Dr. Goldberg, Students Honored at Reception

Dr. Harvey Goldberg, associate professor of history, received the annual Good Teaching Award last night at the Scholarship Reception sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences and the Arts College Student Council in The Faculty Club.

ONE HUNDRED sixty-three students of the College with 3.5 point-hour ratios or over for Autumn and Winter quarters were honored at the reception. The event featured an address by Prof. Brewton Berry of the University's department of sociology and anthropology. He spoke on "The Myth of the Vanishing Indian."

Niki Schwartz, president of the Arts College Council, presided for the program, and G. Robert Holsinger, assistant dean and chairman of the honors committee, was in charge of the honors program. Dean J. Osborn Fuller of the College of Arts and Sciences gave the welcome address.

Presentation of the Good Teaching Award was made by Prof. Alfred Garrett, last year's Professor of the Year.

THE AWARD IS presented by the Student Council each year to the member of the University faculty who, in the judgement of the Council, is particularly worthy of special recognition by virtue of the excellence of his undergraduate teaching.

Professor Goldberg, who holds the Bachelor of Arts and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Wisconsin, has been a member of the Ohio State faculty since 1950.

'Bandit' Hunt Is Continued

Columbus police reported last night they are continuing their search for the gun-wielding "North Side bandit" who has robbed three men, wounded another, and shot at but missed still another since last Wednesday.

Quizzing of a suspect, Robert Baldwin, 22, has proved fruitless so far. Baldwin was arrested Monday night at the 7-11 Club, at 711 N. High St. and was considered a "good suspect" according to a report by the Dispatch.

Police believe all the holdups to be the work of one "trigger-happy" bandit who apparently is still at large.

Geneva Talks Impasse Looms

GENEVA—(UPI)—The United States was disclosed to have warned that President Eisenhower would refuse to go to summit talks if the Russians set a new deadline for ousting the Western Allies from West Berlin.

American sources revealed the U.S. warning as the Western foreign ministers rejected* outright for the second straight day the Kremlin's Moscow-style "peace package" plan that would perpetuate the division of Germany.

GROMYKO, HOWEVER, struck back by warning the West that there may be a "threat to peace" unless it accepts Soviet demands for splitting Germany and preserving Red rule in the East.

In the toughest talk yet heard at the Geneva conference table Gromyko stood aggressively by the Soviet plan for Germany.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, in a Big Four conference session lasting more than three hours, warned that the Soviet plan would only result in (Continued on page 8)

SHOW BOAT

The "Show Boat" opening-night curtain will rise at 8 p.m. tonight at Veterans' Memorial Auditorium. Heading the cast for the three-day production will be Jack Hunter as Captain Andy Hawks, David DuVernay as Gaylord Ravenal, Hester London as Magnolia, and Kathryn Madison as Ellie.

A special matinee will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Ceiling Study Is Underway

Scaffolding has been erected in Ohio State's Mershon Auditorium to permit close inspection of the ceiling from which a 4 by 6-foot piece of plaster fell May 2.

The University has closed the 3,000-seat auditorium pending the outcome of a detailed study to determine the cause.

The scaffolding supports a 30 by 35-foot working platform from which consultants and members of the University staff will make their examinations. Portions of the ceiling already have been removed for analysis.

University officials said Wednesday that the length of time to be required for the study and repair of the damage still cannot be set, but will depend on the technical findings.

Completed in 1957, the $3 million auditorium was financed through a bequest to Ohio State in 1952 from the estate of the late Col. Ralph M. Mershon.

Panhellenic Backs Greek Week Cut

Panhellenic voted last night to support a recommendation by the Council of Sorority Presidents to cut Greek Week to a Weekend with Mershon show on Friday night and workshops on Saturday.

They want to have the Fraternity-Sorority Sing in Spring Quarter. This decision was in conflict with the announced desire of the fraternity system to have the Sing as part of Greek Week.

Panhellenic also agreed with the recommendation to cut out the rally and Queen and King, and to have Junior Panhellenic sponsor the Pledge Princess Dance.

It was announced that 135 of the 329 pledges participated in Help Night. The main criticisms of Help Night were that it did not unify the neophyte groups as desired, and that not enough work was provided by the Volunteer Services Bureau.

Fraternities Given $5,000

Because the pledge classes are not achieving the Fraternity System's goals for scholarship, the Fraternity System has been granted a $5,000 Dr. Dice Scholarship Fund.

A Scholarship Clinic is to be set up for pledgetrainers and scholarship chairman with "professional psychologists to teach the pledge trainers how to study so they can teach the pledges how to study."

Lawrence Green, President of Alpha Phi Alpha, was presented with the Alpha Rho Educational Foundation Most Improved Scholarship Award.

New officers elected to the Fraternity Affairs Office are:

LATE NEWS BULLETINS

(AP)—Ohio's Democrat-controlled House today approved appropriations totalling $1,808,495,400 to run the state for the next two years.

The vote after two hours and 15 minutes of debate was 85-50. Ten Republicans voted for the measure which now goes to the Senate.

Slightly more than half of the $1,071,000,000 General Fund allotment will go for education. Schools will receive 40.18 per cent and universities 9.48 per cent.

The University budget was passed as recommended earlier by the House Committee on Finances.

POPLARVILLE, MISS.—(UPI)

—Local speculation increased today that the FBI is about ready to make arrests in the lynching of Negro Mack Charles Parker.

Sources close to the FBI here said "several persons" would be arrested soon. There was no official confirmation. Activity by dozens of FBI agents working on the case appeared at a near standstill.

GENEVA—(UPI)—Objections by France and West Germany appeared today to have ruled out the United States as the location of the proposed East-West summit conference.

West German delegation members joined French President Charles De Gaulle in expressing opposition to holding the conference in San Francisco or New York.

Let's Dump The Sandboxes

As students, we have frequently been charged with making a playground out of college.

Maybe it's the other way around. Maybe the colleges are making playboys and playgirls out of us.

Every leisure time activity and diversion our hearts desire have been provided for us. The thrill of Big Ten football, the glamour of a fabulous Union equipped for everything from shooting pool to listening to Beethoven on hi-fi, the hustle-bustle of special weekends—all these have been designed with our merriment and good time in mind.

Take May Week for example. Lots of people worked long hours to bring us this much heralded week.

We had a panorama. But how many students turned out to see it besides those groups which were participating to earn points and win a big trophy for their houses?

There were parades. The rally parade did not draw a big crowd. Nor did the May Day parade. It not only failed to attract a large crowd of spectators, it had far too few entries to make an outstanding parade.

And Corps Day. Boys in blue and khaki forced to put on a show—how could it be a good one when they had to appear to fulfill the requirements of their University ROTC course? The booing and jeering that was heard hardly indicated a strong desire for the review.

There were initiations. Supposedly, it is an honor to be tapped for membership in Romophos, Mirrors, or Bucket and Dipper. But when we saw the painted freshmen men chained together as they waddled like ducks on the Oval and when we saw the blindfolded coeds climb over imaginary objects in a manner that was anything but graceful, one big question came to our mind.

If initiation into an honorary is an honor, implying leadership and scholastic ability, why do initiates have to act in such an undignified manner?

What about the exodus made from campus on Wednesday night? Many students took advantage of the free day and chanced cutting Friday classes to head for a four day weekend at home.

Evidently, they didn't care to stay around for the fun-filled weekend. From all indications, not too many people other than gung-ho freshmen and long time local residents who love a parade gave a darn about May Week.

We hope this is an indication that most students are getting tired of the accent on playtime activities on campus. We hope it is an indication that students are more interested in getting an education than in being entertained.

Undoubtedly, the committee worked hard on May Week. In many cases, it did a fine job.

But in the final accounting, all those man hours and all that money might have been expended in a more worthwhile campus project.

If we have to have a week of special activity, why couldn't we all pitch in and work on an educational and cultural program designed to raise money for something like the Student United Fund which was incorporated into this year's May Week?

Why couldn't we devise projects using outstanding campus talent to raise money for a scholarship fund?

Or, if that didn't work, why not just have a weekend in May specifically designed to rest up and study. After all the other special weekends and campus hoop-de-doo, we need it.

Journalists Pick Nixon, Sen. Kennedy

The journalism department at New York University's School of Commerce, Accounts, and Finance today released the results of its seventh annual opinion poll of the nation's college newspaper editors.

A majority of the student journalists who responded said that:

—Vice-President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy will win their party nominations for the presidency in 1960.

—The United States should recognize Communist China.

—If necessary the United States should use force to maintain the corridors to West Berlin.

—Newspapermen should have the right to keep their news sources confidential.

PARTICIPATING in the poll were 40 editors at large and small, public and private institutions of higher learning in all parts of the United States.

Twenty-six of the editors named Vice-President Nixon as the most likely Republican candidate for the presidency in 1960. Another 13 named Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts received 29 votes as the most likely Democratic standard bearer in 1960. Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri got four votes and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, of Minnesota and former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois each received three. One Stevenson supporter added this comment: "I can hope, can't I?" The other vote went to Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas.

Twenty-four of the student editors urged United States rec-

Respect for God and Country . . .

To the Editor:

Does "respect for God and country" constitute patriotism? This seemed to be the implication in C. E. Cauffman's letter to the LANTERN Editor, published May 13.

Cauffman expresses his indignation at the infantile behavior perpetrated by some spectators during Corps Day . . .

Cauffman's indignation is somewhat justified, that is, as long as the actions of these dissidents interfered with his expression of patriotic respect. But we cannot tell one to place his hand over his heart. That would be fanaticism. And fanaticism demands absolute obedience and conformity. Therefore it would be undermining our principles of democracy.

It is these principles which allow us to express only our indignation at these puerile non-conformists. It is these principles of democracy that restrain us from reinforcing our indignation with physical coercion and punishment.

Had we been under Hitlerite or Communist dominations these offenders would have been exterminated by now, for such dominations receive their sustenance from fanaticism and fanaticism obtains its sustenance from strict obedience and conformity to the symbols and ideology of the fanatic.

However, it was his concluding question, "Is our United States to fall, as have other countries, because we have lost all respect for God and country . . .?" which aroused my indignation. Corps Day was a military day, and the immature deportment of some spectators was an insult only to the military and an affront to the country, that which the military represented.

In no way was God offended, unless we deify the military, a contrivance of the fanatics. Assuming that no such deification was intended by the writer, there is no conscious logic in combining God with country into such an harmonious twosome and imply-ognition of Communist China. One commented, "Red China holds the key to the future. The United States cannot afford to ignore it any longer." Another remarked, "It's time the United States dealt with realities in the Far East. Recognition would lead to more realistic negotiations with the communist world."

ing that those who "laughed, joked, jeered, and meandered" on Corps Day showed disrespect toward God.

We must also avoid the implication that "respect for God and country" determines patriotism. Some consider the two to be antithetical. Some books and philosophers claim that they are irreconcilable. Yet some people profess to adhere to these books and to the teaching of these philosophers. When these people make God compatible with country (military aspect), they are hypocritical. Patriotism should be determined by respect for country alone.

Furthermore we must avoid combining harmoniously God with country, for that is contradicting our democratic principle, separation of Religion from the State.

When we make such combinations, we do not bring all the different religions under the domination of the State, but we are incorporating their God into the country for the edification of the State. In that respect, Religion is still subservient to the State.

If we must adhere to democratic principles, let us keep these separate at both levels, the physical and the psychological. Let us determine patriotism by respect for country—not by "respect for God and country."

Nicholas Peterson, A-2.

Rose Bowl . . .

To the Editor:

Unfortunately, before writing you with a proper salutation, I've misplaced the clipping quoting your classic comment regarding several who threatened to discontinue contributions to the Endowment Fund during present discussions.

De-emphasis of our athletic prowess, primary recognition of the educational and cultural aims of a great university deserve constant stress. Our marked Rose Bowl successes have beclouded taxpayers, intent on higher education. Seems to me non-participation in any bowls is essential. Your undergraduate attitude is most appreciated.

Enclosed is a thin dime; please send me a copy of that LANTERN printing your full comment. I'll pass it around to several Old Timers who will also welcome your bright spark of fine youth.

Prof. Stinson Is Honored By Engineers

Prof. Karl W. Stinson of the department of mechanical engineering has been elected a fellow in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Professor Stinson will receive the honor tomorrow at the regular meeting of the Columbus section of the society.

T. O. KUIVINER, chief engineer in the technical division of the Cooper-Bessemer Corp., Mt. Vernon, O., will present the award, which recognizes Professor Stinson's achievements as an engineer and educator.

The society cited Professor Stinson, who has taught mechanical engineering for 40 years, for his "numerous significant contributions" in the field of engineering education.

The engineering educator who holds a bachelor of mechanical engineering degree from Ohio State, is the author of the "Diesel Engineering Handbook" and co-author of the textbook, "Fuels and Combustion."

HE FIRST JOINED the faculty at Ohio State as a mechanical engineering instructor in 1916, and has worked closely with industry throughout his teaching career.

He has been active in the design and development of engines, pumps, frames and transmissions. During World War II, Professor Stinson was director of the Navy Diesel School on the campus.

2 Former OSU Classes Will Observe Reunions

Members of two Ohio State classes will return to the campus Saturday to observe their 50th and 25th reunions.

The classes of 1909 and 1934 will be the honored guests at the annual Alumni Day celebration which will feature such highlights as a matinee performance of "Show Boat" at Veterans Memorial Auditorium and the traditional Sunset Supper in the Ohio Union ballrooms.

FOR MEMBERS of the class of 1909, the milestone will be officially marked when President Novice G. Fawcett presents each reunionist with a Golden Year certificate commemorating 50 years of loyalty to the University.

Columbus members of the class of 1934 have been working on reunion plans for the past three months. Spearheading the planning group has been Robert G. Kelley, 2726 Canterbury Rd., general chairman of the reunion committee.

The day's activities will start with a Kaffee Klatsch at the Alumni House on Saturday morning. Guided bus tours will conduct alumni around the campus to inspect the new buildings. ## 2 Ohio Engineers To Be Honored at Spring Ceremony

Two Ohio engineers will be honored by Ohio State June 12, when they are awarded professional engineering degrees during Spring Quarter commencement exercises.

Frederick E. Hoffmanns will receive the degree of chemical engineer, and Aloise F. Sprankle will be awarded the degree of metallurgical engineer.

PROFESSIONAL engineering degrees are awarded annually to outstanding alumni of the University's College of Engineering on completion of a thesis on work done in their field. All candidates invited to apply for the degree must have been registered professional engineers for at least 10 years.

Although the two engineers attended no classes and took no formal examinations, they were required to write scholarly reports of research projects they have conducted.

HOFFMANNs, who received a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering in 1942, is director of engineering with J. M. Little, Associates, in Maumee. His thesis is entitled "Hydraulic Scales Methods of Operation."

Sprankle reported on the "Surface Protection of Vanadium Metal During Heating for Hotwork." He was graduated from the University's College of Engineering with a bachelor's degree in 1932, and now is technical director and assistant vice-president at the Vanadium Corporation of America, Cambridge.

A GOOEY MESS!!

Yes, that's a fairly accurate description of JENNITE J-16 as it comes from the barrel. In fact, our workmen sometimes resemble tar-babies . . .

But, when carefully and competently applied, JENNITE J-16, can double the life of your blacktop driveway.

A JENNITE treatment seals blacktop surfaces with a tough, flexible coating, that stops destructive effects of gasoline and oil, seals out frost and retards drying action of the sun. Thus, it also prevents the crumbling, softening, settling and disintegrating so common in home driveways.

The attractive Jennite finish is easy to clean, sanitary, non-oily and non-fading. It requires no special attention and retains its attractive satin black shade for years.

The cost of JENNITE protection is quite moderate; and because, deep in our avaricious, mercantile hearts, we agree "the American teacher and scholar should be given every encouragement" we are offering an "ACADEMIC" DISCOUNT of 10% to all members of the faculty, staff and student body of OSU.

BETTER THAN PAR

HALLS, Tenn. — (UPI) — Cary Middlecoff has been a professional golfer only 11 years but already he is one of the game's all-time greats in money and tournaments won. At the start of 1959, he was third on the money-winnings list with earnings of more than $200,000.

improved team this year, running eighth also on merit with Manager Bill Norman already bounced in favor of Jimmy Dykes.

Ted Williams of the Red Sox to go hitless into the month of May—jinxed by an injury.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who gave the Braves a scare a year ago, to lose their first five of the year and 16 of their first 31 for a sixth place slot in mid-May.

BOB FRIEND of the Pirates, a 20-game winner a year ago, to lose his first six decisions.

Eddie Mathews of the Braves, strikeout "king" of the last World Series and uncertain at the plate in spring training, to blast his way into the National League homer derby lead with 14 by May 18.

Harmon Killebrew of the Senators, Washington's first bonus baby and a five-year bust, to blossom into a homer belter at this late date by leading the American League with 14 round-trippers also on May 18.

STAN MUSIAL, of the Cardinals, perennial batting champ, to be struggling to reach .270 and forced to deny almost daily that he's nearing the end of the trail.

Russ Nixon of the Indians, a good hitting catcher, to be "stuck" around .200.

The Chicago White Sox, Sans Power, to be battling Cleveland for the American League lead.

ELROY FACE of the Pirates, never a big-winning pitcher, to grab his first six decisions.

Hank Aaron of the Braves, good as he is, to be failing an incredible .484 in mid-May.

Willie Mays of the Giants to be hooted in San Francisco.

SMOKEY BURGESS of the Pirates, second-string catcher at Cincy last year, pushing .400 as a Buc regular.

The Yankees to lead the American League in "times shut out"—with four.

Ray Narleski of the Tigers, picked up in a deal with Cleveland to bolster Detroit relievers, to lose his first four decisions.

THE TIGERS, considered at the start to be fairly strong in pitching, to lead the league in batting and trail 'em all in the standings.

Don Demeter of the Dodgers to be toting the most potent bat in Los Angeles.

The Senators, rated "lame ducks" all the way, to be leading four other clubs including the Yankees.

Yep, with a parlay like that you could have bought a ball club of your very own.

Michigan Hoosiers To Vie for Crown

By Phil Rohr

Of the 15 indoor kings crowned last March in the Big Ten Conference track championships, 14 will be returning this spring to defend their titles in the outdoor finals.

Only Glenn Davis, the former Ohio State great will be missing from among the field of participants. Davis was the 440-yard champ indoors.

IN THE 100 and 220-yard dashes, the barrel-chested sophomore from Michigan, Tom Robinson, is the heavy favorite if his injured legs hold up. Robinson equalled the Big Ten mark of 6.1 in the indoor meet for the 60-yard dash and set a new Conference mark in the 300 with a time of :30.3. This new time also equalled an American mark.

Willie May of Indiana and Pete Stanger of Michigan won the 70-yard high and low hurdles respectively and both are defending outdoor champs in the hurdles. May won the 120-yard high hurdles last year while Stanger won the 220-yard lows.

The mile will be the most closely contested race. Bob Lake of Michigan State is the indoor mile king but he will have plenty of competition this Saturday. Bill Erickson of Minnesota was the indoor 1000-yard titlist and he will probably switch to the mile outdoors.

BESIDES THESE two great runners, Ken Brown and Jim Bowers of Illinois will also be definite threats. Bowers was on the American team that traveled through Europe last summer.

The two-mile will also be hotly contested. Leonard Edelen of Minnesota is the defending outdoor champ, while Ron Long of Indiana is the indoor king. Other top two-milers are Crawford Kennedy of Michigan State, Brown of Illinois, George Harvey of Purdue and Dick Schwartz of Michigan. Edelen set a new record for this event in last year's meet with a Big Ten record time of 9:03.2.

The half mile favorites are Tony Seth of Michigan; George Kerr of Illinois; Jesse Nixon of Wisconsin, and John Brown, an Iowa football halfback. Nixon won the 600-yard run in the indoor meet.

Three men are favored in the pole vault. They are Eeles Landstrom and Marmon Gibson of Michigan, and Purdue's Jim Johnston. Gibson and Johnston tied for the indoor crown. Ohio State's Dick Bowers could also be a definite factor in the final outcome of this event.

IN THE SHOTPUT, broad jump, and high jump, Larry Stewart of Illinois, Les Bird of Michigan, and Ernie Haisley of Illinois are figured to repeat respectively. Haisley may get plenty of competition from teammate Ron Mitchell. Both men tied for top honors in indoor competition. Mitchell won the outdoor crown two years ago while Haisley won it outdoors last year.

The Big Ten meet will be held at Ann Arbor, Mich., beginning this Friday with preliminaries and ending up with the finals Saturday afternoon.

Disc Jockey Holds Private Marathon For Eight Hours

DAVENPORT, Ia.—(UPI)—Most fellows would get fired for what Bob Bandy did.

But Bandy's different. He got a $40 to $50 a week raise.

WHAT BANDY DID was to bari-cade himself inside the studio of radio station KFMA and play the same record "Only the Shadow Knows"—for eight solid hours.

Bandy picked his first day on the job as a disc jockey yesterday to get in the record groove and stay there. He refused to broad-cast commercials or to open the door for station officials.

Spectators jammed the building and slipped notes under the door of the studio. "Drop dead," said one of the notes. "I'm with you," said another.

THE STATION went off the air at 8 p.m. Bandy dragged away the furniture from the door and walked out to face the music.

Instead, Howard Dorsey, station manager, offered him a salary "in the neighborhood of $110 to $120."

Program Director Ken Brown said several advertisers called to say they "were entirely in agree-ment" with the marathon, even though Bandy never mentioned their names or products.

Legal Sanity Poses Hard Question for Trial Jurors

By Ron Bingaman

The question of legal sanity has long proved a difficult problem, not only for the layman, but for law-yers and psychiatrists as well. Since most decisions in criminal cases are the responsibility of a jury selected from the community, and many of us are potential jurors, it might be well that we all know something of the legal the-ory behind this nebulous but often used plea.

A Columbus attorney, who asked not to be identified, offered a "nut-shell" definition in a recent inter-view. He said that the question of legal sanity rests on whether or not a person has a realization of the nature and quality of his acts and a knowledge of right from wrong.

HE REFERRED to a book, "Criminal Law," by Rollin M. Per-kins. According to Perkins and many others, criminal law in all of the United States except the Dis-trict of Columbia uses as a prece-dent the more than 100-year-old M'Naghten case, which took place in England and was elaborated into an accepted principle by the House of Lords. In substance it is as fol-lows:

To establish a defense on the grounds of insanity, it must be proved that at the time of commit-ting the act, the accused was la-bouring under such a defect of reason, from disease of the mind, as not to know the nature and quality of the act he was doing; or if he did know it, that he did not know that what he was doing was wrong.

Perkins adds, "The essence of M'Naughten is that for mental dis-ease or defect to incapacitate, it must be of such a degree as to leave the person irrational—that is, no rational person lacks crim-inal capacity by reason of insan-ity."

PERKINS DEALS shortly with the District of Columbia theory which states that the defendant's act must have been a "product" of his mental disease or defect in order for him to be acquitted.

The local attorney said that the public may often be confused by apparent inconsistencies in cases of temporary insanity. At one time a seemingly normal person may be held unaccountable for a crime on the grounds of temporary in-sanity; yet at another time we read of a person with psychopathic his-tory being convicted.

IN SUMMARY, he pointed out that each case must be judged sole-ly on its own merits. There is no fool-proof formula for dealing with all cases of temporary insanity.

It is the jury's duty to decide whether or not a defendant was "sane" or "insane" when commit-ting an alleged crime. Unfortun-ately, outside elements may enter into this decision, and among such distractions, one of the most im-portant is the emotional atmos-phere that is built up around a case, often in the form of another great legal problem: Trial by press. But this is a separate issue.

For now, it may be in the public interest that people everywhere think seriously about the often over-worked plea of "temporary in-sanity." Many of us will at some time or another be jurors and have to meet the problem head-on.

Dining Room Full of Sand

A little piece of paradise visited a fraternity house on Friday . . . who'll volunteer to get it out?

The occasion was an annual spring party held by Phi Sigma Delta fraternity. The damage? A mere eight tons of sand dumped into the dining room of the fra-ternity house.

The affair was an Alcapulco par-ty and the place was fixed up in the motif of that famous Mexican resort. It was complete with a small swimming pool, a waterfall, two ducks and an alligator. The guests were served coconuts . . . filled with pineapple juice.

The highlight of the evening came when a newly "pinned" cou-ple were tossed into the pool amid the fake palm trees and other fol-iage used for decorative purposes. About 60 couples were present at the affair.

The nation's 27 largest banks have assets totalling about 75 bil-lion dollars.

Research Fellowships Offered

The Australian National University announces that the John Curtin School of Medical Research is inviting applications from organic chemists for two Research Fellowships in the Department of Medical Chemistry. The successful candidates will work with Prof. Adrien Albert or Dr. D. J. Brown on problems in pyrimidines, pteridines or related fields, and take up duties in Canberra in 1959. The salary range for Research Fellows is from 1398-2113 pounds and appointment is made for three years, with possible extension to the maximum of five years. Reasonable travel expenses will be paid and assistance with housing provided. Further particulars may be obtained by writing to: R. A. Hohnen, Registrar, The Australian National University, John Curtin School of Medical Research, Box 4, G.P.O., Canberra, A.C.T., Australia. The deadline for applications is May 31, 1959.

Rhodes Scholarships

Students who wish to enter the 1959 Rhodes Scholarship competition should consult immediately with Prof. Royall Snow (office hours 1:30 daily, 3:00 Monday and Wednesday, room 113, Derby Hall) or with Prof. Horace English (400 Arps Hall) or Prof. Eric Ogden (312 Hamilton Hall). A candidate must have completed at least two years of his college course, be unmarried, and have high scholastic qualifications plus breadth of intellectual interest.

These scholarships are tenable for two years, and may be extended for a third year, depending on the work in progress. The scholarships are now worth 750 pounds a year, sufficient to cover expenses at Oxford in term time and for travel on the continent during vacations. The Rhodes Scholarships are unusual in the way they make it possible for an American student to enter completely into the normal life of a great foreign university.

Ohio State Painter Explains Artist's Relation to Work

By Janet Wilt

"A self-conscious art is a very painful one," says Edward Hewett, instructor. "The artist does not will his painting to exist. There is a constant exchange between him and his work."

Hewett, who recently exhibited several paintings here, plans another show at the University of Louisville this summer. His style blends figurative ideas with some abstraction.

"I WOULD RATHER paint whatever I wake up feeling like doing," he says with a smile.

"I don't think of myself as painting in any predigested style. A painter can't divorce himself from expressing material objects on canvas. The subject matter accommodates itself to his intentions."

"Even the paint itself as it takes form on the canvas can be evidence of this subject matter. Here is a thing that often separates a painter from his audience. To him the work is a mobile thing while to his viewers it is dry and static."

HEWETT STUDIED at the Cincinnati Art Gallery and then entered pre-med at the University of Louisville. He began to sketch again during his hitch in the army.

"Art has been a life-long interest," he said. "Both my father and my grandfather were artists."

Museum Head 'On the Road Quite A Bit'

By Dwight McMahan

On the second floor of the Ohio State Museum is the office of Richard Fatig, director of state memorials in Ohio. His job is the supervision of Ohio's 60 museums and historical houses which are located all over the state.

"I'm on the road quite a bit," said Fatig. "But I enjoy this work and it seems so important."

ORIGINALLY AN engineer Fatig is responsible for the technical aspect of small mechanical exhibits as well as restoration of the historical appearance for whole structures.

"Restoration is all done through research. We don't just go out and build a historical building. Sometimes research for a project takes two years. Sometimes we make the materials ourselves for items like an old roof."

The concentration of state memorials lies primarily in northeastern and southeastern Ohio.

THE MOST significant of the memorials is hard to determine. Some examples are Fort Ancient near Lebanon, consisting of 100 acres of prehistoric Indian earthworks; Campus Martius, near Marietta, a large museum devoted to the pioneer history of the first American settlement in the Northwest Territory; and the McCook House, near Carrollton, home of the Fighting McCooks of Civil War fame.

"We work very closely with the history department and the state architect," Fatig said. "The next two years will be devoted to repair."

"I could have gotten some other job in engineering but after you've been in this work 30 years you really appreciate it."

Last year the museums and historical houses were host to almost three million people.

Zany Guys and Gals Edit Jokebook

Editor's Note: This is the second in the series of articles on the campus magazines.

By Kay Patton

Turn left at the traffic light on the third floor of the Ohio Union and you're at the home of the Sundial, Ohio State's campus humor magazine.

The traffic light is a signal to Sundial staffers telling them just where everyone is. For example, a red light means that everyone is at the tavern.

AN AUTOGRAPHED piano, several typewriters, a few cluttered desks and lots of people are other sights of the Sundial office. The zany guys and gals who work there have quite a reputation to live up to.

The first Sundial came out way back in 1911. It was a little 5x8 inch booklet and the cover pictured a smiling jester under which was printed, "Published when not suppressed."

This Sundial, which got its name from the campus sundial located a few feet from the Main Library functioned as a student literary magazine and welcomed "limericks, drawings, jokes, short stories, poems, etc."

HERE IS A sampling of the jokes from that first issue: "If a locomotive slowed down, could a grasshopper?" and "If you want to be pointed, buy a paper of pins."

The traditional LANTERN-Sundial rivalry dates back to the third issue of the Sundial, March 1912. The Sundial said, "We must say the LANTERN is overstepping its bounds. In the first place they got out a phony extra the day the Sundial (that's how it was spelled then) was on sale."

"The Sun-Dial had advertised for weeks and the eager and expectant crowds were shoving out their silver when along comes a LANTERN man with the information that a consolidation has been effected. Just as if we would think of such a thing even though the LANTERN has gotten to the point where they must do something or die."

A page of this issue contained letters to "Rowena Angela." Here's an example:

DEAREST ROWENA—Do you think it looks well to wiggle your elbows when dancing? Lulu and Ruth.

Answer: Really, Lulu, I think that is foolish? Wiggle them by all means! Rowena.

After several warnings publications were stopped for the first time in 1944. The issue that caused the trouble was entitled, "Filthy with Fun." A semi-nude on the cover was only a sample of the contents.

PRESIDENT BEVIS said "It's the filthiest issue I ever saw." After calling in all copies not already sold he announced the suspension.

The students wanted "Sunny" back so they met and organized at a fraternity house. The first issue of the new humor magazine appeared with a contest to name it. The prize offered was 200 cigarettes, a month's supply of cokes and an original art cover of the first issue.

The winning name was "Scarlet Fever." But following numerous requests from students and alumni the "Sundial" was restored the next fall.

THE SUNDIAL started doing parodies in May 1947. The 1956 parody issue called "Sports Illustrate" was selected as the best parody by a college humor magazine for 1956.

The cover of this issue was an athlete in an Ohio State warmup suit in the center of the football field playing in a marble tournament. The Stadium was packed!

THE SUNDIAL boasts many famous alumni including James Thurber, Earl Wilson and Ruth McKenney. Artists that were former Sundial staff members are Milt Caniff, Gardner Thea (cartoonist for the New Yorker) and Jon Whitcomb.

The heirarchy of this year's staff include Sarah Manning, editor; John Broadbent, business manager;

Chuck Wellman, art editor; Terri Cohan, exchange editor; Ed Mead, advertising manager; Dick Achey, Ed Longwalk, and Rita Dipaulo, promotion managers. Others on staff include Sarah Slovis, Bill Walters, Bill Dignin, and Judy Dersch.

This year is the 48th year of publication—continuous except for one suspension.

THERE HAVE been censorship troubles and accusation of bad taste—in both articles and in cartoons, but the question of just what "bad taste" is still remains.

The present staff says the magazine gets more and more censored each year. Their only hope is the use of more features and more picture stories to keep the Sundial the good humor magazine that it is.

OSU Women Win Firsts in WRA Sports

Ohio State won the Women's Recreation Association Sports Day held Saturday.

Six schools competed and ranked in the following order: Ohio State scarlet team, Miami, Wittenberg, Dayton, Wooster, Ohio State grey team, and Otterbein.

A THREE SCHOOL nine hole golf match played on the Grey Course was won by the Ohio State scarlet team. Miami placed second and Ohio State grey team third. Miami's Tonya Toole was low scorer with a 51.

Two players from the scarlet team placed second and third. Gerry Wright had a 53 and Billie Pierce a 59. The three teams were Miami, Otterbein and Ohio State.

On the tennis courts Ohio State won four singles and two doubles matches. A 7-5, 2-6, 6-1 tennis match between Nancy Fahy, Ohio State, and Judy Hagen, Dayton, was the high light of the afternoon. The two girls are entered in the State Tournaments at Ohio University this weekend.

A ROUGH afternoon of softball was climaxed by an Ohio State Wittenberg game. Ohio State battling in the ninth inning with two outs scored three runs and still lost the game six to seven.

The archery team scored 330 points to beat all comers. Nancy Brenneman had a high score of 204 points.

Witness Claims Fire Was Arson

"There is no question in my mind that the May Day float fire was intentionally started," Ralph Bernhagen, chief of the Ohio Division of Geological Survey said yesterday.

Talks Strike Serious Snag

"throwing the German people into despair."

SPEAKING for the Western allies, he called on the Soviets again to work toward re-unification that would free some 17,000,000 East Germans from Red rule.

Gromyko was disclosed to have delivered the threat in a private meeting last Thursday with U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

American sources disclosed that Herter rebuffed the new menace with a blunt warning that President Eisenhower would not go to any summit conference under duress. This, the sources said, would include any move to set a deadline for forcing the West's troops from isolated Berlin.

Moscow radio said tonight that the West had "failed miserably" to impress the world with its package peace plan at the Geneva Conference.

Bernhagen, who watched the Pageant Parade from inside Orton Hall, was referring to the flash fire which destroyed the Phi Kappa Theta-Alfa Delta Pi prize-winning float two weeks ago.

"I saw a man dash out from between two parked cars in front of Orton Hall, go to the rear section of the float and set fire to it. The action happened so suddenly, however, I could not tell what was used to start the blaze," Bernhagen said.

The geologist was unable to furnish a description of the suspect arsonist, but reports from other witnesses have indicated that he is a young, dark-complexioned man, about 5 ft. 9 in. tall and weighing around 155 pounds.

IT'S WHAT'S UP FRONT THAT COUNTS

The mystery is solved! Napoleon's famous gesture was just to reassure himself that he had plenty of cigarettes. His army may have traveled on its stomach, but the old boy himself wouldn't have been caught at Waterloo if he hadn't been checking the Belgian bistros for a spare carton of Winstons! There's a rare smoking treat that comes from Winston's famous Filter-Blend—which means a careful selection of fine, mild tobaccos specially processed for filter smoking. Try a pack real soon, and you'll agree that...
