U.S. helicopter attacks Iranian mine-laying ship

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — A U.S. military helicopter attacked an Iranian ship in the Persian Gulf on Monday after discovering it laying underwater mines, the White House and Pentagon said.

The Pentagon said the stern of Iranian ship "Iran Ajr" was set on fire. The fire was extinguished but the ship was left "dead in the water," said Fred Hoffman, the Pentagon's spokesman.

Marlin Fitzwater, the White House spokesman, said U.S. forces "took defensive action" when the Iranian ship was discovered laying mines in international waters 50 miles northeast of Bahrain.

The attack was outside an area where a British tanker was attacked earlier Monday by Iranian gunboats.

The incident was the first American military action against Iran since Aug. 8, when a Navy F-14 Tomcat fighter fired two missiles at an Iranian jet that was judged to be "hostile." Both missiles missed. The episode was the closest that the two countries have come to combat since the United States started escorting reflagged Kuwaiti tankers in August.

Hoffman, appearing at a Pentagon briefing Monday evening, indicated at least two American helicopters were on patrol from the frigate USS Jarrett when they spied the Iranian ship. One of the helicopters opened fire with 7.62mm machine guns and 2.75mm rockets after observing the Iranian ship laying mines.

"The location is in international waters at a spot frequently used by commercial vessels, both those of the United States and of other neutral nations," Hoffman said.

He said the attack occurred at night, and the helicopters were able, using night-vision devices, to identify objects being dropped over the side of the Iranian ship as mines.

"Acting under the rules of engagement as ordered by the commander of the Middle East Task Force, the helicopter engaged the Iranian ship, setting its stern ablaze," Hoffman said.

"The fire appears to be out and the ship is dead in the water. Our ships and aircraft are standing by to render such help as may be needed."

The White House said U.S. forces acted "in accordance with existing rules of engagement."

"We have previously communicated with the Iranian government the way in which we would respond to such provocative acts which present an immediate risk to United States ships and to all ships. United States forces acted in a defensive manner and in accordance with existing rules of engagement," Fitzwater said.

Hoffman said the helicopters were about 15 miles from the Jarrett when they observed the activities of the Iranian vessel. It was only after the air crews were sure that the ship was dropping mines over its side that the crews asked for and received permission from Rear Adm. Harold Bernsen to open fire, the spokesman said. Bernsen is the commander of the Navy's Middle East Force, the Navy battle group that operates inside the Persian Gulf.

"It wasn't a snap judgment," Hoffman added.

Hoffman declined to identify what type of American helicopter mounted the attack, but it appeared the aircraft was a specially equipped Army copter assigned to the Special Operations Forces. A Special Operations aviation unit has been in the Persian Gulf to augment the "repower on U.S. Navy warships.

Hoffman declined to say how many American helicopters were in the air, beyond saying it was more than one. The Jarrett is believed capable, however, of supporting only two helicopters.

No rise in loan requests seen

By JACK GONZALEZ
Lantern staff writer

Despite the increases in fees, the office of financial aid has not seen an increase in the number of students applying for emergency loans to offset the increases, according to Ann Wittmer, assistant director of student financial aid.

Emergency loans are short-term loans which are given to students to assist with living expenses, books, supplies or tuition. The loan must be repaid within 90 days at seven percent interest, Wittmer said.

A student may only have one emergency loan at a time. The maximum loan for undergraduates is $300 and $400 for graduate students, according to Wittmer.

On July 10, the OSU Board of Trustees approved a $938 million budget raising tuition accordingly:

- 10.9 percent from $568 to $630 per quarter for resident undergraduates.
- 10.9 percent from $746 to $827 for resident graduate students.
- 12.8 percent from $1,472 to $1,660 for non-resident undergraduates.
- 12.7 percent from $1,796 to $2,024 for non-resident graduate students.

Barry Pamula, a junior from Northfield majoring in pharmacy, was aware that fees would be going up, but was shocked at the increase in residence and dining halls fees, he said.

Pamula said he worked a few extra shifts at the end of summer to try to combat the fee increases.

Brian Vierling, a junior from Cincinnati majoring in computer science, also was surprised by the fee increases, but they were not enough for him to require an emergency loan.

- Other increases in fees include:
- Five percent increase in residence hall fees, raising the average cost of room and board from $961 to $1,009 per quarter.
- Ten percent increase in student parking fees from $30 to $33.
- Four percent average increase in OSU bookstore merchandise.

• In an earlier Lantern report, President Edward H. Jennings said the average student share of college costs will now be more than 40 percent, compared with the 30 percent national average.

Agent recruitment issue tackled by only two states

By TRACY JAMES
Lantern staff writer

Although the recruitment of college athletes by professional agents has become a growing problem for some universities, only two states with Big Ten Football Conference teams have introduced legislation prohibiting this action.

Harold Mauro, associate athletic director at Indiana University, said the problem is evident and something should be done.

"It's just really sad," he said, "sometimes if the agents can't get to the students, they get to the parents."

Legislatures in Ohio and Michigan have introduced bills while Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota have not begun any formal legislation.

"I really dislike guys that are flesh peddlers," said Don Lund, associate athletic director at the University of Michigan.

Lund said there had always been a good relationship between college and professional football, but now agents are causing a gap between the two by not waiting for the athletes to become eligible for the professional athletics.

The legislation introduced in the Ohio Assembly this summer was modeled after four bills introduced in the Michigan State Assembly May 14. Michigan's bill was passed in the House of Representatives by a three-to-one majority.

Ohio's proposed bill states that agents would have to register with the Board of Regents and the bill would also prohibit them from offering money or anything of material value to athletes, family members or university officials. The agent could be fined and could face a fourth degree felony charge.

The Michigan legislation would require that sports agents file a full disclosure of their history to the state department of licensing and regulation.

Agents would have to file a bond of $25,000 which would be taken away if the agent offered an athlete money or anything of material value.

The agent's license could be revoked or he could be charged with a high misdemeanor, which could result in a possible one year jail term.

The penalty also applies to agents' dealings with university officials, and anybody dealing with high school students.

Mauro said that people in the Indiana University athletic department and people in the community feel legislation is necessary to stop agents from recruiting ineligible student athletes.

Assistant athletic director for the University of Minnesota, Holger Christiansen, said legislation needs to be coordinated by the National Collegiate Athletic Association instead of individual states having different bills.

Farm review combines industry and research

By LISA HILL

The latest in agricultural developments will stand side by side with agricultural displays from the last 25 years when the Farm Science Review commemorates its silver anniversary this week.

The review, being held Tuesday through Thursday at the Molly Caren Agricultural Center in London, will have more than 500 commercial exhibits and educational displays.

"This year's review will offer something for everyone," said R. Craig Fendrick, manager of the review. "The colleges of Agriculture, Home Economics, and Veterinary Medicine, and 16 OSU departments have incorporated the theme of the review's 25th Silver Anniversary in their educational exhibits."

The review's 993 acres will display exhibits ranging from farm machinery to financial planning.

Field demonstrations in areas such as harvesting and surface drainage will occupy 650 acres of the center.

A home yard and garden display will feature improvements that have been made in this field. Christmas tree plantings and a one-acre pond will be on display in the conservation area.

"The theme behind the review is an extension of the university to the agri-business community of Ohio, other states and countries," Fendrick said. "The idea is to show the agri-business community the newest and latest in both research from OSU and also from the commercial industry."

Harold Bauman, assistant dean for fiscal affairs, said that one of the missions of Ohio State is to keep abreast with the current technology of the agricultural community. "The review is a superb vehicle to share with industries current developments," he said.

The first Farm Science Review was held in 1963 at Ohio State's Don Scott Field with 116 commercial exhibitors and 18,000 visitors. This year's review will feature 530 exhibitors from the United States and foreign countries. Officials expect 125,000 visitors.

OSU students will be admitted free with student I.D. Free shuttle service will be provided for the public. The shuttle leaves the southeast corner of the Agricultural Administration Building every hour between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. The shuttle returns to campus from the south side of the review from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Basketball: Dumas out; Lomax quits

Academic problems have claimed another OSU men's basketball player while another team member has dropped out of school, Athletic Director Richard M. Bay said last night.

Junior forward Joe Dumas was ruled ineligible yesterday until at least January and senior guard Kip Lomax has left school.

Dumas was ruled ineligible by OSU standards and not by the NCAA, Bay said. He said OSU athletes must have at least a 2.0 grade point average to maintain their playing status, unlike the NCAA, which has lower standards.

Bay said the ruling on Dumas, who attended summer school, was verified yesterday. He was unable to disclose Dumas' grade point but said "it was very close."

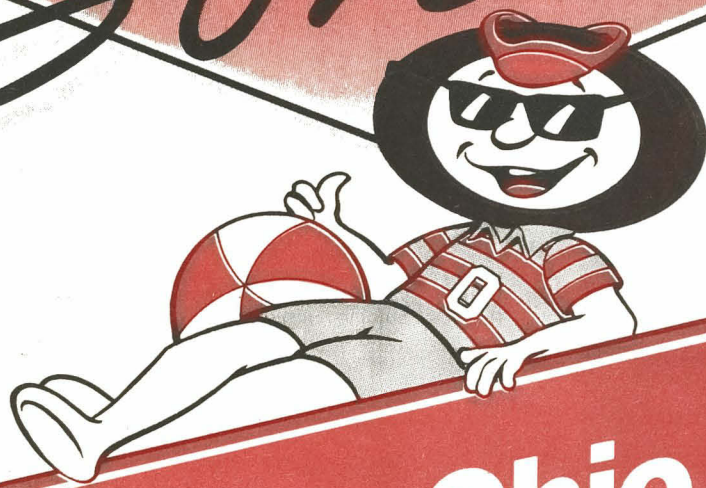

Lomax was ineligible in the fall of 1986 but regained his eligibility last January. As the season progressed Lomax's contributions increased. Bay said he didn't know why Lomax had disenrolled.

Dumas, Lomax and Coach Gary Williams were unavailable for comment.

BANC OHIO WELCOMES YOU TO OHIO STATE WITH A

"BEACH BUCKS"

Bonus

We're celebrating the Grand Opening of our new office at 16th & High. And a quick trip to BancOhio today could get you to Daytona Beach this spring. It's all part of our Beach Bucks Bonus, where one lucky Buck-eye will win a one-week Spring Break trip for two to the sun and surf of Daytona Beach.*

And to make sure you're prepared to hit the beach in style, we'll be giving away "beach" gifts periodically at all four campus-area BancOhio offices throughout our Grand Opening Celebration. We have beach towels, sun visors, coolers, T-shirts, and a whole lot more. Plus, you'll receive a free BancOhio frisbee just for walking through the door.

All BancOhio campus-area offices are open longer throughout this week.

The 16th & High, Drake Union and 11th & High offices will be open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, September 21-25. These offices will also be open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, September 26. The Olentangy office at University City Shopping Center will be open Monday through Thursday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday, September 25.

So enter the Beach Bucks Bonus drawing at the location nearest you. But do it quickly because the sun goes down on this offer at 3 p.m. on Friday, October 16, when we announce the Grand Prize winner and a lucky Buckeye will get a head start on that springtime tan.

*No purchase necessary. Need not be present to win. Open to anyone 18 or over, except employees of BancOhio National Bank and their families. FAA TO MAKE INSPECTIONS: Federal Aviation Administration chief Allan McArtor, citing public concern about air safety, announced Monday that his agency would conduct a special review of the U.S. aircraft manufacturing industry.

The FAA will at the same time examine its own procedures for overseeing the companies that make large and small planes and their components, McArtor said.

The administrator said the inspections, which are to begin next month, were sparked by a desire to make sure that manufacturers are keeping their procedures up to date for maintaining quality.

"We're not doing this because we have some alarm ...," McArtor said. "This is to affirm that we are on top of this process."

FAA inspectors will examine the quality control procedures of 40 of the 1,300 companies that produce aircraft and airplane parts, he said.

CELESTE BEGINS INVESTIGATION: Gov. Richard Celeste said Monday that he had asked the administrator of the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services to investigate a series of no-bid contracts with a Brook Park company that has ties to the Democratic governor.

But both Celeste and OBES Administrator Roberta Steinbacher denied the contracts with Tele-Communications Inc., worth a total $5.2 million, were politically motivated.

"I was unaware that they had new phones at BES," Celeste said.

The Plain Dealer of Cleveland, quoting financial and telecommunications experts, reported that the equipment was overpriced and unnecessary and that the son-in-law of the company's chairman contributed heavily to Celeste's 1986 re-election campaign.

JUDGE SELECTION SLATED: Secretary of State Sherrod Brown on Monday certified for the Nov. 3 ballot a proposal to change the way Ohio's top judges are chosen.

The action follows several weeks of controversy over disputed signatures in a petition drive to put the issue before voters.

Ballot Issue 3 will ask voters whether they want to continue to elect judges to the Ohio Supreme Court and the 12 state courts of appeals, or have them appointed by the governor from a list of candidates submitted by bipartisan nominating committees.

Judges then would seek re-election without opposition but would need a 55 percent majority to stay in office.

"It's about time," Jack Alton, president of the Citizens for Merit Selection of Judges, said after learning of the certification. The group headed the petition drive.

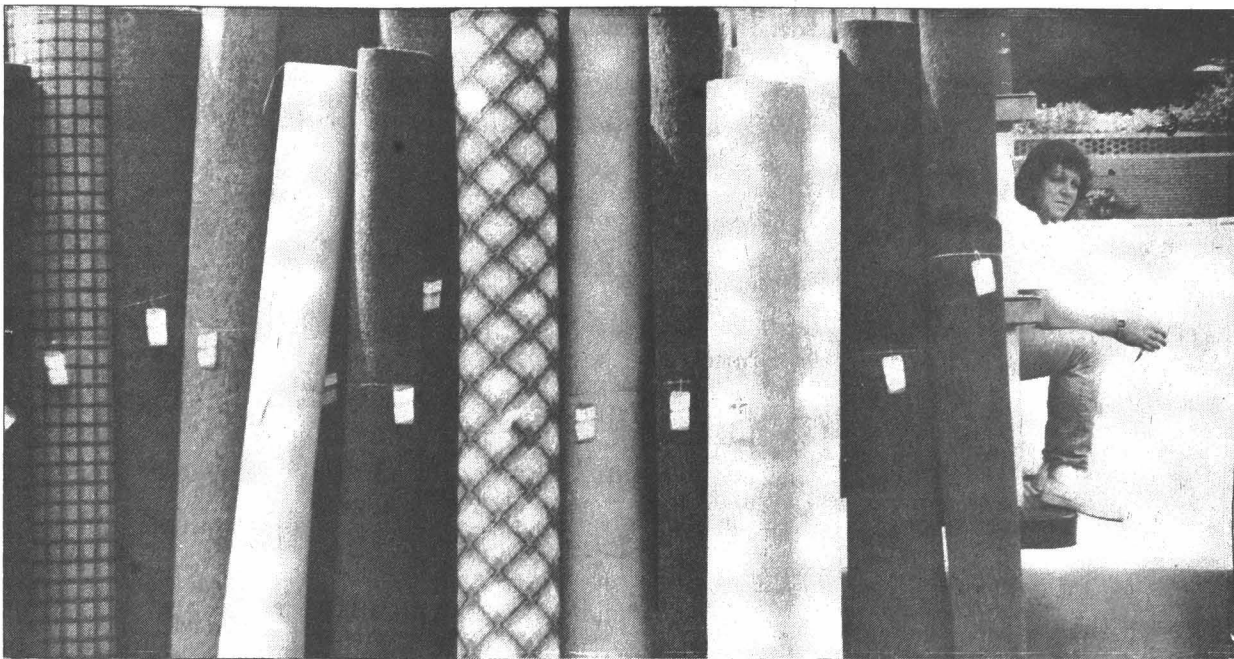

REAGAN APPEALS TO IRAN: President Reagan confronted Iran at the United Nations on Monday with a demand that it "clearly and unequivocally" accept a cease-fire in its Persian Gulf war with Iraq or face a worldwide arms embargo spearheaded by the United States.

Reagan set a new deadline of 24 hours for Tehran to accept the cease-fire resolution approved unanimously July 20 by the U.N. Security Council.

Referring to the speech Iranian President Ali Khamenei was scheduled to deliver Tuesday morning to the 42nd U.N. General Assembly session, the president said: "I take this opportunity to call upon him clearly and unequivocally to state whether Iran accepts 598 (the resolution) or not."

"If the answer is positive, it would be a welcome step and major breakthrough. If it is negative, the council has no choice but rapidly to adopt enforcement measures."

Proposed center to house 20,000

Key .25 sales tax increase to be on November ballot

By CHRISTOPHER J. BINDER
Lantern staff writer

The Citizens for the Convention Center and Civic Arena say it is still possible for Columbus to become the center of attention.

The proposed arena and convention center will attract major entertainers and allow Columbus to compete for 90 percent of all convention and trade shows, according to the group.

The proposed site is located just north of the Ohio Center, facing High Street. It will be bounded to the north by Interstate 670, and to the east by Third Street.

A .25 percent sales tax will, over eight years, pay for the construction of the $149 million facility, if approved by voters in November.

If voters accept the tax, construction would begin in the summer of 1988 and end in the fall of 1991, said Marjory Pizzuti, campaign manager for the Citizens for the Convention Center and Civic Arena.

The proposed convention center and arena would include the Ohio Center, an exhibition hall and an arena.

Cathy Shaw of the Columbus Planning Division said plans for the proposed center were gathered by examining other arenas and convention centers.

The buildings would be separate, but connected by walkways so people can move easily from one unit to another.

The exhibition hall would consist of 300,000 square feet, which can be divided into 50,000 square-foot units. Pizzuti said an additional 50,000 square feet will be available if needed.

Once completed, Pizzuti said the proposed arena would have a 20,000 seat capacity. She said this is large enough to attract major entertainers and teams from the National Basketball Association and the National Hockey League but not large enough to interest teams in Major League Baseball or the National Football League.

The exhibition space in the Ohio Center will be converted into "break-out" areas where convention-goers can meet away from the main convention site, Pizzuti said.

Shaw said to meet parking needs, 3,300 new spaces would be added on or adjacent to the grounds, in addition to the 7,000 spaces which are within a 1,500 foot walking distance.

Included in the 7,000 spaces are the Nationwide garage, which has 1,600 spaces, and the Holiday Inn/Nationwide garage, which has 1,500 spaces, she said.

Most of the traffic would be able to access the convention center's parking areas through improvements to the inner-Columbus highway system, such as a ramp which would be built connecting I-670 West to the site.

Money generated from the hotel-motel bed tax, the selling of suites in the proposed center, and advertising in the arena will offset any operating deficit, Pizzuti said.

College gains scholars

Visiting profs
lend expertise
to aid research

By WALT FRAHER
Lantern staff writer

Ohio State will receive two new Ohio Eminent Scholars in the College of Mathematical and Physical Sciences beginning in 1988 as a result of Ohio's Eminent Scholar Program.

Frank W. Schwartz is a professor of geology at the University of Alberta in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. He was named an Eminent Scholar in Hydrogeology.

John W. Wilkins, professor of physics at Cornell University, was named an Eminent Scholar in Condensed Matter and Materials Research Physics.

Schwartz will join the Department of Geology and Mineralogy in October 1988. He is a widely recognized expert in the hydrogeology of polluted water, according to geology professor Gunter Faure, and has done consulting on underground water contamination in the U.S. and Canada.

Hydrogeology, the study of the movement of subsurface waters, is becoming increasingly important because of the need to manage the available water resources in Ohio, nationwide and worldwide, Faure said.

"The problem in Ohio is not quantity of water but quality of water. We have an increasing number of users of the same water, and the water quality is deteriorating," Faure said.

He said there are many industries that use water in which the water purity is of importance. "These industries will not come to Ohio, or they will not stay in Ohio if we are not able to provide clean water and guarantee its existence in the future," he said.

"(Schwartz's) expertise," Faure said, "is exactly what is needed to make our hydrogeology program pertinent and relevant to the needs of the state, and that is why he was selected."

Schwartz, a Canadian, received a bachelor's degree from the University of Western Ontario in 1968, master's degree from the University of Manitoba in 1970 and a doctorate from the University of Illinois in 1972. All three degrees are in geology.

Wilkins will join the Department of Physics in March 1988, and specializes in solids, semiconductors, and metals.

He said a major thrust of condensed matter and materials research physics at Ohio State is in high-temperature superconductors.

"Superconductivity is a particular kind of state in a metal, and metal physics is one of the branches of condensed matter physics," said Dan Cox, assistant professor of physics.

Wilkins received a bachelor's degree in engineering from Northwestern University in 1959, and a doctorate in physics from the University of Illinois in 1963. He has taught at Cornell University since 1964.

There are 18 Eminent Scholar positions statewide — nine positions each authorized in the state's 1983-85 and 1985-87 biennial budgets. A competition among all state-assisted universities is conducted by the Ohio Board of Regents to determine who receives the Eminent Scholar awards.

Man eats coke-filled condoms

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Doctors found 46 condoms filled with cocaine inside the stomach of a man who sought treatment for severe abdominal pain and constipation about a week after he returned from Colombia, police said.

Fidel Figueroa, 31, of the Bronx, went to Lincoln Hospital's emergency room Saturday. X-rays led doctors to operate, and they discovered the condoms and called police, said Hugh Barry, a police department spokesman.

Police believe he swallowed the cocaine-filled condoms during a recent trip to Colombia in order to smuggle the drug into the United States, Barry said. He apparently hoped the condoms would pass through his system.

He went to Colombia Sept. 8 and returned five days later.

Figueroa remained in the hospital Sunday in stable condition, Barry said. He will be charged with criminal possession of a controlled substance, the officer said.

City buys dumpsters

Stray trash, rodents prompt changes

By VANETA MEREDITH
Lantern staff writer

The end of old-fashioned, curb-side garbage pick-up in the OSU-area has come.

The city has made the switch in the campus area to the new mechanized dumpster system in an effort to reduce garbage collection problems.

Doug Ruwe of the Columbus Refuse Department said the round, black, 300-gallon dumpsters in the area's alleys replace the curb-side service formerly used by residents of older apartment buildings and houses.

A city ordinance requires apartment buildings built after 1968 to provide dumpsters, but many of the houses built before then were turned into apartments and are being rented by students, Ruwe said.

"What we had before, were owners expecting student tenants to be responsible for old trash cans," Ruwe said, "or to provide their own plastic bags or cans for pick-up."

The old cans were often left uncovered and the bags open or ripped, which led to blowing trash and rodent problems, he said.

This problem is alleviated in the new system because the dumpsters are large, strong, and have lids, Ruwe said.

The new system has met both appreciation and apprehension.

Tom Mullen, a senior from Warren who lives in a house on Neil Avenue, said he prefers the dumpster system.

"They always overflowed with trash," Mullen said, "but now there's plenty of room for our trash in the dumpster out back."

Mullen said the garbage men who came for the old cans were sloppy and spilled trash, but the new trucks come and go without a problem.

The city began the switch in early summer, north of campus. The system should be completed in the Short North and Victorian Village in October.

Steven Arthur, a Victorian Village resident, is not as pleased with the change.

"Those dumpsters are never closed and they're always full," Arthur said. "It's just cheaper for the city."

Ruwe said the dumpsters are emptied on a loose schedule, with each driver completing as much of his assigned route as possible each day.

He said the system is cost efficient, cutting the work of three trash collectors to one truck driver.

"Do they really expect people to know where they (the dumpsters) are and use them?" Arthur said.

Mark Ludwig, a junior from Indiana, moved into his Norwich Avenue apartment last Thursday. He said he looked for a dumpster behind his house, but didn't see one.

"I knew my friends around here had those mushroom-shaped dumpsters," Ludwig said, "but I didn't see one near my house."

"My lease said I was supposed to put my trash on the curb once a week," he said. "I was just going to put it out there or dump it in the metal dumpster of the apartment building next door."

Ruwe said the refuse department places one dumpster for every three households, estimating the number of apartments per house.

Arthur said sometimes a house built for a family of four is converted to eight apartments with 16 people.

He said the neighborhood alleys do not have room for that many dumpsters and that they will block the road.

Transition easy for soccer coach

By RANDY JACOBS
Lantern sports writer

At a time when freshman are making the adjustment from high school to college, so is first-year soccer coach Gary Avedikian. So far he has found the change relatively smooth.

"There are a lot of new things to learn to manage and different drains on your time," said the former Centerville High School soccer coach. "But it hasn't been anything I didn't expect, plus the cooperation of the people I work with has been terrific."

Of course winning makes any adjustment period easier and the Buckeyes 3-2-1 record has Avedikian pleased.

"We would like to be undefeated, but in terms of shutouts and the good play of the freshman, I would say we have been getting good results up to this point in the season," he said.

Avedikian said the teams best performance of the season came in a 1-0 victory against Central Michigan.

"Even though the game was low scoring, it was extremely well played by our team," he said. "In terms of execution, that has been our best performance so far."

Injuries have been a problem for the team this season. Three players who were starters last year; junior Dave Scheer, sophomores Greg Sebolt and Jeff Rhode, all have knee injuries. Rhode could be back within a week, but Scheer and Sebolt are out indefinitely.

"We haven't had our top 11 players on the field at one time yet this year," Avedikian said.

"We are just getting back one player we have gone the whole season without, and we are hoping he will be able to contribute."

Because of the injuries, some young players are getting a chance to contribute. Two of the teams leading scorers, Todd Young and Bob Hoyt, are sophomores. Hoyt scored three goals at Indianapolis in an 11-1 victory. The 11 goals set a single-game OSU scoring record.

"We've got a lot of sophomores who are contributing right now," said defender Matt Pickston, a senior from Shaker Heights. "I think that is what made the win over Central Michigan so good. We had some guys hurt, and some people that normally don't play that much gave us a really good performance."

Defender Mike Pickard, a senior from Centerville, likes the style of play that Avedikian has brought with him to Ohio State.

"Our offense has been stressed a lot by the coach. He wants every player out there to have the ability to score," Pickard said.

Avedikian said he still uses some of the same coaching philosophy at Ohio State that he used while coaching at Centerville High School.

Avedikian's teams scored over 1,000 goals and gave up less than 160 in his 14 years as a high school coach.

"Certain principles that are productive at the high school level, also work at this level," he said. "I don't really try to stress any certain aspect of the game. I feel offense and defense are too closely related to put one above the other."

Pickard said as well as being a good technical coach, Avedikian has been promoting the team off the field.

"He is really trying to get us more fan support. No one has really done that for us in the past," Pickard said.

The team members set several goals at the beginning of the season. They want to go undefeated against Ohio colleges and record 10 shutouts. They also want to go undefeated in all their matches at Ohio Stadium.

So far this season, the Buckeyes have had three shutouts including one against Xavier University, 2-0. In Ohio Stadium, they are 1-0-1 with the tie coming against West Virginia, 2-2.

The Buckeyes are at home Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. against Bowling Green State University.

The strike is on

Denver Broncos linebacker Ricky Hunley carries a strike sign into a team meeting at Broncos headquarters Monday. The NFL Players Association called a strike effective at midnight Monday. Gene Upshaw, executive director of the players association, said at halftime of the New England-New York game Monday night that a strike was necessary to force NFL owners to negotiate.

Ruling finds collusion existed

ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — Baseball owners conspired to "destroy" free agency after the 1985 season, an arbitrator said Monday in a ruling which could force open the market for stars like Jack Clark, Dale Murphy and Cal Ripken Jr.

In his 16-page decision, arbitrator Tom Roberts wrote that free agents "surely had a value at some price and yet no offers were advanced." Roberts underlined the word "no" in his ruling.

The decision affects 62 free agents, but it offered no remedies. Further hearings beginning this week will determine such action.

"The arbitrator found that the clubs entered into a common scheme, the effect of which was to destroy free agency," said players' union head Don Fehr. "In other words, they corked the market. We will ask the arbitrator ... (to) make sure that it will never happen again."

Despite not having Kathy Monard, last year's top runner, the OSU women's cross country team is still looking to have a successful season.

"Monard's absence will definitely have an impact on the team this year," Coach Mamie Rallins said. "However, we have some fine returning runners this year and will just have to get along without her."

So far the team has done just that. In the Kentucky Invitational last weekend, the Buckeyes finished third, their best-ever showing in that tournament. They also placed third at the Bowling Green Invitational earlier this season.

Returning letterwinners from a squad that won a team-record 71 victories last season are seniors Pamela Kerth, Tonja Stewart and Athena Yiamouyiannis and sophomores Carolyn Moore and Dawn Wallace.

Kerth, who is a co-captain along with Stewart, finished 17th out of 69 runners at the Big Ten Championships last season and was 15th in the Kentucky tournament.

Moore, who was the highest OSU finisher at Kentucky, placed 11th. She and Wallace, who finished 23rd, will run second and third behind Kerth.

Rallins said Monard is not sure whether she wants to run competitively anymore. "Some people like to run for pleasure, and some like to run for competition, and right now, Kathy is just not sure what she wants to do."

Monard, a junior from Neenah, Wis. was unavailable for comment. Last year she finished third in the NCAA District IV Championships and gained a spot in the NCAA Finals in which she finished ninth in the country.

Monard holds the OSU outdoor record in the 1500-meter run with a time of 4:24.89. She was an All-American runner in her freshman year and finished fourth in the All-Ohio Championships in 1985.

In high school, Monard was voted all-conference all four years and all-state in her senior year. Her team won state championships three of those years.

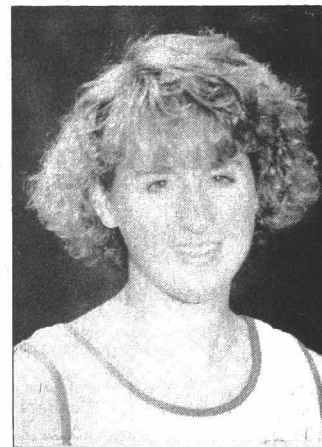

Moore said, "Everyone understands her decision not to participate this year, but there is nothing we can do about it."

"Nobody holds a grudge against her, and I'm still very good friends with her," Moore said.

Rallins, in her 12th year as head coach, said she does not know whether Monard will return to the team in her senior year. "It all depends on how she feels and whether she wants to compete."

Moore said, "It would be nice if she did (return next year), but I hope she does whatever makes her most happy. It is her decision."

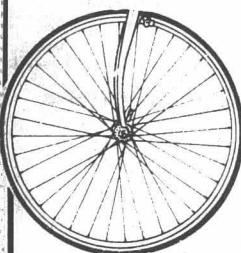

Ohio State's next meet is Oct. 3 at the Stanford Invitational.

Everything from tantrums to red shoes

Keeping up on the sports world

The first week of a new quarter is always a time to catch up on things (where did we leave that box of Carpet Fresh?) and not being one to buck tradition, here goes:

- It was great to see John McEnroe get pasted by Ivan Lendl in the quarterfinals at the U.S. Open after Mac made the usual ass of himself during an earlier match with Slobodan Zivojinovic (try saying that on a Friday night).

Granted, watching Lendl is about as exciting as watching Sally Jessy Raphael, but McEnroe's act has become very old hat. Is it just a coincidence that Mac always manages to be a good boy when he is one outburst away from defaulting the match?

- Even if the NFL players' strike lasts forever, I still have the beautiful memory of last Sunday to quench my thirst for pro football.

The combination of the Browns destroying the arch-rival Steelers and the Bengals and Simple Sammy Wyche grabbing defeat from the jaws of victory is almost too good to ruin by playing more games anyway.

- Speaking of the Browns-Steelers game, it was nice to see the field at Cleveland Stadium in such a sorry state following a week of steady rain and two Pink Floyd concerts. It looked like a real football game with all that loose turf flying around.

NBC announcers Marv Albert and Joe Namath poo-pooed the condition of the field during the pre-game, but the only casualty caused by the sloppy conditions was a missed 29-yard chip shot by Steeler kicker Gary Anderson that would have given the Steelers an early lead. I'll bet Anderson is at home now breaking his copy of Dark Side of the Moon into little pieces.

- OK Cleveland Indians' fans, here's your first quiz of the quarter. Try to name all the members of the Indians' pitching staff. You have the entire class period.

Let's see there's Tom Candiotti, Ken Schrom, Darryl Akerfelds, Scott Bailes, Sammy Stewart, John Farrell, uh, uh, uh.... Don't worry. This will be the one quiz grade you can drop at the end of the quarter.

- Here's hoping the Oregon Ducks get pummelled in every game the rest of the season for running onto the field during the halftime tribute to Woody Hayes.

Sure, Woody's team ran through Michigan's "Go Blue" banner one year, but that was different. Woody's teams could usually back up their boasts and that doesn't seem to be true of the Ducks.

- Brian Bosworth received a court order allowing him to wear his old number 44 for the Seattle Seahawks after the mean old NFL made him change numbers for a game.

Whew! This whole thing had me worried for awhile. I was afraid the trauma of wearing a new number might cause mild-mannered Brian to do something stupid, like paint his hair or something.

- Elsewhere on the fashion front, look for the Buckeyes to once again sport the red shoes they wore at the Cotton Bowl last year when they travel to Baton Rouge this weekend.

Sure the shoes are ugly, but so are those green things the Boston Celtics wear and look how many championships they've won. Besides, the Bucks are going to need all the help they can get playing at LSU in front of 70,000 juiced-up Cajuns. The Buckeyes played their best game in recent memory in those shoes at the Cotton Bowl. Let's hope the magic continues.

Bruce sees LSU challenge as needed test for Bucks

By JEAN-JACQUES TAYLOR
Lantern staff writer

Ohio State takes a trip to Death Valley this weekend, but Coach Earle Bruce hasn't yet notified his next of kin.

"This is what you come to Ohio State to play for, to play in big games," said Bruce at his weekly luncheon yesterday, referring to Saturday's game against fifth-ranked Louisiana State University. "And if the kids aren't excited about it they shouldn't have come here."

"When I look at (senior defensive back) William White and (senior linebacker) Chris Spielman sitting on the edge of their chairs, I know they're ready and I don't see any problems."

LSU (3-0) has a .720 winning percentage (268-98-17) at Tiger Field, nicknamed Death Valley, but Bruce said it will be a challenge his team has seen before.

"I'm not saying LSU isn't a hard place to play, but Minnesota is a tough place and look at Wisconsin, Iowa and Michigan," he said.

"I'm more interested in learning something about our football team. This is our first trip and I'm anxious to see how well we travel. We've been a good traveling team in the past and I hope we stay that way."

LSU sophomore running back Harvey Williams, who rushed for 196 yards on 10 carries last week against Rice (a 49-16 victory), and all-American wide receiver Wendell Davis, who led the nation in receiving yardage (1,244) and tied for the national lead in touchdown receptions (11) last season, lead a potent offense that ranks sixth in the nation.

Tiger quarterback Tom Hodson, the offensive catalyst, has completed 36 of 56 passes for 607 yards five touchdowns and one interception in three games.

"(Hodson) is an intelligent young man, who reads defenses well and does an exceptional job of driving his team down the field," Bruce said.

The Buckeye mentor said the Tigers use a variety of offensive formations, "but they don't really have anything they hang their hat on... except throwing the ball to Wendell Davis."

Bruce said he noticed an improvement in the Buckeyes performance against Oregon, but Ohio State will need a better team effort to defeat LSU.

"Football teams never stay the same," he said, "but if you go backwards that's terrible. We'll have to improve quite a bit more if we want to be in the same league as LSU."

The Buckeyes will need more of the same against LSU, which is allowing only 10.3 points per game.

FOOTBALL NOTEBOOK

- Workman received the best grade of any offensive player with a 95 percent while cornerback Greg Rogan led the defense at 97 percent.

- Injury update: Bruce said junior wide receiver Everett Ross, who injured his knee against Oregon, is expected to play Saturday. Senior linebacker Fred Rider, who sprained an ankle against West Virginia and missed the Oregon game, and senior offensive tackle Jay Shaffer, who was out with a muscle pull, are both expected to see action against LSU.

- The Buckeyes are practicing exclusively on grass this week to prepare for the Tigers, who play on grass.

- Bruce on freshman tight end Jay Koch, who scored his first collegiate touchdown Saturday: "It's nice to see a true freshman play well. Koch made a great catch. He leaped high in the air to get the ball and he made the recovery on the inside kick after their second touchdown, which is always a big play."

Bengal fans upset after defeat

ASSOCIATED PRESS

CINCINNATI — Some Cincinnati Bengals' fans called Monday for the firing of Coach Sam Wyche because of the Bengals last-second collapse in giving away a game Sunday to the San Francisco 49ers.

Wyche said he had only himself to blame for the loss.

"I feel like I've been cut," he told reporters after Cincinnati's stunning 27-26 loss Sunday to the 49ers.

Bengals' fans, who watched their team blow a 26-20 lead in the final two seconds of the game, also were inclined to blame Wyche, Cincinnati's fourth-year head coach.

In response to an informal telephone-in poll conducted Monday by Cincinnati radio station WLW, 61 percent, or 477 of the 775 fans who called, said Wyche should be fired. The remaining 39 percent said he should be retained.

Wyche elected to have running back James Brooks carry the ball on a sweep with six seconds left to run out the clock. Wyche said he decided not to punt because of the danger of having the punt blocked and run in for a touchdown.

He said he elected not to have the Bengals run the ball into their end zone for a two-point safety because they risked being tackled and surrendering the ball deep in their territory.

The final touchdown left Bengals players shaking their heads and muttering. Bengals fans cursed, jeered and threw bottles, papers and other objects onto the Riverfront Stadium turf.

Wyche said he will be doomed to replaying the final seconds in his mind for the rest of his life.

"I won't forget this one," he said. "We all have very unpleasant memories and, if we're smart, if we're real professionals, we'll also have a tremendous lesson to learn."

AIDS laws in dispute

Reagan denies federal responsibility

ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The federal government should not bar discrimination against AIDS patients or impose confidentiality requirements even though some state approaches may not work, the Reagan administration said Monday.

"I'm not ruling out a federal role in this," Health and Human Services Secretary Otis R. Bowen told the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on health.

But he said states should lead the way in resolving the difficult confidentiality and discrimination questions arising from the AIDS crisis — at least until they prove they're not up to the task.

Subcommittee chairman Henry Waxman, D-Calif., has introduced a bill authorizing $400 million for more AIDS testing and counseling. The measure also requires confidentiality of test results and bars discrimination against those who have AIDS or are infected with the virus.

"While the president has spoken against ignorance and malice, the White House has been silent about legislation or real protections," Waxman said in an opening statement.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, asked about the administration's stand on the Waxman bill, said, "We oppose discrimination... but we do believe the states probably have pre-emptive responsibility in this area."

Waxman and others, including many medical and public health groups, say federal assurances of confidentiality and protection against discrimination are needed to expand the testing program and attract the people at highest risk of contracting AIDS.

Bowen acknowledged that states may make mistakes and could slow down expansion of the testing program, but "I just think they ought to have the first shot. And then if their response is inadequate, we will have a lot more information about what works and what doesn't."

Bowen also raised the states' rights argument in response to Rep. William Dannemeyer's contentions that Congress should require widespread AIDS testing and should require reporting of cases to public health authorities.

The secretary said widespread testing eventually will become routine because doctors will ask for it. And he said the federal government should not impose reporting requirements on states as diverse as Iowa, with practically no AIDS cases, and California, with many.

Bowen also said the administration opposes the $400 million authorized in the Waxman bill, which has been introduced in the Senate by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. He said the Public Health Service is requesting $90 million next year for testing and counseling grants to the states, and that is enough.

Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., said he estimates there are 17 million people at high risk for contracting the AIDS virus, including male homosexuals, intravenous drug users and people with venereal disease. That translates into over $725 million in AIDS testing and counseling costs, he said.

But Bowen said the $90 million proposed by the administration would reach half of some 2.5 million "highest-risk" people, with states expected to contribute additional funds. "If we find it isn't enough, I assure you we will be asking for more," he said.

Alumni perform salute to Woody

By DENISE L. CLARK
Lantern staff writer

With only a few hours of practice, the alumni band returned to the field once again to entertain the crowds in Ohio Stadium.

The 445-piece band performed in Saturday's half-time show during the game between Ohio State and Oregon. The performance was dedicated to Woody Hayes, who died in March.

Under the direction of David Meeker, director of the School of Music, the alumni band also performed the pre-game show with the OSU Marching Band.

More than 300 people gathered in St. John Arena Friday night to practice the music that would be played during the game. The band practiced its routine in Ohio Stadium before the football teams came out to warm up.

Alumni band members return to march for different reasons. "My daughter made it into the marching band and I decided to march on the same field at the same time she did," said Stan Gilliland, a trumpet player who graduated in 1959.

"I've been back every year," said Daniel Narocki, a retired band director who has a son in the marching band. "I'm back and I'm enjoying it."

Bob Hutson drove 2,000 miles to march with the band this year. "I love it. I'm in Tuscon now, but I wouldn't miss this for the world," he said.

"This is my 20th reunion," said Carl Frische. A 1930 graduate, Frische played the clarinet before the band became an all-brass organization in 1934.

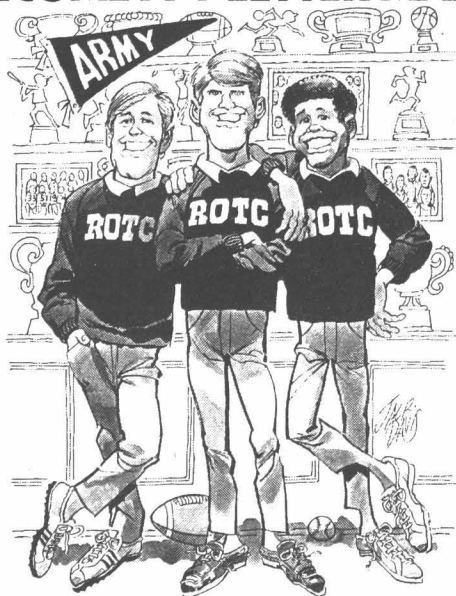

"I love it. I never felt much like I couldn't do it," he said. "But it does take a lot of stamina. It's just as much a thrill now as it was the first time I entered the field."

Why are a lot of college men and women becoming buddies in Army ROTC?

Probably because Army ROTC is full of the kind of people other people go out of their way to meet.

ROTC students tend to be high achievers who are interested in more than their studies. They're popular students with a serious side, but who like to have a good time, too.

In other words, when people join Army ROTC they often meet people a lot like themselves.

New COSI exhibit features 3 holograms

By JEAN-JAQUES TAYLOR
 Lantern staff writer

Ben Franklin - one of six people to sign both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution - has become a permanent resident of the Center of Science and Industry.

Actually, Franklin's holographic bust is part of COSI's new U.S. Constitution exhibit, which features three holograms.

Holography is a photographic technique that uses lasers to generate three-dimensional projections. The holographic exhibit is aimed at introducing children to the Constitution.

"We were interested in doing something that would be attractive to kids and get their attention," said Carolyn Melvin, co-chairman of the Constitution committee. "We wanted to combine hi-tech and history because so many people think it's (the Constitution) dry, but it's actually a living, breathing document that affects our lives everyday."

The permanent exhibit also includes holographic images of Franklin's spectacles on a copy of the Constitution and a quill and ink bottle resting on the Constitution.

An informational text illustrating the creation and signing of the document accompanies each hologram.

"With a three-dimensional figure, there's a lot of clarity in the image because everything is so detailed and precise," said Kurt Stull, COSI Marketing Director. "The neat thing about three-dimensional figures is that they look like they're following you around when you walk around and look at them," he said.

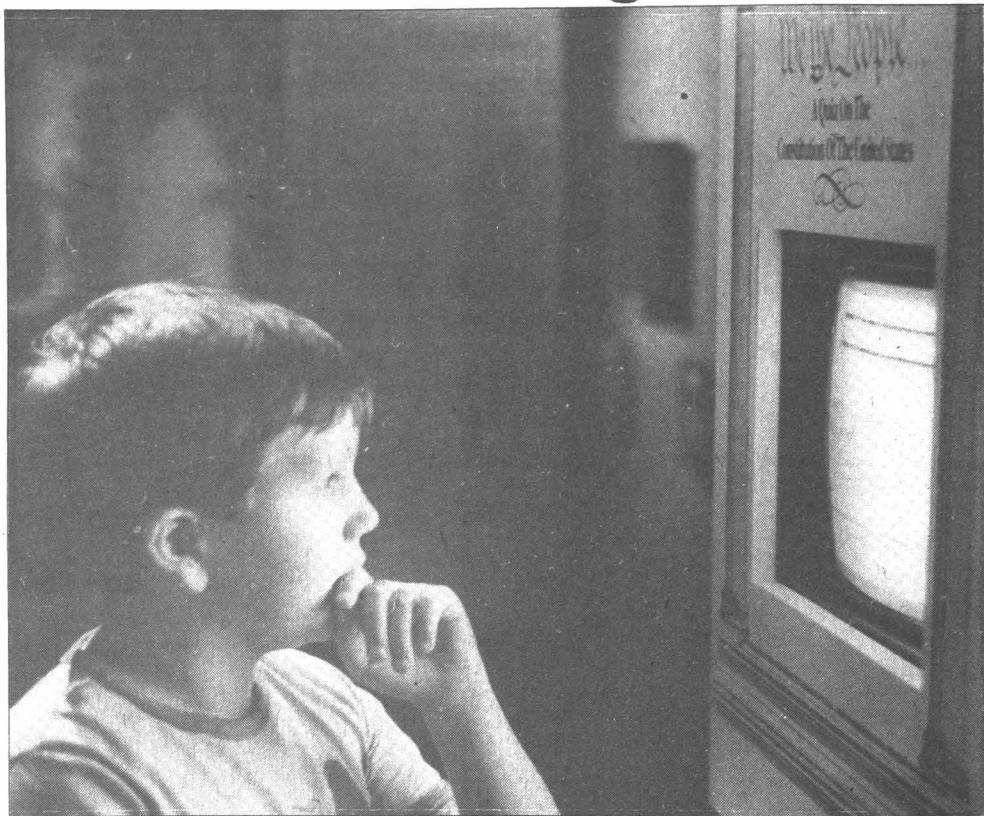

COSI visitors can take a computer quiz featuring multiple choice questions about the Constitution.

"The computer quiz might not be initially as eye-catching, but it will provide something else for the kids to interact with," Melvin said.

The Bar Association, which sponsors the exhibit, began discussing ideas for an exhibit last summer, according to Melvin.

"We made a number of subcommittees in an effort to reach several different groups of people," she said, "but we've undertaken a number of different projects, all of which are meant to inform the public on the Constitution's importance."

Although it wasn't the original plan, Melvin said the Bar Association is ecstatic about having three holograms.

Center of Science and Industry. Jeffords is a fifth-grader from Westerville.

Brazilia boasts exotic coffee flavors

Campus coffee lovers, rejoice. Brazilia, a gourmet coffee and hot nut shop, should satisfy the palate of even the most finicky coffee connoisseurs.

Located at 1758 N. High St., Brazilia offers a wide selection of coffee drinks and products. To accompany your steamy mug of java, you can choose from a variety of hot-air roasted nuts, tortes, pastries and cakes.

If the coffee doesn't stimulate you, the hours will. The shop opens at 7 a.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday and Sunday. It closes at midnight during the week and on Sunday and at 3:30 a.m. Friday and Saturday.

Admittedly, I was skeptical about Brazilia's coffee quality. For the past seven years, I have firmly believed that one must travel to San Francisco to get a truly first-rate cup of gourmet cafe au lait ($.95-$1.35) and they offer a gourmet coffee of the day ($.65-$1.95).

We made our way to one of the five round tables, tested our coffee and split a piece of strawberry amaretto torte ($1.95) and a quarter pound of hot-air roasted peanuts ($3.95 per pound). We were delighted with our choices.

Neither of the coffee drinks were bitter, just smooth, rich and hot. Although the tortes and cakes are baked elsewhere, we both thought the strawberry amaretto torte was sumptuous.

The hot nuts deserve some special comment. The manager explained that hot-air roasting is a unique process used only by Brazilia and one other shop the owner runs in Cleveland.

Hot-air roasting eliminates the use of oil and salt. Unlike cold nuts, hot nuts are soft and chewy. After sampling the hot peanuts, I took the remaining nuts back to work. The reactions of my co-workers ranged from "they need salt" to "they're great" to "they stuck in my teeth."

Brazilia also sells bulk coffee, but it was more expensive than the bulk coffee sold in some gourmet sections in other Columbus area markets.

The prices ranged from $.69 to $.89 per pound. According to the manager, the beans are more expensive because they come from the arabica tree rather than the robusta tree. Arabica trees yield only about one pound of coffee beans a year. They are also more delicate and flavorful than the hearty robusta bean.

For an excellent, flavorful cup of coffee, a delicious dessert, pastry, or freshly roasted nuts, frequent Brazilia. Do yourself a flavor.

DINING OUT

coffee. But now Columbus can boast of a gourmet coffee shop worthy of the name.

Brazilia's atmosphere stimulates the senses. You smell the rich aroma of exotic brands of coffee brewing, hear the brewer bubble and whirl, see the clean, well-lit surroundings, and feel the warmth radiating from the hot mug in hand.

It's tough to decide what to order. After scanning the menu board, I decided to stick to my usual quality yardstick - a small cup of cappuccino ($1.25). My companion chose a small mug of cafe mocha ($1.10). You could also choose espresso ($.95-$1.45),

Newport celebrates third anniversary

By MOLLY MERRYMAN
Lantern staff writer

The Newport Music Hall celebrated its third anniversary yesterday with a live recording session by the Columbus-based country music group McGuffey Lane.

Scott Stienecker, president of PromoWest Productions, Inc., which owns and operates Newport Music Hall, said that McGuffey Lane was chosen as the centerpiece of the anniversary celebration because they have been involved with PromoWest since the company's beginning in 1984.

"McGuffey Lane was the first outdoor concert we did," Stienecker said. "And they do our New Year's shows, which are always a good time."

Stienecker and Joe Brooks formed PromoWest in the summer of 1984. They were happy to return to Columbus and the community they had lived in when they attended The Ohio State University in the '70's.

"I decided to return here when I heard that the hall (then the Agora) was for sale," Stienecker said. "Because I knew the Columbus market well, I decided that this was the perfect place to start PromoWest."

Renovations for the hall began in May of 1984, just four months before the hall was expected to open. And it did open, with two sold-out performances by Neil Young.

Since then, the Newport has had more than 300 national acts perform on its stage. Stienecker estimates that 75 percent of these shows were produced by PromoWest.

PromoWest, and its sub-division No Other Productions, bring a variety of concerts to Columbus. In three years, PromoWest has produced blues, contemporary Christian, pop, rock 'n' roll, reggae and underground music concerts for its Columbus audiences.

"We try to bring all types of music to our audiences," Brooks said. "We rely on the ears of the kids to lead us to good music."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — The grandson of legendary aerialist Karl Wallenda fell from a high wire during a circus show grand finale, breaking his pelvis and wrist, police said.

Enrico Wallenda, 32, was trying to leap over his wife during the Shrine Circus show Friday when he apparently lost his balance and fell 30 feet, said police Sgt. Gary Looney.

Wallenda, of Sarasota, was taken to Baptist Medical Center, where he also was diagnosed as having suffered head injuries.

He was admitted in stable condition.

Karl Wallenda and four other members of his family have fallen to their deaths, and another has been paralyzed.

LOS ANGELES— A black-jacketed Sean Penn slipped out of jail in the dark of night Thursday and returned to the secluded life of a movie star, resting at his Malibu home with his pop-singer wife, Madonna.

Penn, whose brushes with the law include reckless driving and scuffles in a bar and on a movie set, hustled out the front entrance of the huge downtown jail at 1 a.m. after serving 32 days of a 60-day term for violating probation. He got off early because of good behavior.

The 27-year-old actor, whose credits include "Fast Times at Ridgemont High," "Bad Boys" and "The Falcon and the Snowman," was sequestered at his $2 million home overlooking the Pacific at Malibu, according to his publicist.

"He's just resting at home and getting on with his life," said Sandi Captain of PMK Public Relations.

Madonna's spokeswoman at Warner Bros. records, Mary Melia, said the sultry singer had a break in her concert schedule and presumably was with Penn.

"They're together and they're happy and that's it," she said.

He was sentenced to jail June 23 by Municipal Court Commissioner Juelann Cathey for violating probation by driving recklessly and by punching a movie extra who tried to photograph him during filming of the police movie "Colors" in April.

He was initially placed on probation for punching a man he accused of trying to kiss Madonna in a nightclub in April 1986.

BEDMINSTER, N.J. — Magazine publisher and motorcycle enthusiast Malcolm Forbes gave actress Elizabeth Taylor a custom-painted purple motorcycle Sunday, and the two denied wedding rumors before taking a spin on it together.

"We're good friends, why complicate things with marriage?" said Forbes, as Miss Taylor nodded in agreement.

"The only engagement we have is to take this for a spin," she said of the gift, a 1988 Harley Davidson 883 "Hugger" which she described as "super."

Miss Taylor, who has been taking motorcycle driving lessons, clambered on back of the machine behind Forbes. The two pulled down the driveway of his estate here, followed by some 50 members of Forbes' motorcycle club, "Capitalist Tools," and headed for a day of races at an Englishtown track.

Forbes, who took the actress on her first motorcycle ride a few weeks ago, said he chose the color to match that used on packages of Miss Taylor's new line of perfume.

The logo for the new scent was painted in gold on the cycle's gas tank and fender. The two wore matching fringed red-leather jackets bearing the Capitalist Tools logo.

Forbes, a millionaire whose cycle collection includes many one-of-a-kind bikes, paid about $4,500 for Miss Taylor's motorcycle and another $500 for the paint job, his assistant David Stein said.

In return for the gift, Miss Taylor gave Forbes a ring of a silver, helmeted skull with ruby eyes. To mark the occasion of Miss Taylor's first ride, Forbes had given her a similar "biker" ring.

Nowhere is the creative force so strong.

HITACHI CULTURE SPECIAL

If only typewriters let you proofread your work before they printed it on the page.

You've just proofread your term paper and it's got typos, spelling errors and misplaced paragraphs.

Now, you can't hand in a paper like this. So no matter how tired you are, you've got to retype the entire thing.

That is, unless you typed it on a Videowriter.*

The Videowriter solves all your typing problems.

Take the most obvious one: typos.

On an ordinary typewriter it would mean a bottle of white-out and a frustrating interruption.

On a Videowriter it just means pressing the key marked "delete." That's all. Because you type your work on a screen before you print it on a page.

It edits.

And how about those bigger problems like wanting to rearrange paragraphs?

On an ordinary typewriter you have to "cut and paste" them.

On a Videowriter you only have to press the key marked "move" and then indicate the area you want it moved to. It's that simple.

It spells.

What happens when you're typing and you come to a word you can't spell?

On an ordinary typewriter you have to stop typing, find a dictionary and look it up.

Not so on a Videowriter. Spelling problems can be corrected simply by pressing the key marked "spell."

It counts words.

If you've ever had a teacher tell you to write a thousand word essay, you know what a pain it is trying to count your words.

On an ordinary typewriter you have to do it with your finger.

But on a Videowriter you can press a mere two buttons and it does the counting for you.

It makes multiple copies.

From time to time you want a copy of what you've typed, right?

Well, if you use a Videowriter you won't have to go to the school library to look for a copier machine.

All you'll have to look for is the button marked "print." Press it and the Videowriter will make another original.

And because your work is automatically stored on a standard 3½" floppy disk, you can make those copies whenever you want.

It obviously does a lot more than type.

That's because the word processing features just go on and on.

What's more, we sell the Videowriter* Word Processor for around the price of a good electronic typewriter.

And that's quite a bargain when you consider the amount of time it'll save you. Time you can spend doing the work for your other classes.

You would do that, wouldn't you?

Law students, faculty praise Constitution

By EILEEN MALONE
Lantern staff writer

In honor of the 200th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution on Sept. 17, 1787, more than 75 law students, faculty and alumni celebrated Thursday with a reception in the student lounge of the College of Law.

"In case none of you have seen the Constitution, this is it. That's all. Have some cake," were the opening remarks of College of Law Dean Frank Beytagh as he held up a pocket-size edition of the Constitution.

Douglas Whaley, professor of law, then led the guests in singing, "Happy Birthday" to the Constitution.

Joanne Murphy, assistant dean of the College of Law, said the reception was the culmination of a series of events the College of Law scheduled to honor the bicentennial of the signing of the historic document.

"We had our lecture series last fall and spring, which was dealing with issues on bicentennial," she said. "Then, just last Friday, we had our annual roundtable, which dealt with the continuing debate over the signing of the Constitution."

For the roundtable, two deans of the College of Law dressed in costumes of the late 1700s, reenacted the debates between the Federalists and anti-Federalists, which took place after the signing of the Constitution and during its ratification.

In 1787, Federalists were those in favor of a strong federal government. Anti-Federalists were proponents of strong state governments.

"We then discussed what those same issues would be in the context of today's society," Murphy said. "We found out that we're still talking about the same issues."

One issue some students at the reception believe the Constitution needs to deal with more fairly is minority rights.

"The Constitution still leaves a lot to be desired in the way of minority rights," said Rosalyn Guy, a first-year law student from Pittsburgh.

Another first-year law student, Marc Booker, of Warren, said, "I think a lot of major changes have been made for minority rights, but I think some things need to be more expressly enforced."

"The way our law is interpreted in this country, the judges can find a constitutional amendment and fit just about any law they want to see passed into there somehow," he said. "What needs to be more solidified is their interpretations and the effect those interpretations will have on the country."

Beytagh agreed the original constitution is not a perfect document.

"We've worked with the amendments and interpretations and improved (minority rights) through the years," he said.

Todd McKenney, a second-year law student from Akron, said the slavery issue was a source of much debate during the Constitutional Convention.

"For political reasons, they didn't think the United States would hold together and eventually they fought it out in the Civil War," he said. "I think the right end was accomplished."

"We can all share in the common heritage (of the signing of the Constitution), in the sense and that the wrongs have been righted and that the Constitution provides the means for those wrongs to be righted," McKenney said.

"The 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments, as well as the amendment that gave women the right to vote, are all evidence that our Constitution provides for changes to be made when wrongs have been done," he said.

Beytagh said it's not the actual signing of the document we should be celebrating, but rather the changes that have been made since then.

Beytagh said, "We didn't want to let the day go by without doing something in remembrance of the signing of the Constitution."

"The Constitution is more a process than a document, a process of governing ourselves," he said. "It's a framework and a foundation for us."

Climber pulled from crane

Police arrested a 23-year-old student late Saturday night for climbing the crane at the Cancer Research construction site on Neil Avenue between 10th and 12th avenues.

By the time police arrived, the student had already climbed three quarters of the way up the 20-story crane. Police ordered the man down. The suspect struggled with police after reaching the ground, the report said.

The student was charged with criminal trespassing and resisting arrest. He was taken to the Franklin County Jail.

POLICE NOTES

tenden Ave. at approximately 2:40 a.m.

Police said a billiard ball was thrown through the front window of the store causing $50 worth of damage.

Goods stolen

A 22-year-old female reported a burglary at her apartment on 13th Avenue Sunday afternoon.

Police said the incident occurred sometime between the hours of 1 and 5 p.m.

Police do not know how the suspect entered the apartment because there were no witnesses. But police said the person or persons seemed to know the layout of the apartment.

The woman reported that the keys to a 1986 dark blue Nissan were taken from her desk drawer, but that the interior of the house was not disturbed. The car, valued at $5800, was stolen.

A wallet containing a small amount of cash, credit cards, a set of keys and a blank check were also stolen.

Man assaulted

A 21-year-old Dublin man reported a robbery early Saturday morning.

The man told police that the robbery took place at approximately 2:30 a.m. at the intersection of Norwich and Neil avenues.

Police said the man was slowing down for a stop sign while traveling west on Norwich Avenue when two people jumped into his car and said, "Give us everything you've got or you'll get hurt bad."

The victim gave the suspects a $100 watch, a silver neck chain, a book bag and a wallet containing $30 cash. The assailants then fled north on foot.

Police are still investigating the robbery.

Nicaragua allows paper to reopen

ASSOCIATED PRESS

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — The Sandinista government will allow Nicaragua's opposition newspaper La Prensa to reopen, Foreign Minister Miguel D'Escoto and a partner in the paper said Sunday.

D'Escoto said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press in San Jose, Costa Rica, that the paper, closed June 26, 1986, would be allowed to resume publishing immediately without prior censorship.

Carlos Holmann, a partner in the paper, did not say in a brief telephone interview when the paper would reopen.

Holmann said permission to reopen was the result of a meeting Saturday of President Daniel Ortega, Agrarian Reform Minister Jaime Wheelock and La Prensa co-owner Violeta Chamorro.

D'Escoto said, "In spite of the fact that there is still a state of emergency, in spite of the fact that the Reagan administration is still waging war through its mercenaries, we are moving ahead and doing a series of things, among which is allowing La Prensa to reopen."

Ortega said earlier that the newspaper would not be allowed to publish again until the Reagan administration halted aid to the Contra rebels fighting his leftist government.

The paper was closed a day after the U.S. House of Representatives approved $100 million in aid to the rebels.

The permission to reopen was the latest in a series of liberalization moves by the Sandinista government, which says it is determined to comply with all parts of a new Central American peace plan.

The plan, conceived by Costa Rican President Oscar Arias and signed by five Central American presidents, specifically says there must be freedom of the press.

WE WORK HARDER FOR A BUCK

For years, BANK ONE has been bringing better student banking service to Buckeyes. And now, we're working even harder for all the Bucks who bank with us. That's why our special student services fit the demands of your busy schedule and your budget. And why we're the bank that offers everything you need...cheaper checking, more campus-area locations, and a special deal we'll deliver right to your door.

We give you cheaper checking

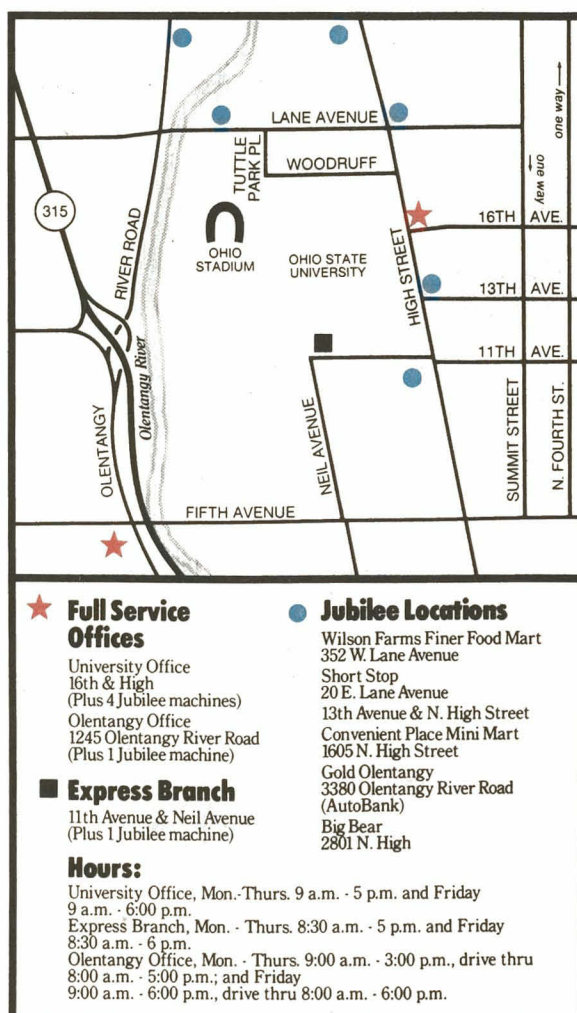

Why should you have to pay an arm and a leg for a checking account? With our Student Economy Checking, you pay only $1.50 a month. That gives you 10 free transactions plus a free Jubilee® card. You can't find a lower priced checking account on campus.

We give you more places to bank

BANK ONE has two full-service offices and an express branch in the campus area plus twelve 24-hour Jubilee machines. Just look for the blue BANK ONE pennant, and you'll know you're at another convenient BANK ONE location.

WE'RE ALWAYS AROUND THE CORNER,
AROUND THE CLOCK

We give you your first pizza FREE!

At BANK ONE, you get more than great banking service. Open any deposit account at BANK ONE* by October 30, and we'll give you a coupon for a free 12" one-item pizza from Domino's Pizza. Delivery's free, too. Enjoy!

If you need banking services that are fast, easy, and affordable stop by BANK ONE today. Because you'll always find us working harder for the Bucks!

*Available at campus area BANK ONE locations.
