Whitewater's McDougal acquitted of embezzling

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Whitewater figure Susan McDougal was acquitted Monday of embezzling from conductor Zubin Mehta and his wife — a case she said was trumped up to pressure her to testify against President Clinton.

"The jurors saw through it," Ms. McDougal exulted after the jury acquitted her on all nine counts, including forgery and failure to pay state income taxes. The jury deliberated for parts of four days.

McDougal

Ms. McDougal, 44, was accused of stealing $50,000 from Mehta and his wife, Nancy, when she worked as bookkeeper and personal assistant to Mrs. Mehta from 1989 to 1992. She could have gotten up to four years in prison.

"It was such a crazy story to have someone believe this woman (Mrs. Mehta) could be so vile as to do this and I was afraid people wouldn't believe me," Ms. McDougal said.

The case took five years to get to trial. By that time, Ms. McDougal had become famous, hailed by many as a hero for her steadfast refusal to testify against her friend Clinton before the Whitewater grand jury. It was a decision that cost her 18 months in jail for contempt.

In addition, Ms. McDougal served 3 1/2 months of a two-year sentence in a Whitewater-related loan fraud case. She was released because of a painful back condition.

Also convicted were her late ex-husband James McDougal and former Arkansas Gov. Jim Guy Tucker. She still faces prosecution in Arkansas for her refusal to testify in the Whitewater case.

The California case played out as a Hollywood-style subplot of the scandal in Washington, even though the jurors were warned by the judge not to consider her Whitewater involve-

Bucks need help to get into Fiesta

From staff and wire reports

Ohio State didn't get much help this weekend.

With Wisconsin beating Penn State, the Rose Bowl slipped out of the Buckeye's hands, and all the teams currently ahead of OSU in the latest BCS standings either won or didn't play.

The Bucks moved to sixth place, just one spot closer to the No. 2 spot needed to play in the national championship game.

For OSU to get back into national title contention, Texas A&M must lose to Texas on Friday, UCLA must lose to Miami on Dec. 5, Kansas State must lose in the Big 12 title game, and Tennessee must lose to either Vanderbilt this weekend or in the SEC title game.

Kansas State is running out of time in its bid to get into the Fiesta Bowl.

Tennessee remained in first place in the latest Bowl Championship Series standings, while UCLA increased its lead over the Wildcats for the second spot in the Fiesta, where the national title will be on the line.

K-State (11-0), which has the week end off, completes its regular season on Dec. 5, when it plays Texas A&M in the Big 12 title game. UCLA (10-0) also is off this weekend before its season finale against Miami.

Tennessee (10-0), it appears, can clinch a berth in the Fiesta Bowl by winning its final two games — against Vanderbilt (2-8) on Saturday and either Arkansas or Mississippi State in the SEC title game on Dec. 5.

If the top three teams continue to win, the Wildcats would need lots of help in the strength-of-schedule department, which is part of the BCS formula for determining the top teams. K-State's schedule is ranked 62nd, while UCLA's is rated eighth and Tennessee's 14th.

This weekend, the Wildcats will be

BCS Standings

The two teams that finish the season first and second in the BCS standings will play in the Fiesta Bowl for the National Championship. Fewer points equal higher ranking.

2. UCLA	5.07	2
3. Kansas State	6.31	3
4. Florida State	8.20	4
5. Texas A&M	12.52	6

rooting for Syracuse to beat Miami (which would weaken UCLA's schedule) and Texas A&M to beat Texas (which would strengthen K-State's).

The BCS standings are calculated by using The Associated Press media poll and the coaches' poll, three computer rankings, strength-of-schedule and number of losses.

Tennessee, ranked No. 1 in the AP poll, had 4.39 points. The Vols beat Kentucky 59-21 on Saturday.

UCLA, after a 34-17 win over USC, had 5.07 points.

Kansas State, a 31-25 winner over Missouri, had 6.31 points.

Last week, the Wildcats trailed the Bruins by .74 points. This week, the difference is 1.24 points.

Florida State, with 8.20 points, was in fourth place, followed by Texas A&M, OSU, Arizona, Florida, Notre Dame and Wisconsin.

The final BCS standings will be released on Dec. 6, and determine only who plays in the Fiesta Bowl on Jan. 4.

Dow hits record, rises 214 points

Rebound from summer losses linked to mergers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow surged to a new high Monday, capping a nearly 2,000-point rebound from the summer's scary slide as merger fever returned to the stock market.

Extending a nearly nonstop rally that began less than two months ago, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 214.72 points to 9,374.27, topping the July 17 record of 9,337.97.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index also set its first record since July. But most broad-market indexes remained shy of new highs as smaller-company stocks continued to lag behind the blue chips that dominate the Dow and S&P 500.

The rally came as a series of billion-dollar takeovers and negotiations for two blockbusters deals signaled a return to the merger frenzy that energized the market back in the spring and early summer.

Financial shares rose as Germany's Deutsche Bank said it is discussing the final details of $9 billion deal to take over New York-based Bankers Trust, and Internet shares led the technology group higher as America Online said it may buy Netscape Communications in a $4 billion deal.

While the sudden spurt of merger activity helped spark Monday's rally, analysts said it was the renewed confidence in the stock market that had hatched Monday's dealings.

"It spells real faith in the long-term strength of the marketplace," said Arthur Hogan, chief market analyst at Jefferies & Co., noting that most of Monday's deals would be paid for with stock rather than cash.

"If you're taking over for stock, it means you believe your stock is as good as currency, that the value of your stock is going to be at or near that price for some time," Hogan said.

The return to record terrain follows a volatile four-month journey that took the Dow, an index of 30 major companies, as low as 7,400 on Sept. 1 and to 7,467 on Oct. 8, the day the market's recovery began.

But the rebound has been so continuous and so rapid — the Dow hasn't fallen as much as 100 points since Oct. 1 — that many analysts are growing fearful of another sharp selloff.

"We've got a mania for stocks right now and you can't really make a rational explanation for what we have witnessed over the last six weeks," said Richard A. Dickson, a technical analyst at Scott & Stringfellow in Richmond, Va., noting that economic and financial instability overseas still pose a big risk.

Before the rebound began, it had seemed that the spread of financial turmoil around the world would send Wall Street to its first losing year since 1990. Now, several major indexes are poised to extend an unprecedented streak of three straight years with gains of 20 percent or more.

Iraq says inspector created crisis

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq accused the chief U.N. weapons inspector Monday of fabricating a new crisis over its weapons programs. Meanwhile, Iraqi television reported that a powerful official had escaped an assassination attempt.

Deputy Foreign Minister Riyadh al-Qaisi said Richard Butler's request for weapons-related documents takes Iraq back to "square one" in its effort to end crippling sanctions imposed by the U.N. Security Council after Iraq invaded Kuwait in 1990.

"Why is it that now Mr. Butler is requesting all over again the same requests that were made in the past?" al-Qaisi asked.

"All we have, we gave. All we don't have, we stated we don't have," he told a news conference.

Butler asked last week for documents on Iraq's arms program and information on its biological weapons program — the field U.N. inspectors say they have the most questions about. Iraq has balked at the request, calling it an attempt to reignite a crisis.

"What do we see? No light at the end of the tunnel. What we see is the light of a locomotive coming head on at Iraq," al-Qaisi said.

His comments were the latest in a dispute that has raised again the specter of an attack on Iraq, days after Iraq narrowly averted airstrikes by allowing U.N. weapons experts to resume their inspections.

Iraqi TV said Monday that assailants had lobbed two grenades at Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's deputy as he got out of his car to attend a religious festival Sunday in southern Iraq.

Izzat Ibrahim, Saddam's deputy on the powerful Revolutionary Command Council, escaped the attack without injury, Iraqi TV reported. Several bodyguards and bystanders were wounded, it said.

In Washington, Defense Secretary William Cohen said that the United States could still attack Iraq if it did not fully cooperate with the inspectors.

There are about 24,000 U.S. troops, about 210 aircraft and one aircraft carrier still in the Persian Gulf region.

Iraq reversed its two-week ban on the work of U.N. inspectors on Nov. 14 when faced with imminent airstrikes by U.S. and British forces.

The inspectors returned last week and, with the cooperation of the Iraqi government, they have since made daily visits to sites that could be used to build weapons of mass destruction.

Inspectors must certify that Iraq has eliminated its nuclear, chemical and biological weapons, long-range missiles and the programs to build them before the Security Council can lift the sanctions, which have caused widespread malnutrition, hunger and poverty in the once-prosperous Arab country.

Huntington Club offers luxury at Schottenstein

By Charles D'Andrea

Inside the Schottenstein Center, past the terrazzo floors and up the stairway to the mezzanine, The Huntington Club can be found.

This upscale concourse, for which Huntington Banc Inc. paid $5 million for the naming rights, provides a luxurious dining and drinking atmosphere during Schottenstein Center events. The club is available only to patrons who pay $45,000 to $65,000 annually for a hospitality suite, $4,000 for a personal seat license and arena donors and their guests.

With the Ohio State women's and men's basketball seasons under way and after several concerts, including Neil Diamond and Billy Joel, some members of the club are giving rave reviews.

"I enjoy the whole atmosphere here, with all the different concessions that they have, the carpeting, all the places to sit and eat — the whole deal," said Randy Miller, a chief financial officer for a distribution company and hospitality suite ticket holder.

Sue McBroom, a math teacher in Pickerington, agreed.

"The spaciousness and variety is great. And you can have a beer here," she said.

During events at the arena, fans of legal age can buy their Budweiser, Coors or select Sutter Homes wines from one of the club's 13 concession

Academic Affairs fills administrative positions

By Shannon Wingard
Lantern staff writer

When Edward Ray was appointed as Ohio State's new executive vice president and provost, he undertook the responsibility of reorganizing the Office of Academic Affairs and its administrative positions.

Ray fulfilled the responsibility by appointing four people as vice provosts, two men to interim positions and a new position for a director of communications for academic affairs.

Ray said his goal is to "maintain Ohio State's momentum and elevate even higher the primacy of the academic mission of the university."

Serving as the vice provost for academic program coordination and initiatives, L. Alayne Parson will become the senior vice provost for academic administration. She will coordinate contact between the vice presidents for agricultural administration, health sciences and research and will oversee the Selective Investment/Academic Enrichment Program.

"I will be acting in the role of chief deputy for Ed Ray and will assist in taking actions on the university's goals, especially that of enhancing the quality of our academic programs," Parson said. "I am excited about the changes and about working with Ed, the other vice provosts and the deans in my new role."

Nancy M. Rudd, who served as the vice provost for academic policy and personnel since 1992, will become the vice provost for academic policy and human resources.

"I have been partnering with the Office of Human Resources on a number of endeavors, including leadership development, during the past few years," Rudd said. "Specific goals necessarily will emerge over time as a consequence of considerable interaction with faculty, staff and administrators."

Larry Lewellen, associate vice president for human resources, will help Rudd coordinate contact with the Office of Human Resources.

"We will work together on the full range of compensation and benefits policies, other policies related to work life, and leadership development and training programs that affect faculty and staff at the university," Rudd said. "We want to assure that our human resources policies and our leadership development and training programs are designed to contribute optimally to the achievement of the university's academic goals."

Martha M. Garland, former dean of academic affairs, will assume the expanded position of vice provost and dean of undergraduate studies. She will work with Mac Stewart, the associate provost for undergraduate studies and the dean of University College, in collaboration with the Office of Student Affairs and other degree-granting colleges, to improve student advising and freshman orientation programs. Garland served as the co-chairwoman to a 46-member committee on the undergraduate experience.

The new position of vice provost for curriculum and institutional relations will be assumed by W. Randy Smith. He was the Provost's Faculty Fellow from 1994 to 1997 and he holds a faculty appointment in the Department of Geography. He was the chairman for the self-study committee for the university wide reaccreditation and was honored as one of the first recipients of the Distinguished University Service Award.

Parson said Smith's new position will involve "working closely with the Council on Academic Affairs and units proposing changes in their academic programs."

Dave Ferguson will become the director of communications for academic affairs and will oversee academic communications and marketing.

Two national searches will begin for positions in academic affairs. James F. Davis, the associate provost and director of University Technology Services, will become the interim chief information officer until the position is filled permanently. William A. Baeslack III will remain the interim vice president for research until the national search is completed, presumably by autumn 1999.

"President Kirwan is clear in his desire to put the finest possible academic experience at the top of the university's priorities—for faculty and students," Ray said. "The reorganization of the central administration is focusing our resources and energies in ways that will help us achieve our common vision under Dr. Kirwan's leadership."

stands and four bars. But don't try taking it to your seat.

Those who buy an alcoholic beverage have to sit at one of the numerous dining areas that encircle the arena. An array of televisions, however, guarantee the fans won't miss a basket, goal or body slam.

Some concerts and events will have fewer restrictions. Alcohol will be sold throughout the arena and can be taken to all seats. The policy will vary for each event.

"With a new facility, we are going to take a responsible approach, and judge whether to serve beer at non-scholastic sporting events, case-by-case," said Leslie Lane, director of marketing.

Alcohol, however, will always be available in The Huntington Club.

The arena features four bars, one in each corner, complete with bartenders and televisions. At halftime in the men's basketball debut against the World Wide All-Stars, many suit-and-tie businessmen were having a beer in one of the bars.

The televisions were tuned to C-Span during intermission.

Patrons who don't want hot dogs and nachos with their beer can select from a menu exclusive to the club. Fans can choose, for example, "The Schott" corned beef sandwich, "TBD-BITL" turkey sandwich and Irish cream pie.

The club includes two private banquet and meeting rooms. Companies can reserve the rooms in advance for fine dining or business meetings, said Justin Doyle, the marketing and promotions manager at the arena.

"Although the fancy rooms, adorned in marble and wood, may draw some businesses and alumni groups, they are not trying to compete with the convention centers in the area. Our main concern is the arena and its events," Lane said.

With all The Huntington Club amenities, some ticket holders think some seats could go empty during a game.

"My concern is that people will get too much into drinking... It's so comfortable [in the club], and with the alcohol, not being able to take it [to your seat], I think there are going to be times when people will wind up spending the whole game out here, instead of down in the seats cheering on the team," Miller said.

ment or any possible ulterior motives on the prosecution's part.

Outside the jury's presence, defense attorney Mark Geragos said Kenneth Starr had promised to make the embezzlement charges go away if Ms. McDougal would testify. When she refused, he alleged, Starr "propped up" the case and urged prosecutors to move on the defendant.

"Tell Ken Starr we're coming home and this time we're fighting back," Ms. McDougal's fiancé, Pat Harris, said after the verdict.

In the Santa Monica courtroom, however, Ms. McDougal's adversary was not Starr but Mrs. Mehta, a former actress.

Mrs. Mehta insisted that she never gave her assistant permission to sign checks or credit card receipts, and portrayed their relationship as strictly business.

Asked if she knew Ms. McDougal was signing receipts on a joint credit card in both their names, she replied firmly, "No, never," and said she didn't even know the card existed.

Documents produced by the defense appeared to contradict that, with her own signature showing up on the same card for some $30,000 worth of goods.

Ms. McDougal painted a different picture of their relationship. She described her employer as a sister-like friend who showered her with gifts. She said they became inseparable, lunching together in fine restaurants and shopping "like tornadoes" at the best stores in Beverly Hills.

Eventually, Ms. McDougal moved into the Mehta home.

She portrayed Mrs. Mehta as a lonely woman whose husband traveled abroad most of the year and left her to manage their finances.

In a climactic appearance, Mehta flew to Los Angeles from Munich, interrupting a concert schedule to testify that his wife was not a compulsive shopper and that their spending habits should not be on trial.

But he admitted whatever he knew of the family finances was told to him by his wife.

*NOTE: CLASSES STARTING ON WEDNESDAY OR THURSDAY, and meeting for more than one hour, are treated as exceptions and must schedule their exams according to the SECOND HOUR of class.

Students should confirm examination periods for individual classes with each instructor before making other commitments during finals week. Instructors shall announce any approved deviation to the published final examination schedule during the first week of classes and make appropriate arrangements for students with exam conflicts created by such deviation.

Classes starting with Monday or Tuesday in the meeting days must use the first hour of the class period to determine their final examination time.

Classes starting with Wednesday or Thursday in the meeting days, and meeting for more than 1 hour, should use the second hour of the class period in determining the exam hour. For example, a class that meets on WRF from 1:30 to 3 p.m. should use 2:30 p.m. instead of 1:30 p.m. to determine the time for the final exam. Wed will use the mwf above and Thur will use tr above.

Classes starting on Wednesday or Thursday for one hour may have a conflict with M or T classes. Contact the Instructor or the Scheduling Office to determine conflicts.

For classes that meet on Friday or Saturday only, instructors should ask their department scheduling contact to arrange a time and a room for the final exam.

Classes that meet on the hour are assumed to have started at the beginning of the previous half hour. Thus, a MWF 8:00 a.m. class will have the same exam time as a MWF 7:30 a.m. class.

COMMON EVENING FINAL EXAMS

Common final examinations will be given as an exception to the listed schedule when approved by department chairpersons, deans, and the Scheduling Office, and an announcement is made to the class during the first week of classes that a common final exam will be given. Conflicts generated by Common Final examinations must be resolved by the departments concerned.

Common final examinations are restricted to evening hours of 5:30 - 7:18 p.m. and 7:30 - 9:18 p.m. during the first three days of the examination period. All requests for Common Finals should have College and Departmental approval and be submitted in writing to the Scheduling Office by January 29, 1998.

EVENING CLASSES

Classes that start at 5:30 p.m. or after are scheduled for a two-hour final exam at class time on the first class meeting day that falls within finals week. Classes in large rooms may need to move to a 5:30- or 7:30 start time.

Instructors Note: For evening classes that meet for less than two hours, and start at 5:30 p.m. or after, but before 7:30 p.m., survey your students for a possible conflict with another class. Should a problem exist, reach an acceptable alternate time with the entire class and contact your department chairperson to initiate a request to the Scheduling Office (292-1616) for a change of final exam time.

WEEKEND EXAMINATIONS

Weekend University courses should have their final examinations on the last class meeting date in the regularly scheduled classroom.

OSU LIMA, MANSFIELD, MARION, NEWARK, AND ATI EXAMINATIONS
The final examination schedule for OSU Lima, Mansfield, Marion, Newark, and ATI will be published separately by each campus office.

Ohio Union to face more change

By Diane Firlik
Lantern staff writer

A shake-up among Ohio Union businesses continues with the replacement of the Newsstand by two new businesses.

At the beginning of winter quarter, Cinnamon Street Bakery and Freshens Frozen Yogurt and Smoothies will replace the Newsstand on the second floor of the Ohio Union.

"The Newsstand was a fixture for quite some time," said Samantha Cothorn, an associate director for the union. "But it was hard to keep products that people were interested in there."

The decision to close the Newsstand was made after H and H Smith Co. came to Frank Gencur, an associate director of the union, and asked to move to the spot.

"I really liked having the Newsstand at the union," Andrea Putt, a senior majoring in women's studies, said. "It was convenient to grab a drink or a snack."

The Newsstand, run by the union, had not earned a profit in several years. Gencur said in the fiscal year ending June 30, the Newsstand lost around $12,000.

"We realized a lot of what the Newsstand was carrying was duplicated by State Discount," Gencur said. "We wanted a service that would be unique to the union."

Kirby Hsu, a spokesman for H and H Smith Co., said his company saw the need for a desert/snack product in the union following the departure of Velvet Ice Cream.

Hsu said Freshens will sell a variety of smoothies and frozen yogurt. Cinnamon Street Bakery will sell cinnamon rolls that are still warm, Hsu said.

A specialty of Cinnamon Street Bakery is "Cinnibabies." This is a cup full of seven mini cinnamon rolls that are easy to eat on the run, Hsu said.

Mike Ku, a senior civil engineering major, said the new businesses sound like they should prove successful.

"The union needs some place where students can get a desert," Ku said.

The administrative duties the Newsstand once provided will still be available to students. Gencur said that keys to student organization offices will again be available at that location. Information, including daily activities at the union, will also be available at Freshens and Cinnamon Street. The information about the activities will be furnished to the employees of the businesses so they can answer visitors' questions, Gencur said.

Freshens and Cinnamon Street will offer about 15 jobs for students, said Hsu.

"Opening franchises on campus allows us to support the student population," Hsu said.

There are still openings at Chick-Fil-A and Steak Escape, which are also owned by H and H Smith Co., and were recently opened in the building, he said.

There are two more changes to be made in the union, Gencur said. UPS, which will occupy the space across from Sbarro, should open sometime in December. Wall Street Deli, which will replace Perks, will begin operation in January. This will complete the changes planned for this academic year.

Groups' priority: Reduce campus crime over holidays

By Jennifer Brewer
Lantern staff writer

When Mark Hogan left his Morrill Tower dorm room for Thanksgiving break four years ago, he never thought his room would be burglarized.

"I came back from break and found a huge hole in my door," Hogan said. "Somebody had actually taken an axe or a hammer and beaten through the door."

Luckily, Hogan said, only a few compact discs were taken from his room.

To reduce experiences like Hogan's, Campus Partners is working with the Columbus Division of Police, University Police and Community Crime Patrol to fight crime in the university area during the holidays.

"When students go on break between quarters, there is always an increase in property crime and thefts," said Columbus police Cmdr. Paul S. Denton.

Last spring, Denton charged Columbus police officer Terry Perrigo to design a plan to increase safety during breaks. Perrigo used police cars and officers dressed in plain clothes to patrol the off-campus areas, which resulted in a reduction of crime trends, Denton said.

William H. Hall, chairman of the Campus Partners Safety Coordinating Committee and assistant vice president for housing, food services and event centers, said the success of the effort last spring prompted his committee to ask the police agencies to plan a joint effort for this December.

The committee sought advice from students to develop a burglary prevention campaign, he said.

"With a unique and unprecedented response from the OSU police department, we'll have officers from the campus police patrolling with our officers off-campus," Denton said.

Police will patrol the area between King Avenue on the south side of campus to Arcadia Avenue on the north side, and from North High Street east to the railroad tracks near the state fairgrounds, Perrigo said.

"The specific target date is between Dec. 14 and Jan. 4, but cooperative efforts are ongoing," Hall said.

University Police Chief Ron Michalec said OSU police became involved because he believed it their duty to help students prevent burglaries.

"I thought it might be good if we extended our services to enhance safety east of High Street," he said.

The increased patrols will not require additional officers, Michalec said.

Quarter breaks usually create a slow period of campus activity for OSU police, he said. This "down time" will allow more on duty personnel to go out and patrol, he said.

The OSU community is unique because it is transient, Hatch said. Unlike typical neighborhoods, students leave their property for two to three weeks during breaks, he said.

"That creates a virtual shopping mall of opportunity for criminals," Hatch said

CRIME DOESN'T TAKE A HOLIDAY

When going home:

- Take expensive portable items with you.
- Don't broadcast your absence.
- Arrange for a friend or neighbor to pick up mail and newspapers.
- Connect one or two lamps and perhaps a radio to an automatic timer.
- Lock and secure all windows and doors, including sliding glass doors.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY GRADUATE SCHOOL Ph.D. Degree in Pharmacy

The Ohio State University Graduate School of Pharmacy provides graduate training leading to a Ph.D. degree. Programs of study include Medicinal Chemistry, Pharmaceutics and Pharmaceutical Chemistry, Pharmacology, and Pharmacy Administration. Visit our website to learn more about training opportunities in each of these individual disciplines. Each of the specialty areas interface closely with disciplines outside of the pharmaceutical sciences, such as organic and physical chemistry, biochemistry, molecular biology, and physiology.

We aim to attract enthusiastic individuals with an interest in basic and applied research from a variety of backgrounds, including, but not limited to: animal sciences, biochemistry, biology, chemical engineering, chemistry, environmental science, food science and nutrition, materials science and engineering, medical technology, microbiology, molecular genetics, nutrition, pharmacy, physics and zoology.

Full time students are supported by teaching and research associateships. Fellowships are available to candidates with outstanding credentials. These stipends provide living expenses and in addition tuition fees are waived. Subsidized student housing and a comprehensive student health plan are available for all students.

Victory over UM priceless

Well fans, we did it. We beat Michigan and got our share of the Big Ten title.

I know that there are three teams that are Big Ten champions (Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio State) but that really doesn't matter to me because we beat Michigan. Saturday was about Ohio State against Michigan. It didn't matter what the two teams' records were, all we wanted to do is play our hardest and kick their butts.

After the game a lot of the guys were really emotional. Beating Michigan relieved a lot of stress for this football program.

The crowd on Saturday was great. I don't think that I have ever heard a louder crowd at a college football game than the one at the 'Shoe this weekend. It was good to see that we still have so many fans, even after we let everyone down with that loss against Michigan State.

INSIDE THE HUDDLE

So what else can I say about the game? We are Big Ten champions, we've earned a pair of gold pants and we beat Michigan! It all adds up to a pretty good season to me.

But everything did not go right for us on Saturday. When I walked into my apartment around 6 p.m. after the game, I turned on the television and saw that Wisconsin had beaten Penn State. This was a total surprise to me. I thought that Penn State would win that game and we would be the team going to the Rose Bowl to represent the Big Ten. I think that everyone involved with Ohio State, including the fans, would have loved to go back to the Rose Bowl. But now it turns out that Wisconsin will go to Pasadena. So what game will we play in? To be totally honest, I have no clue.

There are a lot of different scenarios that could occur. If things stay the same, we will most likely play in one of the two remaining BCS games, which are the Orange Bowl in Miami or the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, the game we played in last year.

We could also play in the Citrus Bowl in Orlando, a game for which the second place Big Ten team gets an automatic berth. But there is still a way that we could play in the Rose Bowl. One of the teams is already set for this game: Wisconsin. But because UCLA is No. 2 in the BCS standings the Rose Bowl gets to pick another team to replace the Pac Ten team. They could take us since we are one of the teams that qualifies for one of the BCS games. I hope that is what happens, but I think that the Rose Bowl people will want to keep a west coast team in the Rose Bowl and Arizona is 10-1, and they are having a great season. I think it will be hard for the Rose Bowl committee to past Arizona up even though they are the second place Pac Ten team.

JAMES MILLER/THE LANTERN

immediately, he filled a need for us," running back coach, Tim Spencer said. "We haven't had a true fullback since Nicky Sualua [in 1995], which isn't meant to demean Matt Keller. Matt is a converted guy [from tailback], he's done a great job."

Tailback Joe Montgomery isn't surprised by Martin's affect. "We knew he was special when he went up against Andy [Katzenmoyer] in camp."

Moving from the high school ranks to a large college football program is a drastic change, but Martin seemed to adjust. "It's a really big adjustment," Martin said. "The time spent preparing is three times as much as it was in high school. Practicing, watching film, there is a lot more to prepare for than in high school."

The transition was made easier with help from upperclassmen, such as starting fullback Matt Keller. "All the veterans really make it easier for us [younger players]," Martin said. "The hardest thing to learn was pass-blocking. You have to recognize defenses and make the right call for protection."

Another hurdle Martin overcame after his arrival in Columbus was his weight. "He's worked hard on his weight," Spencer said. "He's dropped 13 pounds. 'It's made a world of difference, he can make cuts, he can catch the ball.'"

Martin scored his first touchdown last week against Iowa, but he contributed throughout the season. He served primarily as a blocker for tailbacks Michael Wiley and Montgomery. Martin said he doesn't mind not running the ball often.

"It really doesn't matter whether it's running or blocking," Martin said. "I would rather block and play the whole game than run a few times and not play as much. As long as we get in the end zone, that's all I care about."

Martin's blocking caught the attention of many people, including his fellow running backs. "He reminds me of [Nicky] Sualua," Montgomery said. "He will just smash you and come back to the huddle with no emotion. When I hit someone I'm shaking."

Montgomery cited one play in particular. Montgomery was running behind Martin's block during the Indiana game. "He hit this kid on an iso [running play] and I just wanted to say a prayer for the kid."

Martin's blocking earned him a nickname. "Me and Matt Keller nicknamed him Iron Head Heyward," Montgomery said. "Iron Head for short."

The nickname is appropriate for Martin's blocking style, but not his attitude. "Jamar is a smart, young man," Spencer said. "He has been a pleasure to coach."

Roberto Alomar joins Indians, brother Sandy

CLEVELAND (AP) — Make it two All-Star Alomars on the Cleveland Indians.

Roberto Alomar joined his brother Sandy on the AL Central champions, agreeing Monday to a four-year contract worth $30 million to $32 million.

While the deal wasn't immediately announced, several sources familiar with the negotiations, all speaking on the condition of anonymity, said it had been completed. The Indians planned a Tuesday news conference at Jacobs Field to announce the contract with the nine-time All-Star.

Alomar's addition finally gives the Indians stability at second base, where they have used 15 players since trading Carlos Baerga in 1996. Roberto, who was in Cleveland on Monday for a physical, was the Most Valuable Player of this year's All-Star game while Sandy, a six-time All-Star, was the MVP of the '97 game at Jacobs Field.

Roberto, 30, has been in the sights of Indians general manager John Hart for several years. With his addition, Cleveland has a lineup with a current or former All-Star at every position and one only rivaled by the World Series champion New York Yankees.

Second base has been Cleveland's most glaring weakness since Baerga was dealt to the New York Mets. The Indians used six different players at second during the '98 season alone and went into the postseason with Joey Cora there after acquiring him in a late-season trade with Seattle.

Cora hit just .059 in the playoffs and he became a free agent after Cleveland declined to exercise his 1999 option.

Roberto's addition gives the Indians the strongest and flashiest middle infield in baseball. A six-time Gold Glove winner, Alomar will be paired up the middle with shortstop Omar Vizquel, who won his sixth straight Gold Glove this season and has the highest fielding percentage of any shortstop ever.

"It would be worth the price of a ticket just to watch Omar and Robbie turn a double play," Hart said last week.

Alomar, who has played with San Diego, Toronto and Baltimore, spent three sometimes tumultuous seasons with the Orioles. He came under fire in 1996 when he spit at umpire John Hirschbeck during an argument, and last year he and some other Orioles were critical of manager Ray Miller and Baltimore's front office.

Xavier slips past OSU

By Tom Caudill
Lantern sports editor

The Ohio State's women's basketball team is off to a shaky start in its inaugural season at the Schottenstein Center after falling to Xavier University 68-63 last night.

The Buckeyes (1-2) came out early and pressured Xavier all night long with tenacious defense but were unable to capitalize on the 36 turnovers Xavier committed.

WOMEN'S

"Give credit to Xavier; they came out and didn't do anything that surprised us," said OSU coach Beth Burns. "They played with great hunger. Despite our defensive pressure, which caused turnovers, they just flat-out played us."

OSU started the game cold and fell behind quickly as Xavier built a 18-7 lead early in the first half. Then the Buckeyes began to mount a comeback. OSU went on a 7-0 run to cut the lead to 18-15, but the Musketeers answered with a 5-0 run of their own.

In the first half, the Buckeyes trailed by as many as nine but managed to go into the locker room trailing 34-27 at the half. The Buckeyes' shooting in the first half was frigid, hitting only eight of 31 from the floor and one of 12 from behind the three-point arc.

"The first half was humiliating,"

Burns said. "If that first half doesn't wake you up, then you shouldn't be coming out to play."

In the first six minutes of the second half, Xavier built its lead to 14 points before the Buckeyes awoke from their sleep and roared back. OSU went on a 22-8 run to tie the game at 55 with 6:56 remaining in the game.

The Musketeers then answered with a 4-0 run of their own to take a 59-55 lead. With the 6,197 vocal fans screaming support, the Buckeyes fought back, tying the game at 63 with just 53 seconds left in the game. But three costly fouls on OSU allowed Xavier to seal the game from the free-throw line by making five of six and sending OSU to their second straight home loss.

"We're 1 and 2 and there's a lot bigger problems in the world than a loss to Xavier," said Burns. "We desperately need a week of good practice heading into next week's games."

Freshman guard Lauren Shenk came off the bench to lead the Buckeyes with 13 points.

OSU's next game will be Nov. 30 against Cal-Berkeley at 7:30 p.m. at the Schott.

Iowa football coach Hayden Fry wipes a tear from his eye as he announces his retirement as head coach on Monday.

Fry leaves Iowa after 20 years

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Hayden Fry, who turned a woe-filled football program into a three-time Rose Bowl participant, is leaving Iowa after 20 seasons.

Coach Fry won the most games in Iowa history, but his teams had trouble staying with the Big Ten powers in the 1990s after winning three conference championships from 1981 to 1990. This year's team finished 3-8, the worst in his stay at Iowa.

"It's kind of hard to do," the 69-year-old coach said today. "All the people that gave me an opportunity to spend 20 years as a member of the Hawkeye family, I could never repay them."

Fry, who inherited a program that had gone 17 years without a winning season when he came to Iowa City in 1979, took the Hawkeyes to 14 bowl games and built a 143-89-6 record to become one of the most popular figures in the state.

He said he had considered quitting two years ago, but stayed out of concern for his assistants and the effect his departure would have had on recruiting. A bowl game at the end of the 1997 season also prevented him from quitting for similar reasons.

"I'd have rather gone out with a real good season," said Fry, his voice faltering at times as he wiped tears with a handkerchief.

"I really felt like we could have a good year," he said. "I've always been an optimist, but I never dreamed that we would experience all the problems we had ... But I'm very proud of this team this year, even in defeat."

After going 5-6 and 4-7 in his first two seasons, Fry in 1981 took the Hawkeyes to their first appearance in the Rose Bowl since the 1958 season. They lost to Washington 28-0.

Iowa also made Rose Bowl trips under Fry after the 1985 and 1990 seasons, both losses. Iowa was ranked No. 1 nationally for six weeks in 1985, the only time during his tenure that his team was top-ranked.

Fry, who played quarterback at Baylor, began his coaching career as an assistant at his alma mater in 1960. Two years later, he became head coach at SMU, where his teams made three bowl trips in 11 years.

He then spent six years as head coach at North Texas State, compiling a 40-23-3 record before taking the Iowa job in December 1978. The Hawkeyes had gone winless in 1973 and were just 2-9 the season before Fry became coach.

Goo Goo Dolls grasp success

By Kelli Ersing
Lantern arts writer

They make Howard Stern "feel funny," have a name most people don't understand and can be seen on MTV every five minutes of the day, but the Goo Goo Dolls are only starting to enjoy the fruits of a 12-year folly.

Starting out as a band in Buffalo, N.Y. in 1986, the Goo Goo Dolls have traveled a long and winding road that has led them to a place where they can count chart-topping albums, sell-out tours and get international recognition among their accumulated rock n' roll bounty.

With a new hit album, "Dizzy Up the Girl," and garnering the position of the opening act for some of the dates on the Rolling Stones' U.S. tour in 1999, the band shows no sign of disappearing from the public eye in the near future.

A love of music and influences as diverse as Triumph, the Beatles and the Ramones was what first drove John Rzeznik (vocals, guitar) and Robby Takac (bass, vocals) to form the band. Their early releases "Goo Goo Dolls" and "Jed" gained them a strong following in Buffalo. Though much more aggressive in nature, these releases provided a sound base for the band's characteristic style.

After releasing "Hold Me Up" and "Superstar Car Wash," the band started to receive increased exposure as well as many comparisons to the band, the Replacements. Even today the band sometimes finds itself living in the shadow of the Replacements, but Rzeznik considers it more of an honor than an insult.

"Yes, they are a major influence on us," Rzeznik said, "but they are also one of the greatest American bands of the past few decades."

After experiencing a bit of mainstream success with "Name" from the album, "A Boy Named Goo," and a guest spot on "Beverly Hills, 90210," the band was primed for something big. With the addition of a new drummer, Mike Malinin, they set out to make their new album "Dizzy Up the Girl."

"This is the record we wanted to make for four years," Rzeznik said.

Spawning the hits "Iris" and "Slide," the new album has thrust the band into the spotlight, but not without negative consequences. Heavy rotation and exposure have also earned the band plenty of criticism. Takac described the public perception of the band as two schools of thought.

"Basically, people are really happy for us or they say our popularity is unjust because certain other bands haven't made it big," said Takac. "Very few people want to give you credit once you get popular, even though we stuck it out as a band for 12 years."

Sticking it out and taking chances is also what makes the band so appealing. Stints on "Beverly Hills, 90210" and the "Howard Stern Show," as well as reworking the Major League Baseball theme for broadcast television have been some of the projects that many bands today won't even consider doing.

"We do all kinds of things because it's fun," Rzeznik said. "It's too bad that a lot of people are afraid to try things because they think they're too cool."

There will always be critics, but even while riding the coat-tails of success the band has managed to keep themselves grounded and try to keep things in perspective. Still calling Buffalo their hometown and preferring smaller venues to hockey arenas, the band has taken all of it in stride.

Today's subdued ballads coexist alongside the more aggressive sounds of their early material but the Goo Goo Dolls have not lost their edge. So whether it was a few beers talking or sound advice, when Takac says, "Don't f with me, I'm from Buffalo!" people should take heed.

The Goos, Buffalo Tom rocked the Newport at sold-out venue

By Kelli Eising
Lantern arts writer

Whether you were there to see those MTV darlings the Goo Goo Dolls, or to keep that indie spirit aflame with Buffalo Tom, the Newport Music Hall was the place to be on Friday night. Bras were thrown, chords were stroked and the crowd bopped like a chaotic pogo convention.

With the pull of heavy rotation on both the airwaves and MTV in their favor, there was no doubt that the crowd knew who they came to see that night. The sold-out venue was in for a surprise if they were expecting a nice, mellow VH-1 type of night. Covering material from their five studio albums, the Goos offered their fans a musical showcase and let them know that they can do a lot more than write hit songs for soundtracks.

As was to be expected, "Iris" was the Mt. Everest size hit with the crowd that evening. Similar to nursery school, everyone sang along, including some of the extremely sensitive bouncers up front. At that point, whether you were trying to sleep with the lead singer or just liked the song, everyone was trying to get the band's attention.

One advantage to having a hit song like "Iris" is that you're given a chance to let the audience hear the other music that you've been making for the past 10 years. Working through their better known songs like "We Are the Normal," "Slide" and "Name," the band laid down a solid base for a musical melange.

CONCERT REVIEW

With lead singer John Rzeznik and bass player Robby Takac taking turns with the vocal duties, and even their tour manager providing some accompaniment on harmonica, the band swept through their set that included a cover of Quiet Riot's "Cum on Feel the Noize."

Sending the crowd into a frenzy with an inspired performance, the Goo Goo Dolls proved that they are more than just another pretty face.

Buffalo Tom opened up the evening and received a well-deserved, enthusiastic response from the crowd. Covering material from their new album, "Smitten," the band showed off what they have learned in the past 12 years as a band. Songs such as "Rachael" and "Wiser" reflected a slightly more introspective tone in the band, as opposed to that of their earlier works.

For anyone, like myself, who was there to see Buffalo Tom, they did not leave disappointed. The 45-minute set seemed much too short for seasoned fans, but gave the audience a sweet taste of what it is that makes them one of the most highly regarded, yet underrated bands of this decade.

Material from the band's albums "Sleepy-Eyed" and "Big Red Letter Day" gave the audience a better understanding of the type of pop melodies and rich guitars that have brought the band to where they are today.

Closing with "Velvet Roof," the wide-eyed audience was encapsulated by the sort of enigmatic performance that only a band like Buffalo Tom can promise and deliver.

They were "smitten."

Teaching, nursing among top jobs in Ohio, report says

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohioans contemplating a career change or just entering the workplace may want to consider becoming a high school teacher, registered nurse or computer programmer — three occupations with the desirable combination of a decent wage and a fair number of positions available, according to a state employment forecast released Monday.

The three occupations were among the top 10 in terms of annual job openings, and each pay an average wage topping $18 an hour. The figures were included in Ohio Job Outlook, a report released every two years by the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services.

The three occupations the agency estimates will have the most number of openings available annually between 1996 and 2006 — the period covered by the report — are relatively low-paying positions as retail salespeople, cashiers and waiters.

The message: get a proper education, said Keith Ewald, director of the bureau's Labor Market Information division.

"In general, Ohio's economy will continue to be favorable, providing jobs for workers at all educational levels," Ewald said. "But individuals with more education and training will enjoy better job opportunities."

Overall, the state's economy is expected to grow by more than 650,000 jobs over the 10-year period.

Jobs in the service sector will account for more than 396,000 of those jobs — particularly in the health care and business service areas, the report predicted. The next largest group of jobs are in the retail trade industry, and half of those 120,000 jobs will be at bars and restaurants.

Manufacturing jobs, meanwhile, will drop by more than 32,000.

Larry Less, who oversees the biennial forecast, said the report is used by his agency to determine where to focus its job-training efforts and by schools to help students match their interests with career plans that are most likely to yield jobs.

"We're sort of the bridge," said Mike Snider, provost of Columbus State Community College.

The problem with presenting the information on hot jobs to students is that those areas are not always the ones the students are interested in, Snider said. In those cases, it's up to school officials to steer students to similar jobs with better prospects.

The report also has an important lesson for employers, Less said.

Job growth is expected to continue to increase faster than the number of people entering the workforce, he said. That means a continued high demand for labor, which could translate into higher wages and steady — if not decreasing — unemployment rates.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, accompanied by former Democratic National Chairman David Wilhelm, chats with Don Culler, left, and Bill Schureck prior to the start of the Second Appalachian Economic Development Roundtable in Nelsonville on Monday.

Appalachian economy looks for assistance from Wall Street

NELSONVILLE (AP) — Tony Deal wants to create hundreds of Ohio jobs by raising and selling raspberries. He needs outside money to sweeten the plan.

Wall Street investment in local businesses that use local resources is the key to rejuvenating the Appalachian economy, said several small-business people gathered for an economic conference Monday in this southeast Ohio community about 50 miles from Columbus.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson organized the session to follow up on several visits he has made to the region he believes has been left behind on issues such as health care, education and employment, which have improved in the rest of the country. The idea was to bring together businesses and investors interested in Appalachia.

"I grew up poor, and these people don't have any money, said Deal, 41, a lifelong resident of Athens, about 10 miles away. He is pitching a plan to train unemployed people to grow raspberries, then give them their own acreage to farm.

"We can actually give them a chance to have a normal life so to speak," Deal said Monday. He grows raspberries, strawberries, tomatoes, cabbage and other vegetables on 10 acres and needs at least $500,000 to expand to 100 acres.

Julie Kim and David Rhoades produce Carina's Dog Biscuits, which comes in flavors such as Mongolian beef, chicken taco and peanut butter.

The goal is to create a dog biscuit with healthy ingredients as close to human food as possible, said Rhoades, 26, who quit a job in McDonald Corporation's management development program in Chicago to help Kim run the business.

Kim, 28, said she wants to expand from her home base in Athens but needs about $200,000 to buy the equipment and hire the people.

Melody Sands was at the conference looking for $250,000 in investments to revive her Only From Ohio catalog and store in Athens.

Four years ago, the catalog earned $87,000 in three weeks. One potter made $10,000, four times his annual earnings, after being featured in the publication, she said.

But Sands said she had to close the business because she had expanded too fast to keep up with sales and overhead.

Sands, 43, believes local businesses are the best hope for the region's economic success, "much more than a large manufacturing firm ever coming down here."

Just because the business ideas featured Monday are small doesn't mean Wall Street will ignore them, said McCullough Williams, a Columbus-based investment banker with Pryor, McClelland, Counts and Co. Inc. of Philadelphia.

"Wall Street is interested in the glitzy, but the main thing Wall Street is interested in is making money," he said. "We're not talking about investing money in an area where there will be returns that satisfy Wall Street investors."

Some experts have said the picture of Appalachia as poor with few jobs, and inadequate housing and health care is outdated. They say some areas of the region, especially near big cities, are doing well in income, education and other factors.

Jackson, who hasn't ruled out running for president in 2000, has promised to make Appalachia an issue whether or not he is a candidate.

On Monday he said he will start a chapter of his Chicago-based Rainbow/PUSH Coalition chapter in the region.

The chapter, to be based in Athens, will work on economic development issues in Appalachian areas, including Southern Ohio.

The goal is to provide the same opportunities in Appalachia as the United States does for foreign countries.

"We have a plan to transport capital to southeast Asia but not to southeast Ohio," Jackson said.

'Volunteer' moves one step closer to chamber

COLUMBUS (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court on Monday set Feb. 19 as the new execution date for a man considered closest to becoming the first person executed in the state since 1963.

But more legal maneuvering could again put off the execution of Wilford Lee Berry, the death row inmate dubbed "the Volunteer" because he wants to die rather than spend his life in prison.

It is the second time a date has been set for Berry's execution for the murder of a Cleveland baker during a 1989 robbery.

On March 3, Berry was on his way to the execution chamber at the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility in Lucasville when the U.S. Supreme Court ordered that the execution be stopped.

But on Nov. 9, the high court refused to hear an appeal by members of Berry's family, allowing the new date to be set.

Attorney General Betty Montgomery has pushed for an end to Berry's appeals. A spokesman said the next move would be up to the Ohio Public Defender's office, which has filed appeals on behalf of Berry's family.

"The ... options available to the public defender are shrinking," spokesman Todd Boyer said.

Greg Meyers, chief of the agency's death-penalty section, said he has to meet with other lawyers to decide how to proceed.

His office already has asked a federal judge to review new evidence that Berry suffered brain damage in a prison beating. The office also has not decided whether to ask the U.S. Supreme Court to reconsider its Nov. 9 ruling.

Gov.-elect Bob Taft would have the power to stop the execution, but supports the death penalty. A spokesman said Taft would review the case closely before deciding whether to step in.

"He realizes this is one of the most serious issues he will deal with in this administration," spokesman Brett Buerck said.

Berry, 36, was sentenced to die for shooting Cleveland baker Charles Mitroff. Berry was imprisoned at the Mansfield Correctional Institution until last year, when he was beaten during a death row uprising. Now he is in a state prison hospital in Columbus.

Senator's colleagues remain supportive

CLEVELAND (AP) — Colleagues of state Sen. Jeffrey Johnson said Monday they support their fellow lawmaker despite his conviction on federal corruption charges.

Meanwhile, Johnson said he would participate in a national meeting of black lawmakers next week in Cleveland and is determined to appeal his conviction.

"We are pledged to support Sen. Johnson both professionally and personally," said state Rep C.J. Prentiss, D-Cleveland, president-elect of the Ohio Legislative Black Caucus.

Johnson, the outgoing president of the caucus, was convicted last Friday of pressuring inner-city grocers to give him campaign contributions in exchange for help obtaining licenses to participate in a government nutrition program and to sell liquor and lottery tickets.

The senator, a Democrat from Cleveland, says he never intended to extort money.

"I'm more committed than ever to appealing my conviction," said Johnson, whose term as senator ends next month, although he could be removed from office earlier as a result of his conviction.

Johnson worked to bring next week's meeting of National Black Caucus of State Legislators to Cleveland. He did not attend a news conference touting the event on Monday, but said national caucus leaders asked him to attend the meeting.

Decline in car theft drops insurance rates

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — A decline in car theft appears to be helping northeast Ohio keep a lid on auto insurance costs, a new study suggested Monday.

The cost of insurance claims for car theft or disaster has gone down in the Cleveland and Youngstown areas, defying the nationwide trend toward higher costs, according to the study by the Highway Loss Data Institute.

In other parts of Ohio, costs have risen but remained below the national average, the industry study showed.

The Cleveland-Lorain-Elyria metropolitan area had a $39 average loss, which is the amount an insurance company pays out per registered vehicle. The figure was made more impressive because it has declined since the mid-1980s, when the average loss worked out to $82.

"If you live in an area with a high rate of insurance claims and theft, then your premium is going to be higher."

—Dave Hurst
State Farm Insurance

Over the study's 12-year span, the dollar losses per insured vehicle also decreased in the Youngstown metropolitan area, from an average of $83 down to $46.

The average dollar amount of such losses can vary by as much as $250 a year per insured vehicle. In general that cost is passed on to consumers in higher premiums, insurers say.

John Bobinger, director of insurance services for AAA Ohio Motorists Association, credited good police work.

Theft was a major problem in the 1980s, he said. "Law enforcement made it a focus of their attention, both on chop shops and individual auto thefts."

The extra attention resulted in fewer car thefts, and that flowed directly into lower insurance costs, he said.

"If you live in an area with a high rate of insurance claims and theft, then your premium is going to be higher," said State Farm's Dave Hurst.

Testing that theory, State Farm, the nation's largest auto insurer, was asked what it would cost someone with a good driving record to get noncollision insurance for a 1997 Ford Taurus or Honda Accord.

For Lima, Ohio, near the bottom of the national list, the price quoted was $62 annually. For high-theft Detroit, the price was $263 a year.

In the study, no Ohio cities placed among the areas with the highest noncollision car insurance losses. But several showed up at the opposite end of the scale, led by Lima, where such losses from 1995-97 for cars up to 3 years old were, on average, $36 per insured vehicle.

The national average was $83 last year, an increase from $58 in the mid-1980s.

The study examined average insurance losses from theft, vandalism or forces of nature, such as floods, looking at hundreds of cities nationwide and losses for vehicles up to 3 years old.

BFGoodrich moves headquarters, drops 170 jobs

RICHFIELD (AP) — BFGoodrich Co. will buy Coltec Industries in a $2.2 billion deal that includes the relocation of Goodrich headquarters to Charlotte, N.C., and the loss of 170 jobs.

The move, announced Monday, will mark the end of an era for Richfield-based BFGoodrich, which was founded in 1870 in nearby Akron. The company sold its tire-making business to Michelin in 1987.

"The decision to move our corporate and aerospace headquarters out of northeast Ohio was extremely difficult," said David L. Burner, Goodrich chairman.

"Nevertheless, we believe this is the right decision at the right time for our company, our shareholders and our customers."

Several factors, including nearby air service and the attractiveness of Charlotte, led to the decision to move, he said in a conference call.

The merger talks began six weeks ago between the company chairmen and originated with his suggestion, Burner said.

The deal will merge two companies that make specialty chemicals, aerospace equipment and industrial products. Directors of both companies have approved the deal.

Under the tax-free stock swap, Coltec shareholders will receive 0.56 shares of BFGoodrich common stock for each Coltec common share. The deal includes the assumption of $750 million of Coltec debt.

The merged operation will save about $60 million by 2001. The deal should be completed by March 31.

John W. Guffey Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Coltec, will become a member of the BFGoodrich board and an executive vice president of BFGoodrich. Coltec moved its headquarters from New York City to Charlotte in 1996.

About 130 jobs at the BFGoodrich headquarters in Richfield and 40 more at an aerospace division in nearby Montrose will be affected by the move.

An undetermined number of employees will be given the chance to move to Charlotte. The combined headquarters staff will drop from the BFGoodrich-Coltec current total of 250 to about 100.

The 3,300 BFGoodrich manufacturing jobs in Ohio won't be affected. BFGoodrich has major operations in Akron, Avon Lake, Brecksville, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Troy.

The pending loss of the headquarters disappointed people in Richfield, a developing community of 5,000 located between Akron and Cleveland.

The community lost another high-profile tenant four years ago when the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association left The Coliseum for the new Gund Arena in Cleveland.

The loss "is going to hurt everybody else in the community because you're removing a tax base," said Clifford LeSane, 48, of Cleveland, who works at a Richfield truck terminal.

Mayor Donald H. Larson tried to put the best face on a situation that will cost the village about 10 percent of its annual $3 million to $3.5 million income-tax revenue.

"The biggest impact, I think, will be a pin prick in our balloon of pride," he said. "It's a beautiful building. It's going to be reoccupied in a very short time."

BFGoodrich moved to the new building two years ago from a headquarters in nearby Bath Township.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

The Lantern cannot accept advertising that advocates sedition or other illegal actions, violates normal standards of morality and taste, or attacks an individual, race, nationality, ethnic group, religion or sex. In cases of doubt, the proffered copy, illustrations and layout will be submitted by the Lantern Business Manager to the School of Journalism Publications Committee and judged by a majority vote of the members. Decisions of this committee are final.

Complete name, address and telephone number for each advertiser is required; this information is for our records only and not available to the public.

- Copy will be furnished by noon three days before publication, except for published special early deadlines.
- All advertisements are required to occupy at least as many inches in height as they do columns in width. Any advertisement exceeding 18 inches in height will be considered full column (21 inches) and charged accordingly.
- The Lantern reserves the right to reject any advertisement that promotes illegal activity or activity detrimental or damaging to the university and its educational mission. It further reserves the right to revise any advertisement which is deemed objectionable for any reason.
- Make-good/adjustments will be considered only for those advertisements where errors occur in the following: business/group name, address, or phone number; item price; date, time, or place of event. The error must be solely the fault of the advertiser. Adjustments will not exceed the cost of the advertisement, and will be based on the portion of the advertisement nullified by the error. Minor spelling errors will not qualify for adjustment. Complaints must be registered to the Business Manager within 45 days of publication to qualify, otherwise the advertiser accepts full responsibility.
- Guaranteed position is sold at the Business Manager's discretion.
- A composition charge may apply to any changes, revisions or cancellations made after deadline.
- No proof will be furnished on any advertisement received after deadline, or for ads smaller than seven (7) column inches.
- If the Lantern finds it necessary to stop contracted advertising because of nonpayment, the advertising agreement will be violated and subject to a rebill fee.
- Advertisers are encouraged to avoid making misleading claims or using art or words that impugn or degrade sex, race, age, national origin, creed or color.
- The Lantern reserves the right to require prepayment for advertising, or to reject advertising, if the advertiser is delinquent in payment, or if advertiser's credit is impaired. Advertisers must prepay all advertising until credit rating with the Lantern is established. CERTIFIED check or money order is required for out-of-town advertisers.
- Contract advertisers will furnish the Lantern with a rate-holder ad meeting contract minimums, for use in any contract period for which the advertiser does not provide an ad.
- A tearsheet will be furnished for all display advertising run in the Lantern. Additional tear sheets are available (limit 15) provided the advertiser notifies the Lantern office prior to publication.
- Advertiser agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the Ohio State University, its Board of Trustees, and its officers, agents and employees from and against any and all loss, cost and expense, including reasonable attorney fees, resulting from the publication by the Lantern of advertiser's advertisement.

Kevorkian pushes suicide issue, challenges court in '60 Minutes'

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — A prosecutor Monday subpoenaed "60 Minutes" for the unedited video of Dr. Jack Kevorkian giving a lethal injection to a dying man, and said he won't be "baited" into filing charges in a hurry.

The tape, aired on the CBS program Sunday night, appears to show a homicide, but more investigation is needed, Oakland County Prosecutor David Gorcyca said.

"It would be irresponsible for any prosecutor to level charges against any individual based solely on media reports and an edited version of the tape on '60 Minutes,'" he said. Gorcyca said he "will not be baited into making a premature charging decision."

A spokesman for "60 Minutes" said the subpoena had not been officially served, and no decision had been made about turning the videotape over.

Kevorkian's lawyer, David Gorosh, said Kevorkian will cooperate with the investigation and turn over a tape of the man's death as early as Tuesday. The prosecutor did not subpoena Kevorkian.

The tape showed the death of Thomas Youk, who suffered from Lou Gehrig's disease. Kevorkian said Youk died Sept. 17, less than three weeks after the enactment of a state law making assisted suicide a crime punishable by up to five years in prison.

Kevorkian could face charges of manslaughter, murder, assisted suicide, practicing medicine without a license or possessing a controlled substance in connection with Youk's death. Michigan suspended Kevorkian's medical license in 1991.

Kevorkian said he gave the tape to "60 Minutes" to challenge authorities to charge him with a crime and finally decide the issue.

"They must charge me. Because if they do not, that means they don't think it was a crime," Kevorkian said on the program.

Kevorkian has acknowledged taking part in some 130 suicides since 1990 but said this was the first time he directly administered the fatal substance. In previous cases, he said, he had an apparatus that let the patient start the flow of drugs or lethal gas.

At the time of Youk's death, Kevorkian was under a court order that banned him from assisting a suicide. The order was issued by the judge who presided at a trial in which Kevorkian was convicted for his role in a scuffle with police outside a hospital.

Jim Marcinkowski, deputy assistant city attorney in Royal Oak, said his office is considering a criminal contempt of court charge.

Kevorkian has been acquitted in three trials involving five deaths. A fourth trial ended in a mistrial.

CBS's "60 Minutes" aired a videotape Sunday of a terminally ill patient dying after being administered a lethal dose by Dr. Jack Kevorkian.

Investigators dig at Gacy apartment

CHICAGO (AP) — Police began digging outside an apartment house Monday in a search for more victims of serial killer John Wayne Gacy, two decades after police unearthed more than two dozen bodies from beneath his home.

Crews started digging in the afternoon after radar images from the morning showed two spots where bones might be buried in the front yard of the apartment building where Gacy's mother used to live.

Police brought in the radar to scan the yard and small blacktop parking lot after a civic group said it found evidence of possible victims. But police said several spots pointed out to them by the Better Government Association turned out to be nothing unusual.

"The original areas of high probability have turned out to be underground pipes and things like that," police spokesman Pat Camden said.

Camden said no one was certain what the radar had detected.

"This company does not come back and say 'There's a right leg here or a left ankle there.' They come back and say 'There's an anomaly here,'" he said.

Officials moved on to other sites and strung up lights to allow the dig to continue after nightfall.

Interest in the site outside the apartment house began when private investigator Bill Dorsch told officials at the association that he recalled seeing Gacy many years ago in a nearby alley late at night carrying a dirty shovel.

The BGA, a privately funded civic group, rented the radar and made a survey of the blacktop mini-parking lot, shaped like a wedge of pie, outside the apartment house. They took the resulting picture to police.

For six years starting in 1972, Gacy lured young men and boys to his home for sex, then tortured and strangled them. Most were buried in a crawl space under the house. Four were dumped in rivers. In all, 33 deaths were linked to Gacy.

Gacy spent much of his 14 years in prison painting pictures of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, and fellow serial killer Jeffrey Dahmer.

He died in the execution chamber in 1994.

America Online, Netscape merge to challenge Microsoft

WASHINGTON (AP) — The planned marriage of America Online and Netscape would create a single Internet company with remarkable reach across the high-tech world — and influence to challenge giant Microsoft's dominance in key areas.

America Online Inc., the world's largest Internet provider with more than 14 million subscribers, confirmed Monday it is negotiating an all-stock deal to buy Netscape Communications Corp., whose "Netcenter" Web site is among the four most popular on the Internet with more than 20 million visitors each month.

The AOL, Microsoft and Yahoo! sites are the other three most popular.

In addition, AOL would acquire Netscape's pioneering Navigator browser software, which was introduced in 1994 and helped popularize the Internet. The software is now used by millions of people to view information on the Web.

In a side deal under consideration, Sun Microsystems Inc. would take control of Netscape's business-level "server" software and, in return, AOL would buy Sun's powerful workstation computers.

"Sun is dying to get into the software business, so owning Netscape's software business would increase their ability to get into that market," said Stan Dohlberg, a consultant at Forrester Research Inc.

Netscape, which separately confirmed the negotiations, said its shareholders would receive .45 shares of AOL stock for each of the 99.5 million outstanding shares of Netscape stock.

AOL traded most of Monday in the high-$80s, making the deal worth between $3.8 billion and $4 billion, although the price briefly peaked at $91.63, its highest ever.

The companies have been negotiating for at least two weeks, and talks continued Monday. Both AOL and Netscape cautioned in statements that "there can be no assurance that an agreement will be reached or a transaction consummated."

The alliance would pose dramatic new competition for industry giant Microsoft, whose own business tactics against Netscape are so aggressive that the federal government is suing it for alleged antitrust violations.

Microsoft's Internet software competes directly against Netscape's, and its Microsoft Network online service is a rival to AOL, although MSN has been far less successful.

Sun competes against Microsoft in several areas, from rival operating systems to its Java technology that runs programs on many types of computers, not just those using Windows.

All three companies share a general disdain toward Microsoft — all are testifying, for example, on behalf of the government at Microsoft's antitrust trial in Washington.

"The major driver of this has been the personal connections between the principals in this deal, who have a common mission to be successful but also a common secondary goal to win at Microsoft's expense," said Frank Gens, chief analyst for International Data Corp.

AOL agreed in March 1996 to incorporate

Microsoft's Internet Explorer browser, not Netscape's, into the software for its 14 million subscribers. In exchange, Microsoft included AOL's software within its dominant Windows operating system.

Analysts were divided on whether AOL might jeopardize its placement within Windows by distributing Netscape's software to its customers. That move could restore Netscape's share of the browser market to its highest levels since Microsoft began its full-court competition.

"It seems to me pretty clear, if this deal happens, that AOL customers will be seeing a very strong marketing of the Netscape browser to them," said Gens. "... If Netscape and AOL get together, AOL and Microsoft's friendship will be cold and somewhat short-lived."

As Microsoft's antitrust trial entered its sixth week, the company was quick to claim that the AOL-Netscape proposal proves the government's case is moot, given the fact that Microsoft may soon have a new rival.

One-day train strike causes rush hour havoc in Europe

PARIS (AP) — Rail workers, fearing major job losses that might come with deregulation, brought train traffic to a standstill in parts of Europe on Monday. Commuters were stranded in France, Belgium and Greece, where the one-day strike caused havoc during the morning rush hour. There were major traffic jams, and subways were packed. In Spain and Luxembourg, however, effects were minimal. In Portugal, rail workers staged a one-hour stoppage just before evening rush hour.

The European Union's executive commission plans to increase deregulation in the freight sector from 5 percent to 25 percent in a bid to boost competition and efficiency. European Union Transport Commissioner Neil Kinnock warned Monday of the dangers of resisting reform. "The future is plain and very bleak," Kinnock said in a statement. "Without change there will be no rail transport in much of the Union by 2012." Unions are sensitive to streamlining, aware that about 500,000 jobs already have been lost in the past 15 years. Kinnock said that the percentage of overall freight transport on trains had dropped from 32 percent in 1970 to 14 percent in 1996. "Without change the job loss will be devastating," Kinnock said. France's national train company, the SNCF, said about one in three trains was running nationwide Monday. Suburban trains were also disrupted, with just one in four operating on some lines.

"I'm fed up with this. There seem to be strikes every week," said 31-year-old lawyer Stephanie Castela, her face pressed against a window of the Paris Metro during morning rush hour. "There are some things you have to be able to guarantee, and getting to work is one of them." In France, only Eurostar trains to London were running normally. Buses replaced the high-speed Thalys trains from Paris to Brussels, Amsterdam and Cologne. Only two out of 20 trains were scheduled to run between London and Brussels. In Belgium, train traffic also was crippled, transforming the morning rush hour to a slow crawl. Traffic jams up to 25 miles long were reported outside Brussels. In Greece, there were no trains at all, and workers rallied at the Transport Ministry in Athens. Although Germany was not directly affected, many long-distance passengers were faced with delays.

Indonesia's Chinese seek safety from ethnic, religious riots

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Rina Taufan peers fearfully through the steel gates that barricade her store in Jakarta's Chinatown, where mobs ran riot, burned churches and businesses and killed at least 14 people. Many fear the violence could unleash deep-seated ethnic and religious divisions that have been heightened by Indonesia's worst economic crisis and political turmoil in 30 years. "I heard that they are not satisfied yet," the 38-year-old Chinese immigrant said Monday. "If they come back, I will be here too. If they burn next door, I will be dead." Next door is a gambling house she says has the same owner as one that was the first target of Sunday's ethnic and religious violence. Muslim mobs set fire to the building and a neighboring Protestant church. They hacked and beat to death Christian guards from the eastern Indonesian island of Ambon. More burned to death inside. The violence triggered rioting and attacks on other Christian churches, a Roman Catholic school and Chinese businesses in the district, one of the most violent in Indonesia's capital. Standing amid the rubble of his gutted and still-smoking church, Pastor Johannes Linandi said he was forced to flee when the mob struck. Luckily, the attack occurred between Sunday services, and only a handful of people were inside. "They hit me with their fists and with a piece of wood as I ran out.

They had knives but I ran down a street," Linandi said. About 90 percent of the parishioners are members of the ethnic Chinese minority. He said rioters

"I heard that they are not satisfied yet. If they come back, I will be here too. If they burn next door, I will be dead."

— Rina Taufan, Chinese immigrant to Indonesia chased some Ambonese guards into the church and brought in cans of gasoline to start the fire. On Monday, the gruesome search for bodies began as crowds watched. "This will fracture relations between religious communities," said Suroto, a Muslim construction worker who like many Indonesians uses only one name. Ethnic Chinese make up just 4 percent of Indonesia's population of 202 million. But they play a prominent role in the economy, and this has long invited resentment that has often spilled into violence. "The Chinese minority are always targeted during times of unrest," said Dede Oetomo, an anthropology and linguistics professor at Airlangga University in Surabaya, Indonesia's second-largest city. Chinese immigrants were segregated from the indigenous population under former Dutch colonial rule. Since that time, they have been regarded as outsiders. Many Chinese were killed in a bloody backlash over an abortive communist coup in 1965. And they continued to stay apart from other Indonesians during the 32-year rule of autocratic ex-President Suharto, said Dede. When student protests and riots helped oust Suharto in May, thousands of Chinese shops and homes in Jakarta were attacked. Women's groups say as many as 168 women, most of them Chinese, were raped. And as many as 17 people were killed in student pro-democracy demonstrations last week, adding to tensions in the country. On top of the economic problems, are ethnic and religious divides. Up to 90 percent of Indonesia's population is Muslim, making it the world's most populous Islamic nation. The remainder are a mix of Christian denominations and Buddhism. Most ethnic Chinese are Christian. During Sunday's violence, several stores in Chinatown were burned. Witnesses said ethnic Chinese residents armed themselves with sticks and knives to protect their homes and stores. As rumors of reprisals circulated, people carrying curved swords and sticks set up makeshift barricades in streets around Muslim residences, local television showed.
