

Unbeaten Hoosier, Buck Track Teams Battle on Saturday

Coach Snyder Forecasts Win by One Point or Tie as Outcome of Coliseum Meet

BULLETIN

Jim Whittaker has been confined to the University Hospital with an attack of influenza and will not be able to compete in tonight's track meet with Indiana.

By DON SMITH

When two undefeated, evenly matched track teams meet it is a safe bet, even for Sandy MacTavish, that there will be enough thrills to warrant the bringing along of smelling salts for Grandma, so when Ohio and Indiana clash Saturday in the Exposition Hall at 7:30, come prepared.

In fact Track Coach Larry Snyder has calculated that the outcome may be a tie, or at least no more than one point difference either way.

Sig Ep 'Igloo' Is Really Cold

Last year the Hoosiers and the Bucks hooked up in two meets that weren't decided until the running of the last event, the mile-relay. Ohio won both of the relays and the meets.

The Bucks have had things pretty much their own way in the middle-distance runs in their two indoor meets this year against Penn State and Illinois, but this supremacy faces its stiffest test of the season against Indiana's ace, Mel Trutt.

Trutt Clocks in 4.11

Trutt has been clocked in the mile run in 4 minutes 11 seconds and in the half-mile distance in 1 minute 57 seconds. He edged out Notre Dame's Greg Rice in 4 minutes 19.2 seconds. The mile run, with Trutt, Eisenhart and Whittaker, promises to be one of the evening's thrillers. Also the meeting of Eisenhart and Trutt again in the half-mile will be one of the closest races on the program.

As usual the 440-yard dash will take the spotlight with Co-Captain Harley Howells and Jack Sulzmann of the Bucks again battling it out. But the event takes on added significance Saturday evening, for the Hoosiers have a sophomore find in this event, Roy Cochran. He breezed to victory against the Irish in 50.2 seconds which is only two-tenths of a second slower than Howells has done this year.

When the Scarlet mile-relay team broke the carnival record at the Illinois Relays, the Hoosier entry wound

Alignment Try Called Failure By Columnist

Ludwig Lore Talks on International Affairs

Hopes for an alignment of South American countries with the Democracies, through the medium of the Lima Conference was a failure, Ludwig Lore, columnist on international affairs for the New York Post, said Thursday night, when he addressed the University Town Hall meeting in the Commerce Auditorium.

More than half of these countries made new alliances with fascist countries following the conclusion of the conference, Lore stated. Only eight countries in South America today can be termed democracies. On the other hand 13 must be termed fascist or near fascist.

"The American people can no longer be isolationists," declared the writer. "Every fascist country in Europe has underground movements operating here in the United States. The goal of these fascists is a million members in 1939, and they say that they will have them, and we had better look out," he warned.

Defeated at Roots

Lore pointed out that fascism could not be defeated by fighting it here in the United States alone. "We must defeat fascism where it has its roots," he exclaimed. "We cannot hope to remain democratic if all other nations become fascist deserts. Every boat brings new agitators and new propagandists to this country

Senate Reorganization Proposal Defeated; New Plan Introduced

BULLETIN

The Phillips Bill, authorizing state universities to refund notes issued to finance dormitory construction, was signed by Governor Bricker Thursday afternoon, the United Press reported today.

Opposition to the bill was led by the Columbus Rooming House Association, which protested that the Phillips Bill was "communistic legislation which would allow schools to compete with privately owned rooming houses."

Where's Arant? Nobody Knows

Probably the busiest man on the campus is former Dean Herschel W. Arant, who resigned Wednesday as dean of the College of Law. Because of his appointment as Judge of the Sixth District U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals he "has been tearing here and there, not even having time to take his hat and coat off" to use the words of his secretary.

Visitors are told that Dean Arant isn't in and that no one knows when to expect him. "If you can find out when he will take up his new job I wish you'd tell me," his secretary is saying. "As a matter of fact I have only seen him two or three times in the last few days and then I didn't have time to say 'hello' before he was gone again."

World's Fair Will Employ 50 Students from Campus

University students who are contemplating employment at the New York World's Fair this summer will be interested to know that they must make known their availability before April 30. This was made known by a letter to William S. Guthrie, head of the student employment agency, from C. L. Lee, director of personnel for the fair.

Approximately 50 students will be chosen for employment from Ohio State University by a representative of the Fair Employment office when he visits the campus. The date of his visit has not been announced.

Students will be selected for a variety of jobs; among them will be such positions as hostess, cashier, information supervisor, field men and gate lieutenants. These positions will pay a minimum salary of $20 per week, and students will be afforded transportation to and from the Fair if they live outside a radius of 250 miles.

Young men will be selected for these positions, preferably of more than average height, 5 feet 10 inches to 6 feet 2 inches, clean-cut and courteous, and young women well groomed and courteous. Experience for the majority of these positions is not necessary as a short period of training will be given at the Fair before the opening date.

Patton Discusses Family Finances

Should a family plan and spend its income according to a budget? This question and others on family finance were discussed by Professor Robert D. Patton of the department of economics at a meeting of the Institute for Social Living Thursday night.

Professor Patton said that there can be no set budget worked out that would be satisfactory for every family. It is a personal problem to be decided by the individual, he said.

After Professor Patton's talk, an informal round-table discussion was held by the members of the group on the problems that had been presented.

Women Sponsor Examination Files

Deciding to overcome difficulties in studying for examinations caused when Union exam files were closed to them, women students will open an examination file in Pomerene Hall. The Pomerene Advisory Committee will sponsor the files which will be located in the WSGA offices.

All students are urged to bring copies of old examinations and midterms to the WSGA office at once so that the files can be organized before the end of this quarter and become of some use to students before exam time.

Doctors to Honor College Founding

Assembly Will Visit Three Columbus Hospitals, Hear Reports of Research

Staffs of three Columbus hospitals are preparing for visitors Thursday morning, when the "post-collegiate assembly" of the College of Medicine gets under way. The assembly will celebrate the one hundred and fifth anniversary of the founding of the medical college.

Thursday morning the visitors, including not only Ohio State medical alumni but other physicians and surgeons as well, will attend regular medical and surgical clinics at Children's, St. Francis and University Hospitals.

A dozen papers, presented at 15-minute intervals, will be heard in the Thursday afternoon session at University Hospital, with Dr. Charles A. Doan presiding.

Thursday Evening

Thursday night, with Dean J. H. J. Upham presiding, the visitors will hear reports of research work now in progress in Ohio State's medical departments. Dr. Rollo C. Baker will report on anatomy, Dr. N. Paul Hudson on bacteriology, Dr. F. A. Hartman on physiology, Dr. George M. Curtis on surgery, Dr. Clayton S. Smith on physiological chemistry, Dr. Doan on medicine, Dr. Emmerich von Haam on pathology and Dr. Andrews Rogers on obstetrics.

Friday the medical reunion program will gather increased momentum, with three lectures running concurrently each hour.

The sessions continue through Saturday, with class reunions and medical fraternity banquets as events of the closing day.

Officials to Make Inspection Tour

Governor John W. Bricker and a party of state officials departed today on a week-end inspection trip of Illinois and Michigan universities.

The trip, financed by Ohio State University alumni organizations, is designed to acquaint Ohio officials with educational facilities offered by the two sister states.

Dr. William McPherson, Acting President of Ohio State University, J. L. Morrill, Vice President, Business Manager Carl Steeb and Carlton S. Dargusch, C. J. Altmaier, and H. S. Atkinson, University Trustees, accompanied the party which included:

19 OF 27 SENATORS VOTE AGAINST BILL

NYA Citizenship Blanks Mailed

Stradley Designates March 3 as Deadline For Filing Affidavits

Affidavit blanks for declaring citizenship were mailed today to 470 project supervisors of NYA and will be received by NYA workers within the next two days, according to Dr. Bland L. Stradley, chairman of the NYA selections committee.

Students unable to comply with the requirements for making this citizenship affidavit shall be withdrawn from NYA employment on or before March 6, under the provisions of Public Resolution No. 1, drawn up by the Seventy-sixth Congress.

Affidavits must be filed at the University Entrance Board office before March 3, in order that they may reach the state office before the deadline of March 6, Dr. Stradley said.

Free Notary Service

Affidavit blanks may be notarized free of charge at the information desk in the Administration Building. Students are urged to take advantage of this service.

Dean Stradley asked that students realize that the University has no option other than assuming that those not filing affidavits are aliens, and must be treated as such.

"This is a federal affidavit over a notary's seal and we caution all students to be certain of their status before swearing to citizenship," he said.

Strollers to Present 'Jacob Comes Home'

"Jacob Comes Home," a short one-act play based on the Jewish persecution in Nazi Germany, will be presented at an open meeting of Strollers Dramatic Society on Tuesday in Campbell Hall.

The following students have parts in the play: Bernard R. Spiegel, Com-1; Cleda G. Jones, A-Ed-4; Sylvia Lipson, Com-2; Leonard A. Klienman, A-3, and Christine Bath, Com-2. It is directed by F. Page Boyer, A-3.

Immediately after the result of the voting was announced, William L. Coleman, representative from the College of Law, re-introduced as a new amendment the defeated amendment with the scholastic requirement for Senators changed from the requirement for graduation in the various colleges to a point-hour ratio of 2.5.

Robert W. Ferguson, president of the Senate, then appointed a seven-member committee to consider the problem of reorganization and report back at the meeting of March 9. The re-introduced amendment also will be acted upon at that meeting.

Petitions Introduced

During the discussion of the original amendment, Kenneth J. Rosen, Com-3, presented to the Senate petitions signed by more than 400 students of the University who asked ratification of the amendment and stated that in case it failed they would petition the Senate to reconsider it in accordance with Article VIII, Section 2, of the Student Senate constitution. This section stipulates that proposals to amend the constitution may be submitted by a petition of 4 per cent of the student body.

Discussion of the amendment prior to the roll call vote dealt chiefly with the questions of whether Senate representation on a basis of organized activities is democratic and whether fraternity domination of campus activities is promoted through the medium of the Senate.

French-Speaking Audience Sees 'Le Barbier de Seville'

By JUDITH SMILACK

The average Frenchman has one advantage over the average American—he can understand French.

But the audience that saw the French Club's presentation of "Le Barbier de Seville" Thursday night in University Hall Chapel was no ordinary group of spectators. It was a French-speaking audience that witnessed Beaumarchais' comedy, presented 164 years to the day after its premiere in 1775.

The comedy was reminiscent of the nineteenth century heroine-villain-hero American "dramers" daubed with a brush that has been dipped in a bucket of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

The story in brief is that Rosine, played by Shirley A. Tice, A-Ed-4, rebelling at being kept a virtual prisoner by her guardian, Bartholo, played by Charles E. Carlut, department of Romance languages, plots with one Count Almaviva, played by Irving A. Stone, A-Ed-4, to escape her guardian's fiendish power.

Figaro Helps

In league with the lovers is Figaro, portrayed by Theodore R. Bowie, department of Romance languages. By dint of note throwings, serenading under the fair lady's window and donning disguises as an effeminate music instructor and as a drunken soldier, the Count wins his lady. Bartholo is irate but powerless to intercede.

The moral—nothing can stand in the way of true love.

From the first line to the last curtain call, only French was spoken in a setting typically French.

An innovation, one which is always found in French theaters, was the "souffleur." (The word has nothing to do with eggs.) It merely refers to the position of the prompter. She sat in a black box enclosed on three sides, its open side facing the stage.

Democracy at Work

The proportional representation amendment to reorganize the personnel of the Student Senate met stout resistance Thursday night in its first test before that body. Nineteen Senators opposed the amendment; eight favored it.

Nevertheless, despite the undemocratic representation in the present Senate, it seemed to us that democracy was working pretty efficiently Thursday night. Debate was long and sometimes heated. Good and valid points were made for both sides.

Whether or not the amendment is ever passed in its proposed form, we predict that out of the discussion which it has aroused will come changes in Senate personnel which will make the Senate more representative than it is at present. If that is the case, democracy will have moved as it always does—slowly, but also carefully.

There are now two courses open to students who are dissatisfied with the present organization of the Senate. We recommend participation in both of them.

First is a petition to the Senate to reconsider the amendment. The Senate constitution makes it mandatory on the Senate to consider a proposed amendment if four per cent of the student body petition the Senate for consideration of such a proposal. If the Senate fails to pass the amendment within the next three meetings the proposal can be submitted to a general election by securing the signatures of an additional two per cent of the students.

We hope such petitions will be presented to the Senate within the next few days. Such action will insure further discussion, voting and debate on the proposal on the Senate floor, and this should eventually bring about some sort of a reorganization.

In the second place the Senate appointed a committee to consider the present organization of the Senate with a view to making recommendations for changes in the present set-up. These changes would probably be along the lines of dropping some organizations now represented and taking in others. We suggest that organizations wishing representation on the Senate petition the Senate for seats immediately giving reasons why they think they should be represented. Such action will serve to give present Senators a better basis upon which to consider any recommendations made by the Committee appointed last night.

At this writing we fail to see how the present organization representation plan can be continued on a basis which is both truly democratic and consistent, but we are open to conviction. We think proportional election of candidates by colleges, safeguarded by high eligibility requirements for candidates and carefully supervised elections, is the most democratic and practical plan that has been proposed.

But this plan was overwhelmingly voted down last night. It only received eight favorable votes while passage of it requires twenty-one. Nevertheless, we think the plan is worth reconsideration. We think "Ohio State needs a change."

Unless a highly meritorious plan for reorganization by organizations comes out of the committee appointed last night to study the present set-up, we think the plan of electing Senators by colleges should be carried to a general campus election.

Accredit the Institute

A faculty committee is studying the advisability of giving regular University credit to students enrolled in the Institute for Social Living. Its recommendations, if favorable, will be submitted to the administration with a proposal for extending credit for attendance at the Institute.

We hope the committee decides to take favorable action on the matter. After that we hope the administration decides to follow the committee's recommendations and decides to extend credit for the Institute.

Such a step should boost participation in a course which is beneficial to students in the University. Extending credit to the Institute is a worth-while step to aid a worth-while activity.

Glittering Generalities

By Richard Taylor

It's getting so a man's hair isn't safe on his own head anymore, with the epidemic of forcible hair cutting sweeping the campus. Walking into a fraternity house with a month's growth of hair is the height of imprudence, for the boys will take one look at you and run for the scissors. Joe Ryan is the latest victim, having had his part widened some two inches last week.

If we could just install a little technique into the process, think of the barber bills that could be saved. And think of all the thousands of barbers who would have to go on relief. They say it's just a good old American custom, one tradition that started with the Indians, and hasn't gone out with freshman caps.

Things are getting pretty bad when students have to walk three blocks to class after parking their cars.

The Sigma Nus would have to throw a bomb out the window just when we were getting those awful "red" rumors quieted down.

The biggest BMOC of the day is not an activities man, but an ivory tickler. Sam, the jam man from the Onyx Club, is more sought after than anything you could think of, and for a nominal sum can be induced to spend a few hours taking the goat out of your piano legs.

The Kappa Sig who is charged with hauling twenty-one brothers in his car will probably get in trouble with the Good Housekeeping Bureau for packing too many sardines in an undersized can.

John Sisson claims that Pat Smith came to him with a sparkling tale of a marvelous floor show she had seen somewhere. Said Pat, "Gosh, there were chickens, and monkeys, and parrots and Betas all over the place."

We wouldn't know spring was approaching without the announcements each year that Strollers will "put on a spring quarter production this year for sure." It's like the same annual stereotyped announcement of the Junior Prom decorations.

What could be more useless in zero weather than a car with a heater and no campus parking permit?

At the Ohio Staters, Inc., guest luncheon, Clancy Isaac introduced one of his less boisterous cheerleaders as "a boy who never lets anyone know exactly what he was doing."

Jack Fullen then got up and introduced Clancy as "the boy who let everybody know what he was doing."

This year's crop of seniors seems to be doing right well in getting jobs lined up after graduation. Jimmy Kidd has a job with Firestone, Keith Bliss has prospects of going with Armstrong Cork, and Bob Ferguson says he has had several successful interviews with WPA officials.

Bill Edwards and Howard Unrue have perfected a super-gadget which opens the window, turns on the heat, light, and radio in the mornings, all automatically. They still haven't found anything that will get them out of bed though. By the time they wake up, the room is so pleasant that they just stay under the covers all morning. Well, that's what the machine age has done to us.

Ohio University students have instituted an installment plan for the payment of Prom tickets. An even better idea would be the "Prom Savings Plan," where immediately after one year's prom, a bank account would be opened toward the next year's event. Thus the interest which would accumulate might be enough to buy flowers for the gals.

Off-Campus Comment

Marx, Voltaire, et al

It was inevitable that the red-hunters would bump into the ghost of Voltaire while searching for Karl Marx behind the aged sycamores on Ohio State's campus.

Voltaire's credo of tolerance, expressed in the statement: "I do not agree with a single word that you say but will defend to the death your right to say it," couldn't be avoided.

And it is altogether likely that the probers will run into Patrick Henry, Thomas Jefferson, Tom Paine and Abraham Lincoln before they get much farther. It is possible, also, that they might come up against Article One of the Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution.—Columbus Citizen.

Covering the Churches

By Janelle Moser

Lenten Services

With the opening of the Lenten season, church activities are centered around special Lenten services from now until Easter. Many of the sermons will be in the form of a series which will be continued each Sunday.

Of special interest to members of the Indianapolis Methodist Episcopal Church will be the services this Sunday when members will witness the burning of the mortgage of the parsonage at the regular morning service.

The president of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church will present the mortgage to Professor Thomas C. Holy, Bureau of Educational Research, who will accept it on behalf of the official board and the church membership. The mortgage will be burned before the altar of the church.

Dr. Robert Leonard Tucker will tell then of his experiences while living in the parsonage at 242 Eighteenth Avenue since it was purchased 12 years ago.

The Society of Friends will meet for worship Sunday at 11 a. m. at the Indianapolis Student Center.

Contemporary Problems

Dr. Robert Leonard Tucker, pastor of the Indianapolis Methodist Episcopal Church, will present the first of a Lenten series of sermons Loyalty Sunday, February 26, at 10:30 a. m., when he will speak on the topic, "Living in the Knowledge of Passing Something Significant to the Coming Generation."

The annual Lenten communion service will be held at 7:45 p. m. In his series of five sermons on the theme, "What Men Live By," Dr. Tucker plans to discuss the psychological implications of religion, dealing with contemporary problems.

The Indianapolis Methodist Church will climax its "School of Life" with a panel discussion led by Miss Polly Moss of the YWCA on the question, "What is the single largest job on our campus in the light of a religious sense of values?" at its vesper services Sunday night.

Students from all the Methodist churches in and around Columbus are invited to attend the "Methodist Mixer" to be held at the Indianapolis Student Center tonight.

Lutheran Students

The Lutheran Student Association has set aside two go-to-church nights during Lent. March 1 the students will attend the evening service at St. Luke Church and March 8 they will go to the Indianapolis Lutheran Church. Students will provide special vocal music.

Youth Month at the First Baptist Church will end Sunday. In the morning Dr. Banning will discuss "The Task Youth Faces." The evening service is in the hands of the Vesper Club. The theme for this service will be "Your Life Faith."

Another Lenten series of services will be given by Dr. P. Martin Baker, minister of the Northminster Presbyterian Church. The general theme,

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, LANTERN:

I wish to call to your attention the "Courtesy Week" which is being sponsored by Links organization, on this campus in the next few weeks.

This project is being sponsored with the purpose of acquiring more daily habits of courtesy among the students of this University. Since there is a tendency among students at larger schools, such as ours, to become careless in their respect toward their classmates, the Links organization is going to attempt to establish a week which will be dedicated to establishing ways to make the students become more conscious of their considerations toward others.

Hope for Tradition

Various ways have been outlined, such as presenting short skits illustrating instances which disagree with Emily Post. There will be various posters and other information posted at different places on the campus.

Being a member of Links, we feel that this project will be really worth while and we hope to put it across so as to leave a definite impression among the students. We hope it will get enough publicity and recognition that we might retain it next year as a tradition of the campus.

The Links organization will appreciate any help and cooperation that any other activity or publication of the campus would be willing to extend.

YMCA Plans to Hold
More Fireside Talks

Plans are being completed to continue the fireside sessions that proved popular during the recent Religion-in-Life Week. J. Robert Hoffman, A-3, chairman of the fireside sessions committee of the YMCA, said today.

Because of the great interest shown by campus organizations, a list of 24 faculty members is being mailed together with numerous topics to interested organizations ranging from "Racial Harmony and the Need of Religion" to "The Value of Travel."

The William
Neil TavernThe Old Neil House Was 29 Years
Old When Lazarus Opened for Business in 1851---

THE Neil House is one of those hotels whose history is interwoven with the early history of America. In the stage coach days of 1822 it was known as the William Neil Tavern. 1839 saw the completion of the original Neil House which was destroyed by fire on the night of Lincoln's election, November 6th, 1860.

The Neil House was rebuilt, in the same vital location opposite the State House, and has been rebuilt three times since.

William McKinley was one of the many Ohio political personages who made his home at the Neil House—this was during his governorship and presidential campaign. Among the thousands of famous names on the treasured registry of the Neil House are those of Abraham Lincoln, 13 other presidents of the United States, Charles Dickens, William Dean Howells, Jenny Lind, Admiral Farragut, Salmon P. Chase, Daniel Webster, Horace Greeley, John Quincy Adams and Ellen Terry.

Today's luxurious modern Neil House, with its 658 guest rooms, is more than worthy of its national reputation as a fine hotel. And Lazarus is proud to be ranked with its High Street neighbor, the Neil House, as an institution known throughout Ohio and America for the quality of goods and service it provides.

Final Road Jaunt Begun by Hopeful Scarlet Cage Squad

The much traveled Ohio State basketball team takes to the road again this afternoon for the final trip of a grueling Big Ten campaign.

The fuzzy-heads will face Wisconsin Saturday in Madison and Michigan Monday in Ann Arbor before returning to the Coliseum next Saturday to conclude the season against Purdue.

The Scarlet cause received added support this week when Gilbert Mickelson, sophomore forward who had been out of the lineup for nearly three weeks nursing an injured knee, rejoined the squad. Mickelson's injury is mending satisfactorily and he will make the trip with the other Bucks.

Coach Harold Oisen says he probably will use the regular starting line of Jimmy Hull and Dick Baker

Baker	f	Smith
Schick	c	Beff
Boughner	c	Weigant
Lynch	c	Randel

at forwards, Johnny Schick at center and Dick Boughner and Bob Lynch at guards.

Hull is still suffering from the laryngitis which followed his attack of influenza last week, but he has no temperature and will be able to make the trip.

Although Wisconsin has been in the second division of the Conference since the season began, it demonstrated how unpredictable a Big Ten team can be by whipping Purdue last Saturday and then almost doing the same thing to Minnesota Monday night. The frightened Gophers squeezed out a 34 to 32 victory on their own floor.

Other teams the Badgers have defeated are Iowa and Michigan. They have lost six Conference games themselves.

Wisconsin players are the tallest the Bucks have been called upon to face this season. Their height and the fact they will be playing on their home floor are advantages the Bucks will have to overcome with speed, accurate shooting and lots of fight.

Harvard All Set

Bill Rowe, stroke of Harvard's junior varsity crew, is a candidate for the pace seat in the Crimson varsity which is minus four of last year's men: Spike Chace, stroke; Doug Erickson, John Gardiner, and John Clark. Harvard has redesigned its rowing tank and installed a new motor which increases the water speed until it goes over twice as fast as previously. The result is that crews can now hit the strokes up to 24 in the tank, whereas 20 was formerly the maximum.

Delta Sigs Win From DU's in I-M Tourney

First games in the final elimination rounds were played in intramural basketball Thursday night with flight champions competing.

Delta Sigma Delta pulled one of the major upsets of the tournament by downing Delta Upsilon, last year's champion, 21-16. The Delta Sig quintet just wouldn't be beaten, waging a strong uphill battle to forge ahead in the closing minutes. Their sharpshooting was too much for the zone defense of the DU's which had been very effective in previous contests.

With Jim Strausbaugh and Jim Sexton, footballers, providing the impetus, Sigma Alpha Epsilon squeezed out a 19-13 win over Omega Tau Sigma. Behind 10-8 at the half, the SAE's showed a reversal of form in the closing period, scoring 11 to their opponent's 3 to end with a comfortable lead.

In a close, bitterly fought game between two evenly matched teams, Phi Gamma Delta overcame Nu Sigma Nu 15-10. Bud Winkler sparked his teammates to the win with a number of well-executed pivot shots.

In another very close game, the Southerners came through with a one point win over Tower Club No. 6, 17-16. Reichert netted seven points for the winners.

Moon of the Rangers won individual scoring honors for the evening with 18 points to his credit. Behind his scoring spree, the Rangers played to a 42-14 victory over the Thunderbolts.

Mermen Aim At Cleveland Pool Records

For the second consecutive year the swimming team is planning a "record busting" spree at the Cleveland Athletic Club. Prime factor in the decision to set some new pool records when exhibiting at the Forest City Club pool this Saturday is due, no doubt, to the fact that most of the records the Bucks didn't break last year are still held by Michigan swimmers.

Last year the Buck mermen set a new 400-yard relay mark and this year they expect to chalk up new marks in the 300-yard medley relay, the breast stroke events and backstroke splashes. The Cleveland fans will also see diving as done by three experts: Al Patnik, Earl Clark and home-town boy Brud Cleveland.

Al McKee and Johnny Hartlein have been confined to University Hospital since Monday, but are expected to join their teammates at practice this evening and take part in the Cleveland trek Saturday—V.S.G.

The National Student Federation of America at its last convention voted not to back the annual nationwide college peace strike.

Women Cage Officials to Get Examinations

The Ohio State Board of the Women's National Officials Rating Committee in Basketball will give an examination Saturday on the campus. The Board is offering the examination in an effort to raise the officiating standards at girls' basketball games, according to Dorothy Sumption, department of physical education.

The test will be given to women teachers in nearby colleges and local high schools. A written examination will be given at 11 a. m. and those passing will be given a practical test in the afternoon.

Judges of the Ohio State Board will be Miss Sumption, chairman; Jeannette A. Stein, Henrietta Cherrington and Mary M. Yost, all of the department of physical education.

Student teams from Capital University, Otterbein College and Ohio State will play in the informal tournament. The examination will be offered at a later date to students.

The A.A.U. basketball players who toured South America declared that the best basketball below the equator is played in Chile and Peru, where there are American coaches.

Wolves Rated Over Scarlet Matmen Here

Michigan—that's the hurdle Spike Mooney's grapplers have to jump at Ann Arbor Saturday. Michigan, undefeated and roaring on toward their second consecutive Big Ten title, face a weak Ohio State squad. The Bucks have suffered colds all week and are in no shape to face the Wolves.

The Wolverines have walloped four teams this season including Billy Thom's Indiana outfit. They finished in second place in the Central AAU meet at Chicago last December.

In a close match here last season the Wolves took the Bucks 19½ to 10½. Ohio State boasts one undefeated man in Tony Montanaro. Michigan has four matmen in this class—Jim Mericka, Forrest Jordan, Don and Captain Harold Nichols.

Probable lineup:

Tony Montanaro	145 (C)	Harold Nichols

Two Dances Planned By Phi Kappa Sigmas

Scabbard and Blade Formal to Be Saturday;
Phi Eps Plan Tea Party; Reception Scheduled

By MARTHA ANN HINKLE
Society Editor

The Phi Kappa Sigmas have planned not one, but two events for this week end. Saturday evening they will hold their annual winter formal, with Howdy Gorman's orchestra playing for dancing. The dance is to be at their lovely house, with Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hamilton as chaperons. And, instead of presenting the girls with corsages, the boys will give dainty gold necklaces with the Phi Kap crest to their dates. Sunday afternoon will find a tea dance in full swing at the house, the hours for it being from 3 to 5.

Military Affair

Here's another formal scheduled for Saturday night. Scabbard and Blade will entertain with a dance that evening at the Officers' Club at Fort Hayes. Music will be furnished by the Fort Hayes post orchestra and all officers of the post have been invited to attend.

Tea Party

The Phi Epsilon Pi pledges are planning to entertain Alpha Epsilon Pi pledges at tea Saturday afternoon at the former chapter house. The program, we are told, will be strictly impromptu.

Zeta Doings

The Zeta Tau Alphas really did the late holiday up right. Starting festivities was a dance at the chapter house Tuesday evening. This was followed by a rushing party at the house Wednesday afternoon. Bette Lowman was in charge of the latter event, which was planned entirely by the pledges.

Receptions

The residents of Mack, Oxley and Neil Halls will entertain some hundred guests at the annual Faculty Reception at Neil Hall from 3 until 11 Saturday night. The senior girls will act as hostesses, and a skit will be presented by the inmates of each hall. Following the reception, there will be dancing from 11 to 1 to the music of Clark Hammett and his orchestra.

More Dorm News

Incidentally, those three halls celebrated Washington's Birthday with a tea dance at Neil Hall, with Clark Hammett's orchestra providing the music. This semi-formal dance is an annual affair, and the heads of the dormitories sponsoring it.

G. W. Tea Dance

We almost forgot to mention the George Washington tea dance to be held Saturday, but not quite. The Pomerene Advisory Board is sponsoring the party, with Betty Belt as general chairman. Dancing will be from 4 to 7 in Pomerene Hall and the party is open to all. The committee chairmen include Ruthanne Nichols, Joan Zimmerman, Jane Walcutt, Betty Hadsell, Edna Barr, Ellen Southard, and Beth House.

Women's Club

The Child Development Group of the University Women's Club will meet at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Charles Doan. A round table discussion will constitute the program.

Double-Dance!

The Epsilon Psi Epsilons and the Theta Chis will get together tonight for their fourth annual winter formal to be held in the gold room of the Fort Hayes Hotel. The music will be furnished by Floyd Flanders and his orchestra, and the party is to be from 10 until 1. The chaperons include Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dreese, Mr. and Mrs. D. Earhart, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Fry, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Williams and Dr. and Mrs. F. W. March. Looks like the two fraternities should have a very noble time.

That's all until next week. . . . Have a good time at the Junior Prom tonight, chickadees. . . . G'bye.

Council Will Hear Fuel Company Head

Paul Clapp, president of the Ohio Fuel Association, will speak at a Commerce Council meeting Tuesday. His subject will be "What Public Utilities Expect of the College Graduate."

At the council meeting held early this week, additional plans were made for the College Roundup March 1. To date, entertainers include Vernon S. Gilmore, A-2, juggler, and John W. Sigler, A-4, accordion player.

A Dartmouth College student has begun publication of a weekly newspaper for skiing enthusiasts.

Reorganization Plan Is Defeated

of articles concerning the present system of Student Senate representation. Mr. Park quoted the following sentence from an article published February 15:

"... Until last year these students (5500 independent men) did not have a single Student Senate representative."

He then named five independent students who served on the Senate during 1937-1938. Referring to the same article which said the IMA had not had a representative until last year, he explained the reason for this was that the IMA had not been organized before last year.

Mr. Park ridiculed the contention in an article published February 20 that the Tower Club should be considered similar to a fraternity. He also stated that he believed the introduction of the petition, "threatening" to invoke Article VIII, Section 2, of the constitution in the event the amendment failed, was in "bad taste" at that time.

Has Independents in Mind

Mr. Park asked the Senators not to interpret his statements to mean he did not have the interests of independent students in mind and declared, "I believe in their cause." He pointed out that in 1926 when the Men's Student Council, the predecessor of the Senate, held its last campus-wide election every member chosen was affiliated with a fraternity.

Among the other speakers opposing the amendment was Dean W. Palmer, secretary of the Senate, who pointed out that the Senate as it is now organized has won recognition as one of the three leading student government bodies in the nation.

Chief plea for ratification of the amendment was made by Tom J. McFadden, editor of the LANTERN, who based his argument on the need for drawing the University's 5000 unaffiliated students into activities "so that they can benefit themselves and the University." He said it was his belief that the reorganization amendment would be a step in this direction.

Favor Reorganization

During the discussion, various speakers expressed the belief that some form of reorganization was in order, although they disapproved of the type of reorganization suggested by the amendment. The committee appointed to look into the problem consists of Vincent Faciuto, Betty Belt, Keith Bliss, Margaret E. Brown, Mary Froman, Coleman and McFadden.

The Senate also: ACCEPTED the report of the class cabinet advisory committee which included a resolution putting the Senate on record as favoring the continuance of class officers for the following reasons:

(1) Class presidents seem to be figureheads and figureheads are necessary in a democratic organization in order to insure unity.

(2) The election of class officers creates school interest and develops school spirit.

(3) The sophomore, junior and senior presidents of a class serve as the nucleus for an ambitious and energetic alumni.

(4) Class presidents have the interest of the University at heart and support all worthy campus projects.

Junior Prom
HEARD a report on the Junior Prom from Harry T. Vallery, Com-3, in which he said $1000 was being spent to engage Will Osborne's orchestra and that total expenses would amount to $1950. Income from ticket sales already amounts to $2100.

LISTENED to reports by William C. Nosker, president of the sophomore class, who outlined the progress of plans for a sophomore banquet, and Phyllis L. Tinling, Ag-4, who related additional details regarding the banquet for University alumni serving in the General Assembly.

Martin Schilling, Midland College student, has traveled 12,000 miles "by thumb" in 15 states during the last three years.

Have a Heart? Player Has 13

"Phew!" said contract bridge player Harold Polster, Engr-3, as he picked up a hand dealt to him, and saw that the cards were all hearts. The same thing had happened two weeks before to Harold's friend, Don McConnell, A-2, who also held a full suit of hearts, and, now a repetition of this height of a bridge player's dreams had happened again.

Paradoxically enough, neither of the contract addicts were able to play out their perfect hands, because they overbid on both occasions, and didn't play a trick.

In case Ripley is interested both the games took place in the game room, second floor, Ohio Union, and were part of the bridge tournament being sponsored by the Freshman Activities office.

Alignment Attempt Is Called Failure

who are supported by fascist states,"

The Munich peace affair, in which England and France surrendered to Hitler's demands, will not be repeated, Lore believes. England and France are both rearming to prevent the repetition of any such occurrence.

Czechoslovakia was not the only one that suffered from this affair, Lore said. The "balance of power" was upset and the glory that was once England and France has faded. The democracies were the sufferers in the Munich Peace.

Roosevelt's Comments

In a press conference which Lore attended, President Roosevelt said England was not prepared to resist Hitler at the time of the Munich affair. He expressed the belief that the basic cause for England's actions was that her food supply was not sufficient, at that time, to carry on a war of any duration.

Totalitarian states are so strong that it is almost impossible to oppose them peacefully," Lore said. "If America would make an authoritative declaration on her stand, peace would be possible. These bankrupt totalitarian states could not carry on a war that included the United States. The European democracies look to President Roosevelt as their last hope."

Dr. Frederick E. Lumley, department of sociology, commented on Lore's address at the close of the meeting.

Groups Sponsor Religious Meeting

Interested students of the University will travel to Mount Union College next Friday to attend a Student Conference for World Christianity, Kenneth S. Kline, executive secretary of the YMCA, stated today.

Sponsored by the YMCA, the YWCA, the Ohio Student Volunteer Union and other Christian student groups of colleges and universities in Ohio, the conference will begin with a dinner at which time speakers will be introduced and plans for the two day assembly will be revealed.

Members in Charge

Members of the various colleges represented will be in charge of the informal discussions, each dealing with Christianity and the part that it plays in the present day world.

One of the featured speakers will be Dr. Walter M. Horton, professor in the Oberlin Graduate School of Theology, who will tell of his experiences at the World Conference of Religion at Madras, India.

Registration may be made at the YMCA office in the Ohio Union.

Cheerleaders to Get Awards at Banquet

University cheerleaders and cheering section managers will sponsor a banquet Thursday at which time keys will be presented to sophomore cheerleaders, it was decided at a recent meeting of the two groups.

Drilling of freshman candidates for cheerleading and cheer section posts will begin early next week. Richard P. Kelting, Engr-3, head cheerleader, and John W. Millar, Ag-3, cheering section manager, will be in charge of tryouts.
