Strollers Takes Little Tin Cup At Ball Game

"It never rains but what it pours." Only in this case it poured down upon the Traditions Week baseball game between Makio and Strollers members Wednesday.

The score had reached 2-1 in the second inning. Black clouds appeared in the sky. Watchers on the Oval predicted a close battle for the Makio-Strollers cup in its second year of award. Then the rains came.

The players, suspecting the sudden change in weather, quickly emptied the red-and-white tin can, "the cup," of its traditional beverage. The umpire shouted a score of 2-2 at the end of the fourth inning and the teams dispersed.

Captains Elaine S. Candell, Ed-3, of the Makio, and Jean M. Switalski, Ed-3, of Strollers, decide postponement of the battle until Thursday. But the game was never finished. The emptied cup rests on the shelf in Strollers' office.

Pharmacy Building Has Rare Drugs On Display

By Twyla Pifer

Black pepper!—but it isn't for sale. It is a part of the collection in the Pharmacy Building which is, said Dr. David L. Hiner, College of Pharmacy, one of the largest in the world.

Drugs from all over the world—Africa, Australia, Malay, Java, Sumatra, South America, and all parts of the United States, have been assembled here.*

Medicinal drugs, culinary substances, narcotics, and many used in perfumes, creams, and lotions are on display.

The potent narcotics, opium and cocaine, are shown. Both the American and Indian variety of marihuana are in the collection. The smoking of this powerful drug began in an Indian religious service, where the participants inhaled the smoke, Dr. Hiner related.

Spices Exhibited

Nutmeg, black and red pepper, licorice, and vanilla are common in food preparation and in the manufacture of medicine. Other well-known substances in this collection are witch hazel, rose petals for rose water, and benzoin, which is used in hair oil, vanishing cream, and perfume.

Cinchona bark, from which quinine is obtained, was imported from Java. About 90 per cent of our supply comes from that island, which is probably why the Japanese attacked it among the first.

Several different kinds of containers used by the natives of various countries to gather and transport drugs are on display. One of the earliest types was the skin of a monkey. Felt-covered lead flasks were used in Bulgaria to ship rose oil. Many of these flasks still retain the odor of the product though they are more than 50 years old.

The collection is open to the public.

Coach Widdoes' Parents Home From Jap Prison

Coach Carroll C. Widdoes had one of the greatest moments in his life Thursday night when he greeted his missionary parents, recently freed from Japanese detention. For the first time in seven years, the parents and their son were united.

The meeting took place in Union Station as Dr. Howard W. Widdoes and his wife, Alice, United Brethren missionaries in the Philippines, stepped from a train which had brought them from Sebastopol, near San Francisco. Both had been in the Philippines during the occupation. They were rescued in February from Los Banos camp by American forces.

U. S. Is Beautiful

Mrs. Widdoes, 68 years old, white-haired, motherly, and still 15 pounds underweight, said the United States looks "beautiful." She and her 71-year-old husband, who also has not fully regained his normal weight, had been interned at various times in three prison camps, and both had served prison sentences.

Beyond a grim allusion to a little "rough treatment," Mr. Widdoes would only say that details of their experiences were restricted.

Dr. and Mrs. Widdoes went to their son's home, and later plan to spend some time with their daughter in Westerville.

In the Philippines since 1903, where they pioneered in the United Brethren missions, the Widdoes had planned to retire in 1943.

Group To Hear L. C. Kesselman

Failure to buy bonds helps only the enemy.

R. H. Gerhard Discusses Japanese

"I see a faint hope of complete capitulation of the Japanese relatively soon," said Robert H. Gerhard, department of speech, in an informal talk at a meeting of the International Relations Club Thursday.

Mr. Gerhard was born in Tokyo and lived in Japan for many years. He was in Japan at the time of Pearl Harbor and was repatriated on the first trip of the Gripsholm from Japan.

Mr. Gerhard pointed out three possible plans for postwar Japan. They are the occupation, invasion and domination of the Japanese homeland by American forces, the domination by Japan's neighbors, and the building up of a new Japanese government by liberal Japanese. He definitely emphasized the elimination of the Japanese military.

A round-table discussion was held following Mr. Gerhard's speech and he answered many questions on Japanese theory and on Japanese home life.

Traditions Week, with all its glory and rain, is coming to a successful conclusion. We were proud of the turnout for the Ohio Union rally. We hope the Administration will act positively on the project. The scrapbook presented to President Bevis and the Board of Trustees was a monumental work. The final decision is up to them. We have our fingers crossed.

As an integral part of Traditions Week, the honoraries chose their new members. Congratulations are in order to the guys and gals who made the grade. They deserve recognition for their outstanding leadership.

The project of eliminating hazing from Greek groups has received our undivided attention. We are anxious to see the University maintain its good name in the postwar years. GIs returning to school, or starting anew, will select the school that has either banned or restricted hazing. This fact came to us from a military source.

TONI SARE

Our informant tells us that military personnel who intend to return to college upon discharge are against all forms of hazing. "They refer to it as 'childish,' 'being out of step,' 'old fashioned,' and 'd—n foolishness,'" he said.

"It is easy to understand why men of the Army are antagonistic toward this traditional practice," he pointed out. "For the last two, three, or four years they have been living in a man's world—a world in which there is no place for juvenile exhibitions."

We quite agree with that point of view. In a series of articles on the subject we have tried to explain the need for abolishing the antiquated custom. Fraternities are interested in the postwar enrollment. That we know. If they expect to attract the veteran then they should give him assurance that he will not have to undergo the ridiculous practice. If fraternities refuse to get rid of hazing we would like to see the University step in.

The War Today

By DeWitt Mackenzie,
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

The clutch of the Allied machine for cleaning up Germany seems to have meshed suddenly, after considerable unpleasant rasping, and we are beginning to get high-power action.

There were several important developments yesterday, emanating from such widely separated centers as Washington, London and Allied Supreme Headquarters in Germany. We got clarification—in broad terms—of the government under which Germany will work during occupation.

In the crisp language of Major General Clay, General Eisenhower's deputy for the occupation, "The Allied government in Germany is going to be military and the Germans are going to know it's military." There's going to be no nonsense—no coddling of the people who twice in a generation have plunged the world into war.

In London Prime Minister Churchill said that in general it was the Allied intention that "the Germans should administer their country in obedience to Allied directions," and added that the Allies have "no intention of undertaking the burden of administering Germany ourselves."

Thus General Clay and Churchill give us a sufficiently clear over-all picture of what will happen. The Germans themselves must assume the burden of routine administration—a heavy task in any big country—but this administrative structure will carry out its work in accordance with Allied policies and will be under rigid military control. Fair enough!

The Allies have a big job of house-cleaning to do. Clay said the initial aims of the American occupation would be to finish smashing Germany's potential to make war, to crush Nazism utterly, and to see that all war criminals are caught and punished.

The highly important matter of prosecuting war-guilt also made gratifying progress. The United States let it be known that it is anxious to start sorting out those who will be tried before an international court, and Washington's top prosecutors have been named. The United Nations War Crimes Commission in London announced that an international conference on German war crimes would start May 31.

Dr. Ley Disguised

American troops captured the notorious Dr. Robert Ley, Nazi labor front leader and one of Hitler's chief aides, in the region of the Fuehrer's Berchtesgaden home. Ley was disguised, tried to deny his identity and finally attempted to swallow the contents of a vial.

Another situation which has been causing much public concern both in England and America was ironed out in part. General Clay stated that German Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, who proclaimed himself head of government when the Nazis claimed Hitler was dead, is considered a prisoner of war. A lot of Allied folk had been fearful that this Nazi admiral might get away with his pose of piety, and be able to foster Hitlerism among his people.

One of the most important thoughts growing out of Thursday's burst of energy was General Clay's statement that "more important than just the occupation of Germany is whether the four nations (American, Britain, Russia and France) can stand together to punish Germany. If they cannot, what hope is there for the United Nations?" This column a week ago expressed the view that Germany's occupation would be the test of Allied solidarity but ventured the view that while there would be ups and downs, serious trouble among them was not inevitable.

Olpin, Milligan To Be Speakers At Conference

Dr. A. R. Olpin, director of the Research Foundation, will speak at the one-day conference to study problems of industry in reconversion to be held Wednesday at the Deshler-Wallick Hotel. His topic will be "The Key to an Expanding Economy."

Dr. Olpin will speak at 11:20 a. m. and Major Milligan at 4:15 p. m. The meeting is open to the public.

Hillel To Have Awards Banquet

The Hillel Foundation will hold its annual awards banquet at 6:30 p. m., Sunday, at the Hillel Foundation.

Radio Beams . . .

By Hilda Fastman

More and more men who were professional entertainers before entering the armed forces are being given a chance to return to their old callings upon leaving military service. Ginny Simms' NBC show, "Johnny Presents," gives them that opportunity at the mike.

Typical of the men who have appeared as guests on that show were two singers and a drummer. One singer who had served two years on a minesweeper, had 13 years' experience in radio, night clubs and vaudeville. The other singer who had been in the Coast Artillery, had formerly been in light opera in Los Angeles. Then there was a drummer, an overseas Army veteran, who had been a professional drummer before the war.

Television Coverage

NBC's television station WNBT is the only video outlet in the land supplying viewers with up-to-the-minute films on the San Francisco United Nations Conference.

WNBT teed off its coverage with a 15-minute film of background material on the bay city and a special film of the opening of the conference, flown to New York for telecasting the following day.

The station will continue to fly film from San Francisco to New York for the duration of the conference.

Churches Must Help Diplomats Plan Peace

By Marilyn J. Messner

Stories and pictures of the Japanese and German atrocities committed against their captives have flooded our newspapers, magazines, and newsreels in recent months. Descriptions of these torture methods, far worse than those the Romans inflicted on the early Christian martyrs, cause us to shudder and cast such thoughts aside.

But we in the United States, where the Christian and the Jew, the white and the Negro live peaceably together, must not cast such thoughts aside.

The second great World War has been a war against religion and races as well as one against economic systems. When the diplomats of the various nations sit around the peace table to devise a just and lasting peace, the peoples of the various faiths must be behind them.

Traditions Week, 1945-1946

Today is the last day of Traditions Week of 1945 at Ohio State. Another week of festivities and celebrations is gone — another school year is drawing to a close.

The last year has been filled with the enjoyment of work and play; but the tragedy of war has been ever present on the campus.

Traditions Week reflects some of the changes the war has brought about at the University. Romophos, Bucket and Dipper and Sphinx did not pledge the usual number of men: there just weren't enough active men on the campus.

Women have entered more into the planning and execution of Traditions Week this year than ever before: the men weren't here to do it.

With the war in Europe won and the plan for demobilization of 2,000,000 men set up, perhaps more male faces will appear here next year.

We hope that by Traditions Week, 1946, the Japanese will have surrendered unconditionally, so that Ohio Staters in the armed forces can return to the campus . . . so that the playing of taps on Wednesday of Traditions Week stirs memories, not the grief of present-day reality.—Ann Schoenfeld.

Forgotten Men

Just a few minutes ago an echelon of heavy bombers roared across the sky. In a few minutes more the shrill whistle of defense factories will be audible. With that signal thousands of tired workmen, wiping the sweat from their brows, will pick up their dinner pails and go home. Another shift will take their place, for those bombers must continue to roar overhead.

Is the campus conscious that this is going on just a few minutes away? Do Ohio State students realize that the battle for the final end of the war is still on? Have they heard about a Seventh War Loan Drive?

Yesterday SWAVes sponsored Flower Day, a day in which everyone was urged to buy and wear war stamp corsages. Response to this was weak, for minds were concentrating on traditions.

B-29's raided Okinawa this morning. Most of those planes reached their home bases safely but some paid the penalty of the law of averages. On germ-infested Pacific islands today Americans wait impatiently for their next move. A sniper may appear and a GI may die. In Burma, in India, Ohio State alumni have no time to think of Traditions Week, V-E day means little to them. To let up is risking their own lives.

What are these forgotten men to students? Where is their interest in the Seventh War Loan Drive?

Penned Points

By the Editor

Unsung Heroes

Unsung heroes of the newspaper are linotype operators, pressmen, and make-up men. Without them the efforts of the editorial and advertising forces would be fruitless. Yet the writers get the by-lines and subsequent prestige, the advertising solicitors get the commission. No one hears of the print shop men.

Correction!

Occasionally, someone hears of them. When an error appears in the paper, and an angry reader storms into the office threatening a libel suit, the writer attempts to smooth things over by explaining that the mistake was typographical. "After all, there are a certain amount of those no matter how carefully we read the galleys." Little does the linotype operator know as he taps away at his keyboard working at next day's copy, that he has taken the brunt of things.

JEANNE SPRAIN

He Corrects Mistakes

Does anyone ever hear about the times he runs into mistakes in the copy and catches them? Has anyone ever written about the many times he refers to the big dictionary on the table behind him to see if that word is REALLY spelled that way? And how about the make-up man who questions the advisability of putting two particular stories side by side? He explains a better way, and his suggestion is usually accepted.

Day after day the print shop men chase in their proper places. Somebody must make sure the almost-human mechanism is in perfect working order. Somebody must see that the huge rolls of white paper are supplied. Somebody must often stay after working hours until all the needed LANTERN copies are run off. That somebody is the pressman.

To the men who receive no glory for their jobs well-done, the LANTERN staff offers sincere thanks and appreciation.

Just Thoughts

Isn't it amusing how nature always seems to help out each spring concert program? At one a yelping dog danced about as the orchestra played. At another birds, jealous of the melodious notes the musicians were turning out, added their chirps and screeches to the performance.

* * *

Over the radio the other evening, foreign news analysts were debating whether the World Security Conference at San Francisco is the true peace conference or whether it is just preparatory to another. Whatever the proper function of it may be, we sincerely hope it is striving selflessly for that most magnificent of all gifts to the world, lasting peace.

Never before in so short space of time has so much intense drama been written in the pages of history. With the leaders of too-powerful nations dying in utter humiliation, with war criminals in disguise frantically attempting to get out of Germany, with trapped ones taking poison to escape paying for their deeds, playwrights and book-authors have enough real-life material to last them a century.

This Week In Geography . . .

The Real 'Last Frontier' Is Tropics In Pacific

(This is one in a series of talks broadcast on the "This Week" program at 3:30 p. m. each Sunday over WOSU.)

By Dr. F. A. Carlson, Department of Geography

With our hearts filled with thanksgiving for the end of organized hostilities in Europe, our thoughts now focus solely on the Pacific theater where we hope an early United Nations' victory will complete forever the destruction of the germs of war.

This week the war bulletin as in the early days of the Pacific conflict, directs our attention to South-eastern Asia and the East Indies, the source of major portion of Japan's petroleum supply. It presents a picture of fighting men, struggling forward through jungles, swamps, and an atmosphere of extreme heat and high humidity.

Photographs, as well as news commentators, portray these tropical lands in terms of a tangle of undergrowth, vines, and creepers. This is a true scene of a tropical landscape but it does not represent the conditions in all undeveloped tropics. Many misconceptions of the tropics have come about in view of the interpretation or description of the entirety of the region in terms of a part.

Technically we may say that a region in which the average monthly temperature does not fall below 64 degrees F. is tropical. Generally we recognize two types of tropics: one, the rainy tropics, referring to places such as the lowlands of the East Indies which have abundant rains throughout the year; and two, the wet and dry tropics exemplified in monsoon India where there is a rainy summer season and a dry low sun or winter season.

Tropic Limited To 'Rainy'

Where the vegetation has not been disturbed the tropical rainy regions exhibit a luxuriant development of forest called Selva, the world's most vigorous vegetation growth; whereas in the wet and dry tropics known as Savanna, grasslands and trees predominate. However, for the most part when the word tropic is used in press releases and other public news items, it is limited to the rainy type of the tropical climates.

Contrary to popular opinion, the rainy tropical regions are not covered entirely with jungles. The nearly impenetrable mass of plant growth is found along the margins, along drainage lines, and where the original vegetation has been destroyed. Also rainy tropics are not regions of extensive swamps, except along the coastal margin or in interior basins.

In fact, swamps are much more

Buckeyes in Evanston for Double-header

Grate After Sixth Win; Cromi To Hurl Saturday

It will be Don Grate again starting for the Bucks.

The ace of the hurling corps will be seeking his sixth win of the season as the Buckeye nine opens a two-game series with Northwestern at Evanston this afternoon.

Coach Lowell Wrigley has chosen southpaw Bernie Cromi as probable starter in the second contest. Cromi has appeared in seven games but has a no-won-and-lost record.

Keith Phelps will not join the team until Saturday and the shortstop job will be taken by Keo Nakama. When he does join the squad, Phelps will be at third base in place of Al Nerissen.

Lynn Beigler, who was rejected by Selective Service Tuesday, will be back at the keystone sack. Beigler was the star of Ohio's 12-inning victory over Michigan State last Friday.

Northwestern is in eighth place in the Big Nine and has won two while losing four. The Bucks occupy fifth place with three games on each side of the ledge. Therefore, the game has little effect on the race.

The Bucks will play a return game with Lockbourne Air Base at 4 p. m., Monday, on the varsity diamond. The Flyers hold one decision over the Bucks.

CONCORD, N. H.—(UP)—Begun as a small country printing office, the Rumford Press here now prints more than 50 American magazines. The plant has grown since 1909 into an annual business of $1,000,000, with 600 employees and its own branch post office.

Few Players Will Be Eligible For Discharge

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—Military deployment with the end of the war in Europe finds baseball confused today—not knowing whether to make preparations for the return of some of its stars-in-service or adopt a wait-and-see policy.

Buoyed up by the announcement that approximately 1,300,000 men would be discharged during the next 12 months, baseball officials reasonably believed that some players would be among them.

However, it was learned that only a few players have sufficient points to be eligible for discharge and even those might be kept in service for the war against Japan.

Hank Greenberg, whom the Detroit Tigers had expected back in their outfield before the close of the season, already has been assigned to the recreational program in Europe.

Protect the future of every American—buy every War Bond you can.

6:30 next Thursday evening at the Seneca Hotel.

In addition to Dr. Walker, the following students will present toasts in behalf of the various classes: Waldene Rhodes for the freshmen in sports clubs; Carolyn Ott for sophomores; Norma Fox, juniors, and Marjorie Kimmel, for seniors.

Jeanne M. Switalski, past president of WRA, will present awards to students who have been selected as outstanding in different sports clubs. Barbara Yager, a senior in physical education, will act as toastmistress.

The Physical Education Glee Club will sing, as well as a trio from the music department. Members of the trio include Betty Hiner, Gaye Alexander, and Betty Baker, accompanied by Alice Brokaw. Members of Orchestral will also present several numbers.

Elaine Judy and Jane Ewing are co-chairmen for the banquet.

An Indian pow-wow is the theme of the Outing Club program which will be held Tuesday evening. The meeting is open to all who are interested. They may sign up on the bulletin board in Pomerene Hall locker room. The club is also planning a week-end trip for May 26-27.

Rifle Team Ends Season With Victory Over Purdue; Squad Won Nine, Lost Four

By Ed Quick

The Rifle Team finished its schedule last week with a victory over Purdue. Paced by John Babb with 193 points, the team piled up one of its best marks of the season, 924 points to 808 for Purdue.

The squad has had a successful season, winning nine while dropping four. The team scored wins over Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Minnesota, Michigan, Xavier, Monmouth, Wisconsin, Princeton, Illinois Institute of Technology, and Purdue.

It lost to New York University, Michigan, Pittsburgh and Cornell. The five highest shooters in the

Cornell match were:

	Prone	Sitting	Kneel-	Stand-	Total
Babb . . .	50	49	48	46	193
Roeger . .	50	49	47	46	192
Erk . . . .	50	46	46	47	189
George . .	50	44	42	40	176
Shannon .	50	47	39	38	174

DeWitt Erk, Bill Roeger, John Babb and Lynn George fired in the Franklin County League matches. The team finished second.

Following are the five highest averages fired this season in the 10-shot, four-position matches.

DeWitt Erk . . . . .	372.0	one match
John Babb . . . . .	368.7	nine matches
Robert Seever . . . .	354.8	six matches
Bill Roeger . . . . .	349.4	nine matches
Lynn George . . . . .	348.9	nine matches

Erk fired the best 10-shot, three-position match this season with a 285; John Babb took high honors in the four-position matches, 10- and 5-shot with a 377 and 193, respectively.

Roeger made the high score of 1500 in the Fifth Corps Area Match and in the National ROTC match.

Certificates will be presented for the William Randolph Hearst match to the highest scorers during the Federal inspection on May 23. The high scorers were Bill Roeger, Robert Shannon, Lynn George and John Babb.

The Franklin County Rifle League will give a banquet May 29 for the members who participated in the matches.

Undefeated Tennis, Golf Squads Seek More Wins

With undefeated cards, the tennis and golf squads continue with heavy schedules this week end to keep up the clean slate. The netters were on the top end of a 4-3 score at Oberlin College Thursday when the match was halted by rain.

The netmen will meet Northwestern and Michigan here Saturday in the only home sports event of the week. With four straight wins, the team has piled up 26 points to its opponents' seven.

The golfers, winners of nine in a row, are on a road trip, meeting Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday. Coach Kepler's men trimmed Detroit 11½-½ here last Saturday.

The team defeated Michigan, 15-12, here last month. The Buckeyes will conclude their schedule with the Big Ten meet at Evanston, May 26.

Pittsburgh Ends Bums' Win Streak

The honeymoon was over in Flatbush today with the Dodgers' 11-game winning streak ended but the New York Giants still were rolling in high gear with 12 victories in their last 13 games.

Pittsburgh did a thorough, 12-3 job on Leo Durocher's gang, which had knocked them off three in a row. It was the first loss for Brooklyn to the western clubs that sunk them 64 times in 88 starts last season.

High School Day To Be Saturday

The annual High School Play-Day, sponsored by the Women's Physical Education Club, will be held Saturday. A program is planned for the entire afternoon from 12 to 5 p. m.

Locker Room Lowdown

By Jay Wagner

A new sport may hit the campus come the end of hostilities with Japan. It will not be a new sport as far as sports go but it will be an innovation as far as the Buckeyes are concerned. It has been indicated by Dr. Lou Keller, acting director of physical education and athletics at the University of Minnesota, that hockey, as a Big Ten competitive sport, will flourish on a new and grand scale.

Illinois and Wisconsin are definitely set to resume play on an intercollegiate basis after the war. The Illini made their hockey debut in the 1937-38 season. In the competitive year of 1940-41, they came through with the Western Conference championship. The ice sport has made a great hit on the Illini campus but they were forced to drop it because of the manpower shortage.

Harry Stuhldreher, athletic director of the Badgers, has plans well under way for converting the Wisconsin field house into an ice rink. This can be done by flooding and freezing the floor space. If it is done, it will give the Badgers the largest hockey arena of any college in America.

The Wisconsin school had a representative in the Conference race for many years but lack of an indoor rink forced it to abandon the sport.

Minnesota and Michigan have been the two schools that have kept going despite wartime conditions. It would seem that the Gophers and Wisconsin would draw the best material, since they are in northern states although the Wolverines would probably get their share, too.

The Western Conference commissioner has said that he is in favor of a broad expansion of competitive sports activities. This means support from that office and would seem that the professional teams would be behind a hockey movement because it would develop players for them to draw from.

With a new field house here, the Bucks could enter and give more students a chance for a varsity team.

prevalent in cold than hot regions. Another misconception is that the mature soils of the tropics are fertile, rich in plant nutrients. This is not true. The tropical soils, called laterites, are poor soils. Still another misguided notion is that living is easy in the tropics. It is precisely the contrary.

Although 27 per cent of the world's population live in the tropics, the fact may be misleading. Only in India and Java and a few other scattered regions is there a dense population. By far the greater portion of the tropical lands, representing 13 per cent of the land surface is sparsely inhabited with less than one person per square mile, including the great Amazon area of South America, the Congo of Africa, and New Guinea of the East Indies.

Our Interest Will Grow

In all probability, we, as North Americans, essentially temperate peoples, will have a greater interest in the tropics in the future as a result of the existing conflict in the Pacific. It was the Spanish-American war which brought about the solution of the yellow fever problem.

In fact, we lost more men through disease, primarily yellow fever, than we did in combat. Probably this war will bring forth in the field of medicine, men like Carlos Finley, William Gorgas, and Walter Reid. In all, the tropics and their inherent problems await discovery. The conquest has just begun.

Man has hardly reached the border of the world's last frontier—the tropics."
