

DEBATERS CHOSEN

Corkery, Dillin and Rankin Will Represent O. S. U.

Thomas J. Corkery is still the best debater at the Ohio State University.

The team which will represent this University in the debate next March has been chosen and the speakers themselves are already hard at work on the question.

Last Monday night an audience of about 300 students greeted the six debaters as they stepped upon the platform to do final battle for the team. Mr. E. A. Spurrier, a Senior law student and President of the local Debating and Oratorical League, presided over the contest. He opened the evening's program with a few appropriate remarks, giving briefly the history of the State Debating League and closed by stating the object for which the meeting was called.

He then read the order of the speakers; also stating that each speaker was to have a speech of ten minutes and finally a closing rebuttal of five minutes.

Mr. Spurrier then read the question, which was: "Resolved, that the concentration of municipal administrative powers in the mayor is preferable to its distribution among elective boards or officers."

The speakers were then introduced.

Mr. Stanley Rankin was the first affirmative speaker, and in a very pleasing and earnest manner put before the judges what they had to prove and what the negative would have to uphold. His manner of speaking was easy and graceful and his utterance clear and distinct.

Mr. George P. Hahn was the first negative speaker and his speech was clear and thoughtful. He attacked the affirmative in various places and throughout his entire argument presented phases of the question which could not be rebutted. His phraseology was concise, and his arguments keen and clear cut.

Mr. Stanley E. Corkery made the second affirmative speech. His time was taken up in presenting more fully the position already taken up by the first affirmative speaker.

The second negative speech was made by Mr. Thomas J. Corkery. Mr. Corkery came forward with his characteristic confidence and earnestness and at once captivated his audience by the intelligent way in which he put his arguments. Mr. Corkery's deep, resonant voice carries conviction with it and added to this his ability as a thinker makes him doubly a winner.

Mr. E. A. Robinson made the last argument for the affirmative. Too much credit cannot be given to Mr. Robinson for his plucky fight. Mr. Robinson was chosen first alternate last December and, as it is only in very rare instances that an alternate is called upon to take a place in the final debate, Mr. Robinson was not expecting to contest at all. However, Mr. H. L. Loomis, who was to have debated, was unfortunately taken ill on Monday and it was not until late in the afternoon that Mr. Robinson was notified of this fact. In the few hours left to him he worked hard and when he had finished, was loudly praised. His argument was easily apparent, was logical and well brought out.

Mr. E. S. Dillin presented the final argument for the negative side of the question. There was something pleasing about Mr. Dillin's style which readily gave him the good will of the judges. Connected with his style and manner was his cleverness in handling the question. Mr. Dillin is a forcible as well as pleasing speaker and even at times is eloquent.

The order of the speakers in rebuttal was: T. J. Corkery, S. E. Corkery, E. S. Dillin, E. A. Robinson, George P. Hahn and Stanley Rankin.

The rebuttal speeches in every instance were better than the first speeches of the debaters, and especially was it so of the speeches of Mr. George P. Hahn, T. J. Corkery and Stanley Rankin.

The judges now retired in order to form their decision. There was to have been six of them, but Dr. Knight and Prof. Clark were unavoidably detained, which left but four—Dr. Scott, Prof. Denney, Prof. Dickenson, and Prof. Page, who took the place of Prof. Hunter.

It was some time before the judges announced their decision, and in the meantime the people, becoming restless, began to move about and cluster here and there, and speculate as to the outcome. When the decision was finally announced every one was quiet and breathless interest prevailed. The decision was: Mr. Thomas J. Corkery, first place; Mr. E. S. Dillin, second place; Mr. Stanley Rankin, third place; Mr. George F. Hahn, alternate. Mr. Hahn has resigned his place as alternate, which, however, will be filled by appointment of the judges.

Hon. John J. Lentz gives a prize of $25 every year to be divided into a prize of $15 for the best debater, and a second prize of $10 to the second best debater.

This year Mr. T. J. Corkery gets first money, which makes the second time he has had the honor of taking it, having been chosen to the first place last year.

Mr. Corkery is a graduate of the Toledo High School, and while there he represented his high school in various debating contests.

VETERINARY BUILDING

New Structure Well Adapted to Department's Needs

To the north of Townshend Hall, about one hundred and fifty feet, is located the new Veterinary Building, now under process of erection. This building will be devoted to the laboratory and lecture work of the Department of Veterinary Medicine.

The structure will be partly two stories and partly one story in height, with a light basement story under the entire building. The basement story being almost entirely above ground and provided with large windows, makes it just as desirable for department work as the floors above. It will contain a pharmacology laboratory, bacteriological preparation laboratory, animal experiment room, clinic laboratory, office, heating and ventilating apparatus, janitor's room and toilet room.

The first floor will contain corridors and stairways, four offices, a museum in which the large amount of valuable material possessed by the department can be advantageously arranged and displayed; a reading room, in which the literature pertaining to the work can be readily consulted by the students; a dissecting laboratory, made quite sanitary by cement floor and enameled brick walls, permitting a thorough cleansing with an abundance of water at any time. Directly connected with this room is the instructor's office and preparation room, and an amphitheatre lecture room with a seating capacity for 120 students. The dissecting laboratory and amphitheatre, lecture room are located in the one-story part of the building and are provided with large sky-lights in addition to the windows, making both rooms extremely well lighted.

Besides the rooms mentioned, this floor contains a recitation room, photographic dark room, chart room and a toilet room.

The second floor contains a pathological laboratory, bacteriological laboratory, two incubation rooms, two private laboratories for the instructors, an office and corridors.

The inside of the building will be plastered, except where enameled bricks are used, with smooth-finished, hard "rock wall" plaster, and the amount of inside wood finish is to be reduced to the smallest possible amount to eliminate the cracks and crevices, thus contributing to the sanitary features of the building.

Careful attention has been given the heating and ventilation of the structure. Each room will be supplied with a complete change of air every ten minutes, while the temperature of each room is regulated automatically. Under these conditions the atmosphere inside the building will be quite healthy and pleasant.

Externally the building will be finished with gray pressed brick with Bedford limestone trimmings. At the grade line is a twelve-inch belt course of "rock-faced" Bedford limestone, which forms the sill course for the basement windows. Above this the basement wall is finished with gray speckled pressed brick with every sixth course recessed one inch. This gives the basement walls a "blocked" appearance. At the top of the basement walls is a "tooled" water table of Bedford limestone twelve inches deep. Above the water table the walls are finished with smooth gray pressed brick. The windows are numerous and large and have "tooled" Bedford limestone caps and sills. All windows in the two-story part are glazed with "plate" glass, a desirable feature where microscope work is carried on.

The front entrance is a modest, yet dignified piece of carved Bedford limestone in Tuscan design. The roof will be covered with red roofing tile, forming a fitting and appropriate protection to the building.

Professor Bradford, the architect of the building, has succeeded well in incorporating the suggestions and needs of the Veterinary Department. In this work he has been ably assisted by Prof. French.

NEW RIFLES RECEIVED.

The University Battalion has received an additional equipment of 250 Springfield rifles from the Government. This makes a total equipment for 650 men.

OVERWHELMING VICTORY

Wittenberg's Easy Defeat a Surprise—O. W. U. Friday

On last Friday night the basketball season was formally opened by the game between the Wittenberg team from Springfield and O. S. U. The result was O. S. U. 43, Wittenberg 18. While our team had expected to win, hardly anyone had expected such an overwhelming victory. The careful and conscientious coaching the team has received from Mr. Huddleson was evident in every play. The Wittenberg team had been coached by Prof. R. C. Massman, a member of the national basketball rules committee, and came here with a reputation for fast and scientific playing. They played good, clean ball, and in general put up a creditable game, but their passing was the cause of their downfall. Individually the work was all right, but team work was absolutely lacking. Their defense was consequently weak. The team was not in good physical condition, and was greatly handicapped on this account. The work of Captain Ultes and of Center Jayne deserves mention.

The playing of the home team was entirely satisfactory, and came in the nature of a surprise to many who did not know how hard the boys had been working.

Both the individual play and the team work was excellent. Especial mention should be made of the work of Hegelheimer. The new system of playing by signal worked to perfection, and made the passing the conspicuous feature of the game. Every man was in his proper place just when he was wanted. The goal throwing was good, and showed considerable improvement over what was done in the practice games. The team was quick and active, and at all times ready to take advantage of any opportunity afforded by the misplays of their opponents. They showed up to good advantage in their new suits, which are not only adapted to quick work, but are also neat and attractive.

The attendance was not as good as it should have been. There were only 137 paid admissions, and a large part of these were enthusiastic rooters from the Columbus High Schools. North High alone had 35 out to cheer for O. S. U. In fact all the rooting was done by the High School men. This is rather a sad commentary on the loyalty of O. S. U. students to their basketball team.

The line-up was as follows. Manager McClure was not feeling well, and retired early in the second half in favor of Swan:

O. S. U. 43. Wittenberg 18.
McClure Ultes
Left Forward.

Swan Swift
Right Forward.

Hegelheimer Deaton

Goals from field—Bellows, 8; Cornell, 3; Hegelheimer, 5; Klie, 4; Ultes, 2; Swift, 2; Jayne, 1; Traut, 2. Goals from foul—Hegelheimer, 3; Traut, 4. Umpires—Ultes and Loechler. Referee—Postle.

PRESIDENT SCHURMAN

Delivers Two Addresses to O. S. U. Audiences

An audience which practically filled the main auditorium of the Central Presbyterian church, honored with attentive ears last Thursday evening President Jacob Schurman, of Cornell University. His address was the first of a series of lectures by college presidents in the Ohio State University Lecture Course, and his subject was "Some Current Educational Problems." The speaker was happily introduced by Hon. E. O. Randall, himself an alumnus of Cornell. Before entering upon the theme of his discourse, Dr. Schurman took occasion to explain that he is not a stranger here, having some dozen years ago delivered the annual address on commencement day at the Ohio State University. He also took occasion to pay a feeling tribute to the late President McKinley, whose friendship he had enjoyed, and who had expressed to him the wish that after his retirement from the presidency of the United States, he should at some time be made a trustee of the Ohio State University, for whose welfare he felt the deepest interest.

Taking up the subject for the evening, President Schurman pointed out the progress which the work of education had made during the last generation. In reference to the charge which has been urged against the common school system that it failed to insure the making of good and pious men and women, as indeed was one of the chief purposes of their establishment in the colony of Massachusetts, he impressed upon his hearers the fact that the purpose of the common school was purely scholastic, and not moral and religious culture. The latter phase of the development of the boy and girl, he contended, must remain with the parents and the pastors.

Discussing the problem of elective and prescribed courses in college he favored a compromise between the two, retaining certain fundamental mind-training branches, yet giving large freedom in elective studies. He thought that the great conservatism of the American people would save the new educational system from the danger which attend universally elective courses.

President Schurman deplored the apparent movement to practically eliminate the college or the A. B. courses, by a system of shortening the course in college.

He contended that only in the rarest instances can a youth begin the studies of a college course earlier than the age of seventeen or finish them before he is twenty-one. Then must come the professional training. He advocated heartily the acquirement of what he termed liberal culture provided in the college A. B. course, yet he could not be blind to the contingencies which existing circumstances created.

Discussing the growth and scope of the university, President Schurman warmly urged the wisdom of the broadest range possible.

The springing up of new professions created new demands for the universities to fill, and in recent years the professions of engineering and other arts which rest upon the science, have required the broadening of university training to include them. Three important functions belong to the university of today, contended the speaker. They are liberal culture, professional training and original research, and the greatest of these is liberal culture.

IN THE CHAPEL.

All connected with the University were delighted Friday morning by the notice that President Schurman, of Cornell, would speak in the chapel at 10:30. Those who had heard him the night before, as well as those who had not, gladly took advantage of this opportunity of listening to him. He gave several examples to show that a trained intelligence, whether gained in school or out of it, is the most necessary attribute for one who wishes to succeed. Ezra Cornell was a poor man until well past middle age. He was a farmer, a carpenter, a jack-of-all-trades, but at all times a student. The time soon came when such a man was needed. By his help and suggestions in stringing telegraph wires when they first came into use, he became rich. He founded a library, then Cornell University. He was not college bred, but he was an educated man.

Thomas Jefferson was a college man, and because he was a student, he did great things. Abraham Lincoln was one who attained greatness without school advantages. But he was educated—he educated himself. He did not succeed because he was poor, but because he had a high moral purpose and went to work for the realization of that purpose.

Do not think that success falls to a man because he is not college bred. In "Who is Who" it is shown that of all who have been notably successful, more than four-fifths were college graduates. If you see a man succeed who has not had such advantages, you may know that his success is due to his having trained his own mind. A trained intelligence is the brightest thing that the world offers, and no one appreciates the advantage of a college in giving this training, as much as the men who have succeeded without it. And many of these have made the way easier for the subsequent generation by founding and aiding colleges.

CORNELL MEN DINE.

The Cornell students of former days now residing in Columbus and neighboring towns tendered Dr. Schurman a complimentary dinner at the Neil House last Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. Hon. E. O. Randall, '74, acted as toastmaster, and brief remarks were made by President Schurman, of Cornell. Those present were: Professors F. C. Caldwell, '90; J. E. Boyd, '96; H. W. Kuhn, '01; F. E. Kester, '99; G. H. McKnight, '92; W. H. Kellerman, '74; W. R. Lazenby, '74; C. S. Prosser, '83; V. H. Davis, '01; E. A. Hitchcock, '90, and Hon. E. O. Randall, all of the State University, and F. C. Tomlinson, '74; T. C. Black, '92; H. R. Harrington, '92; H. S. Bronson, '89; E. G. Horton, '92; H. H. Johnson, '98; E. J. Lewis, '99; T. S. Tidball, '80; Dr. C. T. Clark, '77; H. M. Bush, '93; C. D. Young, '02; W. K. Lanman, '95, and Presidents W. O. Thompson and J. G. Schurman.

NOTICE TO STUDENTS.

Two students are now in quarantine for smallpox at 1577 Summit street. One of these students attended classes Monday, January 19. A number have been exposed.

By order of the Board of Health all students are required, after Friday morning, January 23, to show certificates that they have been successfully vaccinated within the past five years before going to their classes. Students will please give this matter attention at once.

W. O. THOMPSON, President.

The two students mentioned in the above notice are Weber O. Somer, who is ill, and W. A. Welty, who is reported to be his room-mate. Both are members of the Engineering College.

As will be seen from the above notice, it is not necessary that all students should be vaccinated. All that is required is that they shall have been successfully vaccinated within the last five years.

ARTISTIC TRIUMPH

Was the Hour With Grieg in Twilight Concert

It was as if an hour in Athens had wandered two thousand years away from home and the days of Olympian games were again. Never, perhaps, have the twilight concerts accomplished so difficult a task as the correct interpretation of Edward Grieg. His genius runs the whole diapason; now is turbulent with the fury of the tempest, now is "soft and sweet in Lydian measures," until we must be most cultured to comprehend and most versatile to unmask his romantic and tumultuous paintings.

The feast of music was propitiated by the presence of many young lady ushers whose caps and gowns and pretty white dresses most wonderfully became both the occasion and themselves. Then Miss Mabel Orebaugh offered a Sonata in E Minor, on the piano a majestic picture, delicately sombre, yet requiring the highest technical dexterity and scholarly appreciation for the heavy finale. Miss Orebaugh's work throughout was artistic, excelling in the expression of legato as well as staccato, while her vehemence was as natural as her playfulness.

Miss Heding Theobald sang "Nocturne" and "Thy Warning Be Good." Her voice, mellow on the low notes and clear on the high, excelled in the latter, and her quiet personality captivated the audience.

Miss Orebaugh's "Album Leaf" was a shadowed vignette, "The Butterfly" was in the bright and fantastic tonality of capriccioso, and brilliantly tinted. From its easy flight through the flutter and palpitation to the dainty alighting, Miss Orebaugh proceeded with skill and feeling. Her "Nocturne" had moody beginning, was dark, and heavy, with the occasional appearance of the moon, the waving of fantastic shadows, the wind and the storm. In "The March of the Dwarfs" she was at her best. This capricious conceit was presented with full expression of its wierd and wild nature. The irrational creatures lawlessly hurried through the piece like malevolent phantoms.

Miss Theobald made some beautifully clear runs in "Hidden Love," which exhibited the natural quality and the extensive training of her voice.

In Part II Miss Orebaugh, piano; Mr. Ziegler, violin, and Mr. Gardner, 'cello, interpreted the music written by the Norwegian artist for Ibsen's "Peer Gynt." Messrs. Gardner and Ziegler's work was excellent in "Daybreak," which was sweet, radiant and calm. "Anitra's Dance" was rapid, tender, coquettish and seductive: full of sensuous oriental color.

The next number was "In the Hall of the Mountain King," which exhibited the mountain spirit, dark and wierd. Fairies, elves and goblins added their voices, which rose at last into an incoherent shriek.

Hon. E. O. Randall, who "kindly read" Mrs. Ella May Smith's synopsis of the drama, quelled applause by stating that he did not intend to sing. Like Artemus Ward, he was always saddest when he sang, and so were those who heard him.

BAND AND ORCHESTRA.

The chairman of the senior social committee has about completed arrangements for the great dance. Enough has already been done to insure that the junior formal of 1903 will be the finest dance ever given at the University. The People's band and orchestra has been engaged, the band to play for the two-steps and the orchestra for the waltzes.

The use of the Gym has been obtained until 2 a. m., much longer than has ever been granted before.

SUICIDE DISCOVERED

Dr. Linhart Finds a Man's Body Near Botanical Hall

Dr. Linhart made a ghastly discovery about eleven o'clock last Friday night, when he came across the body of a man lying in the snow near the Botanical Building. The footsteps of the man were traced from the place of his death through the snow to the vicinity of the Gymnasium. There were evidences of an awful struggle of agony in the last few footprints in the snow.

Assistance was hastily called and the body removed. Coroner Lindsay was called, and, after investigation, pronounced the death to have been a case of suicide, and the means, carbolic acid.

The man was identified as Albert Eichrodt, who had been employed as a porter in a saloon on West Broad street. He was about 27 years old, and is believed to have had no relations in this country.

It was found that this was the second attempt of the man to commit suicide. Only a few weeks ago he was taken before Police Captain Russell because he had declared he was going to throw himself into the river. At that time he declared it was a joke, but that there was very little humor in it was shown by his last successful effort.

CLAYTON COOPER

To Address O. S. U. Men—Other Y. M. C. A. Meetings

The Young Men's Christian Association has succeeded in securing Clayton S. Cooper, of New York, for four addresses to the men of the University, to be given in the chapel at seven o'clock on the evening of Friday, January 30, and Saturday, January 31 and Saturday January 31, and at 10:30 a. m. and 3 p. m. Sunday, February 1. No man can afford to miss any one of the addresses. The Association, therefore, asks that all other student organizations, kindly keep the evenings of January 30 and 31 open.

Mr. Cooper is a graduate of Brown University. He was specially prominent in the literary and social life of the university and a Brown man says of him that he was easily the social leader of his class. He is a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

During his senior year, Mr. Cooper was president of the University Young Men's Christian Association. So successful was he in that work that upon graduation he was made a member of the advisory committee of the Brown Association. He was immediately offered an important place in association work and has ever since been engaged in work directly for men, with a remarkable degree of success.

Mr. Cooper served the Y. M. C. A. as office secretary of the international committee, and later as secretary of the Twenty-third Street Association in New York. He left this work, took a theological course in the Rochester Seminary and upon graduation became a pastor in Lynn, Mass. Here he was successful in organizing and conducting a Bible class of five hundred men. In the fall of 1902 he reluctantly left his church to accept the important position which he now holds, as Bible study secretary of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A.

He is not an entire stranger to O. S. U. men, many of whom have met him at the local Bible institute held here last October. Those who met him at that time remember him as a man of fine personal presence, a brilliant student, a master of rhetoric and an orator of great power.

FACULTY MEETING.

At the faculty meeting last Thursday very little except the routine business was transacted. The various department committees handed in their schedules of courses for next year, which were adopted by the faculty. All other business was laid over until the meeting tomorrow.

AGRICULTURAL STUDENTS

Of Ohio Hold a Profitable Meeting at O. S. U.

The ninth annual meeting of the Agricultural Students' Union of Ohio was held in Townshend Hall on Wednesday, January 14, 1903.

The address of welcome was given by Dr. W. O. Thompson and was followed by an address by President A. D. Selby, of Wooster, on "Agricultural Experimentation and Agricultural Progress." President Selby traced the development of agricultural progress and experimental methods and showed that they were becoming more efficient year by year, and that some of our methods of experimentation are now used by European nations. He discussed the methods of treating plant diseases and told how new and more difficult problems were continually coming up before the experimenter. He showed how the experiment station has as its work the lifting up and holding to the front the agricultur public, and the advancing of agricultural science and knowledge.

Prof. C. S. Plumb gave an address on "A Lesson in Co-operation." He showed how the Student's Union is a co-operative organization and cited the country of Denmark as a great lesson in agricultural co-operation. The people of Denmark made a study of their adaptabilities and the needs of the English markets, and although under much less favorable conditions than has Ohio, Denmark has prospered and has taught many important lessons to the agricultural world.

L. H. Goddard, of the Division of Agriculture, outlined the objects of the experimental test offered by the Union and reported that ninety-eight farmers, representing fifty-two counties, had taken part in the tests during the past year. He applied to the agricultural students to give more assistance to this work.

Prof. V. H. Davis, of the Division of Horticulture reported thirty-eight persons as having taken part in the tests and that the variety tests were the most popular. He suggested that the work had probably been too wide and general, and that only such experiments should be given as would give positive or negative results.

Prof. J. W. Decker, of the Division of Dairying reported that the work in his department had been a continuation of the work of the previous year and that more definite and detailed results had been obtained.

The reports of the Division of Agriculture under the direction of J. F. Cunningham show that a good colony of bees, well cared for, is quite profitable. Mr. Cunningham thinks that the Italian variety is the more valuable, and in fact the best variety to keep from every standpoint.

A. D. Selby, director of Economic Botany, reported that his efforts had been restricted to a study of the oats smut, and that the large loss from this disease might be prevented to a great degree by treatment of the seed with formaline.

C. W. Waid, in a "Resume of Reports," gave a summary of the expenses incurred by sending out the material for the experiments, and suggested some changes in the system of the Union.

Prof. Vivian spoke on the value of educating those who were not reached by the agricultural college or the experiment station, and suggested a system of correspondence courses in agriculture.

The program was brought to a close by an address by Prof. T. F. Hunt on "A Division of Thremmatology," in which he showed the importance of such a division being established by the Union.

The officers as elected for the coming year are: President, A. D. Selby; Vice-President, M. F.

Miller; Experimentalist, C. W. Waid; Secretary-Treasurer, V. H. Davis.

STATE VETERINARIES.

The Ohio State Veterinary Medical Association held its annual meeting in Townshend Hall on Tuesday, January 13. An address of welcome was delivered by President Thompson. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, Prof. D. S. White of the Department of Veterinary Medicine being chosen First Vice-President.

At the annual meeting of the Ohio Horse Breeders' Association on the 13th of January, Prof. T. H. Hunt of the Agricultural College read a paper on the "Market Draught Horse."

The Ohio Wool Growers held their annual session last Wednesday evening. A proposition from Professor Plumb of the State University to hold a sheep shearing contest at the State University next shearing season was endorsed. Professor Plumb also proposed that a department of sheep husbandry be established at the State University. The question was referred to the Executive Committee.

SCHOOLMASTERS' CLUB

Leading Educators of Central Ohio Organize

At a meeting of a number of the leading educators of the state last week, the Central Ohio Schoolmasters' lub was organized, with J. A. Shawan, superintendent of the Columbus schools, as president; C. S. Barrett, principal of South High school, secretary, and Prof. D. R. Major, of O. S. U., treasurer. One of the principal objects of the club meetings will be to entertain the eminent educators who will be invited to address the members. The membership will be limited to fifty and to central Ohio, within a radius of about 50 miles from Columbus.

A number of professors from O. S. U. were influential in the organization of the club, among whom were President Thompson, and Professors Derby, Denny, Boyd and Bownocker.

At a recent normal school examination, given in this city, the question was asked "What is bimetalism?" This was the somewhat upsetting answer, returned by one fair applicant: "Bimetalism is a form of government at colleges."

The professors are still wondering if she could have meant co-education.

Miss Paxson is an alumni of the University of Iowa, a Phi Beta Kappa and Kappa Kappa Gamma. She was Secretary for the Iowa Associations until this year, when she was called by the American committee to be a National Student Secretary.

Miss Clarissa H. Spencer, State Secretary for the Associations of Ohio, is also expected at the same time.

All the young women of the University, the ladies of the faculty and wives of professors are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

FRESHMEN, WAKE UP.

It has been suggested that perhaps one reason why nothing is heard from the Freshmen Class, as a body, is the fact that they have no class organization, beyond the temporary one which was selected to engineer the rush. Now, the rush is an important matter, but surely that defeat will not cause the freshmen to relinquish all hopes of success. Many fields are yet left, but to explore them there must be some one at the head to guide and direct them. And besides, the time for the preparation of the Makio is approaching, and the editors of that book usually consider it desirable to print a list of officers of each class. At least six freshmen can, in this way, insure the appearance of their names in the annual. Let's hear something from '06.

THE SUMMER ENCAMPMENT.

The proposed plan for a summer encampment of the student cadets of the state, is that it should be held at the O. S. U. campus immediately after commencement. Aside from the military viewpoint, it is extremely doubtful whether the student sentiment would support such an undertaking.

In the first place, being held at Columbus, the element of novelty, so necessary to such an outing would be destroyed. Again, the time, just after commencement, is a time when most students are rather weary of college and college affairs, and want to get as far away from them as possible. And if students of other colleges are like those at Ohio State, it is probable that they get quite enough of military life during the term, without adding another week to it.

It is not often that university affairs attract the attention of Columbus people as did the course of lectures by college presidents. The audience which greeted President Schurman last Thursday night was composed of the very best people in Columbus. Perhaps six hundred people were present, and of these, the students, for whom the course was originally given, contributed about one hundred and fifty. While the course will probably be a success financially, it is a matter of regret that the student body should show no more appreciation of it. It is expected, however, that the attendance of students will increase when the excellence of the lectures is fully discovered.

In another column of this issue will be found accounts of several agricultural conventions which have been held in the city during the past week. A noticeable feature of these meetings was the active participation of the O. S. U. professors in the programs, and the cordial invitations to the organizations to visit O. S. U. It is just such actions as these which make friends for the University, and moreover, serve to keep in the minds of the people of the state that O. S. U. is at the front, not only in agricultural matters, but in all others as well.

Stray Beams.

What memories shall be fondest
When years have taken their way,
When miles and miles are between us
And the happy college day?

The lessons we learned, the classes
We cut right recklessly;
Cribbing and flunks and crams and cons
In the quest of a degree?

The games we won on the grid-iron,
Those moments of anxious fear
When they struggled beneath our goal posts
And we knew that "time" was near?

The girl in whose gracious presence
We wiled away swift hours
When Spring, it seemed in her favor,
Had decked the campus with flowers?

The Glee Club nights and the rushes,
Plays, dances, basket ball,
The hours that we marched in rank and file,
Hoping the bugle's call?

These scenes, it may be, will fail us
As year adds on to year;
But the friends we found at college
Time renders but more dear.

We shared in their disappointments,
Ambitions and hopes and joys;
And ever through life we'll cherish
The memory of—The Boys.

JASPER'S RECORD.

Our esteemed and highly respected fellow-townsmen, 'Squire Silas Jones, Sr., called at our office last Monday and left the editor a dollar richer and correspondingly grateful. The 'Squire says he can't get along without the Banner, and we wish there were more public-spirited citizens like him in Lime Ridge. Incidentally, the 'Squire informed us that his son, Jasper, Jr., now a student at the O. S. U., is making an enviable record, such as would naturally be expected of a true son of Lime Ridge. The 'Squire showed us a letter from Jasper, Jr., containing his record and explaining the intricate system of markings employed at the university. In two of his studies, Jasper, Jr., was given a "P," which he informs us is equivalent to "Perfect." In a couple of others he was marked "F," which it can easily be seen stands for "Fine." In chemistry Jasper, Jr., was given a "C," the abbreviation for "Correct." It is a fine record and Lime Ridge is proud of Jasper, Jr. The 'Squire says he believes Jasper, Jr., has a girl at the University, to judge from the way he haunted the postoffice during the vacation.—Lime Ridge Banner.

Max Matthews, '02, was calling on old O. S. U. friends Sunday.

CADET ENCAMPMENT

Opposed by Capt. Converse— Lack of Equipment.

Some of the instructors in military tactics in the different Ohio colleges have brought forward a plan to inaugurate a summer vacation encampment of the student cadets of the state. According to this plan, the students were to meet at Columbus shortly after commencement and go into camp at the State Fair grounds or the O. S. U. campus for a period of five or six days. As there are military organizations at O. S. U., Delaware, Oxford, Denison, Marietta, Ada and W. R. U. it is probable that a total of not less than 500 students would come to such an encampment.

The Sunday Dispatch contained an interview with Captain Converse in regard to the matter, in which the O. S. U. commandant expressed in substance the following views:

"From a military viewpoint the camp would be most desirable. Such a camp is the only place in which the practical life of a soldier can be learned. But because of the infeasibility of the plan, I would say I am opposed to it. We have no outfit for such a camp. The state has no ranges, tents, tent floors, nor cooking utensils. Many of the cadets are of delicate constitutions, and would be ill able to endure the exposure of sleeping on the ground.

"Besides, we have no adequate water supply. Our closets and bathing accommodations are not sufficient for 500 men. Besides, feeding, cooks and such things are costly affairs, and could only be provided for by the students themselves.

"As I look at the whole matter I would say that it is not advisable to hold such a camp with our present equipment."

Next Friday night the O. W. U. team from Delaware will play O. S. U. This game was to have been played last week, but owing to the late opening of school they were not in good condition and asked to have the game put off a week. The team is practicing regularly in the Stratford Pavilion, and an interesting contest is to be expected. Now is the time for every one at O. S. U. to prove his loyalty to his school. The game is called at 8 o'clock, and a large attendance is desired. So far the attendance at the games has not been enough to pay expenses, and unless the students turn out and give better support to the team, it may have to be withdrawn. The team as it is now, and as it will develop, is one of the best, if not the best that has ever represented the University, and should receive the hearty support of the student body. Turn out next Friday night and root! There will be reserved seats on the floor for ladies and ladies with escorts, for which no extra charge will be made.

The week following the team goes north, and will play Oberlin on the 31st, and possibly Western Reserve or Case.

GYMNASIUM NOTES.

Regular gymnasium and apparatus work began last Monday. Considerable difficulty has been experienced in fixing up the roll books owing to the fact that no two classes have the same personnel. There is still great need for class leaders, and any men who desire to try for these positions should see Mr. Huddleson or Dr. Linhart at once. A special class for class leaders is held every Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The classes this year, especially those at 4 o'clock each day, are very large and difficult to handle. This is in part owing to the fact that this year no men are excused for tactics or military.

TRACK TEAM.

About thirty-five men reported to the call for candidates for the track team at the meeting held in Dr. Linhart's office Monday afternoon. Gymnasium work will be begun at once, and every effort made to bring the team into good condition. The outlook for a good track team this year is very bright, and Manager Cook and Captain Connors are well pleased with the showing made at the meeting.

Arrangements are nearly completed for an indoor meet with Indiana on the 28th of February, and a preliminary contest to choose representatives will be held in the shape of an inter-class meet, probably about February 1. Any track men who were not at the meeting will please give their names to Manager Cook, or Mr. Huddleson, who will again this year coach the team.

BASEBALL.

Gymnasium work for baseball candidates will begin the first week in February. The schedule is now being arranged, but as yet it is rather indefinite. Much correspondence is out, and several games have been partially arranged for.

BATTALION NOTES.

Tactics classes started Tuesday of this week. All officers, both commissioned and non-commissioned, are required to take tactics. Captain Converse has charge of the non-com. class, and the commissioned officers will be under the tutelage of Captain Maxwell. The company captains will have charge of the cadets of their companies electing the course.

There will no drill this week, owing to the fact that the drill rooms are not yet ready. The carpenters have been delayed, but will be through by the last of the week. The hand-ball room, and the room formerly occupied by the cafe, and possibly one or two others, will be used. The department has recently received 250 new Springfield rifles and sets of equipments and gun racks for them are now being prepared. The companies this winter will drill as follows:

Tuesday—Tactics classes and band practice.
Wednesday—Band, Companies B and C.
Thursday—Companies A and D.

SENIOR COMMITTEES.

President Warner, of the Senior Class, has made the following new appointments on committees: New members of the social committee, C. B. Hoover, College of Agriculture, and J. L. Murphy, of the College of Engineering; new members on the tower clock committee, Lewis N. Meiche, of the College of Veterinary Medicine; L. D. Twitchell, of the College Agriculture; S. N. Cooke, of the College of Engineering, and Miss Faith R. Lanman, of the College of Domestic Science.

BETA HOUSE BURNS.

The Beta Theta Pi chapter house at Granville was burned to the ground Saturday night, the result of a curtain catching fire from a gas jet. The building was frame and was completely gutted. Four members of the fraternity who roomed in the building lost all their personal effects. The most of the members were at Newark attending a dance. The loss is heavy, but nearly covered by insurance.

REVISED CURRICULUM.

At the last meeting of the faculty of the College of Agriculture and Domestic Science, a committee, consisting of Profs. Hunt, Lazenby and Osborne, effected a complete revision of the course of study in that college. Some of the more important changes are in the courses of agricultural chemistry, in which quite a revolution has been made.

Another important change is the expansion of the course of forestry. Altogether it is believed that the curriculum has been greatly strengthened by the changes made, and they were adopted by the faculty of the college and by the General Faculty of the University.

The changes in the curriculum will not go into operation until the beginning of next year.

Society.

The literary societies gave their second annual hop at Smith's hall, Fourth and Long streets, on last Tuesday evening. About thirty-five couples were present and enjoyed a very pleasant evening. The dancers were: Misses Thomas, Redrow, Craig, Stella George, Edna George, McDonald, Grant, Emma Drake, Ella Drake, Ong, Lorbach, Hopwood, Fisher, Wilson, Tillman, Baird, Arnold, Hammon, Wheaton, Miller, Grace Freeman, Berry, Taylor, Hillis, Doremus, Probert, Risley, Furniss and Mardey; Messrs. Thomas, Robinson, Eichelberger, Rubins, Zehring, Harshman, Shotwell, Enyeart, Kundert, Wander, Lorbach, Ingalls, Whetsel, Goddard, Mark-er, Palmer, Michael, Owen, Cock-erill, Strauss, Gehres, Hammond, Freeman, Harrison, Poston, Par-rett, Kreighbaum, Adair, Juniper, Schultz, Morton and Rankin.

Lambda Nu entertained with a delightful informal dance at Rader's Oak Street Hall, last Friday evening, to introduce their new initiates, Messrs. Lindsey, Asher and Bigger. The chaperons were Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Rankin, and the dancers: Misses McAlpine, Holloway, Pratt, Elliot, Orr, Bost-wick, Hollister, Chamberlain, Chrisman, Sater, Williams, Mc-Gregor, Hirsch, Postle, Salt, Knapp and Thompson; Messrs. Hull, Young, Hirsch, Bigger, Linxweiler, Miesse, McPherson, Lindsey, Morse, Bostwick, Salt, Brooks, Pew, Ward, Sosman, Asher, Derby, Miller and Rankin.

A little party of O. S. U. girls enjoyed a delightful sleighride Thursday evening.

The party started from Olen-tangy park at 6:30 and drove to Linden, where they were hospi-tably entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Colton. Before leaving, a dainty oyster supper was served, to which the girls did full justice.

Those participating in the fun were: Mrs. Weber, chaperon; Misses Frankenberg, Stone, Wacker, Grant, Huntington, Haes-eler, Faith Lanman, Keen, Annie Lanman, Colton, Smead, Weber and Sheets.

Miss Mary Janeway entertained with a handsomely-appointed din-ner on Thursday evening. The guests were: Misses Thompson, Blachley, Humphreys, De Bruin, and the hostess; Messrs. Henney, Bucher, Musser, Rankin and De Bruin.

The Tri Deltas gave a little tea Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 in honor of Miss Weaver. Those present were: Misses Ward, Maerker, Ragan, Gorrel, Curry, Walt, Weaver, Garman, Spitler and Kellerman.

The Kappas will entertain Sat-urday afternoon from 3 to 5 the active members of the other sororities in honor of Miss Pax-son, national student secretary of Y. W. C. A.

Next Friday Mrs. Dr. Thomp-son will give a reception to the younger members of the faculty and to a number of their young lady friends.

Miss Lanman and Miss Ford will entertain for Misses Paxson Spencer at the Association rooms, 163 W. 11th, Saturday evening.

Delta Chi entertained a few friends with a box party at the Empire Saturday night.

The Pi Phis will give a formal dance January 30.

DENTAL CLINIC.

Dental work done at the cost of material. Special attention given to O. S. U. students. Open every day 1 to 5; Friday and Saturday, 9 to 5. At Ohio Medical Uni-versity, Park street and Buttles avenue.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

The date for the Glee Club Con-cert has been announced for Fri-day evening, February 27. The program for this promises to be one of exceptional merit, the club being fortunate in having so cap-able a leader as Mr. Barrington.

Besides the Glee Club, there will be perhaps two soloists, the in-strumental part of the evening's entertainment by the Mandolin and Guitar Club, and some selec-tions by the quartet.

The announcement of the seat sale and the places will be made later.

THE DOCTRINE OF WORK

Urged in Convocation by Colonel Brigham

Colonel Brigham, of the Depart-ment of Agriculture, addressed the faculty and students during con-vocation hour last Wednesday morning. His talk consisted of suggestions to ambitious young people. It contained excellent ad-vice and many helpful thoughts, thoughts, which it would be well for each student to bear in mind.

One of the most important things for young people to learn is to be faithful and trustworthy always. However brilliant a man may be, he cannot gain influence if he has at any time done anything which has proved that he cannot be trusted in all things.

We must be thorough and sys-tematic. Many a man has made a failure of life because he had no fixed plan, and for this reason one should decide as soon as possible what one's life work is to be, and prepare for it. It has always been necessary for every one to work, and each one must be willing to do his share. Right-minded peo-ple have no respect for the dude or the butterfly of fashion.

We should never be discouraged in any good work, and should overlook the innumerable little failures and criticisms, but we must not be always looking for a word of praise. In the army, when an important work is done, it is the general who gets the credit from the people, and all that the men under him may expect is that he will give to them the credit that is due.

A great many people are indif-ferent as to their reputation; they do not care "what people will think," and they do not seem to realize that it is the little things which create the impressions. But a good reputation is of great value, and one should be careful to guard it well.

It is a very important thing for every one to take an interest in public affairs, and there can be no excuse for a man or woman not doing so. The battles have not all been fought, nor the victories all won. There are many weighty questions today which must be solved and solved rightly. One of these is that of great corporations. It stands us in hand to see that these do not rob the people of their rights, and to insure this, the great masses of the people must con-sider the question and act. When the times comes in the future for the young people of today to help preserve the country, they must and will be ready to do it.

And finally, we should maintain a vast army of friends. We can do this most effectively by being care-ful of our criticisms. Ohio has produced two notable examples of men who were unable to say an unkind word of any one—Hayes and McKinley. Neither was ever heard to speak unkindly of an as-sociate nor of an opponent in politics. If we go out of our way to do a kind act it is sure to come back to us with interest.

Something to remember: That Nitschke Bros., opposite Empire theatre, E. Gay St., are head-quarters for students' supplies and stationery.

J. K. McBride was sick Monday and Tuesday, as a result of vaccination.

Mr. J. V. Hatter, ex-'04, is visiting friends at the University this week.

Malcolm E. McCormick, of Am- lin, O., spent Saturday with O. S. U. friends.

J. H. Jefferson, ex-'04, spent the first of the week in Columbus visiting old friends.

Misses Ruth and Mary Hollister spent Saturday and Sunday at their home in Galion.

Miss Ida Feile, '98, and Miss Gretchen Miller, '01, were Friday visitors at college.

Mr. C. A. Lwson, of Trinidad, Colo., spent several days last week with college friends.

Mr. Hapgood, major of last year's battalion, was seen about the University Monday.

H. L. Pickett, of O. W. U., was visiting Richard W. Robinson, Saturday of last week.

Mr. E. V. Jotter, ex-'04, of Martin's Ferry, spent a few days with college friends last week.

Prof. N. W. Lord was unable to receive his classes for several days last week, on account of illness.

The fraternities at the Ohio Medical University will give a Pan-Hellenic dance some time early in February.

Miss Alma Jennings, '02, now teaching at Canal Winchester, visited friends in town a few days last week.

Geo. W. Lytle, ex-'04, has accepted the position of inspector of agencies for the Milwaukee Har- vester Co.

Dr. Hagerty will take his class in sociology to the Guild House, to investigate the social settlement work the latter part of the week.

Wilford L. Mattoon was taken sick at the home of a friend in Col- umbus last Thursday, and left for his home in Plain City Friday morning.

Prof. Bownocker was one of the speakers at the recent meeting of the Franklin County Teachers' Association, delivering an address on "Stream Work."

Lambda Nu initiated Saturday. In the evening a banquet was served at the house. The new members are Messrs. Lindsey, Asher and Bigger.

The Philosophy Club will have a meeting next Thursday evening in Orton Hall. Prof. Landacre will have the major paper. Everyone at all interested in either biology or philosophy is urged to come.

E. P. Coe, ex-'04, who was well known in the University as a member of the Strollers and of other organizations, is seriously ill with typhoid fever at his home in Cleve- land.

O. P. Cockerill, a member of last year's debating team, and now pro- fessor of science in the Washing- ton C. H. High School, was visit- ing the Columbus High Schools last week.

Walter A. Hull, '02, now with the Reese-Hammond Fire Brick Co., of Bolivar, Pa., and Ralph C. Miller, '01, engineer on the Penn- sylvania lines at Pittsburg, visited Saturday and Sunday at the Lamb- da Nu House.

tests. He was also president of the Senior class of that high school. He graduated from there in 1899, and came to the O. S. U. in Sep- tember of the same year. The next year he dropped his University work and became superintendent of the district schools near Toledo. Last year he again came to O. S. U. and represented her on the de- bating team which victoriously contested with Western Reserve.

During the last campaign Mr. Corkery was chairman of the Re- publican College League for Ohio, Michigan and Indiana. Mr. Cork- ery is an honest and efficient work- er and has pushed himself upward by his own efforts. His ability as a speaker was appreciated in this last and preceding State campaigns when he was called upon to make campaign speeches.

With Mr. Corkery on the team again and with the other men chosen last Monday night there should be no doubts as to the out- come of the struggle with Dela- ware. Mr. Corkery is a member of Alcyone Literary Society and the McKinley Club.

Mr. Dillin, who took second place, is a resident of Coshocton, this State and a second year stu- dent in the Arts College. His de- bating training in Athenaeum was made evident in all that he said in the final preliminary. Mr. Dillin is a hard student and takes hold of everything that he does with a vim which means success.

Mr. Stanley Rankin is well known at the University as the best debater while he was at North High School of this city. He is a member of Horton Literary Soci- ty, and since he entered the Uni- versity in the fall of 1901 has taken a great interest in all kinds of lit- erary society activity.

Mr. George P. Hahn is a gradu- ate of the Napoleon High School, and entered the University here in the fall of 1899, and has made an excellent record as a student. He entered the arts course and after three years in it, entered the first year law class last fall. Mr. Hahn has been president of Alcyone Lit- erary Society, was a member of last year's second debating team, and is at present holding the presi- dency of the Ohio Intercollegiate Debating League.

The team is an exceptionally good one and with the coaching they will receive from now on they stand the best chance of winning out against O. W. U.

The debate will be held at Co- lumbus on March 6 next.

O. W. U. is going to bring along its usual delegation of rooters, and so it behooves O. S. U. to be up and doing.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

The students of the Agricultural College had the privilege last week of attending the State Farmers' Institute and the annual meeting of the Ohio State Board of Agri- culture, in the hall of the House of Representatives, and it was noticed that O. S. U. was well represented at each of the sessions.

Among those who addressed the meetings were Prof. C. S. Plumb, Col. J. H. Brigham, W. I. Chamberlain, Gov. Geo. K. Nash, Gov. A. W. Jones and Dr. Paul Fischer.

ALCYONE.

The first meeting in Alcyone's remodeled hall was held last Friday night. A very large number of members besides the visitors listened to the following interesting program:

Music Thomas Story Richardson Current Events..... Knox Paper Benedict Extempo Eberly Debate—Resolved, That the duty on coal imported to the United States should be removed. Affirmative, Corkery and Goddard; negative, Rosenblatt and Ortman.

No decision was rendered because the recent action of Congress on the subject created a favorable view for the affirmative.

In the business meeting it was decided to give a reception to the ladies' literary societies on next Friday night.

PHILOMATHEAN.

The regular weekly meeting of Philomathean Literary Society was held Thursday at 4 on account of the twilight concert Friday afternoon. The paper by Miss Opha Clawson and the Current Events by Miss McDonald were both interesting and instructive.

Miss Carrie Meade, a former member, was a visitor.

Miss Shubert was taken into full membership.

BROWNING.

What the meeting of Browning Thursday afternoon lacked in attendance was made up in the enthusiasm of those present. The program was impromptu, consisting of college songs by the society, and extemporaneous talks on the subjects, "Literary Societies" and "College Spirit," by Misses Sheets, Tressel, Grant, Adams, Roberts and Huntington. Miss Louise Colton was received into the society.

ATHENAEAN.

Athenaeon opened the term with the best program of the year. A large crowd of members and visitors were present at this meeting and the prospects for this term in Athenaeon are most promising. Ewing opened the program with a reading from Riley, "The Old Man and Jim." Ewing put much life into the reading and it was greatly enjoyed by the society. Coates next displayed his powers as an extemporaneous speaker, discussing both sides of the coal question. Stauffer turned prophet and told the members of some of their actions in the years to come. Buck, in his encomium on "Tom Corwin," showed a thorough understanding of his subject. Mitchell finished the program with an original pantomime entitled, "What I Saw."

During the business meeting Fred I. Hange, Wm. A. L. Beyer and Richmond J. Shields were elected to the society. The following officers for the term were elected:

President, Mitchell; Vice-President, Buck; Treasurer, Cromer; Secretary, Lucas; Critic, J. H. Warner; Master of Programs, Brinkerhoff; Sergeant-at-Arms, Ewing.

HUNTER.

Hunter held its regular meeting Friday evening and elected the following officers for the ensuing term:

J. L. Loughery, President; Benj. J. Wolfe, Vice-President; J. W. Dagenhardt, Secretary; Thos. C. Davis, Treasurer; Thos. M. Sherman, Sergeant-at-Arms.

Regular program next Friday. Everybody cordially invited.

The Citizen is the only one cent daily paper of the city. Its clean and its newsy.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY.

The Chemical Society held a very interesting meeting on Tuesday, January 13th. The major was an exceedingly instructive and interesting paper on "Allotropy," written by Prof. Henderson. Mr. Louder read an excellently written paper on "Sir Henry Cavendish."

All the professors, a number of the fellows and assistants and quite a few students were elected to membership.

Next meeting will be held February 3.

CERAMIC SOCIETY.

The Ceramic Society held a successful meeting on Tuesday evening, January 13. After the usual business had been transacted Minton took the floor and read a paper on "Tensile Strength of Clay Materials," describing a series of experiments which were performed which determine that the tensile strength is higher, the smaller the size of the grain.

When Mr. Minton's paper had been discussed, Mr. Wooster entertained the society with an account of a large tile plant which he had designed and whose construction he had superintended. The address was most instructive, as it enlarged upon the difficulties with which the engineer must contend and the problems which he must solve. At the conclusion of Mr. Wooster's talk the program for the next meeting was announced and the society adjourned.

Seventy-five men listened to the address delivered by Prof. Banks J. Wildman, of Miami, at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon. He spoke very ably and earnestly on "The True Condition of Service." The Sunday meetings have become an assured success. A series of life work meetings will be begun after the Cooper meetings. The first meeting in the series will be held on the 8th of February. The Association has fortunately secured Prof. Frank K. Sanders, dean of the Divinity School at Yale, for an address at that time.

LIBRARY CLIPPINGS.

A few weeks before the Christmas vacation there seemed to be quite a desire among the students to take clippings from the magazines and papers in the University Library in Orton Hall. Again it is reported that clippings have been taken from some of the papers of the Department Libraries in University Hall. Some of these papers are hard to duplicate, a few having to be obtained from London, and if a duplicate could not be obtained the set would be incomplete. Unless this practice is stopped it will become necessary to deny to students the privileges of these department libraries. It is to be hoped that this practice will be stopped, for the use of these department libraries is invaluable to students working along special lines.

Superintendent W. S. Eagleson, of the Associated Charities, has been invited to address Professor Hagerty's class in sociology at Ohio State University in the near future. He will lecture on "Indoor and Outdoor Relief of the Poor." The editor of "Charities" has also asked Superintendent Eagleson to report on the condition of the poor in Columbus this winter.
