RIL Minister Views Belief And Unbelief

The conflict of childhood beliefs and campus unbeliefs met head on yesterday in a Religion-In-Life Week student seminar at the Ohio Union.

Dr. Harry H. DeWire, Cowden Professor of Christian Education and Psychology at the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, led the discussion.

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to express present religious beliefs in terms of childhood images, Dr. DeWire felt, because present learning processes are more creative than those previously experienced.

"As you grow, your image of reality ought to grow, just as your feelings and thoughts develop," he said. "Know those things which are most important to you—so important that if you lost them, there would be nothing."

Q. WHEN YOU COME to college, you find cynicism around you everywhere. How can you re-state your beliefs?

A. First, ask yourself, "Is there an unbelief?" Remember, that people who minimize believe in something. In community living, there is often a conflict of beliefs. This makes it important for us to know what our Christian experience means to us.

Q. DOES A PERSON have to test himself to find his own belief even though he considers himself to be a Christian?

A. Christianity is really a style of life. It has to do with art, love, kindness, permissiveness, happiness, fulfillment, etc. We build ideas about our belief that God is good, or that He is love. The question of which comes first is important to answer.

Q. Is security more important than actual religion?

A. Religion is akin to security, but calls it salvation.

Timely Topics Spark Week's RIL Schedule

The Rev. Terry Smith, college group religious advisor at the First Community Church, will discuss the question "Is Campus Honor a Live Issue?" at 7:15 p.m. tonight in the Ohio Union.

AT 8 P.M. IN THE Ohio Union Conference Theater, a rabbi and an Ohio State English instructor will discuss Russia's Pulitzer Prize winning novelist Boris Pasternak, author of "Doctor Zhivago."

Rabbi Norman H. Diamond of Temple Shalom, Springfield, and Bernard O'Kelley, instructor in English, will explore the philosophy of "Pasternak — A Poet Behind the Iron Curtain."

Other questions to be answered Tuesday evening include "What Makes A Play Religious?" in the Derby Hall Little Theater at 7 p.m.; "Have You Changed?" and "How To Build the Morale of a Group" at 7:15 p.m. in the Ohio Union.

May Up Late Fee Fine

STANDING ROOM ONLY—In an effort to eliminate late registration and fee payment crowds like this one, which jammed the Administration Building on Jan. 5, the University will propose changes in registration procedure and higher penalties for late fee payments. The measures will be submitted to the University's Board of Trustees for action on Friday. Shown above are the lines of latecomers heading for the Bursar's and Registrar's desks after classes opened this quarter.

Religion In Life Clergy Airs Segregation Views

By Carole Kennon

A Catholic priest, a Lutheran minister, and a Negro educator presented a panel discussion, "Facts and Fancy About Race," yesterday afternoon in the Ohio Union.

All three speakers agreed that the problem of racial prejudice is of prime concern in America today, but their ideas for its solution varied somewhat.

DR. SAMUEL L. CANDY, Dean of Lawless Memorial Chapel at Dillard University in New Orleans, is, in his own terms, a "legalist." Dr. Candy feels that this is not the time for a slow educative process. He thinks desegregation should first be declared throughout the land, and "then we can work on the moral side of the problem." He feels that association brought about by desegregation will help to solve the moral difficulty.

The Rev. Robert Gretz, minister of St. Philips Lutheran Church, who lived for some time in Alabama, thinks that full communication is the key to the solution of the problem. He said that ways must be provided whereby, "people can come together and share attitudes, experiences, and feelings." Such things as eating in the same restaurant and trading in the same stores are not sufficient, he said.

Mr. Gretz added that movements designed to create such communication are rising in the South today. He said at this time they are "underground" so that they can continue to exist. He thinks, though, that the time may come when such efforts will be so successful that the South will have wider tolerance than the North.

MSGR. JOHN P. KLEINZ, head of the department of philosophy at Pontifical College, Josephinum, in Worthington, sees the answer to prejudice in education. He pointed out that the Catholic Church considers prejudice a sin. He thinks many of us have "latent prejudices" and we should look carefully at ourselves. He said that action should be directed to making people realize the immorality of prejudice. All the speakers agreed that the North is by no means free of discrimination. As Mr. Brewton Berry, chairman of the discussion and a native of South Carolina, said, "If I were a Negro I would leave the South, but I would not expect to find a utopia in the North."

Mr. Gretz emphasized that prejudice is never "a one-sided thing." He illustrated this with the story of a Negro minister whom he knows who said, on hearing a remark that Negroes are less prejudiced than white people, "If only that were true."

Move Accepted By Stadium Men

By Carolyn Davis

Most Stadium Dorm residents have accepted the fact that they will have to leave the stadium at the end of this quarter.

This was the outcome of a meeting held in Dean William S. Guthrie's office Monday afternoon between representatives of Stadium Inter-Club Council and * representatives of the University administration.

University officials gave the men the alternatives of moving to Park Hall or other University approved living units. They had previously stated at last Friday's meeting with the dormitory residents that no contracts could be broken and that men would have to move to Park Hall.

Bill Bitticker, president of Inter-Club Council, and George Dickson, vice president, estimated that 75-80 per cent of the present Stadium residents are satisfied with this plan.

"IN GENERAL," Bitticker said, "most men are satisfied with the concession made by the University along this line and will move to Park Hall to stay with the gang."

However, Bitticker and Dickson said after the meeting in Guthrie's office that they may call a special meeting of the Inter-Club Council to determine what the next move, if any, will be.

During the meeting, Inter-Club Council representatives asked the University to provide parking facilities at Park Hall and to guarantee that cafeteria lines would not be too long.

DEAN GUTHRIE said that the matter of parking would have to be taken up with the University Parking Commission. He thought that perhaps the Baker Hall D Area could be used. However, no commitment was made.

Vice President Gordon Carson said that every effort would be made to see that the cafeteria would be operated for the benefit of the students.

A major point of contention with the Stadium residents has been that there would be a lack of adequate study space in the new dorm. Stadium residents feel that the big reason they have maintained high grades has been due to their study area, which is isolated from other activities in the dorm.

DEAN MYLIN ROSS told the LANTERN that there are adequate study areas in the new dorms, although they are not as large. (Continued on page 3)

RIL Speaker Cites Need of Doubtfulness

Dr. Paul Deats and Walter Liefeld, two of the guests visiting Ohio State for the Religion-in-Life week programs, spoke to campus religious foundations Sunday evening.

Dr. Deats, speaking to the Wesley Foundation on "The Courage to Think," emphasized that doubt plays an essential part in education. He said that systematic doubting of goals and experiences and the rational discussion of these doubts is valuable to everyone.

"A PERSON has to learn selective ignorance in doubting," Dr. Deats said. "Doubting everything at once is like pulling both feet off the ground and then looking to see where you stand."

He said that people today do not ask questions because they are afraid of being naive. They try to find the sophisticated reaction to anything they doubt.

"The courage to think involves the courage to act and the courage to be a person of integrity," Dr. Deats stated.

DR. DEATS is an associate professor of social ethics at Boston University.

Walter Liefeld stressed the importance of Christian fellowship with non-Christians in his presentation, "Christ on the Campus," speaking to the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship Sunday evening.

As Christ spent much of his time with the publicans, considered to be very sinful by the people of that time, so Christian young people today should befriend the non-Christians and in this way lead them to Christ.

Liefeld said the Christian must meet temptations carefully, refusing for himself, but not condemning those who do not refuse. He stated, "It takes a strong Christian to gracefully refuse a drink and yet not condemn, even by the tone of his voice, those who do drink."

Collegians Shirk Duty

The other day an Arab student asked for a point of view on the U. S. treatment of Nasser and the formation of the United Arab Republic. This writer had none. Furthermore there is frightening evidence that he is not alone in this plight.

We are a part of a nation caught up in an age of fantastic scientific development—the nuclear jet age—and one of the world's two great powers contending for the friendship of all others. The U. S., as the Free World's democratic champion, cannot afford to be satisfied with a citizenry that doesn't know—and often doesn't care.

More than any other single group, you and I, representatives of the men and women on our college campuses, will very soon decide where the United States is really going in this topsy-turvy twentieth century.

But look at us. Our everyday actions seem aimed at fitting ourselves to the stereotyped conception of Joe College. We have placed, with the unintended aid of our parents and the university itself, entirely too much stress on college life's most chronic illness: conformity, often complicated by apathy.

Because of this our lives have become, to a great extent, unrealistic and walled-off affairs. We are aware of point-hour ratios, what fraternity has sponsored the Goldigger's king, and how many lumps we find in the dormitories' mashed potatoes, but we have failed to consider seriously one of our most basic responsibilities: the needs of our nation.

Our survival, whether as a nation or as individuals, depends upon how enlightened we, as voting citizens are. If we accept this right to vote as a duty and cast, in the form of a vote, the most logically sound opinion we are capable of, it becomes a definite power. A nation which supports a democracy must rely on the discrimination of her voters if she is employing real leadership.

"So what," you say. "I already know that. This is a re-hash of old stuff—a LANTERN space absorber." This next will explain why this was written.

University life becomes, to a great number of us, life, itself. We live in a world all our own, and we see the future as the cushier-the-better, and a life without textbooks and term papers.

We are not impressed with the repetition of an idea, in this case the idea that good citizenship is vital, literally vital.

We must sheer away from the formation of a sedimentary mind where the heaviest and most talked-of truths fall to the bottom to be crushed into unimportance by an over stressed attitude toward current education.

Election time enthusiasm and a knowledge of who won and who lost doesn't solve the problem. Keeping abreast of the times all of the time, and seasoning this knowledge with rational thought is a good start. Only by applying what we come up with in the form of an active interest to local state and national affairs can we call ourselves real citizens.

Visitor Receives Warm Reception

Editor's note: Dennis Mullen, a senior at Norwood High School in Cincinnati wrote this article after spending a day on the Ohio State campus. He received a trophy at the Journalism Association of Ohio High Schools convention at Ohio State this fall.

COURTESY is highly contagious at Ohio State. Every student and faculty member seems to have caught the "illness."

To the visiting high school student, Ohio State presents an air of casualness and efficiency. The visitor falls easily into the pattern of the University student's way of life.

Students unknown to the visitor give him a warm smile or a friendly "Hello!" At once he feels he is one of "them"—he "belongs."

THIS REPORTER counted no less than 12 students who smiled or spoke. One who spoke was a girl attired in a bright red coat. A group of boys who looked like the interior Buckeye line said "Hello" en masse.

Throughout the day the routine is never-ending. Busy as college people are, they never appear too busy to help the inquiring visitor. If unable to answer the question, the college student will refer him to the proper authority.

It seems strange that in a place where there are more than 20,000 students the atmosphere should be so warm and friendly, but that's life at Ohio State.

The University is a vast place, and it has a heart to match.

College Crossroads

I'm tired.

Tired of puppets instead of people,
Of crew cuts and tweed coats, of pipes and Picasso buttons,
Of people who drop soliloquies carefully labeled intelligence.

I'm tired of people who play the dating game like touts at the race track,

Tired of seeing people used because it's only a game,
Of people who turn making out into a social grace and a wom-

Of watching sincerity fester into smoothness.

I'm tired of cynics who call themselves realists,
Tired of minds rotting in indifference,

Of people bored because they're afraid to care,
Of intellectual games of ring-

I'm tired of people who have to be entertained . . .

. . . Of girls proud of knowing the score and snickering about it,
Of girls intent on learning the

I'm tired of sophisticated slobs,
Of people who tinker with sex
until it's smut,
Of people whose understanding goes as deep as "neat".

I'm tired of people who scream they hate it, but won't leave it because they're lazy,

Tired of people with nothing better to do than glue their days together with alcohol.

I'm tired of people embarrassed at honesty, at love, at knowledge.

Finch Dorm Food Nauseates Girls

NEW YORK — (UPI)—Some
20 students at exclusive Finch
College for women became ill last week from food poisoning, apparently caused by contaminated tuna fish salad.

A spokesman for Dr. Roland
DeMarco, president of the school, said the girls were treated for nausea. Eight girls were kept in the infirmary, but none was considered in serious condition.

The spokesman said about 160 students dined at the school cafe-only those who ate the tuna fish salad became ill.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Professor Urges More Attention to Teachers

By Charles Harp

"People in the teaching profession are looked up to in Europe and now is the time to raise the respect that is due the teacher in America," Dr. Tibor Rado, the only man at Ohio State to hold the position of University research professor, said.

Leaders in many areas say that American teachers lack public appreciation. However, according to Dr. Rado, if respect is to be gained, they must be respectable within the limits of what they teach. This calls for a thorough understanding of their field, mere surface knowledge is not enough.

REGARDING his own field, Rado says, "I have worked on the frontiers of mathematical research for 35 years and I talk to people who know too much math but really do not understand what they know."

Math students in certain fields find it hard to absorb so much in the short time available. This causes weak backgrounds which some people carry into their profession.

Dr. Rado believes in stressing principles and concepts. The prospective teacher must be given the time to gain more than surface knowledge.

PROGRAMS to elevate public respect toward the teaching field should be offered now. America's interest in education gained a tremendous boost when Sputnik I was sent into orbit. That Russia was able to do this made people realize that a first rate education is needed to keep a country in technological leadership.

Dr. Rado does not believe that the U.S.S.R. has a substantial lead over the United States in scientific knowledge. He says, "If one man has collected more bottle caps than another, it is because the other man has not concentrated on collecting bottle caps."

RADO HAD THE opportunity to observe the Russians first hand. He served in the Hungarian Army during World War I and was captured on the Russian front. He spent time in various prison camps in Siberia.

Dr. Rado does research and teaches one class each quarter. The National Research Foundation is sponsoring an academic year institute in which many schools, including Ohio State, are participating.

"THIS IS PART of a nation-wide undertaking that is of enormous importance for the future of education in America," Rado said. He is teaching this group at Ohio State from the manuscript of a book he is preparing for publication, "The Mathematical Approach."

Dr. Rado got his Ph.D. in math at the University of Szegey, Hungary, in 1923. In his undergraduate days, he studied engineering and had so much trouble with the math aspect that he decided to study "real math" and became a researcher in his field. He came to America in 1923 and is now described as a high-powered thinker in the University.

Men Will Go To Park Hall

A Stadium Dorm spokesman who called the LANTERN Monday night, said that the University wants to clear the Stadium during Spring Quarter so it can start remodeling.

However, he said, the University intends to remodel only the Tower Club, and that there are two empty clubs in the stadium where men could move during Spring Quarter while remodeling goes on.

ASSISTANT DEAN of Men, Milton W. Overholt, replied that the Administration was not sure how far remodeling would proceed next quarter.

In addition to Guthrie, Overholt, Carson, and Ross, the University was represented at the meeting by Lowell Wrigley, Stadium Dorms superintendent, and Dale Young, program director for men's residence halls.

The University plans to use the Stadium Dormitories as a scholarship co-operative dormitory next Autumn Quarter.

Young Democrats Hear McElroy Today

Mark McElroy, Attorney General of Ohio, will speak on "The Role of the State in the Administration of Justice."

McElroy's address, at 4:30 p.m. in Room 201 of the New Law Building, is one of a series of programs sponsored by the Ohio State University Young Democrats Club for the purpose of creating greater insight into government of a democratic society. The address is open to all students and members of the faculty.

A coffee hour for members will follow at which McElroy will personally meet all OSU Young Democrats.

The Attorney General will be introduced by Joe Waterman, president of the club, who was recently selected as the "Outstanding College Young Democrat in the State of Ohio."

McElroy is a graduate of Kenyon College and Western Reserve University Law School. Prior to his election as Attorney General last November, McElroy served on the Cleveland City Council for four years, in the Ohio House of Representatives two years, and in the Ohio Senate for two years.

At Kenyon College McElroy received 9 varsity letters—in football, basketball and baseball. He was captain of the football team in 1930.

Purdue On Deck

The Ohio State swimmers, who eked out a victory over the Purdue Boilermakers last year, 57 to 48, will meet them again Saturday.

Coach Peepe's incredible domination of the diving championships will be in serious jeopardy against Purdue, not having Don Harper and Glen Whitten to compete this year.

HARPER WAS the Big Ten and NCAA champion and left a gaping hole in the diving ranks which will be open to the Boilermaker threat.

Peepe's experienced squad will possibly also have trouble in the breast stroke event. The breast stroke performances are a shade below the championship performances of past years. However, the sprint relay will offer tough competition for the Purdue tankmen.

TOM MURRAY, Ohio State's best back stroker since the great Al Wiggins will also be on hand to offer his services Saturday.

The outlook, since the last year Boilermaker-Buck meet, is brighter since Ohio State swimming prospects took a decided upswing since their "off" year in 1958.

Depth will make the Bucks fairly stronger in the sprints. Don McPhee will be the spark plug in these events.

BUCK SPARK—Don McPhee, the nation's top prep sprinter will be on hand Saturday when the Bucks go against the Purdue swim team.

Annual Track Meet Entries Nearing Final Deadline Date

The Intramural Department announced today that the Annual Intramural Indoor Track Meet will be held Thursday, Feb. 19 (preliminaries) and Thursday, Feb. 26 (finals) with a 7 p.m. starting time both nights.

Individual and organization entries must be turned in before 5 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17. No late entries will be accepted, the office reports.

Team championship and relays are for fraternities only. However, non-fraternity students may compete for individual event places and awards.

Any student may compete who is not a track letter winner from any college or university, a freshman sweater and numeral winner in track at Ohio State in 1958, or considered varsity caliber by a varsity coach.

No spiked shoes may be worn in any running or field events and in the relay events, an organization may enter only one team.

By Jack Wittenmeier

The Indiana Hoosiers, minus five starters from a championship team last season, broke five records last night, crushing the Buckeyes, 122-92.

Hitting an unbelievable 62 per cent of their floor shots, the Hoosiers snapped a seven game Buckeye streak in the Arena.

The Hoosiers, tied for second place going into the game, combined slick court play with the emphasis on speed with their hot shooting to dump Ohio State.

INDIANA'S 122 points broke their own personal scoring high and the Big Ten record as well. The Buckeyes kept in contention throughout the first half until the Hoosier's just got too hot to handle.

Larry Siegfried led the Buck scorers again with 25 points but it wasn't enough to offset Indiana's net burning percentage.

Indiana guard Gary Long, averaging 2.8 points per game, led all scorers with 29 points. The Hoosiers were especially deadly from the outside, with Long's running mate, Herbie Lee, dropping in 26.

The freshmen defeated the junior varsity in the prelim, 106-72. Jerry Lucas scored 33 and Mel Nowell dropped in 25.

On the Gym Scene . . .

Gymnasts to Invade Hawkeye Territory

By John Auble, Jr.

When a gymnastic team comes up against a rugged team such as Michigan State, all they can do is their best and hope for a turn of fate.

That turn didn't come over the weekend, at least not to Coach Joe Hewlett and the Buck gym squad.

THE BUCKEYES were handed their first defeat of the season.

And so, it'll be back to the gym equipment this week, for next Saturday isn't going to be as bright as it could be, either.

The Ohio State gymnasts will face Iowa and Minnesota in a triangular meet at the Iowa Gym.

The Iowans will give the Bucks their first real competition in the trampoline event, which, previously has been a sure thing for the Buck NCAA champs—even against the rugged Spartans.

NAT SMITH, Ron O'Brien and Tom Gompf, who have been setting the pace in this event, will have to be "just a little bit better" than they have in the past, for the Iowans also have an NCAA trampoline champ.

If the Iowa squad shouldn't offer enough competition for the Bucks, Minnesota will be on hand to add complications to the meet.

The Golden Gophers, although not boasting a perfect record, will make sure that the Scarlet and Gray team will have its hands full.

* ERNIE DeMARCHI will not have as much competition in the horizontal bar event as he did against Stan Tarsis of Michigan State, and, from the looks of things at practice, DeMarchi should be a sure thing for the Bucks in this event.

Cepeda Receives Bond

Have you heard . . .

That baseball fans in San Juan, Puerto Rico, made a collection at the ball park over the weekend and came up with $200 needed to pay a fine for Orlando Cepeda? Cepeda had been fined for throwing a baseball at the fans during a game last week.

That veteran golf pro Marty Furgol won the $20,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

Furgol fired a 2 under par 69 in the final round to come from behind to win the tournament with a 4 round score of 274. This is Furgol's first major golf victory since 1954.

* * * THAT INDIVIDUAL and organization entries for the Annual Intramural Indoor Track Meet must be turned into the Ohio State Intramural Office before 5 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 17. No late entries will be accepted.

* * * That Quarterback Bobby Layne of the Pittsburgh Steelers wears practically no padding or protective equipment inside his uniform. He claims it would hamper his passing efficiency.

That outfielder Lee Maye, a farm-hand of the Milwaukee Braves, has recorded several rock 'n roll ballads. Maye prefers baseball to singing. He batted .318 with Austin of the Texas League last season.

THAT THE FORWARD pass in college football was legalized in 1906 but that it was seven years before Notre Dame made the pass a nationwide sensation by crushing Army on tosses from the late Gus Dorais to Knute Rockne?

That Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings and Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers work as business partners in a sales organization throughout the year in Detroit?

That Israel plans to open its first golf course in Tiberia this summer and hopes to have several of the world's top players take part in the inaugural tournament. Looks like another place for golf ace Jackie Nicklaus to try his skills.

Indianapolis Entries . . .

LAST YEAR'S Indianapolis Speedway winner, Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix, Ariz., and one of the rookies in the 1958 starting lineup are the first drivers named officially on signed entry forms for the 43rd annual 500-mile race May 30th.

The rookie's name, Paul Goldsmith, of St. Clair Shores, Mich., will be one to remember at this year's classic.

The third official entry received today was the Chapman Special, entered by Art Sims, who will be back at Indianapolis as a chief mechanic for his 19th consecutive 500-mile race. Sims is still looking for a driver he believes capable of "running up front."

Hockey Club Downs Fenn

The Ohio State Hockey Club beat the Fenn Foxes of Cleveland Saturday 7 to 2.

BILL VITANIA of the Bucks played a shut-out game during the first two periods before retiring to permit a reserve goalie to play the third period.

The Buckeyes played without the services of Bobby Mertz and Steve Scher.

Mertz suffered a broken nose in a game two weeks ago and Scher was the victim of a slashed neck from a hockey skate during the early part of the Fenn game.

The Ohio State squad looked extremely good, even under the pressure of the Fenn threat. Coach Bruce Bennett reported that the game Saturday was the "roughest and fastest game of the season."

Goals for Ohio State are as follows: Simon (3), Brown (2), Garbaro (1) and Kraus (1).

Pianist Slated For Mershon

World famous pianist Alexander Brailowsky will play at Mershon Auditorium under the auspices of the Great Artist Series.

While Brailowsky is generally acknowledged as one of the country's foremost interpreters of Chopin, Liszt, and other masters of the romantic period, he will include works by modern composers for his concert here.

The time for the program is 8 p.m.

Reserved seat tickets for the program, open to the general public, are available at Mershon Auditorium by telephone at AX-9-3148, Ext. 8476, by mail, or at the door the evening of the recital.

Art for Rent In Hayes Hall

It is now possible for students, staff and faculty to enjoy graphic works of art at a minimal cost.

A collection of 50 prints made by professional print makers of many countries is now on display on the second floor of Hayes Hall. The prints may be rented by anyone connected with the University. The charge is $1.50 per quarter and may be renewed indefinitely.

The show includes a wide selection of black and white, color, realistic, and abstract prints in many media.

This exhibit is sponsored by the International Graphic Arts Society which is endowed by the Rockefeller Foundation. The purpose of this arrangement is to familiarize the layman as well as the connoisseur with the availability and minimal cost involved in living with good art.

Dinner Meet For Councils Is Scheduled

The question of how students can get a knowledge of the religious background of their fellow students that will benefit them in their day to day activities will be the topic of discussion in the joint dinner meeting of the student councils of the Arts and Education Colleges today at 5:30 p.m.

Leading the discussion will be guest panelists: Prof. Wilfred Eberhart of the College of Education, Rabbi Norman Diamond from Springfield, and Prof. Henry DeWire, University of Dayton.

According to M. D. McLean, coordinator of religious affairs on the campus, the topic is one of great importance both to the students and to society. He expressed a desire to stimulate an awareness of the conflicts arising in person to person relationships because of a lack of understanding of other faiths.

Bergen Festival Scheduled by WOSU

Several special programs have been planned for February by WOSU-TV and WOSU radio.

Today at 9 p.m., WOSU-TV, channel 34, will present Dutch-born pianist Willem Muller in a recital.

His program will include Mozart's "Sonata in B Flat Major," and Maurice Ravel's "Valse Nobles et Sentimentales."

Bergen Festival to be Aired

A series of taped broadcasts from the 1958 Bergen International Festival will be initiated over WOSU radio each Tuesday starting today.

THIS FESTIVAL, inaugurated in 1952, takes place each year in Bergen, Norway, the birthplace of Edvard Grieg, Norway's well-known composer.

Besides the Tuesday afternoon concerts, the broadcasts will also be presented over WOSU-FM on the following Friday night at 8:10.

Symposiums Planned

WOSU radio will increase its "University Symposium" broadcasts from six to 11 a week. In addition to the regularly scheduled 3 p.m. programs Sunday through Friday, the station will broadcast a second symposium Monday through Friday at 6:30 p.m. on AM only.

TODAY AT 3 p.m., former U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio will talk on "Science and Public Policy."

WOIO Radio Begins New Union Show

Gab, music, talent, gifts and intransmanification du bandanginility—are the ingredients for "The Take Five Club," a new show by WOIO, the student-operated radio station.

Intransmanification du bandanginility? No, the masters of ceremonies, Dee Ito, A-4, and Dick Murgatroyd, A-4, didn't get tongue tied, but asked people they interviewed what it meant.

No one could answer, but were given gifts anyway, which is one of the purposes of the show. The show's three sponsors present gifts to those interviewed and also to listeners who write in for membership cards distributed by the two announcers.

The show is broadcast from the Ohio Union on Wednesday nights at 8.

The announcers also will broadcast the weekly Union Rendezvous from the Tavern after the "Take Five Club."

By the way, intransmanification du bandanginility means "pep," according to the announcers who undoubtedly have plenty of it.

MORE PAY, LESS WORK

MOSCOW — (AP)—More pay and less work hit a responsive chord in Moscow. Pravda's account of a Premier Khrushchev speech to a Communist Party Congress says the first applause came when he announced that goal.

War Tragedy Remembered by OSU Student

By Barbara Hill

The war headlines of 16 years ago today were full of tragedy and heroism. Many of us do not remember them, but Rosalie Goode, H-Ec-2, has not forgotten.

On Feb. 3, 1943, a U. S. troopship, the S. S. Dorchester, was torpedoed by a German submarine 90 miles off the Greenland coast. Two hundred men survived the tragedy but 700 died.

AMONG THESE 700 were four chaplains—Clark V. Poling and George L. Fox, Protestants; John P. Washington, a Roman Catholic priest; and Rabbi Alexander D. Goode, Rosalie's father.

When the ship was struck, a shortage of life preservers was discovered. The chaplains volunteered their safety equipment and their lives.

Survivors on the life rafts watched in awe as the ship went down. The four men stood on the deck, hands joined, each saying a prayer from his own faith.

A POSTAGE STAMP commemorating this brave act was dedicated by ex-President Harry S. Truman in 1948. Nine-year-old Rosalie and her mother were invited to the White House with the three other families to receive the first issues.

"I didn't quite understand," said Rosalie, "but I knew I was very proud."

Originally from Washington, D. C., Rosalie came to Columbus after her mother's marriage to Rabbi Harry Kaplan, director of the Ohio State Hillel Foundation. She is now planning a career in advertising.

Rosalie can also be proud of the Chapel of the Four Chaplains at Temple University dedicated in 1951. American of all faiths contributed $300,000 for the construction. They too will remember.

Film Comedy Today

"Subida al Cielo" (Risen to Heaven) will be the Chapel Movie Series film shown today, at 2 and at 4 p.m., in University Hall Chapel.
