

Democracy Is in Peril, Martin Tells 'Y' Group Says 'Confidence' Alone Cannot Save Our System

Professor Arthur J. Martin, recently appointed dean of the College of Law, declared Tuesday that the democratic form of government may not survive the present world crisis.

"Most of us are confident democracy should survive," Dean Martin asserted. "Some of us have considerable doubt that it can."

"Democracy assumes wide diffusion of responsibility and power. It cannot survive unless we have a large group educated to take that responsibility and discharge that duty properly."

Dean Martin, speaking before the organization meeting of the YMCA in the Ohio Union listed self-discipline, lasting friendships, and a formal education as the three fundamental values to be derived from a college education.

William M. Fumich, YMCA president, asserted the YMCA has a "unique position on the campus since it has both social and spiritual characteristics."

He explained the organization of the YMCA and listed the following committees and committee chairmen:

Boys' Club, Robert O. Smith; Conferences and Intercollegiate Relations, J. Ralston Werum; Foreign Students, Richard R. Zoppel; Interracial, Boris H. Clarke; Social Hygiene, Sidney P. Brooks; Religious Education, Joseph C. Hedges; Deputations, William S. Merrell; Speakers, William E. Wear; Publicity, James G. Bach; World Peace, Robert W. Foreman; Membership, Willard R. Durfey.

Silverman Starts OSPA Ball Rolling

Not to be outdone by national political tub-thumpers, Burt Silverman, A-4, of the Ohio Student Party Association, today started the campus political ball rolling with the following announcement:

"Due to our potency this year we are required to get an early start. Therefore OSPA will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 at the Zeta Beta Tau house. We are large and powerful and should retain our usual supremacy in the political field."

Batchelor to Speak at NRC

Dr. W. C. Batchelor of the School of Social Administration will attend the National Recreation Congress in Cleveland on Thursday, October 3. He will speak on the subject "Correlating Recreation Work of Public and Private Agencies."

"Engineer" Staff to Meet

An organization meeting of the editor and business staff of the Ohio State Engineer will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in room 403 of the Engineering Station. All interested are invited to attend.

High School Day Saturday; 15,000 Students to Attend

More than 15,000 high school students will descend upon the campus Saturday to experience college life with the attendant thrills of a Big Ten football game between Ohio State and Purdue. They will be guests of the University at its eighth annual High School Day.

The High School Day Committee, chairman of which is Bland L. Stradley, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and University Examiner, has returned to a schedule abandoned last year, that divides the students into two groups. Those from towns beginning with the letters "M" to "Z" will arrive Saturday. The "A" to "L" group program is set for Saturday, November 2, the day of the Ohio State-Indiana game.

The students will arrive in buses early Saturday morning. The morning will be devoted to an inspection of the campus with its classrooms and museums. Many of the departments have arranged special programs for the day. In the afternoon the pupils will attend the Ohio State-Purdue football game.

Meeting on the Long Walk the high school pupils will assemble in groups according to their different interests to be conducted by guides

Bevis to Attend Ohio Inaugural

With the inauguration of President Bevis set for October 24-25, Ohio State University will be represented this month at several other inaugurations.

President Bevis will represent Ohio State at Granville October 18 when Dr. Kenneth I. Brown is inaugurated as the new president of Denison University. Dr. Harvey Walker, department of political science, has been named by the University of Minnesota as its representative on that occasion.

Dean Bland L. Stradley of the Arts College and Dr. Grace S. M. Zorbaugh, associate dean of women, will represent Ohio State when Cedarville College formally installs Dr. Walter S. Kilpatrick as president on October 4.

Ohio State's representative this week at the inauguration of the new president of Hunter College, New York City, is Mrs. Lucy Allen Smart, of Forest Hills, Long Island.

Orchesis Activity to Begin

The members of Orchesis, interpretative dancing club, will hold its first meeting of the autumn quarter Wednesday, October 9, at 7:30 p. m. in the dancing room of Pomeroy Hall.

The first meeting of Junior Orchesis will be at 7 p. m., Tuesday, October 8, in the same place.

'No Politics' Bevis Warns

President Bevis warned officers, teachers, and employees of the University Tuesday that they are subject to restrictions on political activity imposed by the federal Hatch Act.

Dr. Bevis received an opinion on the subject from Guy Stanton Ford, president of the University of Minnesota, which is also a land grant college, supported partly by federal funds.

In a letter to Ohio State employees (printed today in the Official Bulletin, page four), Dr. Bevis points out that refusal of the University to dismiss an employee who violates the Hatch Law would cause it to suffer a reduction in Federal funds equal to twice the offender's annual salary.

Researchers Fight Disease

Paralysis Funds Bring New Developments

Although their problem is far from solved, two important developments of the past year have given encouragement to Ohio State research men seeking means of combating the dread poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis.

Dr. N. Paul Hudson and Dr. Oram C. Woolpert, of the department of bacteriology, and John L. Schwab, Grad, explain that one development, the discovery that rats are susceptible to one strain of virus, will greatly speed up their work, since previously monkeys were the experimental animals and they are hard to obtain. The second discovery of importance was the finding of 'polio' virus in sewage, indicating that food and water may be a carrying agent.

Ohio State's research group is one of the many receiving grants from the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. It has received two such grants of approximately $3,000 each, from proceeds of the President's "Birthday Ball."

Stoltz Elected Grand Master

Department Chairman
Honored at Cincinnati

Professor Robert B. Stoltz, chairman of the department of dairy technology, was elected the new Grand Master of the Grand Council, Royal and Select Masters, of Ohio, at the Council's meeting in Cincinnati Monday.

Professor Stoltz, internationally known as an authority on dairy products, has long been secretary-treasurer of the American Dairy Science Association.

He has also served as secretary of the National Cheese Association, the Ohio Swiss Cheese Association, and Columbus Milk Distributors' Association.

Stoltz is a native of Bradford, O., and a product of the Covington, O., high school. As a student at Ohio State, where he graduated in 1912, he once cavorted as a cheer leader on old Ohio Field—something few of his friends know about.

As a coach he also has many successes to his credit. Although not so spectacular as football, his dairy products judging teams have consistently taken top positions in national intercollegiate competition each year.

Professor Stoltz is married and has four children—three daughters and a son. He is a member of Delta Theta Sigma, agricultural fraternity.

SLB Committee to Finish Code Plans

The executive committee of the Student Labor Board will meet tonight at the WSGA house to complete plans for launching the code that will govern student work in fraternities, sororities, and restaurants.

The committee, which has met at regular intervals throughout the summer, will whip a revised code into final shape for presentation to the main body of the board at its first meeting on October 9.

Officers Named

The members of the WSGA club have elected Betty May Smith, Grad, social chairman for the coming year. Dean of Women Esther Allen Gaw has appointed Helen F. Thomas, A-3, treasurer, and Mary C. Herd, Ag-4, dietician, of the club.

Housing Bureau Reports 240 Men Living In Co-ops; Four New Houses Are Added

Seven of the men's University cooperative houses elected officers at meetings Tuesday.

Two hundred and forty men are living in the eight co-operative houses this fall, an increase of 115 over last year, according to Arthur M. Wellington, newly-appointed assistant dean of men and director of men's housing. Four of the houses are new this year.

There are still a few openings in the houses, Mr. Wellington said, and applications are being taken for fall quarter replacements of those students who are forced to leave school.

There is no long waiting list for the houses, Mr. Wellington said, because of newly-established system of "annexes." Where there is no opening in a house students are permitted to live outside and take their meals in the cooperative.

It Can't Happen Here?

Not so long ago a wave of disgust went through America when the Nazis built bonfires with thousands of books whose themes were out of line with totalitarian philosophy. The subject has been brought up recently in cinémas, apparently to remind the American people that such things must never happen here, because in them lie the seeds of fascist intolerance.

But book burning is breaking out again, not in Germany this time, but here in several communities where patriots have condemned to the fire textbooks that criticized certain features of our system of government and business enterprise.

Controversies are flaring right now in school systems in New York and Georgia, and they center around the social science textbooks of a man named Rugg, who is a professor in Columbia University's Teacher's College. His books, which are used in some 4000 U. S. schools, are charged not with being untruthful in their analyses, but rather with giving students "an unbiased viewpoint," tending to "undermine the faith of the people in private enterprise" and teaching that "the cost of advertising is passed on to the consumer." They have also been charged with spreading communism.

When people who have the power to say what students shall read in school, ban and burn books because they raise common questions about the American political and economic system, implying that we are now living in the best of all possible worlds, it is time to examine those people as well as the books. In every place where the books have been banished, the "justification" has been that the books tend to undermine the faith of school children in Americanism. But to

LET'S TALK

Just between you and us and the highball on the table "Let's Talk" is going to be a few conversational words on nothing in particular and everything in general. Twice a week we'll get together to discuss the world as is and the world as, begging its pardon, we'd like it to be.

Speaking modestly, we don't know all the answers and we won't know all the inside dope. We'll just sit down and try to add up the score from what all of us are seeing on the playing field. And if your score card differs from ours we won't get sore.

In spite of the "new order" of force and action, shooting off our mouths instead of our guns has been and will continue to be the best means of arriving at an opinion or a solution. So we'll talk about the plans of nations and the actions of men. We won't accomplish much of anything; but we certainly intend to give those nations and men a going over.

By nature we're a couple of chronic complainers, and right now we'd like to complain about hoodlums who throw eggs at politicians. Egg tossing may be a graphic way of registering disapproval but such acts of en-

CONFIDENTIALLY . . .

"Cousin Poindexter," we said, scowling to impress our departing friend with the gravity of the situation, "Cousin Poindexter, you are about to enter a new and different phase of your life, you are going to college. I feel it my duty to give you a little advice."

"Yes, Cousin Termite," said Poindexter, eyeing us in anticipation of the wisdom about to be poured forth, "do go ahead, I hang upon your every word."

"In the first place, Poindexter, don't believe that old saw about Freshmen keeping off the long walk. They are really the only ones that can make the whole distance without stopping to rest, and also, there is nothing to that rule about no high school letters being worn, in fact, I once knew a chap who wore his to college and everybody thought he was varsity material. Eight fraternities tried to pledge him, until they found out he was only captain of the chess team back home."

"Really, Cousin Termite?" echoed Poindexter, with awe in his manner, "and what about my studies? I've heard they're fairly important in college."

try to fortify children's belief in American democracy by depriving them of intellectual freedom is absurd. That freedom has caused hundreds of cultured minds to take refuge here from the intolerance of the dictator countries.

If American government can't stand firm in critical comparison with other systems, then it is time to do something about changing it. If the people who have condemned Professor Rugg's books are really interested in maintaining and building their children's faith in this democracy, the best thing they can do is to give the books back to their students, regardless of their political or economic viewpoints. Young people brought up in an intellectual vacuum will never be of much help to America.

NYA Gives a Boost

Every year at this time the news of the National Youth Administration's appropriation for Ohio State re-emphasizes the fact that 10 per cent of the students here are depending on the financial help of the Federal government.

Some day we may build our social system to the point where we can provide free higher education for all American youth. Until then, the least that can be done is to make sure that what provisions are available will be given to those who need them and deserve them.

The system under which NYA distributes its jobs to students does indeed make sure that those jobs are given to the ones who not only need the money but will make the most of their educational opportunity. Those whose scholastic records testify that they will make good use of their time in college are the ones chosen to work on some 700 campus projects under this year's NYA grant of $158,085.

But more than the 1300 men and women who will work on NYA projects need financial help, and the fact that there is selection implies that some will be disappointed. The ones who do get that help thus have a double responsibility. Unless they make full use of the opportunities that NYA assistance offers, they are cheating both themselves and the men and women who also need but cannot get those opportunities.

. . . with Warren Edwards and Ralph Kaminsky

dearment have no place in American politics.

Competing candidates may stoop to verbal mud throwing. Voters may let their convictions and prejudices get the best of them. The desire to belittle political opponents may rise to fever pitch. But these evidences of hysteria in a political campaign shouldn't lead us into any act that will discredit the American way of picking our public officials. Too many people already are convinced that politics is a sham.

We might excuse a well aimed egg directed at a corny vaudeville act. We could forgive the man who missed the umpire with the pop bottle. But politics today is more than a "great game." Roosevelt and Willkie are giving a practical demonstration of the American way of life in action. Men like these are open to criticism. They expect it, and people shouldn't hesitate to criticize.

But that criticism should never degenerate into petty violence. From eggs it's a short step to brickbats. And when sticks and stones and eggs and wastebaskets start flitting through the air, words remain behind locked doors and locked minds.

So—Let's Talk.

"Cousin Poindexter, indeed they are. Always take a front seat in your class rooms, for in the first place it will impress your instructor, and in the second place, the back row seats are reserved for upperclassmen, in the first place. There are two types of students; those who stay after class and talk to the professor, and those who flunk. The best plan is to room with a Phi Bete, dispose of him and assume his name shortly before graduation."

"Amazing! Amazing!" cried Poindexter, his eyes shining with admiration, "and tell me, what of campus customs? I hear that the University is steeped in tradition."

"Ah, yes, Poindexter, you must be thinking of our tradition, the Orton chimes, which peal forth by the quarter hour."

"Yeah," Poindexter fairly shouted, "and tell me about the chimes, Cousin Termite!"

"Poindexter, all I know is that they will not honor requests to play 'Zing, Baby, Zing' or 'Down Where the Moonshine Blooms,' and it almost breaks my heart that they won't."

Chicago University
Completes Program
Of De-emphasis

The University of Chicago yesterday released two announcements which marked the completion of its move to "de-emphasize" interscholastic athletic competition. The first appeared in yesterday's LANTERN, and had to do with the establishing of an intramural football program. The other one read as follows:

University of Chicago students will be admitted without charge to all University-sponsored intercollegiate athletic contests on the Midway, T. Nelson Metcalf, director of athletics, announced today.

Beginning with the opening of the Maroon basketball season December 5, in an intercollegiate game with Georgia, Midway students will be admitted to all University home games and meets by identification card . . .

. . . Completion of details regarding student admission cards may reveal necessity for a small service charge to cover printing and handling, Mr. Metcalf said, but he emphasized that no charge will be made for admission as such . . .

Out of the myriad of wisecracks having to do with allegations that no one would pay to see Chicago play anyway, several salient points appear.

First, Chicago is the only major institution of higher education in the country to adopt such a policy, excepting Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

Second, Chicago is one of the few large schools in the country that can afford to follow such a course. Only one other university, Harvard, is more heavily endowed. Thus, Chicago can afford to support an intercollegiate athletic program and an adequate intramural setup without the gate receipts derived from "big league" football.

Most universities, on the other hand, are not in such a fortunate position. This is particularly true of state universities, and other institutions which receive their income from public agencies.

Many of these universities would like to adopt a similar program, or at least a part of it, and hope to eventually do so. But they feel that at the present they must continue under the existing system in order to insure a satisfactory athletic program for their students.

The whole thing works in an ascending spiral. In order to have large gate receipts it is necessary to have a large stadium. In order to build a large stadium, it is necessary to go into debt. In order to pay off the debt, it is necessary to get a lot of people to pay a fairly large price to see the games. And in order to do this, it is necessary to have winning football teams, plus a good show every Saturday.

In other words, what's good for Chicago might be very foolish for other schools, and vice versa. There is nothing inherently wrong with intercollegiate athletics, and all in all they have done more good than harm. It depends on the existing conditions.

There is no call, then, for anyone to criticize Chicago for its action. Chicago was doing what it thought best for itself.

By the same token, there is no call for Chicago, or anyone connected with it to criticize other schools for the course which they may be pursuing in regard to football and other intercollegiate sports. For they too are absolutely sincere in doing what they consider best for themselves.

We see no reason why the Western Conference should not continue on the same basis it always has, with a maximum of amicability among the schools. If Chicago doesn't want a football team, that's their business. If Ohio State wants one, that's our business. The same applies to basketball, ice hockey, or chess. As far as we're concerned, it's still the Big Ten, and the best athletic conference in the United States.

MAL ELWARD-PURDUE COACH

Elward Starts Twenty-Fifth Year As Coach, Fourth As Purdue Head

When the Purdue Boilermakers arrive in Ohio Stadium Saturday, they will be led by one of the nation's most respected coaches—A. H. (Mal) Elward.

Elward celebrates his silver anniversary in the coaching profession as he marks his fourth year as head coach at Purdue this fall. The canny Boilermaker* mentor has earned nation-wide recognition for the manner in which he guided Purdue to a share of the runner-up honors in the Big Ten race two years ago, and to third place last fall.

A former team mate of the late Knute Rockne at Notre Dame, Elward has virtually grown up with the modern game, and is recognized as one of its keenest technicians and strategists.

Faced with a gigantic reconstruction problem this year, having lost 23 lettermen by graduation, Elward is nevertheless going about with a sly smile on his face, for he has a group of fast, clever sophomores, who are determined to make trouble for someone before the season is over.

I-M Officials May Postpone Opening Date

Serious consideration is being given by the Intramural department to changing the date for the beginning of touch football competition from October 10 to October 14.

This would enable competing teams to have several days of practice following the organization of teams. Better games would result and fewer complaints would be made because of unfair competition. Registration is to be concluded on October 8 when the drawing for flights will take place.

The touch football championships will be run off on a double elimination basis. That is, teams remain in the competition until they have lost two games.

Delta Sigma Delta will be out to defend its fraternity championship while Tower Club No. 3 will be attempting the same thing in the independent division. The addition of Baker Hall will undoubtedly swell the ranks of independent teams as well as individual participants.

Ed Bruckner, Jimmy Sexton Are Newest Stars on Buckeye Squad

The star performer at yesterday afternoon's football practice wasn't on the field at all. He was sitting on the Stadium spur, chewing a blade of grass and bragging about his dahlias. The gentleman in question is Tucker Smith, the Buckeyes' wizard trainer.

Tuck is taking the bows today for his feat in getting Jimmy Strausbaugh's ankle ready for the Purdue game in less than two weeks after it was sprained. Jimmy was in uniform yesterday, testing the ankle with a few short gallops. He also threw some passes, and got off some punts, but this he did with his left foot.

Tucker gives the credit for the rapid recovery to his new "whirlpool," a device which swirls very hot water around an injured member with highly beneficial results.

Although Strausbaugh will be available if needed Saturday, the work of Dick Fisher and Les Horvath at his position in the Pitt game enables Coach Schmidt to play it safe, and hold Strausbaugh out of action unless the Buck attack fails to click without him.

Ed Bruckner continued to please the Scarlet coaching staff with his defensive play, and seems to have the starting left guard position all sewed up, at least for this week. His sudden blossoming in the Pitt game should add considerable defensive strength to the Buck forward wall.

Report of Committee on Rules

The following report of the Committee on Rules will be presented to the University Faculty at its meeting on October 10:

TO THE UNIVERSITY FACULTY: Gentlemen—The Graduate Council, at a meeting held Monday, November 6, 1939, passed the following motion, which is hereby transmitted to the University Faculty for appropriate action:

"That University Rule No. 78 be changed to include among the ex-officio members of the Graduate Council, the Director of The Ohio State University Research Foundation."

Rule 78 at present reads:

"The Graduate Council. The Dean of the Graduate School shall be chairman of the Council. The Council shall be constituted as follows: The Dean of the Graduate School, the Director of the Bureau of Educational Research, the Director of the Bureau of Business Research, the Director of the Engineering Experiment Station, the Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station (or some member of the staff designated by him) and the University Librarian shall be ex-officio members of the Council. It shall include one or more members of the Faculty of professional rank representing each of the following groups, etc., etc."

The committee recommends the approval of the amendment to Rule 78.

Respectfully submitted,
Alpheus W. Smith,
Dean.

Referred to Committee on Rules, December 14, 1939, Faculty Meeting—

AMENDMENT TO RULE 220—

Examination Schedule: Add the following sentence "Morning classes shall be assigned to morning examination periods and afternoon classes to afternoon examination periods."

The committee does not recommend the adoption of the amendment to Rule 220.

Woman's Glee Club

The first meeting of the Woman's Glee Club will be held October 8, in the recreation room in Neil Hall at 4 o'clock. All women students are invited to be present. Try outs will be conducted during the first two weeks of the quarter. The new director of the Woman's Glee Club is Miss Adams.

Political Activity Forbidden By Federal Hatch Act

The President's Office has recently received a memorandum supplied by President Guy Stanton Ford of the University of Minnesota to the presidents of neighboring mid-western state universities relating to the federal Hatch Act which forbids political activity by certain federal and state employees.

It is clear from President Ford's memorandum that members of our University staff—including all officers, teachers, and other employees in all colleges and departments—are directly affected by the law as amended on July 19, 1940.

Such provisions expressly forbid the use of our authority or influence to interfere with or affect the election or the nomination of any candidate in federal, state or local elections and they further prohibit our participation in the solicitation of funds for political purposes and the taking of an active part in political management or campaigns.

Violation of the Hatch Act by any to whom it applies is punishable by fine and imprisonment; and under Section 12 of the Act the offender is liable to dismissal from his employment—or if his institution or agency refuses to dismiss him, such institution or agency suffers a reduction in its federal grants to the extent of double the offender's annual salary.

President Ford's memorandum makes the interesting point that although amendments exempting educational institutions and their employees were proposed in both houses of Congress and adopted by the Senate at one stage in the legislative proceedings, such amendments were expressly stricken from the bill upon its final enactment.

The cooperation of all members of the University staff in strict compliance with the law is requested and assumed.

HOWARD L. BEVIS,
President.

Faculty Lantern Distribution

In connection with the distribution of the LANTERN on account of the Official Daily Bulletin to members of the resident teaching faculty and to Administrative offices, it is requested that the following regulations be kept in mind:

1. For reasons of expense, distribution is necessarily limited to the following:
    - a. Full time, resident members of the University teaching staff of the rank of instructor or above
    - b. Administrative officers
    - c. College and other administrative offices not otherwise provided for
    - d. The University Library and its principal branches
  2. Colleges and departments are asked to arrange for copies for filing and posting out of the number of LANTERNS allocated to them on this basis.
  3. As a rule, part-time members of the staff do not receive copies.
  4. Allocation of copies for extension workers with faculty rank as described above is made upon recommendation of the Dean of their College or other superior officer.
  5. Changes in the number of copies provided for individual departments will be made on the basis of the current roster as shown by the University business office.
  6. Complaints regarding the non-delivery of LANTERNS and similar errors should be made to the University Mailing Room, Sta. 470.
  7. Inquiries about copies of the LANTERN on the basis of the plan of distribution outlined above should be made in writing to the undersigned.
- Jas. E. Pollard,
School of Journalism.

German Placement and Proficiency Examinations

The final placement test for German will be given at 7 p. m., Wednesday, October 2, in room 209, Derby Hall. The test must be taken at that time by

1. All college transfer students who began their study of German at some other school and are now enrolled in the department.

The proficiency examination will be given at the same time. Those students who feel that they are qualified to receive EM credit should report in room 213, Derby Hall, for admission to the examination.

Public Employees

Retirement Board Election

Non-teaching members of the staff will receive ballots for the election of a member of the Public Employees Retirement Board this week. Those persons not receiving ballots through the campus mail by Wednesday noon, October 2, should contact Miss Kraus at the Business Office at once.

Dean of Women's Announcement

Well-prepared college girls interested in giving volunteer services to a children's center on Saturdays should see or telephone Dean Zorbaugh's office. UN-3148, Sta. 236 or 238.

University Students and Selective Service

For the information of University students and of College Secretaries, Junior Deans, and advisors, the following considerations affecting the status of college students under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940 will be of interest:

1. All male students who, on October 16th, have attained their 21st but not their 36th birthday (except advanced R.O.T.C. students, as noted below) must register. This includes foreign students (male aliens) although only those who have declared their intention to become citizens are eligible for military training and service.

2. It is probable that registration headquarters will be established on the campus for the convenience of out-of-town students—with some possibility that Franklin County male students may also register on the campus, if they so desire.

3. The law specifically provides that any University student who, having registered, may be selected for training and service prior to the end of the college year or prior to July 1, 1941, whichever occurs first, "shall upon his request, be deferred from induction into the land or naval forces for such training and service until the end of such academic year, but in no event later than July 1, 1941." In other words, no University student in good standing need actually be called up for training before June 10, 1941, which is the end of the Spring Quarter and of the academic year.

Such deferment, however, is limited strictly to students registered "during the year 1940"—i.e., the Autumn Quarter. Students starting their work in the current academic year in either the Winter or Spring Quarters would not have the privilege of deferred induction.

4. Students who are enrolled in the "advanced" course of the campus R.O.T.C. "shall not be required to register and shall be relieved of liability for training service" under the Act.

Admissions to the advanced course of the R.O.T.C. are limited and students desiring to make application for this work should consult the Office of Colonel O. L. Brunzell, at the Armory.

5. The student deferment clause of the Selective Service Act does not apply to students who are members of the National Guard.

6. A student or faculty member in the Officers Reserve Corps, although he would not come under the provisions of the Selective Service Act, may be selected on an individual basis for active duty as military needs and the circumstances of the individual may justify.

7. Students and alumni who have completed the two years of elementary military training required by the University attain to no special status because of that fact alone, but they are entitled to secure from the Department of Military Science and Tactics "a military training certificate" certifying that they have completed the prescribed course of instruction and that they are "qualified to perform the duties of a non-commissioned officer in the organized reserves." Such certificate would give certain status and advantages to the holder in military training camps, according to the Department of Military Science and Tactics.

8. By special action of the Board of Trustees on September 16, 1940, fees paid by any student who may be selected for training, or who does not ask for deferment, or who may be called for duty as a member of the Ohio National Guard or of the Officers Reserve, or who may volunteer for military, naval, or marine service, will be refunded in full.

J. L. MORRILL, Vice President

The Annual Chemical Engineers' Round Up

The annual Chemical Engineers' Round Up, sponsored by the student branch of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, is to be held from 7:30 to 9 p. m., Friday, October 4, in the Chemical Engineering Laboratories. Free refreshments will be served. All students interested in Chemical Engineering are invited to attend. Graduate students come and meet the undergraduates.

Chemical Engineering 501 Summer Practice Work Final Examination

The final examination in Chemical Engineering 501, Summer Practice Work, will be held at 5 p. m., Thursday, October 3, in room 154, Chemistry Building. All special reports and daily log or note books are due at this time. All students who desire to obtain credit in this course this year must take this examination.

JAMES R. WITHROW,
Professor of Chemical Engineering.

Open Night at Observatory

Weather permitting, the Emerson McMillin Observatory will be open to the public from 8 to 10 o'clock tonight.

General Examination For the Ph.D. Degree

Graduate students who wish to take the general examination for the Ph.D. degree during the autumn quarter must apply for permission to do so from the major adviser. If the adviser believes the student is ready for the examination, he will notify the office of the Graduate School, in writing, to that effect, at the same time suggesting the personnel of the examining committee. Students expecting to take the Ph.D. degree at the end of the spring quarter, 1940-1941, must take the general examination not later than the middle of the autumn quarter, November 12.

Language Examinations For the Ph.D. Degree

The dictionary reading examinations in French and German will be given only once during the autumn quarter, on the following dates:

FRENCH: Wednesday, October 16, 4 p. m., room 100, Derby Hall.
GERMAN: Friday, October 18, 4 p. m., room 209, Derby Hall.

All graduate students wishing to take one or both of these examinations must report at the office of the Graduate School not later than ten days BEFORE the dates of the examinations.

Graduate Registration For the Autumn Quarter

Graduate students may register at any time during the first week of the quarter without penalty. No registration will be permitted after 4 p. m., Monday, October 7. Students whose fees are not paid by 4 p. m., Monday, October 7, will be assessed a penalty of $1 per day with a maximum penalty of $10.

Auditing

Students may sign up to audit courses at any time during the first two weeks of the quarter. The last day for adding audit courses is Monday, October 14. Students registering as auditors must complete such registration by 4 p. m., Monday, October 7.

Admission to Candidacy For the Master's Degree

Students expecting to receive the Master's degree at the end of the autumn quarter, who have not previously been admitted to candidacy, must petition for admission to candidacy not later than Monday, October 14. If permission is given for filing a petition after this date, the student will be assessed a penalty of $5.

Excused from Class Attendance

James Robinson and John Newman are excused from class attendance from October 3 to October 5, inclusive, in order to attend the Tau Beta Pi convention in Lexington, Kentucky.

Notice

The Police Department of the City of Columbus has asked that student organizations discontinue the practice of hanging advertising signs over Fifteenth Avenue near the campus entrance. The city's Department of Public Service no longer will issue permits for the erection of such signs. This action has become necessary because of complaints to the Police Department that the signs obstruct the view of the traffic light at that intersection and cause a further traffic hazard when torn loose by strong winds.

Jewish Holy Days

Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish New Year, begins Wednesday evening, October 2, and continues through October 3 and 4. Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, begins Friday evening, October 11, and continues through October 12. Jewish students may be excused from class attendance on these days if they make advance arrangements with individual instructors.

Tax on Spooners

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UP)—Romance should not be taxed, city officials decided after considering a plan for placing parking meters along boulevards and lake parkways frequented by automobile spooners. Alderman H. P. Burgum forwarded the plan as a means of gaining needed revenue for the park board's budget.

He and other aldermen abandoned the love-on-a-dime proposal, however, after Park Superintendent C. A. Bossen argued:

"We have to encourage romance, not make it an expensive luxury."
