

Genial Gene				Quin Hall				1914
Title of feature				Creator(s)				Year
Size Most dailies:
* Indicates date is uncertain. % Indicates strip is on verso of another feature.
Sundays appear in red and bold.
	January	February	March	April	May	June	July	August	September	October	November	December
1		SFT70-5	SFT70-5								SFT70-7
2
3					SFT70-6
4
5				SFT70-6
6									SFT70-7
7						SFT70-6
8		SFT70-5	SFT70-5
9								SFT70-7
10					SFT70-6
11
12				SFT70-6			SFT70-7
13
14						SFT70-6*
15		SFT70-5	SFT70-5
16								SFT70-7
17					SFT70-6
18										SFT70-7
19				SFT70-6
20
21						SFT70-6
22		SFT70-5	SFT70-5
23
24					SFT70-6
25
26				SFT70-6			SFT70-7
27									SFT70-7
28
29			SFT70-5
30
31					SFT70-6
This strip ran from 4/12/14-6/14/14 as a part of a full-page, sometimes interactive, Chicago Tribune feature titled Crazy Quilt, which consisted of untitled panel cartoons and the following titles: And His Name Is Mr. Bones, Genial Gene, Simp Simpson, Old Doc Quack, Stone Age Stuff, Pinhead Pete, Hi Hopper, Freddy Frappe. Strips were printed separately before 4/12/14 and after 6/14/14. Crazy Quilt was an unorthodox arrangement of strips and panels printed sideways, upside-down, criss-cross, etc. Notably, this feature used self-reflexivity; different artists working on individual strips interacted so that, for example: panel borders were breached by characters from one title entering a panel of another title, single panels that acted as the intersection between criss-crossing strips would include characters from both strips and would be incorporated into both storylines, etc. 4/12 printed as Genial Gene and Emily. 11/1 includes character Pinhead Pete. 11/8 strip appears to be combined with Pinhead Pete and printed under the title Pinhead Pete et al.												