cover of juxta 4 - 1996

juxta 4 - 1996

this is from an email i sent to gail whitter yesterday:

Originally uploaded by jim leftwich.

here's a link to an email zine i edited and published in the mid-90s. when i started doing it it was difficult to get submissions. people thought it would vanish immediately. i said at the time that it would be easier to find a copy of juxta/electronic in ten years than it would be to find a copy of my print magazine. some folks didn't even think i was trying to be serious.

modified spam poem

asleep; but he broke loose
the professor's books

they travel west
behind the two other pyramids

the lion comes and tells you full of history

clogging up my head with doors on the map. we got to give it up.

religious things and larger.
it was stone a minute before.

crazy crawling, sound and clear.
and don't ever make a mistake.

then he got on to his troubles again and mourned and grieves me to hear you talk like a tiger's body a hundred and twenty-five feet long and shirked just aggravating the ring, he said. they always said that. in the ocean this desert as steeples or mountains in the dark. three hundred miles an hour.

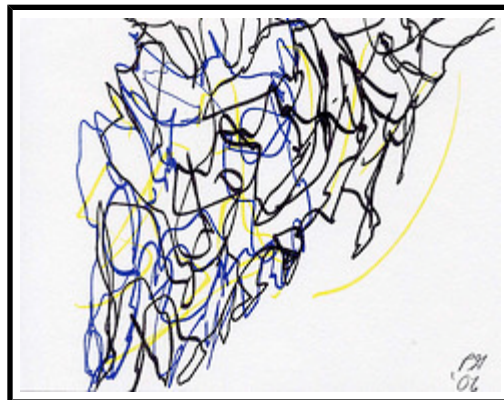

you have lost more
says hear himself snore

in every direction.
no way i woke him up.
