Entrance-Test Bill Gets Fawcett's Nod

A bill in the Ohio Legislature to authorize establishment of admission requirements for Ohio's six state universities got a boost Wednesday night when President Fawcett and other Ohio educators took a supporting stand.

President Fawcett issued a statement favoring the bill to the House Education Committee* at its first hearing on the measure. The statement, read for Dr. Fawcett who was unable to attend the meeting in person, is:

"HAVING WORKED in public education for many years, and having been a member of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond the High School when the issue of selective admissions was debated quite vigorously, I am convinced that the principle of placing a limitation on admissions is sound, but that the manner in which the principle is implemented commands cautious and intelligent action.

"There is a wide disparity among the high schools of Ohio, which leads me to the conclusion that an arbitrary ruling against the admission of the lowest fourths or thirds of high school graduating classes is not a safe guarantee that we shall be admitting the young people of greatest promise.

"While academic accomplishment is a factor in predicting college success, certainly a battery of tests to assist in making judgments on ability, motivation, drive, maturity, etc., and to provide information on

Eliot Resigns As Illini Grid Coach

Ray Eliot, head football coach at the University of Illinois, resigned his position effective Jan. 1, 1960.

Coach Woody Hayes last night commented on the unexpected resignation by saying, "He is a splendid coach."

"I HAVE KNOWN Ray over nine years," Hayes said, "and I consider him a fine man and a splendid coach."

Eliot's record against Ohio State since 1942 has been three wins against twelve losses and one tie.

the type of college work that might be most productive needs to be considered if we are to establish valid admissions procedures."

HE TOLD the committee:

"Personally, I like this bill for several reasons:

"1. It places squarely upon the shoulders of trustees and administrators of our colleges and universities the responsibility of working (perhaps through its Inter-University Council) on an admissions policy that will be substantially uniform and will meet best the needs of Ohio's people.

"2. It permits variations to provide for the individual differences (Continued on page 6)

COLUMBUS, OHIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1959

Newspapers Will Resume This Sunday

The 14-day-old strike against the three Columbus daily newspapers ended last night.

The settlement provides a general increase retroactive to January first of $4 a week for the first year of a two-year contract. It provides for an additional $2 weekly starting next January first.

In addition, there was a wage improvement for Saturday night work the mediators said it involves a bonus which will reach $1.50 per man by next January.

The papers will not appear until Sunday due to mechanical difficulties, the staff's unwillingness to put out a hastily produced paper, and the fact that the final contract has not yet been drawn up.

Federal mediators George Bell and E. L. Phillips announced that the Union membership ratified the new agreement at a mass meeting Thursday evening.

The new contract will expire on February 28, 1961.

MEANWHILE, the Daily News, a paper started by the Columbus Newspaper Guild to provide the city with news during the strike, announced it would still appear today.

The strike was originally called by the pressmen's union which was seeking improved Saturday night working conditions.

The pressmen's contract expired at the end of 1958. However they continued working without a contract... except for a one-day interruption... until the strike began February 26th.

Congress Approves Hawaiian Statehood

HONOLULU — (UPI) — News of Hawaii's acceptance into the Union swept through the islands like a tidal wave yesterday — but a wave that left shouting and joy in its wake.

The sounds of horns, bells, sirens and firecrackers erupting in celebration of the long-awaited event gave an almost visible pulse to the news that went rumbling through the islands, spilling people into the streets to join the wild festivities.

WITHIN 15 minutes the whole town of Honolulu went crazy. Schools, shops and offices were closed. Traffic was virtually halted by the dancing and kissing in the streets. Statehood was an accomplished fact and Hawaii's citizens were in a frenzy of joy.

Almost all work was suspended except in newspapers, radio stations and a few key spots.

Acting Gov. Edward Johnston immediately declared a two-day territory-wide holiday. The citizens were going to "holiday" anyway.

IN FACT, the celebration jumped the gun. At 10 a.m. (HST) (3 p.m. EST), some four minutes before actual passage of the bill by the House of Representatives in Washington, somebody sounded a siren. That did it.

There was no stopping the celebrating and when the official word was flashed minutes later, the hilarity was already underway and gaining momentum.

IN DOWNTOWN Honolulu and on Waikiki Beach the first spontaneous demonstrations ran their course in an hour or so and things settled down to a few degrees above normal.

With the bars running at forced draft, however, it appeared the official celebrations last night would rekindle enthusiasm.

Among the first of the statehood gags was the informal greeting exchanged between friends and strangers alike on the streets: "Hello, citizen!"

A dramatic scene was enacted in the territorial legislature where a direct telephone line to delegate Hugh Burns on the House floor in Washington kept a running account of progress of the bill pouring out to the legislature through a loudspeaker.

Streets in downtown Honolulu were reminiscent of V-J Day in 1945. Girls were hugging and kissing strange men. Everyone was exchanging leis. Confetti and serpentine tape was pouring out of win-

Friday the 13th Is Here; Finals Are Near, The Omens Aver—There's Plenty to Fear

By William R. Teague

Double double toil and trouble, fire burn and cauldron bubble, Friday the 13th is upon us for the second month in a row, bringing black omens that would shame Shakespeare's witches.

Friday always has been a day black as the hangman's hood. They say it all began with a flax-haired Nordic goddess named Freya, a crass lass who allegedly had herself hauled about in a buggy drawn by cats. Tradition also has it Eve tempted Adam on Freya's Day causing untold millions to eat fish on Friday ever after as a reminder that Eve violated God's command.

FRIDAY WAS the day of confusion in the tower of Babel, the great flood of the bible and the day of Christ's crucifixion.

The day got tangled with 13 because of the 13th guest at that famous biblical banquet was a fellow named Judas. Everybody knows what a scoundrel he turned out to be. Ever since then Friday the 13th has been the day when witches meet.

Today is doubly dangerous. All that old black-bat magic hanging around from Friday the 13th last month makes it fearsome just to be alive.

DON'T DARE go courting. Bad luck to attend a wedding or get married unless you're in Scotland and wearing green. (Round trip air deluxe, New York to Glasgow, $841.70 per person, economy rate $426.60).

Break a mirror or consort with black cats and you may as well file your will. Don't turn a bed or you'll be cursed with sleeplessness.

New undertakings are taboo. Don't begin a job you can't finish before sundown. Fortify yourself with the lefthind foot of a spotted rabbit. (Texas jackrabbit preferred).

DON'T CARRY money. Henry Morgenthau Jr. saw to it that dollar bills have 13 leaves and berries on an olive branch. The left talon of that bald eagle clutches 13 arrows, there are 13 stars above the eagle's dome, and 13 letters in "E. Pluribus Unum." Better to barter than carry such stuff on Hangman's Day.

If you're a baby born on this day, immediately bathe yourself in the juice of crushed mistletoe. (It's all right to ask mother to help on this one if you were born today).

A mistletoe farm is handy, since it would take an estimated two tons to produce enough moisture for complete protection. But it's worth it. The libation not only is your only hope for a lucky life but also protects you from convulsions and epilepsy for the rest of your days.

Of course, if you're not superstitious you can avoid all such silliness by throwing a pinch of salt over your shoulder into the devil's eye. (A salt shaker is necessary for this one, but don't tempt fate by stealing the shaker at a restaurant).

Let's Stop Cheating Ourselves

Another quarter has whisked by which means that finals week is upon us.

Finals, oh yes, that's the time when:

—Everyone rushes to the fraternity, sorority and closed reserve files.

—Everyone wishes they had a master key to Hagerty Hall.

—Students begin a campus-wide search for the missing pages of their department finals.

—Everyone tries to figure out the best way to sneak crib notes into the final.

We're not trying to say that cheating is widespread at Ohio State, but we are saying that it does occur.

A survey taken by Indiana Central College showed that cheating has become commonplace among college students.

The report concluded that the increased cheating was a result of a general decline of the old moral standards of American society. Only 13 per cent of the students participating in the survey said they felt cheating was basically dishonest.

Last quarter the Educational Affairs Commission of the Student Senate prepared a statement on cheating which said in part:

"Since neither faculty nor students can be absolved from blame for illegal activities concerning final exams, we the Student Senate urge the faculty to take all precautionary measures to insure against the unauthorized procurement of examinations, midterms, and cheating during the examination period."

Knowing that cheating can result in disciplinary action by the University the Senate urged the student body to examine their moral and personal obligations to themselves and to the University when confronted with the opportunity to attain personal "gain" by illegitimate methods.

We wonder how many on this campus have cheated their way to a sheepskin, and why they seldom are caught. Can it be that cheating has become so prevalent students and professors alike are resigned to the fact that it is something they must live with?

How can anyone be proud of a degree that they were willing to "steal" for approximately $4,000? How much value will the graduate derive from a college education that he did not earn?

Cheating is a problem which can be whipped and we'd like to see both the student and faculty at Ohio State make a concentrated effort to do so.

Lantern Gets Roses and Thorns

Education . . .

To the Editor:

The LANTERN has long deserved a note of commendation for its concern for Education. The Laeuffer editorial and the Connell article in the March 10 issue are illustrative of this concern, and, in my opinion, make a contribution to "better" education.

PERHAPS AN even "better" contribution to Education could be made if persons inclined to write or to discuss the problems of education would make the effort to become more fully informed of their topic. Specifically, Mr. Laeuffer's principal recommendation is that high school life adjustment, cheer leading, and dating-manner courses be thrown out of the window.

I submit that no—or at least very few—such courses exist in Ohio high schools. I challenge Mr. Laeuffer, or any reader for that matter, to prove that such courses are common among Ohio high schools and that schools are, in fact, a "drug store full of notions."

THE 1958 ANNUAL report of the Ohio State Board of Education indicates that 100 per cent of all 1957 Ohio high school graduates completed three or more units of English; 53.3 per cent completed two or more units of mathematics; 71.1 per cent completed two or more units of social studies; and 41.3 per cent completed two or more units of a foreign language. It should be emphasized that many of these graduates completed work in excess of the percentages given.

I can see no value in an extension of the argument that everything is all right or all wrong with public education. I can see considerable value in attempting to identify and to understand what the high schools are teaching, how they are accomplishing their task, and how successful they are.

Finally, to plead for improved "thinking" on the part of high school graduates with the absurd generalization that "entrance tests across the country have more than once shown that Johnny and Mary can't read or write, nor, to put it more bluntly, even think for themselves," is an incongruity at best.

Earl Harmer,
Asst. Professor of Education.

Logic . . .

To the Editor:

I would like to enlighten Larry Grubbs whose letter to you appeared on March 10. Apparently, he has led a very sheltered life and does not know that there are many people in this world and on this campus who very strongly do not believe that mysticism (or faith as Mr. Grubbs calls it) is the strongest deterrent to the treat of communism.

I would suggest that Mr. Grubbs take a course in logic since he makes the commonly false assumption that all "Godless" people are communists. Just because communists are irreligious does not mean that all those who are irreligious are communists. We heathen are simply too intelligent to believe in communism and its mirage of Utopia. Marsha Henderson, A-4.

Lantern Lacks Thought . . .

To the Editor:

People complain about the LANTERN. But people, being people will always find something to criticize. No two persons see things exactly the same way.

EVEN YOUR letters to the editor column is being criticized. I like that column, even if it may have come into being to supply the thought that was previously lacking in the LANTERN. I'm not writing this to complain. But I think you have a problem.

Your staff seems to consist either of writers who don't think, or of thinkers who don't write. The letter column is a good way for your newspaper to supply thought stimulation. But the letter page should not replace your function of providing the bulk of intellectual nourishment to an intellectual community.

THE STADIUM dorm boys may or may not have a case; dormitory food may or may not be good; in any event, page two was wet with tears for too long. The bright period was supplied by that fellow Carroll. He proved that many engineers are thinkers as well as people and he did it without even defining what a liberal education is. An education is not liberal without science and, now, without a little technology.

Thus, some letters are supplying what your staff isn't supplying: thought stimulation. Your problem seems to be in deciding the function of a college newspaper. Do you exist to train students in local, run-of-the-mill newspaper work?

DO YOU EXIST only to provide the campus with news? Or do you exist to supplement the classroom education of students by unifying what they learn from books and lectures with what they can learn from their own hard thinking? I think you must do all.

But to do the last, which is the most important, you must be a thought-provoking paper. Only then will your staff become journalists instead of more reporters.

OHIO STATE'S reputation largely rests with its undergraduate product. Ellison's Post article, though journalistically irresponsible and dishonorable, did hit forcefully at the play aspects of Big Ten schools. If we dismiss the course-forced thought of the Ohio State classroom, Ohio State seems to become what Ellison was writing against.

If your newspaper has any obligation, it is to reflect—or perhaps in Ohio State's case—to help instill the academic flavor which should be synonymous with a university. Perhaps the University is not living up to its own role. If this is the case, your job is to instill. A human being, unfortunately, takes the path of least mental resistance. By being educated he arms himself with the tools to cut his way through the intellectual jungle.

MOST HUMAN beings never enter the jungle. They skirt it, or, what is worse, they are taught to skirt it, never realizing that the real fruits of what they should be seeking lie in the middle of the jungle.

The LANTERN standards should not be those of a newspaper sold at the street corner. They should be much higher. They are occasionally but only occasionally. You are journalists first and reporters second. Having studied with some of your faculty at the School of Journalism, I realize that these words only echo what they are repeatedly telling you. If you encourage the non-academic attitude, you will help maintain it, to the further detriment of the young adult mind including your own minds.

You mustn't forget that you, too, are students. Being students, you have the rare but distinguished opportunity to teach while you learn.

Wil Lepkowski, Grad.

Congrats . . .

To the Editor:

Please may I add my congratulations to this splendid retort to Professor Ellison of Indiana which was contained in your issue, Friday, March 6.

I liked the reply which you have given him and the facts which you have presented is an excellent illustration of splendid and responsible journalism.

Prof. Del Oberteuffer.

ences that give strength and character to our separate institutions; to wit, agriculture, engineering, the professional colleges, and the specialized schools.

"3. It leaves the way open for any student, regardless of his scholastic record, to gain admission if he can demonstrate his potential ability by examination.

"4. It requires announcement of a new policy at least a year prior to its application so that the public will be warned in advance and can govern itself accordingly.

"5. Most states already place responsibility for admissions in the hands of their governing boards, and the experience has always been salutary."

DR. FAWCETT ADDED: "It is my belief that, if this bill is passed, it will strengthen the hand of our fine public school people, who are interested in quality education, and who need support from the colleges and universities in requiring a somewhat more rigorous work schedule at the secondary level.

"For these reasons it is my firm conviction that the General Assembly would do well to give this bill its thoughtful consideration. I am certain that our six state-supported institutions can and will resolve a policy that will strengthen the quality of higher education in Ohio."

Others who spoke in favor of the measure included Judge Robert N.

Gorman of Cincinnati, a member of Ohio State's Board of Trustees; President John D. Millett of Miami University; President Ralph W. McDonald of Bowling Green State University; Gaige B. Paulsen, dean of University College at Ohio University; and Rep. Robert F. Reckman (R. Hamilton County) of Cincinnati, who introduced the bill.

SPECIFICALLY, the Reckman bill would enable the boards of trustees of the state-supported universities to prescribe minimum standards of admission to be met by high school students entering the various undergraduate programs. It provides also that high school graduates could take entrance examinations, if desired; that admission standards be "substantially uniform" among the Ohio's six state institutions; and that minimum standards be published a year before they take effect.

Outlook 'Bright' For Buckeye Basketball

By Jack Wittenmeier

Not too long ago, when the Dodgers were still a part of Brooklyn, it was common to see the NL pennant flying over Ebbets Field in early September.

No less common was a World Series loss to the Yankees later that month.

Crossing the bridge back to Flatbush, disappointed fans often turned back toward Yankee Stadium to mutter, "Wait till next year."

LAST MONTH at St. John Arena the half promise—half threat was made again by an angered crowd, watching Indiana set a new Big Ten scoring record.

Looking ahead to Ohio State's cage prospects for next year, it seems likely that the promise might be satisfied.

A quick look at returning lettermen shows a great deal of retained talent. Larry Siegfried, who has made quite a name for himself this past season, will be back at one of the guard positions.

SIEGFRIED, WHO finished fourth in conference scoring (21.6) set a new single game free throw record this year, making 16 out of 16 against Purdue. His free throw accuracy also established a Big Ten seasonal mark.

Joe Roberts, who Coach Taylor cited as the "most improved player," will be returning at a forward position. An excellent rebounder, Roberts finished with a conference average of 12.4.

Dick Furry, who led the club in rebounding, will also return for another season. Furry finished slightly below the double figures with a 9.2 average.

OTHER BUCKEYE lettermen back next season are Richie Hoyt, who showed moments of brilliance

—hottest prospect

until a leg injury slowed him down, and Howie Nourse, who filled in for Larry Huston in relief roles.

Dave Barker and Bill Dodson

LADIES
New Cinderella Heels
LITTLE COBBLER

2065 N. High Open 9-6

will also be back for another season.

The biggest supply of talent for next year will come from this season's freshman team, who finished averaging 106 points per game and undefeated in nine games with the junior varsity.

THE HOTTEST freshman prospect is 6-9 Jerry Lucas, one of the finest players to wear the Scarlet and Gray for many a season.

Lucas, who stuffed in 93 points against the varsity in two tries, showed all the qualities of a great player this season.

One of Lucas' greatest talents is being in the right place at the right time. His ability to outmaneuver opponents allowed him to score a great deal of his points on "stuff-ins."

STATISTICALLY, Lucas led Frank Truitt's squad in scoring with a 30.9 average and rebounding, picking off 22 rebounds per game.

Another potential conference star is guard Mel Nowell who ranked second in scoring with a 17.2 average. Nowell's chief asset is his remarkable ball handling and passing ability.

John Havlicek, a 6-5 forward, scored at a 16.7 chip throughout the season and was runnerup in the rebound department, collecting 14 per game.

IN THE BACKCOURT, 6-2 Gary Gearhart can press Nowell and Siegfried for a starting position. Gearhart, one of the fastest players on the squad, dropped in 12.6 points per game.

J. T. Landes and Bob Knight must also be considered top prospects for next year's varsity.

With six returning lettermen from a squad that finished 7-7 in a well balanced conference and these freshman prospects, the future seems bright.

One thing to remember, however, is the simple fact that Big Ten championships are not won with press clippings but on the basketball floor.

Coach Taylor said it best at the banquet when he remarked, "Quite a few people around the conference have picked you to win next year. The disquieting thing is that no one has called in here to cancel yet."

Karow & Co. Off to Florida

By John Auble Jr.

In the spring, a young man's fancy. His thoughts begin turning toward the neighborhood ball diamond, sunshine, cool breezes, and . . .

But one look outside his window shatters his thoughts as he gazes upon a blanket of new fallen snow.

MARTY KAROW and his baseballers have the right idea, however. They will leave March 20 for a nine-game schedule against four college teams in the land of sunshine—Florida.

The squad will fly to Jacksonville for a workout the afternoon of the 20th, and then will meet the University of Miami in a doubleheader at Miami, Saturday, March 21.

"Veteran material is available in the infield and outfield but battery strength is needed," reports dugout boss Karow. Only lettermen pitchers that are on hand are southpaw Carl Unger and right-hander Dale Denny. Tony Conte is a letterman receiver. Veteran infielders include Gary Haverkamp, at first base; Rod Davis and Jim Wiezbiski, second; Dave Holland, shortstop and Bob Woehler, third base.

THEIR FLORIDA schedule includes the annual Rollins College tournament March 23-28.

★ ★ LANTERN'S ALL BIG TEN PICKS ★ ★

By Jack Wittenmeier

Despite Michigan State's runaway in the conference race, individual stars were well balanced throughout the Big Ten this season.

The conference's number one man is Michigan's M. C. Burton. The Wolverine ace led the Big Ten in two key departments, scoring and rebounding.

BURTON SCORED a total of 316 points in 14 games for a 24.0 average. He also grabbed a total of 249 rebounds. These accomplishments rate him a forward position on the LANTERN'S All-Conference team of 1958-59.

At the other forward position, we select Minnesota's lanky Ron Johnson.

Playing for a ninth place Gopher team, the 6-7 junior finished second in the conference scoring race with a 23.3 point average. His skyscraping height helped him to pick off 175 rebounds, third best in the league.

IN HIS appearance at St. John Arena this season, Johnson helped himself to a chunk of the individual scoring record, pouring in 39 points against the Bucks.

The LANTERN'S choice at the center position is not unfamiliar to Big Ten fans. Johnny Green was the AP's only unanimous selection this season, his third straight year at the post position in the poll.

A good team player, Green averaged 20 points this season. His rebounding ability secured him the runnerup spot in that department this season with 242. Only 6-5, Green has been described as "jumping like a seven-footer with a hot foot."

AT ONE GUARD position, the LANTERN selects Purdue's Willie Merriweather. The 6-5 senior scored at a 21.0 clip for the Boiler-makers this season.

His height allowed Merriweather to grab 102 rebounds, high for a Big Ten guard this season and made him the only guard in the Big Ten that jumps for the opening tipoff.

Merriweather's running mate at the other guard position is the Buckeyes' sophomore guard, Larry Siegfried. As the most productive outside man in the conference this season, Siegfried scored 21.5 points per game, good enough for the fourth spot in Big Ten scoring.

Besides his ability to hit the basket from anywhere on the floor with good accuracy, Siegfried set a new single game free throw mark in the season's finale against Purdue. The 6-3 guard dropped in 16 charity tosses out of 16 attempts, finishing 106-130 in Big Ten play.

THE LANTERN'S selections for All Big Ten scored a total of 1,505 points in 14 games and collected 846 rebounds.

The second team finds an array of talent, nearing the effectiveness and abilities of the first five.

Iowa's Dave Gunther, a 6-5 forward, gave the Buckeyes plenty of trouble at St. John Arena and Iowa this season, bagging 37 points at Iowa City and closing eighth in conference scoring with a 20.0 average.

BOB ANDEREGG, the Spartan's all-around performer at a forward position, holds a second team berth on the merit of his 20.5 scoring average.

Big Joe Ruklick, one of the taller players in the Big Ten at 6-9, made a whirlwind finish to climb high in the conference scoring race. The Northwestern center, who broke numerous records in his career for the Wildcats, scored at a 23.3 point pace.

Michigan's Johnny Tidwell, heralded as one of the finest Wolverine prospects in a long time, lived up to his advance billing as a sophomore this season, compiling a 19.2 average.

ROGER TAYLOR, a steady performer at guard for Illinois, rated a spot on the second All-Conference team, with a 20.3 average.

Genuine Pony Shoes
Specialty Gift Item . . .

GUN HOOKS—$3.95

Rugged and as attractive as the authentic horseshoe items made by our forefathers in the covered wagon days. This distinctive, useful gift item will appeal to any man or woman having the slightest amount of love for horses, guns or the beautiful outdoors.

- Made from real pony shoes (Steel-not cast aluminum)
- Will hold .22 cal. rifle to double barrel shotgun
- Each pony shoe approximately 4" x 4"
- Leather-lined to protect barrel and stock
- Pony nails furnished for mounting
- Completely assembled-ready to mount
- Dull black finish

(The most attractive and authentic finish to blend with wood, blue gun barrels and Early American decorating ideas)

These gun hooks are designed to hold your rifle, shotgun, fishing rod, sword or used as: towel holders, flower brackets, coat hangers, curtain rod holders, hat hooks, garden tool holders.

dows. And above all there was noise. Happy noise.

BOAT WHISTLES, police sirens and a huge replica of America's liberty bell joined the clamor made by auto horns, church bells, whistles, noisemakers and just plain shouting by the happy islanders.

Three air national guard pilots took off in jet fighters from Hickam Air Force Base at the news to deliver official proclamations of statehood, signed by Johnston, to the mayors of Kauai, Maui and Hilo.

Downtown there was almost no movement of traffic because of the crowds in the streets. But streams of autos left the metropolitan area for the suburbs where residents planned to celebrate with their families.

BARS IN ALL areas were crowded. So were churches. But most of the people were in the streets—approving with their wild excitement the action of Congress.

As soon as the word was flashed Honolulu Mayor Neal Blaisdell and his aides went to the historic Hawaiian Kawaiahao Church to give a solemn prayer of thanksgiving. They then dashed back to the patio of the city hall where the Royal Hawaiian Hotel bands was assembled and hula dancers—both pro-

GRADE CARDS

All grade cards other than those for candidates for graduation are due in the Office of the Registrar by 12 noon Saturday, March 21st. Kenneth R. Varner, Registrar.

This Bulletin will be the official medium for all authorized announcements. Faculty and students—especially officials of all organizations—are requested to look to the Bulletin for information. University officials and executives will be guided by the Bulletin in preparing for meetings. In the interest of efficiency and to avoid conflicts, the following announcement is made: No meetings or functions of any sort will be permitted or provided for either on the campus or in the University buildings unless authorized and announced in the Daily Bulletin. The University assumes no responsibility for unauthorized or unannounced meetings. Notices should be at the office of the Executive Dean, Special Services, not later than three days, excluding Saturday and Sunday, before the date of publication. Notices of Monday's Bulletin must be received Wednesday morning.

CHECKED

BOSTON—(UPI)—A Texan accused of passing three worthless checks totaling $140 in Boston was arraigned before Chief Justice Elijah Adlow in Municipal Court.

"How did you do it?" asked the amazed judge. "I tried to give a check for an airplane ticket the other day and they refused to accept it."

THE WEEK'S NEWS IN REVIEW

Compiled by Jaan Kangilaski

Clearly Confusing

It looked as if President Nasser of the United Arab Republic had been driven into the Western camp as a result of the abortive Arab nationalist revolt in Iraq. And, fittingly enough, this event was commemorated by a ceremony that raised Nasser to the exalted status only football coaches and university presidents enjoy in America.

He was hanged in effigy by the Iraqis.

That made Nasser mad. He had been getting mad all week, ever since the victorious Iraqi premier, Abdel Karim Kassem, began accusing him of being behind the revolt. (According to quite a few observers this was very likely true.) Anyway, Nasser made a speech to cheering Syrian students in Damascus wherein he blasted Kassem as a tool of the Communists and also went on the record as saying Arab Communists are "used to taking their orders from an outside power."

The immediate result to this speech was a torrent of abuse. But it was also reported that Iraqi-UAR relations were awfully strained and clashes between Nasser supporters and Communists were reported from here and there.

Bubble, Boil and Bubble

There was no actual fighting in Latin America, but there was a lot of talk about it.

Americans in Bolivia were advised to stay off the streets yesterday because the papers are going to print Time magazine's account of the riots touched off by an earlier Time article. Both Guatemala and Nicaragua claimed that their neighbors were harboring armies in exile ready to pounce upon them.

And Rafael Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic, vowed that if anybody tried to invade his country, the aggressors' "beards and brains will be flying about like butterflies." (Both Premier Castro of Cuba and President Betancourt of Venezuela have said they would love to see the Trujillo regime wiped out.)

Some Home News

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO labor unions, attacked the administration labor bill as unfair.

The violence-marked textile strike at Henderson, N. C., continued with more reports of dynamitings. Thousands of coal miners of Harlan County, Ky., and elsewhere stayed out of the mines. No violence was reported—yet.

And the two months' old loggers strike in Newfoundland claimed its first victim as a policeman was killed trying to escort a busload of strikebreakers through to a government-owned lumber camp.

Hawaii was accepted as the 50th state. (This won't be legal until the President signs the papers, but he has been in favor of Hawaiian statehood all along.)

'Now Looka Here'

In Europe, both sides continued to talk tough but real worry that World War III was imminent appeared to be waning.

Khrushchev left East Berlin Wednesday. He was going back to Moscow after discussing what he called the future peace treaty between Russia and East Germany with East German leaders. (He also made periodic proposals about ending the crisis which were periodically rejected by the West.)

Next Premier Macmillan landed in Bonn after a somewhat futile try to sell the French leaders on the wisdom of his recent trip to Moscow. Chancellor Adenauer of Germany has been muttering that Macmillan's Moscow trip was in a sort of concession to the Russians.

So Macmillan had his work cut out for him. And after he gets through in Bonn, he is supposed to come to the United States for more of the same.

American attitude towards the Berlin crisis has also been hardening. In fact, it is said that a rift may be developing between USA and Great Britain over the summit meeting that may or may not take place this year.

Impala Sport Coupe—like every Chevy—has Safety Plate Glass all around.

Chevy stops quickest ... goes farthest on a gallon!

Chevy showed the best brakes of the leading low-priced three in a test of repeated stops at highway speeds conducted and certified by NASCAR*. Chevy also won over the other two in a NASCAR economy run—with the highest gas mileage for 6's and V8's at cruising speeds of just over 55 miles an hour.

Here's a car that knows how to get the most out of a gallon. And it's the only car in its field to bring you hydraulic valve lifters in all popular engines—6 and V8. This means smoother, quieter performance for you.

There are many other advances just as fundamental as the efficiency of Chevrolet's engines and the dependability of its new brakes (with more lining area than any other low-priced car). But why not stop by your dealer's and let Chevy do its own sweet talking!
