First Lady Excited By India Trip

By Thelma Kilberry

The University's first lady is bubbling with enthusiasm over her coming trip to India.

After spending Christmas Day at home with their family, Novice G. Fawcett and his wife will depart the next day for New York from where they will wing their way across the Atlantic. Brief stops will be made in London, Paris and Rome before arriving in Beirut, first official stop on President Fawcett's itinerary.

NEXT DAY will be New Delhi and then a visit with the Raymond E. Crays in Chandigarh, East Punjab, where Cray is professor of poultry science.

"As the day draws nearer, I get more and more breathless with excitement," Mrs. Fawcett said.

It will be her first time outside the United States with the exception of Canada. For months she has been gathering firsthand information on India and its people, much of it through students here at the University.

"THERE ARE 110 Indian students on campus," she said. "Through them I have learned much about their life in India."

While in India, the Fawcetts hope to meet some of the parents of Indian students, who are now at Ohio State.

WHEN QUERIED about Indian food, Mrs. Fawcett said she recently had an opportunity to taste some of the Indian dishes at a reception which Indian students on

Season's Greetings

Through the wide eyes and winsome smile of Sally James, the LANTERN wishes all of you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. To find out what our little friend wants for Christmas, turn to page 7.

625 To Get Degrees Friday

About 625 students will be graduated at Autumn Quarter Commencement ceremonies at 9:30 a.m. Friday in St. John Arena.

Sixty doctor of philosophy degrees and 200 masters' degrees will be conferred during the ceremonies. The honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters will be received by William Mathewson Milliken, director emeritus of the Cleveland Museum of Art.

Dr. Nelson Glueck, a distinguished American archaeologist and Hebrew scholar, will be the speaker. He is presently serving as president of the Hebrew Union College—Jewish Institute of Religion of Cincinnati and New York.

Dr. Glueck, a native of Cincinnati, was educated at the University of Cincinnati, Hebrew Union College, and the Universities of Berlin, Heidelberg, and Jena in Germany. He has served as the director of the American School of Oriental Research at Jerusalem and has done archaeological work in Palestine and Trans-Jordan.

His writings include the books, "Rivers of the Desert," "River Jordan," and "The Other Side of the Jordan."

Paraguay Rebels Keep On Fighting

POSADAS, Argentina.—(UPI)—The Rebellion against the government of Paraguayan strongman Gen. Alfredo Stroessner appeared to be in full swing last night despite repeated official claims of "complete victory."

* The claims were contradicted by Paraguay's military radio which still is broadcasting news of loyal troop engagements with insurgents along the Argentine border.

At the same time, reports from Asuncion said inhabitants of the Paraguayan capital had been urged to stock up on food.

Observers here believed the appeal indicated that the Stroessner regime was preparing for a lengthy guerrilla war with rebel units which survived the first hammer blows of the government counter-attack and were continuing the fight in farm country southeast of the capital.

Asuncion itself, however, was reported calm, although the government started a roundup of known liberal and Communist leaders. Many persons were understood to have been taken into custody.

Both the government in Asuncion and rebel spokesmen in Posadas claimed victories in the two-day revolt. Fresh government troops were being airlifted to the main battle area at Encarnacion, Paraguay. Rebel spokesmen said two more columns of 700 men had crossed the border and that 1,000 rebels were advancing in Paraguayan territory.

Charges that backing for the revolt against the last dictatorship in the South American continent came from Fidel Castro's Cuba could not be confirmed.

Ike Flies To Iran

NEW DELHI. — (UPI)—President Eisenhower flew to Iran today on the next leg of his tour, inspired by the "soul-stirring" cheers of a million people at an outdoor rally and bolstered by India's pledge of wholehearted support in his quest for peace.

After brief farewell ceremonies with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, the Presidential jetliner took off from Palam Airport outside New Delhi on the flight to Tehran and a greeting from Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

REPORT TO THE CAMPUS

Board Approves President's Analysis Of 'Disclaimer' Issues

The Board of Trustees voted approval Friday of a statement by President Fawcett analyzing issues involved regarding the "disclaimer affidavit" in the National Defense Education Act.

The text of the President's statement follows in full:

The Ohio State University has not withdrawn from the student loan program under the National Defense Education Act of 1958 nor does it contemplate withdrawing from it.

The recent action of the University Scholarship and Loan Committee (November 12, 1959) simply put the Committee on record as protesting the necessity of students signing an oath and affidavit to be eligible to receive loans under the National Defense Education Act.

The Committee recognized that the contract is now a fait accompli but wished to align itself with the forces in American education which opposes principally the disclaimer affidavit. Obviously, the Committee can speak for itself within the framework of University policy, but cannot speak for the University on a policy matter. Consequently, its action has been forwarded to me and the Board of Trustees for study.

There are several reasons why a number of professional groups and certain colleges and universities have taken steps to effect a change in the National Defense Education Act in the next session of Congress. The change being sought is the deletion of the disclaimer affidavit and not the oath or affirmation, i.e. part (1) only of the following:

"No part of any funds appropriated or otherwise made available for expenditure under authority of this Act shall be used to make payments or loans to any individual unless such individual (1) has executed and filed with the Commissioner an affidavit that he does not believe in, and is not a member of and does not support any organization that believes in or teaches, the overthrow of the United States Government by force or violence or by any illegal or unconstitutional methods, and (2) has taken and subscribed to an oath or affirmation in the following form: 'I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the United States of America and will support and defend the Constitution and laws of the United States against all its enemies, foreign and domestic.'"

Among the principal reasons for objection to (1) above are:

(1) The position taken by the Secretary of Health Education and Welfare that the disclaimer affidavit is of no consequence since a Communist will sign such a statement without hesitation, thereby making the purpose of the affidavit ineffective.

(2) The singling out of students in our population as subjects of distrust. The argument here seems to be one of discrimination, since farmers and others receiving federal subsidy are not required to sign such affidavits.)

(3) The setting of a precedent in the distribution of federal funds to educational ventures by linking federal aid with political conditions of eligibility. (Keeping our educational institutions free of political influence and dedicated to the free, responsible, objective and honest pursuit of ideas has been a historical goal of schools and colleges. Any departure from this concept of purpose in a free society is viewed with apprehension and is believed by many to be fraught with danger.)

VOLUME III NUMBER 1 MAJOR ACTIONS BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES ON DECEMBER 11, 1959

Dr. Kottman Appointed Ag Dean

Dr. Roy M. Kottman, 42, dean of the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics at West Virginia University, was appointed Dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics and Director of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster, effective June 1.

He will succeed Dean Leo L. Rummell, who has held the dual position since 1948, and who retires to the University's emeritus ranks Dec. 31.

Dr. Kottman was appointed to the deanship of the college by the Trustees and to the directorship of the Experiment Station by the Board sitting in its alternate role as the Board of Control of the Experiment Station.

The new dean will hold the rank of professor of animal science on the University faculty and will serve as a consultant to the College of Agriculture and Home Economics and the Experiment Station from the time Dean Rummell retires Dec. 31 to the time Dr. Kottman takes up his official duties June 1.

The Board of Trustees and Board of Control, respectively, appointed Associate Dean T. Scott Sutton to be acting dean of the college and Associate Director William E. Krauss to be acting director of the Experiment Station during the interim period.

At 42, Dean Kottman has tailored an enviable career, marked from its beginning by outstanding energy, initiative, scholarship and leadership.

He was born on a farm near Thornton, Ia., Dec. 22, 1916, and grew up there. He was valedictorian of his high school graduating class at Thornton in 1934. After his graduation he worked for three years to earn enough money to enroll at Iowa State College (now Iowa State University) in 1937.

He received the Danforth Scholarship as a freshman and the Danforth Foundation Fellowship as a junior. These awards are presented to the most outstanding freshman and junior in each of the land-grant colleges and universities in the United States. As a freshman, he also received the Alpha Zeta-Gamma Sigma Delta Scholarship award.

Dean Kottman was a feature writer on the Iowa Agriculturist during his sophomore, junior and senior years; participated in the Little International Livestock Show during all four years; participated in the Veishea Exposition during all four years, and was chairman of open houses for the entire college during his junior year.

He received the Military Excellence Award during his sophomore and junior years, and was cadet colonel of the ROTC establishment at Iowa State.

He also was a member of the Cadet Officers' Association, Inkhorn, the YMCA Council, and Scabbard and Blade, military honorary society. During his senior year he was a member of the Iowa State Livestock Judging Team which placed first at both the Kansas City Royal Livestock Show and the International Livestock Show at Chicago. He was a member of the agricultural honoraries, Alpha Zeta and Gamma Sigma Delta, and was tapped for Cardinal Key, the men's service fraternity at Iowa State.

Following his graduation, Dean Kottman was employed by the Ralston-Purina Co., at St. Louis, Mo., from where he was called to active duty July 20, 1941, as a second lieutenant of artillery for service in World War II. He was separated from active duty April 3, 1946, as a major. He served as an ROTC instructor at Iowa State, gunnery instructor of the Officers' Advanced Course at Fort Sill, Okla., and with the West Point teaching staff. His overseas duty was with the 418th Field Artillery Group in the Philippines.

He holds the rank of colonel in the Army Reserve and currently is commanding officer of the 2353rd Research and Development Unit. He was chief of staff of the 103rd Infantry Reserve Division while he was at Iowa State University.

On his return to civilian life, Dean Kottman became an assistant professor of animal husbandry at Iowa State and coach of the Livestock Judging Team. During the 1947-48 school year he took his master of science degree in genetics at the University of Wisconsin as a graduate assistant, and the following year returned to Iowa State to work toward a doctorate. In the mean-

During President's Absence Cabinet Will Be In Charge

President Fawcett announced that during his forthcoming trip to India, "responsibility for each area of administration as defined by Board rule of each member of the Cabinet will be vested in the Cabinet member in charge.

"All matters of major policy are coordinated through Cabinet action," he said, "and this procedure will continue in effect during my absence.

"Any matter involving a marked change or modification in administrative policy will be discussed by the Cabinet and announced by Mr. John Mount, representing the Office of the President, during my absence."

time, he was appointed assistant professor and assistant to the dean of Agriculture in 1950 and to associate professor and assistant dean of Agriculture in 1951.

Dean Kottman was awarded his doctor's degree in animal breeding in 1952, and in 1954 was promoted to professor and associate dean in charge of the agricultural teaching program.

He went to West Virginia University July 1, 1958, as dean of the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics and director of the West Virginia Experiment Station, as at Ohio State, a dual position.

While Dean Kottman's basic field is animal science, particularly genetics and breeding, his primary interests in recent years have tended more toward the broader aspects of agricultural education in general. Based on both his work and writings, his chief concerns have been the direction and adequacy of agricultural curriculums in the land-grant colleges and universities in meeting the demand for agricultural graduates, and the shifting of the number of students who seek education in overall agricultural pursuits, sometimes called "agribusiness."

During the past year, Dean Kottman served as secretary of the Division of Agriculture of the American Association of Land-Grant Colleges and State Universities and as chairman of the division's Resident Instruction Committee on Organization and Policy.

He is currently chairman of the Agribusiness Subcommittee, a role in which he has addressed the association on a national project on the recruitment, education and placement of agricultural students.

He was recently elected to the Executive Committee of the association's Division of Agriculture and secretary of the division's Resident Instruction Section and Committee on Organization and Policy.

Dean Kottman is a member of the Presbyterian Church, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, American Society of Animal Production of which he is the recent chairman of the teaching committee; and Sigma Xi and Phi Kappa Phi honorary societies.

His hobbies are horseback riding, angling and duck hunting.

He was married in 1941 to the former Wanda Lorraine Morrman of Ames, Ia., an Iowa State classmate. She was born at Chadron, Neb., but reared in Iowa after the age of three. She also entered Iowa State in 1937 and was graduated in home economics in 1941, with a major in institution management.

Mrs. Kottman was an honor student throughout all her four college years; president of the Iowa State freshman class; Outstanding Junior in Home Economics, and Danforth Fellowship winner in her junior year. She was elected to Omicron Nu, home economics scholastic honorary, and Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, and was tapped for Mortar Board in her senior year for outstanding service to her university.

She also is a member of Delta Delta Delta, social sorority.

The Kottmans have four children, Gary Roy, 15; Robert William, 13; Wayne David, 6, and Janet Kay, 3.

Board Hears Report on Journalism

The director of the Ohio State School of Journalism told the Trustees that journalism schools must play a broader role in teaching people in all fields to communicate more clearly.

In a report on activities of the school since he assumed the directorship in January, 1958, Prof. George J. Kienzle said the problem of communication will grow in size and complexity in the years ahead because of the constant increase of the mass of information—especially scientific and technical data—to be exchanged.

"The broadened scope of journalism education recognizes that progress—personal, social, scientific, educational and political—will continue to depend upon effective communications.

Major actions by the Board of Trustees at its meeting Friday, Dec. 11, in the Administration Building on the campus are contained in "Report To The Campus." Prepared by the staff of the Office of University Relations, "Report" provides more details on Trustees' actions than newspaper, radio or television reports of the meeting ordinarily can include.

"The individual who knows how to gather information, analyze it, interpret it, then pass it along to others, no matter what his major or specialty may be, will improve his effectiveness to his organization."

Professor Kienzle reported that Ohio State has 101 journalism majors and an average of 269 non-major registrations a quarter. He said registrations on a year-round basis increased 84 per cent in the past two years.

He pointed out, however, that enrollment and course registrations throughout the country declined more than 30 per cent from 1948 to 1958. He said the Ohio State decline during that period was somewhat sharper.

He asked that the School of Journalism and the press of Ohio work together to develop a plan to attract "not just any students, but some of the best students" into journalism.

Emphasizing that there are several approaches to journalism education, Professor Kienzle noted that the Ohio State "liberal arts-oriented philosophy" has won overwhelming approval, both on and off the campus.

He said the curriculum of the Ohio State school has been reduced 36 per cent to allow students to get depth in arts and science courses. The average journalism student now takes about 40 hours in journalism, or about one-fifth of his total work.

Two Staff Promotions Approved

Promotion of Prof. E. Allen Helms to the chairmanship of the political science department and that of Dr. Arne E. Slettebak to the directorship of Perkins and McMillin Observatories were approved by the Board.

Dr. Helms, a faculty member since 1925, is widely known as a teacher and author in the field of political science and has served also as visiting professor at the University of Illinois, Michigan State, Wisconsin, and Oxford University in England. He will assume the chairmanship on Jan. 1, 1960, succeeding Dr. Harvey C. Mansfield, chairman since 1947, who has resigned the post.

Dr. Mansfield will request a year's leave of absence beginning next July to serve in New York on the staff of the Commission on Money and Credit. An independent body financed largely by the Ford Foundation, the commission will conduct a large-scale study and make recommendations for improvement of the workings of the private financial system, governmental lending and credit agencies, the operations and policies of the Federal Reserve System, the Treasury, and other government bodies important in the control and regulation of this country's monetary and credit system.

Dr. Mansfield will continue to serve also as editor of The Political Science Review, journal of the American Political Science Association.

In addition to being made director of Perkins Observatory, operated jointly by Ohio State and Ohio Wesleyan University, and of McMillin Observatory at Ohio State, Dr. Slettebak was advanced from the rank of associate professor to professor, effective last Nov. 15. The promotion was made with the concurrence of OWU officials.

Dr. Slettebak joined Ohio State's physics and astronomy faculty in 1949. He was a member of the 1954 Solar Eclipse Expedition to Iran, and during 1955-56 was a Fulbright Fellow at the University of Hamburg, Germany.

Other personnel recommendations approved Friday by the University's Board included:

Appointments—Rear Admiral (USN Ret.) Charles E. McCombs, former Naval ROTC commandant, to be assistant director, Student Financial Aids, effective Jan. 1; William M. Drenten, assistant professor, School of Journalism, effective Dec. 1; Dennis D. Mog, assistant editor, News and Information Service, effective Nov. 23, succeeding George A. Miller.

Smith, chairman, department of agricultural economics and rural sociology at the University and the Agricultural Experiment Station, from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1960, to aid in development of a national education program on agricultural adjustment at the request of the Center of Agricultural and Economic Adjustment, Iowa State University; Prof. Louis E. Vandegriff, civil engineering, for Winter and Spring Quarters, 1960, to serve as consulting engineer for City of Columbus.

Resignations—Dr. Paul M. Pepper, associate professor, department of mathematics, effective Nov. 16 (continues as assistant to the director of Ohio State's Research Foundation); J. Allen Hynek, professor, physics and astronomy (on leave), effective Nov. 10; and Frederick J. Doyle, associate professor, geodesy, photogrammetry, effective Dec. 31.

Architects Employed To Design New Law Center

A recommendation to employ the Cincinnati architectural firm of Potter, Tyler, Martin and Roth for work on an Ohio State Bar Association headquarters building on the Ohio State campus was approved by the Trustees.

The action was made subject to execution of a supplemental agreement with the Bar Association for engagement of architects.

Under terms of the recommendation, the firm is to provide complete architectural and engineering services for preliminary plans at a fee of 1.2 per cent of the building's construction cost, which is estimated at $550,000.

The University Trustees acted in 1956 and 1957 to approve establishment of a Law Center on the campus, in cooperation with the Ohio State Bar Association and the Ohio State Bar Association Foundation.

The association is conducting a campaign to raise funds for construction of its headquarters on the campus.

The Trustees also: Authorized development fo plans for construction of "T" hangars at the Ohio State University Airport to provide shelter on a rental basis for private planes which base at the field. An amount not to exceed $200,000 will be loaned for the project from the general University fund, to be repaid with interest in 15 years or less.

Authorized development of plans firm of Louis F. Karlsberger & Associates, Columbus, for architectural services for the equipment of the North Wing Addition to University Hospital. Fee was set at 6 per cent of the cost of the equipment, estimated at $299,805.

Authorized Gordon B. Carson, Vice President, Business and Finance, to proceed with purchase of 2105, 2107 and 2109 Neil Ave., in the area immediately north of the campus, from Mrs. Francis Wright at a price of $15,500.

Also authorized the purchase of fine properties on W. Frambes Ave. as follows: 77 and 91 W. Frambes Ave., from Lee May, for $9,500 each; 125 W. Frambes Ave., Belle Glade Company, $9,850; 129 W. Frambes Ave., Walter C. Stross, $13,500; and 155-159 W. Frambes Ave., Wilmea Enterprises, Inc., not to exceed $33,250.

Approved a recommendation to demolish buildings at 109-111 W. 11th Ave. and 67-69 W. Frambes Ave. as soon as they are vacated.

Chem Abstracts Addition Contract Goes to Sheaf

Award of a $149,144 general contract to the Sheaf Construction Co., Columbus, for addition of a fourth floor to the Chemical Abstracts Building on the campus was reported to the Board.

Contracts for plumbing, electrical work, heating and air conditioning were approved at the Trustees' November meeting. Funds for the project are being provided by the American Chemical Society.

The building, completed in 1955, is the editorial headquarters of Chemical Abstracts, internationally known American Chemical Society publication.

In other action, the Board approved plans and specifications for the fourth phase in the remodeling of the Scholarship Dormitories in the west side of Ohio Stadium.

Cost of the project, which would extend the present facilities housing 161 students to facilities for 237 by next fall, is estimated at $110,000. Ultimately, the dormitories will house 400 scholarship students.

The Trustees also recommended that the firm of Ralph & Curl, Engineers, be employed to provide the professional engineering services for the heating, ventilating, plumb-ing and electrical work on the fourth phase of the Stadium Scholarship Dormitories project.

$378,815 in University Research Reported

Twenty-three contracts for research studies to be conducted by the University for government and industry were reported to the Board.

The contracts, administered through the University Research Foundation, were valued at $378,815. This amount includes agreements with government agencies totaling $377,715 and one industrial contract for $1,100.

Largest of the agreements was a $90,000 contract with the Wright Air Development Center, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, for a continuing study in radome optics in the University's department of electrical engineering.

The study, under the supervision of Dr. Thomas Tice, director of the University's antenna laboratory, and Dr. Jack H. Richmond, associate professor of electrical engineering, is concerned with the problems of propagating radar energy through radomes, the plastic or ceramic protective coverings of antennas on supersonic missiles and planes.

The electrical engineering department also received a $40,000 contract from the Air Force Cambridge Research Center, Bedford, Mass., for studies in radio astronomy and a $49,000 contract from the Cleveland Ordnance District for research on satellite ionization phenomena and observation.

Other government research projects ranged from a $13,098 investigation of cerebral blood flow during acceleration, to be conducted for the Wright Air Development Center by the department of physiology, to a $1,940 study of primate learning and perception by the department of psychology for the National Institutes of Health.

The lone industrial contract is for an investigation of lighting principles used to reduce reflected glare from ceiling-mounted luminaries. The study will be conducted by the Institute for Research in vision for the Illuminating Engineering Research Institute, New York.

Indian Journey . . .

Mrs. Fawcett Excited About Trip To The East

While President Fawcett is busy evaluating the University's technical aid program to Indian schools, Mrs. Fawcett has no particular plans except to be with her husband. "I'm just going along," she said.

MRS. FAWCETT said she would like to do some shopping, especially while in India, but added, "I don't think I'll have a lot of time to shop, there is so much to see and do that is more important."

Concerning a special wardrobe for the trip (she is allowed only 66 pounds of luggage by the airline), Mrs. Fawcett said, "I haven't had time to buy anything new or give any thought to it." She mentioned that she has been advised by Americans already in India to take warm clothing for this time of year.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fawcett's schedules are so full now—with shots, business and social engagements and the approaching holidays—that Mrs. Fawcett remarked:

"IN FACT, we are wondering at this point just when and how we are going to get ourselves packed."

Neither of the Fawcett's daughters will accompany their parents on the trip. Mary Joan, who graduated from Ohio State this past Summer Quarter, is now teaching in the Columbus school system. Jane, the younger daughter, will continue her studies at North High where she is a junior.

The Fawcetts will return to Columbus on Feb. 8 and Mrs. Fawcett said she hoped to have many things of interest to report at that time.

Until then . . . a bon voyage to Mr. and Mrs. Fawcett.

DEBATERS TOP 19

Ohio State's varsity debate team topped 19 other schools in total points at the Otterbein Invitational Holiday Debate Tournament Saturday, scoring 28 out of a possible 30 points.

The team placed fourth in the tournament. Diane Powell, A-2, and Ed McGlone, A-1, the negative team, topped all negative teams in points. The affirmative team, Harriet Wain, Ed-2, and Sarah Benson, A-1, were second.

Other requirements include experience as chairman of at least three committees for May Week, Greek Week, Homecoming and the like.

Those petitioning should be juniors or seniors carrying 15 credit hours and have a 2.00 accumulative point hour with a 2.00 during the previous quarter.

Petitions are due at 5 p.m. Monday, Jan. 6, in room 304 of the Ohio Union.

Oks Analysis Of 'Disclaimer' Issues

(4) The point of view held by some that the University's support of the National Defense Education Act means that Ohio State as an agent of the federal government in this case is saying no one's loyalty can be taken for granted but that loyalty will be assured by demanding a mechanical affirmation, thus debasing patriotism and applying pressure for conformity.

(5) The taking of the oath of allegiance makes the disclaimer affidavit superfluous.

(6) To assume some of the highest offices in our land, one prerequisite is the oath of allegiance only.

Basic to almost every discussion on this subject is a concern that any sign of governmental interference in an area of administration that resides properly in our free institutions of higher learning should be exposed to full view and appraised in the light of its possible consequences.

On the other side of this issue are arguments that must be examined before valid conclusions can be reached. Among these are:

(1) Any person or agency has a right to set the conditions for a loan or grant of money and the recipient of the loan or grant is not compelled to sign if the conditions are not to his liking.

(2) For some years the Fulbright and National Science Foundation Fellowships have been awarded after the recipients have signed both an oath of allegiance and a disclaimer affidavit. To my knowledge there has been neither organized objection nor a strong registration of negative opinion. Consequently, there is precedent for the procedure used in the National Defense Education Act.

(3) There are vast numbers of loyal American citizens who find no intellectual conflict between the oath of allegiance and the disclaimer affidavit. With pride they take the oath and with equal pride they disclaim association with any organization that believes in or teaches the overthrow of the United States Government by any illegal means.

(4) In the case of the National Defense Education Act it is the student and not the faculty member who signs the affidavit, an act which, it seems to me, has little or no bearing on academic freedom in the classroom where ideas are tested.

It is my conclusion, that (1) This being a state University governed by a Board of Trustees representing the citizenry of Ohio, there is nothing to be gained by involving this institution in controversy on a matter of existing federal law.

(2) The chances are remote that the requirements of the National Defense Education Act will affect academic freedom on our campus.

(3) Registrations of opinions for or against legislation, by the organized professional groups of this country with Congress are proper and in order and as such speak for the profession.

(4) Individuals in our professional organizations have a right to hold whatever responsible beliefs they desire and may act accordingly.

(5) The Ohio State University should continue to participate in the National Defense Education Act as a means of being of assistance to needy students whose talents this country needs and who desire to avail themselves of the benefit of the National Defense Education Act.

Bucks' 1943 "Almost" 11, Might Have Been Greatest Ever

By Bob Connell

If, at the close of that 3-6 season in 1943, Ohio State coach Paul Brown had walked from the field shaking his head and mumbling something about a faraway "almost," it would have been understandable.

If after Michigan finished its 45-7 drubbing of the Bucks, fans had shrugged their shoulders despondently, it would have been natural.

"If" was the word. For if there hadn't been a war—that 1943 Ohio State football team might well have become one of the greatest in college football history. That "almost team" would have fielded a line of three All-Americans and four men who later won All-Pro honors, and a star-studded backfield. But the war changed it all.

Anyway, here are some of the dream squad's personnel:

AT ENDS: Dante Lavelli, several times All-Pro with the Cleveland Browns and considered one of the greatest pass catchers who ever played, and Bob Shaw, later All-Pro with Los Angeles.

With these two in the line-up, Jack Dugger and J. T. White would have been on the bench. Dugger became All-America in 1944 and White went to Michigan after the war and became one of the greatest centers they ever had.

AT TACKLES: Deke (Bill) Willis, college All-America and soon after the greatest middle guard in pro history with the Browns. At the other tackle—Lou Groza, the incomparable "toe," who is still making headlines with the Browns.

If these two played—and on any team they'd have too — Chuck Csuri would have been on the bench. Csuri was voted most valuable played on the championship '42 team and also made All-America that year.

AT GUARDS: Lin Houston (Jim's brother), an All-America and later star for many seasons with the Browns. Hal Dean, who earned All-Pro honors with Los Angeles, would have filled the other guard post. This would put Bill Hackett on the bench. Hackett was Buckeye captain and All-America after the war.

AT CENTER: Tony Adamlee, a player known for his especially rugged blocking. He played many seasons with Cleveland.

The backfield had its stars too. Namely, Tommy James, a great defensive halfback for the Browns in later years; Paul Sarringhaus, a good passer and hard runner who gained nearly 2,000 yards in total offense (second in the Big Ten in that department in 1942); and Les Horvath, an All-America and one of the greatest backs ever to run in a Buckeye uniform.

Add to this Gene Fekete, who broke two of Tom Harmon's Big Ten records—for total yards gained by rushing in a season (910) and points after touchdowns (29). Fekete was perhaps the best defensive fullback Ohio State ever had, but good as he was, his starting position would not have been secure in 1943.

JOE WHISLER was 210 pounds and the fastest man on the freshman squad. In scrimmages with the varsity in 1942 time after time the freshman fullback tore gaping holes in the All-America line.

On the 1942 team Shaw, Fekete, Lavelli, White, Dean, Hackett and Dugger were all sophomores. Next year, they were in the service.

After the war, some came back, some didn't. But most of them never hit the peak they had approached before the layoff.

TEP'S Bowlers Win Fraternity Titles

Tau Epsilon Phi Fraternity copped first place in two classes in the fraternity division of the Intramural Bowling league. This is the first time in at least five years that this has been done.

Burt Rosen, with a 500 series, led the class one squad to the championship. Beta Theta Pi was second.

The class two championship was decided in a playoff where TEP edged out Sigma Phi Epsilon. Bruce Kallenburg paced the Number Two team with a 550 series.

LIN HOUSTON — Although he made All-American a year later, he would have been a member of that 1943 team if there hadn't been a war.

Ohio State-Cincinnati Won't Meet On Court

By Frank Evans, Sports Editor

Maybe it's too early to start guessing who will win the Big Ten title but, no doubt, our Bucks are at least a top contender for the Western Conference title. Especially after their impressive 81-74 win over St. Louis last Thursday.

But the big question circulating around the hangouts where Fred Taylor's cagers are discussed these days is, "Is it possible that Ohio State will meet Cincinnati in a game that many would consider the match of the year?"

JACK BEAN, a senior in Dental College, a loyal Buckeye fan (even though he claims Cincinnati his home) proposed that Ohio State meet the Bearcats for a charity game.

Both the wish and suggestion seem appropriate, now that Ohio State and Cincinnati are currently ranked among the top teams in the nation—but forget it. It's hopeless.

Athletic Director Richard Larkins said yesterday that "this sure could have been a 'dream' game, but both clubs are mechanically unable to meet. This is because of the present schedule and the NCAA play-off games."

BUT THE interview with the Buckeye Athletic Director brought out one point of interest—Ohio State DID TRY to schedule the Bearcats this year but they (Cincinnati) were unable to fit us in their schedule!

It seems the Bucks, preparing their schedule, had Cincinnati in mind when they looked ahead to 1959-'60.

Meanwhile, Fred Taylor and his Buckeyes, giving Ohio State one of its greatest seasons, so far, at least, with their present 5-0 mark, take time out for finals and then it's back to the hardwood for their continued road trip.

THEY MEET Butler this Friday and then fly West again to battle Utah and Brigham Young. Then the Bucks go South for the Christmas Tournament at Lexington, Kentucky, to tangle with Adolph Rupp's Wildcats.

And, speaking of Christmas tournaments, it was revealed yesterday that Ohio State will play in the Holiday Tournament in Madison Square Garden next year and the following year we will go West to participate in the Western University Christmas Tournament in Los Angeles, California.

DECK THE HALLS

When you think of Christmas gifts you naturally think of Marlboro cigarettes, leading seller in flip-top box in all fifty states—and if we annex Wales, in all fifty-one—and if we annex Lapland, in all fifty-two. (This talk about annexing Wales and Lapland is, incidentally, not just idle speculation. Great Britain wants to trade Wales to the United States for a desert. Great Britain needs a desert desperately on account of the tourist trade. Tourists are always coming up to the Prime Minister or the Lord Privy Seal, or the Thane of Glamis, or like that and saying, "I'm not knocking your country, mind you. It's very quaint and picturesque, etc., what with Buckingham Palace and Bovril and Scotland Yard, etc., but where's your desert?")

"...but where's your desert?"

Before I forget, let me point out that Scotland Yard, Britain's plain-clothes police branch, was named after Wally Scotland and Fred Yard who invented plain clothes. The American plain-clothes force is called the F.B.I. after Frank B. Incheliff, who invented fingerprints. Before Mr. Incheliff's invention, everybody's fingers were absolutely glassy smooth. This, as you may imagine, played hob with the identification of newborn babies in hospitals. From 1791 until 1904 no American parent ever brought home the right baby from the hospital. This later became known as the Black Tom Explosion.

(But I digress. England, I was saying, wants to trade Wales for a desert. Sweden wants to trade Lapland for Frank B. Incheliff. The reason is that Swedes to this day still don't have fingerprints. As a result, identification of babies in Swedish hospitals is so haphazard that Swedes flatly refuse to bring their babies home. There are, at present, nearly a half-billion unclaimed babies in Swedish hospitals—some of them well over eighty years old.)

But I digress. Marlboro is, of course, an ideal Christmas gift for your friends and loved ones who enjoy filter cigarettes. If, on the other hand, your friends and loved ones like mildness but don't like filters, then you can't go wrong with a carton of Philip Morris. If your friends and loved ones like a subtly mentholated cigarette that combines refreshing taste with high filtration, then buy a carton of Alpines. (Alpines, incidentally, are named after the late Albert G. Pine. Al Pine worked all his life to invent a cigarette that would combine light menthol and high filtration, but alas he never succeeded. As by-products of his research he did manage to invent the atom, the gooseneck lamp and the cocker spaniel, but the lightly mentholated high filtration cigarette, alas, never. Now this dream is realized, and what could be more fitting than to pay tribute to this gallant man by calling this cigarette Alpine?)

© 1959 Max Shulman

We, the makers of Marlboro, Philip Morris and Alpine are now enjoying our sixth year with Max Shulman. Obviously, we think he is a funny fellow. We think you'll think so too, if you look at his television series "THE MANY LOVES OF DOBIE GILLIS"—and read his latest book, "I WAS A TEEN-AGE DWARF."

Ohio State Ranks 10th In Enrollment

CINCINNATI. — (AP) — The annual Walters Survey of American college populations this year shows two key trends:

- More new women students.
- Less new engineering students.

AND AS expected, enrollment at the nation's 955 colleges and universities is at an all-time high — 1,973,948 full-time students or four per cent more than last year.

Adding night school and other part-time students to that total brings the student population on campuses to 2,811,704—a 3.6 per cent increase.

Ohio State ranks 10th in full-time enrollment with 20,358 students. It is 13th in grand-total enrollment with 23,260.

THE FIRST place slots belong to California and the College of the City of New York, with 42,407 and 74,682 students respectively.

Dr. Raymond Walters, President Emeritus of the University of Cincinnati, has made this annual study of college enrollment for 40 years.

He said there are nearly 10 per cent more women in freshman classes than in 1958, while the increase of men in freshman classes is only 1.4 per cent.

IN 1958, Dr. Walters noted a

7.6 per cent drop in freshman at engineering schools. The number of engineering frosh is 4.7 per cent lower this year, he said, adding "the current dip is nevertheless another warning signal."

Schools of teaching training showed a 6.3 per cent hike in freshman enrollment this fall.
