Growing Up...

To the Editor:

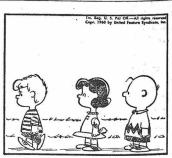

This letter is in answer to the one Mr. Hohne wrote in Tuesday's LANTERN.

Mr. Hohne, you call on Americans to grow up. You base your knowledge of American immaturity on such things as: Political campaigns, Tarzan movies, and the reaction of OSU students to Thornton Wilder's "Skin of our Teeth." Should such flimsy bases set a criteria for a country's maturity, may I ask what country in the world, at the present time, is mature at all?

These are the silver wings of a U. S. Air Force Navigator. As a flying officer on the Aerospace team, he has chosen a career of leadership, a career that has meaning, rewards and executive opportunity.

The Aviation Cadet Program is the gateway to this career. To qualify for this rigorous and professional training, a high school diploma is required; however, two or more years of college are highly desirable. Upon completion of the program the Air Force encourages the new officer to earn his degree so he can better handle the responsibilities of his position. This includes full pay and allowances while taking off-duty courses under the Bootstrap education program. The Air Force will pay a substantial part of all tuition costs. After having attained enough credits so that he can complete course work and residence requirements for a college degree in 6 months or less, he is eligible to apply for temporary duty at the school of his choice.

If you think you have what it takes to earn the silver wings of an Air Force Navigator, see your local Air Force Recruiter. Ask him about Aviation Cadet Navigator training and the benefits which are available to a flying officer in the Air Force. Or fill-in and mail this coupon.

There's a place for tomorrow's leaders on the Aerospace Team.

SINCE THEN photography at Ohio State has grown in all dimensions. What, was just a course in the department of architecture became a department in the College of Engineering in 1929. What was just a single course in still photography is now a variety of courses in still pictures, motion pictures, and scientific applications of photography as well.

One of the most fascinating aspects of the department is its photographic history unit established in 1931 to preserve and catalog negatives dating back to 1890. The first Ohio State graduating class composed of six men is one of the oldest in this "morgue" of pictures. There are many more, both candid and group shots, which could be guaranteed to bring back nostalgic memories to many Ohio State alumni.

Today's photography department, located in Brown and Townshend Halls, is made up of four divisions which function as an integral unit under Professor Fran-

What political candidate, in any country, wears velvet gloves to get his votes? In France, the "Chambre des Deputes" practically resorts to fist fights. Before the present De Gaulle administration, governments replaced each other with a surprising rapidity. One such government lasted a whole 24 hours! Would this be a sign of maturity? The "gentlemanly" British politicians are known for the cutting remarks they throw at each other across the table. In Russia, well in Russia they have a more practical solution - the opposition is sent to Siberia.

Yes, what country does show any signs of maturity where politics are concerned? In Germany, thousands of otherwise mature, intelligent and well educated people followed the fanatic that Hitler was.

Mr. Hohne, you believe that America is "preserved in a cage of dreams." I think that this is a misjudgment. America could not have reached its present standard of living if Americans were lost in a Tarzan and TV world. Who does show a greater sign of maturity, the American who works to push this country forward, who puts his "philosophy" to practical use, rather than be content with reading it in books, or those other nationalities you do not mention (but in order to set a means of comparison, I presume that you have them in mind) who are content with just that? The Golden Dollar is not achieved through afternoon siestas.

"Americans, I feel sorry for you. When will you resort to afternoon naps? When will you stop trying to give a good living standard to peoples of all classes? When will you cease your medical research? When will you start becoming morose and pessimistic and realize that the human race is not worth bothering about? When will you start reading books that are so much closer to the truth than life itself?"

I do not, by any means, try to make America appear as the ideal country. It is not Utopia, but then what country is? If I may go a step further, what country is closer to being one than America? (and by the way, just to keep the record straight, I am not prejudiced for I, too, am not American).

The motion picture division started in 1927 has been constantly expanding. Just last year they acquired a new laboratory in the basement of Townshend Hall where they already have a sound studio and editing rooms.

INSTRUCTIONAL films, public relation pictures, and research films are produced by this division. These pictures cover a multitude of things ranging from the history of turkey growing, and the routine of an associated press reporter, to the 1958 Rose Bowl tour of the Ohio State Marching Band and the three-year coverage of the construction of the Hoover Dam Reservoir in Columbus.

Many of their films have won prizes in commercial as well as collegiate competitions. A few of them have been shown on tele-
