Navy Boards Russian Ship

By Charles Corddry

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—The U. S. Navy put a boarding party on a Russian fishing trawler in the North Atlantic yesterday to find out if the vessel was responsible for damage to five U. S. transatlantic cables.

Acting under an 1884 treaty, to which Czarist Russia was a party, sailors from the destroyer Roy O. Hale boarded the Soviet ship Novorossirsk at noon. It was lying about 120 miles north-east of St. Johns, Newfoundland, at the time.

At 6:10 p.m., EST, the Defense Department announced that the boarding party had returned to the American vessel, which then headed for Argentia, Newfoundland. The Soviet Ship started traveling on a northerly course at 10 knots.

THE DEFENSE Department said it had not yet received a detailed report from the Hale.

The unusual action was ordered after the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Western Union reported that breaks had occurred in five cables along the course in which the Soviet ship had been operating.

The department said the first report of damage to the cables was received last Saturday. By Wednesday four other reports had been received of additional cables being damaged or put out of service.

EXPERTS said the most frequent cause of damage to cables in the area is from otterboards which are used by trawlers to keep their nets open as they are dragged along the bottom to scoop up fish.

The Defense Department did not say who actually ordered the boarding, taken under a treaty known as "The Convention for the

Kay Wagner Heads Senate

Kay Wagner H-Ec-3 was elected President of the Student Senate last night.

Bill Snyder, Com-3 was elected first vice-president and Joan Ashbrooke, H-Ec-3 was named as second vice-president.

The Senate has recommended to CSA and Board of Trustees that compulsory ROTC be abolished and a military survey course be installed in stead.

Miss Wagner ROTC was to get officers, and not to make good citizens.

A one year program is being considered by the Armed Services.

The Air Force may recommend that ROTC be put on selective basis at large universities.

Local Pressmen On Picket Lines

By Kris Harley

A strike closed the three Columbus daily newspapers last night.

Members of the Web Pressmen's Union Local No. 15 walked out in a contract dispute.

Negotiations were broken off Wednesday evening by the union's scale committee.

GREEK WEEK MESSAGE

The observance of Greek Week affords an opportunity for the fraternities and sororities on this campus to re-examine their responsibilities and to re-emphasize the important role which they may play in the lives of each individual member.

This University was founded primarily for the betterment of young men and women through higher education. The Greek letter groups of this campus — in fact all student groups — justify their existence as they contribute to this objective.

Thus a fraternity or sorority must be more than simply a social club or a boarding house. It must represent for its members a strong influence for their good through encouragement of scholarship, leadership and good citizenship.

In all such constructive efforts the Greek Week letter groups have my heartiest good will and best wishes.

Novice G. Fawcett
President

The strike was called at 5:55 p.m. yesterday and picket lines were set up immediately in front of the Dispatch-Journal and Citizen buildings.

A TWO-YEAR union contract expired on Dec. 31. Negotiations on a new contract began Dec. 10.

On Jan. 31 pressmen at the Dispatch, Citizen and Ohio State Journal staged a one-day walkout, which ended when sides agreed to continue negotiations in good faith.

THE UNION issued no formal statement last night, but union president John Winnestaffer said the pressmen are seeking improved Saturday night working conditions.

He said pressmen now work a six-and-one-half hour shift on Saturday night with time and a half pay for the second hour and double time for the remainder.

The pressmen want to cut this to a five-hour shift without any cut in total pay for the night, Winnestaffer said. Wages also are an issue.

ROBERT W. IRWIN, business manager of the Ohio State Journal, acting as spokesman for the three newspapers, issued this statement:

Friends Rally to Peanuts' Defense, Denounce Pseudo-Intellectual Idea

Approval . . .

To the Editor:

It has been duly noted and recorded that some blighted individual has written a letter criticizing the comic strip Peanuts. This is his privilege in a free country and I suppose he is just as proud of his blurb as if he had composed the U. S. Constitution.

HE EXPOUNDS one argument which he considers effective that is in reality hollow and invalid. First he states that he has contacted all his friends and they all agree that Peanuts is unhumorous and they do not enjoy it.

Assuming that he has contacted his friends, this may well be true but the assumption that this is a fair sample of student opinion is erroneous and should not be made. One's friends rarely constitute a random sample of fair enough size to draw any concrete conclusions from their opinions.

WHILE ANYONE is entitled to his own opinion, the advisability of expressing one's opinion in print in this case is doubtful. When one assumes that a group of people are of the pseudo-intellectual type and are trying to impress the world by their astute reflection and likes and dislikes, that is quite an assumption.

Since he brands everyone who likes Peanuts as pseudo-intellectual, he includes me in his scornful diatribe. This I do not like, but as I said, everyone to his own opinion however false it may be.

By this time our "friend" may or may not be regretting his move in writing his "interesting" letter so before I start regretting my letter writing I shall finish this missive with a final observation that any comic strip which receives space in a Columbus paper must have received more than the minor acceptance our "friend" indicates.

Melvin S. Lammers, I. Engr-3.

Humor . . .

To the Editor:

I hesitate to reply to the person who wrote the letter regarding Peanuts because in requesting his (or her) name to be withheld I can only assume that he lacks any strength to his convictions, or else the courage to back them up.

HOWEVER, be that as it may, I think he should be taken to task for slurring those who do appreciate this form of humor.

Peanuts consists primarily of adult ideas and expressions placed into the environment of children. It is usually simply written and rather directly to the point, not requiring the necessity of being an intellect-pseudo or otherwise. However, a sense of humor is necessary plus an appreciation for skill in manipulating character and expression.

THE STRIP relies quite heavily on the characterization which I feel Mr. Schulz does so well. It is this skill that makes Peanuts an outstanding strip for me.

Please note the "for me" on the end of the last sentence. Humor is a very personal thing depending on one's personality, background, education, environment, sharpness of wit, etc., and I don't propose to tell anyone what is or is not funny. If you like raunchy jokes, fine; if you like "Terry and the Pirates," that too, is fine; or "Dennis the Menace," or "Popeye," or a host of others. I for one thoroughly enjoy Peanuts and his little friends and am very grateful to the Columbus Citizen for enabling them to be in our LANTERN.

I WOULD BE quite interested if you would submit another letter stating just which comic strip you do think is funny.

Hoping you may be less quick to label and more tolerant of those who do not think just exactly as you do.

Don Stewart, Ag-2.

Rats . . .

To the Editor:

Good grief! Is nothing sacred? Some fuss budgets are never happy! Who can cast aspersions on a cartoon which has placed its creator in the immortal company of Walt Kelly, Al Capp, and Walt Disney.

Who can say that such a cartoon, featuring personal tragedy, love, sports, classical music, philosophy, and animals, is not suitable for college students? Who, indeed? Rats! No name.

Hang on to your blankets, fellow pseudo-intellectuals. Let's keep ol' wishy-washy Charlie Brown at OSU.

John C. Harlett, A-5.

Laugh . . .

To the Editor:

I have talked to a lot of people and they all like Peanuts. Why pick on poor little Peanuts? He is all right in a lot of people's book. We all like Peanuts and laugh at him every morning. At least, he can get a laugh from about everyone, but people like Name Withheld on Request.

I bet he can't get a laugh from every person that Peanuts does. If he can then show me and everyone else. I like Peanuts and so do all my friends.

Dear Editor, please keep Peanuts for us.

Janet Hogan, A-4.

Flood . . .

To the Editor:

"Snoopy was right. Some heads really get water logged during flood season. I wonder if we could arrange some drainage."

Honestly, Peanuts is such a peanutty peanut that it falls beyond the intellectual capacity of pseudo-intellectuals. I don't blame him.

Riaz-ul-Haque, Grad.

Critical . . .

To the Editor:

It seems to me that at least one of us pseudo-intellectualistic admirers of Peanuts ought to take a critical look at the blatantly Philistine assumptions underlying the querulous complaint which appeared in Tuesday's LANTERN.

ONE OF THE most common techniques used by those lacking in humor, intelligence or artistic sensitivity to reduce their feelings of inferiority is the "sour-grapes" rationalization accompanied, usually, by the theory that those who purport to enjoy some of the subtler things in life are actually hypocrites (or egg-heads or pseudo-intellectuals).

As long as he confines himself to consoling himself with his "sour-grapes" philosophy the Philistine has little effect on society as a whole. Unfortunately, he often goes a step further by demanding that those phenomena which cause his feelings of inadequacy be removed from his environment. If he, with the help of others like him, is successful, he is able to simplify the world to a level which he can understand. (This process already seems to have taken place in the mass media).

SINCE THIS is the age of adjustment, conformity and homogeneity, it may be that Peanuts should be removed from the LANTERN so that the shattered egos of our ubiquitous Philistines can be reorganized. Maybe we should even go a step further and close the music room in the Union and remove from the library all books not immediately comprehensible to a congenital idiot.

On the other hand, it might be healthier if those who do not like Peanuts would merely ignore it and confine themselves to reading the classified ads. At the very least, I wish that they would quit implying that they know better than I why I enjoy Snoopy, Schroeder, Linus and Good Ole Charlie Brown.

P. T. Cleaver, Grad.

THE BEST OF EVERYTHING CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—(UPI)—The Harvard Medical Alumni Bulletin recently carried a note announcing that, "The Medical School and its hospitals can offer a variety of opportunities to the college girl with a chemistry major or a liberal arts major plus secretarial skills."

The note promised "high salaries, attractive fringe benefits," and then, in italics: "exciting extracurricular activities!"

Policy . . .

To the Editor:

In the Feb. 24 issue of the LANTERN there were two letters signed "Name Withheld on Request." I would like to see the LANTERN formulate a policy whereby unsigned letters are not printed unless good reasons are given for withholding names of the writers.

It seems that even the most devoted lovers of Peanuts will not seek out and destroy the critics of this often amusing cartoon series. Nor can I believe that civil war will ensue from a rather shortsighted view of the Fraternity-Activity Man's life. Is the Fifth Amendment really applicable in either case?

I feel certain that many people do derive some amusement from the daily antics of Charlie, Linus and company. I am also certain that fraternities and campus activities are beneficial for those who participate in them and for those for whom they are designed.

Although I am not a Fraternity Man, I find it hard to believe that a fraternity is a huge, motherly animal which nurses her cubs on a diet of complacency, stupidity, apathy and Gung-ho-ness. To classify an individual man as a "Fraternity" man only necessitates classifying all others as "Independents." Do either labels accurately describe a complex man?

David DuVernay, A-4.

Wager . . .

To the Editor:

I am writing this in response to the gentleman who was condemning the cartoon on Peanuts. I ask the question. Does he understand what he is reading?

If a student can't understand Greek literature, he doesn't usually enjoy it. This gentleman mentions that his friends share his opinions. What kind of friends does he have? With all the vices that modern society is depending on—coffee, alcohol, and tobacco—I think we can enjoy a six-year-old boy who needs a blanket for emotional security. My friend, we are not supposed to laugh at the cartoon, but at ourselves through it.

Donald Duck will go down in history as a triumph, not as an animal, but as a personality. A free thinking John Doe with a terrible temper. The little man who won't shut up. Many people have to smile when they recall how silly a mad duck looks when throwing a tantrum. No, my friend, I disagree with you very much. I think that most college students will agree with me.

I am in favor of a poll. I am confident enough to back up my opinion with a $10 bill as to the outcome of our wager. And as a challenge I will say that I was very disappointed that you didn't sign your name because anyone who is sincere in their convictions would.

Harold Povenmire, A-2.

Dulles Holds Bedside Meeting

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles called top State Department officials to his suite at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center today to discuss "recent developments" in the Berlin crisis.

Those summoned by Dulles were Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, Deputy Undersecretary Robert Murphy, Assistant Secretary for European Affairs Livingston Merchant, and Joseph N. Greene, Dulles' special assistant.

STATE DEPARTMENT Press Officer Lincoln White said it could be assumed they discussed all aspects of the Berlin crisis, including Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's apparent rejection of the Allied call for a foreign ministers' conference.

Dulles previously discussed the Berlin situation Sunday with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and with his brother Allen, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Murphy and Merchant are two officials whose judgment Dulles values most in dealing with Soviet maneuvers with respect to Germany and the rest of Europe.

DULLES' FIRST hospital meeting with his top aides came as American officials still clung to the hope that Khrushchev eventually might agree to a Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference on Berlin and Germany.

However, they acknowledged they were dismayed by the fact that Khrushchev's tough speech on Germany last Tuesday came at a time when British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was in Moscow trying to improve the climate for negotiations.

This fact, rather than the actual content of the speech, was regarded as most significant. They said the timing raised serious doubts as to Khrushchev's sincerity in contending that he wants a settlement in Berlin.

THE GRAVEST of warnings on Berlin were voiced by Dodd and other Senators, including Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.).

Mansfield, referring to Russia's demand that the Allies get out of West Berlin by May 27, said the world was "entering a situation in Germany in which the lives of tens of millions of people may balance on the avoidance of a single significant error."

The Dulles' summons coincided with the Navy's disclosure that it had put a boarding party on a Russian fishing vessel in the North Atlantic to investigate damage to five U. S. trans-Atlantic cables.

The Navy said the action was taken under "treaty provisions" concerning protection of undersea cables. The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Western Union had reported breaks in their cables along the course taken by the Soviet fishing craft.

Navy Boards Russian Trawler

Protection of Submarine Cables of 1884."

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said President Eisenhower was advised before the official announcement that a destroyer had been sent to the area. But he said the President did not give the boarding order and had no further information.

A SPOKESMAN for the State Department said only that the department was fully informed and approved the boarding.

The Defense Department said the 1884 treaty "authorizes examination by Naval ships of official documents of other ships suspected of damaging and interfering with cables under the high seas."

It said Russia and all other nations signing the 75-year-old treaty agreed to make it a punishable offense to damage undersea cables, either intentionally or through negligence.

LAWS subsequently enacted by this country to carry out the agreement gave commanding officers of U. S. ships authority to make investigations "relating to the protection of cables," the Defense Department said.

A Navy legal official said that, according to the Soviet Encyclopedia, the Soviet adhered to the treaty as late as 1926, after the Communists gained control of the country.

"A report of the investigation has not yet been received from the Hale by the Department of the Navy."

WHETHER BLAME is to be laid on the Russian ship will be determined after the Hale's report is received.

The Hale carries 150 officers and men, steams at 21 knots and is armed with three-inch guns as well as anti-sub weapons. Its home berth is Newport, R.I.

In New York, AT&T said one of the two cables making up its transatlantic telephone system failed on Saturday, halting all cable telephone service to Europe and jamming alternate radio circuits.

ONE OF 10 Western Union transatlantic cables was "interrupted" Tuesday and three more went out of service Wednesday. The company said it was "quite unusual to get more than one interruption at a time."

All the breaks were within a 50-mile area at the edge of the Continental shelf, about 195 miles east of Newfoundland. In about 1,000 feet of water, the companies said.

The Western Union cable repair ship Lord Kelvin, under AT&T charter, was due to reach the break in the telephone cable late yesterday.

The second ship, Western Union's Cyrus Field, was enroute from Halifax to grapple the telegraph cables. It was due to reach the break today or Saturday.

No one could estimate how long it would take to fish up the broken cable in the storm-swept, icy Atlantic.

Big Week For Bucks . . .

Undefeated Swimming, Track Teams Face Biggest Roadblocks Tomorrow

Ohio State's undefeated swimming and track squads will conclude their dual meet season Saturday, the tankers going to Michigan with a 7-0 record while the thinclads face Illinois here with a 4-0 mark.

Both Mike Peppe and Larry Snyder are pessimistic about the outcome of the meets as the Wolverines and Illini respectively appear to have too much personnel for the Buckeyes. Both Illinois and Michigan are undefeated.

THE OHIO STATE basketball team, after a three-week home layoff, returns to friendly St. John Arena for a clash with Michigan at 8 p.m. The Buckeyes, 5-6 in the Big Ten and 9-10 for the season, have won seven of nine games played at home. Only St. Louis and Indiana have beaten the Bucks on the home court.

The Bucks' 92-83 victory over Indiana Monday put the Ohioans in an eighth place tie with Minnesota. The Ohio State-Michigan series stands 37 to 31 in favor of the Buckeyes. Michigan took the first game this season at Ann Arbor, 78 to 74.

After the Michigan game, the Bucks will fly to Minneapolis to engage Minnesota Monday night in the final road test of the season. The schedule will be completed when Purdue is met here March 7.

SEVERAL FRENCH Field House records could fall in Saturday's track meet with the Illini. George Kerr, Illinois flash, ran the 880 in 1:52 last week, compared to the field house record of 1:54.2. Kerr also ran the 440 in 49.0 last Saturday which is flirting with the record here of 48.7.

Illini distance runner Ken Brown is capable of lowering the local mile mark of 4:11.2 and he also could topple the two-mile record of 9:18.9. The mile relay mark of 3:20.2 is almost certain to tumble. The Illin have covered the distance in 3:15.7.

IN ADDITION to the home fare of track and basketball, the gymnasts (2-6) will meet Wisconsin in the Men's Gym at 2 p.m. The fencers (4-8) go to Chicago to meet the Maroons and Iowa. The wrestlers (2-6) face Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Probable Ohio State swimming entries at Michigan, with their best times of the season:

50 yard free—Don McPhee, 22.5; Bob Connell, 22.8; Tom Wall, 23.4; Tom Casek, 23.4.

100 yard free—Don McPhee, 49.5; Bill Van Horn, 49.6; Tom Ocacek, 52.5; Tom Wall, 53.0.

220 yard free—George Onekea, 2:06.9; Bill Van Horn, 2:08.7.

440 yard free—George Onekea, 4:39.6; Joe Henry, 4:43.1.

200 yard breast stroke—Bob Gair, 2:33.2; Don Will, 2:35.8.

200 yard butterfly—Charles Stagman, 2:12.2; Dick Dewey, 2:18.6.

200 yard back stroke—Tom Murray, 2:06.9; Bill Radack, 2:18.6.

200 yard individual medley—Dick Dewey, 2:17.8; Tom Ocacek, 2:18.8.

400 yard medley relay: 3:54.0. (Murray, Gair, Dewey, Van Horn).

400 yard free style relay—3:22.0. (Wall, Connell, McPhee, Van Horn).

OHIO STATE'S lacrosse team will play two matches in the east March 24-27 before opening a 10-game schedule April 4 at home against the Cleveland Lacrosse Club.

Matches during spring vacation will be with Adelphi College at Garden City, N. Y., March 24 and at the University of Baltimore, March 27.

The schedule: March 24, at Adelphi; March 27, at Baltimore; April 4, Cleveland here; April 11, Denison here; April 18, at Cleveland; April 21, Kenyon here; April 24, at Ohio Wesleyan; May 2, at Oberlin; May 9, at Kenyon; May 13, Ohio Wesleyan here; May 16, Oberlin here; May 23, at Denison.

'Hot' Cagers Host Wolves

By Jack Wittenmeier

The Michigan Wolverines will make a 40 minute stop at St. John Arena tomorrow night, hoping to make it two in a row over the Buckeyes this season.

M. C. "master of ceremonies" Burton, leading the Big Ten in scoring (23.6) and rebounding (18.1) will be along to make things as difficult as possible for the Buck cagers.

SINCE THEY edged Ohio State, 78-74, early in the season, the Wolverines have played .500 ball and have accumulated a 6-5 record, good enough for a third place tie.

Michigan stands third in team scoring (83.1), fourth in defense, fifth in rebounding and ninth in field goal accuracy (.357).

One of the Wolverine strengths lies at the free throw line where their .707 percentage is topped only by Ohio State (.716).

Strangely enough it was an inability to cash in on free throws (4-12) that hurt the Bucks at Ann Arbor. This factor, along with poor rebounding and a failure to solve Michigan's zone defense made all the difference in the Buckeye loss.

MICHIGAN was in the thick of the conference race until consecutive losses to Indiana and Michigan State knocked them out of contention. The Wolverines defeated last place Wisconsin in their last outing Monday night.

M. C. Burton, who seems a surebet selection for all conference honors and possible All-American consideration, lived up to coach Fred Taylor's warnings at Michigan.

The 6-5 senior forward scored 21 points and snatched a large share of rebounds.

UNFORTUNATELY Burton isn't the Buckeye's only problem. George Lee, a good, consistent performer at the other forward position, stands tenth in the conference scoring race with a 18.4 average.

Out front Buck guards Larry Siegfried and Jim Niehaus should have their hands full with Johnny Tidwell and Terry Miller.

Tidwell, one of the most outstanding sophomores in the conference this season, has showed moments of brilliance this year.

AVERAGING 18 points per game, Tidwell is the fourth most productive guard in the conference this season. His running mate, Terry Miller (11.5) is also effective from outside.

Michigan coach Bill Perigo lists Miller as a question mark for tomorrow's game. Miller injured his knee in practice and watched the last two Wolverine games from the bench.

Miller's loss would slow down the Wolverine's fast break attack, their best weapon, since the 6-0 guard is Michigan's number one playmaker.

OHIO STATE has apparently shaken the injury jinx this week. Only the injury to Larry Siegfried's shooting hand mars a healthy Buckeye starting quintet.

The high scoring Buckeye freshman will try to extend their streak of wins over the junior varsity preceding the varsity game. Tip off time is 6 p.m.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK—Buckeye coach Fred Taylor, studying the scoring statistics of Buckeye All-American Robin Freeman recently commented, "I couldn't score that many points if you gave me a basketball and locked me in a small room."

Here are the probable starting lineups for tonight's game:

OHIO STATE	MICHIGAN
Furry (6-6)	f Burton (6-5)
Roberts (6-5)	f Lee (6-4)
Huston (6-7)	c Rogers (6-6)
Siegfried (6-3)	g Miller (6-0)
Niehaus (6-0)	g Tidwell (6-3)

Muscle Team At Ann Arbor In Final Go

By Ken Koblitz

Coach Casey Fredericks and his Buckeye wrestling squad travels to Ann Arbor this weekend to take on arch-rival Michigan in their final dual meet of the season.

Fredericks rates the Wolverines as a young, tough squad. He feels that his boys will be in for a rough afternoon as they go in quest of their lone dual meet victory of the season.

THE BUCKS have really been the tough luck team in the Big Ten this season. Injuries have plagued them ever since the first day of practice. Dave Hull will be wrestling at full strength for the first time this season against the Wolves. Vince Gonino has been out all season with a bad hand and others have been sidelined for varying times throughout the year.

Dave Camaione, Buck captain will attempt to remain undefeated in the 130 pound class. He has won nine straight matches and is a strong contender for Big Ten honors.

The Big Ten Meet will be held March 6-7 at Iowa, with the hosts as the defending champs. Following the meet, the wrestlers will be honored at their annual banquet, March 9 in the Union.

Icers Boast Fine Record

The Buckeye icers still hold onto the top slot of the Ohio Intercollegiate Hockey Association's standings after a victory over Fenn in Cleveland.

The Fenn Foxes lived up to their reputation of abeing tough contenders on their home ice by waging a stubborn battle before going down in defeat at the hands of the Ohio Staters. The hot battle was not decided until the last period when the Buckeyes put the game "on the ice" with three fast goals.

John Koss pulled the hat trick for the Bucks by notching three goals. But equal credit should be lauded to the Ohio State defense for its brilliant play against the Foxes.

SET FOR LAST RACE—Ohio State track great Glenn Davis points out a picture showing him competing in a low hurdles race in Sweden last year. The Buckeye sprinter will end his track career at Ohio State tomorrow afternoon at the French Field House. Davis, who holds two world marks (49.2, 400 meter hurdles and 45.7, 440 yard dash), will receive the Sullivan Award tomorrow night during the intermission of the Ohio State-Michigan basketball game.

Davis Runs Last Race At Home

Tomorrow afternoon at approximately 3, a big roar will be heard from inside the huge confines of French Field House.

This roar will not be one of alarm, and will not be one of surprise, but it will be a roar of appreciation, of awe, and of tribute.

This loud roar will be for Glenn Davis. As Davis crosses the finish line on the "anchor" of the mile relay, a legend will have gone by. Davis will have completed three years of home track competition in which he has set so many records that one has to have a notebook to keep track of them.

Track experts everywhere have acclaimed Davis. He has been awarded almost every track award imaginable, and has richly deserved them all. His most recent award was the James E. Sullivan Memorial Award as amateur "Athlete of the Year."

This award will be presented to Glenn between halves of the OSU-Michigan basketball game tomorrow evening at St. John Arena.

DAVIS HAS ALSO been fortunate enough to travel around the world as a result of his track exploits. He was selected on the team that traveled to Russia, Poland, and European countries meeting their top competition this past summer. Davis won eight races in 11 days on this tour.

Glenn, who won the state Class A meet for tiny Barberton high school all by himself four years ago, has had a particularly rough quarter this past winter. He has classes or labs from 8 to 6 and cannot work out with the regular squad.

Davis, therefore, has to get up and start working out at 6:30 in the morning, a time when most of us are still asleep.

Davis warmed up for his last home meet tomorrow afternoon by setting four records in the French Field House Open last Tuesday evening. Tomorrow, Davis will be out to better these marks—and don't bet that he won't do it.

One last reminder. All you sport fans who have never seen Glenn Davis run, this will be your last chance to see him at home.

Girls' Sports End Season; Parents To View Playoffs

By Jane Cellio

Tomorrow morning the final playoffs will be held for the Bowling Round Robin Tournament. These teams will "strike it out" for the winter quarter championship: Alpha Epsilon Phi, Mack XIII, Oxley II, Patterson IV, Zeta Tau Alpha II, Burton Hall, Smitie's Few, Mack VIII, Deepfers, Alpha Gamma Delta, The Four Strikes, Pleiades I, and The Four Strikers.

The Four Strikers lead the leagues with a total of 586 pins for one game. The girls that make up this team are Evelyn Dille, Sharon Dougan, and twins Rose and Rita Diehl.

Also tomorrow the Billiards Tourney will come to a close. Kappa Delta (red) is leading all other teams. Marty Singhass and Marilyn Writsel play for Kappa Delta.

THE BASKETBALL leagues will wind up their season with the finals on March 3 and 5. Mack I, Patterson I, Ashes, Siebert Hall, and Oxley Hall will participate in these playoffs.

The physical Education Club will hold Parents' Day March 7, for all the physical education major students' parents. The parents will be shown what the girls learn in classes. They will be entertained with exhibitions by Swan Club, Dance Club, and fencing.

Last Saturday the Basketball Club went to Otterbien College for the Inter-Collegiate meet. Also attending the meet were Capital University, Ohio Wesleyan, Wittenberg. Ohio State won its game, with the following girls participating: Sharon Ansley, Joan Coram, Sandra McDougal, Carol Miller, Peggy Palumbo, Patricia Reneker, Joan Tangel, Diane Warner, Shirley Weirman, Martha Wright, Carolyn Zimmerman, Jo Ellen Thomas, Janis Dollinger, Sara Dollinger, and Karen Minnich.

Davis Honored Saturday

The Ohio State-Illinois track meet tomorrow will mark the final home appearance of Glenn Davis, one of the Big Ten's all-time track greats. Davis completes his college eligibility with the Winter Quarter and will be seen only away from the Buckeye campus in future appearances.

These include the Big Ten meet at Wisconsin March 6-7 and invitationals at Milwaukee and Chicago. He likewise will appear in Texas with an Ohio State squad during spring vacation at Odessa, Abilene and Big Spring.

BETWEEN halves of the Michigan-Ohio State basketball game Saturday night, Davis will be presented with the James E. Sullivan award, emblematic of the nation's leading contribution to amateur sports in 1959. Davis is the second Ohio State track man to be so honored, Mal Whitfield having won the award a decade ago. Davis won the honor over Rafer Johnson, UCLA's world decathlon champion, 1868 votes to 1793. Only seven athletes were nominated for the award.

Coach Larry Snyder will introduce Nick Barack of Columbus, first vice president of the Amateur Athletic Union. James A. Rhodes, state auditor and former president of the AAU, will make the presentation.

Medical Schools Recommend May Admission Test

PRINCETON, N. J.—Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1960 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced today by Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges. These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 2, 1959 and on Saturday, Oct. 31, 1959, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1960 take the May test.

The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test on understanding of modern society, and an achievement test in science. According to ETS, no special preparation other than a review of science subjects is necessary. All questions are of the objective type.

Copies of the Bulletin of Information (with application form bound in), which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from the Registrar's Office in the Administration Building or directly from Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau St., Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 18 and Oct. 17, respectively for the May 2 and Oct. 31 administrations.

Kenneth R. Varner, Registrar.

Lincoln, Old Books Display Featured in Main Library

By Charley Harp

Lincoln, old books, and "Beatnik" artifacts are on display in various parts of the Main Library.

Encased in glass in the lobby are objects of interest from the time of Lincoln. Among them are five copies of the New York Herald giving details of the Lincoln murder, several portraits of him during his life time,* old books with Lincoln medals engraved therein, and other bits of Lincolniana.

ESPECIALLY interesting is an original Currier and Ives cartoon depicting Lincoln as "an uncouth, baboon-like Westerner." Also interesting is a rare engraving showing the "rail-splitter's" funeral procession passing the State House in Columbus.

Old, yellow-paged books have emerged from the Rare Book Room on the third floor. Some date back earlier than the 1500's.

The old books, some printed in script lettering, are very colorful. The early printers did not put out their illustrations in color but left it to be done by those that bought the books or by commissioned artists. There are vivid examples of old wood cuts that have been hand painted in water colors.

THE BOOKS range in size from small editions to some that are so big that it would take at least a physical education major to carry more than one to class.

The "Best Generation" is represented by an exhibit of their books at the entrance to the Closed Reserve Room on the first floor. Lists of works written by these modern "Mystics" are available at the display.

To be thanked are Mrs. Natalie Doyle who set up the "Beatnik" exhibit, Charles A. Jones who donated from his private Lincoln collection, and John L. Buechler, librarian of the English and Speech Graduate Library who put the rare books on display.

THE WEEK'S NEWS IN REVIEW

Compiled by Jaan Kangilaski

Wild Week

There were riots and riots and riots all week long.

Strikers and plant guards came to blows in several places in the United States; tribesmen whose tribes support different politicians fought in the brand new Congo Republic; and other African Negroes called "White Man Go Home" in loud voices backed up with flying rocks and flashing knives.

In the Congo Republic, about 120 were reported dead in several days of street fighting in Brazzaville that finally ended after the republic's government called in French troops to restore order. Then the rioting flared up again in the interior of the former French colony. The issues seem to be mostly political.

Hotspot

Further to the south, in Nyasaland, something else is at stake. Nyasaland, which is populated almost entirely by Africans, is British a protectorate belonging to the Central African Federation which was set up in 1952.

THE OTHER TWO members of the Federation are Northern and Southern Rhodesia. The central government, dominated by whites from the Rhodesias, is toying with the idea of installing South African Union type apartheid.

The political leader of Nyasaland, a flamboyant character named Dr. Hastings Banda, returned last year from exile in England. It did not take him long to find out that there was no way to reconcile his ideas about the future of Nyasaland with those of Sir Roy Welensky, the Federation prime minister.

So he began agitating for something else—taking Nyasaland out of the Federation and uniting it with British possessions of Kenya and Tanganyika.

LAST WEEK months of increasing pressure exploded into riots that were finally broken up by British-led native troops who fired over the crowds and RAF planes that showered them with tear gas bombs.

A state of emergency was proclaimed in both Nyasaland and Southern Rhodesia, and police began rounding up members of the African National Congress, the leading Negro political organization. The score Thursday morning stood at 500.

Meanwhile, the native workers at the giant Kariba Dam in Southern Rhodesia struck for higher wages and riots broke out in Somalia (the former Italian colony on the Red Sea). It looked like a hot week ahead for the police.

Coldspot

The African heat wave had no effects on Europe, where the MacMillan-Khrushchev talks ended "with neither side budging an inch . . . the only business left outstanding is agreement on a formal communique to be issued next Monday."

THE COMMUNIQUE will say that the talks have contributed tremendously to East-West understanding and that both the Western and Russian people really want peace. Then MacMillan will get in an airliner and fly back to London and the world will settle down to wait for whatever is going to happen on May 27—the date the Russians have said they will turn the roads into Berlin over to East Germany.

MacMillan shouldn't have too hard a time explaining to Parliament why his trip to Moscow produced no real results. Khrushchev himself furnished him with the perfect reason for that—by rejecting the Western proposals for a foreign ministers conference on the Berlin question and calling for another summit meeting.

THERE WAS NOT much left to do after that. According to the British, the talks almost ended right then—three days ago.

The talks had been described as "cordial" before that speech. After that they became just "talks" and when MacMillan went on a tour of Russia, Khrushchev stayed behind in Moscow to nurse an ailing tooth.

Some commentators hinted that the sudden cold wave in world politics had been caused by a toothache, but this theory was generally dismissed as too facetious.

Why So Cold?

A summit meeting is about the last thing that could happen this spring. Even a foreign ministers meeting is a little unlikely now. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is still undergoing treatment for cancer and President Eisenhower has refused to name even a possible successor. Congressmen and other public figures who have suggested that he do so have been sharply rebuked.

Washington rumors are that the successor, if any, will probably be Christian Herter. Herter is an assistant secretary of state now. According to the same rumors he can be counted upon to continue Dulles' policies "without yielding an inch."

This is how everybody seems to feel. So even a summit meeting is unlikely to accomplish much.

Changing Sights

Khrushchev received an Iraqi delegation in the Kremlin after MacMillan left Moscow. Iraq seems to be drifting closer and closer to Russia in its struggle to stay aloof of all political groups in the Middle East.

It is reasonable to expect Russia to really start wooing Iraq now that the Cyprus crisis is practically over and the Soviet ambassador left the broken-up negotiations for a Soviet-Iranian non-aggression pact with the bitter comment:

"Iran treated us as if we were Luxembourg."

Iran signed several pacts with the United States instead. Khrushchev will look bad if he fails to do something about it. Besides, the loss of Iraqi oil would really hurt the West.

Here and There

A big labor battle apparently began brewing up in the Caribbean area over whether the AFL-CIO of George Meany or James Hoffa's Teamsters Union would organize the transport workers on Puerto Rico.

Congressional hearings into the juke-box industry's business practices continued to uncover filth from behind the music boxes.

Senator Kefauver declared he would disqualify former AEC director Lewis Strauss from becoming Secretary of Commerce. Kefauver said that Strauss played an illegal part in the Dixon-Yates scandal of 1952 and 1953.

Strike by Pressmen Halts Three Columbus Newspapers

"Members of the Columbus Web Pressman's Union have walked out on strike against the Columbus Dispatch, the Columbus Citizen and the Ohio State Journal, forcing them to suspend publication.

"Negotiations for a new contract between the parties were broken off on Wednesday evening, Feb. 25, by the union's scale committee when it abruptly rejected every offer the publishers had made during the contract meetings which began last Dec. 10.

"Management of the newspapers offered the union one of the largest wage increases that any similar union has received in the entire nation within the last year. Four other newspaper craft unions at these newspapers previously have accepted similar offers and are working under such contracts.

"The publishers of the Columbus newspapers deeply regret the inconvenience this strike will cause the public. They will do everything reasonable within their power to restore publication at the earliest date possible."
