Hitler to Reply to FDR

Adolf Hitler intends to demand "economic living space" for Germany in his speech to the Nazi Reichstag April 28, in reply to President Roosevelt's appeal for peace, it was reported today in well informed political circles. Doubt was expressed that Hitler would ask the United States for trade concessions as the price of German participation in any peace program.

Nevertheless it was suggested that Hitler might call attention to his recent statement that Germany must export or starve; that he might emphasize what Nazis call Germany's "natural right to dominate Central and Eastern Europe economically and politically," and might take occasion to demand free access to vital raw materials—colonies.

Japan Angles for Alliance

Japan was reported today to be attempting to negotiate an agreement with Germany and Italy whereby the three powers would help each other with airplanes, munitions and manufacturing privileges.

Fascists Act

Germany and Italy sought to resume the offensive against Europe's defensive encirclement bloc today to offset moral encouragement given Great Britain and France by President Roosevelt's peace message. Hitler appointed Franz Von Papen as Ambassador to Turkey. Von Papen was chief of staff of the Turkish fourth army during part of the World War and he is the man who prepared the way for Austria's absorption by Germany.

British Extend Front

The British government is endeavoring to extend its "Peace Front" by including the Far East in the anti-aggression arrangements.

Hitler Celebrates Birthday

Hitler's fiftieth birthday celebration will begin tonight with a radio speech by Paul Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, and will be followed tomorrow by a parade of 40,000 troops.

NLRB Accused by Senators

Chairman J. Warren Madden of the National Labor Relations Board told the Senate Labor committee today that he believed it might be a violation of the Wagner Act for an employer to call a union leader a Communist.

Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio charged the Board's policy meant permitting an employer to say "anything against the American Federation of Labor, but nothing against the Congress of Industrial Organization."

Donahey May Run

A conference between Senator Vic Donahey and Arthur Limbach, Ohio Democratic Chairman, today aroused speculation that the Senator had consented to become his state's "favorite son" candidate for the democratic presidential nomination.

No definite word will come from Senator Donahey until after Congress adjourns, since under Ohio primary law his written consent would be required before delegate candidates pledged to him could be entered on the ballot.

Bricker Explains Appropriations

Governor Bricker, in considering a proposal to increase appropriations for Kent State University, said "We had tried to be fair" in preparing a budget for all universities, but there were strong indications that no increase would be made for that school.

The governor said he felt that there should not be "competition" among the state universities, that emphasis should be laid upon facilities for graduate and professional schools confining themselves largely to the liberal arts and teacher training courses.

Tau Beta Pi to Install

Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary, will hold its installation meeting for newly elected members on Wednesday, April 26. Plans are also being made for a spring dance to be held May 19.

Socialist Club Will Present Peace Speakers

Club Will Circulate Anti-War Petitions

The Socialist Club will be represented by a speaker at the Thursday Peace Mobilization demonstration, Bernard Green, Engr-4, president, said today.

The club will present its speaker, as yet unannounced, and circulate petitions against war, but will in no way attempt to interfere with the main address by the Peace Mobilization speaker, Green said.

In a letter to the LANTERN, Green declared that the platform of the Peace Committee "is in essence a declaration in support of the foreign policy of the Roosevelt administration. We are convinced that this policy is calculated to involve the people of the United States in a war, which Senator Borah has aptly characterized as a war of rival imperialism."

Aronson Denies Charges

Robert Aronson, A-3, secretary of the Peace Mobilization Committee, denied the validity of the Socialist Club's charges by stating that the Committee's platform recommends reform of the major portion of the President's foreign policy.

The Socialist Club will meet tonight in room 104 of Derby Hall to organize a protest. The club announced its intention to invite former members of the disbanded Youth Committee Against War to attend the meeting.

Dress Sought For Kaplanoff

Anybody know where Carl Kaplanoff, giant football tackle, can get a dress?

Kaplanoff is holding up dress rehearsals for Scarlet Mask's production, "Cheer as You Go" because he can't get a dress large enough to fit him.

Someone suggested awnings but Kappie doesn't like stripes.

Music Department to Face 'Population Problem' Friday

What would happen if the enrollment of the University were to double overnight? Or if a city the size of Bellaire or Fremont migrated to the campus? That gives you some idea of the problem facing the department of music when some 6500 high school musicians and their parents come to participate in the Ohio High School Music Festival Friday and Saturday.

But that isn't all. These musicians make up 84 vocal ensembles and 41 orchestras, which must be guided through a schedule of competition and recreation without mishap or delay.

Faced with this huge task, Professor Eugene J. Weigel, department of music, is depending on the system he has worked out in previous years. His plans require, among other things, the use of four buildings, a complete and private telephone system, and a staff of 125 assistants drafted from the Concert Band, the Symphony Orchestra, the Glee Clubs, and the music honoraries, Phi Mu Alpha and Delta Omicron.

Orchestra Itinerary

A competing orchestra or chorus will report to the northwest entrance of Derby Hall at least one hour before it is to compete. Here they will be assigned a guide who will conduct them to a room in that building. They may rehearse there until called 15 to 30 minutes before their scheduled competition. They then go to the Gymnasium, the Armory, or Rehearsal Hall, spend 10 minutes in tuning, then move to the assigned stage as soon as their predecessor has finished. After playing or singing three numbers, they will leave the building, return to Derby Hall, and then be released to go on conducted tours of the campus, or amuse themselves as they wish, until the time comes to receive their ratings and leave for home.

In order that all points may be in constant contact with each other and with headquarters in the Physical Education Building, engineering students in the Concert Band will install a field telephone system.

Meanwhile, students with Friday classes in Derby are happy about the whole thing, since these classes will not meet because the building will be used by the visitors.

Arant Averse To Double Pay

Breathes there a man with soul so dead who never to himself has said — "I could use twice the amount of money that I'm making." Well, believe it or not there is just such a man on the campus today.

This strange person is Judge Herschel W. Arant who was appointed as Federal Judge of the Sixth Appellate District Court last winter. Before Judge Arant was sworn in on March 7, he tendered his resignation as Dean of the Law College to the University Trustees. The Trustees have withheld action and consequently Judge Arant has been receiving two salaries.

Now most men wouldn't mind this state of affairs. But not Arant. "I'd rather teach without a salary," said former Dean Arant. Which just goes to prove money doesn't mean everything. Or doesn't it?

YMCA Discusses Science, Religion

Correlation Is Cited by Dr. Avey; Sophomore Council Is Planned

"Can I Be Both Scientific and Religious?" was the topic of discussion at the weekly meeting of the Freshman Council of the YMCA Tuesday night at the Ohio Union. Dr. Albert E. Avey, department of philosophy, led the group in an informal discussion of the problem.

A motion to set up a Sophomore Council in the autumn quarter was passed in a brief business meeting which preceded the religious discussion.

Science and Religion

"Science," declared Dr. Avey, "is one of the chief instruments of religion. Science and religion are closely correlated in that they both seek out the way of life from its earliest beginnings to the present day."

Denouncing pessimists as "spoiled children," Dr. Avey set forth the need for intelligent thinking and a more thorough understanding of both science and religion as a solution of our present-day problems.

More than 1000 Sounds Imitated at WOSU; Guillotine Made of Vinegar Soaked Hinge

By JOHN MURRAY

Ingenuity is the mother of sound effects.

W. Friel Heimlich, production supervisor of WOSU, might adopt that as his slogan, for the simulation of some sounds must really test his imagination.

For instance: cornstarch held close to the microphone and rhythmically pressed with the thumbs is a man walking in the snow; 16 rectangular blocks of wood suspended within a wooden frame is an army or a group of men marching in precise step; a hinge soaked in vinegar to make it squeak and attached to a topless and bottomless cheese box is many things, from a creaking door in a

Ohio Conference Of Engineering Men to Meet Here

Eight Colleges and Universities Represented

Engineering faculty members from eight colleges and universities will meet here Saturday for the annual Ohio section conference of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education.

Modern trends in engineering education, the future of engineering education, and the guidance and selection of engineering students are among the subjects to be considered. The Ohio section has a membership of 150, coming from Case, Penn, Toledo, Cincinnati, Denison, Ohio Northern, Ohio, and Ohio State.

Ott to Open Session

Professor P. W. Ott, department of mechanics, the section chairman, will open the session at 10 a. m. in the Faculty Club. Following a welcome by Dr. William McPherson, acting president, Dean Charles E. MacQuigg, College of Engineering, will lead the discussion of "Modern Trends in Engineering Education."

Dr. Charles F. Scott, New Haven, Conn., will discuss "The Engineers' Council for Professional Development and Its Effect Upon the Future of Engineering Education." Dr. Scott is chairman of the council's committee on professional recognition.

Mills to Speak

After luncheon in the Faculty Club, the guidance selection of engineering students will be under discussion by Lawrence Mills, assistant examiner here.

A conference on coordination of engineering education in Ohio, an inspection of University laboratories, and election of officers complete the program. Section officers, in addition to Mr. Ott, are: H. R. Young, of Case, and W. M. Young, of Ohio University, vice presidents; Miss Sada A. Harbarger, department of English, secretary.

Kopczynski Given Student Court Post

Eugene Kopczynski, A-3, today was appointed by the executive committee of the IMA as supreme court justice on constitutional matters, according to Leon D. Kogan, Com-2, president of the IMA. He will assist Martin M. Bonar, Ag-3, who was elected to the court April 10.

At the IMA-IWA dancing classes Tuesday evening, Dale Heath, instructor, introduced a new dance step called the "Ohio State Hop." Admission to these classes is now 5 cents for IMA members, 20 cents for non-members, with no admission charge for girls.

Nurses' Group Holds Meeting

Sources of occupational therapy were studied and discussed at a meeting of the Torch Club, nursing honorary, at 8 p. m. Tuesday in Pomerene Hall.

Doris M. Klar, Ed-3, spoke on the subject "Material Used in the Study of Pediatrics" and Minerva M. Burner, Ed-5, gave a short talk on "The Place of Occupational Therapy in District Nursing."

A book committee has been selected by the club to aid in the distribution of books in the University Hospital.

Projects Planned In Joint Assembly

WSGA Co-Op Houses, Yearbook, and Summer Plans Discussed by Residents

WSGA cooperative houses were discussed in a joint meeting of the University and Sorority House Assemblies Tuesday afternoon in Pomerene Hall.

Progress of WSGA's yearbook was also discussed as well as the summer plans of sorority houses.

Dean of Women Esther Allen Gaw explained that the cooperative houses would be supervised by reliable junior and senior women students, and that such a project would greatly decrease living expenses for the residents. She also spoke of the activities to be recorded in the creative yearbook which is annually presented to the University.

Summer Activities

Julie B. Allen, A-2, asked sororities to propose the problem of the summer activities of their houses to members so that reports might be made at the next Sorority House Assembly meeting, to be held May 2 in Pomerene Hall. Miss Allar also announced a special meeting for head residents only on Tuesday at 2 p. m.

The guest speaker was Professor Harlan H. Hatcher, department of English, whose subject was "Adventure in Writing."

Rain 'Cancels' Sun's Eclipse

"Cancelled because of rain" has become a familiar theme this last week in applying an effective damper to many activities.

The clouds went a step further today in eliminating the possibilities of observing from here the partial eclipse of the sun. Authorities at McMillin Observatory say there is no doubt but that the process went on anyway.

There is encouraging news, however, for ardent astral fans. They're looking forward to a partial eclipse of the moon in October.

Bricker to Speak Before Editors

Governor John W. Bricker heads the list of speakers for the annual meeting of the Blue Pencil Club at the University May 7.

This club, composed of desk workers on Ohio daily and weekly papers, meets once a year for "shop talk."

Officers are: John D. Zook, State Division of Conservation, president; Dalton A. Young, Bellefontaine Examiner, vice president; Harold K. Schellenger, Ohio State News Bureau, acting secretary.

Lutheran Students Plan Wiener Roast

The Lutheran Student Association will hold a wiener roast Friday, April 21, Jack E. Henthorn, Com-2, announced today.

All Lutheran students are invited. The party will leave from the Ohio Union at 6:30 p. m., unless it rains, in which event the party will take place in St. Luke's Church.

$50 Fine Placed on Future Water Fights

Council Votes to Penalize Violence By Fraternities; Abolish Corsages

William H. Allen, Com-2, was selected unanimously by the Council of Fraternity Presidents Tuesday night to succeed Joseph M. Ryan, A-3, as Secretary of Fraternity Affairs. A motion that any fraternity implicated in a water fight would be fined $50 and placed on social probation for the remainder of the quarter was passed also by a small majority, after a second vote was taken.

Managers to Hold Annual Meeting

Association of Fraternity Directors to Hear Report Of Year's Activities

R. B. Stewart, comptroller of Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., will be the speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Fraternity Managers' Association, Wednesday, April 26.

The affair will be held at 6 p. m. in room 309, Pomerene Hall. Advisers, stewards and treasurers of 80 fraternities and sororities have been asked to attend.

Park Is Toastmaster

Dean of Men Joseph A. Park will be the toastmaster. In addition to hearing the talk by Mr. Stewart, those attending will hear a report of the association's activities for the year, a discussion of plans for the new year, and they will participate in the election of new student members to the board of trustees.

Dr. William McPherson, acting president; Dr. J. L. Morrill, vice president; Carl E. Steeb, business manager, and other university officials have been asked to attend.

Meeting to Hear Edwin Sutherland

Edwin H. Sutherland of Indiana University, president of the American Sociological Society, will speak on the Ohio State campus, April 28, when sociologists from six states convene here for the two day conference of the Ohio Valley Sociological Society.

The Sociad Club, an organization of students in social administration, will play host to the Ohio Student Sociological Association, which will also hold its meeting here. Students from all parts of the state will submit papers on modern sociological problems.

Mr. Sutherland will talk before the opening day dinner meeting which both groups will attend.

* Ryan automatically succeeds John I. Carlson, Ed-4, as president of the council.

Allen is a member of Scarlet Mask, Strollers, Romophos, YMCA, and Sigma Chi, social fraternity. Ryan is a member of Scarlet Mask, YMCA, Bucket and Dipper, Romophos, and Phi Gamma Delta, social fraternity.

Water Fights

Members pointed out that any fraternity involved in a water fight, either through one member or the whole chapter, will be fined "unless proof can be furnished that they are defending their property." Any type of disturbance that might lead to violence was included in the ruling. The action was taken, however, because of the recent water fights.

Continuance of the Fraternity Dance Parade over WOSU was voted down because of the expense involved. Because an assessment would have to be levied against each fraternity a three-fourths ruling was needed to pass the measure. It failed 29 to 12. Dean W. Palmer, Com-3, pointed out that if fraternities would enlist the aid of other campus organizations the actual expense per organization would be very little. This plan was also voted down, however.

Publicity Committee

The temporary publicity committee was made a permanent standing committee. It will attempt to minimize adverse publicity and to promote.

Coal Changed into Comfort By University Power Plant

By KING MIREs

Divide 36,000 tons of coal into six furnaces, and multiply by one year, and what do you get? You might crack back and say, "All that $?!&... soot and ash we inhale here," but there's another, and more suitable answer to it. And more beneficial, too.

Those 36,000 tons of coal furnished all the heat, light and hot water that you use in a year's time here on the campus, for they are fed into all or part of the six huge furnaces down in the University's power plant. And when you stop to think that it makes classrooms comfortable, the soot isn't so important a factor in the picture.

And here's another problem in mathematics. If you multiply 12,000,000 kilowatt hours by the standard rate for electricity, where do you come out? Maybe you don't come out, but the University does, and ahead, for that is the amount it saves by generating its own electricity.

Designed for Heat

When the power plant was erected, it was put up primarily to supply heat for the buildings. And that is still the major task. It was thought practical, since they had to install furnaces anyway, to add a little boiler capacity, produce more steam, and generate the electricity too, which is what was done.

Today the power plant has six furnaces, stoked automatically, which

Campus Maze

Taking a turn around the basement, you're liable to get lost in the maze of pipes if you don't blaze a trail. There are pipes all over the place. In fact, so many pipes that they have to paint different colored bands on them to identify them. Eventually the pipes take a quick twist and duck into the heat tunnels that lead to the buildings. And, incidentally, there are about four miles of such tunnels under the campus.

Just one last teaser. If you have a strike in the coal fields, what happens to the power and heat? The answer is, don't worry. There is enough coal on hand to run the plant for about two months, at the very least. The lights will go on just the same—and you won't be needing the heat much longer anyway.

Peace Mobilization

The cry of peace today is faint, trapped in a forest of bristling arms and diplomatic subterfuge. The annual demonstration for peace, staged by the Peace Mobilization Committee to be held in front of the Main Library at 11 a. m. Thursday, comes at a particularly critical moment in the history of a distressed world.

It doesn't seem likely that anything said at the demonstration tomorrow will travel far beyond the confines of the University community. Seismologists need not fear earth-shaking tremors set up by some violent declaration. Nobody expects that. But it promises to be a healthy expression of those remnants of sanity that still hold sway among certain peoples.

Particularly appropriate is it that a peace demonstration should be staged by youth. For we are a hapless generation. Our nativity was marked by bursting shrapnel, and our entrance into maturity is greeted with a series of world crises which outdo anything that Orson Welles could ever dream up.

It is vital that we who constitute today's middle generation escape the fatalistic attitude which seems to characterize our elders. Ours are the voices which must sanely refute the propagandists' bait, and expose, unashamedly, a hatred of war and the selfish machinations which lead us into it.

It is not cowardly to argue for peace, but rather honorable and human. A peace demonstration is entirely in harmony with such a belief. But the support engendered by this expression of a common desire for peace should not be made a peg upon which to hang extraneous doctrines and policies. The cry for amity among men should not be used as a cloak to hide the promotion of pet ideas of dissident factions. That is neither honest nor fair.

Triple Threat Men?

Ohio Staters, Inc., has announced that it will abandon its past procedure of contacting high school football players and will bend efforts to interest students with high scholastic averages in the University. This is a novel tack which Ohio Staters takes, opening new vistas to the man with a strong imagination.

Picture the consternation and dismay of our football opponents when, in a few years, we trot out our Phi Beta Kappa backfield, and our equally erudite line! Won't they be the confounded fellows, though, when our worthies get fired by the heat of the fray and start tossing polysyllabic words about with abandon!

What team will be able to withstand the onslaughts of a squad which employs a slide rule and calculus to make those last five yards? The Scholastic Scourge, brought to us through the courtesy of Ohio Staters, Inc., should win o'er all.

Quotable Quotes . . .

"Scholarly work is by no means confined to studying; it necessarily includes writing. Knowledge isolated in a scholar's mind is useless unless it is disseminated. The only way that dissemination may be accomplished is through the use of language, and the student must therefore know how to use English idiomatically and correctly."

Columbia University's Dr. C. J. H. Hayes urges Ph.D.'s to take more English so they can write better reports and theses.

"We have no choice, if we love liberty and respect individual worth, other than to place behind the Christian colleges of America the full strength of our resources, both material and spiritual. The body politic is in constant and sore need of the leavening influence that flows from these institutions."

Nebraska's Senator Burke argues that colleges should graduate students "firmly grounded in the fundamentals of Americanism."

Collegiate Circle

By Judith Smilack

Intestinal Fortitude . . .

With the rage for goldfish eating in collegiate circles giving way to orgies of rat eating, student sanity is becoming suspect. "Human Fish" Marion Salisbury, Oregon State College student, was irked when people implied that he was "tetched" after he had consumed 139 angelfish. Just like eating oysters, he said.

While the University Daily Kansan carried a reprint of an editorial from the Emporia Gazette which "grieved over the evils of this world and particularly the unholy-whoop-to-do of American higher education" the front page whooped it up for Goldfish Bob Ramsey, erstwhile goldfish eating champion (he ate 50 wigglers in 8 minutes) and candidate for president of the Men's Student Council. In his platform Goldfish Ramsey expressed the hope that "if our football team can't make the bowl games maybe our goldfish can."

A school of journalism co-ed at the University of Texas, defying the statement of physicians that swallowing of live goldfish may bring on anemia through introduction of tapeworm, downed a wiggler in quest of the co-ed goldfish championship.

The University of Oklahoma's latest addition to the college diet is football-minus-bladder. The engineering freshman who ate the water-soaked pigskin refused to recommend it as food. He was sick for eight hours after eating the ball.

For the last course, we serve, if not the most palatable, the most unusual dish of the column . . . live white rats. John Poppelreiter, University of Illinois freshman football fullback swallowed five two-day-old, wriggling rodents, weighing two ounces each for $10. Asked if he felt anything in the process, he answered that the tails tickled quite a bit and he admits that the first one smelled kind of funny.

Commenting on the incident, one of the school's zoology professors stated, "The rat would either be suffocated by the clogging effect of the gastric juices or would be drowned. It would probably feel no pain and would find the stomach just a warm place to sleep."

Intestinal fortitude . . . ugh!

Just Perty . . .

In the hope that Artist James Montgomery Flagg would choose 10 beautiful co-eds, the Campus Club at the University of Toledo submitted 32 portraits of picked candidates. Flagg returned the pictures and wrote, "I didn't consent to pick 10 beauties; there wouldn't be that many in 10 colleges. I have marked three good looking young ladies—not beauties . . . beauties don't enter beauty contests!"

Peace at War . . .

Admitting that there are some ideals too serious for ridicule, students at the University of Chicago rolled in the aisles at the prospect of having, not one peace strike, but three. The Trotskyites, the Youth Committee Against War and the American Student Union couldn't get together.

Anti-Combitis . . .

Marvin Johnson, University of Oklahoma year-book editor, denied that he and 14 Phi Kappa Psi brothers intended to spread Nazi influences when they obtained haircuts similar to those worn by German boys while they are in Prussian army training. "We're just trying to discourage the comb, not encourage Hitler!" he defended himself.

Streamlined Report . . .

Efficient Radcliffe College women pulled a new one out of their sleeve lately—a "date reporting" system that saves time. Instead of taking up a good part of the morning rating last night's beau, Radcliffe women, when they return in the evening must "sign in" in a big book provided for that purpose. A bunch of different colored pencils and a chart which tells them which color to rate their escort of the evening complete the apparatus.

Bright red, for example, tells the dormitory girls of a "perfectly swell time." Purple is tops. A report in purple means that the evening's experience was "too, too divine." Yellow means "an utter flop."

Living on Air . . .

Dr. Thurman B. Rice, chairman of Indiana State Board of Health, lecturing on the "Biological Aspect of Marriage" to 400 Purdue senior men, answered the question "Should you wait until you are settled with a permanent job and are receiving $2000 a year before you marry?" with an explosive "No!" Now if the doctor will just recommend a nourishing water and air diet . . .

It Can Be Done . . .

Males at Indiana University are beginning to wonder a little. "Why is it," they query, "that when scholastic averages are released, the co-eds dominate the top of the list and the men overpopulate the middle and end of the list?"

They agree that the girls are attacking the problem in a more effective way than themselves. Otherwise the men would have to admit that the co-eds are just naturally more intelligent!

And they'd better look to their marching laurels as well. Forty-two women members of a newly formed Indiana University drum, fife, and bugle corps were measured for uniforms last week.

Purely Personal Equations . . .

... Like I said before, "Who cares what I think?" Who gives two whoops and an empty bottle for my opinions? And so I go right on spilling them all over the place. Move over . . . you.

... Being a self-conscious combination, and charged with an earnest desire to please, I find nothing more maddening than the problem of saying goodbye. When I have been invited out for an evening and have gorged myself with the good lady's mutton and whatnots . . . When I have inclined the ear to good conversation and the host yawns in my face to suggest that among other things I might look for my hat . . . and I do . . . then begins my social Waterloo.

... I make the rounds and pat the dog. I stand by the door twirling my hat remembering things I should have said much earlier. I insist that the mutton was tender and the macaroons unspeakably appetizing. I ask, in passing, if little Herbrides still takes lessons on the viola.

The picture atop the piano looks exactly like nothing human, but I agree that it becomes Uncle Herman or whoever-it-is. By this time my hosts are wondering if I really mean to let them get some sleep and I am balancing uncomfortably on one foot and then the other.

Seven times I have touched the doorknob only to add some innane afterthought. Finally, with firmness and determination, I open the door and send a feeble, "Well, goodbye" into their midst.

I leave. Leave feeling like that busted Model T, having purged myself of every imaginable gratitude . . . bored my hosts . . . and spoiled for myself what might have otherwise been a first class evening.

... Someone has just offered me a fistful of chocolate raisins and I have refused nicely because once in my very early days I had a most unfortunate experience with the tender, tasty morsels.

... I was, I think, seven years old and was detained after school for one thing or another. When I was at length excused I sallied out by way of the cloakroom and, as I turned into the hall, something bright took my eye. There, lo and behold, on the flat radiator top was a half-dollar. A fine round silver half-dollar.

I took it. Heaven knows I might have realized that someone had put it there . . . not for me . . . but I saw only that there was no one in sight claiming the cash.

I immediately translated it into terms of chocolate covered raisins at the confectioners on the corner. Mind you, a half dollar was a huge sum. My experiences with money had been confined to pennies and nickels, and the prospect of an unattached sum of this proportion was all too great a challenge to my sense of values.

... Raisins I bought. Two pounds of the things, and I buried them in a corner of the playroom, where, I was sure, even the Lord wouldn't notice them.

... I went outside to play with my brother.

... Nothing can describe my dismay when I saw my second grade teacher mincing down the walk to our house. She called to me, "Billy, is your mother at home?" She sounded very nice about it and took my hand, but I had that smart of fear and misery so common to erring children.

... Of course my mother was at home. Of course I had to admit pinching the half-dollar. Mother wept and I wailed forth my own grief. I think the teacher was even a little sorry about the whole thing.

... She finally went away, having been reimbursed, and I was left to the not-too-tender mercies of an exasperated mother. She dusted things off in general until she had exhausted herself and then sent me to bed—minus supper. By some happy token my father was out of town, and it was decided that he should be spared the knowledge of my crime. I think my mother was afraid father would kill me.

... Chocolate raisins . . . ? No, thank you.

Way Back When

By JOHN MURRAY

APRIL 8, 1921—Perfume, toilet water, bay rum, and hair tonic are all said to have had their day as "kick producers" when added in sufficient quantities to a soft drink. Recently, however, a student tried something that makes us wonder whether he has discovered a new "kick" or whether he was only trying to lead some thirsty brothers astray.

The student ordered a milk shake, sipped it a moment, extracted a tube of toothpaste from his pocket, removed the cap, placed the opening at the end of the straw, then squeezed the tube. The effect seemed to have the desired result, judging from the facial expression.

APRIL 13, 1921—Notwithstanding opposition to women suffrage, Lucille Atcherson, former secretary to Dr. W. O. Thompson, will probably be appointed to the staff of the American Embassy in Paris. She has been recommended by Senator Willis and Myron T. Herrick, newly appointed ambassador to France.

Touring the Campus

by Bus

Judging from the gossip items chosen for today the cold and damp weather is not dampening the fancies of the young men on the campus for—Bob Hancher, Chi Phi, would enjoy very very much, he says, to have a date with Alpha Xi Melba Beck . . . Steve Andrako and Patty Pierce have been cuddling quite a bit lately . . . Sue Rumer, Chi O, took a Nu Sigma Nu pin last week and Dottie DeMuth of the same lodge is still going strong for Bob Snider of the Delta Chi shack . . .

Bob Hughes, former rifle team captain, is always asking about a Miss Helen Clark of Portsmouth, which Delta Chi does Virginia Shucker go for? She has had dates with John Dagenhard, Bill Horneck, and another one or two recently. She also seems to think that she has Don Scott wrapped around her little finger.—Forrest Fordham's gal friend Mary Jane Riese recently pledged Chi O.

Bob Swigert put his jewelry on Ruth Snow again recently after having had it there once and removed it temporarily in January.—Has anyone kept track of the dates Art Cain has asked for and been refused by Louise Bittner. She is said never to refuse on Fred Hand.—Harry Valery and Alice Chambers are still making the rounds.—Merlin McElvain is quite the ladies' man from all reports. We hear he always has a new one on the string.

Eugene Kopczynski, the guy who never gets his name spelled right, and his gal friend Lynn Delson, a newcomer to these parts, worked their way to the band stand at the Military ball only to find that they had no pencil. How depressing.—John Cieto is once again waxing sugary with his gal friend Norma since a new job produced more of the "long green."

It is rumored that Tanny Goodwin and Betty Lou Thompson traded formal gowns with each other for the Homecoming dance and the Military ball.—By the way Jake Shawan was to be doing pretty well in the Goodwin league.—Mary Ann Fite was all a dither Saturday over the arrival of her boy friend Dick Peterson, former Phi Psi.—Mary Reed said lots of sweet things to Jack Schiff, former SAE, also.—We wish the boys of Bucket and Dipper would hurry up and cut Al Patnik's hair.—

Dean Palmer, hair cut and all, swung merrily at the Triad with Doris Maxon, the Makio beauty queen.

Harold Marcy has been going steady with Ruth Bowsher for two years. She's wearing a ring now but won't say whether or not Marcy gave it to her.—Johnny Pruski recently tried to get Jane Williams to break a date with an out of town. She refused. We wonder what Kay Richards thinks of this?—Tally Ho until Friday.

Dorm Assembly Elects Chairmen

At the first meeting of Dormitory Assembly since the election of new officers two committees were inaugurated, the sergeant-at-arms committee, headed by Eileen W. Selected for the current cultural events committee was Jane R. Simon, Ag-2, and Olive W. Smith, Ed-1.

The Fashion

Snoopin'

The weekly jaunt is plenty of fun but hard on my morale. I not only want to tell you about everything I see but I want to own it all myself.

For instance, breathes there a girl with the stamina to resist the exquisite frilly, white organdie blouses of this spring? Topping a short daytime skirt or a long evening skirt and streaked with a bright sash they're nothing short of the "essence of femininity." Crepe daytime skirts are 2.98 and 3.98 . . . the concertina-pleated evening skirts, 5.95 . . . blouses from 2.98 to 5.95 . . . sashes, 1.00.

You probably adore the gossamer-sheer beauty of two-thread hose but consider them a rank extravagance because of their fragility, so see our new ones at 79¢, 3 pairs 2.25. Woven by a secret process they've been given tests that actually prove they give the wear of three-thread hose . . . a real break for luxury-lovers with a budget bugbear.

An invitation: come in and meet our "Julie Dolls," hand-crocheted by a Columbus woman and the very newest addition to our collection of lapel gadgets. All dressed up in crocheted bonnets and frocks they perch on your lapel with such a lovable, companionable air you'll never regret the day you invested 75¢ in one.

Sees Jock Sutherland Waiting a Year
Before Accepting Another Coaching
Job as Result of Recent Developments

Lantern Sports Editor

We wonder about the significance of the new job which Jock Sutherland accepted with the state of Pennsylvania Tuesday. Does this mean the retirement of one of the greatest coaches in the history of football?

We think not. Dr. Sutherland is probably biding his time before accepting another post at the helm of a grid team, for his last few years with the Panthers has not been strictly peaches and cream. Jock is recognized as a smart football teacher and he is probably just as smart in many another way.

One thing that you can bet your life's savings on is that Jock will take a football job in the future again, but the job he accepts will be at a big school. As a smart individual, he knows that to be a good coach one must have good material. That's the main reason he quit Pitt. The de-emphasizing of football which is taking place at the Panther institution is not going to bring the material Jock wishes to coach.

At the present time, there is not a school in the country with the setup that Sutherland likes that is in the market for a new coach. That's probably the reason he is not contemplating acceptance of a grid job for this season at least.

A year's wait will bring him plenty of offers without a doubt for there is never a year that passes without some big institution changing its coaching setup because of a poor season.

Blickle Is Real Aid . . .

Eddie Blickle, latest addition to the Ohio State coaching staff this school year, has proved to be of great value to the Buckeyes. Probably the busiest man on the coaching staff over the period of the entire athletic season, Eddie has been invaluable to the head coaches under whom he has worked thus far.

Coming from Huntington, W. Va., where he had a great record as the coach of the high school teams, Blickle has stepped into the shoes of Floyd Stahl on the staff of experts here and has left nothing to be desired.

In football, he coached the backs and did much of the scouting in great fashion. H. G. Olsen found in the boyish-looking Blickle a great assistant in tutoring the cagers to their championship this past season. Also Blickle is very popular with the athletes and they all have great respect for him.

Now he is aiding Schmidt with spring football, and when that is finished in three weeks, he will move over to the cinder paths to render Larry Snyder some aid in coaching the tracksters.

Eddie is more than a good coach. He himself was and still is a great athlete. There is no sport in which he doesn't excel and he can always be found giving the younger men a run for their money in actual scrimmages.

When he was brought here last fall, Ohio State athletics took a great stride forward.

Pity the I-M Department . . .

We pity the intramural department this spring. To date, it has been able to get but one day's activities in five run off. Eighty softball games have already been postponed because of the weather, and in addition some 20 or so baseball tilts have also been called off. The I-M department will now have to reschedule every one of these games postponed if it hopes to complete the spring program which it has outlined.

To get all these games played off in time will mean the necessity of scheduling two and maybe three games a week for one team which will also be a burden to these teams entered in the different sports.

BUCK GOLFERS PREP FOR TILT WITH ALUMNI

Ohio State's linksmen, with the Michigan meet out of the way, began preparations for Saturday's match against the Alumni. The team is once again working out on the University golf course.

The players who will tee off against the Alumni will be selected by Coach Bob Kepler this Thursday. A qualifying round of play will be held Thursday afternoon and with this and his own judgment used as a basis, Kepler will select the team.

The Alumni squad will consist of such players as Harold Gardiner, Lynn St. John, A. Rankin, Hamilton Hedges, Bill Lovebury and Johnny Florio.

This match was to have been played April 8, but was called off because of unsatisfactory weather conditions. When Notre Dame called off its match scheduled for this Saturday, the Alumni was substituted in its place.

O'Brien Will Address Horticulture Society

Harry R. O'Brien, School of Journalism, will talk on "Hunting Horticulture with a Camera," at a meeting of the Student Horticulture Society at 7 p. m. Thursday, in room 206 of the Horticulture and Forestry Building.

Officers for the spring quarter will be elected following Mr. O'Brien's talk.

The first degree-granting, post-graduate school in the United States devoted entirely to insurance training has been founded recently in Hartford, Conn.

Announce New Basketball Organization

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19—(UP)—Formation of a permanent national association of intercollegiate basketball, open to every accredited college in the country, was announced today by Emil S. Liston, chairman of the board of management of the national intercollegiate tournament.

Liston said the new organization would have complete control of the annual tournament here and would promote state and district eliminations to determine the competing teams.

Under the proposed set-up, the nation would be divided into 32 districts and the member colleges in each district would select a chairman to direct basketball activities.

The plan, Liston said, had the sanction of all of the principal athletic conferences.

Players Will Present 'Forgot in the Rains'

The WOSU Players will present "Forgot in the Rains," written by William O. Merrick, a former student, at 8 p. m. Friday over station WOSU.

Mr. Merrick is now with the Columbia Broadcasting System. He has given the WOSU Players special permission to present his play.

The cast includes: Jeanne Levette, Harold P. Levy, Albert C. Houghton, Elbert P. Shille, Phillip Doelker and Herbert T. Fessler.

Indiana University is constructing 20 new tennis courts as part of a campus WPA project.

Michigan Looms In Home Big Ten Opener on Friday

By RAY RICKLES

Friday and Saturday's meeting with the Michigan Wolverines brings back memories to 11 of Coach Fritz Mackey's boys of the 6 to 0 defeat they received last campaign in the Ann Arbor balliwick and of the double loss they suffered at the Wolves' hands in the 1937 campaign.

The present group of Buck base-batters have never turned in a victory over a Ray Fisher coached unit and since this season's all-sports won and losses with the traditional foe is about even with a loss in football, two wins in basketball, two ties in swimming and losses in wrestling and just this week, golf. If anything the Buckeyes have gotten the worst end of this year's competition and a clean sweep by the basebatters would ease some of the wounds.

Not only that but the Bucks would start out in the right direction in their quest for the Big Ten flag. Every year that they have lost to the Wolves the Ohio aggregation has finished higher in the standings but as far as the Michigan delegation is concerned the past two years are now the beginning of a jinx.

Last Season . . .

Last season Michigan won 14 and lost 12 for a little better than .500, but its prime effort was third spot in the Big Ten team batting averages with a tidy mark of .253 and they placed second in the hit column with 95.

Regulars are ready for all spots but shortstop where three men, Bill Steppon, Mike Sofiak and Art Bergensen were under consideration. An added year of experience for the Fisher men will contribute to the offensive record they amassed last season.

First base belongs to Elmer Gedeon, all around athlete who stars in track too, while Captain Wally Peckinpough is on third. Sandwiched between them on second base will be Pet Lisagor.

Pitching holds the key to the Michigan hopes and the loss of Herman Fishman, Burt Smith and Ed Andronik has hurt the Wolves' chances. Number one returning moundman is Jack Barry, who will more than likely oppose our own John Dagenhard in the opener Friday. Both are experienced hurlers and should put on an interesting battle. Barry didn't see very much service in last year's Western Conference race, but this year is different.

If Coach Ray Fisher doesn't want Barry starting, he may pitch any one of a few including among them two sophomore prospects—Dean Du Bois, a lefty, and Les Veigel. Other prospects for the week end are Danny Smick and Russ Dobson.

An all veteran outfield is one of the Wolves' best line of defenses, with Freddie Trosko, Charlie Pink and Smick, familiar football names, all back. Harold Floersch and Horace Tinker are always ready to take over when Smick departs from the outer garden to take over first when Gedeon is absent or to take the mound.

Physics Society Chooses Officers

Sigma Pi Sigma, physics recognition society, elected officers Tuesday evening in Mendenhall Laboratory. The new officers are: president, Harry D. Polster; vice president, Edmund E. Goodale; corresponding secretary, Hugh B. Stewart; recording secretary, John W. DeWire, and treasurer, Charles R. Deeter.

A report on the activities of the national convention of the society, which met on the campus April 6-8, comprised the other business of the meeting.

Curator Thomas Speaks

Edward S. Thomas, curator of natural history at the University Museum, spoke before the University Dames and their husbands on the subject, "The Lure of the Sandstone Country," Tuesday at 8 p. m., in the grand lounge of Pomerene Hall.

Tennis Team Bows to Rain Once Again

Inclement weather Tuesday forced tennis coach Herman Wirthwein to postpone the scheduled season's opener with Ohio Wesleyan. The match will be played off at a later date.

Until the beginning of a fresh deluge at 11 a. m. Tuesday, the courts were in suitable condition to bear the strain of a match.

Had the match been played off Tuesday, the Buckeyes would have had the advantage in spite of their lack of practice. Both Tracy Jones and Harry Zinc, the Bishops' top men, are hard hitters. The damp clay would have slowed up their games to give the State netters, who rely on steady play, a better chance to win.

The next match on State's schedule is with Ohio University, which comes here to meet the Buckeyes Saturday at 2 p. m. The Bobcats ought not prove too difficult for the Buck netters to handle as they are not very strong and have also suffered from lack of practice.

The Bucks have not had more than a day or two to practice since they returned from their southern tour which they undertook during spring vacation. While this may not seem apparent in their first few matches, which are with smaller schools, the want of practice sessions will certainly have some effect when they face Big Ten teams.

Most of the other Conference teams have indoor facilities in event of adverse weather conditions and for winter practice. The Chicago, Michigan and Northwestern squads have been practicing throughout the winter.

An attempt was made to erect a court in the cattle barns, site of the new indoor track, this winter. The experiment, however, proved unsuccessful as the limited space hampered the strokes of the netters.

Like the baseball team, the tennisers are looking forward to an immediate let-up in the rain so they can get a few good practice sessions under their belts.

Dr. Sanderson To Give Report

The Parent Council, an organization of parents of University School students, and staff members of the school will hear Dr. Virginia S. Sanderson, College of Education, report on a study of 200 University School graduates Wednesday night in the school auditorium.

Dr. Sanderson will report on the progress these students have made in student participation, extra-curricular activities and the ability to cooperate. The students' point-hour ratios under the college system will also be discussed by Dr. Sanderson.

Railroad Veterinary To Speak at Clinic

Dr. W. J. Embree, official veterinarian for the New York Central Railroad, will address the Junior American Veterinary Medicine Association meeting at 7:30 tonight in the Veterinary Medicine Clinic on the subject, "Prevention of Accidents to Live Stock During Transportation." Nomination of officers for election to be held at the following meeting two weeks later will also be a part of the program. Dean Oscar V. Brumley, College of Veterinary Medicine, will speak also.

Rain Hampers I-M Schedule

Unsatisfactory weather conditions during the past two weeks has raised no end of havoc with the spring intramural schedules. Scheduled to begin a week ago Tuesday, only one day of play has been possible so far. This was last Thursday.

The intramural department is now in the midst of the bewildering problem of rescheduling five days of unplayed games.

Langhurst, Halibrun, Wellbaum Remove Fullback Worries

By DON SMITH

The closest thing to irresistible force to hit the Buckeye football camp in many a moon is a human battering-ram by the name of Jimmy Langhurst.

Placed on the All-Western Conference second team behind Wisconsin's Howard Weiss, and recipient of the Chicago Tribune's most-valuable-player award, Langhurst is rated as one of the top-ranking fullbacks in the country.

Iron Man Jim he is known as, for he played close to 60 minutes in all the Bucks' games last season. He could go the limit if needed. His ruggedness is unsurpassed.

Conference Standout . . .

Making the scales read 190, Langhurst is not only a hard driver of the Dick Heekin style, but is as shifty as a halfback when he passes the line of scrimmage. Langhurst should be the Conference standout next season.

Rating the No. 2 spot is Tommy Wellbaum. A 165-pound speed boy, Wellbaum is a shifty runner and can play practically any position in the backfield. With Langhurst ahead of him, Tommy did not see much action last year, but when he did break in the game his zephyr-like thrusts through the line and his flashy skirting of the ends showed that he can be injected into the fray at any time without hampering the Buckeye attack.

"Good Tough Back" . . .

The outstanding fullback of the freshman crop is John Halibrun, who is also a hard line smasher and possessor of the speed that is necessary to play this spot in the Schmidt system. Hailing from Mansfield, Halibrun is known as a "good tough back."

If necessity demands the moving of Johnny Rabb back to fullback, Langhurst can be moved to the left half post without any serious repercussions, for Langhurst can run as well from the left half position as he can from fullback.

With this sturdy triumvirate handling the fullback assignment, Coach Schmidt has plenty of speed, ruggedness, elusiveness and the "ole college try" to remove any worries he might have over this position.

Over 1000 Sounds Imitated at WOSU

shells strike, the material of the wagon's load and the surface over which the horse is walking can be changed. Most of the gadgets are similarly adjustable.

Mr. Heimlich pointed out that the simplest sounds are often the most difficult to effect. Among those that have puzzled him for a while were these: the closing of a box car door, which was solved by running a toy train over a board; an axe chopping a tree—for a while a piece of wood was actually chopped near the mike but stabbing the wood with an ice-pick and quickly prying out chunks of wood by strong wrist motion in removing the pick proved more satisfactory.

Recordings

Recorded under the general headings of wind, airplanes, motors, horns, crowds, etc., are reproductions of different types within each category. There are mild winds and gales; unruly crowds and cheering crowds; Model T motors and turbines; airplanes starting, taking off, landing and crashing.

Whenever a new sound is called for in a script, Mr. Heimlich consults experts acquainted with the sound. In a script in which a sound indigenous to an oil well was called for a man who had spent many years around oil wells checked the effect for accuracy.

To Mr. Heimlich's knowledge a sound effect has never been copy-righted. Radio stations trade effects with one another, WOSU's effects having been used at times by each of the stations downtown. In fact, New York stations have used WOSU's effects and vice versa, Heimlich said.

Leeder to Address University 4-H Club

The 4-H Club of Ohio State University will meet in room 206, Horticulture and Forestry Building, from 7 to 10:30 tonight.

Following the business meeting, a talk on music appreciation will be given by Professor Joseph A. Leeder, chairman of the department of music, and movies of rural California will be shown by J. E. Whonsetler, Franklin County Agricultural Agent.

Use of Derby Hall for High School Band and Orchestra Competition

The University will again offer its indispensable cooperation to the public schools by conducting on the campus the annual final competition for high school bands and orchestras which have won first places in preliminary competition in their home districts.

Derby Hall will again be required for this purpose and it will be necessary to release all classrooms in Derby Hall on Friday and Saturday, April 21 and 22. There is no other place to which these classes may be transferred and it will be necessary, therefore, to dismiss them.

Similar arrangements have been authorized by the department of physical education for the use of the gymnasium.
