Red China Premier Asks World Summit Conference

WASHINGTON, (P)-Communist China's Premier Chou En-Lai has sent a direct message to President Johnson proposing a world summit conference to outlaw nuclear weapons, the state department disclosed yesterday.

As a first step, the Chinese Communists said the summit conference should reach an agreement that nuclear powers and those which soon will become nuclear powers "Undertake not to use nuclear weapons, either against nonnuclear countries and nuclear-free zones or against each other."

While no formal reply has been made, both President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk have emphatically reiected the Peking proposal.

No Trades Now

Mr. Johnson said the Chinese Communist proposal "Fools no one when it offers to trade away its first small accumulation of nuclear power against the mighty arsenal of those who limit Chinese Communist am-

Both Mr. Johnson and Mr. Rusk have called upon Communist China to sign the Limited Test Ban Treaty banning nuclear explosions in the atmosphere.

In addition, Mr. Johnson said the United States would continue to work for a halt to all nuclear tests, underground as well as in the atmosphere and upper space, provided adequate safeguards to verify the suspension could be worked out.

Homecoming Fever Mounts As Queen Finalists Named

The count is in and the countdown has begun for the 1964 Homecoming Queen.

The five finalists are Pam Anderson, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Mary Jane Hendersan, Norton House; Bennie Michel, Pi Beta Phi; Betty Suttle, Delta Zeta and Pari Turner, Delta

The queen—the candidate receiving the most votes—will be announced at the homecoming dance Friday night at 10:15.

Record Still Stands

A total of 8,499 ballots were cast for queen, less than the record 1962 vote of 8,807, but 2,157 more than last year, Victor Frost, director of elections for Student Senate, said.

Heaviest balloting occurred at the booth on the Oval, 1,675, with the box at 15th and High placing second with Votes cast on plain paper at Royer Commons were counted, he said, allaying any fears that a shortage of ballots there would void any votes.

Weather Matters Little

"I am very gratified," Mr. Frost said of the turnout, "especially so because of the bad weather.

"I think the mock election may have stimulated some students to vote who normally do not."

In the perennial "joke-vote," a Sigma Pi write-in candidate (a male) received 18 votes ranking "her" above Lassie, the Beatles and Stan

One enthusiastic voter marked all the candidates on the queen's ballot and wrote on the bottom, "I am for girls." In a generous gesture three students accidentally cast their fee cards, Mr. Frost said, but they were not counted.

Geoffrey Hockman, homecoming general chairman, said he expects all 3,100 dance tickets to be sold, 600 more than were available last year.

He said he felt the shows at Mershon would keep the dance floor from overflowing — a source of criticism for the past several years.

Tickets will be sold at the Mershon ticket office from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and in Ohio Union Buckeye Suites H and I from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Any left will be available at the door.

Badger by the Tail

Decorations, based on the theme, "Happiness is a Badger by the Tail," will be judged from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Friday. Winners will be announced at the dance.

A parade and pep rally will preceed the dance. Beginning at 6:30 p.m., students will congregate at Neil and 11th Avenues, Iuka and Woodruff Avenues and the North Complex and join at the east end of the Oval before treking down to the Stadium for the rally.

Coach Woody Hayes and the football squad will be featured along with the Marching band and the queen

With Me? Nikita Asks; Nyet! Says Presidium

MOSCOW (P)—Five secret. policemen brought Nikita Khrushchev back fighting mad from his Black Sea vacation to the Communist Party meeting that threw him out of office, informed sources reported today.

The first tip Khrushchev had that the party central committee had assembled in Moscow came in a telephone call, possibly from Leonid I. Brezhnev, the man who suc ceeded him as First Party Secretary, they said.

The informants gave this account of the events that Someone telephoned Khrushchev at Gagra, a resort on the Black Sea, telling him to return to Moscow for a committee meeting on policy matters. Khrushchev angrily replied that he was First Secretary and would decide upon meetings. He could not be ordered around.

The secret police turned up at Gagra a short time later and five of them escorted Khrushchev to Moscow.

Khrushchev Outvoted

Mikhail Suslov presented the central committee an indictment of Khrushchev, charging both personal and policy shortcomings. Khrushchev lost the job of First Secretary, the Premiership and his seat on the Presidium.

Reports are circulating that Khrushchev is writing a paper, possibly a defense or self-criticism. It is doubtful a defense would be made known to the public.

No word has come from official sources as to where Khrushchev is now.

The Atomic Enegry Commission gave its approval yesterday to a plan which will enable Ohio State and 14 other midwestern universities to share in the operation and management of Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago.

University officials said the plan will give impetus to Ohio State's nuclear research program.

Dr. Harold Nielsen, director of Ohio State's physics department, said he does not yet know how the new management program will be set up, but "it will benefit us." Completes Agreement

He added that his department recently completed an agreement for limited use of Argonne's "zero gradient synchrotron" (sometimes called an atom smasher) and has been sharing the labortory for some time.

"With its adoption, Argonne will have much stronger ties with the region's great universities," he said.

Socialists Rap Chinese A-Test

Japan's Socialists told Red Chinese to their faces in Peking that he did not like Red China's first atomic test. Press reports said the Chinese sat for a time in stunned silence.

The statement was made Saturday by Tomomi Narita, secretary general of the party, at a banquet in Peking given the visting Japanese by the Japan-China Friendship Association. Japan's Socialists hitherto have been friendly with the Red Chinese.

Raps "Achievement"

The Japanese Socialist Secretary-General was prodded into replying at the banquet when Liao Cheng-Shih, Chairman of the Friendship Association praised the test Friday

Stony faced and apparently shocked, Narita replied:

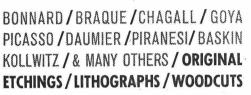

"Our antibomb movement is making great efforts to oppose nuclear tests by any country and is supported in its earnest desire for peace by the Japanese people, the only nation to suffer an atom bombing.

"Today, before the banquet, we expressed our opposition to the test and at the risk of being impolite, we repeat our opposition now.'

Follows Silence

After a stunned silence, Yo-miuri said Liao at first tried to make light of the statement, then said seriously:

Mr. Narita spoke out to reflect the wishes of the Japanese people. But please note that China made the test to meet the wishes of 650 million Chinese people. I propose that our Japanese Socialist friends study the Chinese statement

A Sicilian doctor has performed free operations to liberate five brothers from a world of darkness.

The brothers began reading kindergarten books with big letters and bright pictureswords were no longer raised bumps and pictures no longer 10,000 words.

Doctors let the Rotolos-Paolo 15, Carmelo 13, Gioachino 11, Giuseppe 9 and Calogero 4-read for only a few minutes the first day so they would not strain their hardwon eyesight.

WASHINGTON (A) - Politics is dominated by professionals, but there are always candidates who made their mark elsewhere.

Heading the political neophytes this year are a pair of Wilkinsons with college backgrounds seeking senate seats under the Republican banner. Both are given even chances of winning.

Bud Wilkinson, former highly successful football coach at the University of Oklahoma, is the GOP candidate in Oklahoma

Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson resigned as president of Brigham Young University to make the race in Utah.

College President

Another former college president bidding for office is Montana's Democratic gubernatorial candidate, Dr. Roland

And a lot of attention will be focussed on Arkansas where Winthrop Rockefeller, brothed of New York's Gov Rockefeller, makes his first try for elective office. He's the Republican candidate opposing Democratic Gov. Orval Faubus' bid for a sixth two-year term.

The Republican nominee is George Murphy, a song and dance man who crops up not infrequently on the late, late television show— especially if it's a musical. More recently he has been active in GOP affairs, including a stint as state party chairman.

The Democratic candidate is Sen. Pierre Salinger who was appointed to the seat following the death of Democratic Sen. Clair Engle earlier this year. He already had quit as White House press secretary and won the nomination when Engle died.

State legislatures are drawing candidates from nonpolitical fields, too.

Allie Reynolds, former star pitcher for the New York Yankees, a Democrat, is bidding for the state senate in his native Oklahoma.

John B. Conlon Jr., son of baseball impire Jocko Conlon, is a GOP candidate for the state senate in Arizona.

Lab Holds Open House

Ohio State's recently comleted Behavioral Sciences Laboratory will hold openhouse from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and tomorrow.

One of the most modern laboratories for social science research in the country, the laboratory is located in the east side of the Ohio Stadium.

Financed by past social science research grants, the new facility will greatly expand the pace of research in this field, according to Dr. Eugene Haas, director.

Two television cameras, a 24-channel audio tape recorder with remote control transcription panel, microphone positions capable of picking up 16 conversations simultaneously and one-way glass viewing panels are among the new laboratory's facilities.

Braves May Move To Atlanta In '65

The Milwaukee Braves took their first step yesterday in a projected move to Atlanta, Ga.

The team's board of directors has voted to ask the National League's permission to move to the southern city, beginning with the 1965 season.

The Braves were the first major league club in this century to transfer a franchise when they moved from Boston to Milwaukee in 1953.

There has been speculation for some time that the Braves were planning to move. Atlanta became the probable new home more than a year ago. Construction was begun on an $18 million stadium which is scheduled for completion by April.

Some 20 directors attended yesterday's meeting of the Braves' board in Chicago. Board chairman William Bartholomay was available only while entering and leaving the building. He had a stock answer to all questions—no comment.

Bartholomay and other club executives, including president John McHale, left immediately after the meeting for the Chicago Airport. They said they were going to New York for the National League meeting.

Legal action is expected immediately from civic groups and officials in Milwaukee. They have promised to fight against transfer of the franchise. Letters warning of such action have been sent to all top baseball

Disappearance Of The Choice

What has happened to the choice?

The Democrats were for medical care for the aged and Social Security. Mr. Goldwater, rebelling against the "Eastern Establishment," was against Social Security to offer us a choice, not an echo.

In 1956, Mr. Goldwater said "the inescapable and harmful by-product of such operations as Social Security . . . has been the weakening of the individual personality and of self-reliance." He reiterates the point in "Conscience of a Conservative."

In the New Hampshire primaries, Mr. Goldwater modified his views as expressed in the Nov. 24, 1964 New York Times Magazine, saying, "Social Security should be voluntary." When Rockefeller attacked the "voluntary" position in New Hampshire, Mr. Goldwater dropped that approach.

In the eight months since New Hampshire, Mr. Goldwater has stressed his support of Social Security. Mr. Miller even stated on his September "Meet The Press" appearance that Mr. Goldwater and he had always supported Social Security.

In South Dakota, at last week's National Corn Picking Contest, Mr. Goldwater declared his "unqualified support of the Social Security system," as well as the income tax and farm price supports.

In the ten-penny-press smear campaign books, such national efforts are labeled "socialistic," in some cases part of a Communist plot to capture us all. We wonder if the revised editions will tell us how the Kremlin took in Mr. Goldwater as they say it took in our last four

Spring quarter, girls living in residence halls were told they would be temporarily inconvenienced while the halls were repainted. It is now fall 'temporarily inconvenienced.'

Painting was supposed to have been completed over the summer, but residents of Siebert Hall returned to find only two floors completed. The remainder of the rooms have to be emptied and evacuated while this work continues.

Girls must now interrupt their midterm studying to move their belongings out of the room. They are being awakened at 7:30 a.m. and are losing all privacy for the duration of the painting so the painters can finish a job that was supposed to have been finished long ago.

We are paying for these rooms and feel that this "temporary inconvenience" has become a highly objectionable nuisance. We hope that in the future these projects will receive more careful planning in order to avoid the recurrence of such a situation.

It would appear that Mr. Metzger (letter to the editor, Oct. 19) is having a little trouble seeing the forest because of all the trees. The reasons for Senator Goldwater voting against education have been made perfectly clear by the Senator himself ("The child has no right to an education. In most cases, the children will get along very well with out it.").

The excuse Sen. Goldwater uses for his actions is the same tired old excuse that his southern brothers have been using for the last century to surpress the rights of Negroes, the Constitution of the United States. As the Senator put it: "Any federal aid program, however desirable it might appear, must be regarded as illegal until such a time as the Constitution is amended." (Conscience of a Conservative). This is, by the way, the same excuse he uses for voting no on foreign aid proposals, "The Foreign Aid Program is unconstitutional." (Conscience of a Conservative) and, for voting no on civil rights, "A civil right means only the right to vote." (Afro-American interview,

To the Editor: I wonder if it might be possible to have these two questions answered by "someone in the know." First, is there any particular reason why the Homecoming Dance is on a Friday night? It would seem to me that Friday night should be for anticipation for the game, instead of trying to crowd in a too-early rally and parade in front of the Dance. I feel that the Homecoming Dance should be a climax to a Homecoming Weekend, not a preparatory event, particularly for alumni.

Secondly, is there any particular reason why Free Day (during May Week) is on a Thursday? I think the reasons are obvious as to why it should on the Friday. Having it on Thursday seems to ruin any possibility of considering it a "gala weekend:" rather. the weekend seems anticlimac-

'The Blind Fear

To the Editor:

The result of the election returns of bumper stickers in the University parking lots was quite interesting (Refer to Oct. 20, Lantern p. 2). The faculty-staffs, who obviously are older and more experienced in things around us favored Johnson. The younger and less experienced students overwhelmingly favored Goldwatborn during or after World War II. Many faculty-staff members must have experienced the War directly or indirectly, although few probably suffered from actual bombing as civilians. Thus, the result seems to reflect the more strong feeling of many faculty-staffs than of students against a danger of nuclear war under Goldwater's leader-

The parallelism is almost shocking. But what the result reminds me is a Japanese proverb. It is a very appropriate one for those young students of OSU who are displaying Goldwater stickers on their cars: "The blind fears no snakes."

Goldwater called these bills socialistic - threats to our liberty. But when a billiondollar dam project was proposed for the state of Arizona Goldwater didn't consider this socialism. This was, apparently, "extremism is the defense of liberty" because Goldwater voted an emphatic 'yes.'

Each time Goldwater voted against an educational bill, he voted against each and every student at Ohio State. Yet. his vote for the Arizona dam project was an obvious vote for Barry Goldwater. It clear whose interests Goldwater seeks to defend.

Research Lag Diminishing

series on basic research at Ohio State, which is Ohio's principal center for basic educational research. Alfred B. Garrett, University vice president-research, discusses the problems of financing studies undertaken by Ohio State's scholars.)

By THOMAS G. BUCKHAM

Ohio State has gained a place among the top 15 U.S. universities in basic research activities, but it still is in the "second division" in the Big Ten, behind five other schools.

Ahead of Ohio State in volume of research for 1963-64 were Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Indiana.

There are many reasons for the lag. Chief among these is that "the value of basic research has never been suffici-ently appreciated" in Ohio, said Alfred B. Garrett, vice president-research at the University.

"Research is something new in the minds of many laymen, though the needs of living have grown greatly in the past 25 years," he explained.

Optimism About Future

Dr. Garrett said the University, though it lags slightly behind grant schools of several less prosperous states, is still Ohio's foremost center for basic educational research.

Optimistic about Ohio State's future in research, he said the University's standing will improve with the expansion of the "relatively young" Graduate School.

Dr. Garrett believes there also is a growing interest in Ohio in regard to the potential benefits of research to the state. "The Ohio Research and Development Commission was organized not long ago, and many cities have units such as chambers of commerce that now recognize the importance of basic research to industrial development," Dr. Garrett

Positive Influence

"These organizations can exert a positive influence on the legislature that could cause it to provide more money for research studies so essential to the great university of the state.'

Dr. Garrett sees the reluctance of the Ohio legislature -like many legislatures-to appropriate sufficient money for training graduate students, as evidence of the layman's lingering doubt about the value of research studies. This reluctance is a major stumbling block for recruiting of development of the research arm of Ohio State.

"Only 10 per cent of the money used in formal research in the U.S. is appropriated by state legislatures," he said. "In Ohio, we get only five

Small Appropriations

"The state ought to be car. rying much more of a burden in the education of our graduate students.' Dr. Garrett said Ohio State has been getting even small appropriations from the Ohio General Assembly for formal research "for only six to eight years. This amounts to only five per cent of the cost of training our graduate students through research." Ohio State got $600,000 from the legislature in 1963-64.

"When money does come from the state," Dr. Garrett said, "about half of it is earmarked for medical research The reason is historical: legislators like to be able to pinpoint where money is going. They don't like to allot money to general research, without knowing just how it is to be

Money Well Spent

He believes Ohio State's share of appropriations has been well spent. "It has been used as seed money, to establish new research programs," he said. "Examples are the Polar Studies Institute, the Institute of Vision and the Hawthorne Project of the English department.

'The institutes are run on an interdisciplinary basis, so that a team of researchers from different parts of the campus can study various facets of the same problem. These persons then conceive projects, which often bring in a lot of money from the outside."

Obstacle to Hurdle

Dr. Garrett said Ohio State must hurdle the financial obstacle to gain predominance in educational research.

"Michigan has 8,000 graduate students, we have 5,000. Michigan also has more departments with scholars doing research," he said, adding that Ohio State's grad students are already doing more research in some areas—chemistry, for instance-than those at Michi-

"If we doubled the number of graduate students, with a proportionate increase in funds, we could be doing around $30 million of research year," Dr. Garrett said.

"We're catching up, but we have a long way to go."

When the food sellers sold spoiled food, the towns met privately to agree on the inspection of food. "Let us save money," they said, "by having one food inspector to work privately for all of us." And they did.

One half of the island had only road machines; the other half had machine-operators. The halves met privately and asked to work together to build all the island's roads. They did so, and the people were happy.

When the large private army became poor, they said, "Let us all pay dues to support the common defense. To save, let us bring the food, road and army people under one agency, and guide them more efficiently with a single private effort."

Wisely they thus worked together. The private agency grew as they and their problems grew. They built a great island and the agency had great power.

Army Colonels Disagree

Senator Condemns Draft

By JANET DUNCAN

Two local military men and a Wisconsin senator have emerged as noteworthy combatants in the election year end-the-draft issue.

The issue reached nationwide college campuses when Wisconsin senator Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., wrote to leading Universities across the nation explaining his antidraft position.

At Ohio State, however, Sen. Nelson's view's have been challenged by the Army ROTC commanding officer, Col. Curry N. Vaughan.

Draft Dodgers

"Men often enlist to escape being drafted," said Col. Vaughan. "If the draft were ended, we would lose not only the drafted men, but many who enlist."

Col. William P. Richardson, in charge of manpower recruitment for the Selective Service System in Columbus, said: "If anyone tells me that this is a country of volunteers, let them prove it."

The young eligible men of America will have to be offered "alternatives of high consequence" to attract them to the service, he said. Otherwise, the number of volunteers will dwindle, Col. Richardson added.

Five Reasons

Sen. Nelson has listed five reasons for ending the draft.

• The system is "unjust and unequitable," since 42 per cent of the eligible men do not serve.

• It creates hardships on young men who are afraid to make career and marriage.

make career and marriage plans not knowing if or when they will be drafted.

• It is militarily inefficient in that the draft is a poor in that the draft is a poor source of professional servicemen.

• It is a waste of money and manpower.

 The draft is "not necessary and could be eliminated by 1967 if we begin now to develop an alternative program."

Alternative Plan

These views were set forth in a June issue of the "Congressional Record" after Sen. Nelson asked that Secretary of Defense McNamara present an alternative plan to the draft.

_49.95 and up

"Our military manpower need is about 2.7 million men. Today, there are more than 1.4 million youths reaching the age of 18 each year," he added. "No more than 670,000 of these men are needed for military service."

Colonel Disagrees

The draft is calling only 90,000 men per year out of more than one million who are eligible, he noted.

"We simply do not need all the men eligible for the draft," Sen. Nelson said. Col. Richardson disagrees.

Draft Is Inefficient

"The percentage of rejections in Ohio varies by month from 38 to 50 per cent for physical, mental, or moral reasons," Col. Richardson said.

Others who are ineligible include: students, veterans, fathers, over-age men (26½ years is the maximum age), and married men (who are eligible only after all single men have been called.) att took are

The draft is militarily inefficient, Sen. Nelson said, because "at the present time 97 out of 100 draftees leave the service as quickly as they can at the end of their tours."

Monetary Reward

He added that, "a great mass of untrained men, waiting to get out, is of little value to the Armed Forces during no a crisis."

Sen. Nelson pointed out that while 600,000 World War II veterans were called back for the Korean War, 1,600,000 men of draft age were not called.

In the area of monetary reward, Col. Vaughan says that a recruit makes $78 per month, base pay.

Increase Enlistments

A graduate of the four-year ROTC receives a commission as Second Lieutenant and his base pay per month is $241.20.

Sen. Nelson stated that in Canada, a private receives a minimum of $112 per month, and this amount may go as high as $202 per month, if the recruit has any special skills.

"I am convinced that if we were willing to offer realistic salaries to newly enlisted recruits, we could dramatically increase the flow of enlistments from our vast manpower pool," Sen. Nelson said.

Increase in Pay

Before the draft issue comes up for vote before Congress in 1967, Sen. Nelson wants available "an alternative plan including revisions in entrance requirements, increases in pay at vlower levels, increased fringe benefits, revised recruiting standards and a study of all techniques to reduce the number of men needed in military service."

Sen. Nelson is certain that a sufficient number of volunteers could be gotten if the draft were ended.

draft were ended.

In his words, "The numbers of volunteers could greatly be increased if we would simply do two things: pay more realistic salaries and adopt more realistic standards of eligibility."

Security Is Tightened

WASHINGTON (P)—In the wake of the Jenkins case, all staff employes of the White House have been asked to fill out new security applications.

Blushing Males Leave Lounge

By SANDY WEISBROD

Following some slight redecorations at the Ohio State School of Journalism, what once was a front hall is now the ladies' lounge. More than one male has been trapped—and rushed out red-faced.

Non-Partisan!

An Ohio State professor has a sign on his small foreign car that reads, "Allons avec l'Eau d'Or" (which every French-speaking person knows means "Rise up and go with the water of gold.") When liberals question this professor's "objectivity" he says, "I don't speak French but I think that sign says, "Watch out for low doors!"

Two for Nothing

An optometry major tried to fool the Ohio State Police by putting an old parking ticket under his windshield wiper. The police removed the ticket and left two new ones in its place.

Rag Mop?

One of the old curmudgeons on the Ohio State faculty offers this: "The modern girl's hair looks like a mop. But it doesn't bother her, because she doesn't know what a mop looks like."

Itchy Executive

An inquisitive male kept receiving the same parking ticket day after day. The stubborn student decided to play the game as long as the campus police would—he saw no reason why he wasn't supposed to park in the "restricted" area. A few days later he came out of class to find his car gone. In a fury he went to the Student Service Building and found out he had been parking in an "E" zone. It was the parking space reserved for a vice-president of the University.

Jim Davis, president of Park Hall, suggested having two representatives, a student and an administration or faculty member.

Others opposed the plan, saying the city nad the University are not inter-depend-"We have our own government, police force, hospital and so forth," said Larry Fitzgerald, a freshman in the College of Engineering.

"City Council so raely takes action directly affecting the University that the proposal would lead to a lot of wasted motion," said Dennis A. Horazak, president of Scott House.

William L. Currie, director of Men's Residence Halls-North, said: "The representative obviously couldn't have a vote, so he wouldn't be doing anything that couldn't be done by the student body president or University president whenever Council considers matters important to Ohio State."

Some also said that if the University got a representative, every minority group in the city would want one, and the situation would snowball. No students on either side thought Council representation would prevent student demonstrations alt ogether. Some said students "might think twice before rioting" if they were represented, how-

Campus Projects Keep Ohio Staters, Inc., Busy

What is Ohio Staters, Inc.? "Instant Man-Power," or so say its members

Non-Profit

Ohio Staters, Inc., founded in 1933, is a non-profit service organization designed to aid the campus community with helpful and interesting pro-

The organization, made up of 30 students, nine faculty members, and five alumni, was founded by nine men who had been members or friends of the Boost Ohio Club.

charter of corporation as a non-profit organization by the State of Ohio.

The 1936 Makio reported that the Ohio Staters sponsored "several mammoth rallies, High School Day, spring carnival, and educational sound films".

Through the years the active pace of the Ohio Staters has not declined. The group's public relations director, Steve Demmy, explains that "because of the great amount of work involved for each member, we call it the best fivehour on campus."

Meets Weekly

There are eight standing committees within the organization and each member must serve on at least two. Every committee meets once a week and the entire organization at a luncheon every Thursday.

Prospective members are screened and selected after. their fourth quarter at the University. Membership is open to all male students who have at least a point-hour ratio of 2.0 and who have demonstrated an interest and a desire to be of service to the University.

The screening consists of one quarter probationary period during which the new member must submit an idea that could be used as a project for the group.

Long-term Projects

Among the long-term pro-jects that have been initiated by Ohio Staters are, the Football Appreciation Banquet each fall, travel service to away games, and tours abroad. In 1939 the Staters sponsored the development and adoption of an official University crest. In 1951, they rejuvenated the student flash card section at football games which evolved into the present Block "O".

The Student Leader Ende ment Fund was initiated by the Staters and the group is still its main contributor. The fund makes an annual award to potential campus leaders who would otherwise have to work instead of participating in student activities.

In 1955, the Staters worked with the senior class to provide the large metal signs that identify the campus.

'PA' System

The "Rally Wagon" is another Staters' brain storm. It solves the problem of an

On March 2, 1935, Ohio effective campus PA system, Staters, Inc. was issued a and is available to all student organizations on a rental

To provide advertising space for student organizations, the Staters set up the announcement board at 15th and High, and the three-sided "Kiosk" boards in front of Derby Hall, Hagerty Hall and the H & F Building.

The Ohio Staters, Inc. finance their projects through the sale of marching band records and seat cushions at home football games.

Flight Planned

On the agenda for this year is a student charter flight to Europe along with the established project of European tours.

Also the Staters hope to open more language houses on campus as they did with the French House this quarter.

This year the group will continue the Student Loan Fund, which is a $50 award given to the outstanding scholar in each of the five undergraduate colleges.

Rose Bowl?

One other project could be a trip to the Rose Bowl, if the Buckeyes are selected.

The group is a non-profit organization. Mr. Demmy said, "Our pay is knowing that a project is done."

No Equal Time Needed, FCC Tells Republicans

WASHINGTON (P) - The forth the foreign policy of Federal Communications Commission yesterday said President Johnson's report to the nation on the inter-national scene Sunday night was an act of office that did not require broadcasting networks to offer free and equal time to other Presidential candidates.

The ruling was announced Monday, but the FCC's explanation came today in a letter to Dean Burch, chairman of the Republican National Committee. One commissioner-Rosel Hvde-dissented from the finding.

Mr. Burch has said he will file suit to overturn the FCC decision.

The commission said that 'the events on which the President reported-the replacement of the head of state of the Soviet Union and the explosion of a nuclear device by Communist China-are news events of an extraordinary na-

States Opinion

The statement of opinion went on: "We think that the networks could properly determine that the President's report, expressing the U.S. government's policy in relation to those events, was a spot news event . . . that it was not only a report to the nation setting forth the government's position, but that it also advised other nations as to that position and the response of the United States to the events.

"In short, we think that the networks could reasonably conclude that statements setting this country by its chief executive in his official capacity constitute news in the statutory sense. Simply stated, they are an act of office of the President of the United

- Intelligence.
- Sincere concern for peo-
- Genuine willingness to assume responsibility.

These three principle characteristics make a good leader, according to Dr. Grant A. Shrum, director of the National 4-H Club Foundation.

Dr. Shrum, speaking to a leadership conference last night in the Agriculture Administration Auditorium, spoke on the topic, "YOUth and Leadership." His speech was sponsored by the Agriculture and Home Economics College Council.

"A successful leader should be able to appraise situations readily and be able to take the cue to the likely line of wise action," Dr. Shrum said.

He said that good leaders enjoy being with others and try to understand their needs and interests.

Dr. Shrum told his audience of students and faculty member's that as leaders, their ex-mediately east of the stadium will be closed Friday, Oct. 23, according to Campus Security Officer Joe S. Webb.

Mr. Webb said the lot from the 18th Ave. extension to the "C" area will be closed for the entire day to allow preparation for Friday night's bonfire and pep rally.

The flow of traffic on the Fyffe Road extension will be altered in the near future. South of Lane Ave. three lanes of Fyffe Road will be for north-bound traffic. The right lane will be for right turns only, the left lane for left turns only; and the middle lane will be fore through traf-fic to Buckeye Village.

The Fyffe Road extension to Buckeye Village should be open for use sometime in November, according to Walter L. Hartman, assistant director of the physical plant.
