Work on the other buildings now under construction is running on schedule, with the exception of the Central Service Building, which has been delayed because of quicksand encountered during the foundation excavation.

The new Medical Center is in the underground sewer and excavation stage. Construction of the Botany and Zoology greenhouses will start as soon as the material arrives.

Bids for the wing to the Botany and Zoology Building are now under consideration, and bids for the construction of the new Physics Building will be received in June.

To be admitted to the "Hall," a candidate must receive the favorable votes of at least two-thirds of the judges. Induction to the Hall of Fame will come next Fall as part of Ohio State's Diamond Jubilee.

Representatives of Greek and Independent organizations will discuss ways to foster better relationships between the two groups when six Independents are guests of the Greeks at the Delta Upsilon house Wednesday evening.

The committee will discuss problems concerning the campus. C. Daniell Byrd, Engr-2, chairman of the Council of Fraternity Presidents, said they hope to set up a long-range program.

Byrd said the committee will plan joint social activities, such as street dances, stag parties, and athletic teams, between the Greeks and Independents.

Independents from the six Stadium clubs will serve on the "coordinating committee" along with four Greeks from the Council of Fraternity Presidents.

Uncle Sam Says Sundialers Must Scrub Mail Boxes

It was the "Tyme" but not the place.

A sad group of Sundial "executives" learned today that Uncle Sam doesn't like the idea of selling Sundials for them.

The trouble came when the promotion staff pasted handbills for a parody issue on Time magazine on U. S. mail boxes.

The machinery of the Post Office Department went into action, and the long arm of the law shook a warning finger at the transgressors.

The result: a very embarrassed Sundial staff has turned into a brigade of scrub women (and men) and Uncle's mail boxes are getting the scrubbing of their lives.

Bankers To Hear Renshaw

Dr. Samuel Renshaw, psychology department, will participate in sessions of the fifty-seventh convention of the Ohio Bankers Association at the Neil House Wednesday and Thursday.

Fourteen awards will be given to Pharmacy students after a talk by President Bevis.

For the first time, the College of Pharmacy faculty award will be presented to a graduating senior. The senior will be given a certificate in recognition of outstanding scholarship and leadership and a year's membership in the A. Ph. A.

The Ohio State Pharmaceutical Association will give three awards to seniors who have maintained high standards of scholarship and leadership. The first award is the payment of the state board fees. The second and third awards entitle the winners to a year's membership in the association.

Republicans Say Move Is Political

WASHINGTON, May 25—(AP)—President Truman today asked Democratic Congressional leaders to press for passage at this session, federal aid to education and a minimum wage boost to 75 cents an hour.

The President's request was made at a White House conference lasting more than an hour.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, assistant Democratic leader, told reporters after the meeting that the education measure is "bottled up in a House committee." He added that "the President is hopeful that the Republican majority will act to get the bill to the House floor."

There has been no action in either Senate or House on minimum wage legislation. The present wage-hour law fixes the minimum wage at 40 cents an hour.

Meanwhile, the President touched off a Republican cry of "politics" with his message calling upon Congress to hike social security benefits and let 20 million more people share in them.

He asked that old age payments be upped at least half. To pay for the increases, the chief executive proposed that the present social security tax not only be boosted by 50 per cent next January, but that it apply to an additional $1,800 of income.

Senator Taft, (R-Ohio), chairman of the Republican policy committee, asserted: "The Democrats were in power for 14 years, and if they had really wanted to change the law they could have done it."

Preview Of 'Strollaganza' Production Reveals Music, Romance, And Humor

By Joe Coleman

I sneaked in, I saw it and I'm glad. It has everything—music, romance, humor—and girls.

"It" was a preview of "Strollaganza," Strollers' major musical production for the Spring Quarter to be presented Thursday, Friday, and Saturday in University Hall.

Written and directed by Richard T. Greenwald, Com-3, and Donald C. Riber, A-2, with the aid of Mrs. Margaret D. Bickle of the English department, "Strollaganza" is Strollers' first production to be directed and staged entirely by students.

All of the dance routines are the work of Ann Mullay, A-2, who, when not directing, dances in some of the numbers.

With never a dull moment, "Strollaganza" is a presentation of songs old and new. Comedy by Howard Mourey, Edward Wier, Eugene Gerrard, William Fraher, Daniel McKinney, Patricia Ward, Phyllis Speed and Charlene Hext keeps the action moving between musical scenes.

One of the feature numbers of the performance is a song called

"I Can't Stay No" sung by Patricia Wilson, A-1. Vocal numbers are also presented by Fritzie Brake, Beverly Thal, Fred Luther, Robert Copelan and David Mader, and the entire cast.

Thursday noon the entire cast will give a preview parade around the Oval. A band and chorus will accompany the parade. The winner of the "Strollaganza" word contest will appear in the parade.

Decision Awaited On Legality Of Student Court

A decision has not been reached in the case of a student who contended that the Student Court did not have the right to levy fines on other students.

Two weeks ago, Donald W. Fisher, L-2, acting as attorney for Herry B. Shaefer, L-2, who was fined for illegal parking, contended that the court was not a court of competent jurisdiction. He claimed that it did not have the right to assess fines.

Fisher also asserted that anyone who dispenses justice in Ohio must be an elected official and his judicial power just be given him by law.

The decision will be ready in a few days, Mary Goff, secretary of the Student Court, said today.

Advisor Appointed

Dr. Sam Arnold, Bureau of Business Research, has been appointed advisor for Mu Beta Chi, professional commerce fraternity.

Rehearsals are held at 2 p. m. every day except Friday in Rehearsal Hall.

Stross Quits University

Offers $3000 For Voting But Scorns $5 Union Fee

Walter C. Stross, A-2, the student who is now offering $3000 for campus voting machines, withdrew from the University Monday because he refuses to pay the $5 fee for the new Ohio Union.

"I've been taught to give but not to have things taken from me," said the campus elections reformer. "I will not return to Ohio State until the Union fee becomes non-compulsory."

Stross had offered a $1200 check for the machines and declared that he will present $1800 more if funds cannot be raised through solicitation.

Stross said he had planned to withdraw at the end of the quarter, but is leaving sooner to investigate election machines at Indiana University. He will leave for Indiana today and will report to a Student Senate committee Thursday morning. The Senate will meet Thursday night.

Until the Ohio Union fee becomes non-compulsory, Stross said he plans to attend George Washington University in Washington, D. C. He will change his major from journalism to political science.

Limit Tickets For Graduation

Graduating seniors who need more than three tickets for the Commencement will have to get them from the seniors who will not use theirs.

Because of the limited seating capacity at the Coliseum the University cannot issue more tickets to each senior. Weather permitting, the exercises will be held at the Stadium, and tickets will not be necessary.

Bucks Battle Bishops In Single Game Today

By Chet Sullwold

Ohio State's neighbors from Delaware, Ohio Wesleyan University, will provide the opposition this afternoon for the Buckeye baseball squad. Game time is scheduled for 4 p. m. on the Varsity diamond.

Coach Stahl and team are hoping that the neighbors may turn into "cousins," and there is a good chance that they will, as the Bishops have won but four games in 15 starts. The Bucks handed them a 6-0 defeat at Delaware April 23.

Jack Hammett will start on the mound for the Bucks. Dick Hess is slated to see service if the Blazer runs into any trouble. Hess and Hammett were on the mound when the Bucks trounced the Bishops the last time.

Reggie Brooks, Ohio Wesleyan's star left hander, will be on the mound for the Bishops. He did not appear in the first game. Bob Chapple, OW captain and second baseman, played under Coach Stahl at the time the Buck coach was baseball coach at Harvard, and will be trying to hand his old coach a defeat.

Gene Dudley will start behind the plate for the Bucks. With Norb Ranz out, Fred Taylor moves into the vacated clean-up position. Dudley will hit in the number eight spot, the rest of the lineup moving up one spot in the batting order.

Gay Gebhardt is seeking to keep his hitting streak alive in this game. The Bucks' center fielder has hit safely in his last 16 contests. Today's game will be a tune-up contest for the big Conference series with Illinois coming up this week end.

Probable starting lineups:

Buck Sailors Finish 7th In Regatta

The crews representing the Ohio State Sailing Club found themselves buried in seventh place at the conclusion of the Michigan Invitational Regatta last week end. The regatta was held on Lake Whitmore, near Ann Arbor.

Bowling Green won the regatta with 126 points, followed by Notre Dame with 126. Ohio Wesleyan, Northwestern, Wisconsin and Purdue all finished above the Bucks.

Purdue had the same number of points as Ohio State, 97, but since the Buck team had no firsts in any of the races and Purdue did, the Boilermakers were ranked above the Bucks.

Jim Schudel and Lowell Peterson skippered with Charles Hill, Lois Sundberg and Allen Borth serving as crew. Others making the trip included Comdr. Warren Foster, Coach Robert Foster, and Bill Kildaw, Sheridan Carr, and Skip Harrison, who crewed for Miami's team, which finished last.

At a meeting of the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association Saturday night, Ohio State was made a regular member of the association. The Bucks had been serving a probation period as an associate member. Other clubs gaining full membership were Purdue, Notre Dame, Chicago, and Ohio Wesleyan.

Commodore Foster was elected a member of the MCSA executive committee. Other MCSA business saw a board of governors made up of the faculty members of each club formed. A sustaining membership in the association was voted to include all graduated members of clubs or yachtsmen interested in promoting collegiate sailing.

Brown Gets Nostalgic At Agonis Club Dinner

By Fritz Howell, Ohio AP Sports Editor

Paul E. Brown, general manager and skipper of the Cleveland Browns, made his first public appearance in Columbus Monday night since surrendering the Ohio State grid coaching reins in 1944 to enter the Navy.

A bit balder, Brown spoke at an Agonis Club dinner honoring the 15 outstanding scholar-athletes of the Columbus high schools.

Apparently taking cognizance of recurrent reports that he'd like to return to his old job as boss of the Buckeyes, Brown said:

"I don't know just what to talk about, without getting into difficulties, but I'm not here to pick up any of these boys for my team."

Turning to the honored guests, Brown said:

"To you boys, I'd like to say: Don't worry about the draft or other uncertainties which our youth is facing. Go to college, study hard, and be ready for anything that comes along."

"And if I were you, I'd go to Ohio State. There is no finer institution."

Brown declared "there is no conflict between college and professional football—at least on the part of the professionals."

Recalling his days as an Ohio State coach, Brown said:

"I drove out past our old house today. Mrs. Brown and I planted some shrubbery there, and I was surprised to see how it had grown. Then I strolled across the campus, thinking of the old days, and my entire experience here came back to me as a pleasant dream."

"I miss old 'Wid' (Carroll C. Widdoes), for he was a quiet, efficient guy who kept me from cutting corners too sharply."

The only disturbing memory of Ohio State days, Brown said, was the banquet honoring his 1943 "Baby Bucklings."

"In 1942 when we won the Big Ten and National Championships, 1500 persons turned out for the banquet," Brown said. "The following year, with a team of freshmen and 4-F players who did as much to uphold traditions as any team that ever represented the University, only 29 fans appeared at the banquet." The 1943 team won three, lost six.

Sailors Meet Tonight

Members of the Sailing Club were urged today to attend a meeting of the club at 7:30 tonight in Room 101, Derby Hall.

The Third Round

Labor's move for a "third round" of wage increases is meeting obstacles and defeat at every hand these days.

The end of the meat packing strike, in the midst of sporadic violence, was marked by victory for the powerful employers. The railroad unions are now securely under the government's thumb, with no good prospect of the kind of settlement some of them asked.

The United Automobile Workers are faced with long and expensive strikes and are hardly assured that all their demands will even be partially met. John L. Lewis's coal miners are threatening to walk out again in June, but the history of the recent UMW fiasco hardly indicates that their strike will be successful.

Under the pressure of public opinion, industry's excellent financial position, and/or the Taft-Hartley Act, strikes are being broken or prevented with surprising effectiveness.

It also seems to be the prevailing opinion of the American people that they will not tolerate the disruption of the U.S. economy in certain crucial areas by strikes.

While this protection of the nation's welfare is probably justified, it must be a bitter pill to these "essential" workers to find themselves discriminated against while other less crucial unions are unimpeded in their right to strike.

After all, you deprive labor of its only weapon when you take away its right to strike. This imposes a responsibility on the public and the government, we believe, to insure fairer treatment for the groups discriminated against.

And perhaps it's also about time that the people did something to prevent management from disrupting the nation's economy in times of depression in the future.

When an automobile factory or steel mill shuts down because of decreased markets, the public is injured far more than in a temporary strike. Yet actions to abridge management's right to aggravate depression are condemned as the methods of a police state.

In the present controversy, industry has been publicizing the fact that labor's average wage since 1940 has outstripped the rise in the cost of living.

The unions counter this argument with the fact that the increase in prices has been ahead of the rise in wages since the end of the war.

Management says it will not increase wages because that will further the inflation spiral. The unions say that the spiral is already way ahead of them.

The validity of industry's argument can only be admitted if it acts to reduce prices and thus diminish the cost of living. Despite a few scattered efforts toward this end, there has been no widespread attempt by employers to bring down rising costs, despite steadily increasing profits.

It's about time the public took steps to insure the safeguarding of its interests in this respect. Price controls in basic industries were one way, but Congress has refused to accept that.

This places the responsibility directly on management's shoulders. It's about time it did something with it.

Cigarettes And National Defense

A recent news report says that the American people are now smoking about a billion cigarettes a day. This means about seven "weeds" daily for every U.S. man, woman, and child.

But while the reformers condemn this waste, perhaps our nation's leaders can channel the consumption of nicotine into useful practices.

For instance, they might work out an arrangement whereby every American would smoke his seven cigarettes simultaneously during an air raid. This would raise such a cloud of smoke that no enemy bombardier could possibly locate his target except with radar.

In these days of growing emphasis on American security, we believe this plan is worth thinking about.

Stage Cues . . .

By Pearl M. Hewlett

'The Play's The Thing'—Or Is It?

The stage is the place for characters to appear. Ushers might keep that in mind and stop letting them in at the main entrance. But the boys with the flashlights can't do that as long as the characters come attached to tickets, so the only thing to do is sit back and enjoy them.

Every audience has its characters. I'll give you a thumbnail sketch of a few I've seen. Down the aisle came a man who looked as if he had been built up around his monocle. He moved into the row ahead of me and scuttled himself into a seat. He doubtless saw himself as a "solid citizen." Very solid.

Directly in front of me sat a woman whose hat looked as if it had made a forced landing on her head. She was one of those people who felt she hadn't done justice to the occasion unless she'd related all her daily activities to her friend.

Consequently, act one came to me screened through a conversation concerning recipes, bridge parties, and new styles. The lady ought to have been placed in a Home for the Utterly Confused.

Some of the comments I've overheard in theaters have been great. One man, who must have been a disciple of George Jean Nathan, observed that the hero was an impediment in everybody else's speeches.

The young man next to him, who looked as if nothing serious had ever swum into his firmament (except from the direction of Venus), complained that the heroine had the cold eyes of a codfish.

The average audience always has a group of young women busy comparing notes on the number and quality of the leading lady's costumes. It also has a group of club women busy comparing notes on the number and quality of racy lines, tsk-tsking about them, and neglecting to remember that a few minutes before they had been giggling at them.

And so they appear and speak their lines, these characters. Sometimes I can't help but wonder. Is the play the thing?

Smaller Colleges Asked

But for a quirk of fate, the thousands of students now attending Ohio State University might be scattered through smaller colleges in Ohio. The division of the money granted by Congress in 1862 among institutions existing before Ohio State, demanded by many, would have caused such a situation.

It pays to advertise in the LANTERN CLASSIFIED COLUMN.

YMCA President Corrects Story On Speakers Ban

Editor, the LANTERN:

. . . In the article on the political speakers ban issue which appeared in the LANTERN of May 20, I was quoted as saying the Trustees' ruling on banning political speakers from the campus was "vague."

This is not true. Your reporter made no reference to the Board of Trustees and I made no statements in regard to the Trustees' ruling. As a matter of fact, the ruling seems to be very explicit.

Furthermore, as the YMCA was not one of the groups petitioning that the ban be lifted, I cannot see why our name was used in the article.

—Russel W. Miller, president, University YMCA.

Editor's Note: The Lantern article pointed out that the YMCA had not protested the ban, but other parts of the story unfortunately implied the opposite.

22 Ohio Students Get Scholarships

Twenty-two high school graduates in Ohio have been selected for scholarships in elementary education at the University, Vice-President Bland L. Stradley announced today.

These are the first of 88 scholarships to be awarded, one for each county in Ohio by the University to encourage high school graduates to study elementary education.

Some telephone numbers you ought to know

516,500—It takes this number of men and women to operate the twenty-two Bell Telephone Companies. Each operating company is responsible for furnishing telephone service within its own territory.

26,000—The number of people who are employed in the Long Lines Department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. It is their function to provide Long Distance and Overseas service.

131,400—This numbers the employees of the Western Electric Company who manufacture, purchase and distribute equipment and supplies for the entire Bell System.

6,000—That's the number of people in Bell Telephone Laboratories. Through research and development they constantly improve this country's telephone service—already the finest in the world.

2,100—That's the number of people in the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Through advice and assistance, they coordinate the activities of the entire Bell System.

In all, there are some 682,000 men and women in the Bell System. As this country's communications service is expanded and improved, opportunities will grow still greater. There's a future in telephony.

FASHION FANTASIES . .

By Pat Koken

As May gradually turns around to shake hands with June, many coeds are busy planning that moment supreme—their wedding day. And it takes a lot of thoughts and planning, for this is one day that has to be perfect.

The first item is the wedding gown itself. Most June, July and August brides prefer a light and fluffy gown for these warm months. Ideal for the short paniers of inset ruffles down the back forming the circular train. To complete the bridal outfit, a veil of shining illusion is needed. For something different in the line of wedding veils, and especially if the bride has dark hair and an olive complexion, wear a mantilla of organdy or tulle, and have the edges finished with applied diagonals of white velvet ribbon.

For a "century" veil, this Mary Queen of Scots cap is ideal. It is fashioned from a large white lace handkerchief, tied in back with a satin bow, and trimmed with clusters of white lilacs dipping to the forehead.

For a veil with a New Look, a rose petal cap for a fingertip veil will fill the bill. Attach a large white fabric rose to the top of the veil, then spread and stitch under petals to the tulle to fashion a flowery crown. If you're planning a cotton wedding, consider the elegance of a white eyelet headpiece, tied above each ear with rosettes of white satin ribbon.

After this all-important outfit is selected by the future bride, don't forget the old adage, "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue, and a penny in your shoe."

A double-take theme in a light shade opera pump for Summer wear.

Tiny imitation rosebuds nestle in the hem, gathered in front to give the idea of an early 1800 wedding gown. It sells for about $50.

A gown for the bride who prefers glimmering light-weight satin is this $60 wedding dress, with its lace Bertha collar and inset yoke of net, its long sleeves ending in points, its V-cut front and back, and the yards of satin that go into the making of the skirt, ending in a court train.

Another bridal gown is this one of translucent rayon-and-nylon marquisette, tucked to form a fichu around your shoulders. The long sleeves button at the wrist, the bodice is tightly gathered, and the skirt is ruffled in the front, with

Father Of 35 Is Flabbergasted

NEW YORK, May 25—(AP)—Thirty-five children from four wives!

The father, 68 years old, was so flabbergasted Sunday when his 34-year-old wife gave birth to triplets that he hopped onto a neighborhood child's bicycle and fled from newsmen.

French-born Anthony Dupre, former circus trapeze performer and now a hotel kitchen worker, is the man.

The father claims this record: four sets of twins from the first wife, 23 children from the second and third, and one from the fourth wife before Sunday's triple play.

Speech Survey Reveals Typical Male Student

By Edwin J. Tippet

Contrary to public opinion, the typical student is not primarily interested in a big time, but in such profound subjects as travel, transportation and sports.

This information was compiled by Sylvia C. Evans, department of speech, from questionnaires which are filled out in beginning speech classes. Since these speech courses are requirements for most University men and women, the cross section of the information obtained gives the statistics for the "typical student."

The "typical" student is a man, 21 years old and (get this, girls) he's neither engaged nor married. His home is Columbus, he is a sophomore in Commerce, a Republican, and an independent. This student is under the GI Bill and must find ways to stretch his subsistence. To obtain a few extras he has a part-time job after classes.

Since his life is crowded with activity he prefers such reading matter as Life, Time, Reader's Digest, and of course, the LANTERN. His favorite newscaster is Lowell Thomas.

Although he has spent most of his life in Ohio, he's also traveled some. Mr. "Typical" has been in at least ten states, and has had one or more trips to the Pacific, but not as a vacation.

He has many hobbies, but still prefers travel, transportation and sports. Of course he listed "social life," which probably includes a big time, after all.

Who knows? You may pass him on the campus today or he may be a classmate of yours.

DETROIT—(IP)—To help graduates find positions in areas of their special training, a placement-counseling service has been established on the Wayne University campus.

At Ease, Vets, They're Coming

Veterans, don't be alarmed if you haven't received your bonus check yet! You don't even have to worry if your buddy with a high claim number has received his while you with a low number haven't.

State bonus headquarters issued these words to dispel anxiety. Some 62,000 applications came into the office the first day. As processing began, each veteran was given a claim number. Whether this number is 10 or 50,000 does not necessarily mean that number 10 will get a check before the latter.

Report Cards For Graduates Due June 3

Report cards for seniors who are candidates for a degree at the Spring Quarter convocation have been sent to department offices.

The grades of seniors should be filed in the registrar's office by noon on Thursday, June 3. Under the rules of the University Faculty, each instructor may arrange for the time and mode of examination in accordance with his best judgment.

The larger white report card marked "graduating senior" is the correct card to grade and return on Thursday. The smaller pink card (combination roll card and report card) which was received in April, may be destroyed or clipped to the larger one and returned to the registrar.

Because of the large number of graduating seniors whose records must be checked with final marks, it is imperative that report cards be received by NOON on Thursday, June 3.

Instructors are requested not to put their report cards in the campus mail on the morning of Thursday, June 3, but to bring them or send them to the registrar's office.—Ronald B. Thompson, Registrar.

Don't Believe It—It's Just A Sign

If you believe signs, the problem of handling "tough" teachers will never arise for the students in the Armory.

Posted on the door of Room 106 is a sign which reads, "Teacher Attack Room."

Those who have seen it expressed the thought that it might refer to the teachers who handle the students.

The true purpose of the room is to teach and practice methods of attack by the NROTC.

Recreation Hall Not Accessible Without Roads

"Incompleted roads in the northwest section of the University grounds are still holding up the use of the new recreation hall built for the River Rd. dormitories," William H. Durant, assistant manager, said today.

Construction work on 25 new buildings to house 200 additional families is still at the point where no definite completion date can be promised other than "some time this Summer," Durant said. He pointed out the uncertainty of building materials supplies.

The housing office has received 500 applications for the new units, and expects the number to reach 1,000. At present, 152 families live in 22 buildings, and approximately 750 single men live in 26 dormitories.

Red Cross Plans Limited Program During Summer

The University unit of the American Red Cross will slow down its activities during the Summer because of reduced personnel. However, two projects have been planned, George R. Walker, chairman, announced Monday.

The hospital visitation group, the "Gray Ladies," will be continued as part of the organization's work. This group is made up of Columbus women, who, after taking a special training course, volunteer their services and much of their time to work at the hospital.

The Red Cross also plans to sponsor Columbus shows at the Veterans Hospital in Chillicothe.

Radcliffe Student Council Debates Hour Exams

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — (IP) — Administration officials of Radcliffe College are interested in student opinion on the present system of four examinations.

At the end of the last term, an informal meeting of the Student Council and Dean Mildred P. Sherman resulted in a Student Council recommendation that the present system of required hour exams in all courses be modified.

The Student Council has recommended that the faculty be required to offer an optional hour exam in all courses beyond the freshman level, that grades not be reported to the Registrar's office, and the status of the grade with respect to the final grade be made entirely clear at the beginning of the term.

Students' Commercial Art Display Brightens Windows Of Hayes Hall

When you look at the exhibits of commercial art in the windows of Hayes Hall, do you feel as though you have just opened a Saturday Evening Post or Journal and are thumbing through the pages?

The exhibits consist of illustrations for magazine covers, advertising layouts, fashion designs, and magazine story illustrations.

In one of the windows the process by which the March cover of the Sundial was made is illustrated. Black, blue, yellow, and red plates were used separately to achieve the various colors in the design. The plates used are on display with the finished product—the Sundial cover.

Various advertising layouts are displayed in the original style of the commercial artists.

"We try to give students of commercial art practical problems like those which they will meet in regular advertising," according to Prof. Will Rannells, commercial art instructor.

Exhibits are placed in the windows of Hayes Hall each week by a committee in the School of Fine Arts. Faculty chairman of the exhibition committee is Prof. Robert M. Gatrell. Most of the work displayed in the windows has been drawn and organized by students, Professor Gatrell said.

Twice a quarter, jury day is held in the School of Fine Arts. Students choose one of their best works to be judged at this time by a jury consisting of faculty members. Outstanding articles chosen by the jury are then displayed in the windows.

Preparations are being made for a calendar-of-the-year of the various exhibitions.

Ballroom Needed

Men's Gym Lacks Glamor, So Dances Lack Dancers

"Until the new Ohio Union with its modern ballroom is a reality, there probably will not be much improvement in attendance at all-campus dances," Richard M. Crafts, Com-4, chairman of the Social Board, said today.

Crafts advanced the theory that students are tired of the Men's Gym, which lacks* glamor, no matter how well it is decorated. For this reason they do not attend the big all-campus dances.

"Freshmen eager to attend college dances support campus social affairs in great numbers until, as upperclassmen, they find that the novelty has worn off," he said.

Name bands are not a drawing card for a great many students, Crafts believes, since the majority of students, especially veterans, have already had opportunities to see and hear big name bands.

Crafts pointed out that the purpose of the Social Board is not to make money on University dances. The board assures students of good campus dances and social affairs at the lowest possible cost.

"The Social Board is still a new organization and still in the formative stage," he said. "We are trying to formulate policies for the effective scheduling and successful operation of dances and other social affairs. However, there is no absolute assurance that any dance will be successful."

Dean of Men Joseph A. Park, a member of the Social Board, said he believes successful campus dances are mainly a question of good organization and good promotion.

Until the new Ohio Union is built, the Men's Gym is the most favorable location, Dean Park believes. He does not see any reason for holding University dances at downtown locations. Fraternities, sororities, and other campus organizations should not schedule important social events on nights that would conflict with big campus dances, Dean Park emphasized. He added that no immediate solution to this problem has been reached.

Women's Sports Dinner Planned For Thursday

The annual sports dinner will be held Thursday in Pomerene Hall gymnasium for all women students interested in sports.

Winners of intramural tournaments held throughout the year will be honored at the dinner, and individual members of teams will receive awards. Recognition will also be given members of the various activity clubs who have been chosen by their fellow members. They will be selected on the basis of leadership, service, sportsmanship, and skill.

The Spring Quarter activity clubs are Archery, Badminton, Boot and Saddle, Foil and Mask, Golf, Orchestras, Jr. Orchestras, Outing, Rifle, Swan, and Tennis.

Tickets for the dinner may be obtained at the intramural office in Pomerene Hall.

In 1883 the Ohio State sophomore class offered an elegant sword to the Captain of the best drilled military company of the campus.

Botany Honorary Ends First Year With Banquet

Phi Epsilon Phi, botany honorary, is completing its first year of activities. The group was reorganized in the Spring of 1947. An activity program is now under way.

Plans include the annual initiation banquet Friday, at which Dr. Edward Mack, of the chemistry department, will speak on "Proteins." The group will also take a Summer trip to the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station at Wooster.

On other field trips, the group has visited an orchid greenhouse in Columbus and Ohio University where members saw a collection of fossil plants gathered by Dr. A. H. Bickle, chairman of the botany department there. The group has also visited the Kettering Foundation at Antioch.

Injunction Fails To Halt Plans For Trailer Camp

Plans are proceeding for a new trailer camp despite the temporary injunction against them, Robert W. Taft, president of the Ohio State Student Trailer Co-operative, Inc., said today.

The hearing on a request for a permanent injunction, filed by a group of property owners in the vicinity of the proposed camp site, is scheduled for Thursday. P. L. Thornbury, 474 Carpenter St., will represent the co-operative, Taft said.

Taft also said that no other plans are being made in case a permanent injunction is issued. "We are optimistic about the case," he added.

More Money Needed For Health Plans

The University Health Council is now considering the proposals submitted by the Student Senate committee which investigated the Health Service, it was learned today. The proposal to provide 24-hour, 7-day a week out-patient service is receiving particular attention, Dr. John W. Wilce, director of the Health Service, said.

Dr. Wilce indicated that it is largely a question of what people are willing to pay for such service. The present assessment of $1.00 a student a quarter is considered inadequate to provide such service.

The investigating committee proposed that the Senate consider a plan to provide more financial support for the service. It was suggested that a campaign similar to the Ohio Union drive be launched, that more of the students' activities fees be allotted to the service, or that the Board of Trustees be asked to appropriate additional funds.

The committee also proposed that each student be provided with a pamphlet explaining the policies, services, and facilities of the Health Service.

John E. Shackelford, Engr-2, secretary of the Student Senate, said the Senate accepted the committee's report.

C. Craig Wright, A-2, chairman of the investigating committee, said that the investigation would continue to obtain additional information.

Kent Students Deprived Of Vote Fight Ruling

KENT, O.—(IP)—In a fight that might become a test case for college students throughout the nation, Kent State University undergraduates living at Windham housing project will protest rulings depriving them of the right to vote.

The rulings deal with student residence. Through interpretations, the students are declared to be non-residents of Windham, and hence without a home bailiwick to base their poll.

According to the law, those living at the housing project must vote wherever they lived before coming here. However, the state law defines the residence of a married man as being where his wife and family live.
