Follow the Four Factors of Fair Use

Fair use is a limitation on the copyright holder’s exclusive rights and provides that reproduction and other uses “for purposes such as criticism, comment, news reporting, teaching (including multiple copies for classroom use), scholarship, or research, is not an infringement of copyright.” (17 U.S.C. §107).

In determining whether a use is a fair use, consider the following factors:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Factor</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>Purpose and character of the use. Is it a transformative or productive use? Is the use for nonprofit educational purposes?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Nature of the copyrighted work. What type of work is being used? Is the work published? Is the work nonfiction based?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Amount and substantiality of the portion used. Is a limited portion being used? Is the portion used at the heart of the copyrighted work?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Effect of use on market for the copyrighted work. Does the use serve as a substitute in current or potential markets?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Need guidance in your fair use analysis? Use our fair use checklist to review factors that favor/oppose fair use:
