YEA-A-A—Members of Kappa Delta Sorority burst into applause last night at the Women's Panhellenic 45th Annual Scholarship Banquet when it was announced that they had won the Active Panhellenic Scholarship Award for the second straight

Sorority Scholarship Awards Given

By Susan Moss

The main ballroom of the Ohio Union was buzzing with cheerful chatter and sorority spirit last night, as the Women's Panhellenic Association celebrated its 45th annual Scholarship Banquet.

The 1,154 sorority women who attended the banquet listened intently as the awards for scholarships were presented.

THERE WERE 28 girls with a 3.5 accumulative point average who competed for the Individual Pledge Award. The winners were Collin Ruth Grisseau, Delta Delta Delta, and Margaret Stokley Pride, Phi Beta Phi, each of whom had a four point.

Marcia Thone, president of Panhellenic, presented the award for the pledge class with the highest 1958-59 point-hour ratio, 2.7156 to the members of Delta Gamma. This award, a tea service, is a rotating trophy. Second place went to Sigma Delta Tau whose pledge class point-hour was 2.7009.

Forty-four girls, with point-hours of 3.5 and over, vied for the honor of active with the highest scholarship. Mary K. Conyers, Chi Omega, won with a point-hour average of 3.9384. Second place went to Charlotte C. Harrold, Kappa Alpha Theta, with 3.9074.

KAPPA DELTA, for the second straight year, captured the award for active chapter with the best scholarship. These girls have a point-hour ratio of 2.9195.

Kappa Alpha Theta took second with 2.8941.

The last award presented was for total chapter scholarship for the year 1958-59. As tension mounted each girl sat hoping that her sorority would win this honor.

Kappa Alpha Theta, with a point hour ratio of 2.8537, took first place. Kappa Delta came in second with a 2.8153.

The Four Get Me Notes, a Barber Shop Quartet, provided the entertainment for the banquet.

Memorial Rites Held on Campus For Elaine Lester

Memorial services were held yesterday at 5 p.m. in the Alpha Epsilon Phi Sorority house for Elaine Lester, who died shortly after noon in University Hospital.

Miss Lester, 20, a junior in the College of Education, had been hospitalized for several days with a kidney ailment.

MORE THAN 200 University people attended the memorial service. Deans William Guthrie and Christine Conaway and Assistant Deans Jane McCormick and Ruth Weimer represented the University.

Rabbi Harry Kaplan of Hillel Foundation conducted the service.

Funeral rites for Miss Lester will be held in Youngstown tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Lester, and a brother, Harvey.

Schedule Cards Due

Graduate and Professional students who are currently enrolled are again reminded that schedules for the Winter Quarter 1960 must be turned into their college offices before November 7th. Extra fees will be assessed for schedules filed after that date.

Greek Spokesmen Criticize Independent Letter Writer

By Rosemary Murphy

A Letter to the Editor in yesterday's LANTERN stung Greek ears a bit.

Roy Hoffman, president of Alpha Gamma Sigma said, "I'm disgusted with the way independents are pointing their fingers at Greeks. They think we're just a bunch of hell-raisers."

GEORGE CARONIS, assistant to the Dean of Men said: "It's too bad that mud is being thrown on all Greeks just because of a few who are dragging their feet."

In regards to Dave Nemec's (Arts-4) letter to the editor, Caronis said: "I think Mr. Nemec writes well, but I can't agree with all he has to say. The fraternity system has improved so much it can't be recognized as the system it was five years ago."

"It is my personal opinion that sororities and fraternities have played an important role on campus. They have made many contributions along with the non-affiliated students."

He pointed out that spot cards and liquor might be stashed away anywhere, in dormitories and rooming houses as well as fraternities.

Dennis McFadden, director of Political Science Staff Backs Prejudice Fight

All members of the department of political science have gone on record stating their opposition to housing discrimination at Ohio State.

Yesterday, the LANTERN received a letter from the 16 faculty members asking the University not to approve off-campus rooming houses in which* the landlords practice racial or religious discrimination.

THE POLITICAL science faculty members are supporting the recommendation in two letters, signed by 26 other faculty members which the LANTERN printed last Friday. This makes a total of 42 faculty members who have asked that the University take immediate action on the problem.

One political science member said, "every member of our department readily agreed to sign the letter." He further pointed out that "this is unusual to get us all to agree readily on something since we have so many different political views and stands."

FOLLOWING IS the letter received from the political science professors:

The undersigned want to lend their support to the recommendation emanating from a faculty group and embodied in the following statement:

"There is an immediate step that the University should take in the interests of the fights against discrimination which, by virtue of its being a University, it has of necessity joined:

"Declare formally to all landlords who ask University approval for their rooms that such approval is conditional on their not practicing racial or religious discrimination. Enforcement would not be difficult: Having been told this, any landlords who were to be found, upon due investigation, to have practiced discrimination would be refused University approval for at least a year.

"We think that in matters like this it is the faculty and the administration which should take the lead. We can do more than announce that we are against the more easily identified types of sin. We can refuse, quite simply, to go along with them."

THE LETTER was signed by: David Kettler, George K. Romero, Frank O. Miller, Lawrence J. R. Herson, Harry V. Jaffa, James B. Christoph, Harvey Walker and Myron Q. Hale.

Leo B. Lott, David Spitz, Henry R. Spencer, D. Bruce Marshall, Harvey C. Mansfield, E. Allen Helm, Louis Nemzer and Francis R. Aumann.

Players Need Two for 'Cat'

Two small parts are still open for the Strollers production, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof." Two Negroes are need for these side roles and interested persons should contact Director Bob Winters at AX-9-0468.

Members of the present cast include: Ann Zollinger as Margaret; Roger Rattan as Brick; Dick Haight, Big Daddy; John Pumphrey, Gooper; Sarah Collings, Big Mama; Myrna Statland, Mae; Anthony Newman, Doctor Baugh, and Gary Tomarkin, Reverend Tooker. Five small children are also included in the cast.

Tickets are now on sale for the production to be held Nov. 19, 20 and 21 in University Hall Auditorium.

Students with Strollers season books may exchange their tickets and those wishing to purchase tickets may obtain them at the Strollers office in the Union for $1.25.

City Poll Turnout May Hit 102,000

The head of the Franklin County Board of Elections has predicted that today's turnout, in Columbus, could mount as high as 102,000 votes. According to Charles Davies, good weather and high interest in the mayoralty race could produce the largest city turnout in six years.

INCUMBENT Mayor, M. E. Senenbrenner, heads the Democratic ticket. W. Ralston Westlake, an Independent, leads the Republican slate.

An additional 47,800 are expected to vote in the remainder of Franklin County.

More Police Are Arrested

Another Columbus policeman has been arrested for investigation of larceny, the eighth since the scandal broke last week.

Patrolman Richard Odell Headlee, 33, was arrested at City Prison Sunday night. He denies implication, investigators said.

INVESTIGATORS have searched the home of a ninth policeman who is off duty, but his name has been withheld temporarily.

Pleas of innocent were entered in Municipal Court yesterday by Patrolman Edward F. Mulholand, 32, charged with petit larceny; William E. Clifford, 34, and William B. Russell, 29, charged with burglary and grand larceny.

Clifford and Russell were the first to be arrested in the roundup. Investigators say they are linked with at least two safe-crackings.

OTHERS ARRESTED and held for investigation are: Patrolman Robert E. Horsch, 26; Charles R. Haapala, 29; Lawrence J. McNulty, 29, and Sgt. James S. Faris, 47.

Police Chief George Scholer said there appears to be no "ring" or organization involved, but that most of the eight men knew of each others' activities.

Let's Stamp Out Discrimination

To go along with the 42 faculty members and groups and other individuals, the LANTERN wants to reaffirm its appeal to the University that action must be taken to stamp out racial and religious discrimination at Ohio State.

At the present we are particularly referring to the off-campus housing area. We are asking that the University not approve any rooming house in which the landlord practices discrimination.

We are urging that this be done starting with Winter Quarter. To wait any longer would just be putting off a big problem that should have been solved years ago.

When 42 faculty members feel that immediate action is necessary, then the problem must be given full-fledged attention now.

We believe it is the University's responsibility to see that all students here are treated equally. After enrolling, no student should be subject to insult.

If the landlords won't go along with the University, then we believe that these homes must not be approved for University students.

Administrations of Yale, Harvard and Cornell universities have all made rulings that their university will not approve off-campus housing in which landlords practice racial and religious discrimination.

With a little understanding and sympathy by all, this problem at Ohio State can be solved. We all should think of each person as an individual and not as a member of a group.

As someone should have said: "Each man should be judged on his merits, not on the color of his coat."

We hope that all students would want to see their classmates and do others treated alike in all matters at Ohio State. And also in matters not pertaining to the University.

Too many have the attitude of taking the foreign student for granted.

How many times have you passed a foreign student in the hall without a friendly smile? Or sat next to one in class without even finding out his name?

We must remember that ours is a different culture from what some of these students are accustomed to. Adjusting to this country and our ways takes time.

If some of the foreign students appear shy, don't take this for hostility. They are willing to discuss practically anything if given the chance. And both sides have the opportunity to learn much.

We would like to see campus organizations invite "outsiders" to their meetings to participate in the activities. Of course, we know that invitations are extended to all, but members of minority groups still often feel that their names are included only because it looks good.

Let's do something to change this. —Don Bandy

No Need for ROTC

There is no need for compulsory ROTC on any American university campus.

The federal government does not require colleges to have an ROTC program, and figures prove that a compulsory program is not needed to fill the armed services' officer requirements.

This is not to say that ROTC programs be abolished, but only that they be made voluntary.

The biggest argument against compulsory ROTC, however, is not statistical. It is simply that a student undertaking a college education should not have forced down his throat a class which will do little or nothing to further this education.

Interpreting the News . . .

Castro May Lead Cuba To Economic Difficulty

By William L. Ryan
Associated Press News Analyst
Cuba's Fidel Castro is in deep, deep trouble.

There is even reason to wonder whether he will last out his first full year of triumph, power and travail.

The violence of the young revolutionary leader's attacks on the United States bespeaks desperation, the need for a scapegoat to share his troubles and shoulder the burden of his blame.

MUCH OF Castro's trouble is economic, but plenty of it is political, too. If he does weather the storm and survive, he will likely be at the mercy of the extreme left in Cuba. An ideal situation can develop for the island's cagey Communists.

Castro has so deeply embittered and isolated Cuba's sturdy middle class that he has nowhere to turn for support except to excesses by unthinking masses and the dubious favors of the left extremists. They will be his only crutch, and in effect they, the Communists among them, will be running the island's affairs behind the scenes. The Communists themselves have no real intention of trying to strike for outward power in Cuba. The memory of Guatemala and Uncle Sam's swift reaction is still too fresh.

WHEN THIS correspondent was in Cuba this summer there was frequent talk among middle class elements that somehow a way must be found to get rid of Castro and his U. S.-hating younger brother Raul, who now has full control of the armed forces.

They would whisper that if one brother went, the other brother would have to go, too, since Castro last January, at the height of his popularity as the vanquisher of the Batista dictatorship, announced Raul "is capable of substituting for me if I should have to die." To Castro opponents, Raul is far more frightening than Fidel.

CASTRO'S ENEMIES now include farmers, cattlemen, and little businessmen and not a few in the ranks of labor who have been abused and shunted aside in favor of known Communists. Also among his enemies are the relatives and friends of the hundreds he sent to firing squads, and possibly the hundreds more who will suffer the same fate. Among them, too, are the disillusioned ones who believed in the revolution and now see nothing but chaos and confusion.

Economically Castro is in deep difficulties. Cuba's earnings from sugar, her main crop and main pillar of the economy, are off probably a good deal more than 100 million dollars. She even has been selling sugar below the world market price to the Russians.

IF IT WERE not for Uncle Sam, whom Castro so industriously abuses, the Cuban leader would be in worse trouble. The U. S. agreement to support the Cuban sugar economy with purchases above a slumping world market price is still in effect and this year accounted probably for orders for three million tons.

Cuba's next most important source of U.S. dollars has been tourists. There is practically no tourism left. Castro has scared the tourists away, and may have a tough time trying to lure them back.

As for foreign investments, these hardly can be encouraged by Castro's program of expropriation and socialization.

In fact, Cuba may well be approaching economic ruin. And if the economy is ruined, there can be little future for the government which brought that about.

Senate Begins To Roll; Politicians Make Move

After four weeks of tinkering, Ohio State's legislative machine is humming efficiently.

Student Senate ran through a 10-bill session last Thursday night. Four resolutions were tabled and six were marked "action."

THE SENATE'S Federal Aid to Education Bill is aimed at gearing up U. S. money help to students so that the poor financial status of an individual won't ruin his chances for a college degree.

Increased student convenience and a thicker Student Scholarship Fund got the Senate's nod when they told the Ways and Means Committee to work out plans with the University concerning distribution of vending machines in campus buildings. The machine profits will go to the scholarship fund.

THE UNIVERSITY'S administration agreed to give jurisdiction to the Senate-developed student court system in the "Sailing Club affair" which should come before Student Commission next week.

Senate's subcommittee on human relations seems to be the eye of a gathering storm which may eventually involve every individual and organization that has anything to do with Ohio State.

To the Editor:

One must avoid guilt by association. The anonymous letter writer (Mr. X) of Oct. 22 incriminated all the fraternities and sororities when he accused them of letting initiation activities interfere with the neophyte's rest and studies. Some of the fraternities are innocent, however, as was evident by Mr. Ward's exoneration (Oct. 26) of Sigma Chi.

MR. WARD did not attempt to exonerate all the fraternities and sororities. If he had he would be committing another fallacy, innocence by association. Some of the fraternities and sororities are not innocent.

Miss Glazer (letter of Oct. 28), on the other hand, was determined to defend all the Greeks. Consequently, she committed the fallacy, innocence by association. Let me quote some of her generalizations. "They (the Greeks) are the only groups that can be counted on to do things for charity . . . The writer (Mr. X) has failed to mention the good fraternities and sororities do."

NOT ALL THE fraternities and sororities do charitable work. However, one may rely on some of them to furnish him with replicas of tests so that he may ace them or not fail the course. Mr. X, how inconsiderate you have been! Can you not imagine how many have escaped failure because of the charitable efforts of some fraternities.

Why did you incriminate the whole system? "The Greeks do not make a mockery of University rules . . . They can be counted upon to uphold them." And finally, "The Greeks do more than their share to preserve tradition and foster college spirit at Ohio State." We must be cautious, Miss Glazer. Not all Greeks preserve the tradition of charitable work at Ohio State.

Prof. Hullfish Gives Lecture

Dr. H. Gordon Hullfish, professor of Education at Ohio State, will speak on "John Dewey: Philosophy and Education in Interaction" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Campbell Hall Auditorium.

The lecture, open to the public, is planned in observance of the centennial of the birth of John Dewey and is sponsored by Ohio State's College of Education and the John Dewey Society.

Dr. Hullfish is national president of the society and an authority on the late educator, whose death occurred in 1952. He is the author of chapters in "The Educational Frontier," a volume in which Dewey collaborated, and also edited and contributed to the Twelfth Yearbook of the John Dewey Society.

Dairy Tech Club Helps Speakers

The Dairy Technology Toastmasters Club is an organization of juniors and seniors majoring in dairy technology. This club is designed to develop the character and speaking abilities of its members.

A DINNER is held on the third Thursday of every month at 6 p.m. in the Ohio Union. Members and their guests, usually the members' wives and friends, are in attendance.

A member has been designated to serve as toastmaster at the previous meeting. It is his duty to obtain two members to be the formal speakers. After the meal is completed it is the toastmaster's job to introduce the speakers.

A MEETING similar to the dinner meeting is held on the first Thursday of every month, but no meal is served. Members only are in attendance at the meeting. The toastmaster introduces the speakers and directs the informal criticism portion of the meeting.

The organization sponsors no other activities and has no treasury. Each member pays for his dinner at the dinner meeting.

Any junior or senior majoring in dairy technology who is interested in developing his abilities as a toastmaster or speaker is invited to attend their next regular meeting.

SOMETHING NEW—Prof. Byron E. Munson displays a new publication, "Community Development," designed to assist localities in solving development problems. Professor Munson, who heads the Office of Community Development in the University's engineering experiment station, is planning a two-day Community Development Conference, scheduled to take place on the campus Nov. 13 and 14.

Community Programs Outlined in Publication

Rapid technological and social changes in Ohio have left many communities far behind in the development of resources for better living, as well as for efficient production and marketing, according to an Ohio State publication.

Writing in a new brochure entitled "Community Development," Prof. Byron E. Munson said that "federal and state assistance may be necessary and available for the solution of some problems, such as flood control; however, a large majority of community problems can and should be solved at the local level."

SELF-HELP community development programs have proved to be effective, he said, in dealing with local problems in many communities.

The brochure, issued by the Engineering Experiment Station at Ohio State, is the first in a series of publications designed for communities engaged in or planning community development enterprises.

The brochure outlines major steps in the development process and describes university services available in this field through its Office of Community Development, which is supervised by Professor Munson.

THE OFFICE is sponsoring a two-day Community Development Conference Nov. 13 and 14 at the Ohio Union.

Copies of the new brochure may be obtained by writing the Office of Community Development, Engineering Experiment Station, Ohio State University, 156 W. 19th Ave., Columbus 10, Ohio.

Photographic Exhibition Set For Viewing at Ohio Union

A photographic exhibition titled "Sculpture—The Work of Costantino Nivola," will be on view at the Ohio Union. The exhibition will open Nov. 8 and continue through Nov. 25.

Sculptured murals, frescoes and casts by this American sculptor illustrate the successful collaboration between architect and artist that enriches some of today's architecture.

THE EXHIBITION, one of a series sponsored by the Architectural League, the Municipal Art Society of New York and the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, is currently touring art institutions and universities throughout the country from September, 1959 through September, 1961 under the auspices of The American Federation of Arts.

Nivola's cast concrete and stone sculptures have been incorporated in many building projects in recent years. Among those that may be seen here are views of a mural now installed in the Olivetti showroom in New York City, the facade of the Mutual of Hartford Insurance Company's headquarters in Connecticut, and a graffito fresco executed for a private residence.

A series of photographs taken in Orani, Sardinia, Nivola's native home, shows stone portraits installed in a family memorial and a graffito facade of a Sardinian church, designed and executed by the sculptor. There are also views of small stone casts mounted on iron poles, featured in a street exhibition of his work held in Orani in 1958.

PHOTOGRAPHS OF preliminary sketches of the Fermi memorial competition, 1956, and a memorial constructed in Washington, D. C., in 1955 are included as well as views of Nivola preparing sand for casting at his open air Long Island studio.

Nivola remarks, "My sculptures are made using common material: bricks, concrete blocks, lime and plaster, and the natural elements—sunlight, water, sand. The technique is that of a mason. My dream is to make them big as buildings."

"My strongest influences are Sardinian: pre-historic constructions and sculptures, traditional costumes, the baker and the craftsman. I learned from Le Corbusier to be conscious of the role every element must have in a plastic organization and its relation to architecture."

WAITED A LONG TIME— Bill Wentz, a senior from Canton, sat on the bench three years until last Saturday, when he got his first real chance to play football for Ohio State. He did such a good job that he will start at right halfback against Indiana on Saturday.

Sparkling Play Pays Off . . .

Bill Wentz will Keep His First Team Halfback Job

By Bill Teague

The performance of Bill Wentz against Michigan State proved something:

Good football players often sit on the bench.

Wentz, a senior from Canton, has been sitting out games for nearly three years. Saturday he got his first real chance when halfback Jim Herbstreit was hurt early in the first quarter.

HE PLAYED 55 minutes, caught three passes for 50 yards and one touchdown, almost broke loose for another score on a scintillating 31-yard kickoff return, gained 23 yards in the nine times he carried the ball, got six tackles, and batted down a couple of passes that looked like sure touchdowns for Michigan State.

"I waited a long time for this chance," Wentz said after the game.

But the wait paid off. The Buckeye coaching staff was so impressed with the way Wentz played that he is listed on the first team this week, and probably will start against Indiana Saturday even if Herbstreit recovers from his hand and shoulder injuries.

"HE WAITED a long time for his chance and now he has earned the right to start," said coach Woody Hayes.

"All our backs played good football Saturday. But we feel Wentz did the most outstanding job of all. He started his first game and played about 55 minutes of it. He did a good job on offense and defense and particularly, a good job blocking.

"He's a fine boy, not only in football but in everything. He's at Ohio State on an academic scholarship studying industrial engineering. He's active in his fraternity (Sigma Chi) and on the Student Senate," Hayes said. "He's serious about all his activities and does a good job on them all."

HAYES SAID the staff expected Wentz to see considerable action this fall because of his showing last spring. Wentz won a trophy as the most improved player in spring drills.

Wentz, who got in for only two plays against Indiana in his only action last season, is looking forward to playing against the Hoosiers this week.

"It really felt great to start and play most of the game. I was nervous, but you learn to control that after a while," he said.

"WINNING THAT ball game pleased me more than anything. It was my greatest thrill."

The 175-pound halfback says football limits study time, but does not make it impossible to get good grades.

"You have to plan your day," Wentz said. "You can't miss class either. You have to get a lot out of class because your times after class is shorter. You also have to study hard for mid-terms."

THE FORMULA has worked well for Wentz. His own success with planned study put him in Romophos, sophomore men's honorary and Bucket and dipper, junior men's honorary.

He still had time to be vice president of Sigma Chi and junior senator on the Student Senate. He is now senior senator.

And although his game time prior to Michigan State had been limited to brief stints against Illinois, Purdue and Wisconsin, he didn't miss any practice time.

We Remember Little Things The Longest

By John Auble Jr.

Now that the last cleat-torn blade of grass has settled on the Ohio State gridiron to remain until next Saturday, we look back on the Spartan-Buckeye battle and remember.

We not only remember the score, for that will be preserved in record books. What we do remember are those little incidents—those seemingly unimportant situations—which appear at every football field around game time.

THESE INCIDENTS are always the same, and without them it wouldn't seem like a football game. Here are some which are not included in the record books.

There is always a male fan who manages to get himself seated directly behind the goal posts. There he waits patiently for a field goal or extra point kick. When one or the other happens, he springs into action—his eyes widen and a look of stern determination comes over his face as he grabs the pigskin out of the sky. Then the barber with the special duty policeman and the manager begins.

Then there's the dyed-in-the-wool fan who never misses a contest and who never fails to mutter, "It's not over yet." He holds onto this belief until the final gun has sounded, and then his mutter becomes a shout as he blurts, "I've never seen a worse team in my life."

THE ALUMNUS, of many years hence, is always in his seat by kick-off time, and his quote is repeated over and over again by old-timers across the nation: "They don't play football like they did when I was in school."

You see a small child tugging at his father's coat and fidgeting in his seat just before a touchdown play, and you see a look of anguish come over the father's face as he says, "Can't mother take you?"

There's the freshman seated somewhere in C-deck of the end-zone who mumbles under his breath something about . . . "selling my activity card."

The cheerleader with tears in her eyes, the coach with a smile on his face, the program salesman with a broken heart because he didn't make his quota and the co-ed trying to impress her date all make up the colorfully wrapped—beautifully tied—football package every Saturday afternoon.

Buckeye's Win Pleases Coach; Scout Reports Indiana Tough

By Fritz Howell

In the understatement of the week, coach Woody Hayes told his weekly press luncheon guests Monday:

"Well, we looked a little better Saturday. Our offense showed the greatest improvement."

He was referring to the 30-24 win over Michigan State, in which the Bucks scored in every quarter after being held to a single touchdown in the previous four games.

Tom Matte threw three touchdown passes in his first start at quarterback.

Hayes termed the Spartans, with their multiple offense, "a beautiful team to watch if you don't care who wins." The Bucks mentor, not the least explosive of the Big Ten coaches, also observed:

"I wish I could be as happy and mild as Duffy Daugherty." The latter, coach of the Spartans, took the bitter defeat in stride, with only praise for the Bucks who knocked his team out of the title and Rose Bowl race.

Of upcoming Indiana, a 13-30 loser to Northwestern's league-leaders Saturday, Hayes said:

"Indiana has the ability to beat anyone on any given day. The Hoosiers maintain the best balance of anyone in the conference in offense, defense and kicking. We're not taking them lightly, but we don't figure to get licked Saturday."

Indiana defeated Nebraska in an early-season game, and the Cornhuskers Saturday handed Oklahoma its first Big Eight defeat in 13 years by 25-21. The Hoosiers opened the campaign with a 20-0 win over Illinois, which later shut out Ohio 9-0. Both Indiana and Ohio are 3-3 for the season.

In six starts, Indiana hasn't been blanked, and has scored at least one touchdown through the air in each contest. The Hoosiers have outscored Ohio 109 to 62, and have allowed 88 points to Ohio's 75.

Gordon Larson, assistant coach who has been scouting the Hoosiers, described them as a "steady, unspectacular team which runs from the single wing and does everything well."

"Although losing to Northwestern Saturday, Indiana had a 261 to 243 yardage edge," Larson said. "The Hoosiers made a couple of defensive mistakes and they cost the ball game. You can't call the Hoosiers the 'pore little boys' anymore—for they are a real football team."

Dick Michael, who was injured most of last week, was named the outstanding lineman against Michigan State by Hayes. He said senior Bill Wentz of Canton, making his first start in three years at halfback, gave the best all-around performance on the team.

In 40 games with Indiana, the Bucks have won 27, lost 10 and tied 3. Ohio has won the last seven in a row by convincing scores—49-8 last season, and 26-0 in 1957.

Buckeyes Get Light Drills; Movie Study

The first and second teams went through a light practice in sweat togs yesterday, taking it easy after their 30-24 win over Michigan State.

New faces on the first team were halfback Bill Wentz and end Chuck Bryant. Both were expected to start against Indiana next Saturday.

COACH WOODY HAYES also had the squad in a meeting to view game movies.

Hayes sprinkled praise for performances against the Spartans last week. He named tackle Dick Michael lineman of the week and praised Jim Houston, Dick Anders, Jim Tyrer, Tom Matte, Wentz, Bryant, and Mike Ingram for improvement.

"BOB WHITE, for having had no practice work, did a remarkably fine job," Hayes said.

Looking forward to Indiana, Hayes said, "In our next three games we hope we can improve as a football team. I see no reason why we can't. Our morale is good and our physical condition is improving."

He said he felt Indiana had as good a chance to beat Ohio State as any team in the Big Ten, but added, "We're not taking them lightly and we don't figure to get beat."

Ohio Stater's Serving University Since 1935

By Jay Blue and Jock Moody

A desire to be of great service to their Alma Mater inspired the originators of "Ohio Staters" to meet and establish an association conforming to this ideal. These men were past members of a defective organization, and they felt that a new and better one should be established.

After several months of informal organization, a project arose which required the group to be more organized, and so officers were elected and a constitution was drawn up. It was decided to incorporate as a non-profit corporation; and so on March 2, 1935, the Charter of Corporation, which still hangs on the office wall, was issued by the State of Ohio designating the official name to be "Ohio Staters, Incorporated."

THE BASIC membership pattern was set following the association's incorporation. It was decided that membership would be open to any male student who demonstrated interest and ability to be of service to the University.

A probationary status was established in 1948 to meet the demand for better membership screening during increased University enrollment. After he is passed for membership by the organization, the potential member serves this probationary period for one quarter. He is again interviewed by a Credentials Committee who can recommend that the man be dropped because of poor performance, held another quarter as a probationary member, or passed for active membership. There are only 55 members, 36 students, five alumni, and nine faculty.

NUMEROUS projects have been undertaken by Staters. As early as 1936 the Staters sponsored several "mammoth" rallies, "High School Day," spring carnival, and educational sound films. Among the important projects undertaken during the early years was the design of the University crest.

Other long-term projects have been the sponsorship of the Football Appreciation Banquet each fall, various travel services to away football games and during vacations, football rallies, and various campus spirit promotions.

In 1952 Ohio Staters sponsored the establishment of a student flash card section at the football games which has evolved into the present "Block O." The largest project ever undertaken by Staters was sponsoring the student trains to the Rose Bowl games.

PRESENTLY THE Staters are undertaking the main project of this year—sending a student train to the Michigan game. Probably the best-known Staters project is the selling of Marching Band records and OSU seat cushions after the game at the Stadium. Each year they handle all publicity and student ticket sales plus serve as ushers at the Annual Football Appreciation Banquet.

Ohio Staters arranges and supervises campus tours, provides ushers for daily events and sponsors a recognition party for all student leaders during Orientation Week. The Staters "Rally wagon" is an established part of the campus and can be rented by all student organizations.

All-African Organization Meets Friday

Interested in the Dark Continent? There is an organization on the campus just suited for you. Called the All-African Student Union, its purpose is bringing together African and American students to learn more about Africa.

Meetings which are announced beforehand, are held twice a month in the Ohio Union, usually on Fridays. Whenever possible, the group arranges to hear a speaker. At other times discussions are held on some definite part of Africa, its development, history or culture.

Anyone can join the group which now has 15 members, both African and American. Some of these are from other schools in this area, including Capital University.

The local chapter is a member of the All-African Student Union of the Americas.

Officers of the organization for this school year are: Daniel Owino, Ed-4, president; Henrietta Bibbs, A-3, vice-president; Edet Ubon (Capital U.) secretary, and Solomon Inguai, Grad, treasurer. Owino is from Kenya and Inguai is Ethiopian.

'Right to Advertise' Law Is Lecture Topic

By Ted Pollard

"In America, freedom is everybody's business," said William J. Oertel, Executive Director of the Ohio Newspaper Association, at the 16th Annual Ohio State Advertising Conference held Friday in the Ohio Union.

His remarks concerned Ohio's Right To Advertise Law which became effective this week.*

The law prohibits any agency from making "rules which would limit or restrict the right of any person to advertise."

IT "MAY WELL be a landmark in Ohio advertising history—and in advertising history generally," Mr. Oertel told the conference. "It may also be a landmark for freedom of business and enterprise, and against undue government control over advertising—a major tool of modern business and industry."

He noted that doctors and lawyers, among the first professionals interested in safeguarding their professional codes of ethics, encouraged the state to incorporate the codes into law. "To the credit of both these professions, nothing exists in the Ohio Code either banning or restricting advertising by them in any way," he said.

LATER, HOWEVER, there came along other business groups desiring professional status, but not wanting to work as hard. Examples he cited are innkeepers, architects, auto dealers, barbers, embalmers, and pawnbrokers.

"Have we—have you—become too complacent about our system of freedom," Oertel asked. "Have we become too sophisticated—too blase—too near-sighted in our thinking about our freedoms?"

"OUR FUTURE and our freedoms rest in our hands, but first we must accept the responsibility that goes with them."

"What does the new law mean? Advertising—truthful, honest and fair advertising—shall not be abridged in Ohio. In addition to halting in Ohio an anti-advertising trend that had gained dangerous nationwide proportions, the Ohio law does something more."

"It takes away some government authority that most persons would agree should not have been granted in the first place."

"Removing any government authority in this age is an achievement in itself, we feel!" Oertel told the audience which gave him a warm ovation for the remark.

... As an RCA Engineer

Receive your MS in Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering or Physics at RCA's expense, through the RCA Graduate Study Program. At the same time, you're beginning your RCA career as an engineer on a fully professional level, getting a head start in the field you prefer. RCA pays the full cost of your tuition, fees and approved texts while you take graduate study part-time at the University of Pennsylvania or Rutgers University.

Or, you may prefer a different path ahead... RCA Design and Development Specialized Training. Here is another of RCA's programs for careers, in which you begin by working full-time on planned technical assignments. Experienced engineers and interested management guide your progress. You may receive assignments in design and development of radar, airborne electronics, computers, missile electronics, television, radio and other equipment fields, as well as in electron tubes, semiconductor materials and devices, and space electronics.

Your experience or advanced education may point your way to direct assignment. Dozens of RCA engineering fields lie open to the man who's thoroughly acquainted with the direction he wants to take and whose qualifications open this path to him.

There's a lot more that's extremely interesting about an RCA engineering career. You should have these facts to make a wise decision about your future. Get them in person very soon when an RCA engineering management representative arrives on campus—

Plans for Lab Are Decided

Preliminary plans for the establishment of a joint geography field laboratory, were announced at a conference at Robert Allerton House, Monticello, Ill. The conference, held Oct. 23-25, was sponsored by the Committee on Institutional Cooperation of the Council of Ten and the University of Chicago.

The laboratory, to be established in the summer of 1961, will be used for the training of advanced geography students.

Twenty geographers from the Big Ten universities and the University of Chicago attended the conference. Ohio State was represented by Profs. John R. Randall and Robert M. Basile.

The Committee on Institutional Cooperation, which includes a representative from each of the various universities, was formally organized one year ago. Studies of the Committee are financed by the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

Rules for Queens Are Reaffirmed

Eligibility for supporting a queen nomination or for being a queen candidate depends upon certain rules set up by the University and the WSGA.

IT IS the function of the Queens Committee of WSGA to interpret these regulations and to take an active part in nomination and elections on this campus.

Any group wishing to sponsor a queen contest or any woman student wishing to participate in one must obtain a petition from the Queens Committee. Qualifications for queen candidates are that the nominee has a two-point accumulative standing, has completed at least fifteen credit hours and is carrying fifteen or more credit hours at the time of the contest.

NO PETITION will be granted to a person not enrolled in the University or to a group sponsoring a contest in which the girls have to wear bathing suits.

Peggy Pride, Arts 4, chairman of the Queens Committee, is sending letters explaining these regulations to all organizations that sponsor queen contests.

South Dakota, Utah, Alaska and California account for about 74 per cent of all the gold produced in the United States.

Call for Help

The Volunteer Service Bureau is officially open for the year. Throughout the year, the Bureau receives Calls for Help from the agencies, and tries to send them the requested number of students. Every two weeks the LANTERN will list some of these calls.

This week's Calls for Help come from four different Columbus agencies. The Children's Hospital requests students to help feed the children from 4:15 to 5:45 nightly. The bowling alleys in Columbus have donated their facilities to the Ohio Heart Association from November 8 to 14. They need students to sell entry blanks and help collect money at the alleys for periods of fifteen minutes (5:30 - 5:45, 8:15 - 8:30). The North Side Day Nursery needs interested students to assist their teacher in a free play period from 3:30 to 5 p.m. daily. The Senior Citizens Center is in need of a group of four to five girls to help serve Thanksgiving dinner.

All those interested, please come to The Volunteer Service Bureau in the YWCA-YMCA offices Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 2 to 5.

India Theme To Highlight Faculty Night

"Spotlight on India" will be the theme for a Foreign Affairs Night for members of the Faculty Club at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Grand Lounge of the Faculty Club. Students from India will act as hostesses, arrange a display of articles from India and provide recipes for the preparation of refreshments native to India.

Jacob P. Schmidt, professor emeritus, will moderate a panel discussion concerning the University's agricultural and educational projects in India. Participants will include Prof. Russell O. Olson and Alan Griffin, both of whom have served in India, and Rani Jagtiani, M.D., a graduate student in psychiatry at the Columbus Psychiatric Institute.

'Bowl' Team Is Boning Up

Ohio State's "College Bowl" team is busily "boning up" on a variety of subjects ranging from art to zoology in preparation for their Nov. 15 challenge of another college scholastic team on the CBS television network.

The two men and two women, representing three undergraduate colleges are studying under the tutelage of Asst. Dean G. Robert Holsinger and W. Todd Furniss of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The contestants are Mrs. Elizabeth Towne Norton, a senior undergraduate scholar in comparative literature; Molly Kay Reynolds, a junior in English and mathematics; Gerald Lynn Soliday, Wooster, a junior and Mershon scholar in history and German; and Jon Mikal Townsley, a Mershon scholar and senior in accounting.

The General Electric-sponsored program is carried each Sunday afternoon on the CBS network. A $1500 scholarship is presented to the college or university of the winning team and a $500 scholarship to the loser.

Ohio State's opponent will be either Southern Methodist, Swarthmore or Holy Cross.

Program Will Look At 'World of Man'

The Metropolitan Museum of Art's valuable archeological treasures are used to provide viewers with a glimpse into the world of ancient man on WOSU-TV's "Yesterday's Worlds," at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The new Channel 34 program, hosted by Dr. Casper J. Kraemer, professor of classics and archeology at Washington Square College of Arts and Sciences, demonstrates how the archeologist defines the life and thought of the past through important discoveries.

Guest experts who will appear with Dr. Kramer include those from New York University, the Metropolitan Museum, and the American Museum of Natural History. They'll join in discussion of the cultures of ancient Assyria, Egypt, Greece, Rome, and other countries and cities of the Near and Far East.

Produced by New York University, the series of 26 programs received the highest viewer rating of any public service television program in the New York metropolitan area. Over

'Happy Time' Lead Has 'Natural Feel' for Role

Drive and determination are major ingredients for a fast and smooth-moving play.

Ted Florence, A-3, who plays the lead of "Bibi" in the University Theatre production of "The Happy Time," has displayed throughout rehearsals the type of devoted energy which is the backbone of a fluent play.

FLORENCE WAS chosen for the part of "Bibi" because of his small, boyish appearance. He also assumes a rather amazing resemblance to the actor playing the part of Bibi's Papa.

Florence has known acting through only one other production. At Brown University, which he attended for two years, he played a bit part in an original musical comedy, "Chelsea St."

This is certainly no strike against Florence's abilities, for he shows a "natural feel" for the role of "The Happy Time." His aim is to feel like Bibi in order to master the part.

FLORENCE'S background is typical of a midwestern college student. At Brown University

Test System Satisfactory To Everyone

"No aid given or received" are the words ending each examination in the school of electrical engineering. For many years the faculty and students of this school have found the honor system to be both effective and satisfactory.

The honor system works in this way: After a professor has distributed the exams he leaves the room, telling his students where he will be. He is therefore available to talk to anyone who has any questions to ask him during the test. At the end of the testing period the professor return to the room and collects the exams.

If there is any evidence of dishonesty, which there never has been, it is reported to the Electrical Engineering Council. The Council will then make an investigation.

By being put on their honor, the students are given a feeling of independence and do not abuse the privilege of being trusted while taking exams.

where he played soccer, basketball and baseball, he received his Freshman Numerals.

Maintaining a basic philosophy that it is important to entertain a range of interests, he turned to sailing and debating. He, of course, found time for study in his major program of economics.

At Ohio State Florence is majoring in English. His continued interest in theatrical productions will be determined when he feels he deserves to sit with actors.

Mirror of the Campus

The 28-member pledge class of Delta Theta Sigma fraternity has elected officers. They are: president, Don Butz; vice-president, Bob Lewis; secretary, Dave Zipf; treasurer, Dave Myers; social chairman, Bob Cowley.

A book, "Psychology and the New Education," by two Ohio State faculty members has been issued in a Turkish translation.

The authors are Prof. Francis P. Robinson and Emeritus Prof. Sidney L. Pressey, both of the University's psychology faculty.

First published in 1945, the book also has been issued in Japanese and an English edition has been published in Sweden.

The University Theatre has announced that tryouts will be held for the Children's Theatre Company tonight and Wednesday night. They will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Derby Hall Theatre.

Two plays will be presented. They are "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "The Land of the Dragon." The director is David Hagans.

All students are welcomed to these tryouts.

The College of Law will hold open house for Columbus attorneys and judges from 3 to 6 p.m. Sunday at its recently completed building.

Dean Frank R. Strong has announced that there will be tours of the building, conducted by law students, and refreshments in the Meeting Room.

First section of the Law Building was built in 1956, and the second was put into use this fall.

Dr. M. J. Coon, professor of biological chemistry in the Medical School of the University of Michigan, is being brought to the campus by the department of physiological chemistry and the Graduate School to talk on the "Enzymatic Synthesis of Branch Chain Acids." The lecture will be given at 7:30 p.m. in room 112, Dentistry Building, Thursday. Dr. Coon recently received the Paul-Lewis Award in enzyme chemistry from the American Chemical Society. His lecture will include discussion of some phases of the work for which the award was given.

Dr. Kemp Malone, professor emeritus at Johns Hopkins University, will be the guest of the Ohio State English department and Graduate School Thursday.

Malone, the noted linguist and philologist, will give a public lecture on "Old English Poetry" at 4 p.m. in the new Law College Building and will address the Faculty Medieval Club.

'Quiz-Whiz' Resigns from Columbia U.

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The trustees of Columbia University announced in New York late yesterday that they have decided to accept the resignation of Charles Van Doren as a $5,500-a-year assistant professor in English literature.

The trustees acted within hours after Van Doren, 33, abandoned his claims of innocence and told House investigators how he participated in a rigged "deception" that won him $129,000 on the now defunct "21" program.

UNIVERSITY President Grayson Kirk said Van Doren's resignation was effective immediately. He made the announcement after the trustees examined a transcript of Van Doren's testimony before a House Commerce Subcommittee.

Van Doren told the subcommittee he was fed questions and answers in advance and was rehearsed to increase his popular appeal. He also said he declined in his "folly" to tell the truth even to a grand jury and his own lawyer.

But Van Doren, the picture of a tortured man, said his conscience tormented him to the point where "I could no longer lie."

"I have deceived my friends and I had millions of them," he said.

Van Doren was dry-eyed and somber as he read his detailed prepared confession. But his eyes welled with tears as committee members praised him for his belated frankness and chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) dismissed him with a quiet "God bless you."

Army ROTC Wins Honors

A new slate of cadet officers with a coup of military honors lead the Army ROTC cadets this quarter.

Army Cdt. Lt./Col. Robert B. Wilson, A-4, will act as the new cadet brigade commander. He will be assisted by Cdt. Lt./Col. William P. Toppari, A-4, as deputy brigade commander. The three battle groups are led by Cadet Majors David L. Adelsperger, Com-4, Gary R. Cooper, Ed-4, and Ronald D. Harris, Engr-4.

THIS FALL Senior Cadets wore for the first time in University history khaki uniforms and boots worn in the manner of the Army Airborne troopers. Basic cadets, meanwhile, went modern in Army greens which all cadets are now wearing.

This military innovation is the result of a six week summer camp at Fort Bragg, N. C., where Buckeye seniors beat competitors from 27 other schools in training.

Outstanding senior cadets from Ohio State were Robert B. Wilson, who was selected outstanding cadet in his company of 140 men, and Gary R. Cooper, Jerry J. Simpson, David L. Adelsperger and James E. Huston.

GROUP INITIATES

Alpha Kappa Psi will hold an initiation of new members at the Ohio Union Park Memorial Room, Tuesday, Nov. 3, at 4:30 p.m.

Ice Age Lectures Given By European Scientist

A leading European geological scientist, Prof. Paul Woldstedt of the Geological Institute of the University of Bonn, Germany, will deliver a series of lectures on the European Ice Age and the evolution of man at Ohio State during his visit in Ohio, Nov. 8 through 14.

Professor Woldstedt, who is a research associate at the University of Minnesota during the fall of this year, is giving a limited number of lectures during his visit to this country and Canada. His lectures in Columbus will be under the auspices of Ohio State's Graduate School and department of geology.

OTHER APPEARANCES will include Chicago, Ill.; Houston, Tex.; the Universities of Illinois, Michigan and Massachusetts; and McGill, Harvard, Yale, Princeton and Columbia Universities.

Professor Woldstedt will give a technical lecture on "Basic Pleistocene Stratigraphy of Northern Europe and the Alps" in room 200, Mendenhall Laboratory at 4 p.m., Nov. 9. This lecture will describe the various layers of geological material which were left by the melting of the ice sheets which covered part of Europe during the past million years.

A second lecture of more popular appeal, "Pleistocene of the Non-Glaciated Area of Central Europe and the Evolution of Man and his Culture," will be given at the same place at 8 p.m. Nov. 12. The public is invited.

DURING HIS stay in Ohio, Professor Woldstedt will examine deposits of material in western Ohio which were left by the melting of ice sheets which covered much of Ohio. He will be accompanied in the field by Prof. Richard P. Goldthwait of Ohio State's department of geology, a specialist who has studied these deposits extensively as well as present-day glaciers in both the Arctic and Antarctic regions. Professor Woldstedt will also lecture to one of Professor Goldthwait's classes on sand dunes and dust deposits of Southern Germany.

Professor Woldstedt has published the second volume of a comprehensive work on the ice age, an authoritative treatment of the Ice Age history of Europe and the Mediterranean. He is editor of the journal of the German Quaternary Association, an organization of Ice Age specialists, and has published other reports in this field of interest.

Inaugural Speech Contained in Book

Addresses delivered at the time of the inauguration in 1957 of Novice G. Fawcett as the eighth president of Ohio State are contained in Volume VII of the official history of the university, published by the University Press and released this week.

The 100-page book, entitled "Addresses and Proceedings of the Inauguration of Novice G. Fawcett," also contains numerous photographs of the proceedings, the lists of the official delegates and guests and the texts of addresses delivered at the Mershon Auditorium dedication that same day.

Major texts included in the book are those of speeches by David Dodds Henry, president of the University of Illinois; Paul Herman Buck, historian and director of university libraries at Harvard University; and the inaugural address by President Fawcett.

A limited distribution of the book is being made. Copies will go primarily to colleges and universities, and learned and professional societies represented at the inauguration, and selected libraries. Additional copies may be purchased through the University Press, 164 W 19th Ave., on the Ohio State campus.

DIARY OF A COED

MONDAY: Prof. Pomfritt sprang quiz in English lit this morning. If Shakespeare didn't write Canterbury Tales I'm a dead duck . . . Lunch at the house—turkey hash. Question: how can we have turkey hash when we never had turkey? . . . Smoked a Marlboro after lunch. I dig those better makin' the most! . . . Played bridge with sorors in afternoon. When game was over, my partner stabbed me several times with hatpin. Must learn weak club bid . . . Dinner at house—lamb hash. Question: how can we have lamb hash when we never had lamb? . . . Smoked a Marlboro after dinner. What filter! What flavor! What pack or box! . . . Chapter meeting at night. Motion made to abolish capital punishment for pledges. Motion defeated . . . Smoked more Marlboros. Quelle joie! . . . And so to bed.

TUESDAY: Faculty tea at the house. Spilled pot of oolong on Dean of Women. She very surly. Offered her a Marlboro. Still surly. Offered skin graft. No help . . . Dinner at Kozy Kampus Kafe—24 hamburgers. But no dessert. Have to watch waistline . . . And so to bed.

WEDNESDAY: Got our marks in English lit quiz. Lucky for me Shakespeare wrote Canterbury Tales! . . . Afternoon date with Ralph Feldspar. Purely platonic. Ralph wanted to consult me about love trouble he's having with his girl Nymphet Calloway. I assured him things would get better. Ralph said he certainly hopes so because last four times he called on Nymphet, she dumped vacuum cleaner bag on him . . . Smoked several Marlboros. Wonderful cigarette. No confusion about which end to light. Saves loads of time . . . Dinner at house—bread. That's all; just bread . . . And so to bed.

THURSDAY: Three packages from home—laundry, cookies, records. So hungry I ate all three . . . Quiz in American history. If Millard Fillmore didn't invent cotton gin, I'm in big trouble . . . Dinner at house. Big excitement—Nymphet Calloway announced her engagement to Ralph Feldspar. While sorors flocked around to congratulate Nymphet, I ate everybody's side meat . . . Then smoked Marlboro. Oh, what a piece of work is Marlboro! . . . And so to bed.

FRIDAY: Got our marks in American history quiz. Was shattered to learn that Millard Fillmore did not invent cotton gin. He wrote Canterbury Tales . . . How very odd! . . . Lunch at the house—bread hash . . . Marlboro after lunch. Great smoke. Must send valentine to manufacturers . . . Spent entire afternoon getting dressed for date tonight with Norman Twonkey. Norman is dall, dark, loaded—a perfect doll! Only thing wrong is he never tells a girl where he's going to take her. So I put on a bathing suit, on top of that an evening gown, and on top of that a snowsuit. Thus I was ready for a splash party, a dance, or a toboggan slide . . . So what do you think happened? He entered me in a steeplechase, that's what! . . . Would have taken first prize easily if I hadn't pulled up lame in the last furlong . . . And so to bed.
