Crowd gets wild, police arrest 12 in encounter

By Cameron Yannayon and Courtney Masini Lantern staff writers

Police used Mace and "kneeknocker" bullets to break up crowds after bottles and rocks were thrown at officers on High Street Saturday night, said Sgt. Art Baker of the Columbus Division of Police. Altercations between the police and members of the crowd gathered on High Street led to about 12 arrests and crowd dispersing by officers. The disturbance occurred between 9th and 11th Avenues.

At least one officer was slightly injured, according to the Associated Press.

A boosted police presence patrolled High Street to direct traffic generated by the more than 10,000 people on hand after the African American Heritage Arts Festival held this weekend. Many officers were in

"People were dancing on their cars with the music going," said Rich Rogan, assistant general manager of Taco Bell on 9th Avenue and High Street. "Everything was going pretty good until about 2:00 or

Former OSU student Daymon Baker said the crowd was just standing around and talking in front of the 7-Eleven at the corner of High Street and the corner of High Street and 10th Avenue. "People started getting scared when [the police] put their masks down because we know they were going to start

A student who did not wish to be identified said police gave no warning, unlike Friday night when a crowd was given three minutes to disperse.

"People were running and ducking. They thought they were real bullets," said the student.

Samantha Lovett was also in the 7-Eleven parking lot when the shooting started.

"It was like a stampede, people were running everywhere," said Lovett, who was visiting from Cleveland.

Aqua Groves, a junior majoring in health administration, said she thought police were just trying to get people to leave.

"We were trying to leave, but we couldn't because it was so crowded," Groves said. "We

Festival ends with celebration

By Onyero Onyeacholem Lantern staff writer

The African American Heritage Arts Festival ended Saturday night at Ohio State with several cultural events to acknowledge and celebrate the different art forms blacks have contributed to society.

The annual festival featured events during the week, but the weekend events drew more than 10,000 people from the OSU community and other areas. The African American Heritage Arts Festival Consortium coordinated events which included:

A step show Friday sponsored by the National Panhellenic Council that featured keynote speaker Chuck
D. from the rap group Public Enemy.
Entertainment, food and arts and crafts vendors were spread out on the Ohio Union Lawn Saturday from noon to 6 p.m.

• A comedy show featuring A. J. Johnson and Chocolate, Saturday night at St. John Arena.

Adrianne Morris, a sophomore majoring in communications, said she goes to the festival to have a good time with her friends.

"I get amazed at the vast number of African-Americans I see around campus [during the festival] because the majority of classes I am in, I'm the only black person in the class," Morris said.

Morris said because blacks are minorities on campus, it's important to dedicate time and campus activities to celebrate black heritage and promote unity.

Cynthia McDonald-DeVese, coordinator of African American Student Services and adviser of the consortium, said the festival's purpose is for people to become more educated about black culture and to have fun.

"I think the festival is important because it gives African-Americans, and non-African-Americans, the opportunity to learn a little bit more about African-Americans," McDonald-DeVese said. "It gives them an opportunity to learn about the arts and what African-Americans have created over the years."

Desiree Weber, a senior majoring in African-American and African studies and sociology, said the festival gives blacks the opportunity to come together as a community.

"We want people to learn how to network with their African-American brothers and sisters," Weber said. "We hope that people of other cultures come and learn about our culture as well as learning about ourselves."

Weber said although the police were concerned about the safety of students and guests, their presence caused tension with festival attendees.

"The police do overreact," Weber said. "It is getting better, but it is not how we would like it. It was better than last year."

"Have there been mistakes? Absolutely. Has the process been flawed and at times troubled? Yes," Ray said. "But am I willing to give [Rich] up and say, "This is how I make peace?" No. I don't think its right for her to take the hit."

Students say they will wait until Monday to comment on the administration's refusal to remove Rich.

Students object to adding two mediators between themselves and the vice provost of the office, which they say will make it harder for their voices to be heard. They have asked that all restructuring be halted, and that Rich not return for another year.

Throughout the sit-in, students have expressed anger and disappointment at not being made aware of the restructuring and not being able to give input.

The sit-in, which started May 11 has been largely organized by the Afrikan Student Union and the OSU chapter for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Annie Young, a member of the union, said students are reviewing the administration's written confirmation that the restructuring process will be halted and will be prepared to talk about all aspects of the tentative agreement Monday.

Parts of the agreement include:

• Public forums, designed to get input from all interested parties, will be put off until autumn 1998.

Damon Stringer's future is still a mystery.

The former Ohio State point guard is likely headed for another basketball program after leaving the OSU team a few weeks ago because of his possible involvement in an assault case.

Stringer is rumored to be headed for Cincinnati, Bowling Green or Cleveland State.

However, Stringer's father isn't even sure of what his son plans to do.

"Damon has made no decision about what he's going to do or where he is going to go," Roosevelt Stringer said. "Right now his only concern is finishing out the school year at Ohio State." Damon Stringer was arrested and charged with assault after being involved in a fender bender with Daniel Schneider, of Columbus, April 26.

According to a Columbus Division of Police report, Schneider backed into Stringer's 1998 Honda Passport with his 1990 Acura. Schneider said when he attempted to exchange insurance information he was attacked by Stringer.

Schneider said he was kicked in the face and ribs. The police report stated Stringer kicked in Schneider's car door, jumped up and down on the hood and broke the sun roof. The altercation took place at 900 Thurber Dr. in Victorian Village.

Once a vital member of the OSU basketball team, Stringer is now simply a student. In 1995-96 and 1996-97, he led the team in scoring, averaging 11.3 and 15.1 points respectively.

If Stringer has made up his mind about what his plans are, he hasn't let his former teammates know.

Hollywood mourns death of Sinatra

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Above everything, there was The Voice.

Say what you will about the style and swagger, the women, money, fame, power, mob ties, the tastes and habits that long ago fell out of favor.

There was, and always will be, the light baritone, seasoned by age, flavored by whiskey and cigarettes, romantic, vulnerable, tough and completely original. It was the source of all of Frank Sinatra's power and greatness.

Late Thursday night, Sinatra died at 82, his wife at his side, in the emergency room of Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, after a heart attack. He had been ill for more than a year.

The Voice fell silent — silent, but not silenced. There are too many records and signature songs — "My Way," "New York, New York," "Strangers in the Night" — too many TV shows and movies, too many memories, too lasting an imprint on American popular culture.

It is not an overstatement to say that Sinatra was the biggest name in show business, his appeal spanning three generations, from bobby-soxers, to baby boomers to Gen-Xers, from Tommy Dorsey to U2's Bono. He was the Chairman of the Board and Ol' Blue Eyes. It was a success that would come in spite of — or perhaps because of — a colorful, contradictory personality and humble New Jersey roots.

"Frank Sinatra was a true original,"

"Frank Sinatra was a true original," entertainer Mel Torme said. "He held the patent, the original blueprint on singing the popular song, a man who would have thousands of imitators but who, himself, would never be influenced by a single, solitary person."

His songs were classics and crossovers: "Night and Day," "Young at Heart," "One for My Baby," "How About You?" "Day by Day," "Ol' Man River" and "Come Fly With Me." With daughter Nancy he recorded "Somethin' Stupid," a No. 1 smash during the rock era. In the '90s he teamed with modern pop

New drug OK'd for human tests

The first, very limited tests of the drugs on humans could come by the end of the year or early next year, Dr. Judah Folkman told the Chicago Tribune in a story for Sunday edi-

The drugs, angiostatin and endostatin, are highly experimental and have been tried only in mice, where they have caused cancerous tumors to permanently disappear.

Folkman told the Tribune in an interview Friday that angiostatin and endostatin are being produced by a National Cancer Institute facility, not in mass quantities, "but just enough for a small number of patients."

"So far, they're right on schedule for December or the first of the year. That's our hope," he said.

Folkman said he has received permission to treat the patients on a "compassion-ate basis," a protocol reserved for desperately ill patients under which federal requirements for pre-clinical testing are waived.

It will still be 12 to 18 months before the company licensed to develop the drugs will have enough to begin fullscale clinical human trials.

Drug may extend life of critically ill

By The Associated Press

In the first success of an entirely new approach to fighting cancer, scientists have shown they can lengthen the lives of some terminally ill breast cancer patients with a medicine that thwarts the defective genes causing their disease.

Attacking cancer at its genetic roots has been a goal of science for two decades, but researchers said Sunday that this is firm evidence at last they can actually do this.

Experts predict that the new drug, called Herceptin, will come on the market next fall and could quickly become a standard treatment for the one-quarter or more of breast cancer patients whose tumors are driven by multiple copies of a gene called HER-2. It substantially boosts the power of ordinary chemotherapy and carries none of the usual cancer drug side effects, such as nausea and hair loss.

But perhaps even more important, doctors say, is that this treatment works at all, since it shows that one of the hottest areas of cancer research is likely to pay off.

"This proves the paradigm. If we understand what is broken in the malignant cell, we may be able to fix it," said Dr. Dennis Slamon of the University of California, Los Ange-

Dozens of other drugs in earlier stages of development are aimed at sidestepping a variety of genetic flaws that make tumors grow uncon-trollably, and several of these could be available in the next few years. "This is not the end of the story. It is the beginning of the story," said Dr. Allen S. Lichter of the University of Michigan, incoming president of the American Society of Clinical Oncology.

Albright, Arafat to meet in London despite canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Clinton administration on Sunday backed away from a threat to suspend its mediation of peace talks even though Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu did not accept a U.S. proposal for territorial compromise.

Secretary of State Madeleine Albright arranged an add-on meeting with Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat in London on Monday and senior U.S. mediator Dennis Ross was flying overnight to meet her after huddling with Netanyahu for more than an hour Sunday night in Washington.

The hurriedly arranged Albright-Arafat meeting was disclosed by a senior State Department official in Washington who asked not to be identified by name.

The secretary of state was already in London to brief President Clinton on recent intensive U.S. efforts to reopen talks between Israel and the Palestinians over the future of the

After his meeting with Ross Washington, Netanyahu addressed the American Israel Public Affairs Committee and said Israel would gradually reduce its request for U.S. economic assistance but still would need military aid from the United States. Total assistance now runs to about $3 billion a year.

Albright was unable to persuade the prime minister in talks Thursday and Friday to change his mind.

"If you ask me, as the prime minister of Israel, to sign a peace treaty in which we somehow erode Israel's defenses, that won't hold," Netanyahu said on ABC-TV's "This Week with Sam Donaldson and Cokie Roberts."

Clinton welcomes inquiry into possible improper China deal

President Clinton welcomed an investigation into whether he improperly signed a waiver this year to approve exporting satellite technology to China. He said Sunday the decision was not swayed by six-figure donations in 1996 from an executive who benefited.

But the Justice Department has opened a preliminary inquiry into possible influence on the president's decision of more than $600,000 in donations to the Democratic Party by Bernard L. Schwartz, chairman of Loral Space and Communications Ltd., a government official said. The export waiver covered Loral and another company.

Speaking in Birmingham, England, where he was attending the economic summit of world leaders, Clinton said he had heard about the new allegations but insisted the money did not change the Unit-

"If someone tried to influence them (decisions), that is a different issue. There ought to be an investigation," he said.

India's nuclear tests, and the possibility that Pakistan and a regional nuclear arms race might follow, also are heightening congressional interest in the subject.

Investigations are gearing up in both the House and the Senate into the administration's decision to let Loral and Hughes Electronic Corp. export satellites to be launched atop Chinese rockets.

Critics claim that, along with the satellites, the two space firms gave China technology that helped it improve guidance systems of its long-range ballistic missiles, including some aimed at the United States. China and India are longtime rivals and fought a border war three decades ago.

Republicans see their investigation into the waiver as a political winner this summer. They hope to tie the contracts to big campaign donations that Schwartz and other executives of both firms made to

The goal of the forum is "to get undergraduates to think of research in a different way," said Linda Meadows, assistant vice president in the Office of Research. "It provides an opportunity to undergraduates to present work from research projects they have been involved in. It also gives them a chance to present and talk about their work.

While most of the participants in the forum were honors students, Meadows said an effort is underway to expand and include nonhonors students as well.

What we think...

India's nukes no cause for surprise

Last week, in an underground test site near the India-Pakistan border, a rumbling began that has since been heard around the world.

"I was afraid when the ground trembled and the walls almost crumbled." Jagdish Sutar, an Indian villager who lives only three miles from the site told the Xinhau News Agency. "I ran out of the house. I thought it was an earthquake."

It wasn't an earthquake, but the reverberations of what Sutar felt have since stretched far beyond the borders of his tiny village. Long recognized as a "nuclear capable country," India last week crossed over the threshold separating the haves from the have-nots when it successfully conducted a series of five underground nuclear tests.

And as if the implications weren't clear enough, their subsequent declaration that they have "the capacity for a big bomb," has sent a clear message to the world in general and their Pakistani neighbors in particular: We have the bomb, deal with it.

As a result a nervous Pakistan — who lost wars to India in 1947, 1965 and 1971 — is now threatening to conduct nuclear tests of its own. After all, as the former Soviet Union can attest, the tenet of mutually assured destruction works much better when your side isn't the only one assured of that destruction.

Of course all of this has resulted in an inordinate amount of hand wringing around the West's corridors of power. President Clinton, Pentagon strategists and various Congressman have all managed to agree that these events have transformed the always difficult situation between India and Pakistan into one of the most dangerous in the world. This is to be expected, but the real question is whether or not this assessment is warranted.

From the very advent of the nuclear age it's been the goal of those nations seated at the nuclear table to deny access to any others seeking entrance into the club. The five nuclear powers the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia and China have jealously guarded their power, codifying their stance in the 1970 Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty. This was a general agreement that only those nations which had developed the capability before 1967 would be permitted by the international community to build and store nuclear weapons.

Many developing nations have long complained - rightly that the treaty is flawed because it bans countries from developing nuclear programs while allowing the five powers to maintain

This is merely the latest challenge to the absurdity of a treaty which says nuclear weapons are bad, but we're going to hold onto ours for your own good. Indeed, several countries including Israel and Iran are believed to also have nuclear weapons, or the capability to produce them relatively quickly. At least India had the decency to tell us.

The fact remains that nuclear weapons are an integral part of our nation's defenses. Even now, they are one of the major strategic components upon which our national security is based. They remain so because the same Pentagon officials decrying India's nuclear tests are the same officials who would never, under any circumstances, favor dismantling our own nuclear program. They realize that these weapons, as paradoxical as it may sound, actually work to deter conflict.

And until we can achieve the kind of world in which no nation possesses or needs atomic devices, talking out of both sides of our mouth will continue to carry little weight to emerging countries eager to join our prestigious little family.

Pro-woman not anti-male, feminist says hate men. All men. I have a comprehensive plan to exterminate everything with a willy.

I don't eat in the dining hall or restaurants because the food was touched by non-females. I grow my own vegetables and chickens and slaughter all of the roosters and leave them on my neighbors' doorsteps. In fact, I don't eat any male animals except, of course, boiled pig testicles.

I have an obsession with putting bananas, carrots and cucumbers in my blender and pressing the puree button. I have a poster of Lorena Bobbit hanging over my bed and a knife under my pillow. I take only women's studies and military science classes. I have 10 cats and if they have boy babies I grind them up and smear the gook on my face and run around fraternity houses chanting gibberish. Without a bra, of course.

You see, I like women. And according to the unquestionable laws of logic, this necessarily means that I think all men are scum. As our buddy Nathan Crabbe puts it, I spend all of my time "whining about the evils of dirty-minded men." I mean, gosh, what else is there for a feminist gal like me to do?

Let me make a shocking and frightening confession: I sort of like men. I know this is difficult to fathom, but I kinda like old gramps, even though he -eek- likes sports. I like my dad, too, even though he has this utterly nauseating habit of watching action movies. And, oh my gosh, come to think of it, I even like my boyfriend even though he - oh shriek! — pees standing up. In all seriousness, the common idea that supporting women automatically means degrading men is sad and dangerous. Thinking that women sometimes get a raw deal does not mean that I blame men. My pointing out that men are sometimes brought up to behave a certain way does not mean that I don't like them, and that there aren't many good and wonderful men. It also doesn't mean that there aren't some horrible and nasty women. People somehow have gotten the idea that being pro-woman means being anti-male, when all that feminism says is that women should get a fair shot to live happy, free and fulfilling lives. Take, for instance, The Neighbors. Yes, sometimes I think that the comic is a little degrading and stereotypical. But that doesn't mean that I think that Jeff

Yoakum is an evil man, or that he does not have the right to draw what he thinks is funny. In his comic strips, he represents one aspect of womanhood. There are certainly women who act like his nymphomaniac, drug-crazed sorority "chicks." The problem is not that he depicts that type of woman - it's just that he focuses in on that one aspect only and that there are not more healthy representations on the page to offset his unhealthy ones.

And it's not like I think it's bad to have pictures of scantily-clad women up in your room or that talking about a woman's appearance is "dirty-minded." Women are sometimes objectified, and men are too there's nothing wrong with appreciating peoples' appearances unless we do so disproportionately and forget that there are other valuable aspects to being women and men than what fills out our bathing suits.

The point is that the sexes do not have to be "opposite." We do not have to oppose each other and we would in fact do a lot better if we helped each other out.

"Women's issues" like rape, abortion, equal pay and sexual harassment are all intimately related to men's and women's relationships with them. Men would more likely promote fair treatment if the sexes weren't so polarized and their supporting women weren't seen as "working with the enemy" or "sell-ing out." Why is it so remarkable when a man takes women's studies classes? Isn't he just trying to understand the experiences of his mothers, sisters, friends and partners? Ask a man who has taken a class and see if he didn't find that unfair treatment of the sexes didn't adversely affect him too.

The idea that my desire to stop discriminatory and demeaning attitudes toward women should imply that I don't like men defeats anything I try to do. And it is just an easy way out for people who don't care to listen to what I am trying to say. But this attitude is something we can all change.

Next time you talk to a scarv "feminist," don't assume that she hates men simply because she thinks women should get on-site child care. Don't look at sexual harassment as some sort of claim brought up by women who want to ban sex from daily life. And when you read my columns, don't assume that I have some sort of evil plan for female world domination. Oh, wait!

End sit-in, begin input in OMA changes

It all started Monday afternoon when some minority students met with the administration about their demands concerning the restructuring of the Office of will be reversed. Minority Affairs. Because the review and respond to these tion refuses to demands, the students staged what appeared to be an impromptu "occupation" of Bricker Hall. They vowed not to retreat from Bricker until all their demands were met. So, since Monday afternoon some students have been camping out in Bricker Hall. However, as of Thursday afternoon, all the demands have been by this action? met except the firing or replacement of Barbara Rich, interim vice provost. With all my reasoning powers and having been involved with the struggle for the black studies division, a black cultural center, more minority scholarships, Vietnam, etc., I still can't understand why there's a continuation of this sit-in.

These students have gotten assurances from administration that there will be a complete halt to the restructuring process until their support of these students;

ident and vice provost will be on board before any implemented changes move forward and that the changes and transfers of staff replace Rich as interim vice provost and for the life of me, I can't understand the ploy and the reasoning of students to use this factor to continue the occupation.

By the way, since the "sit-in" started, I've been in and out of Bricker Hall; sometimes, spending as much as three to five hours at a time observing and assessing this situation. And during that time, I've seen several student leaders -- John Carney, Josh Mandel and Magi Swartz -- from Undergraduate Student Government in constant attendance at this occupation. What more do they hope to gain dents, individually and collectively, on this campus. Not even the Union can claim with any authority that it represents all the organizations they claim are under its umbrella. For instance, the union's claim that the African-American Media Association is under its umbrella is totally ludicrous...Most Association members that saw this claim of the union in Tuesday's Lantern were dismayed and shocked at such a claim. No one had been aware ies and English, continuing BA that we were mandated into servi- journalism, BFA painting and tude without consent.

My personal assessment of the situation is that the "sit-inners" should call a halt to their siege, regardless of Rich's role, sit down with administration and further the process of the restructuring of OMA. I honestly believe that the holdouts to ending the occupation are being guided by some unsavory faction within its ranks who have insidious plans to expose OSU's affirmative action, diversity programs, minority scholarships, black cultural center and its OMA to the scrutiny of those same types who have helped bring about Proposition 209 in California, Texas' defeat of affirmative action, and Michigan's recent blow to affirmative action.

I don't believe these sit-in students want to be such pawns; regardless, I hope they never have any regrets for the Pandora's box they've just opened.

And where is the counsel of the elders, experts and powers of color on this campus? Haven't they seen the handwriting on the wall? And that's the "real deal."

Palestinians lacking freedom of Israelis

RIVERDANCE

Israel's joyous preparations to celebrate 50 years of statehood cannot be echoed by the 5 million Palestinians that today live in exile around the globe or under Israeli domination as a result of the formation of that state. While Israelis are feted at the Kennedy Center and hold festivals in disputed Jerusalem and on the ruins of the Palestinian towns of Ramle, Lid, Majdal, Faluja, Im Khaled, Bisan, and Tuberia, Palestinians will be reliving the bitter memories of what they call "The Catastrophe" of 1948 and a painful present. Muslims living in Palestine today live either under the direct occupation of Israel or in areas autonomously controlled by the Palestinian Authority, established four years ago. Autonomy in this case belies reality since Israel controls the borders of these areas, thereby regulating the flow of people, communication, goods and services in and out of the Palestinian areas.

The Israelis are celebrating a state created at the expense of millions of Palestinians rendered stateless. The Zionist myth of "a land without people, for a people without a land' ignores the fact that Palestine was the cradle of ancient cultures and civilizations. "According to the version of Israeli history taught in schools, the Jews returned to reclaim a mostly empty land but were fought by the Arabs ... the epic of national building is accompanied by accounts of expulsion, dispossession and killing of Arabs ..." (Joel Greenberg, "Israel's History, Viewed Candidly, Starts a Storm," The New York Times, April 10, 1998.) Jewish immigrants to Palestine were fleeing persecution in Europe. However, their experience has not dissuaded them from dispossessing out their 50th birthday candle. and persecuting the Muslim people, indigenous for thousands of years before Europe's Jews began to arrive.

The Palestinians are denied fair representation or participation. While any Jew in the world can go to Israel and be granted immediate citizenship, a Muslim born in Jerusalem, the West Bank or Gaza, controlled ultimately by Israel, does not have such rights. Furthermore, Israel limits the rights of repatriation, limited as they are, of Palestinians to the autonomous Palestinian areas.

The Muslim people cannot but see a parallel between their case and that of South Africa. Apartheid made blacks into second-class citizens, reserving resources for the white population, denying blacks economic and educational opportunities and democratic participation. The international community forced a change to a more equitable situation through embargoes and trade sanctions. However, while Israel pursued similar discriminatory practices against the Palestinians it exiled and those under its sway, the world will shake their hands and join them in blowing How can anyone support a State that does not abide and respect international law? Israel has not implemented any of the 72 U.N. resolutions that were put forth against the Israeli aggression. It has violated the borders of it's neighbors, like the invasion of Lebanon in 1982, and the continuing air strikes on the country killings thousands of innocent civilians. The harsh closures it puts on the Palestinians have caused an economic crisis. This has caused Palestinians to live in poverty in the occupied territories. while the Jews of Israel enjoy the benefits of receiving billions every year of American tax dollars. This only encourages Israel to continue the awful atrocities committed against the Palestinians. The American people must take a firm and vocal stand. By showing support for the oppressed people of Palestine and supporting their cause for self determination, we can truly call ourselves a democratic nation that stands for its founding principles.

Current protesters different from '60s

Though the leaders of the current student protest wish to be like the leaders of the protests in the 1960s and 1970s, they have one small difference: the leaders of the past had a real cause.

Whether fighting against the U.S. presence in Vietnam or for desegregation of university housing, they had a goal to truly alter the face of reality.

The Afrikan Student Union seems more interested in gaining a stranglehold on the OSU bureaucracy and manipulating it for some unknown purpose. Rich's dismissal is not a reasonable goal. What if the union decides it doesn't like someone else, say a pro-fessor? Will they hold a sit-in until the university breaks the tenure rules?

Most arrogant, however, is the newest demand added to their list, requiring that public action be postponed until it is not "a bad time," since finals are coming up. What will the union do if the sitin continues until finals?

Lastly, the statement that "OSU does not want minority students here" was the most unbelievable yet made by the union's spokesperson. Such a statement would be reasonable if the proposed changes were, for example, an 80 percent budget and staffing reduction.

An administrative reshuffling is not a reasonable justification for such a statement, and it further dishonors those who fought against real administrative racism two decades ago.

I urge the union to either explain or rethink their radical stance, and remind them that to deny the strides made toward racial equality is to forever doom the world to hatred and discon-

Issues not part of 'Seinfeld' comedy

Friday's editorial stated that comparing "the immeasurable political and social impact" of the television show "MASH" to "Seinfeld" is ridiculous. I agree wholeheartedly.

"MASH" and "Seinfeld" are completely different shows. First of all, "MASH" was another in a long line of sensitive-comedy shows that we've seen a sickening glut of recently. It may have been one of the better ones — maybe even the best - but how many times have we seen the "Home Improvement" episode where the family learns a valuable lesson about life when they catch junior smoking? Or the drug-use episode? Or the racism episode? Or the funeral episode? There are way too many series like Improvement," "Roseanne," "The Fresh Prince of Bel Air," and dozens of others where every season an "issue" has a conscience. Jerry Seinfeld refused to sink to this level. His show's "no hugging, no learning" credo revolutionized television comedy. Even when main characters such as the cancer-less Jerry Fogel or George's fiancee Susan actually died, no one got teary eyed or made a speech about how much life meant. "Seinfeld" never got maudlin simply because Jerry, along with co-creator Larry David, realized that a funny show should be funny. That's what it's all about: being funny, not being

Letter epitomizes religious bias

Zev Lenchus' article entitled "Student upset with attack on Israel" is inherently biased and compels me to respond.

Lenchus, as a Zionist Jew, has openly acknowledged his political agenda. Although his agenda extends beyond Israel, the Zionists' current interest is to make Palestine the accepted and permanent homeland for the Jews.

To this day, they have used superior weaponry (thanks to billions of U.S. tax dollars we give as involuntary charity each year) to completely replace what was the Muslim nation of Palestine with the Jewish nation of Israel. Although this bought them a temporary homeland, the Jews have not been able to buy the acceptance and security they so desperately seek.

Instead, as humans, I think they must feel a certain shame to know that they are living on top of a house that was plowed by bulldozers while the inhabitants were still inside. How would a Jew respond upon learning that in April 1997, the Israeli daily newspaper Yediott Ahronott admitted to 305 registered cases of Muslim children being infected with the HIV virus during different stages of their treatment for regular illnesses, in hospitals supervised by Israeli occupation authorities? Or upon being told that Israel refuses to prosecute soldiers who have acknowledged executing prisoners of war? Or that it refuses to allow the 762,000 refugees it has created to return home?

think they would respond as Lenchus has to our protest by saying, "Israel is here, it legally exists, and will continue to exist forever," at any cost. And after all, what can you give to people in exchange for taking everything away from them?

In other words, Zionists don't want to bother trying to pay a debt that cannot be paid. And Palestinian Muslims simply want their original homeland back. Their message is that Palestine is not for sale and they are ready and willing to defend what is rightfully theirs.

Israel has currently violated more than 69 United Nations Security Council resolutions and has been protected from 29 more by U.S. vetoes.

As Americans, I would hope that we would show support to the oppressed Muslims of Palestine in an individual and peaceful way by denying the Jews any hope of acceptance as Zion-

We are just letting the people know what the consequences have been for the Arabs. We are making the students on campus aware of what these 50 years have meant to

The way we were tortured, killed, had arms broken, were thrown into prisons, had our homes leveled and were deported from a homeland in which we had resided for more than 2000 years. The Palestinian people are asking to be treated as first-class citizens in their own country. I am sure we all agree that this is fair, but it is not happening.

Maybe Mr. Zev does not realize that those "terrorists" are providing the refugees with homes, food, schools and badly needed medical

An Arab who blows himself up on a bus for his own country is called a terrorist. But when an Israeli opens fire on unarmed men and women praying in the mosque, he is said to have gotten a little excited, fined half a shekel and then set free.

We are not trying to deny the Jews in Palestine anything, we are just putting across a view of our own suffering and humiliation.

As for his groundless statement that the Palestinians will keep asking for more and more land, he should keep in mind that the Jews are the invading people, not us. Compromise should come from their side more than from us.

er. The term "you people" is problematic regardless of one's ethnicity or cultural reference group because it expresses an "us-andthem" frame of reference.

However, rather than rush to judgment (sexist! racist! homophobe!) I prefer to ask an "offensive" speaker to clarify his or her intended meaning(s). Hall misses mark with PC column

Friday I was truly disappointed by the racist ignorance of Andrew Hall's editorial in which he stated that through the effort of being politically correct, the intended message gets lost.

In addition, our society puts too much weight into what is said and not enough into what is meant.

Being politically correct is simply a tactic for showing equal status respect when discussing a particular race, religion, nationality, etc. History has outlined that how we use our language determines how we intrinsically feel. This is evident throughout more that half of the present century, in addition to the prior four centuries, with the overwhelming prejudice and racist language directed against blacks.

The racist vocabulary was introduced as a method for distinguishing between the status and rights of those who are different. It makes the communicator feel more superior while dehumanizing those being spoken about.

If one is afraid to speak out for fear of offending someone else, than that person needs to reevaluate the message and become politically correct in order to communicate on a level of logic, with respect to the topic at hand and not simply on a level of bigotry.

In short, being politically correct and expressing respect for those who have different beliefs. origins, etc. does not effect the intended message unless it is intended that you want to discrim-I hope that in the future Mr.

Hall uses a little bit more insight into his editorials before quickly coming to another illogical resolution about how our society oper-

Radio show pledges support for union

I am the host of BlackTalk, a daily radio talk show heard on WCXJ 1550 AM in Pittsburgh, Pa. Last Friday I interviewed one of the students participating in the sit-in at in Bricker Hall.

The listeners of BlackTalk fully support the Afrikan Student Union's action and in solidarity call on Interim President Richard Sisson and Interim Provost Barbara Rich to properly and justly deal with the student demands. We have informed the union that we stand ready to support them in any capacity that they require, including taking a "freedom ride" to Ohio

Derailed train spills soap, takes out power

COLUMBUS (AP) — A Conrail freight train derailed Sunday morning near downtown, spilling about 20,000 gallons of liquid soap, fire officials said. No one was injured.

The derailment happened shortly after 10 a.m. on a stretch of track that runs under several bridges, said acting fire department Lt. Mark Barbour.

About 30 cars went off the tracks in two places, Conrail spokesman Bob Sullivan said. The train, with three locomotives hauling 159 cars of mixed freight, was traveling from Pittsburgh to Columbus, Sullivan said.

It was uncertain Sunday what caused the train to derail, Sullivan

Several area roads were closed and hazardous materials crews were called to the scene, but no hazardous materials were spilled in the derailment, Barbour said.

Utility workers also were called because the derailment apparently knocked down area power lines. About 70 customers were without power Sunday, American Electric Power Conrail had one cleanup crew on the scene Sunday and additional workers were scheduled to assist cleanup efforts, Sullivan said. The Environmental Protection Agency also was contacted Sunday to help coordinate the cleanup.

Lawmakers aim to stop flood of new city taxes

Supreme Court ruling has lawmakers trying to figure out how to prevent a flood of new municipal taxes.

Legislative leaders will work this week on solutions to prevent cities from imposing taxes in areas the state already taxes, The Columbus Dispatch reported Sunday.

"The Supreme Court opened up such an incredible vista that we really do need to nail this down as quickly as possible," said Rep. E.J. Thomas, (R-Columbus), chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which oversees tax poli-

In the decision written by Chief Justice Thomas Moyer, the court threw out a principle that legislators have relied on for more than 70 years to prevent cities from imposing taxes in areas the state already taxes.

In some cases, such as piggyback income taxes for schools or piggyback sales taxes for counties, lawmakers specifically have allowed double taxation.

The presumption, based on a 1925 court decision, was that if piggybacking is not specifically allowed, areas of the state taxes

Black teachers warned to save public schools

TOLEDO (AP) - A retired University of Michigan official told black educators that they have to challenge the motives of the nation's public school sys-

The schools are designed to train children to assume high- or low-status roles that have been unconsciously assigned to them for their adult life, said Charles Moody, a former professor and vice provost at Michigan.

"People don't want to deal with changing the policies and practices that have been used to run a segregated and unequal institution," Moody told members of the Ohio chapter of the National Alliance of Black School Educators Saturday.

He said black educators should use their power to pave the road for other blacks.

"We need to be mentors and sponsors to each other. If you don't have a mentor or sponsor, your mobility is limited," he

Crew falls to Galaxy, 4-2

By John Tonjes Lanter sports writer

The Columbus Crew played nearly flawless soccer for the first 45 minutes Sunday, but gave a 4-2 victory to the visiting Los Angeles Galaxy in the second half.

"We played a great 45 minutes of soccer," coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "It was as good a performance as we have had all year — regardless of who we were playing without."

The Crew were playing with only four of their normal 11 starters. Brian McBride, Brian Maisonneuve, Thomas Dooley and Juergen Sommer were all with the U.S. National Team, and Stern John, Todd Yeagley and Mike Lapper were out with

In the first half the Crew did not miss a beat. They went on the board first when Jeff Cunningham scored his first Major League Soccer Goal in his first MLS start.

Columbus went into halftime with the 1-0 margin and feeling pretty good about themselves. But the confidence was short-lived.

Dascoli garners NCAA bid, other awards

By Aaron McLear antern sports writer

The accolades have rained on freshman Kristy Dascoli like a Korean monsoon recently.

She finished the season as the No. 53 singles player in the nation on her way to being crowned Freshman of the Year in the Big Ten and named to the first-team All Big Ten squad.

But her most significant accomplishment was her invitation to the NCAA Championships, the first Lady Buckeye to ever receive that honor.

"This is great for Kristy," said coach Chuck Merzbacher. "She belongs to the best group of college players in the

"I'm so excited," said Dascoli, who finished the season at 24-9. "But it probably won't hit me until I get

The top 64 players in the country are invited to the NCAA's, which will be held at the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Ind. on May 25-

Making it to nationals has been a goal of Dascoli's since the beginning of the year, although she admitted that she really did not think it would hapshot," she said.

Dascoli headlined Merzbacher's first recruiting class at OSU.

"Getting this kind of recognition is how it starts when you're building a program," said Merzbacher. "Even if it's just one individual it's still a very elite group of players."

Another key member of the coach's first class was Dascoli's high school teammate Briana Harris. The two played together at Bradenton Academy on Bradenton, Fla. and teamed up at first doubles this year. They had the best record in the Big Ten at 9-1 and finished the season ranked 30th in the nation but were not among the 32 teams invited to compete at nationals.

"We were disappointed but we're just freshmen so we have the next three years to get there," said Dascoli.

"They really had a great year. They made a great run at it but they fell just short," said Merzbacher.

He said the pressure is on for next

"They really set themselves up for nest year. They're going to be one of the top 15-20 teams in the country," said Merzbacher. Although she finished with the best record in the Big Ten at 9-1, Dascoli finished second to Northwestern's Katherine Nasser in the voting for Big Ten player of the year. In fact, Dascoli actually defeated Nasser in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, in Evanston, Ill. earlier this year. "She had a little better fall than me and I'm a little disappointed but I'd rather go to the NCAAs than get player of the year," said Dascoli.

Merzbacher has been as pleased with Dascoli's attitude off the court as he is with her performance on it.

"She's someone who doesn't let it go to her head. She's real humble but still really excited," he said.

Dascoli echoed that humility. "I was kind of surprised. I figured you had to be really good to get to there," she said.

O'Brien settles out of court with BC

By Howard Ulman AP sports writer

BOSTON - Jim O'Brien, who sued the school where he played basketball then coached for 11 seasons, has settled the slander and breach-ofcontract case with Boston College out of court.

The resolution, announced Friday by the college, O'Brien ends a week of controversy in which the school's president, the Rev. William P. Leahy, denied the suit's suggestion that racism was involved in the admissions process

And it may have extricated O'Brien, now coach at Ohio State, from an uncomfortable position in which his goodguy reputation came under fire by the media.

In the end, O'Brien simply wanted his reputation restored after it was damaged by the school, in part by indications that it said he was dismissed when he actually resigned on April 2, 1997, his attorney said. He was introduced the next day as Ohio State's coach.

"We didn't anticipate and certainly regret" that racial references received a great deal of attention after the eight-page complaint became public on Monday, said the attorney, John J. Bonistalli. The settlement was reached "after extensive discussions over the past week" with O'Brien's representatives, the Rev. Dennis Yesalonia, the school's general counsel, said. The school said those talks didn't involve financial issues nich were ilnalized, O'Brien's suggestion, on the basis of what BC deemed fair to both sides. Specific figures were not released.

O'Brien was in the western part of the country Friday, according to Ohio State spokesman Gerry Emig who said he didn't anticipate a comment from him.

In its statement, BC quoted O'Brien as saying, "The merits of this suit were about a breach of contract and slander. The facts set forth in the complaint were alleged in an effort to support those claims. I know that Boston College and (admissions director) John Mahoney are not racist, nor does the complaint allege that."

O'Brien and Mahoney had clashed several times over the admission of players. Their differences peaked when Mahoney rejected two Boston high school players, Elton Tyler and Jonathan DePina, after O'Brien offered them full scholarships in September 1996.

The complaint, filed in Suffolk County Superior Court, said that from September 1996 to April 1997, the college allowed Mahoney "to conduct reviews of applicants with an apparent bias against African-Americans." Tyler, who went to Miami, and DePina, who attends Massachusetts, are African-Americans.

The complaint also said that the school conveyed information used in a Boston Globe story on April 12, 1997, that said O'Brien "could not be trusted" and was dismissed from his position.

In the school's statement, Leahy spoke highly of O'Brien.

"The circumstances of his departure were unfortunate and regrettable," Leahy said.
"Jim O'Brien loyally performed his duties while head coach of the men's basketball team, and he was not dismissed from his position."

O'Brien earns an estimated $650,000 per year under his five-year contract with Ohio State, about twice his compensation at BC. The complaint asked for financial relief, including "damages, costs (and) attorney fees.'

The settlement was "amicable," Bonistalli said, and he allowed the school to determine the financial settlement because "negotiations weren't about the financial claims but more about the other issues, Jim's reputation."

The complaint was filed after efforts to reach a settlement on O'Brien's concerns fell short.

softballers Palaroan, Weigel named to all-star squad

By Douglas J. Guth Lantern sports writer

The Ohio State softball team's dramatic improvement this season has paid off, as two of their top players received a distinctive award for their outstanding play on the field.

Center fielder Cheryl Palaroan and shortstop Renae Weigel were both named Wednesday to the 1998 Louisville Slugger/Great Lakes Region All-America second team. This squad represents the 23 best players in the Midwest.

Second year coach Linda Kalafatis felt the two would be solid team contributors, but she admits the incredible season Palaroan Weigel and turned out to be a pleasant, yet unexpected surprise. "I expected those two to develop and become great Palaroan players, but I just did not expect it to happen so quickly," said Kalafatis, who led her team to a 33-23 season record.

Palaroan, a junior, came back from a dislocated elbow that benched her most of her sophomore season to start a career high 44 games. She posted career highs in four offensive categories including batting average (.331), hits (44), doubles (2) and triples (1). In addition, Palaroan led the Buckeyes in stolen bases with 22, scored 25 runs and had a perfect 1.000 fielding percentage in center field.

"Cheryl is so quick and because of this she is a multiple threat player," Kalafatis said. "She found her confidence early on and it helped continue her success for the rest of the season. She really showed what she can do for us as a player."

"My main goal this year coming off the injury was to put together a healthy year. I was surprised that everything came together as it did," said Palaroan.

Palaroan's success this year gives a boost to a Buckeye outfield that will lose Jodi Dolan and Natalie Tomoguchi to graduation. Kalafatis feels that Palaroan will bring a leadership quality to the position that might otherwise be become a leader for the team in the outfield and she'll have to work even harder to fulfill that role," Kalafatis said.

Weigel, in her sophomore year with OSU, started in all 56 games and slugged her way to a team high .344 batting average, while knocking in 31 runs. Her batting average improved almost 125 points from her freshman season. Weigel attributes this recent success to both hard work and experience.

"I worked on my game all last summer after getting a year under my belt with the team," Weigel said. "The transition was much easier this

"We think Cheryl is ready to year as I felt more relaxed at the plate and did not swing at so many bad pitches."

> "Renae is in a key position at shortstop and making the All-American squad was a great accomplishment for her. She improved so much this year from her freshman season and she will only get better," said Kalafatis.

As for Palaroan, she was disappointed with the Buckeyes failure to reach the Big Ten tournament, and said that this goal is vastly more significant than any individual honors.

"I try not to measure my success by any awards I might get," Palaroan said. "I just want the team to win."

Yankees' David Wells achieves perfection

By Ronald Blum

AP sports writer

NEW YORK — David Wells, who stalked off the mound after a bad outing earlier this month, pitched only the 13th perfect game in major league history as the New York Yankees beat the Minnesota Twins 4-0 Sunday.

Wells struck out 11 and dominated the Twins from start to finish. Yankees fielders made no exceptionally tough plays to protect the first game since Kenny Rogers' gem for Texas on July 28, 1994, against the Angels. Wells (5-1) went to a threeball count on four batters coming back from a 3-0 on Matt Lawton in the fourth in pitching the first perfect game at Yankee Stadium since Don Larsen in Game 5 of the 1956 World Series. The burly left-hander, three days short of his 35th birthday, spent the bottom of the eighth inning sitting alone in the dugout, stretching his neck and arms. The crowd of 49,820 gave him a standing ovation as he came out to pitch the final inning.

Wells made quick work of the Twins in the ninth, retiring rookie Jon Shave on a routine fly to right, striking out Javier Valentin and getting Pat Meares on a fly to right.

Wells pumped his left fist twice at the ground after the final out. His teammates swarmed him, and he was carried off the field.

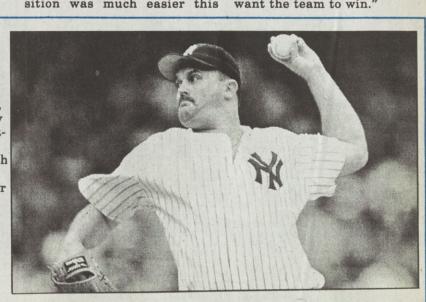

There had been 12 perfect games since 1900 - a number of others that were previously viewed as perfect, such as Harvey Haddix's extra-inning effort, were dropped from the list a few years ago by the records commit-

Wells and Larsen, along with both pitching perfect games at Yankee Stadium, share another distinction

- they both attended Point Loma High in San Diego.

COLLEGE HOROSCOPE FOR WEEK OF MAY 18, 1998

Taurus (April 20-May 20). Choose stability over excitement on Monday. You'll have enough excitement soon, anyway. Gather with friends on Tuesday and Wednesday and make solid plans for the future. You're under pressure to change on Thursday and Friday. Donit spend too much in the process. Reassess your commitments over the weekend. Keep the ones that serve your present objective and renegotiate the others.

Gemini (May 21-June 21). Mondayis a good day to organize an expedition with friends. The boss or professor is in a good mood for most of Tuesday and Wednesday. If youive got a test, youire in luck. He or she will grade easy. You'ill get even luckier Thursday, with the sun in your sign. For the next 30 days, you'ill have the advantage. Meet with teammates on Thursday and Friday to plan your course of action. Follow a strong leader and you'ill win easily, if you can keep from getting distracted. Finish old projects over the weekend in preparation for starting something new next Monday.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Your conscientious work makes a great impression on an older person Monday. Accept a compliment on Tuesday and you'll be more confident in expressing yourself on Wednesday. You'll need facts to win the argument on Thursday and Friday. Make sure you have them, not only at your fingertips but also in your head. Cheat sheets will not be allowed. Travel to visit an older relative over the weekend. A magnificent conversation is predicted. You might even finally get this person to understand your point of view.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Romance blossoms on Monday, if you donit whine about money. Show you can get by on less instead of asking for more. Tuesday and Wednesday are busy and thatis good. You might even make up for the lack of revenue then. Your mate is incredibly attractive, yet slightly cantanterous. Thursday and Friday. Hurry to finish your assignments so you can run off together. Travel is good this weekend, although money is still tight. Share expenses and pack a picnic to keep costs down.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Study the most complicated subject you can find on Monday. It will lead to success. Accept a roommateis coaching on Tuesday and Wednesday to finish a tough job on time. Friendship leads to love on Thursday and Friday, once you can find some privacy. Accept the chance to work over the weekend. Itill help you get where you want to go.

If You're Having a Birthday This Week ... Born May 18: You can advance in your career if you start planning now. May 19: Friends bring you luck and abundance. May 20: You're steady as a rock this year, and compassionate, too. May 21: Travel could lead to a career opportunity and new friends. May 22: Your team is red hot. You could win the tournament. May 23: Hang out with the good guys this year and you'ill make amazing things happen. May 24: Clean the slate of old business first, and prepare for a burst of creativity.

KUSCUPES by Linda Black

The sun is in Taurus until late Wednesday night. Itill be in Gemini from then through the next 30 days. Gemini is the sign of the scholar, so students will have an advantage during this coming phase. Curious Gemini is always reading, investigating and asking questions. Make decisions on Monday, while the sun is still in Taurus and the moon is in Aquarius. They'ill be both wise and practical. On Tuesday, the sun in Taurus and moon in Pisces furthers romance and gardening. On Wednesday the sun goes into Gemini, and on Thursday the moon goes into Aries. People will be getting more active, with spontaneous parties abundant Friday. The moonis transit through Taurus over the weekend will remind many of neglected obligations.

Western white the many of the triends on Monday to make a decision regarding money. More comes in on Tuesday from a private source. Dig into reserves on Wednesday so you can buy something you've been needing for a long time. You're empowered on Thursday, so go for what you want. Be assertive on Friday, too. Your chances of success are great. You're learning quickly over the weekend, so study ways to stretch your dollars even further.

Cancer (June 22-July 22). Study ways to stretch your dollars on Monday, so you can travel with friends on Tuesday and Wednesday. Donit forget to study, too. There is a pop quiz on Thursday, and maybe another one on Friday. Making a good impression on an older person will improve your status, if not your financial situation. Do it anyway. The one could lead to the other. Get friends talking confidentially over the weekend and you'll find the answer to a question that is had you puzzled for quite some time.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). Team up with a brilliant partner to win the competition on Monday. Heed an older personis advice to find the money you need on Tuesday and Wednesday. An excursion with friends could lead to true love on Thursday and Friday. Go along with an older personis requests over the weekend. Not to worry. You'll still have plenty of time to play with your friends once you get your chores done.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). You and your partner will get more done if you stick close to home on Monday. You may want to hide out on Tuesday and Wednesday just for the fun of it. An assignment received on Thursday or Friday could help you get the cash you need. Donit spend it all in one place. Let a trusted partner draw you out over the weekend. Money is tight, but thatis OK. None is required for this game.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Put money down on a romantic excursion Monday. Donit worry later that it is too expensive. Itill be worth it. Spend most of Tuesday and Wednesday studying. This new information will help you achieve the goal. Fix up your place on Thursday so you can have friends over Friday night of one special friend in particular. Thereis work to be done over the weekend, but you can make plenty of time for love, too. You might even get in some travel.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Be creative in explaining things to a stubborn roommate Monday. Be patient, too. Stash away as much money as possible on Tuesday and Wednesday. You'll be glad later that you did. Practice new skills on Thursday and Friday so you can put them to use over the weekend. Creativity and elbow grease are required for a tough domestic job, but you can sure save a lot if you do it yourself. And it ill be more special.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). On Monday, tell your roommate something you've been withholding, even if it means you get to make a new agreement. Study hard on Tuesday and Wednesday and you could cause a breakthrough. Let your practical partner handle the money on Thursday and Friday. Listen carefully to a roommate on Saturday, and you'll know how best to proceed on Sunday. Donit worry, you're naturally lucky now.

Chuck D brings message to Mershon

Lantern arts writer

t's been nearly a decade since Spike Lee's ground breaking film "Do The Right Thing" first catapulted Public Enemy into the national spotlight. When Lee's overtly political commentary on racism was tied to Public Enemy's message-oriented music, an entirely new sub-genre of rap was created: call it hip-hop with a social conscience.

And while the group's antiestablishment anthem "Fight the Power" almost painfully dates itself, ("Nineteen-eightynine the number/Another Summer...) their political message of black empowerment remains as relevant today as it did before gangsta' rap began eclipsing their popularity at the beginning of this decade.

And it was this message which Public Enemy front man Chuck D. brought with him as featured speaker at the African American Heritage Arts Festival, Friday night at the Mershon Auditorium.

Speaking to an often raucous, boisterous crowd of predominantly black students, Chuck D. used the Afrikan Student Union's ongoing occupation of Bricker Hall as a backdrop to his message of black unity in the face of difficult circumstances.

"I've got to give props to those students at Bricker," he said. "I'm just wondering why there weren't more students over there."

In an informal tone more conversational than presentational, he derided America's status quo while urging students to take their skills back to their communities to work for the improvement of black America.

"These are the 'Nightmare States of America," he said. "As we head into the 21st century a lot of young people are headed off to war. But this time it's a war amongst ourselves."

Often jumping - seemingly at random - from subject to subject, Chuck D. also had strong words for his own industry's culpability in fostering an environment which worked against the advancement of black Americans.

"A lot of us are lookin' at too many 'Godfather' flicks and watching too many videos," he said. "If you believe in videos you might as well believe in Superman. Go over to the tallest building and jump off, see what happens."

Instead, students need to challenge the truthfulness of the information they are constantly exposed to.

"When I said 'Don't believe the hype' I didn't say don't believe in anything," he said.
"We're in the midst of the information age and it's important for students to stay above this."

"You all are the future of America," he said.

PEOPLE THE NEWS

Grisham promotes volunteerism

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) -John Grisham's advice to recent graduates is "leave the country."

Speaking at the University of Southern Mississippi on Friday, the author of "The Firm" and "A Time to Kill" was promoting volunteerism overseas, not a permanent exodus to foreign shores.

"Pack up your bags and go someplace where you are needed, where you can help people," Grisham said. 'Just go for a year or two."

Those who do may learn that the United States isn't so bad compared to other countries, he said, and in terms of official corruption, overseas experience might show that "the boys in Washington are amateurs compared with the rest of the

Bullock bashes 'Speed' sequel

NEW YORK (AP) - Sandra Bullock is grateful she hit the big time in the thriller "Speed." She's just as grateful the sequel bombed.

"I'll be the first one to tell you it was a stinker," Bullock says of "Speed 2" in Sunday's Parade magazine. "The first time I saw it I just kind of laughed. ... But after the high of the first, having it not do well was a blessing in a way. It gave me the ammo to be able to say, 'No! Let's not do it that way."

Bullock has starred in such films as "While You Were Sleeping," "A Time to Kill" and "In Love and War." Upcoming is "Hope Floats" and "Practical Magic," costarring Nicole Kidman.

MTV's 'Summer Share' not welcome in seaside resort town

By John Curran Associated Press writer

SEASIDE HEIGHTS, N.J. (AP) - Nearly six years after an MTV-sponsored beach concert ended in violence and arrests, the music network is again setting up shop at the shore.

And the idea of television crews taking over a two-story vacation home on the Boardwalk for the summer isn't playing well with people who live here.

For nearly a month, they've watched as the music video channel has been converting a beach block house into "The MTV Summer Share," a television production studio that will serve as MTV's remote location all summer.

Borough officials call it a coup that will bring millions of dollars worth of unpaid advertising to the town and its honky-tonk Boardwalk.

Residents are worried about curiosity seekers clogging traffic or worse.

They don't want a repeat of what happened six years ago in Belmar, where fights broke out following an oceanfront rap concert. Shop windows were smashed and cars were vandalized. Twenty-eight people were arrested.

"The place is gridlocked as it is in summer," resident Darrell Salter said. "With MTV in town, it'll bring in that many more thousands of people."

The 40-person production crew arrived here in late April and has leased two buildings on a beach block next to the Board-

"We're trying to do what people do," said Bob Kusbit, senior vice president for production. "Most of America gets a week or two of vacation and packs up and goes to the beach. We wanted a nice, warm vacation spot, someplace we could sit on the beach and walk the Boardwalk like the rest of America."

Vecjays will introduce videos from the site, celebrities will drop in for interviews or "minor performances," and a dance party is scheduled to be filmed Thursday, but all the activity is for the cameras and the TV audience, not the passersby, Kusbit said.

"Hundreds to thousands" of locals will be cast in roles on the set through the summer, either as dancers, members of the network's "12 Angry Viewers" video review panel or other jobs, he

Security guards and a Seaside Heights police officer will maintain 24-hour security at the site, borough spokesman Michael Redpath said.

Visitors will be welcome to have a look at the site, but shouldn't expect to see concerts.
