Both Taft And Lausche Gain Third Terms

Governor Returns By Big Margin

BULLETIN

AP returns from 10,368 polling places complete show:
Frank J. Lausche (D) 1,514,590.
Don H. Ebright (R) 1,368,438.

By Associated Press

Gov. Frank J. Lausche, a Democrat who risked his party's ire by expressing admiration for the Republican senator, won a third term.

Republican Don H. Ebright, who had to give up the state treasurer's office after a 12-year tenure to run against Lausche, did not throw in the sponge until 3:55 a. m.

Lausche was leading by more than 128,000 votes at that time.

Bucked Labor

It was victory under unusual circumstances for the 55-year-old governor, son of Slovenian immigrant parents, a former mayor of Cleveland, and a former common pleas judge.

Lausche, titular leader of the Ohio Democratic Party, stunned party members and incensed labor leaders last June by expressing admiration for Republican Taft.

He said he was undecided whether to vote for Taft or for his own party's senatorial nominee, Joseph T. Ferguson. After casting his ballot Tuesday, he declined to

Democrats Hold Shaky Control

GOP Comeback Almost Evens Senate Seats; Dewey Wins Again

By Jack Bell

AP Political Reporter

Democrats held onto shaky control of Congress today after Republicans mowed down Senate administration leaders in a stunning vote assault on President Truman's policies.

So strong was the GOP comeback from the Presidential year defeat of 1948 that the new Senate, meeting in January, will line up with 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans.

That change represented a gain of six seats for the Republicans—in California, Idaho, Illinois, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Utah—offset in part by the loss of that held by Senator Forrest Donnell of Missouri. The Senate division was the closest since 1930.

A few House races remained to be decided but the Democrats had won mathematical control and seemed to be pointed to a majority over the Republicans of about 20 seats.

In an anti-Truman Administration phalanx, Republican opponents bowled over Senators Scott W. Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, and Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, his assistant in a sweep that saw only one GOP senator defeated.

He was Senator Donnell, who lost to Thomas C. Hennings Jr., in Mr. Truman's home state. The President had given belated support to Hennings after opposing him in the primary.

The GOP victories—which included the re-election of "Mr. Republican," Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio—were variously attributed to the adverse turn on the Korean war, criticism of the

Defeat Is Bitter Pill For Labor

BULLETIN

AP returns from 10,386 polling places complete, show:
Joseph T. Ferguson (D), 1,211,658.
Robert A. Taft (R) 1,642,537.

(By The Associated Press)

The long, bitter battle for the U. S. Senatorship came to a definite end at 2:15 a. m. today when Joseph T. Ferguson, the Democratic candidate, gave up.

Ferguson, who boasted throughout the campaign that "I'll beat Taft by 250,000 votes," was trailing by 205,284 in the Associated Press tabulation as he wired congratulations to the Republican senator and stated:

"I bow to the will of the majority of the people of Ohio."

It appeared likely that Taft's majority would exceed 350,000.

Taft predicted a 250,000 margin for himself at midnight, then went home.

His son Lloyd, advised that Ferguson had conceded defeat, told newsmen:

"Dad does not want to be disturbed because of mother's illness."

It was a bitter pill for the CIO and the AFL, which went all-out to defeat the co-author of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Jacob Clayman, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO, commented:

"The road to social and economic justice is a long and hard one. Today apparently we were delayed. Tomorrow we will start on our way

Graduate Student Builds Radio Show As MA Thesis

By Joseph J. Petti

The auditorium of Hughes Hall resembled a major recording studio recently, as William M. Smith, Grad, recorded a 15-minute radio show.

Microphones, earphones, and recording equipment were distributed over the stage along with 18 musicians and assorted onlookers last Sunday as the show was put on a tape recording.

"Ebb Tide" is the title and theme of the show which was produced, directed and written by Smith as a part of the requirement for the Master of Arts degree in Radio.

According to Smith this is the first time a show of this nature has been produced by a graduate student. The program will consist of 15 minutes of especially arranged music, designed for a radio orchestra.

Fascinating Background

The 18-piece band that Smith has gathered for this show is made up of some of the finest musicians on the campus and from Columbus. The musicians donated their time and talents to making this show a success. The background of the show is almost as fascinating as that of the producer.

Gathering a group of musicians and producing a show is nothing out of the ordinary for Smith. His background as an ace drummer includes playing with the orchestras of Bobby Sherwood, Johnny "Scat" Davis, and fronting the Jimmy Joyce group last year.

At Ohio University, where he received his BS in Radio-Journalism, Smith led his own band. At other times he played with Ray Wetzel when the ex-Stan Kenton trumpeter had his own combination.

Many Students on Show

On the show, a number of Ohio State students will have an opportunity to perform.

All the music on the show was especially arranged for a radio orchestra, and Smith produced, wrote, and directed the entire program.

(By The Associated Press)

LAKE SUCCESS—The United States today charged the Chinese Communists with direct military intervention in Korea, and urged the United Nations Security Council to require the Mao Tze-Tung regime to withdraw its forces.

At every previous council session dealing with Korea or China, Russia's Jacob A. Malik has demanded that a representative of the Communist Peiping government be invited. He is expected to repeat that demand today.

SEOUL—Six hundred allied warplanes blasted North Korea all along the Manchurian border today to block off Red reinforcements from Communist China.

An American F-80 Shooting Star jet shot down a Russian-made MIG-15 jet fighter. Another Red jet was damaged but escaped to Manchuria.

On the ground UN troops pushed forward on all fronts.

WASHINGTON—Democrats nailed down continued control of both branches of Congress today by clinching 218 House and 49 Senate seats.

BELLAIRE—Adolph Pacifico, president of United Mine Workers District 6, today said State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson was defeated in the Senate race because the Democratic party did not support him.

Pacifico said, "It did not support Ferguson—from the governor on down."

The two Buckeye backs will be in for a busy afternoon Saturday when the Badgers invade Ohio Stadium. As one of the main cogs in the Scarlet defensive backfield, Widdoes should have quite a time knocking down the expected Wisconsin passing attack.

Sturtz, Ohio State kickoff return specialist, also works in the defensive alignment. The fleetfooted halfback will be out to try for another sensational runback like the one at Northwestern.

Buckeye Harriers Face Unbeaten Indiana Saturday

By Merle McKinley

Ohio State's harriers will face their big test of the season when they tangle with Indiana's unbeaten aggregation Saturday at Bloomington.

The Hoosiers last week copped their third straight Big State championship at Indianapolis. In defending their crown, the Indiana squad was forced to outdistance eleven state schools including strong outfits from Purdue and Notre Dame.

Purdue's Bob Rodibaugh was the individual star of the day, but he had to cover the four-mile distance in record-breaking time to win. Bob Dillinger, Indiana's ace, pushed Rodibaugh all the way and was only 20 yards behind at the finish.

Coach Gordon Fisher's team has been hampered by early season injuries but they should be at full strength for Saturday's meet. He plans to start George Brancan, Dick Buehling, Jack Hagen, Roy Whiteman, Stu Templeton, and Bob Dillinger.

The Ohio State squad has been working out daily this week in an effort to throttle the Hoosiers. Indiana's course has more hills than the local course, so Coach Charles Beetham has been putting his squad through their paces over rougher terrain. A three-mile workout is scheduled for later in the week.

When asked about the squad's chances, Beetham remarked, "The

Sawyer Named Manager Of Year By Sportswriters

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(AP)—Affable Eddie Sawyer, a former college professor who never played an inning in the big leagues, today was voted baseball's "Manager of the Year" in a nation-wide poll conducted by the Associated Press.

Sawyer, who led the Philadelphia Phillies to their first pennant in 35 years last season, edged out Casey Stengel of the World Champion New York Yankees in a close battle.

Sawyer was named on 164 of the 381 ballots cast by sportswriters and sportscasters. Stengel, who won the honor in 1949, received 134 votes to finish a close second.

Four other field leaders received recognition. Red Rolfe, who did a brilliant job in bringing the Detroit Tigers home second to the Yankees in the American League race, was third with 51 votes. Leo Durocher's feat in directing the New York Giants to third place in the National League race won him fourth place with 23 votes. Steve O'Neill, who replaced Joe McCarthy in June and righted the Boston Red Sox, got five votes. Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators received four.

Michigan State Joins Conference Cage Play

CHICAGO, Nov. 8—Big Ten basketball teams will launch the 1950-51 basketball season the first Saturday in December this year with two innovations: (1) a 14-game Conference schedule, and (2) Michigan State as a Conference member in basketball competition.

The Big Ten's complete schedule, released today, discloses that seven teams will open their seasons Dec. 2, and the remaining three on Dec. 4.

The opening card for the first Saturday in December shows De Pauw at Indiana, Miami of Ohio at Michigan, Michigan State at Wayne, Western Michigan at Northwestern, Nebraska at Minnesota, Wabash at Purdue and Marquette at Wisconsin. On the following Monday, Dec. 4, Marquette opens Illinois' season at Champaign, De Pauw is at Iowa and Kansas State is at Ohio State.

The first Big Ten clash comes Jan. 1 when Illinois invades Wisconsin. Michigan is at Purdue the following night and the other Big Ten squads break into Conference competition on Jan. 6. Michigan State's first Conference basketball game sends the Spartans against Northwestern at Evanston, Jan. 6.

When Michigan State was introduced into the Conference schedule, the Big Ten increased the number of Conference games for each school from 12 to 14. However, the limit on total games remained the same at 22. Michigan State is scheduled for 21 games this season while all other Conference teams will play 22.

Western Conference teams will play 35 non-Conference teams plus Minnesota's engagements in the annual Big Seven pre-season tournament at Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 27-29-30. Following is a sectional breakdown of Big Ten non-Conference foes with the number of times they play Big Ten teams:

EAST: Pennsylvania (3), Pittsburgh (2), Penn State (2), Princeton (2).

BIG SEVEN: Kansas State (4), Oklahoma (2), Kansas, Nebraska.

MISSOURI VALLEY: Missouri (2), St. Louis Univ. (2), Bradley (2), Drake, Detroit.

PACIFIC COAST: Oregon State (2), Washington State, UCLA, Stanford.

SOUTHWEST: Rice, Texas Christian.

SOUTHEASTERN: Tulane, Kentucky.

SOUTHERN: North Carolina State.

FAR WEST: San Jose State.

MIDWEST: Butler (8), Notre Dame (8), Marquette (8), De Paul (3), Loyola (3), Toledo (2), De Pauw (2), Western Michigan (2), Miami, Western Reserve, Wayne, Wabash.

Bucks Rate 18 Points Over Badgers

CHICAGO, Nov. 8—(AP)—The Old Swami, getting back on the ball with only one miss and a split on a tie last week, pulls these out of the hat:

Ohio State, 32; Wisconsin, 14—Although the surprising, once-beaten Badgers will be all set for their best effort of the season, they haven't the manpower to cope with the Buckeye Tornado . . . this figures to be another romp for Janowicz, Klevay and Company over an alert team that has its eyes on the Rose Bowl trip.

Illinois, 27; Iowa, 19—One of these days the Hawkeyes are going to explode behind the passing of Glenn Drahn and the running of Jerry Faske and the running of Jerry Faske . . . this will be a game for Bowl-hopeful Illinois to have its guard up.

Northwestern, 20; Purdue, 13—A case of fumbles has wrecked the Wildcats in their last two games, with Wisconsin and Ohio State . . . They'll be primed to return to the victory beam, but Purdue, long overdue, may toss a scare.

Michigan, 21; Indiana, 13—The Hoosiers, backed by the double-edged threat of D'Achille's passing and Robertson's running, may recover enough scoring punch to surprise the Wolverines . . . Indiana is due after going scoreless against Illinois and Michigan State . . . but Michigan looks at least one touchdown better in surging back from a 7-7 tie with Minnesota and a 7-0 loss to Illinois.

Notre Dame, 20; Pitt, 7—The Irish should nab their second win in a row for the first time this season . . . but they'd better make certain their pass defense is clicking.

Michigan State, 21; Minnesota, 0—Spartan coach Biggie Munn faces his alma mater and should find easy pickin's in rolling up a fifth straight victory for the season . . . The Gophers have not yet won a game.

Marquette, 14; Holy Cross, 13—Eddie Anderson makes his first Midwestern shot since leaving Iowa to coach the Crusaders . . . He will find Lisle Blackburn's Hilltoppers a mite too much.

Drive-in Runs To Size

NATICK, Mass. — (UP)—This town claims to have the biggest drive-in theater in America. Occupying 26 acres and with a screen nine times the size of a normal theater screen, it can accommodate 1,350 automobiles. Owners figure on an audience of about 4,000 persons nightly.

Julius Caesar sent his famous "I came, I saw, I conquered" message in 47 B.C. He died in 44 B.C. by assassination in the senate at Rome.

I-M Playoffs Begin Today For 16 Teams

With the regular league competition out of the way, the league winners are preparing for the play-offs. Drawings for the play-offs were held at a meeting Monday night.

Tonight's action will have 34 teams competing for first round honors on 17 fields. The action will continue with 10 more games scheduled for Thursday evening.

In past years it has been the policy of the I-M office to select an All-Star team from the men participating in intramural football. This policy is to continue this year and two squads composed of players from the teams competing in the play-offs are to be chosen by the touch football officials.

Each official is allowed to vote for any three men on each team which in his opinion deserve to be on the All-Star Team. A special ballot, with the name of the player, team, and position, will determine the selection of each official. These ballots will be used each night for the individual games and the selection of the team will depend upon the total number of votes cast for each player by the officials.

'New Frontier' Series Make WOSU Debut

"The New Frontier," a weekly half-hour program dealing with problems of prejudice and discrim-ination in the United States, made its first appearance over WOSU Sunday. The new series is design-ed to promote good human rela-tions in the community and world-wide human rights, with emphasis on what the average American can do about them.

The first 15 minutes of each pro-gram features a dramatization pre-pared by the Institute for Demo-cratic Education and produced by professional writers and cast. The initial program presented Quentin Reynolds, noted writer and lectur-er, in a documentary which stressed the need for self-analysis in each community.

Panel participants in the discus-sion period following the transcrib-ed portion included: Robert Gunning, Ohio League for Constitu-tional Rights; William Brooks, counsel for the NAACP; and Dr. Roger Bosworth, minister of the First Universalist Church of Col-umbus. Moderator was Prof. Alan F. Griffin, College of Education.

A 27-member committee, repre-senting many interested commu-nity groups and Ohio State, is spon-soring the series and serving in an advisory role.

'Rather Look At People,' Says Coed As Student Opinions On TV Differ

"In order to get rid of the boys, we were forced to get rid of our television set," Barbara Burgess, Ed-2, said in reference to her sorority's TV problem.

Statements like this make television a very controversial issue on campus today.

"Television is the most unso-cialable invention in years," Bar-bara Hubbard, Com-4, insists. Miss Hubbard prefers a con-genial evening where everyone looks at each other instead of a TV screen.

Television seems to rate higher with fraternities than sororities. The Sigma Chis and the Phi Delta Thetas have their sets turned on whenever programs are being broadcast.

However it does not interfere with dating, for as Barry Storter, Com-4, stated, "For a less expen-sive date TV does have its advan-tages."

However, for the Tri-Delts, television has lost its fascina-tion. "Our set is not used nearly as much as when it was new," JoAnn Heywood, Ed-4, said. On the other hand those Ohio *Staters who participate on tele-vision shows are enthusiastic about TV. Adeline Gebauer, A-4, who has her own show for a downtown store, stated that the new medium is much more personal than radio for both cast and listener.

Decidedly television is not on its way out. The facts of television's acceptance by the public state that in the evening it gets about 25 hours for every one hour given to the radio.

World War Three?

World War Three may be decided upon today at the meeting of the U.N. Security Council.

The Council, called into emergency session to deal with the problem of Communist China intervention in Korea, is faced with a difficult decision.

Should it label the Chinese Reds and the Peiping regime aggressors in Korea, and order a full scale military effort to drive them out of Korea?

Or should it just let the situation slide by reiterating the UN order for all states to refrain from giving aid to the North Korean aggressors, without specifically mentioning China by name?

If the former action is taken, it could very conceivably touch off a chain of events leading to another World War.

If the latter course is followed, will the Reds stop? Remember, unauthorized or unrecognized troops fire the same bullets as aggressors.

It is a very difficult decision. It must be made when the diplomats seem to be lacking two of the basic facts needed for understanding.

1. How deeply committed is Red China in Korea?

2. What would Russia do if the UN decided to war against Communist China?

The issues involved are not clearly cut, black and white. There are shades of gray involved.

The U.S. wants to refrain from any action that would definitely commit it to war against China. It wants to avoid an immediate showdown. We would like to end the Korean aggression without taking any step to involve the tremendous land armies of China in the fighting.

While this may seem like a vacillating policy to some, we think it is the right course to pursue.

There have been some reports of Red troops withdrawing, and there is still hope that MacArthur's forces can deal decisively with the threat.

So for the time being we say let the thing ride. Reiterate our order for all states to refrain from giving aid to the aggressors. In this way we give Red China an out. We can guarantee that the dams in Korea, which pipe water to Manchuria, will be operated freely.

Until we are better prepared, let's try every alternative before becoming involved in an all-out war.

We definitely do not favor appeasement. Neither do we favor all-out war while there is any alternative, or any hope of avoiding it.

Try this first, then, if it doesn't work and the Chinese continue the fight, we have but one course of action.

Let's not take it until we have to.

'He's A Bum' Seems To Be Favorite Phrase In American Political Campaigns

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—The political campaign which just ended was distinguished for its very high, but very subtle, intellectual tone.

For instance, the phrase—"He's a bum"—appeared more than once, giving a staccato effect to sentences which otherwise seemed ponderous.

You can see the advantage in the repetition of a phrase like that day after day, used by a politician to sum up a rival.

It forms an instant link between the speaker and the voters because there hardly breathes a man who at some time or other:

1. Hasn't known a bum or two and formed opinions of them; or
2. Has himself called some rival—in love, dice or business—a bum; or
3. Hasn't been called a bum by some rival.

So the beautifully simple phrase "he's a bum"—penetrated immediately to the emotions and imaginations and recollections of the voters.

Such a phrase has an added utility: it saves an amazing amount of literary wear and tear on the speech writers whenever they can find a place for it.

But, having flexed their mental muscles with such one-syllable color pieces as "He's a bum," the speakers were then able to display their command over much more complicated words that ran up to as many as four syllables, words like:

"Thief, liar, crook, faker, trickster, barbarian, nefarious conspirator, little Stalin, and hypocrite."

Since this country has assumed world leadership, it may have been a little disquieting for any foreigner who heard the speeches to think that one of the people so described might get elected to high office.

There was no need for them to be disturbed. In spite of any notions to the contrary, American politicians, by and large, are an extremely conservative group, as you can see from what follows:

They could have reached out for some new-fangled ideas not tested by politicians in previous years. But politicians know from experience that the new is always dangerous. Such a step by itself would have been proof of radical tendencies.

So whole herds of this year's politicians, modestly and conservatively, stuck to the old political stand-bys, giving a kind of familiar touch to all they said.

So this one was "tarred with isolationism," that one was "leading the nation down the road to socialism," this one was "hand-picked by Wall Street" and that one was a "rubber stamp for the administration."

And, geographically, this year's politicians displayed an astonishing range and versatility, giving individual interpretations of what happened at Yalta, laying the blame for Korea, and disclosing in no uncertain way the strategic importance of Formosa, or lack of it.

While such themes as "Communism" and "witch-hunting" are no longer exactly new, they were by no means overlooked by the politicians who, being human, are sentimental enough not to want to discard old things because they're old.

All of this was free, and sometimes was accompanied by a barbecue without charge. But not content with the wide variety of themes, the politicians even provided variety in technique.

Some descended in helicopters, fully equipped to begin talking on landing. This may have had a symbolic effect on voters: a man coming from the general direction of heaven, uttering prophecies.

Some had pretty girls hand out comic books at their rallies so that the voters, in the pauses between speeches, could bone up a bit on this latest American art form.

And although it may have been a little difficult for some of the dull-minded voters to see what it had to do with fitness for office, one 69-year-old candidate for governor challenged his rival to a foot race.

Australia Opens Intensified Drive For Recruits For Armed Forces

SYDNEY, Australia — (UP) — The Australian government has opened an intensified recruiting drive for its armed forces.

To spark flagging interest in enlistments, Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies made three broadcasts. He outlined the urgency of the situation and Australia's need for a solid defense force. He also announced higher rates of pay for the soldiers,* sailors and airmen.

Menzies, returning from a visit to London, Washington and Tokyo, said that for the democracies the days of isolation and independent action are as "dead as the dodo."

"If the evil day dawns on which the last great world struggle begins," he said, "we must be prepared to fight wherever it is essential that the enemy be met and overcome."

Needed In All Services

He said men were needed in all branches of the services. He reminded his nation-wide radio audience that the Korean war proved the importance of the infantryman and strong naval units, as well as air forces.

Menzies altered the standard ruling that army men cannot be sent overseas unless they volunteer to do so. Australian naval and air force units were not bound by this restriction and Menzies was determined to loosen things up a bit. New recruits thus will volunteer for duty anywhere.

He said that on his recent world tour. "It was difficult for me to explain that though both Great

Hitler Man Freed

Ernst von Weizsaecker, who served one year of a five-year sentence for plotting aggressive war and sending 6,000 French Jews to Nazi death camp, leaves Germany's Landsberg prison after commutation of sentence by American high commissioner. Woman is unidentified. Clemency ruling that brought about former Hitler diplomat's release was based on fact that he had given haven to some Jews in the German embassy at the Vatican and prevented Nazi demolitions in Rome.

Buckeye Students Dedicate Annex; One Face Needed For UMOC Contest

"There will be no cheesecake for us, only pictures of beautiful girls," says the editor of the new campus pictorial magazine, The Tall Dog. That's like asking a man whether he likes a million dollars stacked in five-dollar bills or ten-dollar bills.

Note to University officials seeking added space for students: Some Ohio State students unofficially dedicated an addition to University property in Chicago last week end. It is known as the Hotel Stevens OSU Annex for Extra-Curricular Activities.

The Ohio State football team scored one touchdown for every fumble made by Northwestern last Saturday. Buckeye rooters hope the dread "fumbleitis" disease is contagious with Wisconsin, Illinois, and Michigan.

Dept. of Same—An Ohio State coed's cow recently became a 4-H Club All-American by winning a national Jersey exposition. Now we've even got All-American cows.

Many students going home over the Thanksgiving holiday will return for the Ohio State-Michigan Homecoming game. In keeping with the holiday spirit, the Buckeyes will attempt to make cold turkey out of the Wolverines.

Homecoming queen candidates will visit small fraternities as well as large ones, sorority girls said recently. After all, the size of a man's fraternity has nothing to do with his appreciation of the finer things in life.

You, Too, Can Win Fame Dept.—The "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest is now in full swing. Only requirement: At least one face.

A sensational new rocket engine has been developed recently by the Cryogenic Laboratory at Ohio State. It was rumored that all they did was harness the energy used up by the Buckeye male who was late for a heavy date.

Election Results To Be Discussed At Town Meeting

Columbus Town Meeting will present the question, "1950 Elections: What Do They Indicate?" on the post-election program Sunday at 1 p. m.

Speakers will be two of the country's leading figures in political forecasting and analysis.

They are Roger C. Dunn, founder and director of the Dunn Survey, Greenwich, Conn., and Louis H. Bean, economic advisor in the Office of the Secretary, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Mr. Dunn, whose organization has been surveying political issues and elections since the early 30's, numbers newspapers, business firms and private citizens among his clientele.

Mr. Bean, author of numerous analyses on elections and economic subjects, has done research in such subjects as farm and national income, business cycles, agricultural-industrial relations as well as in the forecasting of political behavior.

One World Is Reality At Zonta International House

Is Unique In Country

By Betty Ann Martin

"We ain't furriners. We're neighbors."

These words were spoken with an exaggerated twang by Jane Ryan, one of the American students living at the Zonta International House for women.

Though humorously spoken, they represent the attitude of 15 Ohio State coeds living in a miniature "one world" at 1875 Summit St. Combating the notion that international, or overseas students are some sort of phenomena, the eight American and seven overseas coeds are proving that they can live in harmony despite differences in nationality.

The only international house for college women in the United States, the house was purchased, redecorated, and furnished by the Zonta International Club of Columbus.

Sponsoring everything from jitney suppers to bake sales, the service club raised nearly $35,000 for the project. The house was opened at the beginning of Fall Quarter.

One is struck by the quiet charm of the modern blonde furniture, dark green walls and white woodwork, chartreuse and red furnishings, and bright flowered drapes. Flower arrangements, the work of Kathryn Boulton, one of the American students who is majoring in fine arts, brighten up the living room.

Upstairs in the girls' rooms, bright curtains with peasant motifs add an international flavor. On one dresser also is a hand-carved chest of teakwood. A pair of hand-sewn bedroom slippers from Bavaria protrudes from under a bed. On the wall of the housemother's room hangs an Egyptian tapestry, and in the bookcase is a United Nations display.

Although no meals are served at the house, the girls can prepare snacks. Later on, they plan to cook some international meals. Already they have had a French breakfast—French rolls, butter, jam, and coffee.

Students were selected to live at Zonta House by the dean of women's office. They pay the same rates as girls in the dorms do, although most of the overseas students are here on scholarships from their native lands.

The American students are majoring in speech correction, fine arts, and home economics, and find living at Zonta has educational advantages.

Norma Shapiro, a senior majoring in speech correction, and house president, gave this reason for moving into Zonta.

"I want to travel, and as I can't yet, I am doing my traveling vicariously," she said. She is also impressed by the spirit of co-operation in the house—more than she encountered in her three years at the dorms.

Carol Longenecker, Grad, found a very practical advantage in living at Zonta. As assistant instructor in Spanish, she is improving her speaking knowledge of the language through her friendship with Silvia Moglia of Chile. And conversely, Silvia is learning to speak English more fluently. She is majoring in social administration.

Owner of the longest name in the house is Seela Chayaniyayodhin, from Siam. She is a grad student in elementary education.

Elizabeth Gerhardt, of Bavaria, is a grad student in secondary education. She has been in this country only six weeks, and is thankful for the fellowship of Zonta House.

"Nobody told me anything when I arrived in New York," she remembered. "I was put into a bathtub and sent on my way."

She speaks English well, but laughingly said, "If the girls talk fast and use a lot of slang, I have trouble understanding them."

Another new student is Renate Wittwer, from the French zone in Germany. She will study American literature and cultural history for one year under the exchange student set-up of the State Department.

She looked very Swiss in her red plaid suit trimmed in white fur ... which she bought here, she said.

Luz Vieira-Mendez is studying education under a commission from the government of Venezuela. Her official title is technical advisor. She has a fellowship from the American Association of University Women.

This is not her first experience in an international house, for she spent the Summer at the American Language Center of Columbia University. While there, she lived with 500 other overseas students at the International House in New York City.

Housemother at Zonta is Mrs. Lenore Porter, widow of a missionary of King Ave. Methodist Church. She came here in September from the educational service of the United Nations in New York. A member of the Greater New York Council for International Students, she met students and DP's arriving from abroad. Before that she was head of the student movement of the Methodist Church. She spent many years with her husband in India.

FMA To Hold Annual Food Fair For Greeks Nov. 9

Food will be the word of the day at the Fraternity Managers' Association fourth annual Food Fair at the College Road Cafeteria Thursday evening.

The FMA, which buys and distributes food for 75 Greek organizations, will bring together Columbus merchants, fraternity and sorority officers, advisors, and head residents. Over 600 persons are expected.

Merchants will display food and equipment, provide samples of every kind of food, and give away many door prizes.

Miss Roberta Abernathy, national executive secretary of Delta Gamma, is general chairman of the Food Fair. Student members of the committee are Patricia D. Redman, Lois P. Fouty, Larry Conaway, Donis D. Patterson, Murdock N. MacRae, Joan E. Mylander, and Edgar A. Miller Jr.

The FMA is a non-profit voluntary food buying pool which saves about 20 per cent of the total food cost for the fraternities and sororities.

Mrs. Thelma Saltee Glick is manager of the FMA and is responsible for purchases totaling $575,000 annually.

"The favorite food of the Greek organizations is milk and members drank 353,533 quarts last year," remarked Mrs. Glick.

"And in spite of the fact that the Greeks do a lot of their own baking, the bill for baked goods was $34,000," she added.

The association was the first of its kind in the United States and many colleges are using it as a model.

Prepare New Covers

Keeping well informed on events in engineering and agriculture is made easy for students in those fields. Magazines are published by and for students in these colleges.

Agricultural Student, oldest and largest agriculture college publication in the U. S., will be published six times this year. Information on farming and agricultural organizations is given in this magazine with a 5,000 circulation.

A face lifting in the way of a new cover design is being given the Agricultural Student. In the past, awards for good cover designs have been given to this publication.

Not outdone by agriculture students, the engineering students publish their own Ohio State Engineer. This publication, founded in 1917, gives "semi-technical information, and anything of interest to engineering students."

Published for students and faculty, the Ohio State Engineer has a circulation of 3,500.

120-Year-Old Pear Tree Bears Another Crop

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. — (UP)—Illinois' oldest fruit tree produced another crop of pears this year, although late frost and cold Spring weather reduced the crop to a few dozen pears.

The tree, 120 years old, was planted in Jerseyville in 1830 by Dr. Ralph H. VanPelt, who brought the tree with him from New Jersey when he migrated west.

Despite its age and tornado damage, the pear tree produced fully the last two years.

Instructor In Recital

Jeanne Marie Widergren, instructor in the School of Music, will appear in a vocal recital Sunday at Scott Hall, Dallas, Tex., as a winner of the Texas Young Artist Award competition.

Miss Widergren, a contralto, was among four winning competitors in the annual state-wide contest sponsored by the Dallas Civic Federation. She joined the Ohio State faculty this Fall.

A graduate of Hastings College, Hastings, Neb., Miss Widergren received the degree of Master of Music at the University of Texas last August.

She won the Midwest Summer Music Festival, Omaha, in 1948 and took second place in the Chicago and Music Festival the same year. Earlier this year she placed second in the Minnie Snead Wilcox contest in Austin, Tex.

She appeared as a Messiah soloist on several occasions, and has sung roles in "Faust" and "The Marriage of Figaro," both at the University of Texas.

Fruit Peddler Wins Banana Reprieve

OMAHA, Neb. — (UP) — Police Captain Peter McGuire received a complaint that a fruit peddler had parked his truck in a residential district.

A cruiser went to investigate but soon the same person called to repeat the complaint.

"But I sent a cruiser to move him along," protested Captain McGuire.

"Well, he's still here," said the voice. "All the officers did was buy some bananas from him."

Prof. Harsha Bemoans Lack Of Rosy Cheeks, Mustache

By Ed Green

"He's got a mustache and rosy cheeks. I haven't," chuckled Prof. Wayne V. Harsha, of the School of Journalism. He was referring to the English department's Prof. Wilson R. Dumble. It seems that those two gentlemen are vying for the title, "Ohio State's Most Eligible Bachelor."

Campus Rent Prices Still Unchanged

A. E. Hittetpole, Ohio State housing director, announced Tuesday that a survey conducted by his office revealed that near-campus housing prices had remained relatively unchanged during the past two years.

Single rooms, Hittetpole pointed out, now average $63.68 a quarter, as compared to $60.35 a quarter two years ago. Double rooms are now $56.97 a quarter, on the average, as compared to $55.72 a quarter two years ago.

It was found that the single rooms varied in price from a low of $48 a quarter to a high of $96 a quarter. Double rooms varied from $30 a quarter to $90 a quarter.

"We want these facts made known to the students," said Hittetpole, "so that those who are living in the higher price range may discover that cheaper housing is available."

"Many people, with a limited budget, may be living in too expensive housing."

The figures were the result of sampling done by surveying 50 University-approved houses near the campus.

A conjunctive survey also revealed that food prices had remained about the same as during that same period, two years ago.

The average off-campus meal now costs $1.96.

Students Go To Akron; Visit Stores

Twenty-five retailing majors in the College of Commerce will leave for Akron today where they will be guests of the Retail Merchants Association and leading Akron retail stores. Mrs. Katherine Porter Allen, assistant professor of business organization and retailing advisor, will be in charge of the field trip.

At dinner in the Mayflower Hotel, the students will be greeted by the general managers of several Akron stores. Lincoln Gries, president of M. O'Neil & Co., and Earl Warner, president of the A. Polsky Co., will be among the dinner speakers.

The students will visit four department stores Thursday, where special programs will be presented covering different phases of retail operation. At noon, the group will be guests of the Retail Merchants Association at a luncheon, which will be followed by a panel dis-

* "I'm working under a distinct disadvantage," Professor Harsha continued. "I was brought up in Westerville, the national headquarters of the Anti-Saloon League."

In 1927 Professor Harsha was graduated from Otterbein College with majors in the romance languages, English, and journalism.

For the next few years he led a busy life. From 1927 to 1932 he was managing editor of the United States Publisher and Printer, published by H. L. Williamson in Springfield, Ill.

In 1932 that professional journal was combined with another and became the National Printer-Journalist. Professor Harsha continued as managing editor until 1938.

Life became more and more complex during this time. In 1932 Professor Harsha was chosen assistant secretary of the Illinois Press Association. He held this office, too, until 1938.

From 1935 till 1938, in addition to his other positions, Professor Harsha served as managing editor of Printing Industry, a magazine for printers.

"It would have been a fine life," he reminisced, "if I could have found the time to eat and sleep."

In the fall of 1938 Professor Harsha came to Ohio State to get his master's degree in journalism.

cussion featuring recent college graduates who are now employed in Akron stores.

In addition to Mrs. Allen, the students will be accompanied by John Steele, placement director of the College of Commerce. Prof. H. H. Maynard, department of business organization, will join the group in Akron.

Popular Prof.

Prof. Wayne V. Harsha

The next year he was appointed business advisor to student publications, a position he still holds.

At present Professor Harsha is literally his own boss. He was recently chosen chairman of the University Committee on Student Publications. That committee is immediately superior to the business advisor to student publications.

In 1941 Professor Harsha started teaching in the School of Journalism. He tries to make his classes interesting for the students.

"I don't feed the text books back to them," he remarked.

Students in Professor Harsha's classes hear outside speakers and see movies relating to their studies.

As often as he can, Professor Harsha arranges field trips for his students. They visit newspapers both in Columbus and in other cities to study makeup, typography, and other allied subjects.

Three years ago Professor Harsha was chosen "Professor of the Year" by the Arts College Council.

In addition to his teaching duties, Professor Harsha is executive secretary of the Ohio College Newspaper Association, composed of 40 college newspapers throughout the state.

He is also faculty advisor to the Ohio State chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity, and secretary of the Central Ohio Professional Chapter.

Fading Interest Dissolves Campus Political Group

The campus branch of the Students For Democratic Action will be disbanded soon, according to the chairman, George Sterne, L-1.

Sterne blamed a general lack of interest among the students and subsequent falling membership as the reason for dissolving the local group. Sterne will resign the chairmanship at a meeting tonight at 7:30 in Room 10 of the Ohio Union.

Students For Democratic Action was organized at Ohio State in 1947. It is an affiliate of Americans for Democratic Action.

"It's the last permanent political organization on the campus," Sterne said.

In June of this year, Sterne and Hal Goldberg, '50, attended a meeting of the National Student Association at Swarthmore College where problems of national and international politics were discussed.

Sterne pointed out that at schools like Brooklyn College and the University of Chicago, SDA groups were extremely active in campus and national affairs.

Nursing Official Visits Campus

Miss M. Olwen Davies of New York City, associate director in Education for the National Organization for Public Health Nursing, will visit the campus Friday to confer with Miss Frances McKenna, director of the School of Nursing.

While in Columbus, Miss Davies will also meet with executives of the Ohio State Department of Health, the Ohio Nursing Committee on Comprehensive Nursing, the directors of other schools of nursing and the advisory committee for Mt. Carmel and Ohio State.

Ag Team Treks To Timmonium

Ohio State's livestock judging team will trek to Timmonium, Md., Saturday for the Eastern National Livestock Show. The team will compete against 13 other Eastern schools, announced Herman R. Purdy, of the department of animal husbandry, who has coached University livestock judging teams since 1946.

Cattle, horses, sheep, and swine will be judged. Contestants choose the best animals in each group and then give oral reasons to defend their placings. These reasons play a large part in determining the winners of the contest.

So far this year the team has taken first place in two shows. It won at Purdue Oct. 21 and again at Illinois Oct. 28.

Last year at the Timmonium show Ohio State's team won out against 12 other schools.

Mr. Purdy pointed out that it was sometimes difficult to have winning teams year after year. A student may compete in livestock judging for only one year. "It's different from sports," he said. "There, the same stars play for several years in a row."

Five team members and two alternates will accompany Mr. Purdy to Timmonium. They are Max D. Cox, Charles E. Jordan, George E. Frank, John E. Smith, John W. Magie, Richard R. Rainier, and Donald B. Schilling.

Three Classes To Honor Ex-Department Head

Dr. J. R. Withrow, chairman of the chemical engineering department from 1906 to 1948, will be honored by chemical engineers Nov. 25, during Homecoming Week.

Dr. J. H. Koffolt, present chairman of the chemical engineering department, told members of the student chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineering that the classes of '18, '43, and '48 will pay tribute to their former professor.

Weaver Speaks Thursday

J. Edward Weaver, athletic department ticket director, will speak at a Northern Kiwanis Club meeting at 6:15 p. m., Thursday, in Henri Boyd's Inn.

Ticket Sales Boosted By Arts Council

Support of the Arts College Council has been offered in promoting the sale of season tickets to the University Concert Series. Twenty members of the council have volunteered to sell tickets and are undertaking an intensive solicitation of fraternity, sorority and other student groups on the campus.

Six concerts remain on the series. Talley Beatty's dance company will present "Tropicana," in University Hall Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 15-16, as the next presentation. Season tickets for the series will be available through next Wednesday from Arts College Council salesmen and at the School of Music offices in Hughes Hall.

James Goldrich, member of Phi Sigma Delta and treasurer of the council, is organizing the ticket selling drive. Other officers of the council are James Barnes, member of Beta Theta Pi, president; Joyce H. Miller, Delta Gamma, vice-president; Sally Moore, Kappa Kappa Gamma, corresponding secretary, and Audrey Palmer, Alpha Xi Delta, recording secretary.

Others selling tickets and their fraternal memberships are Peggy Evans, Alpha Delta Pi; Bill Hand, Alpha Tau Omega; Marjorie Hillier, Alpha Delta Pi; Dick Kohn, Zeta Beta Tau; Howard Kottler, Tau Epsilon Pi; Delores Lubell, Sigma Delta Tau; Anita Mendelson, Phi Sigma Sigma; Martha Nichols, Alpha Delta Pi; Joan Raudabaugh, Delta Zeta; Sue Rector, Pi Beta Phi; James Ruffner, Tau Kappa Epsilon; Doug Shilliday, Beta Theta Pi; Bruce Walton, Alpha Gamma Rho; Alba Whiteside, Independent, and Marjorie Beasley, Arts College counselor.

Author Of New Book

A new book, entitled, "Confederate Leaders of the South," is the work of Dr. William B. Hesseltine, who received his Ph.D. in 1928 at Ohio State. Dr. Hesseltine is now professor of history at the University of Wisconsin.

Some mountain peaks on the moon are higher than those on the earth. Peaks in the Leibnitz Mountains attain 26,000 to 33,000 feet. (Mt. Everest is 29,000 feet high.)

Republicans Take Over Old Seats

President's foreign policy decisions, opposition to his domestic "fair deal" program and reaction to Communist-in-government charges.

Along with Lucas and Myers, veteran Democratic Senators Millard E. Tydings of Maryland and Elbert D. Thomas of Utah went down to defeat before Republican opponents.

All four Democrats have been strong supporters of the President's foreign policies, with only Tydings wavering at times in support of administration domestic proposals.

Thomas, as chairman of the Senate Labor Committee, had led a futile administration drive to repeal the Taft-Hartley Labor Act—one of Mr. Truman's pet legislative aims.

Other seats which had been filled by Democrats were won by Republicans Herman Welker in Idaho and Rep. Richard M. Nixon in California. Nixon beat Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democrat recently praised by the President for her support of his foreign policies.

Along with Taft, Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Conference of Republican Senators, won re-election. He defeated a strong "fair deal" supporter in Democrat Rep. John A. Carroll.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, winning a third term by a substantial majority, led a parade of Republicans capturing governors' offices. GOP entries picked up posts formerly filled by Democrats in Connecticut, Maryland, Nevada, and Colorado. GOP entrants led in Arizona, Minnesota, Michigan, and New Mexico.

One of the Democratic victims was Gov. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, a "fair deal" supporter.

Some Democrats survived the Republican onslaught, notably Senators Herbert H. Lehman of New York, and Brien McMahon and William Benton of Connecticut.

Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., won re-election to the House in New York, but his brother, James Roosevelt, was defeated by Republican Gov. Earl Warren of California in the latter's bid for a third term.

A.I.E. Members Invited To Hear Egnor Speech

Suggestions on the "Application of Production Control in Small Plants" will be discussed by Robert F. Egnor, Thursday, at the meeting of the American Institute of Industrial Engineers, Inc.

All the members of the Student Chapter are invited to attend this dinner meeting at 6:30 p. m. at the Dutch Tavern.

Mr. Egnor is a graduate of Purdue University and a registered Mechanical Engineer. He attended the Naval Academy at Annapolis and worked at production control for the Navy during the war. In 1946 he came to Jeffrey Mfg. Co. to head the Production Control Department.

tunity to display their collective talents. Those in the band are: trumpets, John Sanford, Al Biales, and Dick Zemlin; saxophones, Burdette Green, Al Sillman, Frank Kinnan, and Romeo Pallante. Nancy Fowler plays oboe, and Harold Rutan is on french horn. Jack Dale is on bass.

Leading the non-students are Tommy Dale on trombone, and Gene Stewart on saxophone. Both men have their own bands in Columbus. The others in the band are: Eddie Phyfe, drums; Heinie Monaco, bass clarinet; Gene Snelling, piano; Bill Hagens, guitar; Eddie Hubbel, trombone; and Chuck Clay on bongo drums.

Chester Crumpler, formerly with the Duke Ellington band and Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout Winner, is the vocalist.

Smith has decided to use four songs on the program, beside the theme "Ebb Tide." The special arrangements for the show were made by Bart Deming, Burdette Green, Dick Heine, and Al Balogh. Heine is the arranger for the Ohio State Marching Band while Deming is the arranger-bandleader around Ohio State.

Throughout the show, Melvin Hyman, graduate assistant in the department of speech, read blank verse introducing the songs.

Smith leaves Friday for his home in Parkersburg, W. Va., where he will marry Miss Beverly Stroud, '50. Miss Stroud helped with incidental arrangements for the show. She received her Master's degree in theater.

The recording engineer for the show was M. B. Whitlock of the department of speech.

The entire program was made possible through the cooperation of the American Federation of Musicians, Local 105.

Taft Defeats Ferguson In Bitter Battle

again." The pill was bitter particularly because Taft piled up his wide margin principally because he defeated labor in its traditional strongholds, the populous, industrial counties.

Taft carried Montgomery County (Dayton), a hotbed of unionism and the CIO Auto and Electrical Workers Unions. And, he led in six other of Ohio's eight largest counties — Hamilton (Cincinnati), Franklin (Columbus), Lucas (Toledo), Mahoning (Youngstown), Stark (Canton) and Summit (Akron).

It was the CIO-PAC's worst election defeat in Ohio and it frankly puzzled the men who led the fight against Senator Taft.

"I can't put my finger on it," said Jack Kroll, national director of the CIO Political Action Committee and the man at the spearhead of the anti-Taft labor forces.

"Apparently there was an undercurrent—a trend across the country—that nobody could detect in advance."

Kroll said he could not figure out the causes behind GOP gains in both houses of Congress.

"We did the best job we knew how. I can see no reason to change our organizational or other plans."

At least one of the reasons for Taft's victory advanced by GOP leaders was the machine-like regularity of Taft's campaign—his constant pounding at what he held to be the issues. He preached the same theme hundreds of times — opposition to what he called the effort of the Democrats disclose how he voted.

Gov. Lausche Wins Again

Lausche's reelection was an indirect slap at organized labor. He had not hesitated to criticize them during the campaign. His left-handed endorsement of Taft made them angry. Neither the state CIO nor the Ohio State Federation of Labor endorsed Lausche. Some AFL unions, notably in Dayton and Youngstown, actively campaigned against him.

Governor Lausche issued a statement shortly after receiving the congratulations of Republican Ebricht.

"There will have been no victory for anyone unless, in the next two years, a governmental service is given that will strengthen our state and nation, remove injustices and develop programs within our Constitutional limitations for the betterment of our people," said Lausche.

He congratulated Ebricht on "the decency of the campaign which he conducted."

to force socialism on the United States—whether the audience was large or small.

The 61-year-old lawyer, who has grown since 1938 to be known as "Mr. Republican," made as many as 13 speeches in one day. He swept around the state like a militant pastor calling on his parishioners.

For the third time in a row, this determined tour sent the matter-of-fact Cincinnati lawyer to the Senate for another six-year term.

The same approach, however, twice failed to get for Taft the top presidential nomination—once in 1940, again in 1948.
