkins Began Trouping At Four, Played "Summer Stock"

Arthur "Curley" Harkins, who is currently working on the coming productions of Strollers and Scarlet Mask, will be an important addition to campus dramatic circles. A seasoned trooper, he started his dramatic career at the ripe old age of four, was active in high school productions, and has for several summers been engaged in professional theater work.

Naturally, this four-year-old angel interested me, so I questioned him.

"Well, it was back in Rockford, Illinois. I came out on the stage in a sailor suit, saluted, and sang, A Baby's Prayer at Twilight."

In 1939, "Curley" worked in productions in the Los Angeles Playhouse. When asked if he worked with any notables he said, "I really didn't pay much attention to anyone working there because they were just 'little shots' like me. But after they left, it was not unusual to learn that they were MGM's current prodigy."

When we were just ready to change the subject, he added that it was in Los Angeles that a friend of his coined one of his favorite expressions. Things were pretty rough back in '39. His friend had a part which pretty well represented his own economic status. Opening night, just as he was about to deliver his lines . . . he burped. Before continuing he turned to the audience, "Something I et, thank God."

When he returned to Springfield, Ohio, "Curley" had parts in both "Macbeth" and "Henry VIII" under the direction of Franklin Raymond, who has since become well-known for his New York productions.

One of his most memorable experiences occurred during "Dinner at Eight." In one scene, the butler and chauffeur in a skirmish over the affections of the maid, are attempting to knife each other.

"The scene was anything but funny, and yet the audience howled. The maid had lost her—er—'unmentionables.'"

The past summer, "Curley" had parts in both "Yellow Jack" and "Of Mice and Men" at the Cleveland Playhouse. His experiences in these productions were most valuable from the technical standpoint.

When I asked "Curley" why he was majoring in speech and psychology, considering his dramatic experience, he said, "Acting as a life's work is all right as long as you maintain the care-free attitude, but when you start feeling the need of security, it is best to seek your future along other lines."

University Billiard Team To Get The 'New Look'

By Pat Corcoran

Girls, if some young lady says to you, "How is your grip?" stop and think before you reply that your suitcase is in good shape. The "grip" is a technical term used in billiards.

The reason for the technical language is that this Winter, when the Intercollegiate Pool and Billiard Tournament is held, some of the teams will be composed of the fairer sex. Since the introduction of billiards as a physical education course for women, the girls have really gone all out for it.

Of course, before a girl can try-out for one of the teams, she must know the fundamentals of playing billiards. The main prop of billiards is a long tapering piece of wood which resembles a broom handle, but which in polite billiard circles is called a "cue." At the thicker end of the cue is the "grip."

There are seven essential fundamental factors involved in playing billiards. The first is the "position at the table." The player generally stands with his body fronting the table as much as possible for ease and position, correct aim and better delivery of stroke.

"Grip on the cue" or balance point is the second factor. Only the thumb and the first finger are in actual contact with the cue—the thumb over the finger nail of the forefinger. One of the most common mistakes by beginners is grasping the cue in a rigid "death" grip.

The "bridge" is the third factor in playing billiards. In this sport the bridge refers to the cue rest between the thumb and the forefinger and not a device for securing artificial crowns where teeth are missing. One thing that is deceiving is that billiard players speak of rail bridges and the length of bridges.

The fourth factor is "addressing the ball." Little explanation is needed here for everyone knows Emily Post's method of introduction and carrying on an animated conversation. The only rule you should remember is always "address the ball" properly.

In conjunction with the fourth factor, the sixth factor should also be mentioned. The sixth factor is "applying the English." Although the player is only addressing the ball, he or she should always use "good and proper English." According to good billiard players, excessive English can influence the course of the cue ball.

The "stroke" is the fifth essential factor in playing billiards. A player should have an even stroke. This does not refer to petting your favorite animal, but to the actual hitting of the ball with the cue.

The seventh essential factor is speed and force. As far as this factor is concerned, the player should not race around the billiard table or shoot the ball as if he was driving a car. The speed may be classified as either easy, moderate, or hard. Each player should figure out which speed is best for them.

Why not see Mr. Frank "Pop" Dickerson, coach of the Ohio State Billiard team, at the Ohio Union and join one of the intercollegiate tournament teams? You not only can take part in a very interesting sport, but prove to your "special" friend that billiards isn't just a man's game.

Alberta Elkins, Journalism Student, Prepares For Religious Reporting

Four years ago the city editor of the Portsmouth, Ohio, Times sent Alberta Elkins to cover a revival meeting in the local jail. This assignment finally led the young lady to prepare herself for religious reporting.

In March, Alberta will be graduated from the School of Journalism. This week she broadcasts the following plea: wanted a job writing about religious events.

Alberta is believed to be the only student in the history of the School of Journalism to enter with the goal of doing religious reporting.

When Alberta entered Ohio State, she began working for a degree in journalism and took many philosophy courses. Present plans call for practical experience in religious reporting and then off to the College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky., to work for a divinity degree.

Alberta remarked, "There's something about writing that gets you, but I want to do more than relate thrill stories for the pleasure of the evening home-bound bus crowd."

In Columbus, Miss Elkins is a member of the W. Fourth Ave.

Church of Christ, where she is co-president of the youth fellowship.

Former University Student Exchanged Insults With Goering At Nuremberg Trials

Here's a fellow who once traded insults with the infamous Hermann Goering.

Former Ohio State student, former guard at the Nuremberg war crimes trials, and present assistant to the public relations director at the Republican state headquarters—that's William D. Perkins, aged 24 and married.

After completing his sophomore year last Spring, Perkins, a transplanted West Virginian, interrupted his study of journalism to begin wielding a busy publicity pen for the GOP.

His office handles all publicity and advertising in Ohio for state and national Republican office seekers. "I get quite a thrill out of seeing my articles printed in papers all over the state," said Perkins.

Asked if he had met Vice-Presidential candidate Earl Warren on the latter's visit to the city, Perkins said, "Yes, I talked with him and his wife and daughter. He seems very natural and seems to have a healthy and devoted attitude toward his family. He treated Virginia (Warren's daughter) like a grownup."

Perkins gave a clue to his own political ambitions when he stated, "I wouldn't have Governor Herbert's job; he has too much to do."

"I was in the 'Fighting First' Infantry Division and stationed at Nuremberg as a guard during the war crimes trials. One night I stopped by Goering's cell and accidentally obstructed the beam of light which brightly illuminated his cell from the corridor. He was writing his memoirs at the time and became furious when I cut off his light momentarily. He ate me out in eloquent German and I gave it back to him in English."

"Only Field Marshal Wilhelm von Keitel acted with any poise and he alone among the Nazi defendants showed any respect for the proceedings," Perkins said.

After the coming election, Perkins, a fiction writer in his spare time, will lose his temporary position. He's not sure yet whether he'll seek another job or resume his studies in journalism.

University Conducts Poll

Dr. Campbell And Students Seek Answers To Factors Influencing Public Opinion

Why do people vote as they do, and what is the importance of speeches and the "band wagon" technique in influencing public opinion?

To find the answer to these and other questions has been the work of a group of professors of 10 University departments engaged in conducting a public opinion poll in Columbus. This research program began in May and will continue until December. Dr. Donald C. Campbell, department of psychology, is in charge of the project.

Approximately 150 student volunteers from the departments of political science, psychology, social administration and School of Journalism, have conducted these polls in conjunction with the professors.

There have been three ballots taken in 70 Columbus precincts since the initiation of the program. The next poll of the prospective voters will be held Oct. 22. There will also be a post-election poll in December.

The results of these polls will not be made public until after the election, Dr. Campbell stated.
