Disalle Faces First Capital Offense Case

(By The Associated Press)

Between now and June 12, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle may have to make the toughest decision of his career.

The Governor, a personal opponent of capital punishment, will receive the first case of a condemned slayer since he became governor.

HE'LL HAVE to decide the fate of Arthur Lee Cole, 48. Cole has been sentenced to die June 12 in the Ohio Penitentiary electric chair. He was convicted of slaying an Ashtabula policeman, Eino Toivola, 38, Oct. 21, 1957.

The Pardon and Parole Commission will hold a clemency hearing for Cole tomorrow afternoon. After the hearing, the commission will file a routine report with Governor DiSalle, making a recommendation on its findings. In the past, the Governor usually has followed the recommendation of the commission, although the decision is his alone.

The Seventh District Court of Appeals had set Cole's death date for today, May 25, after turning down his appeal. Then the Ohio Supreme Court on April 13 turned down his appeal and set the June 12 date.

GOVERNOR DISALLE has said that while he personally opposes capital punishment, he will not let his personal feelings guide him in determining any condemned slayer's fate, if the legislature decides not to take any action on a bill to outlaw capital punishment. The bill is still in committee.

Campus Map Is Completed

By Barbara Wickham

Three members of the Institute of Geodesy, Photogrammetry and Cartography have just completed work on the first full-scale map of the Ohio State campus.

They are Dr. Arthur Brandenberger, Dr. Simo Heikki Laurila and Prof. Frederick Doyle. Mrs. U. Uotila did the drawing.

EXPENSIVE, high precision instruments and three months time were needed to complete the six-foot square map which will be used to plan future expansion of the campus.

Made with aerial photographs, the map is accurate to one-hundredth of an inch and includes all buildings in the campus area. Even the sidewalks, area supermarkets and miniature golf courses are included on the detailed map. Contours of the land also are indicated and elevations shown are accurate to the nearest foot.

The map uses a scale of one inch to 200 feet and includes the area bounded by Kelso Rd., King Rd., N. High St. and N. Star Blvd.

AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHS for the map were taken with special, fully-automatic cameras costing $10,000 to $20,000 each. "All aerial photographs are distorted," Dr. Brandenberger pointed out, "but

Berlin Deadline Passes—Quietly

(Editor's Note: In the following dispatch Frank H. Bartholomew, president of United Press International, reports that the deadline set by the Soviets for closing off West Berlin passed without incident. At midnight Bartholomew crossed through the Brandenburg gate into the Soviet sector of Berlin and returned without challenge.)

By Frank H. Bartholomew

BERLIN, Wednesday, May 27—(UPI)—The Soviets did not carry out their ultimatum to close off West Berlin at midnight.

It is now 12:20 a.m. Wednesday, as this dispatch is written in the United Press International bureau following a round-trip to East Berlin without incident or challenge through the historic Brandenburg Gate.

THE CAR, driven by Joseph Fleming, UPI manager for Berlin, approached the Communist frontier shortly before midnight, and parked, lights extinguished, in the silent and windy dark.

At the stroke of midnight, we proceeded toward the extreme right-hand arch of the five entrance ways through the great gate.

A hundred yards from the gate a West German customs officer glanced at us briefly and waved us on.

THERE WERE NO sentries at the arch. A hundred feet beyond we thought we might have trouble. An erect military figure in the dark held out an illuminated vertical stick to halt us. We slowed down, prepared to stop. The military silhouette turned sharply to the left, the illuminated stick became horizontal. We were waved on into the Soviet sector of Berlin.

A few blocks from the ruins bordering the sector on the East side, with no traffic or pedestrians visible, we made a U-turn and started back for the gate along the opposite roadway of the double lane.

At the gate again, approaching West Berlin, a car ahead of us was halted and the driver forced to alight. Three uniformed men surrounded it. The car had German license plates.

"WE HAVE American plates," our driver said. "We should have better luck."

We did. Our plates were briefly examined, we were waved on. We passed under the great arch for the second time since the famous deadline set by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and were back once more in West Berlin.

The six-month ultimatum had expired at 12:01 a.m. (7:01 p.m. Tuesday EDT), and the Soviets had made no move to annul the Western occupation rights in the city isolated 110 miles inside the Soviet zone.

GREEK WEEK DATES SET

The Mershon show will be on Friday night, as the workshops on Saturday. Plans for Thursday have not been completed.

Petitions for Greek Week co-chairmen are due this Thursday. Interviews will start next week.

454 Honored at Presidents Scholarship Dinner

Individual personalities are still the things that make history, according to Dr. Walter Dorn of Columbia University.

In his speech to the University's top 454 scholars at the second annual President's Scholarship Recognition Dinner last night, Dr. Dorn debunked the theories of social determinists as "pseudo-scientific . . . based upon an outmoded school of sociology."

THE NOTED historian discussed the role of personality in history. He said that students of social science have failed to prove the world is a place where impersonal, immovable forces clash above the heads of men, thus relieving them of all moral responsibility for their acts.

"If this were true, we would have to change completely," he said, adding that our whole culture is based on the premise man is responsible for his acts.

Students with accumulative point hour ratings of over 3.6 for the last two quarters were invited to the banquet at the Union. Thirty-eight of them had a 4.0 for both quarters.

PRESIDENT Fawcett gave a congratulatory message to the stu-

Is May Week Trophy On Its Proper Mantel?

Now that the 1959 May Week, or more properly Ye Olde Maye Week, is fait accompli it might be wise to look back and evaluate.

All in all, things went fairly smoothly, but there were a few slip ups. For example, the winner of the float parade as announced was not the winner as selected by the judges. It took a little action by high administrative officials before the trophy found its way to the proper mantel. We imagine there were a few red faces and stammered apologies. But this can be charged off as an honest mistake.

There is, however, the matter of the May Week trophy—the one awarded to the group with the greatest accumulation of points from the week's events.

Points could be earned by entering or placing in the rally, the float parade, the carnival, for each ticket to the May Week dance that was purchased, and for direct contribution to the Student United Fund.

The group that won the big trophy had no winning points in any event. It won solely on the basis of purchasing tickets.

In short, the May Week trophy was bought and paid for.

Several groups had worked hard, earning winning points in two or more events, and supporting the ticket sale, but they had no chance against such a mass purchase.

We hasten to emphasize that we are not condemning the winning group. We feel the fault lies with the committee that set up the criteria for winning the trophy.

The whole thing reminds us very much of the Ugly Man On Campus contest, in which a unit of money equals a unit of voting power. Carry this to its logical end and you have the greatest wealth controlling the election. This seems to run counter to any principles of democratic election.

Now, it is understandable how such a thing could happen. The proceeds of May Week were to go to the Student United Fund. This is a good idea. In fact, the Fund probably receives less attention than it deserves.

Perhaps as an inducement to greater contributions the sale of dance tickets was included as a point-earner. As a fund-raising technique this may be fine. But it seems discouraging that a group works hard to participate in all the events. Still more so when the hard work pays off in winning places, but because its membership is small or because it cannot force its members to sell a large number of tickets, loses in the end.

If next year's May Week is to financially support a worthy cause, let it do so. If it is to provide inter-group competition on the basis of floats and rally participation, let it do so. But don't let it combine or confuse the two.

This sort of thing can be the quickest death of a campus celebration like May Week.

After all, what fraternity, sorority, or independent group will be willing to spend time, money, and energy in participation when it knows it must pay dearly to be recognized for it?

Newlyweds, Old Marrieds Enjoy Talk

ITHACA, N. Y. — (UPI) — When a man and his wife hold a conversation, what do they usually talk about?

According to a recent study, it all depends on how old they are and how long they have been married.

A doctoral dissertation by a Cornell University graduate student, Samuel Deitcher, furnished these results:

COUPLES IN the first stage of married life—before there are any children—spend more time talking with each other than those married longer. They discuss "subjective subjects" such as personal feelings, sex, religion and their plans, Deitcher said.

Couples in the middle stages—those with at least two children—are not quite so happy about communications between them. Their talks tend to center on family tasks when the children are infants and pre-schoolers. Once the kids grow up, the talk shifts to social and community topics.

THE VETERANS of marriage—those who have been married 25 years or more—find their conversations more satisfying than those in the middle groups but they are not quite as content with their talks as are newlyweds.

The older couples talked least with one another, but quite an hour a day, and usually discussed friends and community activities.

Deitcher said he questioned 20 couples in different stages of married life. The couples were all American-born, non-rural, once-married and had some college education.

Enemies . . .

To the Editor:

We have read with chagrin the letter concerning Corps Day by Stephen L. Wolfe, Grad. We are not members of the ROTC nor are we now members of any military group. However, in the not too distant past, we have been associated with groups who "plodded along in each others footsteps," and wore "identical" suits of clothes. We feel that our freedom, our advantages, and our future national security is most assuredly worthy of any past sacrifice.

In our opinion, military awareness is closely allied to our love of freedom, and our individual expression, and our way of life. It would seem that some of our toughest enemies are among us. Our country has been fortunate enough in having had a Patrick Henry and an Abe Lincoln but, thank God, in more recent times it has also had a Pershing, an Eisenhower, and a MacArthur plus all of the "blank, empty expressions" who "railed at oppression and subjugation" of any group or at any threat to individual freedom.

It is with a feeling of security that we consider our Corps Day at Ohio State and Armed Forces Day in the United States.

Richard Krajcer, M.S.
Wallace Wiseman, Vet. Med.

ROTC . . .

To the Editor:

I was quite interested to read in your "Letters to the Editor" column, an article concerning the investigation into the ROTC program on your campus.

The ASUO Student Senate at the University of Oregon is presently in the process of conducting an inquiry of the same type and would appreciate it very much if you could send us any articles or other information you may have available concerning this matter.

We are trying to build a case in favor of making ROTC optional in our curriculum and thus far have met with a great deal of cooperation from faculty as well as students. We will appreciate any help you might give us.

Dan Williams,
ASUO Senator,
University of Oregon.

Hmm! . . .

To the Editor:

J. K.'s editorial, "The West and the Ideals" was most interesting. It is, indeed, hard to see how a civilization can be expected to keep on going when the ideals that inspired its founders have become ready subjects for such verbal garbage cans as the editorial page of the LANTERN.

Raymond Foye.

Tests . . .

To the Editor:

In regard to the letter written by Mr. Barker in the May 22 issue concerning the tests administered to the students in Education Psychology 407 I would like to extend my sympathy to him. It is a pity that as a future teacher he has found it suitable to lock his mental capacity against further enlightenment in the field of education.

The tests which are being administered to the 407 students may not be directly related to Education Psychology but the results of these tests may some day prove beneficial to those who are having trouble developing foresightedness so late in their college career.

Norton Says Job Chances Appear Good

In three weeks, several hundred Ohio State students with their newly signed diplomas under their arms, will seek their fortunes.

Chances appear fairly good for them for in most cases, as this year's June graduates can expect to receive three to five per cent more beginning income than last year's graduates, according to Kenneth B. Norton, placement director for the College of Arts and Sciences.

"EVEN MORE important," he said, "is the fact that we are helping prospective graduates to be placed in positions faster than we did last year."

Because of the recession a year ago, it took a little longer for the Placement Bureau to help find suitable jobs for all those seeking help.

"The job opportunities available for men and women are about equal," he said. On the whole however, men are more realistic than women as to the types of jobs they can get right after graduation.

Because of the time involved sometimes in helping students find future jobs, Norton stressed that students should apply at the bureau early. "Fall and Winter Quarters are the best interviewing quarters," he said. "I would advise a senior to apply in early October for help in finding a job if he plans to graduate in June."

QUEEN — Becky Ohnsman of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, has been chosen Sweetheart of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. On her court are Ann Edmondson, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Dee Patterson, Alpha Phi.

Three Choral Groups Slate Singing Festival for Sunday

Three campus choruses will sing in the ballroom of the Ohio Union at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 31, under auspices of the School of Music's Spring Choral Festival.

They are the Women's Glee Club directed by John H. Muschick, and the Symphonic Choir and the University Chorus directed by Louis H. Diercks. The festival was originally scheduled for Mershon Auditorium, but like "Showboat," it too had to move because of the damaged ceiling.

THE GLEE CLUB, accompanied by Rosemary Given, Ed-4, will sing "Psalm 23" by Franz Schubert; "Ave Maria" for double chorus of four parts each, by Gustav Holst; "Choral Dance No. 17," from the opera "Prince Igor" by Alexander Borodin; and "Impromptu" by Jean Sibelius.

The Symphonic Choir's numbers will be excerpts from grand opera: Wagner's "Lohengrin," Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas," and two selections from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," one, a "Regina Coeli" featuring Kristen Kienzle, A-Ed-2, contralto; Henry Ruffin, A-Spl., baritone; and Carol Wilkinson, Ed-1, soprano. As a change of pace, the last two numbers will be from folk operas, Kurt Weill's "Down in the Valley," and Howard

Kent State Gets OSU Professor

Professor Marjorie B. Keiser, graduate research assistant in the Ohio State School of Home Economics, was recently appointed head of the Department of Home Economics at Kent State University.

Miss Keiser, who received her bachelor's degree from the University of Arizona and her master's degree from Ohio State, expects to receive her doctor of philosophy degree here this summer. She will assume her new duties at Kent State in September as an associate professor.

Miss Keiser has worked as a researcher in home economics for the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. She has also been a home economist for the Dayton Sofwater Co. and has taught home economics at North Ridge, Ohio.

WSGA Adopts Point System

Activities Participation Limited For OSU Coeds

WSGA has recently adopted an activities point system for all women students.

Each activity carries a certain number of points. The system has been built around a maximum of six points. To hold more, the student must petition WSGA. Since many students are presently holding positions totaling more than six points, petitions must be filed in the WSGA office beginning with the 1959 Autumn Quarter to obtain permission to carry more than the maximum number.

A COMMITTEE will review these petitions, taking into consideration the point-hour ratio, class rank and standing of these students. The committee will be composed of the point system committee chairman, the committee advisor and two board members.

This new system is intended to guide the woman student in planning her extra-curricular activities and to insure good health and scholarship. It is also planned to help spread leadership responsibility to more women students.

EACH WOMAN student will be given a guide Autumn Quarter to assist in planning a well-rounded program of participation.

Psychologists Set to Meet On Thursday

More than 200 psychologists, psychiatrists, social workers and sociologists are expected to attend a two-day symposium on Goals and Values in Psychotherapy, starting at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Ohio Historical Museum on the campus.

Participating in the symposium, sponsored by the psychology department, will be Dr. Wilfred Abse, psychoanalyst at the University of North Carolina Medical School; Dr. Desmond Cartwright, University of Chicago psychologist; Dr. August Hollingshead, Yale University sociologist; and Dr. O. H. Mower, psychologist at the University of Illinois.

They will discuss effectiveness of psychotherapy, training of psychotherapists, science and psychotherapy, psychotherapy and social classes, and aims and values in psychotherapy.

Dr. Alvin Scodel, associate professor of psychology at Ohio State, will serve as moderator.

The two-hour sessions will be held in the Museum's auditorium at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. Thursday, and at the same hours Friday. The symposium will be open to the public without charge.

Hanson's "Merry Mount." Robert Mumper, Ed-4, and Roger Jamison, Ed-4, are piano accompanists.

The University Chorus is the largest choral group on the campus. Its 300 members will sing the unusual "The Ways of Zion" by Handel, which was written for the funeral of Queen Caroline of England in 1737. It consists of 15 short numbers. Paul Freshwater, A-1, will accompany on the piano, and Roy Kehl, Grad, on the organ. Admission is free.

Study Team From Berlin Visits OSU

The Engineering Experiment Station at Ohio State was host Monday to a 10-member German housing studies team from West Berlin, now in the U. S. on a 1½-month inspection tour.

The team is studying test methods directed at maintaining and improving the quality of building materials and other elements used in residential construction. The study of American methods of testing building materials and related problems is aimed at removing the Berlin housing emergency.

Associate Dean Marion L. Smith of the College of Engineering and Robert J. Tait, assistant director of the Experiment Station, greeted the visitors.

A fire endurance and hose stream test of a full-size wall was conducted for the team at 11 a.m. The Experiment Station is one of only three places in the U. S. which conducts such fire tests.

The inspection and tour program was sponsored and arranged by the Office of International Housing and the International Cooperation Administration. Walter F. Evans of the OIH is the team escort.

The team met Tuesday with executives of Nationwide Development Co. and left for Nashville and other stops on their itinerary that evening. They will return to Germany June 27.

Three-fifths of the dried prunes exported by the U. S. in 1957 went to European markets, chiefly England.

SWEETHEART — Jeannie Wood, H-Ec-2, was crowned the 1959 sweetheart of Alpha Tau Omega at the fraternity's Sweetheart Banquet. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and will reign until next spring. Her court consists of Mary Jane Kraft, Ed-3; Mary Judith Irvin, H-Ec-2, and Mari Ann Sourlas, A-4.

Autumn Football Time is Changed For Home Games

The Ohio State Athletic Ticket Office kicked off the 1959 season Tuesday at a luncheon at the Fort Hayes Hotel and announced that 1:30 p.m. will be the starting time for all home games next season.

The Buckeyes, who will be playing six home games along with three abroad, will have Purdue at the Homecoming Game, Oct. 17 and Iowa on Dad's Day, Nov. 14.

GEORGE R. STATEN, director of ticket sales, told members of the press and radio that there will be no change in prices and that applications for season books will go to some priority groups on Monday.

Staten also mentioned that the sale on season books will be lowered from 66,000 to 65,000.

Looking at the coming grid season, Ohio State is expected to have capacity crowds for every game. Michigan State has requested 5,000 tickets for their scheduled game on Oct. 31.

CONCERNING THE traditional game with Michigan, Ohio State will be guaranteed 18,000 tickets.

Ohio Staters, Inc., is expected to meet with Staten today concerning plans for a student train to Ann Arbor. The Chamber of Commerce intends to send two trains for the Wolverine game.

Nicklaus in 3 and 2 Win

SANDWICH; England—(AP)—Young Jack Nicklaus of Columbus became the first American to gain the third round of the British Amateur Golf Tournament today. The 19-year-old Walker Cup player from Ohio State defeated Peter Dobbs of England, 3 and 2.

Nicklaus started fast, winning the first three holes, but relaxed his grip and held only a one-hole lead through the sixth. However, he made the turn 4-up.

Nicklaus shanked two good shots on the 11th and took a six. He lost a ball in the middle of the fairway on the 14th, conceding to a par four. He won the 16th with a par to close out the match.

Other Americans who posted second round victories included U. S. champion Charlie Coe, Bill Hyndman, Deane Beman, M/Sgt. Harold Ridgely, runner-up in 1957, Lt. Bob Magee, and Lt. William Gibson.

Lyman Frimodig, Michigan State business manager of athletics and former all-around Spartan athlete, has been meet manager for the Michigan high school track and field championships since 1919.

Bowers, Strayer Chosen As New Track Captains

Dick Bowers and Dick Strayer were elected co-captains of the 1960 Ohio State track team as the highlight of the annual banquet held in the Franklin Room of the Ohio Union last night.

Head coach Larry Snyder presented Varsity "O" letters to 13 members of this year's squad. Charlie Beetham, assistant coach, awarded letters to 17 freshmen.

BOWERS and Strayer both praised their two coaches highly and told the freshmen sitting in on the banquet to listen carefully to these two men as long as they were in school because their aid would be invaluable in later years.

After the announcement of the co-captains, Snyder gave a brief speech in which he emphasized scholarship over athletics while the boys continued to attend Ohio State. "Talk scholarship to the high school kids when you go home for vacation," said Snyder.

THE FOUR TEAMS Snyder was referring to were Illinois, Michigan, the Quantico Marines, and Penn State.

Glenn Davis, ex-OSU great, also attended the banquet and gave a speech in which he thanked Snyder for helping him to reach all the goals that he had set for himself. Davis praised both Snyder and assistant coach Beetham highly, saying that, "Ohio State has less out-of-state track athletes than any other Big Ten team. You can give Larry and Charlie most of the credit for this."

The varsity awards were presented to Dick Bowers, Bob Connell, Gene Cotterman, Bill Fields, Dick Furry, George Mirka, Howie Nourse, Dave Poppler, Dick Payne, Larry Schmalenberger, Dick Strayer, Lee Williams, and 1959 captain Ted Storer.

Others given special recognition by the coaches were Dan Maloney, Sam Tidmore and Jim Massey.

SENIOR MANAGER awards were presented to Roger Ward and Tom Roberts, while Ron Althoff received a junior manager's award.

Male Infiltrates Home Economics

By Judy McCluskey

The home economics department has come up with a real innovation this year—there's a man in Campbell Hall.

John A. Shultz, the only man in the home economics department takes a lot of ribbing about his position. As an agent for Ohio's Agricultural Extension Service, he admitted, "I take a lot of razing about being one of the girls in Campbell Hall from the agriculture boys across the river."

"SOME MEN have the idea that women aren't as intelligent as men, but I am very happy to be working with this type of group," he said. "We're all working for the same thing—the betterment of people."

Honor Group Picks Trustee For Member

Beta Gamma Sigma, honor society in business administration, has announced election of Thomas F. Patton, of Cleveland, president of the Republic Steel Corporation and member of the University's Board of Trustees, as honorary member.

He was graduated from the College of Law in 1926, receiving the Order of Coif.

With Republic Steel, Mr. Patton has been general counsel, 1936-44; vice-president and general counsel, 1944-53; assistant president and first vice-president, 1953-56; president since 1956; and a director since 1943.

HE IS vice-president and director of the Maria Luisa Ore Co., Prospect Corporation, Tisur Mining Co., and director of Cramet, Inc., Standard Oil Company of Ohio, Liberian Navigation Corp., Liberia Mining Co., Ress Realty Co., Tank Ore Corp., Union Bank of Commerce, and Union Drawn Steel Co. He is assistant general counsel of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

Mr. Patton is a past president of The Ohio State University Association and serves on numerous hospital and civic associations.

The organization's initiation will be held June 4 on the campus.

This is Shultz's first year at Ohio State. He came here in July from the Wyoming Agriculture Extension Service, where he was an agent for 11 years.

His main job is field teaching to young people and home extension groups in informal gatherings. "In the United States Extension Service, there are only 12 men in Family Life and Child Development," he explained. "Ohio has both a man and a women employed in their extension plan—I cover the southern half of Ohio."

SHULTZ BECAME interested in this type of work when "while working in agriculture extension in Wyoming, a lot of people came to me with their family problems." Deciding to get more education in this field, he received his B.S. from the University of Wyoming and his Master's from Kansas State College.

He doesn't find being a man any handicap in advising people on family problems. "People ask the same questions in this field whether you are a man or woman, and to tell you the truth, it just never occurred to me that they wouldn't ask a man."

"In family life, you have to take a broad point of view and take life as it is," he added.

The father of five children, Shultz said with a grin, "They say I have my own experimental farm for family living, and I must admit that sometimes I feel like calling in a family life expert to help me with my own family problems."

FAMILIAR VOICE

HOLLYWOOD — (UPI) — Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight was answering questions from the audience during a recent appearance on CBS-TV's "House Party" when a woman posed this one: "What time can I expect the governor home for dinner?"

Art Linkletter, the host of the show, had slipped Mrs. Knight into the studio audience without her husband knowing she was there.

Frey, Baughman Works on Exhibition

By Sally Farran

Works of Erwin Frederick Frey, creator of Ohio State's 11-foot statue of William Oxley Thompson, and textiles by James Wallace Baughman, are now being exhibited at the browsing room of the Main Library. Both widely acclaimed artists are members of the faculty.

Two bronze figures and one of marble by Frey, and various textile patterns by Baughman are on display.

The three Frey creations have been previously exhibited at the Art Institute of Chicago, the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts.

ONE PRIZE-WINNING statue on exhibit, "Mother and Child," is particularly demonstrative of the sculptor's techniques.

The 26-inch bronze work was first done in 1916, expressing a naturalism with emphasis on the evident skill in tool marks. In 1922 Frey revised the statue, dismissing the tool marks as irrelevant, and in 1924 he produced the final version, which showed a still greater feeling of simplicity and repose.

Baughman, who has won two awards in the Competitive Exhibition of Hand-Woven Textiles, is an instructor in the School of Fine and Applied Arts.

HE RECEIVED his teaching certificate from Southern Oregon College of Education and his A.B. and M.A. degrees from the University of California where he taught from 1952-56.

The active member and ex-president of the Professional Weavers' Association has been a judge of weaving and crafts, a frequent guest speaker for weavers' groups and a participant in and moderator of panel discussions on weaving and designing.

Baughman exhibits hand-woven or hand-printed textiles in four to eight invitational and competitive shows each year.

WHILE BAUGHMAN has turned from a grade school teacher into a famed textile artist, Frey has evolved from a hopeful painter to a world-famous sculptor.

Frey, born in Lima, Ohio, attended Lima College, the Art Academy of Cincinnati and the Julian Academy in Paris and has worked in Rookwood Potteries in Cincinnati and Rulper Potteries in New Jersey.

In 1915, Frey received wide recognition for being chosen as one of the sculptors to prepare a statue for the 1915 Panama Pacific Exposition in San Francisco.

IN 1923, he exhibited a prize-winning entry in the Paris Salon and the next year won similar citation in the Annual American Exhibition at the Chicago Art Institute with "Mother and Child," one of the works now on display in the library.

Frey has twice won the Huntington first prize award and in 1950 he became the only Ohio State faculty member to receive the Sullivant Gold Medal of Ohio State for distinguished achievement in art and education.

Frey's studio, behind the fine arts building at Ohio State, has been the creative atmosphere for many years of his works since he became a member of the faculty in 1925.

AMONG THESE works are three well-known statues, "Resignation," "Isolt of the White Hands," and "Standing Female Figure," carved from marble picked up at the ruins of the State Office Building.

The towering statue of William Oxley Thompson, University president from 1899-1925, which stands in front of the Thompson Memorial Library, was presented to the University by several graduating classes.

The statue, finished in 1930, bears the words, "A tribute from the students," on its base, and is considered a turning point in sculptor Frey's career.

New York City is headquarters for 42 of the nation's major mining companies and for the Society of Mining Engineers.

More buxom blondes with shipwrecked sailors insist on Camels than any other cigarette today. It stands to reason: the best tobacco makes the best smoke. The Camel blend of costly tobaccos has never been equalled for rich flavor and easygoing mildness. No wonder Camel is the No. 1 cigarette of all!

Professor Emeritus J. R. Shank, has been honored for his 20 years of service to the American Society for Testing Materials. Professor Shank retired from the department of civil engineering in 1956 and more recently has been executive secretary of the Ohio Board of Building Standards.

The ASTM has released a resolution, recently adopted at the society's meeting in Philadelphia, commending Professor Shank for his service. He served as a member of one of the main committees for 20 years and as chairman of a subcommittee for nearly 10 years.

The resolution stated that his "learned judgment has been of inestimable value to the committee" on fire tests of materials.

School Center Studies Science Teaching Plans

By Sara Pentz

University School is endeavoring to refute the theory that our public educational systems are deteriorating.

This school has always been concerned with the quality of education. Teachers have helped to define the main problem areas. Now they are working to redefine the function of the school from that of pure demonstration to one of co-operation.

LAST MARCH 1, the Board of Trustees for the University authorized a Center for School Experimentation at the school. It is under the direction of Dr. Alexander Frazier. The purpose of this center is to be a coordinating agency for the study of curriculum problems that involve the public schools in Ohio.

Last week the center received its first grant from the U. S. Office of Education to allow teachers a total of $42,000 to begin an experiment concerning the use of television in education. The center is hoping to get enough money for two more projects.

The question is being asked, "How effective are a series of televised programs on elementary school science?" A series of 10 half-hour telecasts will be designed for the elementary school classroom use which will serve a double purpose: to stimulate a greater pupil interest in science and to educate the teachers for better science teaching.

These telecasts will be presented to third and fourth-grade classes during the school year, 1959-60.

The center is planning to reorganize its high school science program into an integrated study of the three sciences. This program will begin next year in the ninth grade and follow the student through the eleventh grade.

The advantages to this program will be that the students will experience for a three-year period the internal coherence of science. Science may then be viewed as a single structure which represents man's mastery and understanding of his environment.

AS IT STANDS now, with the three separate years of biology, chemistry and physics, only a very "insightful student" is able to understand this internal coherence of all the sciences.

For the third project, the center is bringing in authorities to analyze why boys have more learning and behavior problems in school between the ages of four and eight years than girls. Currently this difference has been accepted by educators as resulting from differences in rates of maturation. This experiment is basically an analysis of the reasons, which might get at the causes, for the difference between the sexes.

Mershon Society Adds Six To Distinguished Roll

The Mershon Honorary Military Society added six new members to its role of distinguished names at a luncheon meeting today at Columbus General Depot.

Selected on the basis of outstanding scholarship, military leadership as well as leadership on the campus, the members were selected from the Junior Military Science Class. Each year junior members are added at the convocation at the beginning of the new academic year which follows.

The principal speaker at the luncheon was Major General Ralph W. Zwicker, Commanding General of the U. S. Army's XX Corps at Fort Hayes.

General Zwicker spoke to this same society last year and continued his theme on the need for future leaders of America to be aware of the crises that lie ahead in order to win the peace. General

Zwicker discussed the "why" of military service and the need for members of the Mershon Society to accept the responsibilities that go with leadership.

The General referred to the nation's birth and growth in terms of an ever expanding frontier that now engulfs the world. He added that with modern weapons the role of the army still remains the same in defending our land, and, with our sister services, being ever prepared to seize and hold lands of any aggressor so that any future war may be averted by our preparedness. He referred to the new members as "a very important segment of our people."

New members of the Society are: David E. Cummins, Theodore C. Forchione, Ronald D. Harris, Walter R. McClure, Richard L. Robinson, and Jon M. Townsley.

Khrushchev Charges That West Avoids Agreement

GENEVA — (UPI)—The Soviet and Western Big Three Foreign Ministers agreed today to launch secret talks Friday that might spell a break in their weeks-long Geneva conference deadlock on Berlin. They all then flew to Washington to pay final homage to John Foster Dulles.

Following sudden agreement by Russia's Andrei Gromyko, the Big these cameras are accurate to 1/2,500 of an inch."

The aerial pictures then were placed in a $63,000 stereoplotting machine which shows and measures the scenes in their original three-dimensional form. These measurements were automatically transferred to the uncompleted map on a table nearby.

"The pencil which automatically plots the measurements and outlines the map can move at a speed of 60 miles per hour," Dr. Brandenberger said.

Ohio State is the only American university to offer a Ph.D. degree in photogrammetry, the science of making maps from aerial photographs and geodesy, the study of the size and shape of the earth. One hundred students from 20 nations currently are studying in this field at Ohio State.

Four foreign ministers decided to hold their first secret session immediately after their return from the Dulles' funeral in Washington.

The three Western foreign ministers took off in U. S. Secretary of State Christian Herter's private super-Constellation. They were expected to arrive in Washington about 9 a.m. today.

The sudden dispatch of Gromyko to Washington caused speculation among Western diplomats that he might have some dramatic message for President Eisenhower from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. It was learned on high authority that the Kremlin decision to send Gromyko to the funeral came as a "great surprise" to the U. S. delegation here.

President Eisenhower may meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and other foreign diplomats while they are here.

The President definitely will confer with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. It was assumed that they would discuss the West Berlin crisis, which has been the chief cause for concern at the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference in Geneva.

He also scheduled a 9:30 a.m. EDT meeting with visiting Prime Minister Robert C. Menzies of Australia.

Now Dig This —Gas Station Satellites

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Air Force is working on plans for "gas station" satellites which would orbit 200 miles above the earth with fuel for military space ships, the publication Washington Science Trends said recently.

Science Trends said the ball-shaped satellites would be 75 feet in diameter and would hold about one million pounds of fuel. The publication's reports on secret scientific projects have proved accurate in the past.

It said the Air Force informed industrial firms of its research on the satellites in a new technical report. It said the research is being done at Wright Air Development Center, Dayton.

The publication said most of the research so far had centered on the problem of curbing evaporation of the fuel. It said analysis indicated evaporation could be held to an "acceptable" 5 per cent a year if the sun's rays were effectively reflected.

Science Trends said further research was needed on lightweight materials to reflect the sun and on the problem of meteorites which might puncture the satellite.

Dulles Will Be Buried In Arlington Cemetery

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. today for former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at the towering National Cathedral in Washington. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower will lead the mourners at the funeral services and burial. They will be joined by diplomatic leaders from all parts of the world.

AMONG THESE are the Big Four foreign ministers who interrupted their conference to attend. Russia surprised the free world by sending Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Also at Dulles' graveside will be many of the men with whom he spent long hours as he poured his one-time great strength into the attempt to resolve the differences of a troubled world.

After funeral services lasting about 25 minutes, pallbearers will place the casket and colors in a hearse. The funeral party will move in solemn procession across the Potomac River to Arlington Cemetery.

THE PROCESSION will be led by a National Color Detail, followed in order by members of the clergy, the hearse, a personal flagbearer, members of the family, President Eisenhower and his party, and the Vice-President and his party.

Mourning rites were held for Dulles yesterday and meanwhile tributes to Dulles continued in Congress. The Senate, where Dulles served a brief term by appointment arranged to adjourn during the funeral services so that all members could attend.
