

Initial reaction make eye wide to pick up any light. No use when thought about light was an immediate reaction as lights dimmed.

Noted side of paper to tell where writing stopped before.

Will attempt to keep record of the run. and any extra ideas that I think of on how to pass time

Ideas on how to use time.

memory exercises. Think of list of things and keep adding to list to see how far down list I can go and still remember whole list.

Write story, poetry, etc.

Explore the area. Not really much use because I already know what is here and where it is if I want to go to any area or items

Do exercise to help keep in shape.

Lousy idea. It's too hot in here now and Serrano said to not be ^{be overly} mobile unless it was necessary.

Change clothes. Another lousy idea after all the clothes changing done here and at Lovelace,

Probably better to stick to mental processes to keep active rather than any more physical action than necessary. since this is a temporary thing. If I was actually blind and deaf then this would raise a different set of problems because it would then be necessary to learn to move and do things while without sight or sound.

Can't help but think she's the way all the Helen Keller.

Just found a new light source.

When I tore off that last page it generated a good sized spark of static electricity. Now if I could just tear off pages fast enough and had a big tablet I'd have this program knocked.

Finish this page so I can get a spark.

Got a good long one that time. Hats cheating. I'll tear them off slow from here on.

Buy poetry

next page

with slow tear-off

of this one — no — spark.

⑦.

Stood up for a few minutes to get circulation going. Noticed a definite hum from some source. By moving head and triangulating by moving around, the sound source is over it and me, apparently about in the corner of the

~~the~~ chamber.

(8)

When sitting down, however, the hum is much less pronounced, but is still slightly audible.

Good again to check it and it is much more audible still when standing.

(9)

For some unknown reason, poetry seems to appeal to me here just doing exercise, ~~to the~~ mental or physical, to keep awake does not appeal to me. Poetry is a sort of mental gymnastics which at the same time ~~accomplishes~~ accomplishes something by putting ideas ~~across~~ across, so maybe that is why I like it here. I can have my mental ~~workout~~ workout to keep awake and still accomplish something.

Peculiar that even with no light ^{it} seems easier to stay mentally alert with the eyes open. When closed for any ^{lengthy} period, it seems easier to want to close. Having just had lunch before coming in here also ^{probably} ~~rather~~ conducive to sleep.

Would estimate I have been in here 1+45 at present time.

(11)

actually, something like this stimulates thought to a great degree. It is so seldom these days that we get chance to really be alone and think about the things that really count.

To mankind's ever broadening store of (12) knowledge, each must give His own peculiar talents, so that all may better live.

If one lay down his art or trade

The world will lessen he.

And mankind's lowered total sum affects both you and me.

With nature's cyclic, ebbing rate life's sparks return to source,

And human effort loses one who added his small force.

With source of life the same for all will we not breakers be

When human life has run its gage into eternity,

(14)

yet let yet our god is not this world's one

~~God~~ of tolling bell and tear

But a new and bright beginning which we can't yet see or hear.

It is ours to only wonder what form life will be or take,

Or whether how we vision it will any difference make.

11/16

Then use all your unborn talents use them each & every day.

Add to mankind's store of knowledge, make them glad you pass this way.

Wonders how well manual sewing would be. Made paper airplane to see whether I could complete it. Will check after run is complete.

Would estimate time at about 3:20

12/12

Sort of 3 phases I believe I have gone through so far.

1st was just experiencing the sensation of no sight or sound and an attitude of OK this isn't bad well work and keep busy. Turned out several pages of notes then.

2nd

Deep, I wanted to sleep. Got up
