Mario Savio leads demonstrators in a free speech sit-in at the administration building of the University of California, Berkeley.

Berkeley Campus Student Sit-in Ends; 800 Jailed

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A faculty spokesman demanded yesterday the ouster of the University of California's Berkeley campus chancellor. The demand came as law officers broke a mass sit-in with the arrest of 801 demonstrators asking for full political rights on the campus.

More than 500 officers worked about 12 hours dragging and carrying the demonstrators from Sproul Hall, the university's administrative center. Demonstrators persisted in defiance by going limp when arrested.

The free speech movement led by Mario Savio, a philosophy junior from New York, wants freedom to recruit members and collect funds anywhere on campus for off-campus political action. The action chiefly has supported Negro civil rights causes.

Regulations prescribe that recruiting and raising funds for lawful off-campus political action will be allowed only at "carefully selected and properly regulated" campus facilities.

A notice that Savio and three other campus rebel leaders were being summoned before the Faculty Committee on Student Conduct precipitated the second sit-in in two months at Sproul Hall.

As the last student was taken from the debris-littered building, Prof. John H. Reynolds, Berkeley chapter chairman of the American Association of University Professors, issued the statement demanding removal of Chancellor Edward W. Strong.

"The present crisis cannot be stilled unless there is a complete amnesty and a new chief campus official appointed who has the complete confidence of the University," said the statement approved by the chapter's board of directors.

Reynolds, a physics professor, said ratification by the chapter's full membership will be asked.

An emergency meeting of an estimated 500 faculty members adopted a resolution calling for "every effort . . . to end the series of provocations and reprisals which have resulted in disaster."

Opera Company Scores Triumph In 'Fledermaus'

By JUDI MENERING

The New York City Opera Company redeemed itself with its performance of Strauss's "Die Fledermaus" at Merghon Auditorium last night.

The spirited performance and orchestra of the cast did credit to the director, Julius Rudel.

The two lead voices—von Eisenstein, sung by John Starnford, and his wife, Rosalinda, sung by Carol Bayard—were well matched for

Racial Barriers Prevalent Within OSU Greek System

By TOM W. SESLAR

In the long history of Ohio State University, only one traditionally all-white undergraduate social fraternity or sorority has accepted a Negro as a member.

Although the University has attempted to end racial discrimination in all student organizations, a Lantern survey shows that the color line dividing the Greek system here is strong.

Many sorority and fraternity members interviewed this week acknowledged an unwritten ban on the pledging of Negroes. "It's just general policy," one white sorority girl said.

The University recognizes 43 undergraduate social fraternities and 21 undergraduate social sororities.

Five Are All-Negro

Three of the fraternities and two of the sororities are all-Negro.

Another national fraternity, Pi Lambda Phi, has two Negro members, but it was founded expressly as an inter-faith, inter-racial organization.

A fifth fraternity, Alpha Gamma Sigma, welcomed one Negro into membership in 1963.

There are no Negroes in the remaining 38 fraternities and 19 sororities.

More than 100 white fraternity-sorority members were interviewed for this article. None of them could remember a Negro being pledged by any all-white Greek organization other than Alpha Gamma Sigma.

University Took Stand in 1960

These are the hard facts despite the University's official stand against discrimination in 1960.

The original Board of Trustees statement has been combined with a 1962 recommendation of the Inter-University Council of Ohio. Together they serve as the basis of the present University regulation against discriminatory clauses in the constitutions of all student organizations, including fraternities and sororities.

This regulation forbids the selection of membership on the basis of race, religion or national origin.

It requires every recognized student organization to file a current copy of its local and national constitutions in the Office of the Dean of Men or Dean of Women.

Restriction Results in Withdrawal

The regulation also states that "continued restriction of membership contrary to University policy will result in withdrawal of University recognition of the student organization . . .

"No new student organization which has any restrictive clauses . . . will be granted University recognition."

Despite the regulation, the problem of discrimination against Negroes has not been solved.

A member of a Negro sorority, Mary E. Scott (Delta Sigma Theta), said: "The University policy has proven ineffective because it is concerned with discriminatory clauses rather than with discrimination."

Examine Constitutions

Jane E. McCormick, assistant dean of women, and A. Chester Burns, assistant dean of men, work closely with fraternities and sororities.

15th Avenue, the heart of the Greek System, causes a Negro student to stop and wonder about the membership policies of fraternities.

They have examined the constitutions of all Greek organizations at Ohio State, and have made sure that no fraternity or sorority is operating under any written restriction on race, religion, or national origin.

Miss McCormick and Mr. Burns said they had not received any complaints about discrimination in the Greek system.

However, student accusations of, and admissions to, racial discrimination are numerous.

The president of one fraternity said his organization rushed a Negro two years ago "for the sake of good will."

Dropped From Rush Program

When the Negro rushee began to show an interest in membership, he was dropped from the rush program.

"We had to do it," the fraternity president said. "We couldn't chance alienating the alumni or creating ill-feelings within the active chapter."

Of 37 Negroes interviewed, many said they felt there is little possibility of acceptance by a white fraternity or sorority.

"When they see the color of my skin, they won't even consider my character, personality, academic record, financial situation, or anything else," said one Negro coed who expressed a desire to belong to a white sorority.

However, Bonnie L. Michel (Pi Beta Phi), one of ten Homecoming Queen finalists, disagreed with this view.

"I think most sororities try to be objective, judging each girl on her attributes, regardless of the color of her skin," Miss Michel said.

Another sorority coed explained that her sorority does not pledge Negroes because "the Negro girl would feel uncomfortable in a predominantly white sorority."

Marlene L. Wilkins (Delta Sigma Theta) observed that "most of us Negro girls know we aren't wanted in the white sororities, so we don't even consider them."

A Negro fraternity member, Rollon M. Thompson (Omega Psi Phi), agreed with Miss Wilkins.

"Traditional segregation in the Greek system has conditioned us to expect to join only a Negro fraternity," Thompson said. "It is hard for a Negro to conceive of being accepted into a white fraternity."

Mysterious Phone Calls

One Negro said he received mysterious phone calls while he was "rushing" a white fraternity. He said someone who would not identify himself kept telling him, "We're not ready for your kind yet."

A white sorority girl told of an incident of discrimination involving her sorority.

When a Negro girl appeared at the sorority's next-to-the-last party during rush week of 1962, the sorority members were "confused."

She said the Negro coed had attended the two previous rush parties, but the sorority had planned to cut her from the chapter's rush after the second party.

4 Will Get Honorary Doctorates

Ohio State will award four honorary degrees at autumn commencement Dec. 18.

Doctor of Laws degrees will be awarded to U.S. Supreme Court Associate Justice Potter Stewart and to Dr. Peter H. Odegard, political science professor at the University of California, Berkeley.

Dr. Charles A. Doan, dean emeritus of Ohio State's College of Medicine, will receive the Doctor of Science degree, and Dr. George R. Havens, professor emeritus of Ohio State's Romance languages department, will be presented the Doctor of Humane Letters degree.

Son of a former Ohio Supreme Court judge, Stewart served as Cincinnati councilman from 1950 to 1953 and as vice-mayor from 1952 to 1953. In 1954 he was appointed by President Eisenhower as a judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals of the Sixth District.

Odegard, a professor of political science at Ohio State from 1930 to 1938, joined the University of California faculty at Berkeley in 1948 as professor and chairman of political sci-

OSU School of Journalism Wins Seven SDX Awards

The Ohio State University School of Journalism has again captured top honors in national competition sponsored annually by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society.

Ohio State received seven of the 25 awards presented yesterday at the society's annual convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Professional journalists from all areas of the nation evaluated entries from journalism schools in 84 colleges and universities.

Four Areas

Entries submitted earlier this year were judged "for outstanding achievement in sound and progressive journalism" in four general areas—broadcasting, magazine, newspaper and photography.

Ohio State won four first places, one second place and two third-place certificates. Last year the school received five first-place awards.

This year, Ohio State entered the broadcast competition for the first time. An entry submitted by a six-man team of Ohio State broadcast journalism students won second place in the radio or television news-writing or commentary division.

Two of the first place certificates were for photographs submitted by William Utterback, a senior in journalism. His entries won the sports and special photography divisions.

Feature Photo

Ken Rosenbaum, a senior in journalism, won the top prize in the feature photo division.

The other first place was won by Jean Dunlap, senior in journalism, for the best article contributed to an outside magazine.

Ohio State chapter delegate, Ralph Matthews, a

Lantern news editor, accepted the awards from A. L. Higginbotham, national vice president for undergraduate affairs of Sigma Delta Chi.

Also representing the chapter are William Drennon, professor in journalism and chapter adviser, and Robert Ketchersid, a graduate assistant in broadcast journalism.

According to Russell Hurst, national executive officer, Ohio State received "one of the largest number of awards to one chapter in the history of this competition."

Two Contenders For Presidency Of Senate Clash

Two possible contenders for student body president, to be elected Winter Quarter, clashed last night at the Senate meeting.

Arnold White, Student Congress Party, moved that a resolution to co-ordinate all Senate traditions under one committee be returned to Student Government Commission.

Not The Ideas

He said he does not question the ideas behind the Traditions Board, but rather "the poor wording and organization" of the resolution.

Planners Approve Highway Relocation

By MARCI HILT

Plans to relocate Olentangy River Road around the west side of Ohio State in the near future took another step forward yesterday.

The City Planning Commission voted three to one to recommend this route to the City Council and the Director of Highways. The Commission approved "Plan 2B" which would abandon the present Olentangy River Road and build a new freeway to the west of it.

Begin at Kinnear Road

The freeway will start at the present Olentangy and Kinnear Roads. It will go northwest to the east side of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad tracks and parallel the tracks north to Union Cemetery. There it will cut east between the cemetery and Riverside Hospital.

The freeway will cross the present Olentangy River Road at West North Broadway, turn north and parallel the Olentangy River to return to the present intersection with Henderson Road.

Plan 2B includes the abandonment of the existing River Road between Kinnear Road and Stadium Drive. The rest of Olentangy River Road will remain open to local traffic. Kinnear Road will feed into the freeway.

Council Must Approve

Plan 2B must be approved by the Columbus City Council and the Director of Highways, a public hearing must be held and the detailed construction plans completed before construction can begin, according to David Pierce, chairman of the Planning Commission.

Taylor Returns To Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor headed back to South Vietnam last night to shape new steps for strengthening the war effort against Communist guerrillas—but without sending more U.S. personnel to the beleaguered little nation.

Taylor is due back in Saigon Sunday to begin urgent conferences with South Vietnamese officials to implement decisions reached here.

ballot for consideration by the voters.

Several Democrats who had criticized Rhodes' methods of raising funds for capital improvements voted in favor of the proposal.

Half of the money would go for higher education. Other uses include recreation and airports.

King and another Democrat were outvoted 6-2 as the Senate Government Committee approved the House resolution to change the basis for electing representatives.

A floor vote will be taken in the Senate today or next week.

The Senate is expected to vote today on its version of the House-passed congressional redistricting bill.

With its probable passage, the bill would then go to a conference committee to iron out differences between the two legislative bodies.

Sundial Is Bright Spot Of Reviewer's Damp Day

By KEITH D. SMITH

It was cold, foggy and raining yesterday. The only bright spot in the whole day was the appearance of Sundial, the campus humor magazine.

We finally had to go out and buy a rainsoaked copy for review purposes, since Jovial Bob Stine is loathe to give anything to the Lantern.

Another Good One

The latest Sundial we found to be another good issue.

Editor Stine has been improving the magazine with a better format and higher quality material.

Sundial writers are better. Mimi Freeman's data on dating and morals and Chuck Schuster's "Wedding Night" are both tightly organized, and funny to boot.

Perhaps the magazine will continue to develop short features, while supplanting such belabored series as "The Last Angry Werewolf" which continued through several issues last year.

Sundial cartoons are getting better. Dwight Allen's Goldwater cartoon and Jim Mogg's policeman's cliché are both topical and clearly drawn.

The latest issue of Sundial also introduced four-color cartoons for the first time in its history. It is currently the only college humor magazine to use the four-color process.

Fall Flat

Certain Sundial features, however, seem to fall flat. "The Bowling Date" takes a vast amount of space, yet not all of the photographs and captions were funny. It is as though the pictures were shot to accommodate the captions which were written miles away from the actual scene.

The gag ads, "Sundial's Holiday Gift Catalogue," look like convenient filler items that Sundial staffers used in lieu of creating something original.

The overall effect of yesterday's Sundial, however, is that the magazine is getting on to the track of consistently good humor.

Professor Questions Oil Laws

The oil in Morrow County should be "good to the last drop." But the question is: Will oil producers be able to get the last drop?

According to Hartzel Slider, professor of petroleum engineering, new state regulations do not guarantee that Ohio oil fields will yield that last drop.

"It is estimated that $100 million in oil still remains in Morrow County alone," he said. "Much of it could be wasted if adequate state regulations are not made."

Gas and Oil

During the past year, Slider has conducted research of Ohio's trempeau formation, sub-surface limestone rock formations 3,000 feet beneath the northern half of Ohio. Sometimes these formations contain gas and oil.

While he contends that little of Morrow County's oil has been lost thus far, Slider says that the improper handling of one oil well could ruin an entire reservoir beneath hundreds of acres.

"In some wells, oil can be extracted only if there is sufficient gas to propel the oil to the bore of the well," he said. "An unknowing driller, stumbling onto a reservoir in which gas lies over oil, might fail to reach the oil."

"If he should remove the gas, he might be irretrievably sapping the drive to remove the oil."

Slider says that although new state regulations have halted town-lot drilling, legislators have never touched on the possibility of one well disabling a reservoir.

"Incalculable quantities of oil have been wasted in other states because a few wells were taking the gas and leaving oil in the ground without any energy to move it into the well," he says.

Mancini to Play

Henry Mancini will appear tonight in two performances at 7 and 9:30 p.m. at Merston Auditorium.

Mancini and his 40-piece orchestra are on a tour of college campuses with soloist John White.

Tickets are still available for main floor seats for both performances at Merston Ticket Offices.

Violinist Nathan Milstein, scheduled to appear with the Columbus Symphony Orchestra tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. in Veterans Memorial Auditorium, has been forced to cancel because of illness.

Ruggiero Ricci, a violinist who debuted in Carnegie Hall at age ten, will appear in Mr. Milstein's place.

Ricci will play Brahms' Violin Concerto, the number Milstein was to play.

"ALTERNATIVES?"

Thus far we have had a wild time trying to find any alternatives which have been presented by that rather pompous-sounding group, by name, THE COMMITTEE FOR THE STUDY OF ALTERNATIVES. The latest paid advertisement by the "fantastic few" was a real gas.

During the week that Communist led rebels were butchering and eating missionaries in the Congo—during the week that Communist cadres in S. Viet Nam killed and beheaded American servicemen—during the week Communists agitated more trouble in Panama—during that week, the Committee dragged out an old shoe and kicked into the John Birch Society.

Man, like if a gang of homicidal maniacs are beating down your front door, who worries about ants in the oatmeal out there in the kitchen?

It appears that our only hope is sooner or later these cats will run out of money, cool it, and go back to teaching.

Matmen Open Season In Quadrangular Meet

By BOB WHITMAN

Mike Beery

Casey Fredericks looks optimistically toward his seventeenth season as head wrestling coach. He has claim to some optimism with Captain Mike Beery, undefeated in 17 dual meets last season, heading the list of five returning lettermen, plus a core of rugged sophomores.

Fredericks' matmen will open the season with a quadrangular meet against Mankato State, Wayneburg and Hiram tomorrow. The Bucks lost only two from last year's team, but they were big ones.

All-American Gary Joseph and Joe Piccioni, Big Ten finalists and co-captains, have graduated.

Ohio State finished ninth in the Big Ten tournament, but this year the rules are different. There will be two Big Ten champions, one for the dual season and the other for tournament competition. "We would have finished higher with our record last season if the present rule were in effect," Fredericks said. The Bucks' dual meet record was 5-2.

Fredericks said that his team is well-balanced, but that it will be hard to predict how the team will do, because of the number of sophomores in his lineup. "Only time will tell to see if they live up to their potential," Fredericks said.

Of the top sophomores, four of them will start in the first meet next week. Tony Piccioni, brother of Joe, will be in the 130 pound class, Bill Founds will start in the 137 pound division, Paul Moore and Dave Reinhart will wrestle in the 147 and 177 pound sections, respectively.

St. Louis Surge Beats Bucks, 79-70

By HAL LEINER

The St. Louis Billikens, sparked by a 20-point surge in the last five minutes up-ended the Ohio State basketball team last night, 79-70.

Although the final statistics showed the Bucks with a 53-52 edge in rebounds, the Billikens were able to use their height advantage in key situations.

The Bucks started off like they were going to run St. Louis off the St. John Arena court.

Almost four minutes elapsed before the Billikens scored their first field goal on a tip-in by Gil Beckmeier.

The score at that point was 11-3 and the Bucks then spurred to a 22-7 lead with 10:37 left in the half.

The Billikens called time out and Gary Garrison entered the game. With the score 24-14, the Billiken center scored 10 of his team's next 12 points and S. Louis crept to within two points.

Al Rowley sank two foul shots with only eight seconds remaining to give the Bucks the lead at the half, 34-32.

The first 15 minutes of the second half produced seven lead changes and eight ties, before the Billikens broke in front to stay.

Sam Ulrich took the opening tip and drove in for a layup to knot the score at 34-34. Ron Sepic then hit on a jumper to put the Bucks back ahead.

But the Billikens weren't to be denied. Garrison began pulling down rebounds at will and the visitors were able to get second, third and in some instances fourth shots at the basket.

At 4:43 Garrison sank a hook shot and 10 seconds later Rick Rineberg broke free for a layup and the Billikens were never again headed.

The Billikens took advantage of the major Buckeye problem this year—the need for a good or even average big man around the pivot.

Besides scoring and rebounding, Garrison was able to screen and open the lane for many easy layups by the St. Louis back-court men.

The Bucks scrambled and fought hard, but in the end it was the Billiken's height advantage that proved too much to overcome.

Hockey Team to Meet Oberlin In Season Opener Tomorrow

Ohio State's hockey squad, in its second year of varsity competition, will meet Oberlin at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the season opener at the ice rink.

Reviewing his personnel, coach Tom Bedecki said, "Our first line this year is as good as any we have had here at Ohio State." It will have Steve Yoder at center, Jim Darnell at left wing, and Roger Hartsock at right wing.

Hartsock is the captain. He led the Buckeyes in both assists and points scored last season.

"The strength of our second and third lines will be the key to our success," Bedecki said.

The eligibility of goalie Chuck Hobaica has been confirmed and he will tend goal Saturday. Hobaica was previously believed to be ineligible for the first game.

Sophomore Terry Vance has been playing very well for the Buckeyes in practice, as has the entire first line, Bedecki said. Two returning lettermen, Rick Siferd and Tom McElroy, team with Bob Howlett to form the second line. On the third line will be Vance, Dale Hartsock and Dave Bittner. Filling the defensive positions on the first team will be Jed Damuth and Bob Buza.

Missing from the Ohio State lineup this year are Warren and Al Ware who left the squad to devote more time to their studies.

Anti-Reform: Gun Lobbies

The public clamor for controls over the use and sale of firearms that was sounded in the wake of President Kennedy's assassination has slackened to a murmur. Unless it can be rekindled, pressure groups, spear-headed by the National Rifle Association, are likely to succeed in killing even the mild Dodd bill—a measure that would at least put some safeguards around the mail-order traffic now indiscriminately conducted in lethal weapons.

"Within the past one hundred years," Carl Bakal, writing in Harper's, notes, "bullets (have) been aimed at seven and killed four of our nineteen presidents—a record perhaps unparalleled in the annals of history. Less publicized are the obscure victims of firearms, now numbering more than 17,000 annually. This figure includes more than half of the 8,500 murders reported last year (many go unreported), at least half of the estimated 22,000 suicides, and about 2,000 accident victims, a quarter of them less than fourteen years old."

IN THIS COUNTRY, anyone with a few spare dollars can buy a shotgun or rifle. Only nine states require a permit to buy a pistol or revolver. It is not at all difficult for a criminal, a child, a narcotics addict or lunatic to acquire a deadly weapon—by mail or through certain neighborhood gun dealers.

Senator Dodd's bill, on which extensive public hearings have been held, envisions only a tentative first step towards sanity in this field. It would require a mail-order purchaser to report his criminal record, if any, and to furnish affidavits proving that he is 18 or over, and that his ownership of a gun does not violate state or local laws. The dealer, before shipping the gun, would purchase a copy of the affidavit to the police in the purchaser's community.

The National Rifle Association's attitude towards this bill has been most curious. At the hearings on the bill, N.R.A. Executive Vice President Franklin Orth said under close questioning by Senator Hart of Michigan: "We support Senator Dodd's bill as presented here this morning."

BUT SOMEHOW THIS message never really got through to the membership. Ten days later, the N.R.A. sent a bulletin to its members, summing up the provisions of the Dodd bill, and stating that Mr. Orth had "testified in opposition to any proposal which violated N.R.A. legislative policy."

The N.R.A.'s traditional justification for opposing "restrictive" legislation is its own peculiar interpretation of the Second Amendment to the Constitution: "A well-regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Court decisions and a number of constitutional experts have concluded that the intent of the amendment was to safeguard only the people's collective right to bear arms as members of a militia. The N.R.A. blithely ignores the existence of our armed forces, National Guard and local police, who are charged with defending the country against enemies without and within, in stretching the language of the amendment to suit the N.R.A.'s own purposes.

IN FIGHTING CONTROLS over the sale and use of firearms, the N.R.A. is joined by an active lobby of sportsmen, hunters, gun clubs, firearms manufacturers and some self-anointed "patriotic" organizations.

They have been successful so far because the general public has not been sufficiently aroused long enough to prevail. Mr. Bakal, the author of the Harper's piece, has served two tours of duty in the U.S. armed forces and belongs to the N.R.A. He believes the efforts of these lobbies can be overcome—and must be.

"SUCH LOBBIES," he writes, "have sometimes been beaten by the exertions of other well-organized groups, such as the League of Women Voters and the A.F.L.-C.I.O." Surely there are still other groups that could throw their weight in the balance. Legislation in this field is long overdue; after all, the life you save may be your own.

Letters to the Lantern Raps U. Hall Sound System

I had for several weeks looked forward to seeing "The Loneliness of the Long Distance Runner" at University Hall as part of the series of distinguished foreign films, and had suggested to several of my friends that they might also want to see it. I can say that I saw the film; but I had rather expected to hear it as well.

For some time I had not noticed how bad the U. Hall sound reproduction was, since the film program had consisted of superb subtitled foreign films. However, I finally saw a movie in English, and discovered that the actors seemed to be saying to each other something like, "Wump vee dreigle hagh mmmph vah."

I then discovered that one's ability to appreciate U. Hall's British and American movies depended largely on the proficiency of his lip-reading. I soon adjusted and found that I could sometimes understand as much as fifty per cent of the dialogue.

Not only does this atrocious sound reproduction ruin excellent films, but when I saw Alan Sillitoe's movie the entire middle reel gave off no sound other than that of a noisy train running through the theatre, due to an error on the part of the projectionist. No dialogue whatsoever was discernible, and many persons left in disgust.

May I suggest that the movies either be shown in a more suitable theatre so their full excellence, both visual and aural, may be appreciated, or that someone take steps to improve the quality of the sound reproduction in U. Hall. It is an insult to these fine movies to allow them to be so badly shown.

Prediction

If all the "swelled-chest" Democrats that seem to be your favorites of late could exhale long enough to consider a prediction, I have one to offer.

I predict that at the present rate their party will soon have another "white elephant," (no pun), worse than Harry Truman. Robert McNamara is earmarked for this "foot-in-mouth" job.

Somehow this ex-"Whiz-kid" (he got too old) ex-Ford exec. (sales down 6 per cent) doesn't sing in tune with the Great Society chorus. Where were the results of these studies to "phase-out" 95 military bases (63,000 jobs) about three weeks ago? I wonder!

It looks like that strong wind out of Hyannis Port that blows the Democrat clipper ship is slowly but surely abating; maybe they will have to get out the oars.

Conversion

... concerning "None Dare Call It Treason."

I am a Republican. (at least I was). My father and his father before him were Republicans. The time has come, however, when I must confess that our political philosophy is based on a faulty premise.

I have always associated the psychological effect of the "big lie" with Hitler, but evidently it has found a home in the Madison Avenue promotion methods of the Democratic Party. This point has been made crystal clear by the events of the Kennedy-Johnson administrations.

Now, I don't take full responsibility for the faulty image which has been created in my mind. I take this occasion to lay a great deal of the blame to the scurrilous document contrived by John A. Stormer, "None Dare Call It Treason."

Since my conversion in thinking, I realize that the Communists mean no harm to us—they are our friends, our brothers. They are only trying to cure social injustices which exist in our system of government.

My conversion is complete and I accept the image of events as created by Madison Ave., the Communists, and the Democratic Administration without question. However, there remain two hurdles—why did John A. Stormer take all the trouble to document his book which has been characterized as the work of Ananias, and why, if his book is a literary lie, doesn't someone bring him to account in a court of law?

My former Republican friends have assured me that if the book is a compendium of untruths, there are libel laws available to all who have been injured in reputation. But then I had better stop reasoning, for that is strictly a Republican characteristic.

Foot Loose

Come now, Mr. Deal. Did you pull one foot out of your mouth simply to make room for the other? Your "apology" is more insulting than your original letter.

Your statement that "the majority of the American public are, in truth, cultural 'clods' compared to their European, Asian, and African brothers" is patently false (perhaps you consider swinging through the trees with Jane a cultural pastime?).

Further, I fail to see any negative correlation between the pursuit of profit and the cultural level of the people. In a capitalistic society, people have the time, money, and mental vitality to pursue cultural activities because of the profit motive. In a socialistic society (this is what you really mean by "an equitable means of distribution," is it not?), the social environment is not conducive to cultural enlightenment; almost everyone is reduced to mooching and looting from those of ability, with a consequent decrement in the number of competent individuals and inevitable social and cultural stagnation.

Look at the socialist societies existing in the world today. Are they the cultural capitals of the world? No, they are great herds of hopeless men (?) who have found that the word "mankind," when mouthed by the altruists, always includes everyone... except yourself.

Think About It

This is a country in which men are free to think as they please. Therefore, if Mr. Knepley wishes to believe that "God is dead," it is his privilege. However, wise men consider all the facts before accepting or rejecting an idea.

I wonder if he knows that Dr. Albert Einstein said that a scientist feels a "rapturous amazement at the harmony of national law which reveals an intelligence of such superiority that, compared with it, all the systematic thinking and acting of human beings is an utterly insignificant reflection."

John Glenn, hero of probably the most daring and imaginative scientific experiment of all time, put it more simply: "Orbiting through

Pound of Problems

By Lantern Editorial Staff Writers

What problem is Britain having with its money?

First, the pound, like most currency used for international purchases, finds its value in its demand. A basic analogy could be found in the value of a diamond: the fewer there are, the more they are worth. Thus the more pounds there are outside of Britain, the less international value they will have, unless the non-British holders of the pounds want to buy British goods with them. This involves trade.

Balance of Trade

If the British export goods, the buyers must purchase them with pounds through a "world currency market." The more the British export, the more pounds they will get back the fewer pounds are internationally located. The more the British export, the more pounds they remove from the international market. The more the British import, the more pounds they will pay out. This "balance of trade" (imports and exports), then, affects the "balance of payments" (net inflow or outflow of money).

Ideally, the British would want to sell more than they buy to sustain their pounds international value by its scarcity, or demand. But they have imported more than they have exported, so there are more pounds in the currency market and the value is endangered.

The object, therefore, is to take some of the pounds off the international market. Since Britain cannot buy pounds from the market with more of the same pounds, it is "importing" foreign money by offering seven per cent interest rates. Thus they can buy back the pounds from the market and keep its value stable, each pound presently worth $2.82.

Industrial nations also considered it enough of a problem to loan Britain $3 billion to support the pound in an emergency, as much a "psychological" backing as a financial one.

If Britain is paying seven per cent rates on loans, one asks, how can it recover economically?

The loans are immediate "props" to give them time to balance their exports with their imports. To decrease imports they are raising tariffs. At the same time they will try to stimulate their economy so they can produce and sell the goods that were being imported.

An Alternative

What could Britain have done otherwise? They could have let the international value of the pound drop. This "devaluation" would have been outside Britain, since internally they can control the supply (value) of pounds through fiscal policy.

Should there have been a devaluation, then, the pound in Britain would have stayed at $2.82 value, while outside Britain it would have been worth perhaps $2.00.

Thus foreigners could have bought $2.82 (internal value) of British goods with $2.00 (external value).

This devaluation would thereby encourage countries to purchase British goods. Likewise it would discourage British purchases of foreign goods, since with $2.82 they could only buy $2.00 of goods abroad. This would correct the balance of trade deficit.

Two Shortcomings

The shortcomings of devaluing the British pound, however, are (1) its politically upsetting effects on the new Labour government which would be reducing the British purchasing power of foreign goods; and (2) the upset it could cause on the world market.

The other countries, finding a bargain in buying British goods, might themselves import too much and end up in the British situation: with too much of their money abroad and consequently worth less.

It is important that the pound remain stable because roughly one-third of the world trade is done in that currency. The importance of stability, to Britain, is because they are heavily industrialized, want foreign investment, and want to maintain faith in the pound.

The British are to be credited with their attempt to solve their problems internally rather than adversely affecting other economies as well.

Alternatives In Vietnam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Vietnam (AP)—Can victory be snatched from South Vietnam's exhausting war only by a flight of bombers over Communist North Vietnam?

Planners in Saigon and Washington have been weighing the possibilities of expanding the war outside South Vietnam.

Since the Viet Cong war began draining blood and treasure in 1960, America has faced three alternatives.

The first is to get out altogether, turning over South Vietnam to the Communists.

The second alternative—the one which has been followed up to now—is to shore up the Saigon government with money, supplies, arms and advisers, in the hope that Saigon will one day be able to hold its own.

The third is to move into the fight directly with United States combat troops and a frontal attack on North Vietnam or even Communist China.

First Alternative

The first alternative and all its variations, including neutralization of South Vietnam, have been rejected by both the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Hopes of winning victory by the second method appear increasingly forlorn. The Saigon government appears less capable of holding its own than it was 10 years ago when South Vietnam became independent of France as the indirect result of a smashing Communist victory at Dien Bien Phu.

The third alternative, therefore, which could lead either to a new Korea or a third world war, has come under new scrutiny.

Among the supporters of direct attack on North Vietnam is Dr. Bernard Fall, a noted French historian and author specializing in Indo-China problems. Fall has argued for years that while the United States is tactically weak in Vietnam it has strategic strength which should be used.

Hanoi Fears Bombers

Fall says on the basis of his trips to North Vietnam that the Hanoi regime is confident it can defeat the United States in the field of guerrilla warfare but that Hanoi fears American bombers. North Vietnam has a small but growing industrial plant which is highly vulnerable to air raids and which Hanoi would hate to lose, he contends.

Some Pentagon and state department officials believe Hanoi would call a halt to the war in the South if its industries were threatened.

Others have argued that at least Communist supply points and infiltration depots outside South Vietnam should be bombed. Hanoi has charged in recent months that this is going on now, and Washington has declined comment on the charges.

One high Vietnamese official said:

"As things stand now, South Vietnam is lost. Our only hope is the salvation that might come as the result of a final showdown between the United States and the great Communist powers."

Expansion of Little Effect

Despite these arguments, many officials here believe expanding the war into North Vietnam would have little effect on the war in the South. For one thing, it is doubtful that Hanoi could turn off the Viet Cong's campaign even if it wanted to.

The Viet Cong's strength has been broadened to some extent by infiltrators from North Vietnam, and the rate of infiltration reportedly has increased in the past year. The Viet Cong also has been receiving limited quantities of arms and ammunition from outside the country.

Political and military guidance also has continued to flow from Hanoi to the Viet Cong through advisers and organizers sent to the South.

A high-ranking American official said:

"Bombing North Vietnam would certainly do our side some psychological good. There would at least be the satisfaction of hitting at the Communist high command. But I'm afraid we are still going to be stuck with our war down here. This just isn't the kind of war in which you can hope to stop the other guy with saturation air raids. The game may have to be played by another set of rules."

New Tactics

Several weeks ago, the Lantern suggested that the Federal Government should employ Madison Avenue tactics in dealing with the public. I note now that President Johnson is calling for an "improved" war in Vietnam. The American people are progress fetishists, and now, along with our "improved" detergents and gasoline, we have "improved" war.

This euphemism, "improved war" is the much touted trial balloon. Read it, fellow-Americans, especially mothers; read it and weep.

Library Purchases Collection

The Ohio State University Libraries have acquired the varied collection of books and literary materials owned by the late Prof. Hans Sperber of the German Department.

The collection consists of three parts, described by the libraries as follows:

—Works of German and French literature, philosophy, history and culture, mainly from the age of enlightenment of the late 17th, 18th and 19th centuries. Included is a collection of Pietist books.

—Works of American and English political history, literature and humor of the 19th century, including popular music, campaign songs and biographies from the Civil War to the present.

—A collection of German and Scandinavian literature, including many editions of the classical German writers of the 18th and 19th centuries as well as works dealing with cultural history, folklore and linguistic theory.

This crane tipped over yesterday morning while workmen were attempting to install air conditioning units in a new apartment building at 1526 Neil Ave. Workmen of the Rite-Way Sign Co. said that while attempting to lower a unit into the dwelling the out-rigging gave way, hoisting the truck body into mid-air. Another crane was brought in to get things down to earth.

Outer Limits Are Brought Into Club

Interested in outer limits and flying saucers? A Science Fiction Club has been formed on campus for persons who are.

"The club is an informal discussion group," said Walter Dryja, president. "We meet on the first Wednesday of every month and discuss science fiction literature."

"We definitely feel that science fiction is literature. We exchange ideas and generally just share our common interest." Members are encouraged to try their writing skill, but, according to Dryja, science fiction is one of the hardest fields in which to write.

"Good realistic science fiction hasn't been given much exposure."

"Good science fiction is judged on the same bases as is other literature, theme and plot, and also whether the fantasy world has been presented credibly."

ELECTRONIC ENGINEERS MATHEMATICIANS

Let's discuss tomorrow

In science and technology, the accomplishments of today are but direction for tomorrow. Why? Simply because resting on the accomplishments of today is a luxury we cannot afford.

In Communications Engineering, where others are content to modify, our mandate is to CREATE.

In Electronic Data Processing Systems, where others are content to innovate, our mandate is to CREATE.

This, then, is the philosophy . . . the crux of intellectual thought . . . at the National Security Agency—where the concepts of tomorrow are the problems of today.

So let's discuss the future... yours and ours

If you are a gifted and interested Engineer or Mathematician, we have much in common—including A COMPULSION TO SUCCEED.

Our future is contingent upon a constant input of new . . . and creative . . . scientific talent . . . the lifeline of any institution. Our success is embodied in the technical capabilities of our professional staff. To assure this, scientific employees are encouraged to pursue graduate studies at local universities under Agency sponsorship. Your future with NSA will entail education . . . early responsibility . . . and unusually challenging assignments. Why? Because . . .

- We MUST create completely new kinds of communications equipments and systems embodying concepts and techniques THAT HAVE NO PRECEDENT . . . antennas, transmitters, receivers and terminal hardware of a most advanced design.
- We MUST assure the complete invulnerability of message content through the novel . . . but never static . . . science of cryptology.

- We MUST develop special refinements for computers and electronic data processing systems . . . experimenting with the latest semiconductors, magnetic film and superconductive devices to provide new logic circuits and memory units for increased speed and capacity.

Interested? . . . If so, then LET'S DISCUSS TOMORROW. Representatives of the National Security Agency will be on campus in the near future. Check with your Placement Office for details and dates, or write to:

The Men's Glee Club will entertain in the lounge. The Brass Choir and the Symphonic Choir will present their tributes to Christmas at 8 p.m. in the East Ballroom.

A free dance in the West Ballroom will begin at 9 p.m.

In the Terrace Lounge and in the many suites in the Union, Christmas exhibits will be shown most of the evening, such as "Christmas Around the World."

The Franklin Club, the campus night club for couples only, will premier Tuesday in connection with the "Christmas on Campus" theme.

"Christmas on Campus" is a joint project of Campus Y and Ohio Union Activities.

The history of attempts to eliminate the U.S. Marine Corps will be the subject of an address tonight by Allan R. Millet of the Ohio State history department.

Millet, a Marine lieutenant, will speak on "Who Tried to Kill the Marine Corps?"

The address will be in Ohio Suite A of the Union at 7 p.m. before members of the Marine Semper Fidelis Society.

Professors John Morrow (left) and Roy Bowen of Ohio State University examine a theatrical model for a forthcoming University Theatre production. Morrow, administrator of the University's theatre collection, and Bowen, director of University Theatre, will lead a new lecture-discussion series on the modern drama to begin in January. It is sponsored by Ohio State's Office of Part-Time and Continuing Education.

Racial Discriminatory Practices
Prevalent In OSU Greek System

No one knew the girl's name or how she had been invited to this party. Since she had been at the two previous parties, everyone was too embarrassed to ask her name.
Must Be Cut
The sorority's alumnae adviser told the actives that the Negro girl would have to be cut because anyone invited to the final party has to be on a sorority's bid list.
After the rush party, the sorority members tried to identify the Negro by checking the list of rushees. However, there were four names on the list that could not be identified.
The coeds knew that three of the four unidentified rushees were white girls, but they could not figure out which was the Negro.
The informant said that finally the sorority cut out all four unidentified rushees rather than chance further contact with the Negro.
Not Restricted to OSU
The charges of Greek system discrimination are not restricted to Ohio State University.
Fewer than 20 per cent of American colleges and universities with social fraternities on campus have "urged or required" elimination of Greek discriminatory practice, according to a recent study by the Illinois Commission on Human Rights in Higher Education and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.
The problem has appeared at the University of Texas, Stanford University, University of Wisconsin, University of California, DePaul College and on many other campuses.
Problem at Michigan
The Student Government Council at the University of Michigan voted to withdraw University recognition of Sigma Kappa sorority after chapters on other campuses had been disciplined by the national organization for pledging Negroes.

However, the vice president of student affairs vetoed the withdrawal after the national organization agreed to delete the sorority's white clause from the constitutions of chapters located where such clauses are against university policy.
Since this episode, the University of Michigan Board of Regents has taken a stand against racially discriminatory clauses.
Pledging Stays Same
The incident at Michigan points up one important fact: Often the parent organizations of fraternities and sororities enforce discrimination more rigidly than the individual chapters.
After one fraternity abolished its white-Christian clause at a national convention, the national office sent letters to all of its chapters telling them that pledging would be continued in the "traditional manner."
Chapters of a large national sorority have been given permission to "consider pledging Negroes," but not to actually pledge them.
Evidently a problem of racial discrimination exists within the Greek system. But it is not a problem that can be solved easily.
John T. Bonner, dean of student relations, explained that the University can do nothing more than make sure that fraternities and sororities are free to select any student for membership.
"To me, it is unthinkable for a university to force integration," Bonner said.
"We have fought long and hard to abolish all discriminatory clauses from the constitutions of student organizations here," Bonner continued. "If we now were to force a group to accept a person because of his race, his religion, the color of his skin, or because his name is John, we would destroy all that we have fought for."
Patricia L. Duren (Delta Sigma Theta) said, "We have accepted white girls into our Negro sorority. I hope that someday Negro girls will be accepted by the white sororities here, but integration of the white fraternities and sororities should be based upon a genuine desire for brotherhood rather than upon integration for the sake of integration."

Student Senate Rivals
Clash Over Resolution

Student Government Commissioner Gary Acker, Buckeye Political Party, said White had not been present at any meetings at which the Traditions Board was discussed. "People who have objections to proposals should come to the commission meeting and get them out then," Acker said.
"I feel the accusations were directed at me and not my commission," Acker added.
Senate also recommended to the Council on Student Affairs that Senate be allowed to sponsor a Miss Ohio State pageant in place of the May Queen contest.
In addition, a $420 Winter Quarter budget for Student Discount Service was approved, bringing total SDS appropriations to $1,474.05.

'Chap Stick' goes along!
"Sure I use 'Chap Stick' during the hockey season," says the Detroit Red Wing star. "With my lips exposed to that ice and cold, it's a must! But after the season, 'Chap Stick' doesn't get put aside. It's just as necessary during the summer. When I'm on my boat, the hot sun is rough on my lips—burns them up, dries them out. 'Chap Stick' helps soothe and heal them fast!"

the delightful and frequent duets and trios.
Ann Elgar, as Rosalinda's maid, was petite and coquettish, but her soprano voice carried well—in all her many dynamic levels.
Alfred, the former lover of Rosalinda, spiced the comedy with his antics and hilarious, but well sung, solos. Jon Crain sang the role.
David Smith's Prince Orlofsky won the audience with subtle humor and a fine Russian bass.
The over-all impact of "Die Fledermaus" was much stronger than that of "Faust" given by the company Wednesday night.
The operetta was more lively and better performed. It got a warmer reception from the audience of 2,000 people.
One of the most enjoyable scenes was the ballet danced to a Strauss Waltz. The precision and ability of the dancers was beautiful to watch.
Even the orchestra seemed to be better fitted for "die Fledermaus" than "Faust." The music flowed with a lilt which set the mood for the cast and audience.
