Somebody once said death and taxes are the only two sure things in life. For OSU students there is a third — yearly tuition increases. The OSU Board of Trustees met for their monthly meeting last Friday in Newark, and on their agenda was the possibility of a 6-per-cent increase in tuition for undergraduate in-state students

This would mean a $185-per-year boost in the cost of attending Ohio State

The Board of Trustees won't vote on a tuition increase until next month's meeting, but it was briefly discussed at the last one, said William Shkurti, OSU vice Currently, the maximum increase for tuition is 4-percent annually for undergraduate instate students. But this could change if a proposed bill in the Ohio Legislature passes allowing a 6-percent annual tuition cap, Shkurti said.

The need for a tuition increase stems from the rising cost of oper-ating the university, he said.

"State aid is not increasing at the same amount as inflation," Shkurti said.

Tom Smith, one of the two students representatives on the Board of Trustees, said no decision regarding a tuition hike was made in Friday's meeting. He expects the vote to take place within the next two months. "Any tuition increase will have to be be explained, justi-needed," Smith said. Most of the money generated from a tuition increase would go to benefit the

USG survey KXXXAAAAAXXXX gives students a louder voice on OSU issues

Students will be able to do more during Undergraduate Student Government elections this year than just vote for their favorite candidate.

USG will ask students to give their opinions about library service, an honor code and the possi-bility of reduced COTA rates for students on new survey forms, said

USG member Steve Cuckler. The forms will be available at all USG polling sights during Tuesday's election and can be left at polling sites or dropped in the campus mail, Cuckler said Cuckler initiated the surveys in an attempt to "assess the needs of the students," he said. "That is something that hasn't been done and needs to be done." The USG Assembly is also trying to increase student participation by moving its next three meet-ings around campus.

USG members decided at the end of last quarter to move their end of last quarter to move their meetings around campus, a plan which they call "On The Road Again." The idea was to move USG meetings, which occur every Wednes-day at 6 p.m., to the four quadrants campus to represent north, south, east and west campus.

"We really do appreciate stu-dent input," said USG member Colin O'Brien. He said the purpose of student government is to be a voice for its constituency.

Last Wednesday night's meeting was held at the newly-built Hillel Center, which is in the east campus quadrant.

Ground was officially broken at a ceremony Friday for a new plaza on the OSU campus to honor cancer survivors.

The Richard and Annette Bloch Cancer Survivor's Plaza, located on the northeast corner of Lane Avenue and Olentangy River Road, is being financed by a gift to the university from Richard Bloch, co-founder of H&R Block tax preparation.

Bloch, who was diagnosed with cancer in 1978, has dedicated his retirement to helping cancer patients overcome the disease. He has been in full remission since 1980.

"This is a park of hope, and for those who have faced cancer, this type of hope is enormously important," said OSU president E. Gordon Gee at the ground breaking ceremony. Gee's wife died of cancer three years ago.

Bloch chose OSU to be the first university in the nation to build a cancer survivor's park because of OSU's Chadwick Arboretum and the Arthur

G. James Cancer Research Center. "The two of them combined, Mr

Bloch thought, would make a tremendous opportunity for the Bloch family to make this contribution," explained Gee. "It is a place that will give opportunity to people to contemplate, but at the same time will be seen and felt, as the spirit of the place will emanate these green fields out throughout the community," he said. The plaza, which should be completed this autumn, will not only represent cancer survivors and those living with cancer, but also family and friends of victims as well.

"We'll get some hope and benefit from what will become a living memo-rial and tribute, as we continue to work toward conquering cancer as a plague in our society," said Columbus Mayor Greg Lashutka, whose stepmother was diagnosed with cancer last summer.

"We decided to build a place where people can come and realize that they can do something about their own condition even if it's as serious as facing death and facing cancer," said Milosav Cekic of Cekic Architects, designer of the OSU park, as well as the four other parks across the country. The two most symbolic elements of his design are the proximity of the Olentangy River and a 2.5-ton granite-ball fountain, that rotates when water flows underneath it. The direc tion of the ball's rotation can be changed with a light touch.

The fountain is a symbol of a small force that can move mountains, Cekic said. The Olentangy River signifies change and growth. The park will also include a bronze sculpture of eight life-size figures to represent the success of cancer survivors, a walkway lined with 14 plaques carrying inspiration, as well as instructional messages and a computer that lists names of central Ohio cancer survivors.

There are four other cancer parks across the United States. The first park was built in the Bloch's hometown of Kansas City. The second park is in Houston, and two more are being built in Cleveland and New Orleans.

Gore also noted that during the Clin ton-Gore administration Ohio's unem ployment rate dropped from 7 percent to 3.8 percent and Ohio got 35,500 nev manufacturing jobs.

Gore spoke for about 45 minutes to a crowd of approximately 1,200 Democ rats and their guests at the Greate Columbus Convention Center.

Gore was introduced by Democrati Senator John Glenn who told those i attendance to, ". . . give a big, loud an long Ohio welcome to a good and decer man, a great Democrat and the currer and next vice president of the Unite States.'

Glenn's speech focused on encourag ing Democrats to move past the defeat suffered in November.

"Instead of endlessly dwelling on a the offices we lost last year, I say it's tin to start focusing on all the offices we ca win in the next 4 years," Glenn said. Glenn also discussed some of the Demo rats past victories.

"We passed the president's econom program in the Senate without a sing Republican vote," Glenn said.

The battle between the Democra and Republicans over the 'Contract wi America' is a "fight over fairness; a stru gle between the rich and the rest; and battle over whether true prosperi always flows up from the people even flows down from the powerfu Glenn said.

Professionals give students career tips at Hillel luncheon

By Lori Axelrod Lantern staff write

"Bagels and Billboards" was the theme of a student brunch held at The Hillel Foundation on Sunday that attempted to help students find successful carreers in marketing, public relations, and advertising. Members of The Young Jewish Professionals, who have particular expertise in these areas. spoke of their own personal experiences to students thinking of careers in related fields.

Amy Mittman, co-chairwoman of the program, said the event was an outreach to students interested in these careers.

'It's young Jewish professionals telling college-age students, who are almost ready to graduate and are planning on going into these fields, what it's like, how to get in, and gives students the opportunity to make a few connections, Mittmansaid.

"This is a great way for students to explore different career opportu-nities they are interested in and find more information about them through listening to people who are actually in the jobs rather than going to class and hearing about it," she said.

The program highlighted professionals who gave advice to the students.

While education is important, internships and experience are as crucial, said Michele Lavon, a freelance marketing and advertising consultant.

Perseverance is the key to finding success in career-searching, Lavon said. Students should not take it personally when people say they do not have time to help.

You will get frustrated, and there will be people who just won't you will be thinking, 'Why can't they just help me? What's the big deal?" Lavon said.

Employers are looking for experience from college graduates, said Ruth Sanford, who works in the sales end of advertising.

"It seems that managers like to hire you if you have media experience Sanford said.

Although it is very hard to break into the business, Sanford said she has found that "once you are in, you are in, no matter how good or bad you are.

Scott Goldberg, board member of the Young Jewish Professionals, said "Bagels and Billboards" is an opportunity for students to meet young professionals in different

"We are bringing in people who have various exposures within that broad range," Goldberg said. "I think it gives students a chance to maybe get a better focus of what they really want to do and at least expose themselves to some ideas they probably weren't aware of."

Some students enjoyed the pro gram and found that it was helpful.

Julie Solomon, a senior majoring in communications, said the program was beneficial to teaching students the right steps to take once they are out in the working field.

"It gave me a little more faith in my ability to obtain the job that I am really interested in," Solomon said. "I think any resources you need, you have to find yourself. It's not spoon-fed to us, but it's a good lesson on how it's going to be from now on.

Betsy Hoffman, a senior in arts and sciences, said the program provided the right information she needed for her job search. "It's invaluable information to help guide students," Hoffman said. "It gave me tips and tech-niques I needed to put me ahead of another candidate for a job. Whether or not I decide to go into this field, the information was helpful for any career choice I

Year-ending budget battle coming to Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (AP) - One of the many lingering mysteries surrounding Congress centers on whether majority Republicans can produce a balanced budget and tax cuts as promised — and whether President Clinton would sign such a package into law. When lawmakers begin returning from their Easter recess late this month, they'll commence a budget war that will dominate the rest of the year on Capitol Hill. And the outcome is likely to play a major role in whether Republicans capture the White House next year and retain control of Congress.

The GOP's goal will be to find a record $1.2 trillion in savings, enough to eliminate the deficit by the year 2002, and also throw in some tax cuts. The House has already approved $188 billion in tax cuts for families and businesses, Clinton wants a $64 billion cut, and the Senate is likely to fall somewhere in between. Ultimately, outnumbered Democrats will have to decide whether to fight Republicans or — with leverage from Clinton veto threats — join in producing a compromise.

"We'll have a package that gets us to a balanced budget in seven years" and cuts taxes, vowed House Major-ity Leader Richard Armey, R-Texas, in an interview. It's a mea-sure he predicts Clinton will sign "because he wants to be president another four years. It's always hard for a president not to get credit when good things happen.

when good things happen." At the White House, Clinton aides are still debating strategy. For how long does he watch Republicans piece together a plan, hering they foul on their forces hoping they fall on their faces.

before joining in the budget process? And does he sign a GOP package because it finally tames the deficit, or veto it because it will rely heavily on cuts in Medicare, Medicaid and other domestic programs Democrats have long protected?

EXIT THROUGH LORRY

Just to cover themselves, howev-er, White House aides have begun inviting key GOP congressional staff members to get-to-know-you lunches.

"Certainly there would be some negotiations," White House budget director Alice Rivlin said in an interview, although she added that Republicans must first produce a plan of their own. Ultimately, she said, she can imagine agreement on a smaller tax cut than Republicans have proposed, health care reforms that pro-duce deficit reduction, "and we duce deficit reduction, "and we could end up with a budget that everybody is reasonably satisfied with

The politics are already appar ent, based on the fights over smaller packages of spending cuts during Congress' first 100 days. Republicans say the deficit must be eliminated to ensure a healthy economic future, and the task can be done by weeding out unneeded programs and slowing the growth of others. Democrats say fine, but law-makers should not slash initiatives for the poor, seniors, children and programs that nurture long-term growth like education and technology, and use the savings to lower taxes for the rich

No ones knows which argument will sell with the voters. But whatever happens, the rest of the year will make legislators' grueling first three months look like a frolic in the

OHIO BRIEFS GOP majority in Statehouse is no free ride for Voinovich

COLUMBUS (AP) - Dealing with a new crop of fellow Republican lawmak ers in the Statehouse has not been as easy as Gov. George Voinovich might have hoped. Just a few months after the GOP took control of the legislature for the first time in 22 years, the second-term governor has struggled to have some of his projects approved by the lawmakers he helped put in office.

Voinovich gave $600,000 from his campaign coffers to help Republicans take control of the House and was expected to have many allies in the legislature.

But the new General Assembly, which just completed its first 100 days, has not been granting the governor's every wish.

"I learned a long time ago there's two branches of government, and the governor wasn't elected to dictate,' Voinovich said.

The legislature has acted swiftly on issues such as workers' compensation, welfare reform and crime, but it has blocked other significant initiatives that Voinovich wanted, including reinstatement of the pop tax, creation of a statewide school voucher program and capping the state's subsidy on property taxes.

The governor has also run into roadblocks in his attempt to set spending limits for political campaigns and to gain the authority to appoint the state school board. Voinovich said he is not troubled by the setbacks. "Understand, you have many members of the legislature that are relative ly new . . . they don't have the perspective that they might have otherwise," he said.

Rep. Patrick Tiberi, R-Columbus, said there is a different group in the Statehouse this year.

"Everything here in the House changed," Tiber said. "Because of term limits, with newer people coming in who are outside the political process, you can't assume that just because we have a Republican governor, the members are going to go lockstep with what he believes.

House speaker Jo Ann Davidson, R-"It's a different ballgame now — not only for the governor, but everybody else who operates with the legislature, Davidson said.

NAACP leader plans Washington march

DAYTON (AP) — The Rev. Benjamin Chavis, the former leader of the NAACP, said Sunday he will help organize a march on Washington this fall.

Chavis said he would join Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan to mobi-lize at least 1 million black men for the Oct. 16 march.

The purpose of the march is more self-affirmation, where we are encour-aging black men to stand up to straighten up there backs and say we are going to take greater responsibility for improving the quality of life of our com-munity," he said.

Chavis, who is from Cleveland, spoke Sunday at two Dayton churches. He announced the march at an afternoon news conference.

Central State U. misused funds

DAYTON (AP) - A government audit determined that Central State Univer-sity improperly used federal studentaid money to pay its own bills, the Day-ton Daily News reported Sunday.

The Wilberforce school also awarded financial aid to ineligible students and failed to forward other students' aid money to them on a timely basis, the U.S. Department of Education audit found.

The department is calculating how much money it may force Central State to repay the federal government for mishandling the financial aid, the Daily News said. Central State annually channels about $15 million in federal grants and loans to its students.

The education department already has sanctioned Central State by requiring it to use its own money to provide student aid and then seek reim-

The sanction caused a cash-flow crunch earlier this year and contributed to the university's $6 million debt, Central State and state officials said

The Ohio Board of Regents has asked the state Controlling Board for $4 million — including a $1.5 million loan — to help the school pay long-standing bills. The seven-member controlling board was to consider the equest on Monday.

The university is preparing a formal response to the education department's Feb. 1 compliance audit. The school plans to dispute some of the con clusions and correct others, said Blanche Mayo, Central State's vice president for administrative support rvices.

Central State Interim President Herman Smith said he has asked Ohio Board of Regents Chancellor Elaine Hairston to recruit three student-aid experts from other Ohio colleges to evaluate Central State's program and make recommendations.

Anti-poverty agency under investigation

DAYTON (AP) - An anti-poverty agency gave board members perks, including no-bid contracts, consulting fees and trips to conferences at vacation resorts, the Dayton Daily News reported Sunday.

The Montgomery County Communi-MCAA President David Hernandez.

show the agency had numerous financial dealings with past or present board members.

The board consists of six representatives each from elected office, the private sector and the low-income population. Board members receive no pay for their work.

In 1993, the agency agreed to pay $674,000 for property owned by a former board member's company - five times what the company told tax collectors it was worth, the newspaper said. MCCAA then gave the owner, The Danis Companies, $260,000 for building renovation without advertising for bids, as required by law, the newspaper said. Danis also received a $900,000 nobid contract to remodel MCCAA's headquarters in 1988.

Senior vice president Richard Danis, a longtime acquaintance of Hernandez, was a board member from 1989 to 1991. Danis said he played no role in the transactions.

Danis has an unlisted phone number and could not be reached for comment Sunday.

Bill would allow younger poll staff

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Franklin County Board of Elections hopes a bill passes that would allow 17-year-olds to staff polling places.

"We already contact the schools because there are some 18-year-old seniors, but this bill gives us a reason to contact them again," said Deputy Director Don Spicer.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Jackie O'Brien, R-Cincinnati, allows any 17-year-old U.S. citizen who will be 18 by the next general election to serve as a precinct worker.

The House of Representatives passed the bill 97-1 last week. It now moves to the Senate. "A 17-year-old has the stamina to spend the day at the polls, and the expe-rience could trigger an interest in government." O'Brien said.

Boards of elections throughout Ohio have long complained of a dwindling work force. Spicer said his workers are mostly retired or people not working outside the home.

But it has become more difficult to find willing workers as retirees age and more families have both spouses working. Spicer said the community also has become more transient, and many people feel less obliged to work at the polls. About 5,000 workers are needed to staff the 1,261 precincts in Franklin County.

1960 hoops team gets together, relives glory

By Bill Loadman

Confident smiles and enthusiasm abounded as members of the 1960 Ohio State men's basketball team met Friday in Columbus to celebrate the 35th anniversary of their national champi-

The former players spoke glowingly about the team that won both Big Ten and NCAA titles, and would eventually send all five starters into the professional ranks.

"It was a unique group of young men," three-time Big Ten Most Valu-able Player, and 1960 team member Jerry Lucas said. "We were all from Ohio. We were all dedicated, and a really fine group of students." really fine group of students."

Just a sophomore in his first season of eligibility, Lucas was the undisputed star of the squad that went 25-3 and beat defending champion California in the NCAA final. The recurring themes the NUAA inai. The recurring themes from all of the players though, were team play and admiration for their head coach Fred Taylor. "He (Taylor) instilled working together and being a family, and com-peting for Ohio State, and all-for-one and one for all — that time of balace and one-for all — that type of philoso-phy," team member Joe Roberts said. Dick Furry, an upperclassman on the team, also credited Taylor with much of the team's success. "Fred stood for excellence. I think he

He went on to become one of the NBA's all-time greats while with the Boston Celtics. "In my particular case. I would

"In my particular case, I would never have been a professional basket-ball player if it hadn't been for Fred Taylor because he taught me the rudiments of the game, and the things that make you a stronger player," Havlicek said

Roberts, along with many of his 1960 teammates, is disenchanted with current state of college and professional basketball. "I think it's gotten out of hand, they (today's players) think about them selves first," Roberts said. "I wouldn't want to be a coach today. It is probably one of the most difficult jobs a person has today. Players today are totally different," Lucas said. Both Lucas and Roberts were hesitant to discuss the current state of the Ohio State basketball program. While they are disappointed, they think head coach Randy Ayers will get the Buckeyes back on track. "I have a lot of confidence in Randy," Lucas said. "I think Randy is a good coach. Some unfortunate things happened in the program that were out-side his domain, and you can't control everybody." Roberts believes Ayers handled last

"We had a lot of unique personalities on this particular team," Havlicek said, "No one wanted to be considered the weak link."

Roberts felt that the team's success could be attributed to much more than its basketball skills. "There were no egos to deal with at that time, so we had team play and players taking advantage of other players. We'd pound the heck out of each other during practice, but after practice everybody was happy, every-body was friendly and got along." With the anniversary of the championship, one might think that basket-ball would be the hottest topic of discussion between the players or that they would reminisce about their victory over California. "We don't talk about the game," Havlicek said. "We basically wonder what everyone else is doing, so we catch up that way." The sophomore-dominated Ohio State team was able to keep everything in perspective in 1960 as well.

"We didn't think about winning the national championship until we real-ized we were in the finals," Lucas said. Havlicek agreed, sort of.

"We were just concerned about mak-ing a good showing," he said, and added with a chuckle, "but then we also knew we were pretty good too."

McCall punishes Holmes; looking for Tyson fight

LAS VEGAS (AP) ing champions, including Sugar Ray Leonard and Marvelous Marvin Hagler, were being introduced when some fans started chanting, "We want Mike, we want Mike." They didn't get to see Mike Tyson, who stayed away from the five-title fight card Saturday night at Caesars Palace, although he was in town. They did see Oliver McCall and Bruce Seldon get in line for possible rich paydays in fights against Tyson by winning heavyweight title match-

They also saw 45-year-old Larry Holmes fight for the last time in losing a close, but unanimous decision to McCall in a bid for the WBC championship. "I fell short of victory and of my goal,"Holmessaid. "It'stimetogiveit up, but nobody should feel sorry for me. Boxing has been great. I've had 26 years of happiness. Boxing don't owe me nothing. I owe boxing everything." McCall and Seldon, who won the WBA title by stopping Tony Tucker after seven rounds, will have to make a defense or two before Tyson is ready to challenge for a championship. They, or whoever unseats them, are much more in the Tyson mix than IBF champion George Foreman and WBO champion Riddick Bowe.

McCall and Seldon are promoted by Don King, Tyson's promoter, and so will be any opponents they might fight in the near future. The 46-yearold Foreman and Bowe are not promoted by King and, besides, Fore-man with his power and Bowe with his size would appear to be more dangerous opponents than either McCall or Seldon.

Tyson, released from prison March 25 after serving three years on a rape conviction, probably will have at least two tuneup fights before he's ready for a title bid. The former undisputed champion, who has not fought since outpointing Donovan 'Razor" Ruddock on June 28, 1991, likely could begin his comeback in late August or September.

"Mike Tyson is a good friend of mine, but Mike Tyson is not the champion," said McCall, a former Tyson sparring partner. "When Mike Tyson is ready, he is going to knock on my door. I don't have to knock on his McCall would be happy to answer Tyson's knock because it would mean a lot of money to him. Seldon also would not hesitate to fight Tyson.

Immediately after outpointing Holmes, McCall said, "I'm looking forward to fighting Frank Bruno in July in London." The fight is being discussed, but has not been made.

King indicated that a Seldon-Tucker rematch is possible, and Sel-don told Tucker at the postfight news conference, "If you want to do it, we will, but next time I'll be the champi-on." Saturday night's fight was for the vacant WBA title.

Holmes, making his fourth unsuc-cessful title bid since losing the IBF title on points to Michael Spinks in 1985, didn't have Foreman's power to offset his age. Foreman was far behind on points when he became the oldest heavyweight champion in history by knocking out Michael Moorer last Nov. 5.

McCall, 231, was dominant in the last four rounds, and had Holmes, 236, in serious trouble in the ninth when he ripped open a deep cut on Holmes' left cheek.

Judge Barbara Perez scored the fight 114-113, Tomi Tomiharra saw it 115-114, and Chuck Giampa scored it 115-112 for McCall.

Crenshaw uses strong putting to pull off Masters win

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) - Ben Crenshaw, who last Sunday took one last lesson from his teacher Harvey Penick, won the Masters championship exactly a week after Penick died.

Taming the treacherous Augusta National greens with a confident putting stroke bolstered by Penick's reassuring words, Crenshaw shot a final-round 68 to finish at 14-under-par 274, one stroke ahead of Davis Love and three ahead of Greg Nor-man and Jay Haas. And it all turned, as always, on the tricky back nine at Augusta. The crunching blow came at No. 16 As his final putt dropped on the last green, Crenshaw bent over and clasped his head, overcome with emotion.

It was a slam-bang finish after the day started with 12 players within four strokes of Crenshaw and thirdround co-leader Brian Henninger.

14. Minterior Stevel

when, with Love safely in the clubhouse at 13-under, Crenshaw hit a brilliant iron shot that showed enormous knowledge of the course, hitting well right of the hole on the par-3 and curling down the slope to 3 feet. He knocked it in for the birdie that put him at 14 under and rode that emotion to a 12-footer for birdie at No. 17. He played No. 18 safely and made a bogey.

It was the second Masters title for the 43-year-old Crenshaw, who won in 1984 and also has finished second twice and in the top-10 seven other times, certain proof that he is one of the best putters in the game. In fact, Crenshaw remarkably had no three putt greens in the tournament.

Sci-fi movie marathon may have run last mile

DrexelNorth closing marks end of an era

By J. Allen Morris Lantern arts write

Most people who attended the ninth annual Drexel North science fiction marathon knew it would have an atomic flavor, but they were'nt expecting the bomb that was dropped near its end.

Drexel Theaters owner Jeff Frank announced that this year's "It Came From the Drexel North" marathon would be the theater's last.

The Drexel North, host to one of the few sci-fi marathons in the country, has been sold, Frank said. The building will be closed in a few months and will become a Revco drugstore, he said. The other Drexel theaters will remain open.

Marathon designer and host Bruce Bartoo reassured the audience that the film festival would continue if a suitable site could be found.

"Keep the faith and we'll put some-thing together," Bartoo said. "But we can't promise you when it will be." Bartoo's mission will be harder than just finding a theater big enough to hold the 600 to 700 people who come to see science fiction classics, world premieres, film shorts and movie trailers.

Marathon organizers need to find a theater that is also willing to let audience members bring in food, pillows, blankets and all the other comforts needed for the 24-hour event, Bartoo said.

Finding a place that will let marathoners be marathoners is important to preserving the atmosphere that makes "It Came From the Drexel North" a different kind of movie experience, he said. "It's as much about the audience as it is the films," Bartoo said. "Some-times a really terrible film might actually turn out to be fun because of the audience reaction."

Marathon organizers work hard to give the audience a taste of what movie-going was like in "the old days when going to the movies was an event," Frank said.

"When you grew up in the 50s, you went to see the monster movies every weekend," he said. "You'd get all your friends and enough money to buy popcorn, and you'd be there the whole afternoon.

The Sci-fi marathon is a continuation of that tradition, only bigger, Frank said.

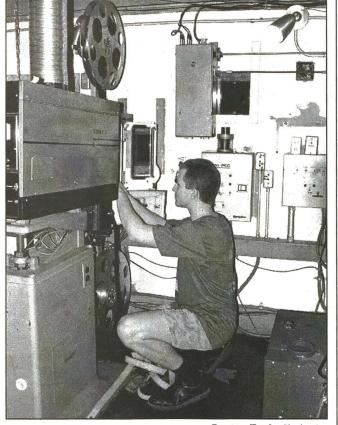

"We try to have events that they can't do at a multiplex theater," he said. "The impact of seeing a film with 700 people that are reacting to it is tremendous." This year's film festival fare routinely drew outbursts of applause, heckling and wisecracks. No film was immune, although some endured more than others. During "The Shadow," for example, audience members jeered the screen with chants of "Jump! Jump!" during a scene in which the villain uses mind powers to force a hapless victim to leap from the Empire State Building. "We don't just show the five or six best films each year," Frank said. "We hope the audience likes what we pick, but it's always a challenge." Some of the most well-received

Fashion designers showing pinstripes, tweeds for fall

NEW YORK (AP) — How do you spell fall fashion? Try conservative chic. Call it a reality bite of haberdash ery-tailored pinstriped suits, served up during last week's recent marathon of previews. Designers sent out enough black, camel and brown, tweed, herringbone, and flannel to line Brooks Brothers from end to end. Low-key even when the jackets are body-hugging and skirts are knee-baring and slim, the hourglass silhouettes won't make Wall Street blush.

Saleable? Absolutely, say industry types. Money in the bank for Anne Klein, Calvin Klein and Ellen Tracy. And, heaven forbid, maybe even safe.

But wait. The fabulously funky world of New York fashion design never exactly thrived on understatement

High-drama options also abound. Like Tinseltown glamourpuss gowns from Ralph Lauren, modeled with Oscar in hand. Jeweled tiaras from Oscar de la Renta. Kaleidoscopic rain bow-print pantsuits from Mod Squadder Todd Oldham. Groovy hip-hug-gers from Anna Sui and Marc Jacobs. And cultural-collision cowboy boots printed with pagodas from Nicole Miller. Fashion week wrapped up Friday evening with Donna Karan, prescription for fall is tall (it helps. since all of her models went bare legged with black flats), dark (every-thing black) and handsome (menswear-styled). With Patti LaBelle and Connie

Stevens seated ringside, Karan trot-ted out the first 30 outfits in solid black, starkly accessorized with nothing other than headbands - in, naturally, her color of choice. Karan bowed to trends such as menswear, with striped wool suits, and she showed trendy leather and suede, in the guise of shirt jackets and wrap coats. Among the most wearable looks were Karan's cashmere separates in camel, charcoal and black.

Back for another round were Karan's satin slip dresses, sheer enough to look bedroom-bound. Her see-through clingy sequinned dresses could have benefited from additional underpinnings besides just underpants

But fall offers more

The season typically brings a darker palette, but in addition to the sea of black that haunted DKNY and Calvin Klein, there is a bright story. Wool luncheon suits from Oscar de la Renta come in a rainbow of royal blue, red, and hot pink, while Richard Tyler casts off the shroud of black with his ivory satin separates and menswear suits in pastels. Isaac Mizrahi stays his hand at his quirky color combos, this time mixing pink and red satin separates for evening.

Fall fashion is fun, in the form of let's-play-dress-up. Buffalo girls show up at Betsey Johnson, who likes a sexy saloon girl style, while DKNY is at home on the range with urban cow folk in reflective leather or snakeskin ans with leather bustiers. Fall's cast of fashion characters also cludes silver-screen queens from Ralph Lauren, in metallic glimmering column gowns modeled to tunes from "Sunset Boulevard." Byron Lars likewise stitches ensembles born for grand entrances, such as his '40s suits with hobble skirts, with go-withs like fake fur cuffs and cigarette holders.

Apropos fake fur cuffs, Catwoman back. Adrienne Vittadini offers pony-print slim pants, and Bill Blass has leopard-lined sweater sets. Fake crocodile, in everything from bell-bot-toms to coats, looks snappy.

Dark thriller 'Shallow Grave' intrigues art-house audience

By Bradley Eimer antern arts writer

With the surplus of crappy movies coming out this time of year, Drexel Theaters have managed to get their paws on some of the most controversial, yet entertaining, movies that would calm the nerves of even the most finicky of movie-watchers. Since January, I've seen four fan-Since January, I've seen four ran-tastic films at the Drexel by four very different directors ("Hoop Dreams," "The Madness of King George," "Heavenly Creatures," and "Pulp Fiction")

All shameless plugs aside, in order to further prove my "Drexel theory", I offer you, the jury, a fifth piece of evi-dence; the film-noir thriller "Shallow

This jolly-good film was cast in Scotland by a group of virtual unknowns for virtually no money, yet many other big-time, high-priced movies fail miserably in comparison to this low-budget masterpiece. "Shallow Grave" centers around three roommates, two men and one woman, who are looking for a fourth roommate to fill their huge Scottish loft.

After one unsuccessful interview after another, they finally manage to find the perfect roommate, Hugo, played by Keith Allen ("Kafka" and

"The Young Americans' Things start to get a little exciting when the three roommates find Hugo's naked, dead body sprawled across his bed the day after he moves in. Suicide perhaps? Oh yeah, something else, they also find a suitcase full of money underneath the bed.

After a day of painstaking deliberations, the roommates ultimately decide to get rid of the body and keep the cash. (Sort of makes you appreci-ate the insignificant roommate things like unwashed dishes and wet toilet seats in your own apartment, doesn'tit?)

What ensues is a psychology stunt's wet dream.

I don't want to give away the movie, so I can't really say any more. Per-haps these adjectives will help paint a clearer picture: violent, confrontational, morbid, nail-biting, seat-fid-geting and psychotic with some saws, knives and hammers thrown in to add to the melancholy feeling.

All in all, this once happy household of friends turns into a macabre circus from the depths of Hades. (No, really)

Many critics have praised the writing and directorial style of "Shallow Grave" as "Hitchcockian." Then again, Roman Polanski's thriller-dud

"Frantic" had also worn the reigns of that great honor not too long ago. First-time silver-screen director

Danny Boyle definitely puts some Hitchcock into his movies (See "Rear Window"). But what is more impressive is how Boyle makes the huge loft seemingly different every time you enter by using different camera styles and directing techniques. First-time screenwriter, John Hodge (who is also a doctor in his spare time), introduces the roommates as lovable eccentric people.

Then, like toiling with a fiendish "Rubik's cube", he twists and transforms them into psychotic madmen by the end of the film.

The roommates (David,Alex and Juliet), played by Christopher Eccle-ston, Ewan McGregor and Kerry Fox ("The Last Days of Chez Nous"), are truly believable as three very different, yet close, roommates.

Eccleston, however, steals the show with his witty lines and tor-mented style. In one scene he tells the once warm-blooded Hugo, "I don't like meeting people unless I know them first.

With this kind of ingenious writing and up-tempo direction and acting you really can't go wrong with Shallow Grave.

Film series features director Jean Renoir; brings back classic films to big screen

Renoir's movie masterpieces still powerful

By Cheryl Honigford

The Wexner Center is beginning a new Cinematheque film series cele-brating classic films and their directors.

"The Cinematheque program has been developed in response to the relative scarcity of venues in the Colum-bus area that can show classic films in the manner in which they were originally intended to be seen — on the large screen rather than on home video," said Sherri Geldin, director of the Wexner Center. The series opens with a six week tribute to Jean Renoir, who is widely regarded as one of the greatest French filmmakers of all time. The The film was cut to a mere 87 min-series, "Cinema as Life: The Films of utes and was eventually banned by would occupy France just a year Jean Renoir," will run from April 5 to May 20. The retrospective includes 23 of Renoir's films, some of which will appear in newly restored 35 mm prints. Each series of films in the Cine-matheque program will focus around a central theme or work of a single director.

Renoir, son of Impressionist painter August Renoir, began his film career in the 1920s and continued to make films until 1970. He died in 1979.

The series opened with a screening of Renoir's 1939 masterpiece, "The Rules of the Game." The film, a dark-ly witty farce about the romantic entanglements of the idle rich and their servants, was a virtual disaster when it premiered.

Renoir even saw one man lighting a newspaper on fire at one of the a newspaper on me at one of the screenings in an attempt to burn the theater down, according to Penelope Gilliat author of "Jean Renoir-Essays, Conversations," Reviews.

the French government and the Nazi occupation for its "demoralizing" potential. The cut footage was recovered years later, and the film was restored to its original state. Ironically, it is now regarded as one of the finest films ever made.

Peter Wollen, British writer, theo-rist, and chair of the UCLA film department gave an introductory lec-ture before the screening of the film. Wollen said "The Rules of the Game" was wrongfully dismissed and dis-carded. He called the film one of the greatest masterpieces of cinema and compared Renoir to such cinematic geniuses as Chaplin, Hawkes, and Hitchcock

"The Rules of the Game" has often been compared to the Orson Wells classic, "Citizen Kane." Both films were critical disasters when they opened, emerged from the culture of the popular from the culture of the popular front, and suffered from their politics, Wollen said.

Wollen cited the political and his-torical upheaval that was going on in Europe at the time the film was being made and released as having a direct effect on its reception. "The Rules of the Game" opened in July. In Sep-

"Out of the ashes, Renoir created a new cinema— modern, progressive, and free,"Wollen said.

Among the other Renoir films being presented are "Toni," "La Mar-seillaise," "Elena and Her Men" starring Ingrid Bergman, and "Boudu Saved from Drowning" — the origi-nal film which the recent movie "Down and Out in Beverly Hills" was based.

The remaining films in the Renoir series will be screened at 7 p.m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays at the Wexner Film/Video Theater. Tick-ets, available at the Wexner Center ticket office are $5 for the general public, $4 for students and senior citizens and $2 for children under 12.

Upcoming Cinematheque events include "The Method", a summer 1995 series of American feature films from the 1950s to the 1980s. The films feature actors who studied at the famous Actors Studio in New York, birthplace of the "Method" approach to acting. Some of those who trained at the Actors Studio were Marilyn Monroe, Marlon Brando and James Dean.

Thousands rally in Washington to fight violence against women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women's rights supporters rallied near the Capitol Sunday to protest "violence against women" — a term they applied not only to rape and battering but also to political assaults on welfare spending, abortion and affirmative action.

"As women have been able to take some small measure of power, we're facing a fierce backlash," Patricia Ire-land, president of the National Organization for Women, told the crowd.

Thousands of people spread across the National Mall for the rally, organized by NOW and endorsed by more than 700 groups, including abortionrights supporters, labor unions, civil rights groups, gay and lesbian organizations, environmentalists, socialists, victims' rights advocates, and welfare recipients. Ireland estimated the crowd at 250,000. The National Park Service planned to release its own estimate, which was expected to be lower.

Coming at the end of the first 100 days of the new GOP-led Congress, the "Rally for Women's Lives" focused heavily on the conservative agenda of House Speaker Newt Gingrich, K-Ga. Speakers voiced fears that Congress would curtail abortion rights, cut spending on welfare programs for women and children, dismantle affirmative action programs for women and minorities, and cut funding to prevent domestic violence and aid its victims. They equated what they called "political violence" with physical attacks.

"Be it personal terror or political terror, it has just one purpose — con-trol," said Eleanor Smeal, president of The Feminist Majority. "We are the majority. Our rights will only be taken away if we allow the terrorists to reign.

Hoisting signs that read "NOW, Not Newt" and "Republicans Don't Need Abortions, They Eat Their Young," demonstrators chanted "We won't go back." A few women stripped to their bras, and some went topless in the warm sun. Men and children also ere sprinkled through the crowd.

There should be as many men here as women here," the Rev. Jesse Jack-son said. "Men must know that none of us are secure until all of us are secure.'

Among the speakers were relatives of people killed in anti-abortion shootings, including June Barrett, whose husband James was shot to death while escorting a doctor into a Pensacola, Fla., abortion clinic.

"I survived that horrible nightmare and I am here today to say to you, help stop the violence and defend a woman's right to choose," said Mrs. Barrett, who was injured in the attack.

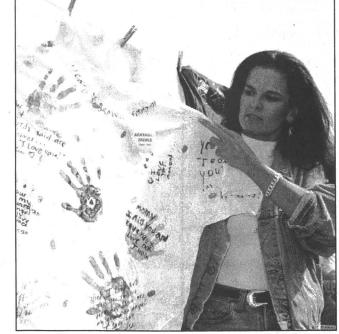

An assortment of celebrities, including Sharon Gless and Tyne Daly of television's "Cagney and Lacey," rock singer Joan Jett, and musical groups Salt 'N Pepa and Toad the Wet Sprocket were also scheduled to appear.

Timed to coincide with the rally, more than 6,000 T-shirts representing victims of rape, murder, battering, child abuse, and other violence against women were strung across the Mall as part of the nationwide "Clothesline Project."

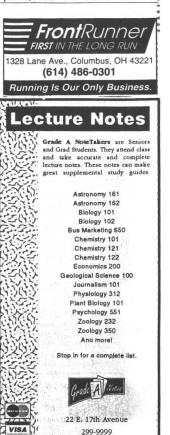

Denise Brown hung a white T-shirt covered with colorful handprints and handwritten messages in honor of her sister Nicole Brown Simpson, the slain ex-wife of O.J. Simpson.

"Mommy, I miss you and I love you. Justin," read the note from Ms. Simpson's 6-year-old son.

Tammy Murphy of Luray, Va., brought two shirts that she said represented emotional abuse inflicted by her husband, from whom she is now separated.

Astronaut remembers triumph over tragedy during Apollo 13 mission

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Every time Jim Lovell looks at the moon, he feels cheated.

Twenty-five years ago this week, the Apollo 13 commander was supposed to land there. Instead, he wound up zooming around it in a race for his life after an oxygen tank in the spaceship exploded 200,000 miles from Earth, four-fifths of the way to the moon.

Lovell and his crew, Fred Haise and Jack Swigert, did return safely to Earth. Lovell is grateful for that. But it was the second time he flew to the moon and didn't land.

"That is my one regret," said Lovell, 67.

Lovell first circled the moon in 1968 on Apollo 8, a dress rehearsal for the first manned lunar landing the following year. During Apollo 13, he should have become the fifth man to walk on the moon and Haise the sixth; Swigert was going to wait for them as they explored the Fra Mauro highlands.

It never happened. "On the other hand, the mission itself and the fact that we triumphed over an almost certain catastrophe does give me a deep sense of satisfaction. Although I didn't land on the moon, the achievement that was accomplished, I thought, was well worthwhile to participate in," Lovell said recently. Many consider Apollo 13's safe return one of NASA's finest moments, right up there with Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin's stroll on the moon nine months earlier on Apollo 11. "Looking at it in retrospect, I think it's probably one of the most amazing and incredible rescues of all history," said Gene Kranz, its lead flight director. "The performance of the crew and the opera-tions team and the support of the whole world, they just came together in a marvelous moment of achievement."

1970, two days after the colossal Saturn 5 rocket blasted off from Kennedy Space Center. Cursed or not, Apollo 13 remains NASA's only in-space disaster in 99 human space flights.

The Apollo 1 spacecraft fire, which killed three astronauts in 1967, occurred at the launch pad during a countdown test. The Chal-lenger explosion, which killed all seven aboard in 1986, occurred 73 seconds after liftoff.

NASA later concluded both those tragedies could have been avoided. Apollo 13 also could have been prevented: a review board criti-cized NASA afterward for "serious oversight" in the design and testing of the oxygen tank. For four days in April 1970, hundreds of flight controllers and engi-neers worked feverishly on a daring rescue plan.

Not only was oxygen spilling into space from the service module, two of Apollo 13's three fuel cells were out and one of two main power distribution panels was dead. With Kranz calling the shots, Lovell, Haise and Swigert moved into the cramped, dark and frigid lunar lander while rationing their dwindling oxygen, water and elec-tricity. They swung around the moon and aimed for Earth as people around the world waited and prayed.

No one panicked.

"If we didn't control our emotions, we'd still be floating around up there," Lovell said. "I mean, there was no other recourse." On April 17, 1970, the command module, minus the jettisoned service module and lunar lander, para-chuted down into the Pacific Ocean.

Men returned to the moon four more times and landed. But none of the Apollo 13 astronauts flew in space again.

Haise ended up in business. Swigert went into politics; he died of cancer in 1982 one month after being elected to Congress.

"I'm living on borrowed time," said Lovell, who retired from busi-ness a few years ago. "I could have been dead back in 1970 and so all

Streamlining Social Security could save country $1 billion over 5 years

WASHINGTON (AP) White House is drafting plans to streamline Social Security by turning over some of its work to private business and staggering the mailing of 49 million retirement and disability checks now sent at the beginning of the month.

Some critics say the blueprint overlooks Social Security's most pressing problem: looming insol-vency for the national retirement system. Others say giving for-profit companies a piece of Social Securi-ty's $381 billion budget is a privacy risk.

The proposed reforms are part of the Clinton administration's push to "reinvent government." The changes, which could save as much as $1 billion over five years, are to be announced Wednesday.

According to documents obtained by The Associated Press, the Social Security Administration is considering letting large employers file a retiring worker's claims for benefits directly with the agency, by computer. The agency acknowledges, how-ever, that several privacy issues must first be resolved, although the move would reduce its workload.

Social Security keeps records on

- The the earnings of almost 140 million working Americans, and the information is coveted by collection agencies, private investigators and info formation brokers. H&R Block Tax Services Inc., the nation's largest income tax return preparation service, is already trying to get in on the action.

Social Security has promised to consider using the company and others like it to assist people with fil-ing for all types of benefits, according to correspondence between H&RBlock and the agency.

Another proposed change involves staggering the sending of checks to retired and disabled recipients.

Checks currently go out on the third of the month to 49 million Americans, prompting more than 2 million calls during the first week of the month to the agency's toll-free phone number. The crush of callers ties up the lines and keeps some people from getting through with ques-tions about their benefits.

Staggering the distribution of checks could even out the impact on financial institutions as well as Social Security's workload, particu-larly as the number of recipients grows to 76 million by the year 2020.

What we think... Vague student government could be greatly improved

It's that time of year again. The most popular event on campus next to the Michigan game takes place April 11 and 12.

Having difficulty guessing what it is? Here's a hint: Undergraduate Student Government elections.

If you're still not sure what it is that's okay, you're not alone Last year, prior to USG elections, the Lantern berated USG in an editorial. Its general idea went something like this ... "Don't vote ... We don't care.'

We won't be as harsh this year, but we're not going to pass up the opportunity to examine the way USG is run.

Only 12 percent of the undergraduate population voted in USG elections last year. We're not going to poke fun, instead we will pro-vide a few suggestions that might increase voter turnout:

•Why not extend the length of the USG campaigning period? USG bylaws state that students cannot announce their candidacy until the beginning of spring quarter. Elections are held two weeks later. That's not a lot of time to reach the large OSU undergraduate population.

 Conduct elections via Brutus. Voting at the touch of a button would certainly increase turnout. Sure, more than half the votes might be completely uninformed, but at least USG would have better numbers to brag about ·Last but not least, find some issues that the undergraduate population really cares about and let them know you will try to do something about it.

Maybe USG has already thought of this one, but if so why doesn't anyone know or care what USG is doing.

There's obviously some problems at USG. Just look at today's Reader's Forum. These people are having a difficult time getting nothing done.

We're not against the idea of a USG. We're just upset that most students have only a vague notion of what USG is about, and the extent to which it could affect university policy for students' benefit.

Foolish to prohibit books containing racial slurs

The Texas Legislature may pass into law an amendment to prohibit the State Board of Education from adopting books that contain racial slurs, such as "Huckleberry Finn" by Mark Twain and "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings" by Maya Angelou. Seventeen senators have already voted yes on the bill.

Just when it seems that scholars have proved that these are not racist books, along come some busybodies who want to make the books harder to come by in schools.

David L. Smith, a professor of English at Williams College, wrote that "Huck Finn" was in fact one of greatest anti-racist works of fiction.

tures. Two very contrasting attitudes prevail in the two hemispheres. To identify one as better or more pragmatic than the other would be a rash, jaundiced judgment. The fact is that each system, despite its own merits and demerits, seems to be working fine. One can certainly trust the resilience of each society to discard outmoded and irrational practices, and adapt to newer ones when the situation so demands. buttresses arguments that Twain himself clearly was not a racist.

Shelley Fisher Fishkin, professor of English and American studies, uncovered a letter Twain wrote about how he helped finance the education of a black student at Yale law school.

Then Fishkin gained international attention with her 1992 book, "Was Huck Black? Mark Twain and African-American Voices." In it, Fishkin explored the possibility that Twain had based Huck's voice on a black child he knew named Sociable Jimmy.

The dearth of black literature taught in most English departments helped galvanize Fishkin into researching the book. "Huck Finn" is one of the few books related to black culture available to a broad spectrum of students. Much black literature gets taught under labels such as Afro-American studies or "multiculturalism."

Nearly every literature teacher assigned to teach "Huck Finn" probably tries to explain the concept of satire, or indirect criticism. The use of the n-word in the book is just that. The would-be book limiters just don't seem to believe in satire as a teaching tool. They'd rather eliminate the offensive word from students' purview.

But ignorance solves nothing. Shielding children from the n-word or other touchy subjects only leaves them open to disillusionment later on when they hear it from some wise-guy school kid (or from F. Lee Bailey's mouth during the O.J. Simpson trial).

Those who doubt that should read about Nathan McCall's gradual loss of innocence in his recent bestseller "Makes Me Wanna Holler."

McCall explains that as a child he didn't know why his brothers got so sullen when they had to go work in a wealthy white neighborhood as assistant gardeners. His stepdad never talked to the boys about the disrespect shown him by his white employers and their children. Once McCall saw it for himself, it seeded an adolescent anger he couldn't begin to understand until much later.

McCall rails that the worst upbringing for a black child is not so much in having an absent father but one who fails to explain to his children the pitfalls of succumbing to self-hatred for being black. That self-hatred fuels many a young black man's anger who could use that energy in constructive ways if he understood it better.

Let's get together to protest this ridiculous amendment passed by the Senate.

Jeans shopping creates dilemma for columnist

VITTAL

I experienced a real-life nightmare recently. I went jeans shop-when I was much younger shopping for jeans was just another event of the back-to-school-shopping extravaganza. No big deal, right? I went into the store with my mom, looked for my size and picked out a cool pair of Lee's. No problem. Now, it's a nightmare that ranks right up there with shopping for a bathing suit.

I don't remember when the whole process became so complicated. I now walk into the Gap and am faced with a whole monstrous wall (maybe two or three walls depending on which store) of blue denim. It's downright intimidating facing all those jeans that are just staring at you, waiting to laugh while you try finding the right size.

I used to work at the Gap. Albeit, for only a month but while I was there, I really got to know my jeans. All of a sudden I was faced with Classic fit, Slim fit, Loose fit, Reverse fit and the special Week end Edition jeans (don't even ask me about those). Not only are there different styles to tackle, but then the whole color issue comes into play. Stone-washed is quite popular, but what about just a regular, lighter blue or a normal dark blue? Thank God, acid-wash is a thing of thepast

I applaud the Gap, Banana Republic, Levi and all the other retailers that want to supply their customer with enough choices to make them happy. I know darn well that we're all not built alike. I know that some styles look better on others, but for God's ELAINE sake, does it have to be some kind of Broad-GOUNARIS way production? The Columbus Dispatch featured an article last quarter in their Accent section on how to pick jeans that are right for you. It was too fitting (good pun, huh?) that they decided to run the story the same day I was thinking about my newest jeans dilemma. I just ripped a hole in my absolute favorite pair of jeans.

I got them at the Gap, of course, when I was a freshman and have worn them religiously since. Granted I've purchased other jeans since these (a nice pair of Classic fit faded, button-fly — it times if you're lucky you get that all sounds like I'm describing a fine wine), but the others have only been a flash in the pan compared to these.

Anyway, this wasn't any small rip-in-the-knee sort. This was what started to be a small hole near the right back pocket that ended up being the size of a hand-print. I wore them out one Thursday night and noticed a slight draft on my backside.

Not thinking interest it, I wore them to a party Not thinking much of the next evening. danced quite a bit that night. By Saturday morning I had to bid them a fond farewell. Since then, I've gotten over it but I still need a pair to replace them.

All my jeans have their own personality. And don't think I'm crazy because I'm not the only one that thinks this way. My friend, Janette and I have discussed how to achieve that right look and what kind of jeans to wear. She's a textiles and clothing major, so she really knows her stuff, too. Some-around great pair that looks good with everything, but it's hard.

And then there's that whole dilemma of washing your jeans. My roommate, Jocelyn, and I had a huge talk one afternoon about how we hate washing our jeans just because they have to be broken in all over again. I really don't care if my jeans look like they've been to hell and back, just as long as they're comfortable.

My guy friends laugh at us. "What's the big deal?" asks this guy, Jonathan, who usually wears khakis. " All you need to know is your waist and length sizes. Big deal." He doesn't understand the trials and tribulations of finding that perfect pair. Lucky guy khakis are easy.

Meanwhile, if you need someone to shop with to find the quintessential pair of jeans, I'm your girl. But don't expect me to invite you to come shopping with me, because that would be your worst nightmare.

One last viewpoint on the union vote

Before you bury the student union issue I thought you should hear a point of view that wasn't mentioned in the stories you ran about the student vote.

I was one of the students who made the effort to learn about the issue and cast my vote against the student union proposal. My concerns were that the university has failed to satis-fy my concern for what happened to the authorized dedicated fees that were supposed to maintain the existing student union building. If the university can lose one authorized fee of millions of dollars, why trust it with another? I also question the funding mechanisms proposed for a new union.

Another issue on which I heard inadequate debate was the need for a student union at all. Given a free choice of buildings to improve or replace on campus, I would choose the Main Library as most deserving of renewal and expansion, with a cof fee shop to make it a less uncomfortable place to work and study.

Please do not discount my vote or those of others because we were thousands instead of tens of thousands. If we are to be thrown away because of our numbers, when there was no minimum announced or even discussed before the referendum, why bother with the process at all? Democracy works this way.

All who cared had the opportunity to vote, and the result of the vote should be respected.

Student support will improve USG

Over the past week, several editor-ial letters have run in your paper, criticizing various members of the Undergraduate Student Government. Without specific reference to the accuracy of those criticisms, or the criticisms themselves, one key observation must be made: there is a lack of accountability within USG.

USG elections are often uncontested, other members are elected by a small percentage of the student body and, once elected, little interest is taken in the activities and fulfillment of responsibilities by these elected individuals. In short, USG is not accountable to the student body it was intended to serve.

The lack of interest in USG, the resultant absence of accountability, and the ultimate ineffectiveness of the organization are troubling devel-opments. These characteristics of the student body of our student government are especially disturbing when one considers the potential for accomplishment that exists for a stu-dent body and student government working in unison.

Accordingly, I urge all OSU students to get more involved with USG. A opportunity to voice student concerns will occur April 11th and 12th, in conjunction with the upcoming USG elections. At many campus

USG specializes in secondhand ideas

Just ask a high-ranking member of USG where they get their biggest and best ideas and I'd love to hear their response.

USG has been recognized for two innovative and student-oriented efforts...student radio and the gen-eral fee. Unfortunately these were NOT USG concepts. They were in fact brought to USG by other student groups only to be shut out and have their idea relabeled as a product of the USG Think Tank.

Student radio was championed by a group of students who were having hard time wading their way through the red tape of Ohio State. As most intelligent young adults would do, they went to the resident experts on dealing with the university — USG. What they asked for was advice on how to get their station on the airwaves, but what they got was a cold shoulder as USG presented the concept to the University and to the stu-dent body as their own. What resulted is student radio to be run entirely by USG.

In Autumn Quarter, USG went to the university and requested a breakdown of how the general fee is spent by the university. Once USG got the report from the vice president of finance they said, "now what?" USG had no viable solution which would eliminate some of the mystery of how the money was spent.

In January, the Accounting Asso-ciation at OSU had developed a plan centered around the notion that the students should have direct control of how their money is allocated. What was developed was a proposal which carved a Student Activity Fee out of the existing General Fee. The proposal allowed each student to choose on e organization on campus which they would like half of their activity fee to go to each quarter. The other half would be put into a guaranteed funding account which would be divided equally among the 500 student organizations on campus. Just as before, the association went to USG for advice and support so that the proposal would get the attention it deserved. Within two weeks the Accounting Association's proposal had been cited in this paper (Monday, Feb. 6) as a USG proposal and has become the cornerstone of USG's efforts in 1995. Under USG the guaranteed fund-ing pool has evolved into a competitive bidding process which would be distributed by an allocation committee as large as 500 members!!! Mean-while the creators of the original proposal have been cut out of the process entirely by a USG administration who's time is running out.

On Monday, April 3, USG Presi-dent Rob Edmund stated that in order for the university to accommodate a $10 Activity Fee they would have to raise either the general fee or tuition. This is the most absurd statement yet!!! The entire purpose of the oposal was to better serve students by allocating the existing fee, not create a new one.

Maybe next time USG can keep its ego under wraps in the interest of serving students — I hope that is an idea they will steal.

Campaign manager defends candidate

In response to Steven Gills' personal attacks against Mike Meneer in last Friday's Reader's Forum, it is indeed necessary for the Meneer/Hyre campaign to offer "the WHOLE truth" regarding Mike Meneer.

With regard to Mr. Meneer's travels, the Citrus Bowl trip was entirely financed by the Citrus Bowl and its rporate sponsor, CompUSA. Like other goodwill ambassadors of this University, Mike Meneer spent a part of his time attending conferences and seminar

The issue of the Congressman Kasich visit is quite laughable. It is unfortunate that Mr. Gills wasted money making long distance calls to Washington D.C. without bothering to call myself or the rest of our campaign staff. Had he taken the time to call us, he would have discovered that we weren't planning to contact Rep. Kasich's office until this week.

Our visit is tentatively scheduled for Friday

It's too bad that the bitter Mr. Gills, who was fired by the previous administration and Mike Meneer, has decided to attack an outstanding student leader. Such leadership is rare, as Mr. Gills and this campus is well aware.

Professor's class proves costly

I recently had the experience of taking professor Susan Meyers' Arts College 160 class. While I found the class to be somewhat interesting, I was extremely bothered by one of her policies.

Susan Meyers requires that all of the students who take her class (some 200 per quarter) purchase the textbook which conveniently has her name right on the front cover

This book costs around $40, and due to the removable student response sheets, which determine a portion of the students' grade, this text cannot be resold to the book-

Meyers cannot utilize one of the campus area printing services for her student response sheets, and offer a text which can be resold.

Any student who is considering enrollment in Arts College 160 should be advised of this unnecessary expense.

Campaign tactics anti-democratic

It is that time of year again when the campus is wallpapered with campaign propaganda in an attempt to promote collegiate democracy.

Unfortunately I have noticed a disturbing trend, campaigns posting over each other's signs. I not only find this a cheap tactic, but totally antidemocratic.

It bothers me to think that the Sherriff and Christman campaigns in particular find it necessary to cover up other campaigns' chances to be heard and noticed. It makes me wonder why these people, who exhibit puerile behavior and disregard, think they deserve a chance to hold the position of president of one of the largest undergraduate student bod-ies in the country.

All this practice does is undermine the merit that these people have so desperately sought to build. I understand that this practice is not illegal according to USG bylaws, but legal or not, one should not abuse the system in such an infantile manner as I have

Ms. Ostrom should let Mr. Meneer stand on his own record not the record of others, because some of us record of others, because some of us will proudly lay claim to our accom-plishments. Let's look at Mr. Meneer's record last year. First, dur-ing he and his running mate's bid for presidency last year, about half of his former and current cabinet members. turned against him and worked for opposing campaigns. He and his running mate were the only candidate team in recent history to drop out in disgrace midstream. And finally, he spent the now famous $11,000+. That's some record Mike!

The Lantern is looking for columnists.

Do you write with the cynical prose of a J. Allen Morris, or possess the wit and intellect of a David Fong?

If you do the Lantern doesn't want you because we've already got two guys just like that. But if you have something stimulating to offer we'd like to hear from you.

Just think, you can get your picture in the paper, and at the same time enrage the entire campus population with your viewpoint.

Submissions should be two pages typed, double-spaced and sent to: Joe Milicia — Editorial Editor

College of the Arts & College of Biological Sciences & College of Humanities & College of Mathematical and Physical Sciences & College of Social and Behavioral Sciences The Colleges of the Arts and Sciences invite you to stay on campus this summer and participate in an expanded program of course offerings. Many sections of GEC courses will be available, especially those with high demand. Also, a significant number of evening, weekend, and honors courses will be offered in both first term, second term, and full term versions. The campus will be less crowded and classes will be smaller. It will be a great time to enroll in classes, especially if you have been closed ou to f during the year or to get a grood starton on both tirst term.

Special Courses

Anthropology 685: The Department of Anthropology plans to offer a field school in archeology. The Hopewell and Hopeton sites near Chillicothe will give undergraduates and graduate level students first hand experience in an archeological dig. Contact Professor Dancey at 2-9770.

College of Humanities: The College of Humanities highlights several other offerings including a series of courses in creative writing, a group of courses about the teaching and learning of Japanese as a second language, an institute on Arabic Culture, Classics 210 ("The Classical Background of Scientific Terminology", especially useful for students in the health professions), and a program on the American Jewish Experience. Please see the Master Schedule for details.

Astronomy 161, 162: Basic Astronomy courses, taught at a general level. Minimal math background required. Would be invaluable for producing new topics of discussion for your date on a starlit night! Chemistry 245, 246, 253: Organic Chemistry Lab and Lecture. Summer would be the ideal time to get your Organic course out of the way without external distractions Geological Sciences 203, 210: Learn about the relevance of Science, either by studying "Geology and the Environment" or "Energy, Mineral Resources, and Society. Mathematics 131, 132, 133: Need to brush up to on your math skills? Or to satisfy a math requirement for your degree? Summer would be a great time to do just that

Physics 104: Learn about the implications of physical and social realities on our long term resources by taking "The World of Energy." Statistics 133: Business majors: get your statistics course out of the way and avoid closed course problems Statistics 427, 428: Engineers: Summer quarter is a great time to take both "Introduction to Probability and Statistics for Engineering and the Sciences" courses in one summer without having them conflict with your regular academic year classes. College of the Arts: The College of Arts highlights Music 694 - "Introduction to MIDI", and the one week course: Music 694 "Developing the H.S. General Music Course". In addition, Dance 201.01 or 201.03 offers non-dancers the opportunity to dance.

Middle East Militant attacks threaten peace

KFAR DAROM, Gaza Strip (AP) Islamic militants opposed to the Israeli-PLO peace process killed six Israeli soldiers and wounded dozens of people in two suicide bombings Sunday near isolated Jewish settlements in the Gaza Strip.

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said he would continue talks with the Palestine Liberation Organization despite calls by right-wing oppo-nents and some of his allies to halt them in protest.

In the first attack, a van parked by the main Gaza highway exploded near an Israeli bus at about noon, killing six soldiers, said Brig. Gen. Doron Almog, Israel's commander in Gaza. Officials said 34 people were wounded.

Two hours later, about six miles up the road, a Palestinian car drove into an Israeli convoy of military and civilian cars and exploded, Almog said. Eleven Israelis were wounded, including two girls ages 2 and 4, and two soldiers who were in critical condition.

Three of those injured were Americans, said White House spokesman Mike McCurry, who was traveling with President Clinton in Los Angeles. He wouldn't give their names, but said one was a woman who was "not in very good condition." He didn't say in which attack they were wounded.

The militant group Islamic Jihad claimed responsibility for the first attack and said it was carried out by Khaled Mohammed Khatib, a 24-yearold construction worker.

Sources in the group Hamas con-firmed a report that the group's military wing, Izzedine al-Qassam, staged the second attack. They identified the suicide bomber as Imad Abu Amouna, also 24, from the Shati refugee camp.

More than 100 fundamentalist youths gathered at Khatib's home in the Nuseirat refugee camp, their cries for revenge mingling with the wails of women from inside the house and the crack of gunshots fired into the air. "The language of bullets is the only one that will guarantee the departure of the enemy from our territory," one

Islamic Jihad activist intoned through self-rule throughout the West Bank a loudspeaker.

PLO leader Yasser Arafat strongly condemned the attacks, but did not say how he would respond. "We are commit-ted to confronting terrorism," he said. "These people are the enemies of peace. Palestinian police began arresting Islamic Jihand activists in Gaza City on Sunday evening. In Washington, President Clinton also condemned the attacks. "Those responsible must not and shall not be allowed to deny a better future of hope and reconciliation to the region," he said

Israel Radio said Arafat called Rabin to offer condolences, and Rabin asked him to do more to rein in the militants.

Other Israeli leaders warned that chances of reaching agreement on expanding Palestinian autonomy by a July 1 target date are slipping away. Gaza and the West Bank town of Jericho became autonomous 11 months ago, and talks are underway to extend

After the weekly Cabinet meeting, Education Minister Amnon Rubinstein said the July 1 deadline could be met only if Arafat declared "all-out war" on militants.

Rabin, who toured the bus bomb site as experts were still blowing up suspi-cious objects, said, however, "We won't stop the negotiations."

He also credited Israel's closure of its borders with Gaza and the West Bank in January with preventing such attacks inside Israel itself.

The closure, which has kept thou-sands of Palestinians from their jobs in Israel, was imposed after a suicide bomber killed 21 people in central Israel. The bus was attacked Sunday near the fenced-in Kfar Darom settlement in the heart of autonomous Gaza. Witnesses said the blast ripped its side off and hurled bodies into the air. The twisted and blackened remains of a blue vehicle, apparently the van that held the explosives, lay nearby.

Serbs seek escape tr ous war

ILIDZA, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) Weary of war and their leaders' nationalist goals, tens of thousands of Serbs already have fled Bosnia and its ruinous three-year war. Many more dream of following.

Their disillusionment with the war to build an independent Serb republic and ultimately a Greater Serbia underscores a significant shift in attitudes as the conflict enters its fourth year

Serbs still hold almost 70 percent of Bosnia, but are losing bits of it and their morale is suffering. The government side is gaining little by little, and morale is high.

Even though the United States has been branded as the Serbs' biggest enemy for supporting the govern-ment, "America" and "Canada" are this Serb-held suburb of Sarajevo. "Everyone here is secretly talking about America and Canada," said Milos Spajic as he sat in the Eros cafe on the banks of the Miljacka River. Especially young people who see no end to this dirty war." In public, Serb bravado over battle field victories still wins out.

In private, desperation dominates. "I don't intend to sit in muddy "I don't intend to sit in muddy trenches for the rest of my life," said Nedjo, a young Serb fighter. "I don't want to die for any stupid nationalist goal. I want to live normally like my generation in the West." "The first chance I get, I'm off over the border," he whispered, nervously smoking a cigarette. An estimated 500,000 Serbs have fled Bosnia since the war started. the magic words on the lips of many in About 350,000 are in neighboring Serbia. The rest made it to the West. Although there are no firm figures, somewhat less than a million people are thought to live on land controlled by Bosnian Serbs. As many as 200,000 are thought to have remained on Bosnian governmentheld territory.

Serb reports say another 50,000 people, mostly young and educated, recently have applied for emigration visas with Western embassies in the erbian capital Belgrade.

But since all able-bodied Bosnian Serb men are under a general mobilization call, they are declared deserts when they emigrate.

Bosnian Serb leader Radovan aradzic, faced with a shortage of combat troops, has appealed to authorities in Serbia to return Bosnian Serb men.

"If Serbia would only return our deserters, we would finish off the war in two months," he said. He threatened to confiscate their property if they failed to answer the call.

But Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic is pressuring Karadzic to end the war, and has little incentive to send back potential soldiers. Once in Belgrade, they continue to slip out.

"I sat here with my best friend only a week ago. Now he is in Canada," said Dragan Milic, a Serb soldier near Sarajevo. "I found it out only when he phoned me from there yesterday, revealing his secret.

He said Bosnian Serb soldiers had not received their wages, worth about $10 a month, since last summer. Average monthly salaries in rare factories or companies that still operate are about $30.

The Lantern cannot accept advertising that advocates sedition or other illegal actions, violates normal standards of morality and taste, or attacks an individual race, nationality, ethnic group, religion or sex. In cases of doubt, the proffered copy, illustrations and layout will be submitted by the Lantern Business Manager to the School of Journalism Publications Committee and judged by a majority vote of the members. Decisions of this committee are final. Complete name, address and telephone number for each advertiser is - required; this information is for our records only and not available to the public. Copy will be furnished by noon three days before publication, except for published special early deadlines

- All advertisements are required to occupy at least as many inches in height as they do columns in width. Any advertisement exceeding 18 inches in height will be considered full column (21 inches) and charged accordingly.
- The Lantern reserves the right to reject any advertisement that promotes illegal activity or activity detrimental or damaging to the university and its educational mission. It further reserves the right to revise any advertisement which is determed objectionable for any reason.
- Make-good/adjustments will be considered only for those advertisements where errors occur in the following: business/ group name, address, or phone number; item price; date, time, or place of event. The error must be solely the fault of the Lantern. Adjustments will not exceed the cost of the advertisement, and will be based on the portion of the advertisement nullified by the error. Minor spelling errors will not qualify for adjustment. Complaints must be registered to the Business Manager within 45 days of publication to qualify, otherwise the advertiser accepts full resonability. d. esponsibility.
- Guaranteed position is sold at the Business Manager's discretion.
- A composition charge may apply to any changes, revisions or cancellations made after deadline. f. No proof will be furnished on any advertisement received after deadline, or for ads smaller than seven (7) column inches. g.
- If the Lantern finds it necessary to stop contracted advertising because of nonpayment, the advertising agreement will be violated and subject to a rebill fee. h.
- i. Advertisers are encouraged to avoid making misleading claims or using art or words that impugn or degrade sex, race, age, national origin, creed or color.
- The Lantern reserves the right to require prepayment for advertising, or to reject advertising, if the advertiser is delinquent in payment, or if advertiser's credit is impaired. Advertisers must prepay all advertising until credit rating with the Lantern is established. CERTIFIED check or money order is required for out-of-town advertisers.
- Contract advertisers will furnish the Lantern with a rate-holder ad meeting contract minimums, for use in any contract period for which the advertiser does not provide an ad.
- A tearsheet will be furnished for all display advertising run in the Lantern. Additional tearsheets are available (limit 15) provided the advertiser notifies the Lantern office prior to publication.
- Advertiser agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the Dhio State University, its Board of Trustees, and its officers, agents and employees from and against any and all loss, cost and expense, including reasonable attorney fees, resulting from the publication by the Lantern of advertiser's advertisement.
- Advertisers in the Ohio State Lantern agree that they will not represent themselves in any way as being endorsed by the Ohio State University.
- All mail-order advertisers are required to submit sample/proof-of-product prior to publication. Please note that advertisers must request the return of their original ad materials; the Lantern will dispose of such materials 60 days after their first publication

HOROSCOPES by Linda Black

Today is good for romance, sports, exercise programs and starting creative projects. Pick one or more of the above and get busy! There are a couple of problems, however. It would be a marvelous day to go on a hike, with a special person you want to get to know better. But. it's a weekday! First work, then you can go out and play. Another word of caution: Don't go near malls or auto showrooms. You're liable to spend way over budget, on impulse.

Aries (March 21-April 19). Don't procrastinate any longer! A strong move today could enhance your career, help you achieve your goals, and make you look good to your friends. If you want to look good to your loved ones, follow their advice. All day and night are excellent for romance.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). You may have to choose whether to be a major participant or a major roadblock. Focus on the larger objective and ignore any differences you might have with the other members of the group. The one who's giving you the most trouble could be begging for your affection!

Gemini (May 21-June 21). Not only will you be able to think clearly today, you should also be able to express yourself forcefully. While you're at it, let your sweetheart tell you everything that's wrong with the relationship! Today, you should be able to take it!

Cancer (June 22-July 22). Things could be moving pretty fast today. You might even wonder if you should put on the brakes. Speak up, especially if you see a problem coming! This is not a very good day for you to go shopping. It is, however, a good day to sell. s will pay t

PART-TI B UPS IS RE KING

> "UPS is paying me almost $10,000 a year to get in the best shape of my life. See, I work part-time sorting packages, about four hours a day. After sitting in class all day, it feels good to get some exercise. It's like doing a couple hours in a gym — except you get paid to work out.

"That's not the only advantage of working at UPS. There are other benefits - like choosing your own work schedule and getting paid holidays and vacations. If you're looking to shape up while adding weight to your wallet - try Operations.

"If the whole student body worked at UPS, everybody would be in better shapephysically and financially."

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). Your big advantage is here and now, so don't let it go to waste. Be decisive, strong and cheerful, and you should be able to overcome all opposition. Remember to listen to the advice of someone you trust, even if you don't agree. Make a commitment that'll be fun!

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Handle the routine chores. While you're at it, resist the temptation to get into an argument with a rather obnoxious person. Take the time to get together with a quiet friend, instead. Let the people in the fast lane zip right on by you both!

Today's Birthday (April 10). Romance should be great for you all year. If you decide to tie or retie the knot, August would be the perfect time. Save up, though. The piper will have to be paid in November. Go back to a favorite place in December and find a treasure. A job offer may be too good to be true in January; check it out. Try a new way to reach an old objective in February. In March, discussing a secret improves your romantic relationship.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). If you've been feeling stifled, find a real challenge and say you'll do it! Trust yourself to figure out how as you go along! A social gathering tonight could be a good place to start. You may discover a new friendship or romance there, too.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). There are some things going on that you don't fully support. You may have to adapt, though, if you want to be on the winning side. If that's out of the question, put in the necessary corrections! A hot number at work could be more than she/he/it is worth. trouble

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Somebody you know could be the perfect partner for you. Consider the one who pushes you past your limits. Don't be afraid; this could turn out to be a lot of fun! You'll win at games, too. If you can get away early, by all means go! Take a date.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). There could be a strong push to change some things you've grown accustomed to. Be gracious and patient; you may have the last laugh! Don't let a partner with expensive tastes get into the joint savings account, or there'll be nothing left when you need it

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You could turn out to be the brains behind a breakthrough, if you align with a strong leader. Join somebody who is determined, enthusiastic and lucky. Try a tactic you've read about but haven't yet put into practice. Also do what your sweetie suggests.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). You may feel things are moving too fast today. If your nerves get taut, let a pushy person know you need a little slack. Meanwhile, keep your wallet and credit cards tucked in your pocket. A "great deal" could be better for them than it is for you.
