has cancelled his trip abroad to attend in the interests of the moving picture industry, and it is rumored that owing to his pie-chewing proclivities, he is absolutely against the project. He will be accompanied by General Diaz, who is taking vocal lessons from "Pop" Hoening in order to be able to give his commands to the soldiers in true Grand Opera style.

A cordon of detectives was thrown about the Coliseum last night when it was learned that Johnny Jones, and two other Bolsheviks were seen looking about the Fair Grounds. Jones, it was said, was in charge of the "Farewell to the White Men," at a man, but "obtains one big "berry" that it is not to refer to the Ohio Theater. Since that time he has become more and more masterful until he has become the most rabid radical. He, together with "Fat" Roth and "Virt" Addison, two other Bolsheviks, were deported from the city during the epidemic of Dean's reports. They have already put in their appearance again and are expected to attempt at least murder during the Disarmament Conference.

Fat Roth Is Berries, Says Roth

The estimated deficit for the current year will be about $150.00. This will surpass the deficit of all previous classes. It will be a matter of keen competition of all future Junior classes to outdo each of the others in upholding the tradition.

Ags To Wear Corn Cob Pipes

The official insignia of the Short Ags for the current infection will be ear muffs, red overalls, and corn cob pipes, announces Joseph A. Matvay, Ag-4, university Rockefellers.

"We believe the Ags need no distinctive garb to distinguish themselves from the common students," said Joe this morning as he left the Company office. "But the American farmer of today demands the same rights as other citizens; the physician wears his coat and the chemist his suit and tie, and the fraternity man his two quart pockets—why not the Short Ags their insignia?"

JUNIOR PROM DEFICIT TO BECOME TRADITION; WALTER CHAMBLIS PROMISES TO JUMP BOND

"A new University tradition will appear in the form of the Junior Prom Deficit," announced President W. O. Thompson late yesterday. "It is felt that inasmuch as the deficit has appeared for the past several years, it should be inaugurated as a regular tradition."

The details of the new tradition are not known yet, but it is understood that a sinking fund for it will be established from the bonds jumped by the president of each Junior class. In accordance with the new plans class presidents are hereafter bound for $1000 each.

Walter Chambliss, Vet-4, stated yesterday: "I am heartily in favor of the new tradition. The school traditions must be upheld—they are part of all of us. To offset a maintenance of this tradition I will jump my $1000 bond to aid the sinking fund."

The estimated deficit for the current year will be about $150.00. This will surpass the deficit of all previous classes. It will be a matter of keen competition of all future Junior classes to outdo each of the others in upholding the tradition.

Petition Panhellenic To Rope Off
Woodruff Ave. As Fraternity Playground

A petition was presented to Men's Panhellenic Council at the last irregular meeting, requesting that Woodruff Avenue be roped off as an Interfraternity Play Ground. The petition was signed by Alpha Sigma Phi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Zeta Beta Tau and Delta Chi. In presenting the petition, Pat McNulty, Zeta Beta Tau representative, said:

"All of us clubs have to use the same street to play football in and the space is small, so I think we should have the place entirely to ourselves. We also wish that the Chi Phi and the Alpha Gamma Rho would play in their own respective backyards, as Brother McPhetres has done twenty times by using the yard balls from their games."

Jimmy Miller, another key player, has been in a personal injury. We have been told diplomatically, "We're here to find out if there is any truth in the rumors that you have founded a chapter of the Gridiron Club at this University."

Mr. Budd assumed a cautious attitude, "Hang on," he said.

"You understand, this is a旭 rose organization. What do you want this information for?"

"The Blue Fog," he told us. "It will remain a secret then," he replied, "inference on Mr. Reiser's sheet would not be read."" }

Doc Gurney Admits
Liniment Is Good; Baby Ruth Agrees

"The story which was recently published in the Ohio State Lantern saying that my liniment never fails is absolutely true. I really don't see myself how I can make it as good as I do," said Edwin G. Gurney, M.D., in an interview with a Blue Fog reporter on whom he had called up to be sure that his name would appear in the scandal sheet.

"I have traced his hat with my liniment before he went to bat last season, which accounts for all the home runs he had out. In the 1916 world's series, Ty Cobb soaked his shoes in Gurney's liniment the night before the first game, and stole three bases in that game. Cobb never paid for that liniment, so I haven't spoken to him since."

"We beg you to shelve your personal ego," the glee club president said. "If you have to find out if there is any truth in the rumor that you have founded a chapter of the Gridiron Club at this University..."

Mr. Budd assumed a cautious attitude. "Hang on," he said.

"You understand, this is a旭 rose organization. What do you want this information for?"

"The Blue Fog," he told us. "It will remain a secret then," he replied, "inference on Mr. Reiser's sheet would not be read."

"Taking some notes from his pocket he began, "Carl Wirthwein and Tony Espn, representatives of the Williburg chapter, visited this school with the idea of starting a chapter here. They immediately decided upon me as the logical representative here, after seeing me in my light checkered suit, trick vest, and knockout shirt. After being initiated, I pledged five of the leading men around the university, and intend to have formal initiation services at midnight, Dec. 15, immediately after the Gridiron Dinner."

"We have temporary headquarters..."
