Joyce Grant Is Makio Queen

The 1959 Makio Queen and court were announced last night. The lucky and lively five received telegrams around dinnertime.

Queen is Joyce Grant, Ed-2, Delta Gamma. Members of the court are Jeri Schroeder, H Ec-4, Kappa Delta; Judy Brunk, A-2; Janet Voll, Ed-2, Delta Gamma; and Gail Payne, Com-3, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Each year pictures of the nominated co-eds are sent to a celebrity for the final judging. This year Perry Como served as judge.

These girls will be honored in the 1959 Makio and the Queen will receive her trophy at the Makio banquet held during Spring Quarter.

Late Campus News

The Council of Fraternity Presidents last night devoted much of its time to scholarship. In an attempt to improve the scholastic rating of the fraternity system, the following action was taken.

A RESOLUTION was passed which recommends that a fraternity should not pledge a man who ranked in the lower third of his high school class or a man who has completed work at the University and does not have a point-hour ratio of 2.00 or above.

It was made clear that this resolution is not binding on the individual fraternities and is merely a statement of policy with the intent of improving scholarship.

C. W. Pettegrew, president of the Alpha Rho foundation of Pi Kappa Alpha, presented a plaque to the council which is to go to the fraternity which makes the greatest improvement in scholarship each quarter.

In other action the council voted to have Feb. 27 a closed social date so that the Greek Week variety show will have a better turn out. CFP decided to serve as ushers at the 1959 University Scholarship Banquet. The Council also appointed Dick Murgatroyd, A-4, Norm Mizer, Ag-3, and Mike Wadley, A-2, in charge of the Help Night activities.

Buckeye Political Party

The Buckeye Political Party plan to oppose the Student Senate's proposal to abolish class councils, announced John McHugh, president, last night during a meeting held in the Beta Theta Pi house.

The proposal will, if passed, eliminate all three class councils.

These are made up of the four class officers. The Senate will add two senate seats to each class making a total of seven senators per class. It will probably come to a vote Thursday night.

The Buckeye's stand to lose six student government positions if the proposal passes.

Minstrel Singer at Mershon Auditorium

Poetry can be sung or spoken asserts Richard Dyer-Bennet, well-known tenor-guitarist, who is scheduled to play tonight in Mershon Auditorium.

"Folk music is music of an unknown origin," he explained. "It exists orally and is passed down over the generations by word of mouth. Only the best survives." mouth. Only the best survives," he said yesterday while sampling a fresh fruit salad in the Union's Terrace Lounge.

"ONLY ON THE concert stage can you create a whole world and time of its own. There the audience comes to see the performer. In night clubs you have only divided attention," the handsome guitarist asserted.

Dyer-Bennet chose the guitar because it "is the most versatile and flexible of instruments you could conceivably use for accompaniment."

DYER-BENNET has the humor and feeling of the poet when describing his home in western Massachusetts, four and a half miles from the nearest town. In the summer he likes to just sit on the pond, smoking his pipe and reading. He utilizes his pond both for bank of his two and a half acre swimming and skating—"depending of course on the weather," he chuckled.

A RECENT GIFT, a motorcycle, is used to "toot around the country."

Dyer-Bennet considers himself a minstrel singer as opposed to Burl Ives, whom he considers a folk singer.

Interested in both music and poetry, the kind with qualities not related to a specific period, he feels that audiences respond to the old medieval songs as though they are contemporary.

He has a repertoire of over 600 songs—some of which he wrote. He also has produced 15 record albums and now owns his own company. The largest part of his collection comes from published sources. Some he copied while they were being sung to him, others he got from old manuscripts.

Rushing Over As 419 Pledge Greek Groups

Tonight 419 women will be formally pledged to sorority chapters at Ohio State. Dean Christine Conaway announced that 21 sororities will conduct pledging ceremonies sometime after 7 p.m.

During the ceremonies the girls will be given their new pledge pins. In many houses the girls will carry candles and will be dressed in white for the ceremony.

THIS WEEK the girls will also wear ribbons in their sorority's colors under their pins. They received their ribbons at informal pledging Monday night.

Informal pledging was the conclusion of three weeks of rushing. Some 700 girls registered at the beginning of rushing.

Monday night the rushees picked up their bid cards at 7 p.m. in Pomerene Hall. From there they went to the sorority house which had bid them for informal pledging. (See page 8 for pledge list.)

Students In Court On Larceny Charges

Four Ohio State freshmen are scheduled to appear in Municipal Court this morning to answer charges ranging from petty to grand larceny. They were arrested over the weekend for investigation of some 60 larcenies committed over the past several months.

Charged with two counts of petty larceny are Donald D. Stone, Engr-1; Lawrence V. Hiser, Jr., Engr-1; and Jon E. Staley, Ed-1. The fourth freshman, John G. Swisher, Ed-1, is charged with grand larceny.

A fifth student, arrested with them has been released. Five other teenagers, also members of the gang, are awaiting action by the Court of Domestic Relations.

Police revealed that the alleged thefts took place over several months in the Clintonville and Linden areas. Loot included everything from automobile tires to fishing tackle—all taken from parked cars and unlocked garages.

The police break on the case occurred Saturday when an officer spotted an oddly colored, orange and black car, parked in the general area where the thefts had occurred. Closer inspection revealed five stolen tires inside and four more on the wheels. After his arrest the car owner implicated the others and all ten arrests followed. curred. Police connected the car with earlier reports of the thefts.

BOOZE CUT WORKING

Premier Khrushchev has reported progress in the Russian campaign to cut down on the booze. He said the Soviet people drank more than 100 million fewer quarts of hard liquor in 1958 than in 1957.

Organization Man Draws Comment; Hospital Director Commends Sandbaggers

Ol' Doc . . .

Kris, dear Chil':

Seems as how you can't win these days—or least-wise I can't. So now some of my dear buddies are askin' why I quit amusin' 'em by writin' you letters.

An' along comes a friendly soul who wants to talk 'bout English, an' does me the honor of supposin' I know a verb from a noun, yet. Then the LANTERN starts printin' verse, like "Carbon Ohio," which is real 'joyable till people starts 'cusin' me of writin' it. I didn't.

Course I don't own no degrees in English or journalism, but I've come near to learnin' some other languages—cludin' Pennsylvanese. An' since examin'in' my older daughter's book full of literature, I've got some 'pinions on this here new-fangled poetry, which goes like this:

TO A ROSE BUD, WISER

the Stein . . .

the Stein . . .

the Stein . . .

is full of beer!

'urp . . . Oh, excuse, Gertie!

After I get 'long futher in my English lessons, I may be writin' you 'nother letter.

Ol' Doc McConnell.

Greeks . . .

What's wrong? Is the LANTERN afraid to recognize the independents on the campus?

Upon reading the article, "Students Volunteer in Sandbag Brigade," and the caption of the picture of students sandbagging, which was published in your Jan. 22 issue, I was very surprised to find that you had mentioned only fraternities and organizations connected with them.

I realize that these Greek letters organizations did turn out in large numbers, but I also realize that there were many independents that worked just as hard.

I am a member of a fraternity so it cannot be said that I am complaining because I didn't get recognized. I feel, however, that a great injustice has been done to these other students and something should be done about it.

Keith Jenkins, Ag-1.

Hospital . . .

To the Editor:

The staff and the patients of this hospital want to say a word of thanks to the many University students for their prompt and enthusiastic response to the appeal for help in protecting the hospital property against flood damage.

On Wednesday evening there was a hard-working group here who filled and stacked sand bags at vital areas, thus providing a margin of protection and helping to reduce flood loss to a very minor figure.

Students of the School of Nursing volunteered for extra service on the patient divisions. Fortunately, they were not needed.

Thanks to all,

R. H. Browning, M.D., Dir.,
Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital
of the Department of Health.

Dead Soul . . .

To the Editor:

Through the Editor's Mail Bag I would like to extend my deep sympathy to the "Dead Soul" of John Oravec.

Apparently it is too late for the effects of all the vital, life-giving forces that prevail on our campus to reach him. Obviously, he preferred to harbor an elaborate set of germs during the last four years that has finally brought about his mental demise at the ripe old age of 28.

He never knew that "opportunity" is usually realized only through "cooperation" and that "organization" is an essential part of any worthwhile plan.

Lilyan B. Bradshaw,
Placement Director,
College of Engineering.

Sherry . . .

To the Editor:

It was surely interesting to read all about Sherry Steinecker's upcoming marriage in today's (Jan. 21) paper, but don't you think the prospective groom deserves a break, too? His name was never mentioned.

Herbert J. Friedman,
Chemical Abstract Service.

Editorial . . .

To the Editor:

Having read your editorial condemning the Organization Man, I feel compelled to express my disagreement. One reads too much about the overrated value of the liberal arts. It seems only logical to me that industry would shun the dilettants and non-productive intellectuals, in favor of someone who has a skill or profession for sale.

Of course, around a university one can often get away with sitting around impressing his colleagues with his academic doodling. However, in business I don't see how the value of a marketable speciality can be denied.

I feel that more emphasis should be placed on the spirit of conformity. Students (editorial writers included) often become too presumptuous in their criticisms of official policy.

I have noticed an increase in blatant defiance of authority, and I hope that someday people realize that only through cooperation with the Organization can truly worthwhile things be accomplished.

Dean Replies to Editorial . . .

To the Editor:

John Oravec, in his editorial on Jan. 16, has written well, but I should like to offer a few observations and perhaps a suggestion or two.

Most employment personnel would probably agree that job opportunities are plentiful—more so than in the last decade, with the possible exception of the last year or two.

WHILE IT'S true that many of our graduates begin their employment at "General Something or Other," I feel certain that the majority of our grads find themselves in smaller corporations, businesses, and professional organizations.

The thing that intrigues me most about Mr. Oravec's views is that he has apparently swallowed The Organization Man and unwittingly believes that all college grads are weak-souled "conformists," lacking in initiative and creativity, and satisfied with "security, a station wagon, and a ranch home in suburbia."

GOD HELP US all if this is true, because it's the complete opposite of the general aims of education and of the specific purpose of this University. Ponder, if you will, the significance of the OSU motto: "Disciplina in Civitatem" (training for citizenship).

Perhaps I didn't get Mr. Oravec's message, but my frequent references to college bulletins and perusal of a substantial number of student's college records leads me to disagree rather violently with his accusations that the "University conforms to the demands of the Corporation" and that "the student gets a sprinkling of the humanities and the liberal arts."

I'M CURIOUS to know just who actually decides what a college student enters, what courses he selects beyond the basic requirements leading to a degree, and how much effort based on a healthy curiosity and thirst for knowledge that a student exerts in his own behalf.

Your guest editor is in almost complete opposition with the facts when he states that "the Corporation doesn't want the graduate with a broad (liberal arts) education whom it can train in a specific field."

A QUICK CHECK with Mr. Kenneth Norton, placement director in the Arts College, would prove enlightening to Mr. Oravec. He tells me that of all the "recruiting personnel" that have interviewed Arts College seniors during the year ending in June, 1958, at least three-fourths of them specified "Liberal Arts—any major" as their educational requirements for new employees.

In about 1946 our own College of Engineering, in response to "demands," strong suggestions, etc., from employers (over the previous ten to fifteen years) was among the first in the country to establish a five-year program required for the bachelor's degree in engineering.

THE EXTRA year's courses were in the arts and humanities areas. As for the technical courses and/or curricula offered on campus, I'm under the impression that this University's emphasis is on the development of sound basic understanding and skill. How could we ever hope to train our students for all of the more than 30,000 specific jobs in our society?

The fact is that we try to provide the educational background, sharpen the mental tools, and prepare our students with the facilities to use in their performance on their job. Needless to say, some folks never learn and thus fail to grasp the real significance of an education.

LIKE MANY of us, including your friendly correspondent, Mr. Oravec has "lots to learn." The happy truth is that we here at Ohio State are privileged to become a part of an educational environment with practically limitless opportunities for growth toward fulfillment of our educational and professional goals. Our splendid faculty, libraries, and physical facilities are truly among the best in the nation.

It's my strong suspicion that an aggressive, creative, and conscientious employee will be the one who, in the long run, will reap the harvest of advancement, salary, and responsibility while his "Organization Man" type counterpart will be the disgruntled, backbiting, criticizing, unhappy, and unproductive fellow employee.

It's my fervent prayer that our graduates will have learned by graduation time how to achieve genuine success in this challenging and dynamic world of work while at the same time using their learned vocational talents to this end.

C. H. Sedgwick,
Assistant Dean of Men.

Fire . . .

To the Editor:

In the interest of public safety and for the benefit of those of us interested in amateur photography, we would suggest that the LANTERN devote some space for the publication of the schedule of future University fires.

We have heard from a very reliable source that there is such a schedule available in the Administration Building. The publication of such a schedule would enable those of us interested in photography to acquire the desired film, the police to set up picket lines, and those not interested in fires to evacuate the area.

Philosopher Cites Ties Of Secularism, Religion

By Carolyn Davis

Secularism is the will of God, according to an American philosopher who visited Ohio State Sunday and Monday.

Dr. H. M. Kallen, former student of William James and George Santayana, said the relationship between God and the secularism is very simple.

Dr. Kallen believes that separation of church and state leads to secularism, a system of social ethics. "Secularism lends itself to democracy, a unique American idea. Secularist faith insures religious faith and, therefore, becomes the will of God."

"THERE ARE many religious faiths in the world today," the white-haired philosopher explained. "Each is sure it has the absolute truth, insisting that it is right and all other religions are wrong."

"Each feels that it has the freedom to suppress all the others. Since the various religious faiths can't come to an agreement, there is no single faith by which we can live," Dr. Kallen said.

"The total view has to be one which guarantees liberty and sanctity to all. This condition leads to separation of church and state. Otherwise one faith would be dominant."

Dr. Kallen has been research professor in social philosophy at the New School for Social Research since 1953. He has been associated with the New School since 1919. His visit here was sponsored by the Department of Philosophy.

Before that he taught at Harvard, Princeton, Clark College and the University of Wisconsin. He earned his Ph.D. at Harvard where he studied under James and Santayana.

Anyone desiring to enter the contest must register in January and prepare fashion topics in February.

on "Secularism, God and Freedom."

When William James died, he requested that Kallen complete a book he had been writing, "Some Problems on Philosophy."

Dr. Kallen commented on the point of view of many students who hold that philosophy is not important in the modern world.

THESE FOLKS fail to realize that they are expressing a philosophy when they make their statement. If they understood what they were saying, they'd know that they were giving expression to a philosophical belief.

He said that philosophy comes to life in every bull session.

"This is where we discuss the things that matter most. Here we make decisions that help us understand ourselves and the world in perspective."

According to Dr. Kallen, philosophy consists of constantly asking these three questions: What is it? What is it good for? How do you know?

OSU AFROTC Is Biggest in Nation

By Taras Horbachewsky

Five day deodorant pads and those powerful windpipes at drill are the topics of many conversations of the 2,562 cadets in the Ohio State AFROTC—the largest cadet corps in the nation.

The cadets buy the deodorant pads to put that extra luster on the tips of their shoes, and discuss the 161 cadet officers who give the orders and administer this well-oiled machine.

AT THE HEAD of this machine is Cadet Col. Charles D. Greenigde, A-4. Col. Charles P. Holstein commands the Ohio State AFROTC Department.

Picked by the advanced cadets, Greenigde has, with the help of 11 cadet lieutenant colonels, done the seemingly impossible.

At the annual inspection by the Air University Headquarters, not one discrepancy or criticism was found—in other words, a perfect inspection.

THE OHIO STATE AFROTC was started in 1949. Its purpose is to select and prepare students to serve as officers in the regular and reserve components of the United States Air Force.

Twenty-four full-time Air Force instructors and one-half million dollars annually from the Air Force have made the unit here one of the top ROTC branches in the country.

Many clubs and activities offer training and social events for the cadets.

FOR THE vocally inclined, there are the Skytones, a male choir, which sings at various social functions. A 50-member exhibition drill team offers a chance to travel with one of the country's best drill teams.

OSU to Host 90 Musicians

The Ohio All-State Orchestra will meet Saturday and Sunday at Ohio State and will present a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in Hughes Hall Auditorium.

Members of the 90-piece orchestra are selected from students in high schools throughout the state.

Orchestra members will rehearse all day Saturday at the Youth Center, Ohio State Fairgrounds, where they will be housed. On Sunday morning, they will rehearse in Hughes Hall.

Conducting the orchestra will be Prof. George E. Hardesty of Ohio State's music faculty.

Chairman of local arrangements for the event is Prof. George H. Wilson of the School of Music, which is sponsoring the orchestra's appearance here.

Group to Sponsor Polio Benefit

The Young Democrats Club will sponsor its first annual benefit dance Saturday night in the west ballroom of the Ohio Union.

William Mayer, first vice president, said that one-half of the proceeds will go to the March of Dimes in honor of the birth of Franklin Roosevelt 77 years ago this week.

The other half will go to the Educational Speakers Fund of the Young Democrats to bring outstanding national figures to lecture at Ohio State.

Mayer said that the dance will be open to anyone. A donation will be collected at the door.

The Arnold Air Society, an honorary AFROTC fraternity, and Angel Flight, its sister organization, provide dances, lectures and movies for its members.

Presently, the cadet corps is carrying on its functions as a wing detachment. But due to the increased number of cadets and the need for more cadet officer training, the present wing detachment will be reorganized into a two-wing division. This will become effective next Autumn Quarter.

THE GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME

It happens every day. A young man goes off to college leaving his home-town sweetheart with vows of eternal love, and then he finds that he has outgrown her. What, in such cases, is the honorable thing to do?

Well sir, you can do what Rock Sigafoos did.

When Rock left Cut and Shoot, Pa., he said to his sweetheart, a simple country lass named Tess d'Urbervilles, "My dear, though I am far away in college, I will love you always. I will never look at another girl. If I do, may my eyeballs parch and wither, may my viscera writhe like adders, may the moths get my new tweed jacket!"

Then he clutched Tess to his bosom and planted a final kiss upon her fragrant young skull and went away, meaning with all his heart to be faithful.

"You can do what Rock Sigafoos did..."

But on the very first day of college he met a coed named Fata Morgana, a girl of such sophistication, such poise, such savoir faire as Rock had never beheld. She spoke knowingly of Franz Kafka, she hummed Mozart, she smoked Marlboros, the cigarette with better "makin's". Now, Rock didn't know Franz Kafka from Pinocchio, or Mozart from James K. Polk, but Marlboros he knew full well. He knew that anyone who smoked Marlboros was modern and advanced and as studded with brains as a ham with cloves. Good sense tells you that you can't beat Marlboro's new improved filter, and you never could beat Marlboro's fine flavor. This Rock knew.

So all day he followed Fata around campus and listened to her talk about Franz Kafka, and then in the evening he went back to the dormitory and found this letter from his home-town sweetheart Tess:

Dear Rock,

Us kids had a keen time yesterday. We went down to the pond and caught some frogs. I caught the most of anybody. Then we hitched rides on trucks and did lots of nutsy stuff like that. Well, I must close now because I got to whitewash the fence.

Your friend,
Tess

P.S. . . . I can do my Hula Hoop 3,000 times.

Well sir, Rock thought about Tess and then he thought about Fata and then a great sadness fell upon him. Suddenly he knew he had outgrown young, innocent Tess; his heart now belonged to smart, sophisticated Fata.

Rock, being above all things honorable, returned forthwith to his home town and walked up to Tess and looked her in the eye and said manfully, "I do not love you any more. I love a girl named Fata Morgana. You can hit me in the stomach with all your might if you like."

"That's okay, hey," said Tess amiably. "I don't love you neither. I found a new boy."

"What is his name?" asked Rock.

"Franz Kafka," said Tess.

"A splendid fellow," said Rock and shook Tess's hand and they have remained good friends to this day. In fact, Rock and Fata often double-date with Franz and Tess and have heaps of fun. Franz can do the Hula Hoop 6,000 times.

All's well that ends well—including Philip Morris. Philip Morris ends well and begins well and is made of superb natural tobaccos by the same people who make Marlboros.

LUCAS SCORES—Jerry Lucas (11) goes high in the air as he drops in two of the 31 points he tallied Monday night against the Jayvees. Lucas has now scored 108 points in three games.

Lucas Is Still Tops

With only three Freshman-Jayvee games under his belt, Jerry Lucas, former Middletown High School basketball great, has given notice to Ohio State basketball fans that the future fortunes of the Buckeyes are in good hands.

The 6-9 center has been the scoring specialist in the three victories that the Freshmen have posted over the Jayvees. Game records show that Lucas has tossed in 108 points in those three games despite the fact that he sits the bench about half the time while Coach Frank Truitt gives his other players a chance for game experience.

But Lucas is not the only bright spot in the Buckeyes' basketball future. Mel Nowell, formerly of Columbus East, is also giving the Jayvees headaches with his brilliant ball handling and his accurate shooting.

Gary Gearhart, John Havlicek, and Bob Knight, who round out the Freshman starters, are also expected to see varsity action next season.

Oscar Still Top Scorer

(By The Associated Press)

Oscar Robertson of the University of Cincinnati continues to set the scoring pace among the nation's major basketball powers. Robertson has netted 455 points this season. He is averaging 32 points a game. Bailey Howell of Mississippi State is runnerup with an average of 29.6 points a game.

Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks and Elgin Baylor of the Minneapolis Lakers are two of the big guns in the National Basketball Association, and both players are threatening records held by George Mikan, a former Laker star.

Pettit is the leading scorer in the circuit with 1,277 points. He is averaging 29 points a game.

Grid Casualty in Coma, But . . .

'Sometimes He Smiles at Me'—Mom

(By The Associated Press)

Twenty-eight months after his injury in a college football game, Richard Kadis of Cleveland still is paralyzed and in a semi-coma . . . but he is finally home. He was taken home from Highland View Hospital Sunday. His parents, Charles and Pauline Kadis, have the same equipment at home as they have at the hospital.

Sadly, Mrs. Kadis relates, the family realizes that the hospital can do no more for the 23-year-old former student at Geneva (Pennsylvania) College. The family includes a sister, 18-year-old Patricia Kadis. The father is part-owner of a restaurant.

Richard Kadis collapsed on the team bus Sept. 29, 1956, after Geneva had beaten Waynesburg College 12-6. Doctors say a massive hemorrhage destroyed many nerves in the young man's brain. He was completely immobile and unconscious for a long while but has progressed now to where he can move his hands some and turn his head. His weight, which has dropped to 128, now is back up to nearly 200 pounds. About $66,000 has been raised for Kadis' medical treatment. There is enough in a special fund to cover 1959 expenses.

Dick Kadis can't talk but he spends much time watching television.

His mother picks up the narrative . . .

"His eyes gleam and there is an alertness about him when he's looking at something which interests him, but when a program bores him, he just turns his head and stares into space. When I sit in a chair beside his bed, I believe he recognizes me. And sometimes he smiles."

Bucks Meet Oberlin and U. D. Titans

Fresh from a win over Cincinnati last Saturday, Coach Robert Kaplan's fencers journey to Oberlin this Saturday for a triangular meet with the Yeomen and the University of Detroit.

The Detroit team is coached by Dick Perry and the captain is Mike Bruce, an outstanding epee man. Other returning lettermen are Gerry Surowiec and Juan Zaccour, both sabre men. Bruce and Zaccour are undefeated thus far this season. In the past the Titans have ranked among the top five teams in the midwest.

OBERLIN IS strong in the foil division. Representing the Yeomen at foil are Tourvey, Vaile, and Mendes. Coached by Mike Goyefski, the Yeomen are also strong in the epee division.

The Bucks are strongest in the sabre division manned by Capt. Ron Weaver, Bill Borland, and Larry Greene. Mike Cronk, Jerry Hirschberg, and Gary Johnson will be the foil men and Dick Stampfle, Carl Jones, and Rod James will handle the epee chores for the Bucks.

Basilio Ready for Bid; Olmedo to Hit Books

It was reported by the Associated Press that former middleweight and welterweight champion CARMEN BASILIO said last night that he is ready to accept a $150,000 offer to fight for the welterweight title. The offer was made by promoter NORM ROTHCHILD of Rochester, N. Y. Rothchild said he was prepared to make the same offer to the winner of the March 6th bout between welterweight champion DON JORDAN and ex-champ VIRGIL AKINS.

Basilio made his announcement in Rochester, saying, "Let SUGAR RAY ROBINSON fight ARCHIE MOORE and get murdered. I'll get back the welterweight title and maybe we'll be able to get together with Robinson after that."

LEMON TO TRY AGAIN

Reports say that BOB LEMON is going to give it another try. Arm trouble forced him back to the minors last season. Lemon, who has won 20 or more games in seven seasons, says he has his mind set on pitching for the Cleveland Indians again . . . More boxing news tells that Indianapolis is the latest town to make a pitch for the heavyweight title fight between Champion FLOYD PATTERSON and Sweden's INGEMAR JOHANSSON. The official signing of the bout is expected to be announced today . . . BOB TURLEY is the latest member of the New York Yankees to say that he isn't pleased with the contract that has been offered him. Iowa to Get Rice Trophy As No. 1 Team

The Grantland Rice trophy, symbolic of the national No. 1 ranking among college football teams of 1958, will be presented to the University of Iowa.

Prominent in the half hour ceremony will be Gardner Cowles, publisher of Look Magazine, and Tim Cohane, sports editor of that publication.

From the University of Iowa, the program participants will include President Virgil M. Hancher, Head Coach Forest Evashevski and Capt. John Nocera, leader of the 1958 Big Ten champion and Rose Bowl winning team.

The trophy, given in memory of Grantland Rice, one of the all-time greats among sports writers, is being awarded for the fifth time. Ohio State won it in 1957, Oklahoma in 1955 and 1956 and UCLA in 1954.

Iowa was selected by a five-man committee of the Football Writers Association, named by President Paul Zimmerman of the Los Angeles Times. The Hawkeyes received four of the five first place votes, to finish far ahead of Louisiana State, the team picked by both press service polls as the U. S. No. 1.

Buck Icemen Take Over 1st

The Ohio State Hockey Buckeyes broke a four-way tie for first place by skating off with a 14 to 1 decision over Ohio Northern during the weekend.

The Buckeyes had too much depth and manpower for the hard-working Ohio Northerners.

THE BUCKS scored first, but Ohio Northern came back to tie it up. Coach Bruce Bennett's Ohio Staters moved out ahead gradually with two more goals in the period, but it was fairly even at this point.

From here on, however, the difference began to tell as the 12-man Ohio Northern squad gradually ran out of gas in trying to keep up with the 20 players from Ohio State.

MURRAY LAVER led the scoring with four goals.

The Ohio Intercollegiate Hockey Association standings are as follows:

1. OHIO STATE.
2. Penn.
3. Denison.
4. Ohio University.
5. Ohio Northern.
6. Dayton.

Boswell Gets Hogan Prize

The Metropolitan Golf Writers of New York held their annual dinner last night. And—as usual at those affairs—awards were given out. And one of the biggest hands of the night was for Charley Boswell.

Boswell is blind. He has been blind ever since that day in the Ruhr Valley during the 2nd World War when he tried to help a comrade out of a disabled tank. A shell struck the tank at that moment and fragments penetrated his eyes.

Boswell took up golf while recuperating although he could not see and today he is a master of the game. He has won 10 out of 13 of the national blind championships. Boswell, a former University of Alabama football star who played in the Rose Bowl, shoots in the 90's.

Buck-Gopher Clash on TV

The Ohio State Buckeyes will make their second TV appearance, Saturday, when they will go against the Gophers from Minnesota. Johnson and Johnson, Ron above and Whitey below, are expected to give the Buckeyes the most trouble and will be the boys to watch when in front of your television screen or at St. John Arena. Game time is 4:30 p.m. and a prelim is set for 2:30 p.m.

Bucks Facing Problems; Spartans To Be Rugged

Coach Joe Hewlett has a problem.

"The boys are beginning to gain confidence, maybe a little too much confidence," said Hewlett, "They're wanting to add stunts to their routines that I feel are a little too difficult."

THE BUCKS are slated to meet the Michigan Spartans Saturday at 3 p.m. and an addition of stunts that present too much difficulty could mean the downfall of the Buck squad.

Thus far, the gym team boasts a perfect record, beating Chicago University and Ball State. The Spartans, however, are the co-champs in the NCAA, and will bring with them, on their journey to Columbus, boys of championship quality.

A slip, for Ohio State, which is * caused by attempting a stunt too difficult, could determine the outcome of the meet.

BRUCE DONALDSON is looking good during practice sessions, as he gets back in shape after being idle in the Bucks' first two meets due to a thumb injury.

Ernie DeMarchi is looking very impressive at practice, also, and his horizontal bar routine is nearly perfected.

All the minor injuries that were encountered since the start of the season have been overcome, and the squad will be operating at top physical condition.

BESIDES TOP physical condition, however, the Bucks will have to be able to operate at top efficiency in order to turn back the Spartans.

In concluding, the Buck coach stated, "Saturday we'll be facing, perhaps, the toughest gymnastic team in the Big Ten. The boys will have to call on all their talents to defeat them."

PIMLICO WINNER

Final Grades on Incompletes Must Be in by Jan. 31

The University Board of Trustees has approved a change in the rule concerning make-up of an incomplete grade at the University.

The rule states that the instructor must report a final grade for a student at the same time he reports the incomplete.

This grade becomes, final six weeks after the end of the quarter in which the incomplete was received, unless the work is made up and the grade for the completed work reported to the registrar.

Students have only three weeks of the six-week period remaining to complete their work. All grades for Fall Quarter incompletes must be in the office of the registrar on January 31.

Professors Comment on Attendance

Will I be graded down for poor attendance?

This question enters many of the students' minds at the beginning of each quarter.

After speaking with several departmental heads, no general rule concerning attendance could be found.

ACCORDING TO Frederic W. Heimberger, vice-president, instruction and research, there is no formal rule concerning attendance in the faculty rules.

His own personal opinion is that there is no need for one. He believes that it is the student's job to attend classes.

Dr. Robert Miner, chairman of the Department of Business Organization, said "There is no departmental policy concerning attendance." He feels that it is largely a matter for the individual instructor.

THIS WAS THE answer from the departmental chairmen of the Departments of Chemistry, Psychology and Education.

However, in the freshmen composition courses attendance means quite a bit.

Edwin Robbins, Department of English, thinks that it is not possible for a person to make up for lost time.

According to Robbins, if a person misses more than two week's work, he will most likely fail the course.

When asked if there should be a compulsory attendance rule, there were several comments.

Dr. Harold Burt, chairman of the Department of Psychology, feels that there should be a compulsory attendance rule.

Robbins said, "I doubt if such a rule would make much difference." According to him, if the technique is good, there won't be an attendance problem.

New Building Is Underway

A new Service Building is now being built west of the Central Stores at the northwest end of the campus.

Construction was started during December and according to Paul H. Elleman, director of the Physical Plant, the building should be completed by the end of 1959.

The new Service Building will house some of the service shops, the campus maintenance and landscape maintenance departments, the steam fitter and plumbers' departments, the refrigerator and air conditioning departments, the tin and roof shops, the electrical shop, the general utility shop, and the new telephone exchange.

According to Elleman, the reason for the new building is that the shops, now housed in the north end of the University Power Plant had to be evacuated. This was done in order to make room for additional boilers (heating and electrical generators) due to the increased expansion of the University.

It is to be a three-story building, approximately 75 feet wide and 215 feet long. W. E. Linch of the University Architect Office is the architect.

The general contractor is Steinle-Wolfe, Inc. Cost of the building will be approximately $600,000.

To Represent Air Society

Festival of Religious Music Slated Sunday at Mershon

Jewish, Greek Orthodox, Roman Catholic and Protestant church choirs will join the Ohio State Brass Choir Sunday in the fifth annual Festival of Religious Music in Mershon Auditorium at 3 p.m.

THE MUSIC festival is one of the principal events of the Religion in Life program to be held on the campus Feb. 1 to 4. Some 58 speakers and panelists will participate in the programs, supported by Ohio State alumni through the Development Fund.

Joining the Brass Choir will be choirs from Temple Israel, Columbus, under the direction of Norman Staiger; the Greek Orthodox Annunciation Church, Dayton, under the direction of Mrs. Peter Krambelias; the Josephinum Seminary, Worthington, under the direction of Msgr. Walter Rees; and the Chancel Choir of First Community Church, Columbus, under the direction of Lowell Riley.

Prof. Louis H. Diercks of the School of Music, will direct the combined choirs in Haydn's "The Heavens are Telling," as the concluding work on the program. Prof. Wilbur Held of the School of Music, will serve as organist.

SOME OF THE guest speakers, scheduled for talks later in the Religion in Life Program, will be introduced by President Novice G. Fawcett at the music festival.

Opening work on the program will be Giovanni Gabrieli's "Canzon Duodecimi Toni," performed by the University's Brass Choir under the direction of Richard Suddendorf, instructor in the School of Music.

Hymns of adoration, repentance and thanksgiving will be performed by the choirs of all four faiths.

Following the music festival, 11 evening meetings will be held on the campus and in nearby student religious centers.

Heckestuhls may be purchased in the Amish community of Charm, Ohio. A heckestuhl is an old-fashioned rocking chair made from hickory saplings. They are standard equipment in every Amish home.

Safety Specialist Tells Need for Preparation

By Sue Pardee

"Ohio's flood disaster points out the importance of being prepared for emergencies," says Wilbur E. Stuckey, safety specialist and associate professor in the Department of Agriculture.

"Water contamination in Mount Vernon would not have been a serious problem if everyone had been prepared with an emergency supply," he added.

ON THE PROBLEM of surviving any disaster, and in particular a nuclear blast, Stuckey made these suggestions:

1. Maintain your health at all times and keep immunizations up-to-date.
2. Keep an independent source of water, food, fuel, and lighting equipment in your basement shelter.
3. Make sure you have a first aid kit available.
4. Become well-informed and participate in community planning for emergencies.

STUCKEY AND the Agricultural Extension Service, in cooperation with the Ohio Civil Defense have published a booklet and devised a program of demonstrations to inform the public on methods of safety and survival.

"Ninety per cent of all disaster preparations are useful and needed in ordinary living. Fishing trips, camp-outs all involve these same precautions," he said.

"If a five megatone bomb were dropped on the corner of Broad and High, 75 per cent of the people living within seven mile radius would die, many because they didn't have the necessary information or equipment to combat shock, exposure, or radioactive fallout. Ohio State falls within this radius," he said.

The city of Columbus is able to evacuate everyone living within its limits in two hours, provided sufficient warning is given the Civil Defense. The essential thing is to be ready if and when you should have to go.

India Group Addressed by Chief Justice

By G. S. Bedi

Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt stressed the responsibility of an individual in a democracy in his address to the India Association in opening its Republic Day celebration, Monday night.

"Unused opportunity of voting has tragic results," he said, "because bad officials are elected by perfectly good citizens who stay at home."

Weygandt congratulated the India Association on the celebration of India's Republic Day and said that he not only wished, but predicted the fulfillment of the most cherished anticipations of India by a government of law and not of men.

The program included Indian songs and music. There was a parade introducing people from the various states and regions of India. The Pimjabi woman with her white trousers, tight fitting jumper and a scarf and the snake charmer with his colorful costume fascinated the non-Indian audience.

The violin recital by Rama Chintakindi, and the sitar, a typical Indian instrument as colorful to look at as it is to listen to, as played by Pratinidi were particularly liked.

The India Association plans to continue the celebration on Jan. 31 in Wesley Foundation. Dr. C. B. Mendenhall will open a program of Indian dances and music.

Lecture Series Opens With Talk On Ear Defects

A new lecture series began here Monday.

The Marie Kay Mason Memorial Lectures opened with an address by Dr. Hallowell Davis, director of research at Central Institute for the Deaf, and professor of otolaryngology, the study of the ear and the larynx, at Washington University Medical College.

He is also the author of many books on hearing and is president of the American Physiological Society.

Using slides, Dr. Davis explained the mechanism of hearing and told of new discoveries concerning the function of the inner ear.

The lectures, presented by the Speech Department, are named in memory of Dr. Marie Kay Mason, former associate professor of speech and hearing at Ohio State, who died in 1950.

Dr. Mason's enthusiasm for the study of hearing and her work in hearing handicaps made her one of the foremost authorities in her field.

Her use of the first motion pictures in the study of lip reading made her internationally famous. The films are still being used throughout the world.

In an opening address, John J. O'Neil, associate professor of speech, stated that the series will bring the best authorities on the subject of hearing to the university.

Panel to Discuss Racial Prejudice

It is a basic right of every American to be different and yet be understood. This ideal, "Unity without Uniformity", will be demonstrated by the Panel of Americans, a campus organization which will appear tomorrow at 4 p.m. in Room 329A, Ohio Union, as a part of the Religion in Life program.

The panel members—Roman Catholic, Negro, Jewish, Protestant and new American—will present a discussion entitled "Pardon Me! Your Prejudice is Showing." Dr. Russell Dynes of the Department of Sociology will serve as moderator.

The students to appear are Tony Salamony, A-Irr; Mike Shahan, A-3; Rosalie Goode, H-Ec-2; Danielle Arnet, A-2; and Jacqueline Wallace, A-2.

"The purpose of the panel is to provoke thinking on the part of the audience about the difference in race and religion which prevail in the American culture," Carolyn Thomas, A-4, acting student coordinator of the group said.

A nation-wide program, 18 other universities sponsor the Panel of Americans as an educational experience for students and as a public service to the community. After a demonstration by the Purdue University Panel, the Ohio State group was organized in 1957 and recognized by the Student Senate in 1958.

FRANK WATANABE, executive secretary of the Ohio State YM-YWCA and a member of the panel advisory board, stated that the group had made several appearances last year.

Plans for the organization include a tour of southern universities during spring vacation. "This is not a protest group," explained Watanabe. "We merely wish to express viewpoints and broaden our own concepts."

The large number of advisers for the panel help to recruit and train the speakers. This close cooperation organizes the structure of each panel more effectively and helps to pin point individual responsibilities.

PANEL MEMBER Danielle Arnet, born in Paris, represents the new American. She believes the greatest value of the group is in the open question and answer period with the audience.

Danielle said, "It does something for us as people to realize that we all have one thing in common. We are all Americans."

TOO MUCH TOAST

When he was pitching, Ed Lopat always took excellent care of his arm and as a result never had a sore one.

Last year while managing Richmond, Virginia, team of the International League he came up with a pulled muscle in his pitching arm.

He got it reaching for a piece of toast.
