'Golden Girl' To Perform At Halftime

By Bill Teague

All right you guys, wipe the dust off your field glasses!

After a year of waiting, you will get a chance to look and leer at Purdue University's celebrated Golden Girl, Adelaide Darling.

Miss Darling is chief twirler in the corps of 20 coeds who perform with Purdue's 290-strong marching band. All the coeds will be here tomorrow, including Miss Darling.

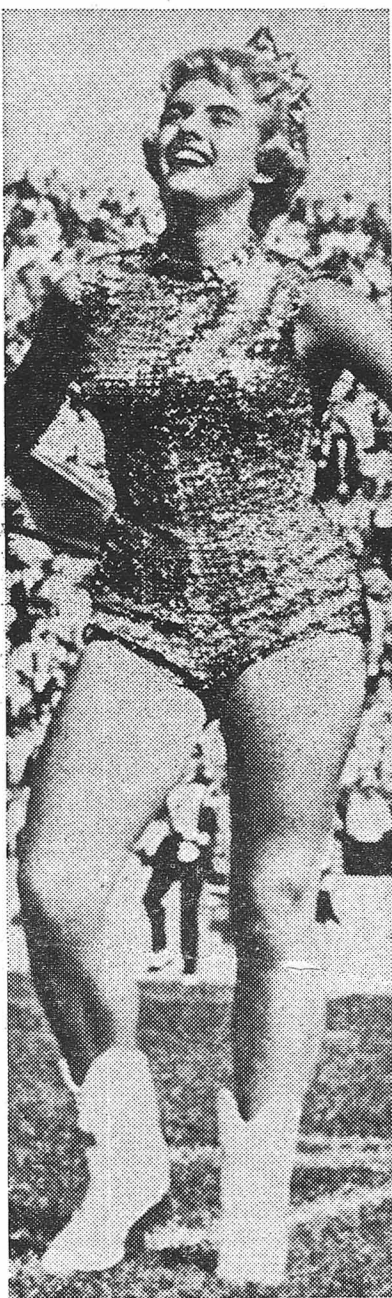

This is good news for disappointed fans of the pretty major-ette who broke into headlines last year after a specialty performance that may have helped Hawaii make it into the Union.

Her failure to appear at last year's Purdue game caused a minor campus fuss. A particularly disgruntled clique at a North High St. bar signed a petition requesting that she perform here. One baton enthusiast offered to drive to West Lafayette and get her. Many campus fraternities wired Miss Darling, asking her to come to Columbus and do her now famous twirling routine.

Local interest in the Golden Girl mounted after a memorable performance at Notre Dame last Oct. 25. While the band played "Hawaiian War Chant," Miss Darling twisted through the hippest hula this side of Honolulu. Stadium fans howled. TV network cameramen zoomed in for close-ups, and press box reporters added notes about another figure to their statistics.

Later, two Purdue coeds complained to their student newspaper that Miss Darling wiggled excessively. It was not in good taste, they claimed.

Not all agreed with the Victorian coeds. The young blonde from Manteca, California had her pictures in national magazines and most of the nation's newspapers.

Tomorrow (cackle) she'll be in the Ohio State Stadium.

But (cuss it) her act won't be as wiggly as last year, they say. After all the notoriety, Miss Darling apparently has been ordered to keep her performance less enthusiastic. She mostly just twirls now.

Homecoming Ceremonies Begin Today

It's Homecoming and Ohio State is taking on a gay, festive air. Hundreds are packing the campus and the downtown area. Hotels are crammed with Ohio State and Purdue alumni.

And after the game tomorrow, everyone is hoping to hear the gongs of the Victory Bell. Activities begin this afternoon when the living units' decorations will be judged.

TONIGHT will be the annual rally and Homecoming dance. The rally, to be led by All-American end Dean Dugger, will get underway at 6:30 when two parades will combine at the north end of the Oval and proceed to the northeast corner of the Stadium.

What was Homecoming like in the 1920's? See story on page 3.

A bonfire will spark the rally. The cheerleaders and the Marching Band will be on hand along with Coach Woody Hayes, Captain Jim Houston and the rest of the Bucks.

The Homecoming Dance will be held tonight in the Ohio Union Ballrooms. Starting at 9, the Ralph Marterie band will provide the music. During intermission, the 1959 Homecoming Queen and house decoration winners will be announced.

SATURDAY morning, hundreds will flock to the campus and the off-campus area to view the house decorations. Alumni will be returning en masse.

Game time Saturday is 1:30 p.m. Reports state that both the Bucks and Purdue are up and raring to go. During halftime, the Queen will be crowned during a special show by the Marching Band. The Purdue band will also be on hand.

After the game, many parties will be held. All sororities are planning open houses immediately afterwards and everyone is invited. No invitations will be needed. Also, there will be an open house in Pomerene Hall. The Marching Band will hold a reception for the Purdue band in the French Field House.

Let's go Bucks—beat Purdue.

Group To Meet

The Young Adult Graduate Group of the Ohio State YM-YWCA will meet at 7 tonight in room 316, Pomerene Hall. Prof. Jorgen M. Birkeland, chairman of the bacteriology department, will speak on the factors influencing the development of science with special reference to Russia.

15 Dropped; President Leaves Chair for Cause

By Vern Frame

Student Senate's legislative machinery last night hammered out a law limiting to 27 the number of trophies to be presented for Homecoming and May Week activities. About 15 awards were dropped.

A motion last week to throw out all trophies connected with Senate-sponsored activities* touched off a line of amendments, a substitution motion, and nearly three hours of discussion on the floor.

LAST WEEK'S motion was amended and given to the Student Affairs Commission for further study.

During the action, which brought 12 senators to their feet a total of 22 times, Senate President Wagner vacated her chair to argue for the trophy abolition.

MOST OF THE discussion was aimed at defining the principal underlying the motion.

"Some students think if the trophies are taken away, the activities will disappear," Miss Wagner said.

"I don't think that the motivation is the trophy. If it is, this is not the kind of value we should instill in 23,000 people," she explained.

Jim Tjoflat argued that the motivation factor was not the principal point of the controversy.

"I think that we should continue to give the trophies as rewards to those who do an outstanding job," said Tjoflat.

But an alternate Senator, Frank Williams, commented "Take away the trophies and we can build the decorations just for fun."

ACCORDING TO the motion as passed these trophies will be presented: First, second and third place house decoration trophies each to fraternities, sororities and dormitories; May Week and Homecoming Queens and Courts; First and second place plaques to Homecoming rally winners; three trophies to the May Week carnival winners, and three to the May Week Float winner.

Before legislative action started, President Wagner commented for 10 minutes upon Senate's apparent inactivity.

"If Senators only come to the meetings, in order to remain on the Senate," she said, "then I think they should resign."

She said that she could not make the traditional State of the Senate message this year because Senate doesn't have any detailed legislative plan.

In other action, Senators defeated a move to send a letter of support to Woody Hayes and the football team.

The Senators also voted to penalize organizations which have failed twice to meet requirements. Groups will have to wait one quarter before seeking recognition again.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Steelworkers' Union last night made a scaled-down contract offer to representatives of management on the eve of new negotiations in the 93-day-old steel strike.

Reliable sources said the Union pared down its wage demands in proposing a new two-year agreement.

It will be placed on the table today when labor-management negotiations resume after a 10-day break in bargaining.

Dorms Make Official Debut

Stradley, Park and Smith halls will be dedicated in a program on the second floor of the new Baker Hall dining room tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. President Fawcett will preside.

The buildings, housing 1,488 men and costing $6,650,000, have been named for three former University officials—Vice President Bland L. Stradley, who died in 1957; Joseph A. Park, dean of men, who died in 1952, and Howard Dwight Smith, University architect, who died last year.

In attendance will be members of the Stradley, Park and Smith families, University and state officials, student representatives and parents of the halls' residents.

SPEAKERS ON the program will include Judge Robert N. Gorman, chairman of the Board of Trustees; William S. Guthrie, executive dean of student relations; Mylin H. Ross, dean of men; and three students, James W. Landes, A-3; Stephen L. Coleman, Com-2, and Richard N. Atkinson, A-2.

An open house at the three dormitories, all situated at the south edge of the campus on 11th Avenue, will follow the football game.

'Depression Kids' To Hold Reunion, Form Association

Some 250 former residents of the old cooperative Buckeye, Stadium and Tower Clubs in Ohio Stadium will return to the campus this weekend for their first homecoming reunion.

The alumni are some of the 1,000 "depression kids" who lived in the dormitories between 1933 and 1943.

Working on and off-campus for board, books and clothing, the students developed a group spirit which has lasted to this day.

Earlier this year the Stadium Dormitories again became a co-operative scholastic dormitories so the "old-timers" decided to hold a reunion. The group plans to form an association.

Registration and an informal meeting will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Conference Theater of the Ohio Union, and luncheon will be held at noon in the Union ballroom.

After the game, a reception will be held in the new Stadium Dormitories.

Homecoming

Welcome, alumni of Ohio State, as you come back today and tomorrow to witness our Homecoming and to compare it with the events of your own college days.

Of course, you will notice changes in tomorrow's ceremonies, but as you sit in the Stadium watching our Queen being crowned and the Bucks pushing on for a hoped-for victory, remember that Homecoming still has the same meaning.

The campus is yours tomorrow. No doubt one of the first things you will notice are the new skyscraper dormitories and that the old Armory is no longer standing.

Yes, there are many changes, too many to mention, but they will catch your eye the minute you step on the campus. Even the Main Library is now open on football Saturdays.

The students have done their best in putting up outstanding decorations in front of the living units.

Ohio State continues to grow and grow. It has been able to from the working together of today's students and from you—the alumni. The students have the same inspiration that you followed—to do their best at Ohio State not only for themselves but for the University.

As tomorrow blends into confusion and excitement of other years and today, remember that we, the students and you, the alumni need to work together. Ohio State is its alumni and present students—its alumni of the future. Some day, we will come back to visit the University, the University that the students of the future will inherit from us.

Political Parties

At last the political parties have come alive—at least in talk anyway.

The newest party — Indigreek — was just formed Wednesday night, and already the opposition, Buckeye Political Party, has said it won't survive.

But BPP is not by itself in making headline statements. Indigreek, after one meeting, claims to be the only group in student government trying to rid the campus of apathy. No one else currently expresses the definite interest of the entire student body, a party official said.

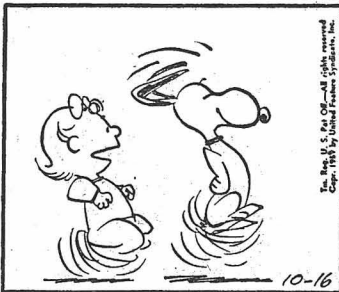

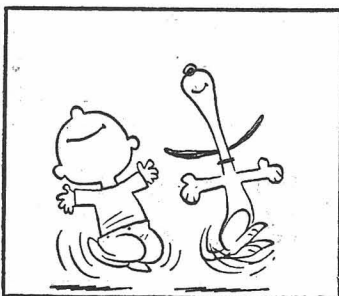

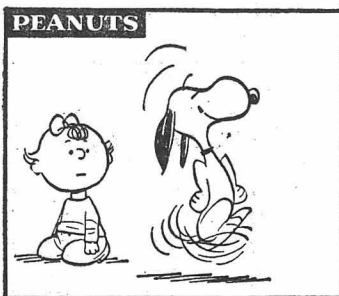

All this talk is nice, but tiresome. Political parties have come and gone at Ohio State. It's about time that some party thinks of action instead of talking down the opposition.

So far, Buckeye officials have been prevailing in secrecy. Its only noticeable action this quarter on the campus has been to disclaim the other party.

From the statements made so far, the parties are interested only in fighting each other. Rash statements are made. One party claims it's going to do this or that, for student government. Another says we have the interest of all students at heart. But in the end, the parties usually are just squabbles between the Greeks and the Independents to see who can get the most seats on Student Senate for no other reason than mere personal ones.

We're willing to gamble that if political parties were abolished for six months, they wouldn't be missed. But if they were missed, we'll gladly make a retraction and help support their issues if they concern the student body as a whole.

College Asks For Removal Of 'Clauses'

MADISON, Wis.—(IP)—University of Wisconsin regents have approved action of the University faculty on the so-called "1960 clause." The faculty recently reaffirmed its determination to deny approval to any fraternity or sorority "which has in its national or local constitution or pledge instructions a discriminatory clause," but moved the deadline for removal of such clauses from July 1, 1960, to Sept. 10, 1960.

The deadline change will give the five student organizations affected another summer period for the national meetings needed for such action. Affected are Alpha Tau Omega, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi and Sigma Nu, all social fraternities; and Delta Theta Phi, professional law fraternity.

UW President Conrad A. Elvehjem followed the faculty action with a statement calling on the national organizations to act. The 1960 deadline was set in 1952 by the faculty, which at that time urged fraternities and sororities with restrictive clauses to make "a determined effort . . . to secure amendments to their . . . constitutions eliminating such restrictions."

Before reaffirming the 1960 deadline the faculty rejected an amendment suggested by the Wisconsin Interfraternity Association. The amendment would have provided limited extensions beyond 1960 "if a local chapter can show that it is exerting a real and determined effort to secure elimination not only of its discriminatory clause, but of all discriminatory practices in the selection of its members."

Reader Writes About Discrimination Problem

To the Editor:

Conspicuously absent from Student Senate's stated areas of concern for 1959-60, in view of the topical interest that was generated last spring, is the problem that ethnic minority group students face in obtaining off-campus housing. It is not these students' problem only, it is the University's. And something should be done about it. At least an effort should be made to correct the situation. How much longer can we allow ourselves to sit on the problem, and yet never stir ourselves to stop all this nonsense?

I SUPPOSE IT is an awakening experience for any minority group member to be refused housing on the basis of his color, religion or nationality. The experience would remind the person of similar ones in his past, if he has much of a past in this country.

I write from the peculiarly unique vantage point of a Negro American. When I was refused housing because of my color a few days before this quarter began, one of my first reactions, was to ask the naive question, "Why?" The question is naive because my life has been an undiluted history of refusals, and I should have some glimmering of why they are so fiercely inexpugnable.

AFTER MY first refusal by a prim and good looking young white woman, who smiled and told me, "I'm sorry, but we rent only to whites," I replied that I was sorry too and left.

I was determined to venture further into the undesired, except by common consent, forbidden territory in which I was wandering (W. 8th St.). After a while I spotted a house with a "Room for Rent" sign. I sighed and said to myself, "Here I go again," and thought of the lines of an old blues that run:

"How long, baby, how long
Has that evenin' train been gone?
... Sometimes I feel so disgusted and I feel so blue
That I hardly know what in this world it's best to do
For how long, how long, how long? . . ."

I WAS RENTED a room this time, and, of course, was surprised and overjoyed. A student rented the room to me. It was a double room for which I gave him a check for the first month's rent—$30.

Later that afternoon I met a friend, a Negro, who was looking for a room. I told him of my success and suggested that he try at the same place. He consented and we walked over to the house, where we were met at the door by the landlady, who had come home by that time.

My friend told her he would like to see a room, and at about the same time I told her who I was, which seemed to relieve her. She told me that her son had made an obvious mistake in renting me the room, that she rented her single rooms, not apartments, for $50 a month and that she would return my check. I knew immediately what was going on.

I QUICKLY told the woman I did not yet have my "union card" (bachelor's degree) and consequently could not command a salary that would allow me to live a luxurious bourgeois existence, and left.

The next day I rushed to the E. 11th St. ghetto, where rent is high and good facilities few but where I was sure to have more basis for hoping to rent a room. I found a room and settled down among my people, forced there by the unwritten law.

IT IS difficult to emerge from an experience like this with love in one's heart, but that is what I want to do. I want to crush my bitterness so that I can live in peace with my neighbor. How many know the pain it takes to live in peace when one's color is thrown back in one's face every day, in a nation that prides itself on the freedom it allows an individual?

To see how lightly people at this University treat the problem of discrimination is cause for disgust. Negro students, themselves, are among the inconsiderate. They and, quite expectedly, the campus chapter of the NAACP, continue to sit on their hands. There are few Negroes on this campus who have seriously considered what it means to be a Negro in America, which would be their gateway to finding out about their manness. But this is true of most Americans. We refuse to become introspective. It is as if we were afraid of seeing ourselves, of maybe seeing something that is, or resembles, evil.

WE SHOULD rush to meet and annihilate this evil of ridiculous discrimination based on race, religion and nationality. I am neither a congressman nor a student senator, and have no definite legislative plans. I do suggest, though, that the Senate Humans Relations Committee do more than study the problem of discrimination. After all it is our (the University's) problem.

Sincerely,
Hollie West, A-4

Past Homecomings Had Campus in Uproar

By Dick Williams

It wasn't that Ohio State students disliked banquets . . . but after all, a banquet hardly compares to a "Good-Time Fest."

The year was 1920, and Ohio State was preparing for the final home football game of the season—and the return to the alumni. In previous years the visitors were welcomed by a formal banquet to which only the men were invited. Perhaps the frivolous mood of the roaring 20's had already descended upon the campus, and the abandoning of the traditional banquet was a way of warming up for the age of wonderful nonsense.

Whatever the reason, the prospect of a gay party in place of the somber male get-together was the talk of the campus.

The "Good-Time Fest" was a tremendous success. There was dancing in the Armory, an endless round of parties, and entertainment. Most important, women for the first time were allowed to participate.

BY 1925, the Homecoming Ball was a time-honored tradition. The "Boost Ohio" association assumed full charge of the annual event.

But the Homecoming Ball of 1925 bore little resemblance to its 1920 predecessor.

The "Boost Ohio" committee tossed out all decorations previously used in decorating the Armory. They were replaced with new distinctive ones, and a special subcommittee was organized for the sole purpose of devising interesting lighting effects to "change completely the character and atmosphere of the dance."

THERE WAS even talk of bringing in an "important" jazz band—an unheard of proposal—to add color and distinction to the ball.

Homecoming Week glided spectacularly along for the next few years, each celebration gaudier than the year before. Finally, in 1935 the grand event suffered a setback. No part of the 1935 "week" matched those of previous years.

The queen elections were in utter chaos! Lovely Rosina Dienlein, a strong contender for the crown campaigned vigorously, and was opposed by her identical twin, Mary. This led to confusion. While Rosina campaigned on one side of the campus, Mary was soliciting votes on the other side. When it came time to vote, bewildered students were uncertain who was who. As a result, neither Rosina nor Mary cornered a majority, and the crown went to a surprised Agnes Heskett.

THE LAW students (with an amazing reputation for backing winning candidates) withdrew their support at the outset. They were highly indignant when the late Dean Herchel chastised them for their proposal that the queen candidates parade across tables in the library.

A number of other groups were dissatisfied with the election, and it was rumored that plans for abducting the queen were in the air. It was a frightened Agnes Heskett who smiled nervously from the back seat of her Cadillac V12 as she was escorted to and from classes.

BEASLEY SMITH and his Brunswick recording band played for the handful of couples that turned up at Valley Dale.

But as a 1935 LANTERN writer reported: "This has been the quietest Homecoming on record. Oh, for the good old days!"

RESEARCH ENGINEERS:

THE MEN BEHIND THE HEADLINES

NAA'S On-Campus Interviews October 19 and 20

EARLY EVERY DAY you read of another advance in science . . . whether it's a space vehicle streaking toward Venus or a submarine gliding beneath the polar ice.

These are the events that make headlines . . . but even as they are announced to the world, engineers and scientists are planning new and greater achievements—and research shows them the way.

Scientific research always has had an important role at North American Aviation. Today, research projects are underway at more than 185 laboratories in the six North American divisions. They encompass the full scope of modern science.

Is air stiffer than steel?

Not all research has the headline appeal of a space ship or nuclear power. For example, research engineers at the Autonetics Division, which designs and manufactures space-age navigation systems, found new and different ways of building rotating bearings . . . and found that air is stiffer than steel for some purposes. Improved gyroscopes and magnetic recordings were important results of this research.

A cigarette's place in research

Even the ordinary cigarette has a role in scientific research. Scientists at the Aero-Space Laboratories, an organization within North American's Missile Division, use a burning cigarette in a still room to illustrate the difference between laminar flow and turbulence in the boundary layer, the very thin air space that lies along the outer skin of an aircraft or missile. This research is part of a program to find ways to protect missiles, satellites and space ships from burning when they re-enter the earth's atmosphere.

Toward the conquest of Space

The Rocketdyne Division has designed and built the bulk of today's operating hardware in the high-thrust rocket field. Explorer I, America's first satellite, was boosted into orbit by a Rocketdyne engine . . . and three-fourths of the power for Able IV-Atlas—man's first attempt to reach toward another planet—comes from liquid-propellant engines designed and built by Rocketdyne. Researchers at Rocketdyne delve into the chemistry of propellants, the physics of engine components and what happens within them, ignition of fuels, combustion of fuels, and the transfer of heat.

2,000 mph manned weapon systems

The Los Angeles Division is the home of next-generation manned weapon systems—the Mach 3 B-70 Valkyrie and F-108 Rapier—and America's first manned space vehicle, the X-15. Research engineers in this division investigate manufacturing techniques, conduct studies in aerodynamics, materials and processes, and thermodynamics. They also work with physiologists, biotechnologists, biophysicists, and psychologists to solve design problems concerning human capabilities and limitations that arise from modern weapons and research systems.

Building better Navy aircraft

Analysis of aircraft carrier operation is a major research project at the Columbus Division. This division designed and built the Navy's T2J Buckeye jet trainer and the Navy's supersonic, all-weather A3J Vigilante. Research activities are diverse here—from how to illuminate an aircraft cockpit to developing unmanned vehicles and systems to perform within the earth's atmosphere.

Developing the peaceful atom

The work at the Atomics International Division of North American is part of a large national research effort aimed at the peaceful atom. Success in the development of economical power from the atom depends on thorough knowledge in every phase of atomic power systems and their materials of construction. Atomics International research reactors are in service in Japan, Denmark, West Germany, West Berlin, and Italy.

Opportunities for college graduates

Today at North American there is outstanding opportunity for young engineers who want to share the unusual creative problems that face science. You can rapidly build a sound engineering career by working on the top-level projects now underway. Visit your placement office where you'll find all the facts about a challenging and rewarding future with North American.

Bucks Are 'Up' for Purdue

By Phil Rohr

Purdue University's Boiler-makers invade Ohio Stadium for a 1:30 date tomorrow afternoon, with high hopes of extending the Ohio State losing streak to three games.

The Bucks will be attempting to jump back into the victory column after consecutive shutout losses to Southern California and Illinois. Purdue, however, has won both of its last two starts against Notre Dame and Wisconsin, after an opening game tie with UCLA.

TOMORROW WILL be the Homecoming game for the Buckeyes and is the earliest in many years. Purdue will be the Homecoming guest for the first time since entering the Western Conference.

Along with the introduction of the Homecoming Queen and her court, Purdue's band will also share the halftime spotlight with the Buckeye band.

In last year's meeting between these two elevens, a 14-14 tie resulted. The two teams have met 19 times with the Buckeyes leading the series 12-5, with two ties.

SINCE 1945, the series has been even—three victories, three defeats, and two ties for each team. The Buckeyes got off to a fast start in the series by winning the first 10 contests.

The Bucks will be in pretty good shape physically for the Purdue clash, with only halfbacks Lynn Strait and Bill German sitting it out. Fullback Len Fontes is also on the injury list with a sprained knee but he may see some action tomorrow.

Buckeye lineup changes will include the return of Ernie Wright to his old guard post while Dick Anders replaces Jene Watkins at center. Dick Michael will take over the left tackle spot formerly held by Wright.

STRAIT WAS slated for duty as the starting left halfback but due to his injury, Coach Woody Hayes has not definitely decided who to start in his place. The best guess is probably Bob Ferguson.

Buck Track Squad Works

Ohio State no longer carries cross-country racing as a varsity sport, but the Buck thinclads are still using the Golf Course to get into shape for the coming track season.

In the first intra squad cross-country meet last Monday, the varsity defeated the freshmen 25-31 over a one-mile course.

Assistant Coach Charlie Beetham has planned a series of these races to keep the men fit. Two Akronites, Jim Massey, a junior, and freshman Jim Davis led the first race.

The next race will be run today, and the distance will be increased to one and one half miles.

Michigan State has lost only one non-conference game since Duffy Daugherty has been coach. The loss was to Notre Dame in 1954.

Comments Coaches Usually Hear Following A Defeat

By Bill Teague

Comments losing coaches get tired of hearing or overhearing:

—Better luck next year.

—Your guys showed a little improvement but I guess you just don't have the horses this year. Good game though.

—YOUR BOYS gave us a real tough test. They were in there all the way but just didn't have that scoring punch.

—They really put it over on him today.

—The band looked good.

—Wonder who he's gonna slug this week.

—I ALWAYS said he should have resigned last year.

—These coaches have it knocked. He must drag down $20,000 a year for doing nothing. He couldn't be doing anything, otherwise he'd have a better team.

—No imagination in the offense. No blocking . . . sloppy tackling.

—He's the luckiest coach in the business.

—COUPLA MORE games like this and that bum is gonna be looking for work in the Ivy League.

—He's a big boob. I always said it.

What that team needs is more passing. A little razzle dazzle. Look at what it's done for Northwestern.

—He just hasn't got that old punch he used to have. Just like I told you before the game. I told you so.

—I'D LIKE YOU to meet my son Rodney. He plays tackle for P.S. 47. He wants to play for you someday, coach.

—Coach, we're having a little get-together down to Pomeroy next week and we were wondering if you'd honor us by coming down to say a few words.

—My grandma goes uphill in her wheelchair faster than they are hitting that line.

—CAN I QUOTE YOU?

—How'd you think old Jerry Wyczsk looked out there today, coach? I'd like to say something about him for my readers back home.

—Yeah? Wait'll next year.

The modern major league mark, set by four teams, for errors in one game is 15.

ADMIRE SAE TROPHY—Members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity look over the coveted SAE Homecoming trophy to be awarded to the outstanding Buck in this Saturday's game with Purdue. Pictured are (l. to r.) Richard Rice, Ken Seilkop, Rich Michael, Jim Matz, Allan Fiers, Oscar Hauer, and Dave Kilgore. The latter five are members of the Buck football squad.

SAE's Set To Give Trophy

Homecoming at Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity means more than parades, floats and dances. Each year the men award a trophy to the outstanding Buckeye football player in the Homecoming game.

The award is decided by the sports writers of Columbus papers along with Frank Evans, sports editor of the LANTERN.

IN PREVIOUS YEARS (the trophy originated in 1952) outstanding football players honored were Fred Bruney, 1952; Howard Cassidy, 1953 and '54; Jim Roseboro, 1955; Don Clark, 1956 and '57; and Bob White, 1958.

The trophy is the largest rotating one of its kind. It is not given to the winner, but remains in the SAE house. A similar, smaller one is given to the winner at a football banquet.

The trophy was donated by the SAE 1952 senior class.

LAST YEAR, against the Wisconsin Badgers, Bob White's powerful running and brilliant defensive work was the spark of the rain soaked 7-7 tie. Carrying the ball 36 times, White gained 163 yards, three short of the Big Ten record. He also scored the Buckeye touchdown on a one-yard plunge in the third quarter.

Over the years, performances such as White's have won the coveted trophy.

CRICKET PRACTICE SET

All interested in playing cricket are to meet at 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the University baseball diamond. For further information contact P. S. Rao, ext. 8421.

Bucks, Lucas Begin Drills

By John Auble Jr.

Football season has barely reached the midway mark, but press releases from the Ohio State public relations office show that a few far-sighted individuals are already thinking about basketball.

Soon, the dream of Buckeye basketball fans—seeing Jerry Lucas in an Ohio State varsity uniform—will become a reality.

THE SIX-FOOT eight-inch protegee, ranked as the greatest high school player ever produced in Ohio, has begun serious practice with the rest of the Buckeyes in preparation for their 24-game schedule. The opener is Dec. 1 against Wake Forest.

Among that 24-game agenda are 12 home contests.

Reports say that the majority of the St. John Arena 13,497 seating capacity is held for students and faculty. "Students will have until noon the day of each game to secure a reserved seat on their athletic activity card for 25 cents per ticket," assistant publicity director Marv Homan announced.

THE SALE OPENED yesterday for season books. The single game sale starts Nov. 1.

Basketball fans can expect plenty of fast, aggressive play this season, assured head Buckeye Coach Fred Taylor. With the new crop of last year's freshmen moving into the varsity ranks, the season promises a better won-lost standing than last year's .500.

Taylor has three regulars back from the 1958-59 team that had a 7-7 Big Ten record and 11-11 overall.

SOCCER GAME

Coach Walt Ersing sees signs of improvement in his varsity soccer team as it prepares for a match with the Oberlin Yeomen tomorrow.

"Fullback Art Mater and halfback Larry Finkenbine specially showed improvement," Ersing said.

The game will be played on the soccer field located south of the Stadium and east of the varsity practice football field.

LARRY SIEGFRIED, guard, and forwards Joe Roberts and Dick Furry are the returning regulars, while other top veterans include Richie Hoyt and Howie Nourse.

Some of the top grade sophomores include John Havlicek, Bob Knight, Mel Nowell, Gary Gearhart and J. T. Landis.

Hoyt underwent an ankle operation this summer and is still trying to work out the kinks, while Gearhart had an appendectomy a week ago Sunday and won't be able to work full tilt for another two or three weeks.

TAYLOR INDICATED that the starting lineup at the outset probably will include 6'7" Furry and 6'5" Roberts at forwards, Siegfried and Hoyt, both 6'4" at guards, along with Lucas.

If you think that it's been a short football season and you're anticipating a tall basketball season at Ohio State, the wait won't be long.
