Stadiumites Send Protest To Gov. Herbert

Trustees Take Athletic Control Council Kicks At Hike In Living Rates

Bevis Says Step No Basic Change From Past Policy

The Athletic Board of the University is now formally under the control of the Board of Trustees, but this action makes "no fundamental changes in University procedure."

This statement was issued today by President Bevis, after the Ohio State Journal reported that the Trustees had acted on Sept. 8 and Nov. 1 to bring the formerly autonomous Athletic Board under Trustee control.

President Bevis said:

"The action of the Board of Trustees on Sept. 8 and Nov. 1 relative to the responsibilities of the Athletic Board made no fundamental changes in University procedure.

"It simply makes explicit what has since 1928 been implicit in the law governing the activities of the University. The Board's action simply sets up a practice uniform throughout the University concerning the handling of all funds and property.

"The practice of auditing Athletic funds by the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices is of long standing and will be continued."

William G. Wilcox, director of public relations for the University, told the LANTERN that the Board's actions of Sept. 8 and Nov. 1 were in the form of amendments to the by-laws of the University. In effect, he said, the amendments formalize what had previously been merely understood — namely that the Athletic Board is responsible to the Board of Trustees and that its actions are subject to Trustee approval.

Mr. Wilcox explained that in general the amendments provide that the Athletic Board shall submit recommendations on budgetary, personnel and other matters to the President and that the President in turn shall submit these recommendations along with his own to the Trustees for approval.

Students To Give Nativity Tableau

A tableau of the Christmas Nativity will highlight the annual Christmas party of the home economics department at 8:30 tonight in Campbell Hall auditorium.

Mrs. R. Devidas, Grad, will present the tableau. It will be followed by the story of Christmas given by slides.

Editor's Note

Wednesday's editorial page will be written and edited mainly by foreign students at Ohio State.

The LANTERN presents this "International Students' page" with the hope that it will be well-received by both foreign students and the rest of the University family.

Rooming Houses Will Get More Rigid Inspections

More rigid inspections will be made of rooming houses, beginning in January, Chief Building Inspector John S. Stith, said Monday.

In announcing the new program, Stith said, "There has been a deplorable disregard of the building code. Enforcement of building and rooming house laws is becoming increasingly necessary."

He said that 3,966 applications to operate rooming houses had been received by the Division of Building Regulation in 1948, but only 1,190 were issued. The Fire Department also said that rooming house "inspections should be increased as much as possible."

Taps to Sound

For 1st Lt. Maurice Arnold

Taps will sound on the Oval at 11 a. m. Wednesday for First Lt. Maurice V. Arnold, who was reported missing by the War Department May 23, 1945, and listed as dead June 7, 1946. He was navigator in a B-29 believed shot down over Japan.

Lieutenant Arnold was the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Arnold, of 337 Miller Ave.

A graduate of North High, he was enrolled in the College of Engineering before his entry into the Army Air Corps in August, 1941. Arnold saw duty in the Mariana area prior to his death.

$1,000,000 Voted New Medical Unit

Legislature Approves TB Hospital Fund And Bricker As Trustee

The Ohio Legislature's special session Monday night passed a bill appropriating an extra $1,000,000 for the Tuberculosis Hospital at the new University Medical Center and confirmed Sen. John W. Bricker's selection as a member of the University's Board of Trustees.

The "lame duck" session refused Gov. Thomas J. Herbert's request for $907,000 additional for the Apple Creek State School for feeble minded.

The legislature previously appropriated $2,000,000 for the TB Hospital but Governor Herbert said that it wasn't enough to meet mounting construction costs.

The $1,000,000 appropriation barely got through, however. It needed 93 votes to pass the House as an emergency measure so that money would be available before construction bids expired Friday. The emergency clause received exactly that number of votes, when House Speaker William O'Neill (R-Washington) voted for the first time since holding that office.

The vote on the bill itself was 106 to 2 in the House, and 29 to 0 in the Senate.

Senator Bricker's selection as a trustee was among the 17 appointments confirmed by the Legislature. He will replace Herbert S. Atkinson, a member of the Board for more than 23 years. The Senator's seven-year term will expire May 13, 1955.

'TB' Hospital Plans Underway, Porterfield Says

(By Associated Press)

The $1,000,000 appropriated yesterday by the State Legislature to complete a Tuberculosis Hospital at Ohio State will be put to immediate use, Dr. John D. Porterfield, State Health Director, said today.

"We will sign contracts this week," Dr. Porterfield said, "and try to get construction started as quickly as possible. Our present estimate for completion of the hospital is 15 months."

Engineer Heads Study Results Of 'Gripe' Sessions

Officials of the department of electrical engineering are studying a list of "gripes" put forth by students in two open meetings held by the Electrical Engineering Council last week.

"In general, the department follows the recommendations of the students," John R. Coram, Engr-3, chairman of the Electrical Engineering Council, said.

Open meetings are held to allow the students to give their opinions directly to the council and through the council to the department.

Coram declined to give any specific examples of the student complaints until the department reports on those under consideration.

The Inter-Club Council, student governing body of the Stadium dormitories, voted unanimously Monday evening to forward a letter to Governor Herbert protesting the increased living rates which are to become effective Winter Quarter.

A resident of the Stadium dormitories presented the letter to Governor Herbert early this afternoon.

A partial text of the letter follows:

"In behalf of the residents of the Stadium dormitories, we are directing a plea to the State of Ohio . . . to secure relief for the financial burden we . . . are obliged to meet. We state our case, as the representative council . . . of the Stadium Dormitories . . .

"In as much as the University constructed three new dormitory units in 1947 in the Stadium at a total cost of $728,000, of which $500,000 was borrowed, we as the residents must meet this debt at the rate of $34,260 per year. This places an additional $16 to the regular individual charge each quarter . . .

"Just recently we were informed of another $10 raise in our board bill effective Jan. 4, 1949, which we are told is due to increased food costs and the fact that the Stadium Dormitories suffered financial losses last year. This new raise . . . will bring our room and board fee to $150 per quarter. However, it is to be noted that Stadium residents live 20 or more to one room . . .

"In comparison, we have found that in such dormitories as Mack and Canfield Halls, three girls live in one room at a cost of $155 each per quarter with a host of conveniences . . . not found in Stadium accommodations. . . .

"We are not asking for improved living conditions . . . but we do believe that we should pay a fee that is relative to the accommodations offered . . .

"Inflation has hit us hard. . . . We are willing and glad to live in this dormitory system . . . supposedly set up to give deserving students adequate, but comparatively inexpensive housing. . . . We feel that the original purpose is not being justified.

"Any help you can lend us through government processes will be appreciated . . .

Respectfully yours,

The Inter-Club Council
Stadium Dormitories

Quarter Nears End, But The Memory Lingers On

By Bill Fried

It'll all be a memory soon—Fall Quarter, 1948. It was a jumbled kaleidoscope of jubilant football crowds, exultant bonfire rallies, turning leaves, snappy Autumn days, dates with the new girl, formal, tense games, disappointments, and pretty coeds sitting next to you in class.

Biggest news this quarter was the 75th Anniversary Jubilee. A procession reminiscent of medieval pageantry opened the celebration, attended by representatives of 100 universities and colleges. The growth of Ohio State from a small college to today's tremendous educational plant of 23,000 students was toasted by leaders of education and industry.

Vying for top news honors this quarter was the mammoth building program going forward at a breakneck pace.

Student political antics continued with slight abatement. The Campus Political Association locked horns with OSPA. OSPA came out on top with the election of their candidate for Homecoming Queen, Mimi George.

The Truman victory was the topic of conversation for a week, in the classroom, the barber shop, the local pub, and other sundry spots. Students thought about the underdog winning against big odds. It kindled the hope of a possible upset of the iron rival, Michigan.

Ohio State's surprising football team roared on to a season total of six wins and three losses, amid the plaudits of the student body. It was a determined and inspired squad that fought and lost to a fine Michigan team, 13-3.

The first Greek-Independent football fracas in 12 years ended in a 7-7 tie. Much progress must have been made in Greek-Independent relations as the local gendarmes weren't even called out to break up the inevitable discussion.

A lot of tempers were strained and confusion reigned supreme as a result of some serious inequalities between student wants and their means of satisfaction. Seven thousand student automobiles could not be accommodated by the 1,600 car capacity of campus parking facilities. As a result campus police were kept busy handing out 2,000 tickets, the first two weeks of school.

The most recent and most exasperating situation was a consequence of some 21,400 student and faculty book holders trying to obtain 5,000 basketball tickets. Students waited for hours and then were told there were no more tickets.

An ominous and familiar note was sounded when Dean of Men Joseph A. Park was made head of the draft board on campus.

Signs of the Times:

Elsie, the cow, was granted a Doctor of Bovinity degree last month by the College of Agriculture.

The facilities of the marriage and pre-marriage counseling clinic of the department of sociology were enlarged to meet the demands of the uninitiated.

Women usurped the male domain by the organization of a billiard team and a carpentry course for women.

Robert Frost, noted American poet, carved his initials on the Commerce Auditorium wall, before addressing an overflow crowd.

With the young freshmen and the reduction in veteran enrollment, the University was rapidly returning to a "pre-war" student body. The veteran era of college life was passing.

Lisa Sergio To Speak On Campus

World's Eye View Of U.S. To Be Topic Of Second Guest Artist Lecture

Lisa Sergio, news commentator and noted lecturer on world affairs, will speak at 8 p. m. Thursday on the University Lecture Series. Her address, on the subject, "World's Eye View of Ourselves," will be delivered in the University Hall chapel.

Miss Sergio, now on a nationwide lecture tour, is half American by birth. She became a naturalized American citizen a short time after she came to the United States to escape arrest in Italy, where as a radio commentator she had tried to expose the Mussolini regime.

The daughter of an Italian father, Baron Agostino Sergio, and an American mother, the former Margaret Fitzgerald of Baltimore, Md., Miss Sergio, while still a young girl in Italy, gave promise of the role she was destined to play in world affairs. At 17 she was serving as associate editor of the "Italian Mail," a literary weekly.

It was Guglielmo Marconi, the father of radio and a friend of the Sergio family, who persuaded Miss Sergio to become a news commentator for the Mussolini regime at a time when Fascism was considered "a good thing for Italy."

Admission is open to season lecture-series book holders. Single admission tickets are now on sale at the Information Desk in the Administration Building at $1.20 each.

New Bureau Panel

Campus Student Bureau Provides Group Speakers

Good programs just don't happen. They have to be carefully planned as many a frustrated program chairman has discovered.

The Student Speakers Bureau at Ohio State was set up with the idea of presenting capable and interesting speakers

Scarlet Mask To Meet

The Scarlet Mask, men's dramatic organization, will hold a "get-acquainted" meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Ohio Union.

for organization meetings on and off campus. These speakers, all students at Ohio State, speak on a wide variety of subjects ranging from a discussion of the Marshall Plan to "A GI's View of China."

Approximately 30 speakers are available at the Bureau and speak on some 45 subjects of interest to campus groups. If an organization has a topic that the Bureau does not have listed, it will secure a speaker on that subject if given sufficient notice.

The speakers are authorities in the fields which they discuss. At least ten are foreign students who are studying at the University.

Charles E. Brown, A-4, director of the Bureau, announced that a new panel has been added which discusses the topic, "Our American Heritage." The panel is composed of graduate students who are majoring in the various phases of the topic. The group, on which Brown serves as moderator, is presenting a series of three programs over WOSU. The first of the series was presented last Thursday afternoon and the second will be broadcast at 3:45 p. m. Thursday.

The Speaker's Bureau, used extensively in the past, is open to campus organizations. It is located in Room 205, Derby Hall.

Speaker requests should be made two weeks in advance of program date with the provision that audiences have at least 40 persons. The speakers will talk for approximately 30 minutes and are prepared to conduct open forums on their subjects. Speakers are available for use at any time.

A Spectator Speaks

By Don Mathews

Some gripes have begun to rise among the student body regarding the allocation of basketball tickets. But a few have to be expected. No matter how the problem had been handled somebody would have been dissatisfied.

Before adding a meager two cents worth from this source about the matter, let us urge patience by those who have been disappointed. Oscar L. Thomas, director of ticket sales, has said that the present plan is more or less experimental and that another year will see a change if it is needed.

He has done his best under the circumstances but perhaps a change will be needed before this season is over.

The single book plan, in use for the first time, made it exceedingly difficult to foresee just how great the demand for tickets would be. Certainly an increase in the demand was to be expected with about 18,500 students already having paid for the privilege of this year's basketball games.

The original student ticket books could have been used on a first come first served basis, not having any reserved seats in the student's section. This would have meant turning away a lot of fans at each game.

The issuance of reserved seats for three games to each student assured all book holders a chance to see at least a share of the games. All went fairly smoothly until the ticket office began to give out tickets that were left when those who wanted their three had gotten them.

Each student was permitted to get tickets for as many persons as he wanted to with the result that many who shivered out the line last Thursday were left out in the cold in more ways than one.

Some of the fraternities, social organizations, and other groups living together sent a representative to get tickets for the whole bunch. Almost every person in line had a number of fee cards varying from a dozen to a bushel. Probably some of these were individuals who had collected a number of ticket books and fee cards and were laying in a supply of ducats for their own use.

This has been the cause of most of the howling to date but the discontent may increase. For instance, if an organization which has a block of tickets has some other event which conflicts with a basketball game the tickets may go unused. And it could happen that a ticket holder might have to miss a contest because of a midterm on the following day or some other legitimate reason.

This has been largely in the realm of speculation. But if there is any evidence that some fans are being deprived of a chance to see their Buckeye cagers perform while some of the seats in the Coliseum are empty, something will have to be done about it.

And if the number of vacant spots is too large, the whole plan of having reserved seats should be junked.

Buckeyes Outclass Marquette, 72-47

Scarlet Coasts To Win On Big Halftime Lead

By Don Mathews

Piling up a 41-21 lead with a surge in the last 12 minutes of the first half, the Buckeye cagers then coasted to a 72-47 victory over Marquette before a meager crowd of 4910 at the Coliseum last night. The win made it two in a row for the 1948-49 season.

The Bucks were held to a three-point advantage until they caught fire and, with the dependable Bob Donham leading the way, started to run away from the visiting quintet. The steady forward came through with four field goals, three of them tap-ins on rebounds, in the final 12 minutes of the period.

High-scoring Dick Schnittker was far from his best form and to make matters worse, had little luck on his shots. Still the lanky, hard-driving ace managed to get 13 points to tie Center Bob Raidiger for Ohio State's scoring honors and seemed to be ready to hit his stride when Coach Tippy Dye sent in the reserves to play the last half of the second half.

Closely trailing these two in the scoring department was Donham with 12 markers while the guards, Bob Burkholder and Gene Brown, netted ten and nine points respectively. Each of the latter garnered nine points in the Scarlet's first-half spree.

Every one of the regulars hit for at least four field goals as the Buckeyes enjoyed an evening of respectable accuracy with a .384 average—28 goals in 73 attempts. While the regulars were in the game during the first half it was even better with 18 of 42 shots dropping through the hoop for a percentage of almost .430.

In comparison, the Marquette five was successful on only 18 of 79 tries during the entire contest. Thirteen points was also the Hilltoppers highest individual total, but for them it proved to be an unlucky number in that only one man, 6-ft. 8-in. Frank McCabe, was able to reach that mark.

After Donham and McCabe had begun the scoring for both squads with a foul shot apiece, the visitors jumped to a short lead in the game's opening minutes on goals by their forwards, Frank Graff and Dick Peterson.

The Bucks were finally able to go ahead 8-7 at the five minute mark of the period on Brown's neat one-hand set shot from near the foul line. Marquette tied it twice and kept it very much a contest before the Scarlet drive finally gained momentum. But the Hilltoppers could not stop the local cagers' attack which resulted in the 20-point margin at the intermission.

As the second period opened, it looked as if the visitors might be starting a comeback as they scored twice in the opening minute to make it 42-25. But Raidiger soon found the range on a couple of his pet hook shots and the Bucks were under way once again, slowly increasing their lead to 58-33 before the regulars bowed out for the evening at the midpoint of the half. The reserves more than held their own for the rest of the game.

This was the last game for the Bucks this quarter and the final home game of 1948. Their next game at the Coliseum is the conference opener against Northwestern Jan. 8.

Army, Penn, California Likely Grid Foes In '50, '51

By Ben Sunbury

Many new grid teams may be seen in the Ohio Stadium in the not too distant future, if the plans of Athletic Director Dick Larkins materialize. A program to have a "better-rounded" schedule is now under consideration by University athletic heads.

The Athletic Department has contacted California, Pennsylvania, Army, Navy, Yale, Harvard and Stanford for possible non-conference games for the '50, '51 and '52 seasons. Under the new three-year plan, the Bucks would meet powerful elevens from the East, Southwest and the far West.

Future schedules will be one of the main topics discussed when a joint meeting of Western Conference athletic directors and coaches convenes in Chicago, Dec. 13. Larkins and Head Coach Wes Fesler will represent Ohio State at this meeting.

At the present time there is but one team contracted by the Bucks for the '50 and '51 seasons. This team is Southern Methodist, the '48 Southwest Conference champions. The Mustangs (minus All-American Doak Walker who graduates after the '49 season) will meet the Bucks at the Ohio Stadium for the '50 opener. Coach Matty Bell's Mustangs replace Missouri.

Southern California will be dropped from the Ohioans' schedule following their game in Los Angeles, next Oct. 8. Pittsburgh will probably be dropped also after the Bucks meet the Panthers next year. Replacing the Trojans as the West Coast representative will be either California, this year's Rose Bowl team, or Stanford. If the Panthers are dropped, a new Eastern representative will be added.

There is but one change in the '49 schedule. The Bucks have dropped Iowa in favor of powerful Minnesota which comes to Columbus Oct. 15. Next year's slate has five home games and four road contests. To be seen at the Ohio Stadium are Missouri, Indiana, Minnesota, Northwestern and Illinois, while the Bucks travel to meet Southern Cal, Wisconsin, Pitt and Michigan.

Dye's Subs Dump J-Vs In Prelim

The Varsity reserves, led by Chuck Worthley, trampled the Junior Varsity cagers, 71-43, in a preliminary game played Monday night at the Coliseum.

The red-headed center popped in 19 points to lead his mates in the scoring parade. Following Worthley was Ken Penhorwood, a forward, with 15 points, and Forward Jimmy Clark. Clark, Buck Varsity football halfback, scored 14 markers. Top man for the Jay-Vees was Forward Jack Lewis with 15 points.

Coach Tippy Dye reserves dropped in nine points, seven of them foul shots, before Lewis scored the first two-pointer for the Jay-Vees. The Varsity five steadily increased the margin throughout the first half, and the gun sounded with them leading by a 34-17 margin.

The Varsity subs continued to score consistently in the second half, and the closest that Coach Jack Graf's men could come was a 12-point margin.

The Jay-Vees played without the services of Guard Dick Widdoes.

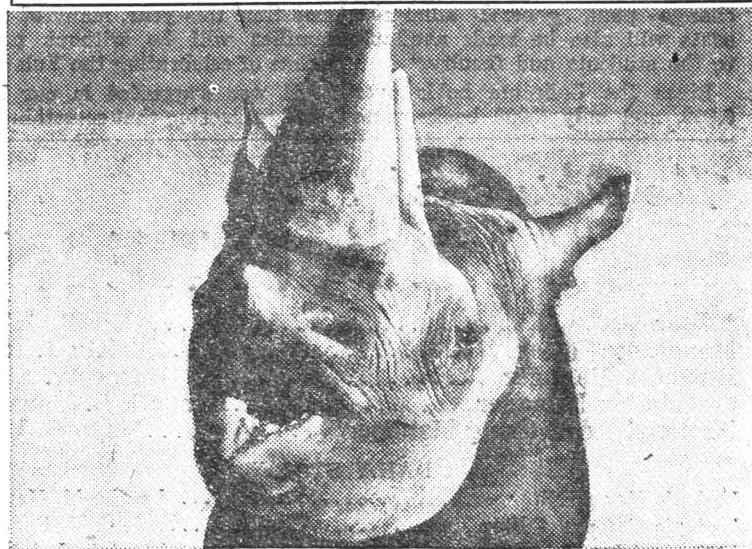

The Jay-Vees next game will be played on Friday, Jan. 7 at Dayton, where they meet the Dayton Kittyhawks.

Artist Series: A Better Plan For Ohio State

With little advance publicity Robert Frost attracted a capacity audience recently because students knew who he is.

Yet despite heavy publicity campaigns the attendance at the Lecture and Guest Artist Series falls below capacity.

Some students have expressed the belief that the University series would be more successful if "big name" artists were booked. They thought this applied especially to the Guest Artist Series.

One student cited the Bowling Green University Artist Series as superior to Ohio State's, especially in the field of music.

Although such artists as Donald Gramm, Angela Enters, and Mia Slavenska are undoubtedly good, they are relatively unknown and lack the drawing power of experienced artists such as Rose Bampton, the Don Cossacks, Albert Spalding and Helen Traubel, to mention a few of the artists who have appeared at Bowling Green.

With such noted persons as Carl Van Doren, Anne O'Hare McCormick and John Mason Brown among the eight lecturers on the University series, we feel that no one can complain.

The same can not be said for the Guest Artist Series. The chairman and committee are not to blame, since they have no means of increasing the money appropriated for their series.

The Guest Artist Series receives a yearly subsidy of $1,000 from the Student Activities Fund. (The same amount is given to the Lecture Series.)

Top flight artists receive from three to four thousand dollars for an evening's program.

The programs are held in University Hall which seats approximately 800. If outstanding artists were booked tickets would have to sell for about five dollars to enable the series to meet expenses. That price is too high for the average student.

Working under such handicaps the committee must book young beginning artists. The only value of such a program to the student is the chance to sample a variety of music.

Compared to the system used at Bowling Green, Ohio State's efforts to present a concert series seems inefficient and laughable.

There are 4,500 students at Bowling Green. Each student pays a $20 activities fee per year. This means an activity fund of $90,000 a year.

From that fund $8,730 (9.7 per cent) is allotted to the Artist Series, on which both lecturers and musical artists are presented. After the federal tax of $1,746 is paid, there is $6,994 with which to book eight artists.

Bowling Green may hold its programs in either the auditorium, which seats 1,300, or the gymnasium seating 2,700. At best, Bowling Green can seat only slightly over half the student body.

The proceeds from the 400 seats available to townspeople for a few of the programs help cover the federal tax and restore the concert fund to its original amount of $8,730.

Students attending these "open" concerts must present their activity cards plus a nickel. This money assures the coverage of the federal tax.

Complimentary programs are frequently added to the series without charge to the students or public.

We believe such a system could be arranged at Ohio State in the following manner:

Ohio State has an enrollment of 23,848. Each student pays a five dollar activity fee per quarter, totaling $119,240 per quarter or $357,720 per year.

Now, only $2,000 (.6 per cent) of the activity fee is allotted to the Lecture and Guest Artist Series. This seems a miserly sum to spend to supplement the students' book knowledge.

We suggest that the two series be combined, so that fewer artists but of greater ability would appear. Complimentary programs could come from the individual departments just as they do today.

If the University were to allot, at the most, 5 per cent of the activity fund of $357,720 for a combined concert-lecture series, the committee would have $17,250.

After federal tax was paid, the committee would have $13,800. This would surely be sufficient to enable the booking of distinguished artists.

Admission would be free to all students. Obviously, under such an arrangement, University Hall, with 800 seats, would not be adequate.

There is still the Men's Gym. Including the balcony, the gym will seat between 2,500 and 3,000. Surely the acoustics and physical facilities can be no worse than those of University Hall.

The gym has been considered adequate for such events as the Messiah and Symphonic Band Concert. We think it is suitable although not perfect, for a concert-lecture series.

We believe the demand for seats would not exceed the supply. If such a happy occasion arose, some method of rationing seats could surely be devised.

Ohio State is celebrating 75 years as a disseminator of knowledge and culture. Yet in providing students with an opportunity to hear outstanding artists it is far behind smaller colleges, like Bowling Green.

This is the time to make sure that future students enjoy more opportunities than we to hear the finest in the music and lecture fields.

Reader Says University Did Not Keep Its Word In Ticket Situation

Editor, the LANTERN:

It seems that the University is more interested in making money than in keeping its word on the basketball ticket situation.

At the present time, students who got the original strip of tickets for three home games are being refused additional tickets because "all student and faculty tickets are sold out," although 1,367 seats are being reserved for sale to the general public.

However, on Nov. 24, Wade Kraner, assistant director of ticket sales, stated in the Lantern, "Students come first. The public will get what seats are left after the students, faculty, band, and friends and families of the basketball players are taken care of."

And on Nov. 30, Oscar Thomas, director of ticket sales, said, "If the demand is heavy enough for reserved seats under the new exchange plan, general admission seats will also be made available to the students and faculty."

Since the Coliseum holds over 6,500, and only 6,000 books were exchanged for the original strip of three tickets, the University has no excuse for not keeping its word.

In order to do this, our pledge class has taken up a collection of 50 cents per man and as a result, $25 has been raised.

Backstage Jottings

By Marg Williams

It was a proud William Shakespeare who stalked among the fascinated audience jammed in University Hall to see his "Hamlet."

Adjectives are inadequate to describe Miss Webster's magnificent production. Actually it was all that could be desired in the fresh, exacting, and vital Shakespeare which we often hear about, but seldom experience.

Shakespearean drama is either good or bad. This was good, and yet it seems incredible that such perfection could be attained without the aid of elaborate costumes, sets, and lights, but it happened.

Alfred Ryder, who played the part of young Hamlet, prince of Denmark, was superb. Mr. Ryder, although still in his twenties, has an impressive dossier, and his "sphere of dramatic influence" embraces more than Shakespearean impersonations.

The impressiveness of his performance made one wonder how it could be possible for anyone but a young man to play the part of Hamlet. It has been done. It is through such excellence as Mr. Ryder exhibited that Shakespeare lives again, not only in the eyes of a college audience, but in the eyes of all who patronize the theater for entertainment.

Although Shakespeare and entertainment are generally considered terms divorced, "Hamlet" was entertaining. In fact, it was downright funny in places. The comedy was not always of a dignified brand, but was held strictly within the bounds of presentation by an underlying current of conflict, tragedy, and black demeanor.

Never was there a more realistic and wholly thrilling Ophelia than Virginia McDowell. The scene in which she is driven mad by the how much has been collected for the building fund, what plans have been completed or are in process, etc.

Would it be possible to have such an article printed in the LANTERN yet this quarter? . . . There are many new students who would also be interested in this project.

Robert E. Johnson, Com-4.
(Editor's note: We'll do our best to publish a review of the Union situation some time this week.)

murder of her father and the disappearance of Hamlet, has probably the most staggering effect on the audience. Her general appearance, voice, actions, and attitude combined into complete effectiveness.

Joseph Holland and Carol Goodner, both seasoned actors, were cast respectively as Claudius, king of Denmark after the murder of Hamlet's father, and Queen Gertrude, Hamlet's mother.

Mr. Holland has scored success after success in Shakespearean drama, and chalked up another winner Friday night. Never was a king more evil, a plot more tragic, or an audience more impressed than in Miss Webster's production.

"Hamlet" produced at least one glaring result: when Shakespeare is properly presented there is no need for involved explanations of the action and plot.

Shakespeare was meant to be acted, and when embraced by professionals is as understandable, entertaining, and wholly delightful as the so-called "common man" stuff which is turned out in Hollywood.

The realization of such masterpieces as "Hamlet" is indispensable in the education process. It is to be vehemently hoped, and especially by those who missed the performance, that there will be more professional productions of the important and significant in drama and literature.

Amount Of Scenery Is Problem For Producers

By Mimi Goldfine

"Shakespeare is very admirably fostered on this campus—more so than on many other campuses," said Miss Margaret Webster. The noted Shakespearean producer and actress spoke before an audience in the Derby Hall Theater on Friday.

Miss Webster's talk gave the audience a little more insight into the production of the Bard of Avon's plays. One of the problems that faces Shakespearean producers has been the amount of scenery that should be used.

In her own touring company Miss Webster has found it necessary to travel light, therefore, her productions have a minimum of scenery. However, Miss Webster believes that the scenery should interpret the production, and such interpretations change with the times.

"I don't really believe the kind of background matters, provided that it doesn't rob the play of its fluidity," she added.

Miss Webster also explained the difficulty of establishing a high degree of rapport between the actors and the audiences of today. In Shakespeare's time, the audience helped and participated in the play, but theater goers of today are more likely to question the probability of the situation instead of just enjoying the drama for its own sake.

Getting the plays accepted by the average person is another difficulty encountered by followers of Shakespeare. Miss Webster feels that this lack of acceptance is partially due to forcing Shakespeare upon unwilling students.

There is also the problem of the neglect of the English language, which is especially evidenced in younger people. Shakespeare knew how to use the language and did so to the best advantage. Most people of today do not appreciate this and are often perplexed by the words of a Shakespearean play.

The country-wide tour that Miss Webster is now making is an attempt to dispel any wrong notions of Shakespeare that have developed and to show many more people what real beauty there is in his works.

Tweeddale House Residents, WSGA To Hold Party

The Ann Tweeddale House will be the scene of a Christmas Party at 5 p. m. Wednesday when the WSGA Board members meet with the residents of the house for their annual party.

The Ann Tweeddale House at 1578 Neil Ave. is one of the biggest projects ever undertaken by the Women's Self Government Association.

Several years ago WSGA rented a house, furnished it, and then made it available as a co-operative residence to 13 upperclass women. By doing their own cooking, and housekeeping, the girls who live in the house have been able to keep their expenses at a minimum.

The house was named in honor of the woman who helped set up the first co-operative venture in England in 1844. The house has proved to be such a worthwhile project that a special part of the Board's budget is planned for another house in the future.

Canfield Hall Christmas Dance Set For Friday

The Canfield lounge will be the scene of the annual Christmas formal on Friday night.

Chaperons will be Mrs. Grace Parker Weiss, head resident of Canfield Hall. Mary Patricia Clark, Com-4, and the Canfield social board are in charge of planning the dance.

Alumnae Chapter To Have Party

The alumnae chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta will celebrate the Christmas season by a party instead of their regular meeting this week. This party, an annual event of the chapter, will be held Saturday.

After the dinner, there will be dancing and bridge.

'The Traveling Man' Gives A Christmas Message

By Marg Williams, Lantern Drama Critic

The Christmas season probably lends itself most readily to dramatic expression. Sunday night Wesley Players presented "The Traveling Man," a modern form of the old miracle play, as a compliment to the Christmas season.

The story is set in Ireland, where a mother, played by Pat Garcelon, is preparing to bake a cake and prepare a feast for the Honored Guest who will call on the household that evening.

When the mother leaves the house, a Dusty Stranger, played by Ted Woldorf, calls on her child, little Marilyn Gibson. The Stranger brings the child a bow with both flowers and fruit on it. He talks and plays with the child, and helps her make a garden of her mother's best Delf.

When the mother returns she is very angry, and scolds both the child and the Stranger, and sends him from her house.

After he has departed, the child shows the mother the strange bow laden with both fruit and blossoms. The mother realizes that the Honored Guest came, but was not permitted to stay in her house, or partake of her food.

Little Miss Gibson, a relative of one of the Players, was wholly delightful as the child, and she shows much poise for one only six. Miss Garcelon and Mr. Woldorf, who were running against rough competition, were also very effective. These two carried the thread of the story.

The play, though short as is characteristic of the miracle play, was extremely well done. Its message was complete and clear, and very Christmas-y.

Miss Whitehead Honored At Party

The College Panhellenic Board held a surprise party for Miss Ola B. Whitehead, assistant Dean of Women, Monday afternoon at Pomerene Hall. The party was held as a farewell gesture for Miss Whitehead, who is leaving her present position after two years of assisting Dean Christine Y. Conaway.

A model for the first time, Miss Lowe said it was fun. "All I had to do was keep calm and follow the music," she said.

Miss Lowe, a teacher from the Knoxville, Tenn., school system, is working on her doctorate while assisting in the education department.

Christmas Events Net Charity $800

Some underprivileged children and needy of Columbus and Franklin County will have the University YMCA and YWCA to thank for making the coming Christmas a happier one.

The two University organizations' 20th annual White Christmas program ended in the Men's Gym, Sunday, with the presentation of Handel's "Messiah" by the 150-voice University Chorus.

At the conclusion of the program, the audience donated approximately $800 to the YMCA and YWCA Christmas project. The amount contributed this year exceeds last year's proceeds by $100, YM officials said today.

Following deductions for expenses incurred in Sunday's program, the larger portion of the $800 will be turned over to the Council of Social Agencies to be used in aiding those in need in the city and county at Christmas time. A part of the money will also be given to CARE.

Red Trap Admitted By Nationalists

Three Groups Encircled On Eight Mile Front During Rescue Attempt

NANKING, China, Dec. 7—(AP)—Government sources admitted today Communist armies have encircled 110,000 Nationalist combat troops on the Central China front southwest of Suchow.

These sources said the three trapped army groups have been compressed on a front eight miles long and five miles deep. They were trapped by the Communists as they marched south from Suchow to rescue other encircled government forces.

Eight or nine Red columns, commanded by Gen. Chen Yi, were said to have completed the encirclement of this former Suchow garrison. The trap was sprung about 50 miles southwest of their former base.

The bulk of Chen Yi's forces were reported concentrated south of the government pocket to prevent an attempted break through in an effort to contact the encircled 12th Army group.

Col. Chiang Wei Kuo, half-Japanese adopted son of President Chiang Kai-Shek, was believed to be with the entrapped troops.

costs of the Stadium kitchen, said. "A statement from the University Business Office shows that the Stadium kitchen lost $5,490.81 for the entire year ending June 30, 1948. The increase of $10 per quarter effective Oct. 1, 1948, will result in an increase in revenue of approximately $7,500 for just one quarter.

"The additional increase of $10, making a total of $20 increase over the fiscal year 1948, will add an additional $7,500 per quarter.

"Therefore, the additional income, of the Stadium kitchen, assuming no further rise, will amount to approximately $37,500 more than the income for the year ending June 30, 1948. The University has stated that the two increases in board cost are solely the result of an increase in costs of operating the kitchen."

Blames Immaturity

Dr. John F. Cuber, department of sociology and director of the University Marriage Clinic.

Marriage Clinic Offers Aid To Troubled Students

Out of one of the most popular courses of instruction offered on the campus has grown a unique trouble-shooting service. It is a clinic designed to help married students untangle their difficulties and to give advice to about-to-be-marrieds.

Established as an official student service on Oct. 1, the Marriage Counseling Clinic will supplement classroom instruction in four marriage courses. Personal questions arising during the classroom lectures have stimulated requests for individualized guidance.

Director of the marriage clinic is Dr. John F. Cuber, department of sociology and nationally known marriage education authority. His broad background of experience in marriage counseling ranges from service as a juvenile and probate court consultant to membership on the research committee of the 1948 White House Conference on Family Life.

As chief "marital trouble-shooter" of the clinic, Dr. Cuber heads the activities of a five-man counseling staff, two of whom are specialists in economic and child-parent guidance areas.

Housed temporarily in one-room quarters on the first floor of Hagerty Hall, the marriage center is open to students from 2 to 5 p. m., Monday through Friday. Actual counseling may involve one interview, or it may require conferences over a longer period. An important part of the counselor's task is helping the individual look objectively at a very personal situation.

The major reason for marital difficulties among students, as among off-campus partners, is "immaturity," says Dr. Cuber. He explains that the term has nothing to do with age or I.Q. It means simply, he says, that a man or woman has entered into marriage without proper knowledge of what marriage means or is unwilling to accept its limitations and responsibilities.

Mis-mating is one reason for many married veterans' conjugal troubles, Dr. Cuber says. Servicemen, for many reasons, sometimes married women who were unsuited because of differences in background, religious beliefs, and age.

"But there is no blueprint for a successful marriage," Dr. Cuber stresses. Problems arising from trying to get a college education while carrying out family responsibilities, even on a limited income and in cramped living quarters, are not necessarily stumbling blocks to marital happiness.

Adequate pre-marriage counseling could do much to lower the sky-rocketing divorce rate, says Dr. Cuber. He considers it significant that many students who come to the Clinic when considering marriage admit their attachment, but are willing to break it off if the counselor has some doubts about their marital happiness.

Founded primarily as a counseling service, the Clinic will also provide research opportunities for developing counseling techniques

Free Parking Expensive Student Finds—Too Late

The quarterly full session of the Student Court, which hears appeals brought up from its weekly session, met at 4 p. m. Friday in the Ohio Union. The seven man court heard 24 cases of traffic violations. Twelve violators were absent.

The highlight of the afternoon came with the appeal of Edward T. Roth, Law-1, who had* parked his car behind Page Hall to attend a lecture, and returned to find the familiar calling card.

Roth realized it was against regulations to park there, so he dutifully carried his dollar to the Service Department. But upon arriving he found not a one dollar fine awaiting him, but three. One was for facing his car the wrong way, one for parking in a restricted zone, and one for parking next to a yellow curb.

Roth objected. First, he said, the space behind Page Hall was a parking area, not a street. Therefore there was no law saying which way he had to face his car. Second, parking in a restricted zone he didn't mind paying, but the third, he contended, was merely a repetition of the second, so he was really paying two fines for one offense.

"The whole thing amounts to a good one dollar fine," said Roth. What did the court say? Three dollars please.
