Remodeling Of Refectory Set For Pomerene

Pomerene Refectory will be closed this fall while the kitchen and dining room are being remodeled.

A snack bar will open at 9:30 tomorrow morning in Pomerene Grand Lounge. Lunches will be served from 11 until 1:30 p.m. daily. From 1:30 to 4 p.m. students can get snacks.

ALL THE FURNITURE has been removed from the Grand Lounge and tables and chairs have been set up. Students will be able to use the lounge for study just as in the past, says Mrs. Agnes Smith, manager of the refectory.

A small kitchenette beside the Grand Lounge will be used to prepare soups, sandwiches and coffee. Mrs. Smith says they hope the lounge will serve the same purpose as the dining room downstairs.

The refectory kitchen and dining room will be repainted and new lighting will be installed during the remodeling project.

RONALD POLLOCK, University Assistant Business Manager, said the refectory will open as soon as possible, but may not be ready before Winter Quarter.

"It is difficult to predict because in remodeling projects the workmen never know what problems they will run into," he said.

The Ohio Union cafeteria will operate with an increased staff until the Pomerene cafeteria reopens, according to Wendell W. Ellenwood, Ohio Union director. Expecting a heavy increase in cafeteria traffic, Ellenwood recommends that students buy their meals early, before 11:30 a.m. for lunch and before 5:00 for dinner, to avoid long lines.

LANTERN MEETING

There will be a meeting at 4 p.m. today in the LANTERN newsroom in the Journalism Building of all students enrolled in Journalism 509, 613, or 615.

Any student of sophomore standing or above who wishes to work on the LANTERN should attend this meeting.

Flemming To Talk In Mershon Secretary Kennedy-VP Here Tonight Debate Slated

Secretary Arthur S. Fleming of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare will address the 1960 convocation of the Colleges of Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy and Veterinary Medicine and the School of Nursing today.

The assembly will be held at 8 p.m. in Mershon Auditorium. Members of the five incoming classes and their parents; the upper class members of the schools; their faculties and deans, and other officials of the University will attend.

The first floor of the auditorium is reserved for students and faculty of the four colleges and the School of Nursing.

The deans and faculty members of the five health science schools will attend in processions, wearing

The first formal campaign debate between Senator John F. Kennedy and Vice-President Richard Nixon will be shown live on big screen television in Mershon Auditorium at 9:30 tonight following the 1960 convocation of the Colleges of Dentistry, Medicine, Pharmacy and Veterinary Medicine.

The program will be picked up by WOSU-TV and broadcast on an 8 by 12-foot screen on the Mershon stage to accommodate the audience attending the convocation exercises. The sound portion will be piped into the auditorium's public address system.

The debate, first of a series to be held between the two presidential aspirants, will be aired by all television and radio networks in the United States.

University Housing Policy Is Changed

Operators of off-campus rooming houses who have been proved to discriminate against students on the basis of race, color, creed or national origin no longer will receive registration privileges from the Dean of Men's and Women's Offices.

* Under a procedure announced by the administration in July, the following steps will be used to implement the new housing policy:

1. A STUDENT who feels he is being discriminated against may fill out a complaint form that is available in the offices of the Deans of Men and Women.

2. The deans' staffs will make a prompt investigation of the complaint.

3. The decision of whether to remove a specific landlord from the registration list then will be made by Executive Dean William Guthrie and the Deans of Men and Women.

THE DRIVE to de-list landlords who discriminate began last fall after a Negro student wrote a letter to the LANTERN complaining he was discriminated against by area landlords because he was a Negro.

In the months that followed, scores of students and faculty members petitioned the University administration to withdraw regi-

Nitschke Services Scheduled

Funeral services for John F. Nitschke III, Med-3, who was drowned in a canoe accident on a fishing and hunting trip in Canada last Thursday, will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Schoedinger funeral home.

NITSCHKE and two other medical students, Richard A. Bell and Kenneth C. Snyder, were trying to shoot some ducks when their canoe upset in a cross current of the Mississauga River north of Thessalon, Ontario, his mother said.

Mrs. Nitschke said her son was wearing heavy hunting trousers and boots which apparently were filled with water while he was trying to recover the aluminum canoe.

Bell, wearing light shoes, was able to swim ashore. A fisherman arrived in time to rescue Snyder,

Increased Enrollment Puts Strain On Housing

An enrollment of nearly 1,500 more new students this fall over the figure a year ago has put an additional strain on campus housing arrangements according to the offices of the Dean of Men and the Dean of Women.

Twice as many women's organized rooming houses have been established this year in comparison with last year. Nearly 693 women students fill the 60 rooming houses as compared to 398 in 30 houses last year.

ACCORDING TO Miss Ruth Weimer, associate dean of women, several hundred more women were processed for housing arrangements than were handled a year ago last fall. This overflow has been channeled to the rooming houses and private homes leaving the dormitories filled to capacity, but considerably less crowded than was the case in the Fall Quarter of 1959.

to capacity, but considerably less crowded than was the case in the Fall Quarter of 1959.

Siebert Hall is the one exception with 449 women students squeezing into rooms designed to accommodate 385. Two ironing rooms have been converted to house students on an emergency basis.

Doubles have been converted to triples in all of the women's residence halls and singles are non-existent in Siebert.

"HOWEVER WE will use no public rooms in the dormitories such as lounges, study areas and TV rooms, for student housing," Dean of Women Christine Y. Conway said. "Even though the indi-

SOLUTION TO DORM CROWDING?—One of three groups of buildings in the proposed 15-unit men's housing areas pictured above includes a multi-story structure housing 500 men, three four-story buildings, each housing 200, and a separate building with kitchen, dining, study, laundry and recreational facilities. Initially the University plans to construct two of the four-story buildings and half of one dining hall structure at an estimated cost of $880,000.

More And More Delays

We are very disappointed to be told that President Fawcett has "no immediate plans" to forward to the Board of Trustees last June's unanimous Faculty Council recommendation calling for a voluntary ROTC program at Ohio State.

As reported in a news story this morning, Vice President John Mount said that the proposal is being delayed until some details of the recommendation, such as cost and substitute courses, can be further studied.

To a person new to this campus, this would seem only logical. Certainly, before any major curriculum change is made, one would expect university officials to review the proposed change thoroughly.

But voluntary ROTC studies at Ohio State have been going on for nearly two years and we are tired of being told that more studies are needed.

And these studies that have been made cannot be described in the least as superficial. One need only read the minutely documented report of the Council on Instruction last April to see how thoroughly the matter was reviewed.

Concrete facts were presented to show why voluntary ROTC should be inaugurated at Ohio State—such as a statement from the Department of Defense that a military requirement no longer exists for compulsory ROTC.

Furthermore, the report spelled out in general terms the work which students would be required to complete in place of basic ROTC.

Yet President Fawcett, in a statement last July, said he would not forward the Faculty Council recommendation to the Board of Trustees until he has more information about the substitute courses.

Now we honestly are not so concerned about the "suffering" that freshmen and sophomores will have to go through in ROTC classes. We are sure they will survive.

But we are very concerned about some students who could make their contribution to national security without taking ROTC. They are the students who will be the "soldiers" in the battle already being fought so fiercely in the science laboratories.

Forcing these students to take ROTC only detracts from valuable time they could spend in McPherson Laboratory, the New Physics Building, and Robinson Lab, preparing to defend this country just as vigorously as our future officers in the armed forces.

And let's clear up once and for all the notion that those students who do not wish to take ROTC are any less patriotic than those enrolled in the program.

We believe John U. Monro, dean of Harvard College, Harvard University, had the right reply for this at a two-day ROTC conference here in June:

"It is a preposterous and disruptive notion . . . that a student in ROTC is thereby a more useful and dedicated citizen than his classmate who is not. Indeed it is quite possible that a badly conceived or badly managed ROTC program could do more harm than good to our students' feels of respect and obligation for military service. Let us just note, and then pass on, that in our country there are many ways of being patriotic, and that no group has a monopoly."

One final point. In recent weeks, various veterans' groups, including the Ohio Executive Committee of the American Legion, have commended Ohio State for retaining compulsory ROTC. But as far as we are concerned, Ohio State does not need such commendations.

When these various pressure groups have made as thorough a study of ROTC as several University committees have, and when these same groups learn that compulsory ROTC no longer is needed, then we will respect their commendations.

We particularly hope that President Fawcett, and the Board of Trustees, will not let these veterans' organizations influence their final decision. We sincerely hope that they will listen, instead, to the experienced voices on our Faculty Council which have unanimously recommended that compulsory ROTC be abolished at Ohio State.

In our opinion, the time to decide this important issue is during the present quarter. This would leave several months to make the necessary curricula and financial adjustments before the next fall term begins. It also would allow plenty of time to tell high school seniors about the new program.

Football Tickets...

To the Editor:

I recently went through the annual unpleasantness of getting season football tickets at Ohio State.

After waiting sometime in line at St. John Arena, I finally reached the clerk, handed in a check for $24 and said I'd like two seats in Sect. 13-C (as I had heard they were still available).

Her first question was: "Let's see the marriage license." Now I usually carry it with me in my left hip pocket, but that morning I had changed my trousers, and alas, did not have the precious document with me. I produced a joint checking account with the names of my wife and I on the checks, also my daughter's picture, also the Family Blue Cross Medical card, even my worn fatherly looks — all to no avail.

So back home it was, and after frantic searching returned with the signed and sealed evidence of connubiality, and presented it to the inquisitor.

By now she had softened me up for blow No. 2. I now reiterated my desire for 2 seats in C deck. "But that's not possible, sir; all married students must sit in B-9. That's the penalty you must pay for being married, tee-hee-hee." Fortunately someone had placed strong metal bars between the tormented and the tormentor.

Of course the clerks are only following the rules given them, but

Kennedy Hits Republican Money Policy As Too Tight

CLEVELAND — (P) — Sen. John F. Kennedy charged yesterday that Republican tight money policy had caught "millions of Americans in a squeeze of costs rising faster than income."

In a speech prepared for the annual steer roast of Cuyahoga County Democrats, the Democratic Presidential nominee said Republicans have ignored their 1952 campaign promises to reduce living costs.

THE RESULTING inflation, Kennedy declared, "hurts most of all those whom the Republican brand of prosperity has left far behind."

The Massachusetts Senator glibed at his GOP rival, Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, for his role as head of President Eisenhower's cabinet anti-inflation committee.

He noted that the New York Times called the anti-inflation assignment Nixon's "first formal major executive role," designed to give the Vice President "experience."

"TODAY, AS the 1960 campaign goes on, we hear a lot about experience — but somehow the committee is never mentioned," Kennedy said.

"We hear a lot about how well off we are under Republican rule — but the cost of living is never mentioned.

"But I intend to mention the high cost of living every week of this campaign. The American consumer and the American housewife may have been forgotten by the Republican leaders — but they have not forgotten the promises those same leaders made in 1952."

THE SENATOR interrupted his preparations for tonight's all-networks television duel, with Nixon in Chicago, to fly to Cleveland for the annual whinging at Euclid Beach Park on Lake Erie.

As the Kennedy plane landed at Lakefront Airport, Deputy Police Inspector Carl Bare estimated there were 1,000 to greet the candidate.

TIGHT MONEY has boosted the interest charges on a 30-year, $10,000 mortgage by $3,300 since President Eisenhower took office, Kennedy said. The Republican administration refused meantime, he said, to ease the credit-tightening policies or support "legislation to encourage new housing."

"They refused recognize that rents had gone up 20 per cent — so that too many families were paying out too much in renting a home to put aside enough to buy a home," he went on.

"A new Democratic administration must act in 1961."

REPORT To The Campus

VOLUME III NUMBER 8

MAJOR ACTIONS BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES ON SEPT. 9, 1960

Dr. Garrett Becomes Chemistry Chairman

Promotion of Dr. Alfred B. Garrett, 162 Erie Rd., to the chairmanship of the University's department of chemistry received approval of the Board.

Professor Garrett, who joined the faculty in 1935, was named acting chairman of chemistry after the death of Dr. Harvey V. Moyer on Aug. 5, 1959. The promotion will become effective Oct. 1.

Noted for his research in electrochemistry and radiochemistry, Dr. Garrett is the author of nearly 100 articles on his studies as well as a number of other scientific publications.

He has been prominent in the work of national scientific organizations. He has served as a lecturer for the National Science Foundation Visiting Scientists program since 1956. Dr. Garrett's memberships include the Committee on Chemical Education of the American Chemical Society, and he served on another committee which planned the restudy of the high school chemistry curriculum. In addition, the Ohio State faculty member was chairman of a subcommittee which, under auspices of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, made recommendations for the training of science teachers.

A native of Glencoe, O., he holds the bachelor's degree from Muskingum College and the master's and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio State.

On the campus, he has headed the general chemistry division and has served on a number of important boards and committees. In 1958 he was named "Professor of the Year" by students of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. Richard H. Bohning, 3031 Greenvale Dr., Worthington, associate professor in the department of botany and plant pathology, was promoted to the additional part-time post of assistant dean, College of Agriculture and Home Economics, effective Oct. 1.

Professor Bohning serves also as campus coordinator of the college's educational and research project in India, conducted under contract with the International Cooperation Administration.

In the assistant deanship, Dr. Bohning will coordinate the graduate programs of the college and the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, develop programs for staff improvement and sponsored research, and develop other educational and research programs in the plant science areas.

He is a graduate of the University of Rhode Island and holds two degrees from Ohio State, where he has been a faculty member since 1946.

Dr. Chester C. Winter of the department of surgery, University of California Medical Center, Los Angeles, was appointed professor of surgery and head of the division of urology in Ohio State's College of Medicine. The urologist is a native of Cazenovia, N. Y., and holds the bachelor's and M.D. degrees from the State University of Iowa.

Dr. Robert D. Henthorne, Rockville, Md., was named director of laboratory animal facility on the campus, effective Sept. 15. Until recently the chief of the Animal Laboratory Division of Microbiological Associates, Inc., Bethesda, Md., he formerly headed the Department of Animal Research and Development of the U.S. Naval Radiological Defense Laboratories, San Francisco, in 1956-57; was chief of the animal husbandry division, Walter Reed Army Medical Center, for three years, and chief of the veterinary branch, U.S. Army Chemical Center, Bethesda, also for three years. A 1943 graduate of Ohio State's College of Veterinary Medicine, he won the 1959 Charles A. Griffin Award in recognition for his contributions in promoting and developing high standards for production and use of disease-free animals. At Ohio State he will supervise the care, housing and use of laboratory animals throughout the campus.

Appointments also included:

School of Social Work—Helen J. Graham, assistant professor, and Mary Ann Saucier, assistant professor (part time) and assistant director for social work training, Medical Social Service Division, University Hospital.

Office of University Relations—Robert M. Boyce, assistant editor, News and Information Service.

Other personnel actions announced included the retirement, to become effective Sept. 30, of John D. Bragg, 258 E. Dunedin Rd., administrative secretary, College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Among faculty receiving leaves of absence were: John G. Daunt, professor, physics and astronomy, which is deposited for use by the University's Student Oct. 1-Jan. 31, to conduct research at the University under grants-in-aid from the Linde Company and the National Science Foundation.

John J. Duffey, associate professor, College of Law, Oct. 1-Dec. 31, to fill the judgeship of the 10th District Court of Appeals.

Ira A. Gould, professor and chairman, dairy technology, Sept. 1-Oct. 31, to conduct a study for the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF).

George F. Henning, professor, agricultural economics and rural sociology, Sept. 1-Oct. 31, to take an I.C.A. assignment in agricultural marketing in Turkey.

John T. Krause, instructor, history, extension of leave through Sept. 30, 1961, to continue work under a Rockefeller Foundation grant.

Norman Kretzmann, assistant professor, philosophy, Oct. 1-Sept. 30, 1961, to accept a visiting assistant professorship in philosophy at the University of Illinois.

Carl E. Nielsen, associate professor, physics and astronomy, Oct. 1-Sept. 30, 1961, to conduct research with the Midwestern Universities Research Association (MURA) at Madison, Wis.

Jacob W. Old, associate professor, pathology, Sept. 12-23, to visit pathology departments and present papers in Europe.

Richard W. Stow, associate professor, medicine, Sept. 1-June 30, 1961, to accept a Fulbright Lectureship.

Gerald Westheimer, associate professor, School of Optometry, Oct. 1-Sept. 30, 1961, to accept a visiting associate professorship at the University of California School of Optometry.

Law Center Corporation Authorized

The dean and two faculty members of Ohio State's College of Law were designated to be among incorporators of a non-profit corporation to be formed for management of the law center soon to be built on the campus.

The Ohio State Bar Association and the Ohio State Bar Association Foundation also were to name three representatives each.

On recommendation of President Fawcett, the Trustees approved appointment of Prof. Frank R. Strong, Law dean and director of legal research; Prof. Robert J. Nordstrom, associate dean; and Prof. Ervin H. Pollack, director of research service, as incorporators.

Primary purposes of the corporation, Dr. Fawcett said, will be the formation and administration of programs of legal research and continuing legal education. He added that when completed, provisions for the general organization and operation of the new corporation will be subject to the Trustees' approval.

Recommended contract awards totalling $493,112 for construction of the Law Center Building also were reported to the Trustees. Funds for the project are being provided by the Ohio State Bar Association Foundation.

Garwick and Ross, Inc., Columbus, was low bidder at $431,730 on the general contract for the structure, to be built on the south side of W. 11th Ave., near the College of Law Building. Other low bidders were: plumbing, The Gesling Co., Lancaster, O., $26,085, and electrical contract, Gustav Hirsch Org., Columbus, $35,297.

The building will have three stories and a one-story wing. It will house the statewide continuing legal education and research programs developed and conducted jointly by the Ohio State Bar Association, the Foundation, and the College of Law, with the cooperation of other legal groups. The Bar Association also will have its headquarters in the building.

Three Receive Emeritus Titles

The Trustees conferred emeritus titles on three long-time faculty members whose University service totals 106 years.

Retiring October 1 are Roderick D. Barden, professor emeritus and chairman, department of agricultural engineering; Arthur H. Smith, assistant professor emeritus, Agricultural Extension Service, and M. Emmett Wilson, professor emeritus, School of Music.

Professor Barden, 1019 Dublin Rd., chairman of his department since 1955, joined the University staff in 1924 as an extension agricultural engineer. In 1946 he became professor of agricultural engineering and from 1951 to 1954 was acting director of the School of Aviation and of the University Airport. A native of Wayne County, he has done special work in the application of airplanes to agricultural practices.

Professor Smith, 917 Kinnear Rd., joined the staff

Major actions by the Board of Trustees at its meeting Friday, September 9, on Gibraltar Island at Put-In-Bay, Ohio, are contained in "Report To The Campus." Prepared by the staff of the Office of University Relations, "Report" provides more details of Trustees' actions than newspaper, radio or television reports of the meeting ordinarily can include.

37 years ago as a county agricultural extension agent. He served eight counties in that capacity, including Marion County for 12 years and Washington County for 10. In 1954 he came to the campus as an assistant professor. A pioneer in extension radio work, he presently is assistant extension editor of radio and heard on a farm program over WOSU, the University station.

Dr. Wilson, 594 Overbrook Dr., joined the faculty in 1927 as an associate professor of instrumental music. In 1933 he was promoted to professor. His music appreciation courses over the past several years are well known to listeners of WOSU. A native of Oshkosh, Wis., he held a number of university positions before coming to Ohio State from the University of Chicago. He is an accomplished student of piano, organ and composition and is author of three books and numerous articles in music publications. In 1952-53 he was an exchange professor at the University of London.

Study Of Teaching By TV Authorized

The Trustees approved an appropriation of $25,500 for a new research study of television as a teaching medium.

The appropriation, recommended by President Fawcett, will be used to equip a studio and classroom on the campus as they would be used in an educational television teaching situation.

"In the opinion of many educators," President Fawcett said, "research in educational television has been somewhat sterile in terms of finding answers to some of the very basic questions about television as a teaching medium."

President Fawcett said the research project has been outlined by Professors Delos D. Wickens, research associate in psychiatry, and Egon G. Guba, Bureau of Educational Research and Service, working with Richard B. Hull, director of telecommunication.

The project will tackle the question of what part the presence of the teacher has in the learning process and related questions.

A closed-circuit television studio will be set up probably in Derby Hall, in which Professor Wickens will teach psychology 401 to a class of students during the Winter Quarter.

Television cameras in the studio-classroom will pick up his instruction and pipe it to rooms where other classes will receive the same instruction, without a teacher present.

After a period, some of the students will switch places between the studio and the television classroom. Other students will receive only the television instruction for the entire quarter.

Tests will be given all the students, and the effect which the teaching process has on the students will be measured. Success of the experiment may determine whether classes may be taught by means of television.

Equipping the studio for the project will require special wiring for the cameras, increased lighting, and improvement of acoustics.

Mershon Income Used For Scholarships Increased

A recommendation for transfer of $225,000 for research fellowships, assistants, and grants-in-aid for 1960-61 received approval from the Board. The sum represented an increase of $35,000 over last year's total.

Transfer of $140,000 from non-restricted Mershon Fund income to support University scholarships during 1960-61 was approved. Last year the amount was $126,000.

The Mershon Fund was established in 1952 through a $7¼ million bequest from the late Col. Ralph D. Mershon, who specified that half the fund's income be applied to support of civilian military training and education.

The Board also approved a transfer of $30,000 to the Ohio State University Press for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Two operating budgets for the current year were approved—$126,400 for the Commission on Traffic and Parking and $125,000 for the Development Fund.

Revenue for the traffic and parking budget, $13,700 below last year's total, is provided from parking permits and paid parking facilities. Largest items for which this income will be spent are police and salaries and wages, $73,500, and maintenance and improvement of parking lots, $22,400. Not included in the traffic and parking budget is an anticipated income of $40,000 from traffic and parking fines, all of Financial Aids Office.

The Development Fund budget was $2,128,041 higher than last year's total. The current figure includes a University appropriation of $85,000, with the remainder provided from interest on investments.

During the last calendar year, $1,411,061 was contributed to University projects through the Development Fund.

Also appropriated was $8,000 from contributed funds for use by The Ohio State University Association during 1960-61.

Two New Funds Will Aid Study of Blood Diseases

The Board accepted two gifts through the Development Fund for medical research.

A gift of $6,199 was for the Dr. Bruce Kenneth Wiseman Memorial Fund, established last August 19, and a gift of $1,068 went to the Lois H. Carr Memorial Fund, established last July 16. The income from both funds goes for hematological research (the study of blood and its diseases).

Dr. Wiseman, who died last March 15, was a professor and chairman of the University's department of medicine. He was internationally known for his work in hematology.

Dr. Wiseman came to Ohio State in 1931 as assistant professor of medicine and assistant medical research director. In 1938 he was made professor and in 1944 he became chairman of the department of medicine.

Mrs. Carr, of Terrace Park near Cincinnati, died last year. She was the wife of Robert J. Carr, who has been active in Cincinnati alumni work.

Robinson Lab Contracts Recommended to Trustees

Recommended contract awards totaling $787,099 for major remodeling of Robinson Laboratory were reported to the Board.

Built in 1908, Robinson Laboratory houses the University's department of mechanical engineering. The modernization of facilities will increase classrooms, undergraduate laboratories, research laboratories and graduate student facilities. Work also will include acoustical isolation of classrooms and offices from laboratory areas. Conversion of space formerly occupied by electrical engineering will increase the mechanical engineering department's area by some 40 per cent. The building will have newly designed entrances on the south and east sides.

Low bidders on the Robinson Laboratory project, all from Columbus, were:

General contract, Werner Construction Co., $397,772; heating and ventilating, Dotter, Inc., $199,900; plumbing, Huffman-Wolfe Co., $60,350; and electrical, Pence Electric Co., $129,077.

Also reported to the Board were award recommendations for contracts totaling $138,560.85 for remodeling of University Hospital's air conditioning system. Low bidders were The Kuempel Co., Columbus, $129,750, for the heating, ventilating and air conditioning contract, and Tanenbaum Electric Co., Columbus, $8,810.85, for electrical work.

Projects for which plans and specifications were approved by the Trustees included the first phase of remodeling the Administration Building's third floor over the atrium and conversion of space at the north end of the Stadium Dormitory area for use by the Marching Band. George M. Clark, Columbus architect, was employed for services on the Administration Building project.

Gordon B. Carson, vice president, business and finance, was authorized to proceed with purchase of three properties north of the campus. They were:

178 W. Woodruff Ave., from Victor Investment Co. at $13,000; 152 W. Woodruff Ave., from Robert W. Hall and Betty Keating, $14,000; and 71-73 W. Frambes Ave., from Roy V. Chapin et al., $18,000.

Graduate Program Grows At Wright Field Center

Beginning this fall, a "limited number" of non-Air Force students will be enrolled for graduate courses at the University's Wright Field Graduate Center at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton.

President Fawcett reported to the Trustees that an agreement had been reached with the Air Force on plans for expanding the graduate program at the base. The University has maintained the Graduate Center there under Air Force sponsorship since 1946.

Dr. Fawcett said arrangements had been made with the Air Force "...whereby a limited number of qualified non-Air Force students may enroll for graduate courses on a 'space available' basis, effective Autumn Quarter, 1960." Autumn classes begin Sept. 26.

The non-Air Force students will pay the University's regular off-campus graduate fee of $18 per credit hour, plus a laboratory fee not to exceed $12 per credit hour. Such fees will be credited to the Air Force contract for maintaining the entire program.

Since its establishment, more than 1,300 students have enrolled in graduate courses at the Center, and Dr. Fawcett said that for a number of years various Dayton industries had registered "a strong interest" in having the program expanded.

"One year ago representatives of the Dayton Chamber of Commerce formally requested the University to give consideration to opening the Graduate Center program to all qualified students in the Dayton area," he said.

"Based upon this request, the University's Committee on Off-Campus Education authorized Official study to determine the feasibility of such a program. Upon the completion of this study, the committee adopted resolutions recommending that such a program be established, if an agreement mutually acceptable to the Air Force and this University could be achieved."

The Ohio State president said also that "a longer-range and more satisfactory solution ... may lead to the establishment of a permanent University facility owned by the University in which Air Force and non-Air Force students would participate on an equal basis."

He added: "The decision to take this step, however, will depend largely upon the experience and information gained during the coming year."

As originally conceived, Ohio State's Wright Field program was to provide advanced course work in the area of communications — electrical engineering, mathematics and physics. Since that time, the program has been gradually expanded in scope so that course work is now available in aeronautical engineering, business organization, chemical engineering, chemistry, economics, electrical engineering, industrial engineering, mathematics, mechanical engineering, metallurgical engineering, physics and astronomy, and psychology.

Ohio State's representatives on the Dayton Area Graduate Center Advisory Committee are Dr. Everett Walters, dean of the Graduate School, chairman; Prof. Edward Q. Moulton, assistant dean; and Prof. Robert B. Miner, chairman, department of business organization. Representing the Air Force are John Keto, Edward Ward and George Albery. Dayton Chamber of Commerce representatives are R. E. Kline, M. D. Young and E. A. Gorham. Ex-officio member is Ohio State's Dr. Kenneth J. Arisman, director of off-campus education.

Experiment Station Names Two Assistant Directors

Several changes in organization of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, including changes in titles for two administrative officers, were announced Sept. 10 by Director Roy M. Kottman, following approval by the Station's Board of Control (Board of Trustees).

Named as assistant directors of the Experiment Station were Dr. T. S. Sutton, associate dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at the University and part-time member of the Station staff, and Dr. Robert E. Yoder, now supervisor of field operations at the Station.

Director Kottman said the new titles for Drs. Sutton and Yoder would bring their authority more in line with their responsibilities. In addition to his College duties, Dr. Sutton will be responsible for the Station's research program on the Ohio State campus. Dr. Yoder will supervise field research at the main station in Wooster and on the outlying experimental farms. Both will be responsible to Associate Director W. E. Krauss who will be in direct liaison between all Station activities and Director Kottman.

The director, associate director, two assistant directors, and Business Manager H. A. Hesson, will constitute the Director's Cabinet which will serve as the policy-making body of the Station, Dr. Kottman said.

In requesting approval of the Board of Control for the organizational changes, Director Kottman, who is also Dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Ohio State, said he felt the changes "would make for logical and efficient administration." He said they had been under study since January when his appointment was announced. He became Dean and Director June 1.

Director Kottman said some of the shifts in organization and administrative responsibilities were necessitated by the announced resignation of John D. Bragg, administrative secretary, as of September 30, 1960. All appointments and changes are effective October 1.

In other actions approved by the Board of Control, a department of agricultural biochemistry was established at Wooster "to extend the pattern of organization of departments of the Station "to this subject matter area. Dr. Fred E. Deatherage, chairman of Ohio State's department of agricultural biochemistry, was named to serve as chairman of the counterpart department at the Station.

Dr. R. H. Bohning, campus coordinator for the University's agricultural education and research mission to India, was given responsibility for liaison between Station staff and the Graduate School of the University. He was recommended by President Fawcett for appointment as assistant dean of the College at the concurrent meeting of the Ohio State Board of Trustees on Sept. 9.

In the belief that personnel directly responsible for research activities should be associated with subject matter departments, Director Kottman recommended that Associate Director Krauss be appointed professor in the department of dairy science and that Assistant Director Yoder be appointed professor in the department of agronomy. He pointed out that these departments encompass subject matter areas representing the fields of specialization of the two administrators.

Drs. Sutton, Bohning, and Deatherage are residents of the Columbus area. Dr. Yoder and Dr. Krauss reside in Wooster.

TV Editor Named Aide To Agricultural Dean

Robert P. Worrall, Extension television editor at Michigan State University, has been named an assistant to Dr. Roy M. Kottman, dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at the University and director of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster.

Worrall's appointment, approved by the Trustees and the Board of Control of the experiment station will become effective October 1, 1960. His duties will involve assisting Dr. Kottman in the planning, coordination, and direction of information and educational activities of both the College and Experiment Station. He will be located at Columbus and will be a staff member of the Department of Agricultural Education.

A native of Chesterhill (Morgan County), Ohio, Worrall joined MSU's Department of Information Services in September, 1954. He is in charge of television production for the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service and assists in training specialists and county Extension agents in communication.

Worrall, 39, received a B.S. in agricultural education from Ohio State University in 1947 and a master of science degree in agricultural journalism at the University of Wisconsin in 1953. He is now completing work toward a Ph.D. degree in adult education at MSU.

Before going to Michigan State, he served in Ohio as associate Extension agent in Belmont County from 1947 to 1951; associate county agent in Franklin County from 1951 to 1953, and assistant State 4-H club leader from 1953 to 1954.

OSU Chemist Wins Prize

Prof. Melvin S. Newman of the Ohio State chemistry faculty has received a $1,000 prize from the American Chemical Society for his work in synthetic organic chemistry. The award was made in New York City at the society's national meeting earlier this month.

Dr. Newman is internationally known for his work on the mechanisms of organic reactions and on the structure of molecules.

Early this year he won a $50,000 research grant from the Petroleum Research Fund, which is administered by the American Chemical Society.

He has been an Ohio State faculty member since 1936, and a professor since 1944. He has held a number of offices in professional organizations and has contributed several articles.

In 1956 he was elected to the National Academy of Science, a distinction then held by only five Ohioans, including one other Ohio State chemist.

A native of New York City, he received a B.S. degree from Yale University in 1929 and Ph.D. from Yale in 1932. During 1956-57, he conducted research and lectured at the University of Glasgow in Scotland under a Fulbright grant.

FOLK DANCING

Folk dancing classes are now in progress at the Whetstone Recreation Center. The first hour of the evening classes is devoted to instruction and then folk dances of various countries will be featured.

Any students having first hand information on folk dances from other countries are urged to contact the leaders at AX 1-3608 or AM 7-2249.

FRESHMEN NEEDED

The 1961 Makio is extending a call to freshmen interested in becoming staff members.

No previous experience is necessary for office jobs which include typing, filing, mass mailing, writing copy, sales, promotion and advertising.

Interested students are urged to visit room 312 of the Ohio Union.

Big Ten Football Scores

With the first week of the Big Ten football season past, most of the teams the experts predicted to be winners came through — that is, with the exception of Michigan State, and they had to settle for a 7-7 tie with Pittsburgh.

Here's what happened to the teams of the league:

Ohio State 24, SMU 0
Michigan 21, Oregon 0
Illinois 17, Indiana 6
Purdue 27, UCLA 27
Iowa 22, Oregon State 12
Minnesota 26, Nebraska 14
Northwestern 19, Oklahoma 3
Wisconsin 24, Stanford 7
Michigan State 7, Pitt 7

This Week's Schedule

Ohio State—Southern California
Michigan State—Michigan
Illinois—West Virginia
Iowa—Northwestern
Purdue—Notre Dame
Minnesota—Indiana

Hats Doffed After Bucks Defeat SMU

By Frank Evans

The Buckeyes football train, back on the victory trail the first time in four games, (last season ended with a tie and two defeats) couldn't have picked a more appropriate day to win than Saturday.

For their coach Woody Hayes was beginning his 10th year as boss of the Scarlet and Gray.

And while the Bucks' 24-0 win over the Mustangs is still fresh in our minds, let's take a quick glance at Saturday's action and try to give a "tip of the hat" award to standouts.

BEST DEFENSIVE BACK — Jim Herbstreit, a little guy who weighs 155 pounds but hits like a 200-pounder on defense. His two interceptions set up two Buckeye scores.

BEST LINEBACKER — Mike Ingram. Like one of the players on the SMU bench said, "who is this guy Ingram? I don't know what his number is — but he sure is all over that field." Mike's recovered fumble in the first period set up Ohio State's second score.

BEST FIELD GENERAL — Tom Matte. His control of the team and his well-called game should indicate to Buckeye fans that "if the Bucks are to fake out the so-called experts and land right on top of the heap in the Big Ten Conference, it will depend a lot on the crewcut No. 41 quarterback."

BEST RUNNER — Bob Ferguson. They're still talking about the way he carried the Mustang's Frank Jackson on his back for 15 yards in the third period. Although the Bucks failed to show off their halfbacks Saturday, it looks from here that Ferguson, boasting tremendous speed and power, could very well end up the season being rated with the best runners in the country.

Let's not forget Roger Detrick, either. He carried 16 times, two times more than Ferguson. Detrick gained 48 yards and his bulldozing touchdown in the second period was an example of complete

THE COMPLETE OHIO STATE DEFENSIVE TEAM — They halted the Mustangs every time they had the ball. The Bucks defensive club, smaller than the usual big elephants we're used to seeing, deserves the tip of the hat award as the guys with guts.

BEST DRESSED TEAM — No

doubt w'd have to pick the candy-striped band of SMU. Their half-time show was great and no doubt the band is one of the finest to ever visit here.

THE OHIO STATE MARCHING BAND — What can you say about them that already hasn't been said? They're great.

Foreign Students Learn About University At Camp

Eighty new international students were introduced to the peculiarities of life at Ohio State last week at Camp Akita, some 50 miles southeast of Columbus. The camp, held Monday through Wednesday was sponsored by the Downtown Kiwanis Club and the First Community Church of Columbus.

The students, who come from 29 different nations, including Lebanon, Ghana, Brazil and India, were acquainted with American campus life by a group of American and international student counselors and staff, through panels and discussion-groups.

THE STUDENTS assembled last Monday in the Ohio Union East Ballroom, where the downtown Kiwanis Club sponsored a luncheon and were welcomed to Ohio State by Dean William S. Guthrie.

Arriving at the camp in buses, the students assembled for panel discussions on student life, administrative procedures and a variety of other subjects of special interest to international students.

Entertainment filled the evenings with the new international students presenting an impromptu 90-minute grand spectacular on Tuesday, in which they performed songs and dances from their native countries.

On Wednesday morning the group returned to Columbus, where the new international students completed their entrance procedures.

The organization of the camp was in the hands of Associate Dean Robert A. Oetjen, of the College of Arts and Sciences; Miss Ruth C. Bailey, international student adviser, and Dr. William D. Heintz.

Lenny Moore of the Baltimore Colts holds the team's all-time scoring record with 252 points.

stration privileges from discriminatory landlords.

Guthrie said last week that one landlord already has been de-listed since the new policy went into effect. He added that an investigation was completed and a decision reached within 24 hours after an informal complaint was made.

GUTHRIE SAID that this was the only complaint given to one of the deans' offices by a student this summer.

The implementation procedure was outlined by Vice President John Mount shortly after the Board of Trustees issued a statement which said in part, that the University "presumes" landlords will follow a non-discriminatory policy.

Parker 45

with America's Largest Ink Cartridge

14K GOLD POINT

Economical!

The New Parker 45 has the largest ink cartridge of them all. Long after other cartridges are dry, the big 45 cartridge goes on writing.

Exceptional Value!

It took Parker know-how to make possible the super-smooth stroke of a 14K gold point... at a price even a student can afford: only five dollars.

Looks Expensive!

Distinctive slim-swept styling from classic clip to the semi-hooded gold point gives the Parker 45 an air of elegance... that expensive look.

Neat-and-Easy To Fill!

Just slip in giant size spill-proof cartridge of Parker Super Quink ink. Overflow ink collector prevents leaking... keeps fingers, clothes and paper clean.

Choice of 7 Gold Points!

Select the point that fits your handwriting... from super-fine to extra-broad. It will be installed right at the pen counter.

6 Lustrous Colors!

Choose blue, black, green, red, charcoal, dusty-blue... with silvery Lustraloy cap. Be first to have this New Parker 45. Available here now with two giant cartridges free.

Objectives of Adjectives

Prof. Amour

A broad study of the adjective bon in syntax with bon soir, bon ami and bon grooming. Lecture on bon grooming with 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic illustrating the fact that 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic replaces oil that water removes. Examination of adverse effects on hair resulting from drying action of water compounded by hair creams and alcohol tonics. Exhibition of how bad grooming puts you out of context with the opposite sex. Special emphasis on how 'Vaseline' Hair Tonic keeps hair neater longer and attracts women as Paris does tourists. Homework drills on Saturday evenings stressing plurals rather than singulars. Course aims at getting along in any language... especially the language of love.

*Jeune filles prefer hommes who use
'Vaseline' Hair Tonic for bon grooming!*

TODAY ON CAMPUS

This Bulletin will be the official medium for all authorized announcements. Faculty and students—especially officials of all organizations—are requested to look to the Bulletin for information. University officials and executives will be guided by the Bulletin in preparing for meetings. In the interest of efficiency and to avoid conflicts, the following announcement is made: No meetings or functions of any sort will be permitted or provided for either on the campus or in the University buildings unless authorized and announced in the Daily Bulletin. The University assumes no responsibility for unauthorized or unannounced meetings. Notices should be at the office of the Executive Dean, Special Services, not later than three days, excluding Saturday and Sunday, before the date of publication. Notices of Monday's Bulletin must be received Wednesday morning.

academic robes. Faculty members who are participating in the procession should assemble at 7:45 p.m. in the Green Room of the auditorium.

Participating with Secretary Flemming in the program will be University President Novice G. Fawcett, Dean Charles A. Doan of the College of Medicine, Dean Wendell D. Postle of the College of Dentistry, Dean Lloyd M. Parks of the College of Pharmacy, Dean Walter R. Krill of the College of Veterinary Medicine, and Dr. Mildred E. Newton, director of the School of Nursing.

The College of Dentistry chorus under the direction of Howard W. Brettell will sing. Prof. Wilbur Held will play the Mershon organ.

ROTC Unaltered

quarter's freshmen would be given proper guidance about ROTC if the change were made, also caused the President to delay forwarding the motion to the Trustees.

Vice President John Mount told the LANTERN last week that the President does not plan to forward the recommendation in the "immediate future." He stressed that clarification was still being sought on various sections of the recommendation.

Admission Forms

Next year's application forms for admission to the University will not have references to religion and race as a result of a decision in the University Examiner's office this summer.

Philip P. Byers, assistant to the examiner, said that these questions will no longer be asked of incoming students. In addition, photographs will not be required for admission.
