Olentangy River Site Chosen For Erection Of New Building

The senior class at a meeting in the Ohio Union this morning decided on a shelter house as a class memorial. The shelter house will be built near the Olentangy River where the University plans to build an entertainment area, John B. Fullen, secretary of the alumni association, announced.

Mr. Fullen stressed the importance of contributing to the class memorial as a means of beautifying the campus. Every member of the graduating class will be asked to make a $3 contribution to the memorial, Mr. Fullen said.

The new senior class president, Don E. Dumont, was presented to the class.

Dean of Men Joseph A. Park gave the class a short outline of the graduation program. The class will meet at 10 a. m., Dec. 19, in the Men's Gymnasium for a commencement rehearsal. At 1:45 p. m. the class will assemble at the gymnasium for the final graduation exercises at 2 p. m.

Awarding of degrees will follow the speaker, not yet selected, and a talk by a member of the alumni association, followed by a response by a member of the senior class, probably the president, will make up the program.

Dean Park announced that a senior class pamphlet containing the graduation program will be published about Dec. 1. He also reported that there will be no limit

A P-40 airplane production movie in place of the scheduled jet propulsion film was shown.

OSPA Prexy Denies Protest Against Romans Candidate

At noon today approximately 1100 students had voted in the final election for Homecoming queen. The Main Library, Commerce Building, and Derby Hall reported the heaviest balloting during the morning. The voting appeared to be lighter than it was in the primary election last week.

President Bevis Receives Cake

Tuesday, Nov. 19, was an important day in the office of President Bevis. Routine business was dispensed with for the cutting of a freshly-baked angel food cake, presented to the president in honor of his birthday.

Coeds of the School of Home Economics, who made the presentation, joined with the president and members of the office staff in sharing the cake.

Grad Engineers To Be Interviewed For Employment

Graduating seniors, alumni, and graduate students in engineering desiring placement in the engineering field will be interviewed Thursday and Friday of this week.

Two representatives of the General Electric Co. will interview qualified engineers Thursday in the College of Engineering office. A representative of the Joseph Seagram & Sons, Inc., Louisville, Ky., will interview job-seekers interested in chemical engineering and chemical analysis.

The Erie Railroad will send a representative Nov. 25. Also on hand that day will be the personnel director of the Cutler-Hammer Co. of Milwaukee. All interviews will be conducted in the office of the College of Engineering in the Chemistry Building. Students may apply there for an appointment.

Frances O. Tresemer, assistant manager of the Ohio Union, supervisor to the Student Senate elections committee, said today that the Homecoming queen primary election results, as printed in Thursday's LANTERN and certified by the Student Senate Thursday night as correct, were inaccurate.

Mr. Tresemer said that the actual ballot totals as filed in his office showed that Jean Willson, sixth place Romans' candidate, received 1,203 votes instead of 1,303 as reported.

These corrected figures reduce the excess of 102 votes counted over those actually cast, as reported in Tuesday's LANTERN, to an excess of only two votes.

After recounting the closest margins three times, these two votes, Mr. Tresemer explained, did not make a significant difference in the election results.

The LANTERN received information this morning that the Ohio Students' Party Associated would file a protest with the Student Senate against Jo Howard, first place Romans' candidate. The protest would ask for a penalty against Miss Howard for an appearance in incorrect wearing apparel, the information indicated.

Don Dumont, president of OSPA, said that his political party had not filed such a protest. The information was apparently released by an unofficial source, Dumont said.

Plant Pathologist Will Speak Here

An informal dinner in honor of Dr. Leach will be held at the Faculty Club at 6 p. m., Monday. Dr. Leach will lead an hour of discussion after dinner on the topic, "Importance of Plant Quarantine in Preventing Entrance and Spread of Plant Pathogens in the United States." Reservations for the dinner may be obtained by calling Dr. Lois Lampe, department of botany.

Council To Study Housing

The Interracial Council will meet at 7:30 tonight in Room 101, Page Hall. A discussion of the problems of minority groups will be held and a study of the interracial housing problem will be started.

Queen Candidate Introduction At Banquet Begins Week Of Homecoming Celebration

Homecoming festivities were officially opened Tuesday evening with the traditional Homecoming banquet at the Southern Hotel. Approximately 160 guests, including representatives of campus organizations, faculty and alumni representatives, fraternities, sororities, independent groups, and members of the football team attended the affair, the toastmaster for which was Hunt Carlile, L-2.

Highlight of the dinner came with the introduction of the six queen candidates and their escorts in their last public appearance until after the final elections, which took place from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., today.

Principal speaker for the event was William S. Guthrie, junior dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, who spoke of the Ohio State campus of 1928-1932 when he was an undergraduate. He also pointed out that the "secret" of Homecoming was the spirit of participation, and in order to get the most out of this traditional Homecoming Week every student must take an active part in the activities of the occasion.

Delmar G. Starkey, executive secretary of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, also gave a short address in behalf of the alumni association, as did Dean of Men Joseph A. Park, advisor of the Student Senate, which sponsors the annual Homecoming banquet.

Among those introduced were Vice-President Bland L. Stradley, Dean of Women Christine Y. Con-

Danger of fire resulting from the use of inflammable decorations at Homecoming dances were emphasized today by Fire Chief Edward P. Welch.

Partial Eclipse Of Sun To Be Seen At McMillin Observatory Saturday

Ohio State is preparing for two spectacles this Saturday.

One, important to Buckeye football fans, is the Homecoming tussle with Michigan.

Second, and vital to astronomers and scientists, is a partial eclipse of the sun which may be viewed at the McMillin Observatory on the campus before the game starts.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, of the department of physics and astronomy, says the eclipse will begin at 10:42 a. m. and will reach its peak at 12:09, ending at 1:39 p. m.

The observatory plans to have its telescope trained on the sun and dark glasses will be available for those who want to watch the moon coming between the earth and part of the sun's light.

Although Saturday's partial darkening of the sun isn't nearly as spectacular as total eclipses, which are much more rare, it is important to scientists and astronomers for it provides an extremely precise and adequate check on the motions of the moon.

Partial eclipses occur about every three or four years, Dr. Hynek said.

Persons who want to get themselves in the mood for Stadium fireworks at 2 p. m. are welcomed to the Observatory anytime during the astronomical show.

Survey Shows Fraternity Food Costs Up 36 Pct.

The Fraternity Managers Association reported today that student food costs in the fraternities and sororities are up 36 per cent over last year. This cost increase was tabulated on 10 classifications of foods and 50 separate items. Only three items in the group, potatoes, apples, and lettuce, showed a price decrease over their costs at this time last year.

Highest jumps in the meat classification were on pork chops, which went up 78 per cent, with ham showing a 77 per cent hike and other meats varying upwards to a 50 per cent increase over last year's prices at this time.

The survey was made on comparative price figures kept by the organization for 1945 and 1946.

Vet Dorms To Organize

Need Name For Group, Not For New GI Village

Mitchell P. Marcus, Engr-2, and member of an executive council at Port Columbus dormitories, said today that there appeared to be a misunderstanding in the name contest which is being sponsored by former GI students living at Port Columbus.

Marcus asserted that instead of searching for a name for the new GI Village, a name is needed for the organization composed of approximately 460 students living at Port Columbus.

He also said that the organization would be kept intact when the students move to the new GI Village.

As it will be composed only of men living in the Village, the name contest is open only to students living at Port Columbus now.

Army Officers Answer Queries Of Air Reserves

In the absence of Maj. Alvin Smith, commanding officer of the Lockbourne Air Reserve unit, Capt. Herman King and Lt. Carl Roy answered questions put to them by 75 former Air Force officers in the University Air Reserves at Campbell Hall Tuesday night.

The essential information garnered by the reservists from last night's meeting was that they could report to Lockbourne at any time on week days and up to noon on Saturdays. Candidates are to bring with them five copies of their active duty orders, their Form 5, and the 64 Physical Form, provided the physical was taken in the past year.

In the event that the physical was not taken within the past year, candidates are to bring their immunization records. No definite times have been set as yet for taking new physical examinations.

Blue Cross Gets Strong Response

By Dale McIntyre

Two days after opening a registration desk in the Administration Building, Blue Cross representatives reported Tuesday afternoon that they were meeting the best response of their city-wide campaign among Ohio State students.

Formerly, membership in the Blue Cross was restricted to groups of five or more persons who were actively employed and had their employer's sanction. If the boss failed to give his approval, there was no Blue Cross. The Community Group plan was instituted to remedy this situation.

Now the self-employed (those in plants with less than five employees) and students have been made eligible to receive the same benefits as other groups. Blue Cross workers began a week long campaign for members throughout the city Monday. Registration books will close Saturday, not to open again until this time next year.

The Blue Cross found birth at Baylor University in Texas 15 years ago. Since then the organization has spread throughout the United States, enrolling 25,000,000 members and paying out $70,000,000 in hospital bills annually. The American Hospital Association has given the movement its official sponsorship and set up standards for the many community plans.

Purdue Vets Concerned Over Price Of Haircuts

By Robert M. Loebelson

Purdue University veterans are proving that they can be as resourceful on the campus as they were in the service. A short while ago, the price of a haircut in Lafayette was raised to one dollar. A well-organized, much-publicized anti-haircut campaign was instigated by the ex-GIs, but the barbers are still holding out for the dollar bill.

As one psychology professor at the Indiana school learned to his dismay, the ex-serviceman's talent does not end with a strike against the local tonsorial parlors. After becoming irked by the number of stragglers entering the room after the class had started, the professor solved his problem by locking the door. However, the locked-out vets—thirsting for knowledge—lifted the door completely off its hinges, stood it against the wall, and entered the classroom as some had entered Tokyo only a little more than a year before.

At the University of Minnesota, the local AVC chapter voted 48 to 10 against the adoption of a state bonus. The members were against both proposals, one to pay $15 a month for statewide service, $20 for duty overseas with a $400 maximum and the other a non-transferable adjusted compensation certificate which could be used to pay state taxes, or GI insurance. Under the second proposal the veteran would receive $15 for each month in service with a top of $500.

At the University of Wisconsin where the students will soon vote on whether ROTC should be made compulsory, the American Legion invited Col. Willis Matthews, Wisconsin's ROTC commandant, to explain why he believes a compulsory setup would serve its purpose better than one where the decision would be up to the individual student. In rebuttal, the Young Socialists invited Brig. Gen. H. C. Holdridge, former faculty member at West Point, who has previously testified against compulsory training before a congressional committee, to present his viewpoint.

GI Village Gets Final Touches Before Winter Quarter Opens

By Harry Kohn

Ohio State's youngest colony, GI Village, is well on its way to completion with the construction of Project No. 1 for veteran students receiving its finishing touches.

A minimum of 500 student veterans will move into their new home on the Olentangy River Rd. at the beginning of the Winter Quarter. Rents will range from $42 to $51 for single students per quarter.

Material for the construction of a cafeteria, to be located at the intersection of Hess and Olentangy River Rds. for the residents' convenience, has begun to arrive from a former naval munitions plant near Chillicothe. The building will also serve as a recreation hall until a special building for that purpose can be constructed.

Project No. 1 is on the south end of GI Village and consists of eight single barracks holding 60 men each. These barracks formerly made up "Parsal Lodge," a civilian housing project for men employed at the Army Special Service Depot at Shelby.

Each of the double rooms will be equipped with double-decker beds, a chest of drawers, a desk chair, a floor lamp, and two floor plugs for study lamps and radios. Fireproof partitions separate the rooms. A lounge for reading and "socializing" will be found at the main entrance of each dorm.

Unit To Have Oil Burner Heat

The unit will be heated by three new oil burners and hot air circulating through ventilators in every room. Each of the eight dorms consists of three wings and four entrances. Workmen are now applying the second coat of varnish to the floors and laying out the streets and paths for this section of GI Village.

Men desiring single rooms will find them in two double-story buildings which will together house 232 men in both single and double rooms. This part of Project No. 1 was brought in from the army base at Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Any veteran students who were stationed at Camp Davis, Holly Ridge, N. C., will feel at home in Project No. 2 which is now in advanced stages of construction, for Camp Davis was the original home of the buildings in this group.

Houses Married Veterans

The third section of GI Village, six one-story buildings and 41 two-story buildings, will house married veterans. Each of the one-story buildings will make four apartments while the two-story buildings will each house eight families. The 342 apartment units will range from studio apartments with combination living-bedrooms to two-bedroom layouts.

GI Village, only a 15-minute walk from University Hall, will house 3,000 by Spring Quarter and will provide homes for some of the 9,500 men students who are now living in privately operated residences all over the city.

To Have Self Government

The government of the village will be in the hands of the residents. Each unit will be expected to have its own representatives to a council, and elect its own officers, Joseph A. Park, dean of men, said.

The dean of men's office is now accepting applications for Project No. 1. Five hundred places for veteran students are assured, although it is hoped that 700 may be accommodated. Milton Overholt, now director of the Port Columbus Naval Air facility barracks, will serve as director of GI Village.

And So It Goes . . .

Are You Living Within
The University Estimate?

If you are a man student and are spending over $3.50 a week for room rent and $7.75 a week for board, your budget is over the estimate given in the University Bulletin. In a section entitled "Estimate of Expenses for the Freshman Year," $125 is given as the rate for room rent for three quarters, with an estimate of $225 for the board bill. Allowing for student vacations in the case of board, these estimates break down into the above mentioned weekly figures.

Whether you are over or under the University estimate may depend upon where you live and eat. If, for example, you room in a house where the owner observes the OPA rent ceilings, and you eat in one of the dormitory cafeterias for $90 a quarter, chances are that you are living within the University estimate of room and board expenses.

If such is the case, you are fortunate. Consider your classmate who lives in a newly opened rooming house and eats at the district restaurants. We visited two houses on West 10th Avenue last year, and the landladies were quoting $5 a week and higher for rooms whether single or as accommodations for two or more men. Other students tell us that landlords with low OPA ceilings on their rooms are making up the difference with extra charges for radios, electric heaters, and laundering of sheets, towels, etc.

We aren't accusing landlords or even restaurant owners of trying to profiteer at the expense of students. But students should look at some charges for University owned and operated facilities for men before they start patting themselves on the back.

The clubs in the Stadium offer room and board for $110 a quarter, which cost also holds for the facilities at the Naval Air Station. The new river road project, six or eight units of which will be opened in January, will have single rooms for $51 a quarter, and double rooms at $42 a quarter per man. When the new cafeteria is added to the project, the board bill will probably be somewhere around $90 a quarter, or maybe lower.

Men don't occupy Baker Hall at present. If they did, some notion of how much they might be paying can be had by taking the $135 to $155 (depending on the room) quarterly room and board charge now applied to women living in the dormitory, and making allowances for the fact that more men than women can be accommodated in the Hall.

The housing problem isn't licked yet, Vice-President Stradley has warned us. But such progress as the river road project, the new Stadium clubs being built, and long time plans for new dormitories make us at least hopeful that we are past round one. When the fight is over, many students will find themselves housed and fed for less than they pay now.

Some landlords and restaurant owners have opposed the building of dormitories. Many of them are going to have to offer something better than they do now, before we withdraw our support of the University projects.

Woody Herman and his orchestra appeared at the Purdue University Victory Varieties. Tickets were reserved, priced at 76 cents each.

Control Commission

The all-civilian domestic atomic energy control commission, headed by David E. Lilienthal, former chairman of Tennessee Valley Authority, are shown as they conferred with President Truman, following announcement of their appointment. Animals Manage Farm
In Orwell's Parable

"Animal Farm," George Orwell, Harcourt, 1946

By Ruth Schneider

Just about the cleverest satire I've read for a long time is in the pages of "Animal Farm" by George Orwell. Even without reading additional meaning into the lines, it's a funny parable of human life as animals see it; but to anyone remotely interested in current events, the animals present even more subtle entertainment.

If the reader is the sort of person who never enjoyed Winnie the Pooh, or Wind in the Willows or Alice in Wonderland, with their below-the-surface seriousness, Animal Farm is not for him. On the other hand, an overly serious student of history or political science might be bored with the story. But the book should appeal strongly to that large group of people (which I think there must be) who are neither experts nor novices, not quite pessimists but not exactly optimists, and who know more than what they read, but less than they should.

Animals On Farm Revolt

The plot of this thin volume of a hundred some pages concerns the animals on Mr. Jones' farm, who revolt against all human taskmasters and set up their own principles of Animalism—with all of them being equal, and each to enjoy the fruits of his own labor. Before long, Napoleon the pig, Boxer the horse, and numerous others have assumed very human characteristics, and their combined efforts to manage the farm sans human beings or human methods should cause quite a few deep chuckles.

The rules and principles of Animal Farm are good wit—and depending on what the reader sees in them, they're either a slur on civilization or a clever insight into it; maybe both. I doubt that any two people would agree on whether there's a moral, and if so, what it is.

Farmers Put Up Fight

The boisterous fights between the neighboring farmers and the animals, the project of building a windmill, and the conversation of the pigs and sheep keep the story from ever being anything but rapid reading.

Boxer, the horse with muscle and not much brain, has my personal vote for one of the best literary characters of the year. And the sheep who come in at every possible incongruous point bleating "four legs good, two legs bad" are funnier than it's possible to describe.

I understand the author, George Orwell, is an English essayist and novelist who was born in Burma, served five years in the Indian army, and then fought on the Loyalist side in the Spanish civil war. His background confirms the fact that "Animal Farm" is not the farce it at first appears—but rather a well-done job of nonsensical sense.

Majority Of Arts
Freshmen Ask
For Convictions

Two-thirds of the University freshmen in the College of Arts and Sciences want their teachers to indicate in the classroom definite convictions on controversial subjects, with the students reserving the right to make their own decisions, it was revealed in a weekly arts survey class poll taken of 1,336 students.

The students prefer faculty members to take definite stands on issues, making clear their reasons as related to American traditions and ethics, rather than present just "pure knowledge" without any stated convictions.

A total of 63.9 per cent of the students indicated they favored the view expressed in one statement which said, "I want all sides presented and a conviction stated relating to the American democratic tradition and ethics and I'll still reserve the right to make my own decisions."

The other third, or approximately 32.4 per cent, said their views were mirrored by the other statement, "I expect pure knowledge, an objective presentation of all sides without a stated conviction so that my own decision is unprejudiced."

Student Submits Stadium
Seating Arrangement

Editor, the LANTERN:

One final word about the football seating arrangement as the season draws to a close. Clyde Moore of the Journal led off the season when he complained in one of his columns that students had "taken" seats sold to other patrons and had refused to budge. He vowed never to return to the Stadium.

Well, I hope several thousand more disgruntled "oldies" will stay away too, then maybe the game can return to the students to whom it rightfully belongs. Some guy complained in the Citizen about where his seat was located. Such crust! He was lucky to get in. Why don't they start going to see the professional games?

I respectfully submit this plan for seating in the next football season:

(1) All students to be seated between the 40- and 50-yard lines, decks A, B, and C. (Faculty to take any remaining seats).

(2) Next choice of seats to alumni and ticket buyers of long standing.

(3) All others.

After all this school is supposed to be for students. What fair-minded person could kick against that plan? This plan is by no means new but is still a good one.

—Lloyd E. Squaer, Com-2.

Editor's Note—Well, we don't know how fair-minded WE are, but they better watch whom they put in our lap. There are only 6000 seats between the 40 and 50 yard lines in all three decks, on both sides.

Alumnus Says East
Prefers Ohio State

Editor, the LANTERN:

You all know what the big beef among the irrepressible younger generation of the East now is. I am sure it will be of particular pride in a way to every local Buckeroo. It is this: Why is Ohio State going exclusive and denying entrance except to only Buckeye natives?

After all, a guy can't pick the geography of his birth or of his adolescent years, now can he? Yes, Ohio State is the rage out here! It is amazing to contemplate the civilizing influence of a better-than-average football club.

Yes, dear old Ohio State—where the elite of the East would like to meet.

—Henry Stoner, '45.

Editor's Note—Main reason—no room.

Theater Seating
Device Invented

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(UP)—A new device to help theater patrons find seats in darkened movie houses has been invented by W. F. Dixon of Chattanooga.

Whenever a seat is taken, the mechanism will flash a light on a panel at the end of the row. The seat shopper has only to look at the number of lights to tell how many seats in the row are vacant.

New Styles In Sweaters Are Described By Coeds

By Dawn Gilbert and Sylvia Wilson

You coeds have brought sweaters back with a bang this Fall. But you are no longer wearing them bulky and big. You are tucking them in the tops of your bright skirts with belts of all colors and styles. The belts combine your skirts and sweaters into a costume, and make your waistlines look small!

We saw Margene Breckenridge* at a Kappa Sig party in a beautiful white sweater with a black and red jacquard reindeer across the front. With it she wore a bright red flannel skirt. Harriet Shriver sported a new sweater style at the football game. She wore a dark pink hand-knitted sweater with a wide cable stitch along the shoulder-line and down the outside of each sleeve.

An unidentified coed, also at the game, looked very smart in a bright blue hand-knitted sweater with a snug, high turtle-neck. The sleeves were knitted to that popular three-quarter length.

Del Bollinger wears a hard-to-get cashmere to classes. This one is a pullover in a new, distinctive shade of deep rose. The sweater boasts long sleeves, a crew neck, and comes just to the waistline. Margie Davis wears a boucle-knit sweater in white wool with cap sleeves with a plaid skirt of white, red, green, and blue.

A new note in Fall fashion this year is the formal sweater. While browsing around the coed stores near the campus, we saw several sweaters of the novelty type. For something quite different, they offer a black sweater of heavy yarn which is knitted in a turtle-neck style with those short cap sleeves that you like so well in your date dresses. For trimming, varied-colored sequins are woven in an all-over design of small circles.

Yes, sweaters are back, and they are more flattering than ever.

Bucks Will Go All Out For Michigan Contest

BEAT MICHIGAN is the cry in the Buckeye grid camp as Paul Bixler preps his Scarlet charges for their Saturday afternoon contest against the traditional rival in the Stadium. The Bucks have their backs to the wall. Out of the Conference title race they figure to put Michigan's talented crew on the outside looking in.

The battle is an important one for the Bucks. All Michigan games are. The Bucks will undoubtedly enter the game as the underdog as Michigan is rated by many as the best team in the Big Nine. That doesn't bother Paul Bixler and his men, though. The Michigan ball club has tasted defeat twice this year and the Bucks are set on adding a third defeat to the record of the Wolverines.

Tuesday night's session saw Bixler throw a stiff workout at his charges. They held a lengthy session on pass offense and defense with an added period of defensive line play. The Michigan team has the highest offensive average in the Conference with an average per game of 312.8 yards and also the best defensive club by holding foes to a net gain of 193.9. The Buckeyes have averaged well over the 200-yard mark in net gain against Conference opponents this year.

Bixler had his charges run through a series of new plays in an effort to mystify the Michigan defenses. Pass-snatching by Brugge, Parks, James, Souders, and Stan Dixon featured the workout. Quarterback George Spencer was doing the tossing and the above-mentioned quintet provided catches which had the sideline coaches raving.

The squad will get down to a little harder work in tonight's session. Jay-Vee squad members will provide the offense and defense for the regulars to shoot at. Alex Verdova and Chuck Csuri, both having knee trouble, took it easy Tuesday night and they'll probably do the same tonight in order to be ready Saturday. Jerry Krall was in uniform for the first time since his injury in the Pitt game. Kroll was hobbling badly and only a miracle will put him in condition for the Wolverine finale.

Ping Pong's Dangerous

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—(UP)—Add to dangerous sports: Charles Stewart was treated in a hospital for a broken knee-cap. He fell while playing ping pong.

Four Teams Reach Greek Semifinals

Four fraternity touch-football squads moved into the semifinals as a result of their victories in Tuesday night's play.

Delta Upsilon eked out a 6-0 triumph over Phi Gamma Delta. The DUs opened up a pass barrage in the final half which netted them the winning counter.

An alert, charging Sigma Alpha Epsilon line brought victory to teammates with a safety in the opening half against Phi Delta Theta. The SAEs capitalized on the blocked punt and then held the Phi Dels scoreless to win, 2-0.

Acacia and Phi Sigma Delta clashed in a great defensive battle as neither team scored during the regular game time. The Acacia gridders eliminated the '45 finalists in the overtime on the basis of yardage gained, 1-0.

Zeta Beta Tau and Chi Phi gridders presented a thriller. After the speedy Chi Phis had scored an early touchdown and added the conversion, the ZBTs returned a kickoff punt for a score. The ZBT conversion was wide, however, giving the Chi Phis a 7-6 edge.

Novel Broadcast Will Feature Big '9' Battles

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Something different in football broadcasting is to be attempted Saturday afternoon by CBS. It intends to put on two games at once, or nearly so.

Both are Big Nine battles, Michigan vs. Ohio State at Columbus, and Illinois vs. Northwestern at Evanston.

With the former game starting at 2, Red Barber will tell about it until 2:30, when Illinois-Northwestern opens. Then the network will switch to Gene Shumate for the opening of that, and thereafter the broadcast will go back and forth between the two events.

Big Nine-Pacific Coast Officials Sign Bowl Pact

Conference Champion To Meet Pacific Coast King In New Year's Day Classic

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Pacific Coast and Big Nine Conferences early today signed a five-year football agreement that slammed the Rose Bowl door in anxious Army's face and probably will send Illinois—which voted against the pact—into the world's richest bowl contest Jan. 1.

Honeydrippers To Meet Bisons For Grid Title

The Independent football trophy will be at stake Wednesday when the Honeydrippers and Bisons meet.

Tom Shanesy's Honeydrippers, who rolled up a 14-0 score in their initial playoff battle Monday, will again rely on the pitching arm of Fullback Bill Cope. Cope operates behind the signal barking of quarterback Bob Johnson, and has a host of potential receivers in Backs Marty Amling and Les Varga, plus two capable ends, Shanesy and Fred Taylor.

The Bison grid machine also depends upon aerials for their scores, but they also have a deceptive ground attack. Captain and quarterback George Sarkis mixes up his offensive attack with his passes and the running of two speedy backs, Mike Gerko and Berny Floto. The powerful Bison line gained recognition in holding Koda Council to a lone safety in the Bison's playoff triumph.

'Blackie' Greets Rectory Visitors

BOSTON — (UP) — Blackie, a cocker spaniel, is a dog that hobbles with cardinals. As pet of the sexton at Holy Cross Cathedral, he probably has met more Catholic clergymen than any other dog in the country.

Blackie serves as watchdog and greeter at the rectory and so is the first to meet visitors at the cathedral.

* Illinois, ranking fifth nationally, is the potential Big Nine champion, having only to win from Northwestern Saturday to clinch the title.

Undeclared University of California at Los Angeles, No. 4 college eleven, holds the edge over the once-beaten University of Southern California, rated tenth in the national football poll, to become the host team for the bowl. The issue will be decided when the two teams clash Saturday at Los Angeles.

Should U.C.L.A. and Illinois emerge as rivals in the Tournament of Roses classic, the West would again see Buddy Young, fleet-footed Illini back who starred for the Fleet City Navy team on the West coast last year and for whom U.C.L.A. alumni were at one time reported bidding.

An official press release by the Big Nine-Pacific Coast negotiators made no mention of powerful Army, but the terms of the agreement left the Blanchard-Davis machine—number one in the nation—out in the cold.

The contract is effective immediately "for the Jan. 1, 1947, Rose Bowl game," with each Conference to name a representative from within its own ranks.

The retina of the human eye is only about one-eightieth of an inch thick.

From The Sidelines . . .

By Charles Reese

One more ball game and the 1946 season for the Buckeye grid team will come to a close. Whether or not the season is regarded as a wholly successful one for Paul Bixler in his first season at the helm of a Buckeye grid team may well be decided on the Stadium turf Saturday afternoon.

Buckeye fans eye the annual clash with Michigan as the deciding tilt in the determination of whether or not the season for their "pride and joy" is a successful one. In years past Scarlet fans have accepted defeat after defeat of Buck teams, as long as the gridders came out on top in the battle against Michigan.

The season thus far for the Bucks may well be classed as successful. To date the Scarlet gridders have won four games, lost two, and tied two. A win over the Wolverines would put the gridders in top standing with local fans. Not that they aren't new, but a win Saturday would help their prestige considerably. The two tie ball games are the ones Scarlet fans have made the biggest kick about.

The Bucks were picked by the experts to make a runaway of both contests which ended in ties. Missouri was the first tie, a 14-14 affair which saw the Scarlet men narrowly escape defeat. Then came Purdue. Reported to be a "soft-touch," the Purdue eleven proved itself a match for the Bucks and the final score was another 14-14 tie.

The season has gone like this. First a tie, then a win, then a loss, then a tie, then three straight wins before dropping the game to Illinois last Saturday.

If you're superstitious, as we are, you will look upon the Michigan game to end up as either a tie or a win for the Buckeyes. They haven't lost two ball games in a row this season and the early season loss to Wisconsin was followed by a tie contest with Purdue's Boilermakers. We may be wrong, but if the Bucks play the brand of ball they're capable of playing, the superstitious outlook may hold up.

Agricultural Extension Has Worldwide Service

A path of paper, eight and one-half inches wide and stretching from Columbus to some city 405 miles away, could be made with the sheets of mimeographed and multilithed material which was published and mailed from the Agricultural Extension mailing room in 1945. The path for 1946 would be even longer.

Ladders Shunned By Students As Carpenters Toil

Superstitious students have been forced to steer clear of the second floor of the Administration Building during the last few days because of an accumulation of ladders. This equipment marks the work of the service department in constructing additional counters for the bursar's office in the Administration Building's second-floor lobby. Installation of lighting in the main stairway resulted in a long ladder being placed in such a position that all who used the stairway were forced to walk under it.

Paul H. Elleman, physical plant director, said today that work should be completed on the counters by the end of this week. However, temporary lighting must be installed for the present because of a scarcity of permanent lighting equipment and fixtures, he reported.

Despite the confusion of the carpenters' work, bursar's office employees have been manning the uncompleted counters for several days, and Charles A. Kuntz, University comptroller, said today that office work is proceeding as usual.

Besides this type of work, regularly printed Ohio Agricultural Extension Service bulletins are mailed upon request to people anywhere in the world. Requests have been filled from people in Greece, Chile, India, Canada, and others.

The mailing room, located in the basement of the Journalism Building, is operated by nine student veterans and three non-veteran students working part-time, and two full-time employees.

'Clearing House' To Aid Students Of Commerce

A "clearing house" service for student-faculty problems and misunderstandings is being organized by the Commerce College Council for students of that college, Ben E. David, Com-3, council president, reported today.

With the slogan "Let's have students and faculty rather than students vs. faculty," council members are urging use of the service as a means of establishing closer relationships and understanding with faculty members.

The clearing house will be a student group which will hold private conferences with any student wishing to submit grievances, either personal or academic. All conferences will remain strictly confidential and anonymous, David stressed. Complaints that seem well-founded will be brought to the attention of the instructor or department concerned, or to the college administration. Necessary action will be arranged on all problems.

University Plans Living Memorial

$100,000 Ultimate Goal Of Scholarship Fund In Honor Of War Dead

A living memorial to Ohio State's war dead will be the working policy of the War Memorial Scholarship Fund, John B. Fullen, alumni secretary, said today.

Started last year, the ultimate goal for the fund is $100,000 which the alumni association has proposed to raise in four years. Last year's quota of $25,000 was met and Mr. Fullen is certain that by the December deadline another $25,000 will have been added to the fund.

The scholarships will serve two purposes. They will bring to the campus students of outstanding ability and promise and will provide aid for the education of students who would otherwise be unable to attend a university.

None of the money will be used until the entire fund is subscribed, Mr. Fullen said. The Scholarship Fund was chosen in preference to a monument or similar war memorial. Contributions will come from students, alumni, and friends interested in the University.
