Golf at Ohio State

While organized golf has been played at Ohio State University since 1921, the first major stride made was noted in 1927 under the most able direction of George Sargent, professional at the Scioto Country Club. Mr. Sargent was National Open Champion in 1909, Canadian Open Champion in 1912, and has been connected with the Scioto Club since 1920.

In his first year, 1927, the golf team here won five out of eight games played. The second year with the team, Sargent saw his squad, composed of Allen Loop, Wolfred Shale, Howard Park and Alfred Sargent, take the Western Conference Championship. This honor proved a great stimulus to golf on the campus and measurably increased interest in the sport. The Ohio State student body turned to the putting green and courses open to them about Columbus received far greater patronage than they had in the past.

With only one man, Allen Loop, left from his championship squad, Sargent was still able to attain fourth place in the Big Ten, below Minnesota, Michigan and Northwestern, in the order named. Members of the squad, in addition to Loop, who was honorary captain, were Ted Wilson, Gene Shannon, George Petuska, and Nash Kelly. Harry Olson was the Varsity Manager.

Prospects for the coming year are excellent with several veterans back, including Alfred Sargent of the 1928 championship team. Golf was also enhanced by the enrollment of Johnny Florio, State Amateur Champion. Florio, however, will not be available until 1931.

During the winter months, Coach Sargent works his squad in the indoor cages in the Southwest Tower of the Stadium. The first open weather, however, will find the team at the Scioto Country Club which is the home course for the Buckeye Varsity. The season proper opens in April, while matches are to be scheduled at the Big Ten get-together in Chicago the first of the year.

Concrete evidence of the increasing hold that golf as a sport is gaining here, is noted in the recent acquisition of sufficient land for two eighteen-hole courses by the Athletic Association. This tract is located northwest of the Stadium within ten minutes drive of the campus, and is an ideal site for the ancient pastime. Dr. A. Mackenzie, designer of many famous courses, including that of Pebble Beach on which the National Open was played this year, has been retained as architect of the two University courses. Surveys have been made and preliminary details will be consummated during the coming spring months. However, inasmuch as these courses are to be constructed out of athletic receipts, there is but slight possibility of them being available until 1931 or '32.

OSU golf team wins Big Ten

By Dave Fultz

The Ohio State golf team won its fifth consecutive Big Ten championship at the University of Wisconsin over the weekend.

The Buckeye golfers, gaining nine strokes in the last day of play, finished with a 17-stroke lead over second place Michigan.

The individual medalist, Jim Morse of Michigan, finished with a total score of 290 after hitting a 4-under-par 68 in Sunday's play.

OSU's Rocky Miller finished with a total of 299, while Colin Daigleish and Stan Cooke ended with 302 and 308.

Miller shot a 4-under-par 68 in Sunday's play. The Buckeyes as a team finished with 1471, while No. 2 Michigan trailed by a distant 1488.

OSU golf Coach Jim Brown said the tournament was hampered by poor weather, with rain falling during 54 of 72 holes.

"We went up there to win any way we could, and we did," Brown said.

Now the Buckeyes have the NCAA Championships waiting for them on May 28-31.

The Bucks, defending champs, will host the tournament at the OSU par 72 Scarlet Course on Tremont Road. This will be the seventh time OSU will have hosted the NCAA tournament.

Golfers break all records, win Kepler Intercollegiate

By Debbie Knuth

Finishing ahead of 24 other teams the OSU men's golf team won the 13th annual Kepler Intercollegiate, defeating last year's champion, Indiana, last weekend.

Last year the Hoosiers broke OSU's six-year string of Kepler victories, but this year the Bucks won their title back by breaking every tournament record for an 1103 stroke finish.

"After the first round, the tournament was over," Coach Jim Brown said, as his team rolled in an even par 360. "But they (the team) knew they were still battling each other."

Teammates Mike McGee and Rocky Miller, both seniors, battled two-year medalist Joey Sindelar for medalist honors, as McGee trailed by one stroke after the first round and Miller trailed by seven after the second. But, at the end of three rounds, Sindelar had captured his third straight Kepler individual title.

Sindelar finished with a tournament record of 211, seven strokes under the 218 shot by the women's golf coach, Steve Groves, in 1972. He was 10 strokes under the second place finisher Eric Dutt of Purdue.

Miller tied for third with a 222, while McGee tied for fifth at 224. Next in line on the Buckeye squad was sophomore Bruce Soulesby, tying for ninth 225, freshman Greg Ladehoff with 226, and freshman Chris Perry with 227, in eleventh.

Coming off a win last weekend in Richmond, Ky., the Bucks first-day total broke the single round record of 372 set by Miami of Ohio. The team also broke the 36 hole record and tied the 54 hole record.

Sindelar, senior and captain, shot 68-71-72 during the tournament and said, "The last two weeks were more like we knew we could do. There weren't many teams in the country that could have beat us this weekend."
Athletics at Ohio State University

FOOTBALL

Football was first played here in 1886, although there were no regularly scheduled games on record until 1890. Early football at Ohio State University was typical of the game as it was played in the early days. Facilities were mediocre; equipment was lacking and interest on the part of the student body was lax.

After a few years, however, the sport expanded considerably and the early 1900's found Ohio State playing such institutions as Michigan, Indiana, West Virginia and many Ohio colleges. It was not until 1913, however, that this sport came into its own on the Buckeye campus. In this year, Ohio State became a member of the Western Conference and entered the "big league." Since that time, Buckeye football has won two Conference Championships, and been runner-up on three occasions. Ohio State squads have participated in international games from New York to California and have taken their place among the leaders in this form of Collegiate athletics.

CROSS COUNTRY AND TRACK

Track and cross country at Ohio State University go back to the earliest days of the institution. A "natural" sport, class days when the school was still young, were marked by contests in running, jumping, and the weights. It was on May 31, 1884, that the first O. I. A. A. Meet was held at the University. Such events as the 22 pound shot put, the two mile go-as-you-please race, standing high jump, the 50 yard hop and the baseball throw were on the program.

With the introduction of modern equipment and the installation of better facilities, track and field athletics and cross country came into their own at Columbus. Many brilliant individuals and a number of Olympic stars have worn the Scarlet and Gray. Clem Cook and Garnet Wykoff were the first two Buckeye track men to represent the United States abroad. They participated in the dashes and distance runs, respectively. George F. Guthrie later made the Olympic team in the hurdles, while in more recent years, world records have been held by Pete Rasmussen in the discus throw, Richard Rockaway in the 220 yard low hurdles and George Simpson in the dashes. In 1929, the Ohio State team won the highest honor in the country in track, by taking the National Collegiate title at Chicago in June of that year. Moreover, since Ohio State first entered the Western Conference, no Buckeye hill and dale squad has finished below the first division in the Annual Big Ten Cross Country Meet.

BASKETBALL

First records of basketball at Ohio State are found in 1898 when the Buckeye floor squad took on such teams as North High School, Y. M. C. A. and the Columbus Barracks. In fact, it was several years before the more or less "unorganized sport" grew out of the high school and smaller college class of competition. It is a curious contrast to note that in 1900, Ohio State played Circleville on January 5 and Yale three days later. In 1905, the sport became better organized and what are now Western Conference Schools first appeared on the schedule. In 1913, on its debut into the Big Ten, the Buckeye quintet picked up considerably in both number of games played, student interest and all around ability and power. With the installation of H. G. Olsen in 1923, a notable impetus was given the game. Ohio State has been well near the top in the majority of seasons since that date and has won one Championship.

BASEBALL

The "national sport" was played here as early as 1880 by a group of students who organized themselves under the title of "The Franklin's" and scheduled but a single game. The next year, six contests were arranged and a steady growth has been noted as the years progress. In the Western Conference, Ohio State has won one Championship since 1913 and has been in the first division many times. Moreover, many brilliant stars have risen from the ranks of Buckeye baseball to shine in major leagues in later years.

WRESTLING

Wrestling has been one of the most popular sports from the standpoint of competition since its introduction in 1920 when the first Western Conference team from Ohio State entered the arena. The following year, Perry Marter won the Western Conference welterweight championship, repeating in 1922. The next year, Ohio State gained the Western Conference title and twelve months later produced another champion, Harry Steele, in the heavyweight class. Marter and Steele both made the 1924 Olympic team. Steele taking the Olympic title in his division and Marter being prevented from competition because of an injury incurred in training. Since these early years, Ohio State mat teams have been of high calibre and productive of many sterling individuals and several champions.

OTHER SPORTS

Although a part of the regular curriculum, Intercollegiate gymnastics was not undertaken on a varsity basis until 1923. Fencing came into being in 1909, but suffered a lapse and was not revived until 1923. Rifle shooting first entered the varsity arena six years ago but was not recognized as an Intercollegiate sport until the past year. Polo was introduced in 1913, but this sport also did not attain its true position until three years ago when it became a form of varsity competition. In golf, Ohio State has competed on a more or less extensive basis since 1921, but was not exceptionally strong until 1927, when a professional coach was employed to handle the Buckeye linksmen.

In the above sports, Ohio State won the Western Conference and National championships in rifle shooting a year ago, has taken three Conference crowns in fencing and one in golf. All of these sports are on the upgrade and improvement is greatly noticeable each year.
Golf Club Expansion Will Cost $600,000

Expansion is underway for the Ohio State University Golf Club, 3605 Tremont Road, at the cost of $600,000.

The project, which will be completed by December, includes enlargement of the club's dining room, pro shop and storage space.

The improvements are being financed by $146,000 from the 1966 and 1967 Athletic Department surpluses, added to liquidated department investments totaling $450,000.

Football and basketball proceeds, including concessions, parking, television rights, guarantees paid by other universities and interest on investments comprise the department's income.

Gordon B. Carson, vice president for business and finance, said there is serious deterioration in the clubhouse and that more space is needed for the athletic golf instruction program. The club serves faculty and students.

Ohio State had a disappointing finish in the NCAA but romped to victory in the Hall of Fame Pro-Am.

- Ohio State University had a disappointing conclusion to its collegiate season when it finished 20th in the NCAA Championships, but coach Jim Brown and his charges were easily the class of the field in the Hertz-World Golf Hall of Fame Pro-Amateur Championship at Pinehurst, N.C.

Brown was ably supported, or maybe carried, by John Cook, Mark Balen and Ross Bartschy, as the entry from Ohio State University Golf Club, representing the Southern Ohio PGA section, rolled to an easy victory over 21 other teams. With a total of 635, the Buckeyes were the only team to break par and finished 16 shots in front of Oakbourne CC in Lafayette, La.

The tournament, sponsored its first year (1977) by Golf World, is a scratch event in which each team counts three balls on each hole. Play was conducted over three courses at Pinehurst CC.

Ohio State opened with 216, three over par, on the No. 4 course which proved the most difficult of the three. That total staked the Buckeyes to a three-shot lead over Heritage Hills GC of Claremore, Okla., and they never trailed. They were six under par (207) on the No. 5 course and closed with a one-under-par aggregate (212) on No. 2.

Oakbourne, headed by pro Tommy Carter, returned 221-218-212—651 and took runner-up honors by five over Plainfield (N.J.) CC, and it was another four shots back to Heritage Hills GC of Claremore, Okla.

SUMMARY
(Pro named first)

635—Ohio State GC, Columbus, Ohio (Jim Brown, John Cook, Ross Bartschy, Mark Balen), 216-207-212.
651—Oakbourne CC, Lafayette, La. (Tommy Carter, Buddy Short, Tommy Thomas, Charles McDuff), 221-218-212.
684—Cardinal GC, Greensboro, N.C. (Terry Wilcox, Alex Dermatas, Bob Craven, Gil Happel), 222-216-220.
702—Newport Yacht & CC, Crosby, Tex. (Drew Gross, Bobby Gray, Jim Peterson, Billy Nelson), 220-221-231.
75—Southampton CC, Southampton, N.Y. (Bob Joyce, Roger Marcincouk, Don Lizzak, Pat O'Donoghue), 223-226-228.
89—Pinnacle Peak CC, Scottsdale, Ariz. (Dell Cochran, Doug Krudener, Mike Strickland, John Davis), 222-222-226.
98—Gannon Memorial GC, Lynn, Mass. (Mike Foster, Mike Cole, Brian Gilchrist, Robert Small), 220-201-203.

By Carl Horst
Lantern staff writer

Those golfers who have played or are now playing for The Ohio State University realize that it is more than individual pride. We have inherited something. We have inherited a program that has been made into something very significant and we must compliment it. We must add to it and take from it. Everyone must contribute.

The making of this program has depended on a lot of people — L. W. St. John, Richard Larkins, Ed Weaver, Mike Godman, George Eckelberry, George Sargent, Francis Marzioff, Harold Olsen, Floyd Stahl, Rod Meyers, Billy Gilbert, John Lorms, Howard Baker, Tom Nieporte, Rick Jones, Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf, Ed Snead, Steve Groves, many others, most of all Robert Kepler — and they are all proud of it. They are proud of what they inherited. Many of us may not have been the best players, but we kept making a contribution to the golf program to keep it going.

Those are the words OSU golf coach Jim Brown uses to introduce prospective players to the rich tradition of Ohio State's golf program.

It takes many intangibles to make and maintain a great golf program: great players, a fantastic golf facility and dedicated coaches. Ohio State has been blessed with all three since Mike Godman was named the first golf coach in 1921.

Only seven years after the program began, Ohio State won its first Big Ten title in 1928. The school has won 16 Big Ten Championships, more than any other team in the conference. The team won this year's title.

OSU won the Big Ten title in 1928, '45, '51, '54, '61, '66, '76-80 and '82-86. The University of Michigan and Purdue University follow Ohio State with 12 Big Ten championships.

The Buckeyes won the NCAA Team Championship in '45 and '79. Five OSU players have won the NCAA individual championship.

The members of the 1945 team were: John Lorms, Howard Saunders, Robert Kempfer, Daniel Rocker, Curtis Kerns and Richard Barr. Lorms also won the individual title in 1945.

The members of the 1979 team were: Mark Balen, John Cook, Rick Borg, Joey Sindelar and Rocky Miller.

The list of individual champions includes Tom Nieporte (1961), Rick Jones (1956), Jack Nicklaus (1961) and Clark Burroughs (1965).

The list could go on. Ohio State golf has attained a level of excellence second to none.

The first coach to lead the Buckeyes was the late Robert Kepler, who coached from 1938-65. In those years, he recorded a record of 739-183-11, including the 1945 NCAA title and four Big Ten Championships.

The clubhouse at the OSU Golf Courses is named after Kepler. Each spring Ohio State hosts the Kepler Intercollegiate Tournament at the OSU Scarlet Course.

One of the players Kepler coached, Jack Nicklaus, has obtained his own success. Nicklaus remembered his unique relationship with Kepler.

"College golf wasn't that big of deal for me," Nicklaus said. "I already knew how to play the game before I came (to OSU)."

"Coach Kepler was one of the biggest reasons I came to Ohio State," he recalled. "He was my friend. We would do a lot of things together away from the golf course. He was the one who taught me bow to fish."

Nicklaus said his decision to attend Ohio State was easy to make.

"Over 100 schools offered me scholarships to play golf," Nicklaus said. "Ohio State didn't and that's why I went there. In fact, the sport OSU recruited me for was basketball."

"I went to Ohio State because I always wanted to go there," he said. Nicklaus grew up in Upper Arlington and played golf at Scioto Country Club.

However, Nicklaus didn't play golf at Ohio State for long.

"I left in my sophomore year to play the Walker Cup," Nicklaus said. "If a kid did that today, a coach would hang him. College golf has changed since I was there."

Nicklaus noted the reason Ohio State is so successful is its first-class facilities.

"The Scarlet Course is a big reason for the school's success," Nicklaus said. "But I played it as little as possible. It is a course that gets a lot of play, and I never felt it was a good training ground for competitive golf."

"I played most of my golf at Scioto Country Club," he added. "It's nothing against the facilities, because they're the best in the nation, but they didn't serve my needs."

Tom Nieporte is another of Kepler's players who went on to the PGA Tour after leaving Ohio State.

"One of the biggest memories that I'll never forget is the relationship we had with coach Kepler," Nieporte said. "Bob (Kepler) had a great rapport with all his players."

Nieporte also sings the praises of the OSU Scarlet Course.

"One of the big reasons why we had good teams was being able to play the Scarlet all the time," he said. "I think the kind of golf course you are playing on at Ohio State gets you ready for championship golf."

"I know the course now is a lot harder than it was when I was there, because the trees have grown," he added.

Nieporte said the most important reason behind the program's success is the support it receives from the university.

"Ohio State has always supported the golf team," he said. "I've talked to a lot of young men that called me about going to different colleges, and they say those schools don't emphasize golf as much."

"Comparing Ohio State's minor sports with those at other schools, it seemed OSU was always ahead of themselves," Nieporte said. "I always felt like I was a part of something important."

Ohio State is now under the guidance of Brown. Since he began coaching in 1974, the Buckeyes have earned a record of 251-352. Included in those victories are 10 Big Ten Championships and the '79 NCAA title. He was honored as national coach-of-the-year in 1979 and co-chair-of-the-year for this past season.

He also brought players to the program who are finding success on the PGA Tour.

Chris Perry, who played at Ohio State, is presently on the PGA tour, takes some practice hits Monday, May 18 at the practice round of the Memorial Tournament at Muirfield Village.
State from 1981-84, is a member of the tour.

"I am from the North and wanted to join the best program in the area," Perry said. "It was an easy decision to make."

"Ohio State, in any athletics, always strives to be nationally ranked," Perry said. "So a good golfer from the North is more likely to go to OSU."

Perry said the commitment of coach Brown and the facilities are two reasons Ohio State will always be a power in college golf.

"To be a good player, you need to play a tough course," Perry said. "And everything associated with the course is first-class."

He said most of the powers in golf are located in the South, but Ohio State is able to turn a disadvantage into an advantage.

"With the Ohio weather, we weren't able to play year round like the schools down South do," Perry said. "But it taught us to play against the elements, which is quite an advantage."

"Other schools up North don't have the same type of program as Ohio State because they lack tradition," he said.

Another former Buckeye on the tour, John Cook, agrees with Perry's assessment of the OSU program.

"It's a good program because they recruit good players and sell the academics," Cook said. "But, it all comes down to the great tradition."

"The reason I came to Ohio State was that I didn't want to spend 12 months out of the year playing golf," the California native said.

"The Scarlet is far and away the best facility in the country," Cook said. "The school has a good program to sell."

"We played a good schedule, had good guys that worked hard and were dedicated to team golf," he said.

Joey Sindelar is another former Buckeye playing on the tour.

Sindelar came to Ohio State from New York so he could be close to home.

"Of all the good golf schools in the area, Ohio State was my first choice," he said. "I had a lot of friends on the team and I could see the potential."

"There's a lot of good players from the North," Sindelar said. "Playing up here teaches a different type of game, that's not to say it's better. It does make for less golf burnout."

"Ohio State allows a raw player to mold his game on great facilities," he added. "To play Scarlet well, you need to be a good player to begin with."

Sindelar said the two memories he relishes most are the NCAA Championship win in 1979 and bogeying the last hole on the Scarlet Course, to shoot a 64 the first time he met and played with Tom Weiskopf.

"If I had to do it all over again, I wouldn't change a thing," Sindelar said.

Other players on the current PGA Tour notice the successful Buckeye golf program.

"They've always had good players, including probably the greatest of all time. That's quite an asset to any program," Andy Bean said.

"A good course and good players make for a great program," he added.

The Scarlet Course seems to be the choice of champions, when it comes to ranking collegiate courses. Since it was designed in 1932 by Dr. Alister Mackenzie, who also designed Augusta National and Cypress Point, it has been rated as a top course.

It has been ranked as the top collegiate course by Golf Digest since 1975.

In the OSU golf scrapbook, Coach Brown writes, Our program gives the player every opportunity to improve his golfing skills so that he will know after four years his potential for golf as a profession. If it does not work out, he will always have a college degree.
Golf team stands test of time

1949- First collegiate match takes place on Scarlet Course. Billy Gilbert becomes first OSU golfer to win the Big Ten individual title.

1949- Howard Baker and John Lorms are co-captains of the Buckeyes squad that wins the Big Ten and NCAA championship. Lorms wins the NCAA title and Baker was medalist.

1951- Team wins the Big Ten. Tom Niespore tops in NCAA.

1954- Golfers win fourth Big Ten title.

1956- Rick Jones wins NCAA golf title.

1956- Buckeyes win fifth Big Ten title. Jack Nicklaus wins Big Ten and NCAA.

1959- Golfers win sixth Big Ten championship.

1974- Jim Brown named golf coach.

1975- Buckeyes win seventh Big Ten. Ralph Guarasci wins Big Ten, and Mark Bolen is runner-up.

1979- Buckeyes win third straight Big Ten and ninth overall. Cook is medalist and Bolen is runner-up. Cook wins U.S. Amateur Championship.

1980- Ohio State wins fifth straight Big Ten and 11th overall. Team places fourth in NCAA championship. Robert Kepler inducted into Ohio State's Sports Hall of Fame.

1982- Golf team wins its 12th Big Ten title. Johnny Lorms becomes the third golfer inducted into Ohio State's Sports Hall of Fame.

1983- Buckeyes win Big Ten again. Team finishes fourth in NCAA Championship. Tom Niespore is inducted into Hall of Fame.

1984- Golfers win 14th Big Ten title. Chris Perry wins Big Ten Championship and is named College Player of the Year.

1985- Ohio State wins its 15th Big Ten Championship. Clark Burroughs wins the Big Ten and NCAA championships. Tom Weiskopf becomes the fifth golfer inducted into Ohio State's Sports Hall of Fame.

BUCKEYE GOLFERS RANKED SIXTH

It's how you play at the end of the year that counts, and Jim Brown knows that. Still, the Ohio State golf coach is pleased to see his team so highly rated before the season even starts.

Brown's Buckeyes hold down sixth place in the preseason poll just released by the College Golf Coaches Association of America. They trail co-leaders Oklahoma State and Brigham Young, Oklahoma, Houston and Georgia Tech. It's the highest preseason rating that Ohio State has enjoyed in Brown's 14 years at his alma mater.

"It is nice to get some recognition before the season even starts," said Brown, voted Co-National Coach of the Year last year when he directed OSU to eight tournament wins, including a fifth straight Big Ten title. "In the past, we've had to earn respect as the season went along. There's nothing wrong with that, but it is nice not to have to start from so far back."

With almost his entire team back from last year, Brown is predicting good things for this year's Buckeyes.

"I think we can be good if we play up to our potential," he says. "We have depth to go along with our talent and experience. Those are the three things that a good team has to have."

Brown's holdovers include Craig Pappas and Robert Huxtable, both all-Big Ten and honorable mention All-America selections a year ago. Pappas, from Phalaborwa, South Africa, led OSU with a 73.8 average in 31 rounds. Huxtable was second at 74.4.

Then came Chad Willis at 74.4, Ted Tryba at 74.9 and Dennis Harrington at 75.4. Willis is the lone absentee from last year's top seven.

"Craig, Robert and Ted give us one of the top threesomes in the country," said Brown, who led OSU to the 1979 NCAA crown. "I'm not saying they necessarily are the best. I am saying they can play with anyone."

Tryba, in particular, will bear watching. He may be the next great player to emerge from Ohio State, a school that has produced the likes of Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf and more recently Joey Sindelar, John Cook, Chris Perry and Clark Burroughs.

Tryba capped off a good freshman year last spring by finishing 14th at the NCAA with a two-over-par 280. He was low man for the Buckeyes and had the second best score of any freshman in the tournament. The smooth-swinging six-footer kept the ball rolling this past summer by winning everything in sight in his home state of Pennsylvania.

Harrington, like Pappas and Huxtable a senior, will occupy the fourth spot; while junior Anthony Adams (78.3), sophomore Todd Fanning (78.2), Peter Hammar (77.2) and senior Matt Stokes (77.6) will vie for the remaining opening.

"From a coach's standpoint, it is nice to know you have four players like our first four whose scores are almost always going to count," said Brown. "If one of our other players comes along and takes charge at the fifth spot, that would be great. If not, we will just play whoever has the hot hand from week-to-week. They are all good players."

Brown's team will get a chance to show its stuff early. The Buckeyes play at Butler National this fall, and their Fall Classic, Oct. 10-11-12 at University Scarlet, will attract almost every top team in the country. That's because Ohio State hosts this year's NCAA, June 10-13 at Scarlet.

Brown would like nothing better than to win both tournaments. That would justify the preseason rankings and take care of the year-end poll too.
Attitude, determination helps golf game, school

By Carmel Martin
Lantern staff writer

Last quarter when Robert Huxtable was failing a class, he decided to apply the same attitude to the class that he gives to his golf game. He passed the class with a high grade.

Huxtable, co-captain of the 1986-87 golf team, has scored high 'grades' on the golf course because of attitude.

"I wouldn't tell you right off the bat that I'm a great golfer, but I'm working on it," said Huxtable, a senior from Cathedral City, Calif. "I just love to win, and you can't play to win without a lot of hard work, so I do a lot of hard work. It's kind of tough, but I love to practice because I know when I play it will pay off."

Huxtable has won the individual Big Ten titles this year, the Marshall Invitational, the Mid-American Invitational, and placed second in the Western Amateur Tournament last year.

In addition, he has been chosen second team All-America, chosen twice to the All Big Ten Team, and won this year's Les Bolstad Award for the lowest Big Ten average, 72.5.

Huxtable said he started playing golf when he was 5, and by the age of 14 knew he wanted to become a professional golfer.

His family moved to Palm Springs, Calif, so he could concentrate on his golf game. There Huxtable worked in the pro shop at the Mission Hills Country Club, where John Cook was a touring pro. Cook, a Big Ten Champion at Ohio State in 1978 and 1979, and currently on the PGA tour, influenced Huxtable to attend Ohio State.

"He told me that if I wanted to pursue a professional career, playing for Ohio State would be a great way to help me get there," Huxtable said. "He told me I'd improve so much. I don't really regard anyone now as being a great player, but when I was a freshman I played with guys like Chris Perry, and all those other guys who were so good from other schools," he said. "You just play with them and you see how good they are, and it makes you want to strive to be as good or better than they were."

"(The program) has really turned out some great players in the past," Huxtable said. "Proof of that is to see how many guys who graduated from Ohio State are playing in the pro tournaments."

Ten former Ohio State golfers are currently playing in the PGA tour.

Huxtable said he realized choosing Ohio State started paying dividends the summer after his freshman year. "I went home and played against a bunch of my buddies who I used to play with, and I saw how much I had improved over them," he said. "It gave me a lot of incentive to come back my sophomore year and work harder."

Nevertheless, Huxtable admitted there were days when he wondered if attending school on the other side of the country was a wise decision.

"There were many times when I thought I didn't make the right choice, like those zero-degree days in the winter," he said. "But it's been really good for me to get away from home and be independent. It's helped me to set my sights on something and do everything that I can do to achieve it."

"When I was a sophomore I stayed up all night typing this paper, and I got done about five in the morning. I went home, and I sat there for two hours, and I wrote down all my goals. Those are still there," he said.

Ohio State men's golf coach Jim Brown said Huxtable's strengths lie in his wedge and putter.

"He's probably one of the best wedge players I've ever had, and I've had some good players," Brown said.

Gene McCauliff, Huxtable's golf instructor in Palm Springs, has taken a personal interest in Huxtable's future.

"Mechanically, he does not have all of the things that make a Jack Nicklaus, or a John Cook, or a Chris Perry," McCauliff said. "But perhaps he works harder on his game than Nicklaus, Cook or Perry or anyone I've ever seen."

Huxtable said he phones McCauliff often, especially when his mechanics have gone awry. Ninety-nine percent of the time he can help me over the phone," Huxtable said.

Robert Huxtable

Though Huxtable tries to possess a "really laid-back attitude" about tournaments, he said he puts too much pressure on himself.

"If I go out one day and I don't play well, it's not because I didn't put the effort in," he said. "I just need to have the attitude that tomorrow will be another day."

This fall Huxtable will try to qualify for his PGA tour card before graduating in December. This involves playing in separate qualifying tournaments, locally, regionally and nationally. "It's really hard," he said. "Not that many guys right out of college get their card."

McCauliff is very positive about Huxtable's future.

"He's surpassed the ability of most great athletes at this point," McCauliff said. "But the rest is yet to be proven on the horizon. The horizon being whatever he wants to be. And he has the ability to be whatever he wants to be."
OSU golfers finding success on the course

Weather just fine for Tryba

By RANDY JACOBS
Lantern sports writer

Most people don't think of Ohio's damp, cold, autumn weather as good for playing golf. But this type of weather is one reason Ted Tryba came to Ohio State.

"Anybody can play golf under really good conditions with warm weather," said Tryba, a member of the OSU golf team. "But you've got to learn to play under the tough conditions, because not every day is going to be bright and sunny. This past weekend was a perfect example."

Tryba, a junior from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was also drawn to Ohio State by its strong golf tradition and the quality of the Scarlet Course.

"I was recruited by a number of schools and I almost signed with North Carolina," he said. "But when I came here for a visit and saw the Scarlet, I knew if I came to Ohio State I would be a player."

Tryba said his game has improved considerably since he has been at Ohio State. He gives a lot of credit for his improvement to men's golf coach Jim Brown.

"I'm a much better thinker on the course than I used to be and I've learned how to manage the game," he said. "Coach Brown has helped me a lot with that. I don't think the coach has ever made a mental mistake on the course."

Peter Hammer, a senior from Columbus, said he has seen a similar change in Tryba's game.

"His mental approach to the game has really improved since I first started playing with him," Hammer said. "I also think his putting has improved some."

Brown said one of the strengths of Tryba's game is his ability to hit the ball straight.

"He keeps the ball in play and is a pretty good iron player," Brown said. "He just needs to improve his putting. He has worked hard on that since he has been here."

So far this season, Tryba is the No. 1 golfer on the team. In the Butler National Intercollegiate, he finished fourth individually, while the team placed sixth out of 18 teams.

"I have a lot more pressure on me this year than in the past, but it is a good kind of pressure," Tryba said. "Last year I had three seniors playing in front of me and I was just contributing. Now I can't be the guy making mistakes. I've got to teach the underclassman what other guys taught me."

This past weekend in the Buckeye Fall Classic, the Buckeyes finished first, defeating second-place Kent State by 10 strokes. Tryba shot rounds of 72, 37 (9 holes) and 74. Brown was pleased to win the tournament, but was not happy with the team's overall performance.

"I always think we can do better. I'm a pretty hard guy to satisfy," Brown said. "The important thing is that we got to play a lot of guys and get people some experience since it was a home tournament."

In high school Tryba enjoyed success while winning the Pennsylvania state golf championship. He isn't totally satisfied, however, with what he has accomplished thus far in college.

"I can't really be honest and say I'm all that happy with the way things have gone at this stage," he said. "I don't want to complain too much because I've had some success, but I know I can do better."

Tryba would like to play professional golf after he is finished competing for Ohio State. This past summer he qualified for a tournament on the professional tour.

"I don't want to work and sit behind a desk. I would rather play golf," said Tryba, a marketing major. "I can't see myself doing anything else. I'm going to give the tour my best shot and hopefully earn a good living at it. If things don't work out then I will be able to fall back on the education that Ohio State has given me."

A second team pre-season All-American pick, Tryba has set some tough goals for the current season.

"We play in about 13 tournaments and I'd like to win at least two or three of them," he said.
Golfers looking to club Big Ten

By Mark Ricket
Lantern staff writer

The men’s and women’s golf teams at Ohio State both have expectations about winning Big Ten Championships, but they will go about it in different ways.

The men’s team may be young, but it doesn't think that will keep it from winning its sixth straight Big Ten championship.

Coach Jim Brown said having only three players with tournament experience is a lot tougher than having three All-Americans, as he did last year, but he thinks this team has more ability than any he has coached before.

“Believe this team has the potential to win,” Brown said. “The only problem is, we just haven’t put it together and put the numbers on the board.”

The team, ranked 18th in the nation, realizes it has to get strong performances from the older players and more tournament experience for the younger ones.

“We need five guys to play well and consistent in the next few weeks, which means the younger players need to get more experience when the Big Ten Championships come around,” Brown said.

Anthony Adams, a senior from Toronto, said the team has the ability to reach its goals. It's just a matter of getting the line-up straight and everyone playing to his potential, he said.

“It has taken some time for everyone to get their game back together after the winter break, but we feel we are the team to beat in the Big Ten,” he said.

Ted Tryba, a junior from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., said Ohio State hasn’t done as well as it expected, but the team is full of solid players that can be counted on later in the season.

“The keys for us to win the championship are for everyone to play to their ability,” Tryba said. “The older players must do better in the next few tournaments, and the younger players must step forward and gain confidence in their game.”

It has taken some time for everyone to get their game back together after the winter break, but we feel we are the team to beat in the Big Ten.

— Coach Jim Brown

The team is preparing for the Marshall Invitational in Huntington, W.Va., this weekend and the Big Ten Championships, May 13-15, in Champaign, Ill.

Brown said Illinois is really the only team that stands in Ohio State’s way for the Big Ten title.

“Illinois has a strong team and they will pose a threat, mostly because the championships are scheduled to be played on their home course,” he said.

The women's golf team, on the other hand, has experience on its side and thinks it should win the Big Ten title, but doesn’t want to be too confident.

The women's team, having six players return from last year's squad, hopes its depth leads it to regain the championship that slipped away two years ago.

First year coach Jana Edwards said the team can play better than what it has been, but the women are trying to get their games back together after the long winter break.

The 16th ranked women’s team enjoyed a strong autumn performance in winning three of five tournaments overall, but Edwards is looking forward to the spring tournaments in the South to really show how good the team is.

“The tournaments we have won were in the North, which doesn’t really test our ability since the better teams are in the South,” she said. “We want to beat some teams in the South so we can improve our national ranking.”

Jane Kang, a senior from Elyria, said the team is mentally prepared for the tournaments coming up but its experience has to help it reach its goals.

“Since we have seven people with tournament experience and only five people can play in each tournament, the competition for a tournament spot is tough, which results in keeping the entire team sharp,” she said.

The Big Ten Championships are May 8-8 at the Ohio State University, Scarlet Course, which gives the Buckeyes an advantage by playing on their home course. But the Buckeyes don’t feel this is their only advantage.

Debbie Silverberg, a sophomore from Madison, Wis., said in the Big Ten Championships, six players are allowed to play, with the top four scores from each team counting in total team standings. This will allow the Buckeyes to utilize their depth even more.

Catherine Bothe, a junior from Sanford, N.C., said with the seniors doing so well this year, and the younger players coming along, the team almost expects to win the conference.

“Even though we try not to get too confident, we will be very disappointed if we don’t win the title this year,” Bothe said.

“Everyone realizes what we can do. We have to go out and do it,” she said.
Golfers receive top honors

By E. Smith
Lantern staff writer

Top OSU golfers were awarded recently for their efforts during the spring season, with two men’s team members receiving AllAmerican honors and two women’s team members receiving Academic All-American awards.

Low scorers on the men’s team were junior Ted Tryba, who was selected as a second team All-American, and senior Anthony Adams, who earned an honorable mention.

“They were the leaders on our team — they deserved the recognition,” said Jim Brown, men’s golf coach.

High grades and low scores swung senior Jane Kang and junior Cathy Bothc into spots on the Academic All-American Team, selected by the National Golf Coaches Association. Players need to keep at least a 3.5 grade point average and be part of the school’s travelling team to be eligible for the honor.

Jana Edwards, women’s golf coach, said, “They both played great and had good years — it was a pleasure having them on the team.”

Tryba was redshirted last season, but came back to average a score of 71.9 last fall and a team low 73.5 in spring play. He took first in the Northern Intercollegiate in May and finished in the top five in three other tournaments.

Tryba, from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was also named to the All-Big Ten team this year and received an honorable mention for All-American this freshman year.

Brown said, “Ted should be one of the better players in the country next year.”

Adams also earned a spot on the All-Big Ten team for the second year in a row, finishing with a 73.9 average for the spring. A native of Toronto, Canada, he was one of the team’s co-captains and placed in the top 10 six times in tournament play.

Brown said he was impressed with the consistency Adams showed in his play this season, which marked the end of his collegiate career.

This was the third Academic All-American award for Kang, ending her OSU career with a 77.3 average and graduating Summa Cum Laude with a 3.86 accumulative grade point average.

She was also selected by coaches as Big Ten Co-Player of the Year, sharing the honor with Tracy Chapman of Indiana University.
Ohio State golfers to play in Japan

Ohio State will be one of four American college golf teams playing in the fourth Japanese Friendship Games Sept. 19-21.

Ohio State coach Jim Brown said yesterday that he has chosen Chris Smith, Gary Nicklaus, Chris Rule, Doug Davis and Mike Schafer to play in the 54-hole medal-play tournament at Tanagura Country Club in Fukushima Prefecture, Japan.

"It's a great opportunity for us," said Brown, who has coached Ohio State to 12 of the last 15 Big Ten championships.

Joining Ohio State in the tournament will be Arizona State, Georgia Tech and Fresno State, eight Japanese college teams and the best individual men and women college players in the world.

Smith, Nicklaus and Rule were chosen for their play during the 1988 season, while Davis and Schafer were selected on what they have done this summer.

The Ohio State team leaves Sept. 15 and returns Sept. 23.

Golf team to participate in Japan Friendship Games

By Jay Gross
Lantern staff writer

The OSU men's golf team will be traveling across the Pacific in early September to play in the Japan Friendship Games.

Every year, four teams from America are invited to compete in the games, said Buckeye head coach James Brown.

Brown said Ohio State was invited because of "the way our program is run and how successful we've been over the last several years."

Brown, who is in his 16th season as head coach, said Fresno State, Arizona State and Georgia Tech are the other American teams that will also make the trip.

The preseason polls for collegiate golf are not out yet, but the teams invited to this tournament are some of the best in the country, Brown said.

"The guys seem to be playing well this summer," he said. "The tournament will give us an early indication of how we stack up."

The games are held at the Tanagura Den Has Country Club in the Fukushima Prefecture, about one hour north of Tokyo, he said.

Brown said he will take five OSU golfers with him to the games: junior Gary Nicklaus, son of professional golfer Jack Nicklaus, All-Big Ten junior Chris Smith, sophomore Chris Rule, senior Doug Davis and junior Mike Schafer.

"I'm really excited about the trip," Smith said. "This is the first time the team has gone overseas since I've been here."

Smith said he has had some experience competing in other countries.

"This summer Gary (Nicklaus) and I went over to Scotland to try and qualify for the British Open Championship," Smith said. "I think our experiences over there will help us both play better in this country and when we go to Japan."

Steve Loy, golf coach at Arizona State, said, "What we are going to use the games for is exactly what they are called — Friendship Games."

"We're not looking to take our best team. We are going to reward most of our upperclassmen and our players achieving academic excellence," he said.

Loy said the Sun Devils have been looking forward to this trip for a long time.

"We are planning on having a good time as a team," he said.

Mike Loustalot, assistant coach at Arizona State, said he played in the Friendship Games in 1984.

"It was a great tournament," Loustalot said. "Our team spent a week in close contact with Japanese student-athletes."

Loustalot said the country club had large enough facilities for them to stay and eat at during the six days they played golf.

Of the 11 Japanese teams, Loustalot said only two could compete with the Americans.

"The teams told us they were only able to practice about three times a month. They said they did most of their practicing on the driving range — it showed in their play," he said.

"Unfortunately at that time, only the very wealthy got to play golf in Japan on a regular basis," Loustalot said.

Smith said golf has been really catching on lately in Japan.

"Right now they haven't been playing golf long enough to compete with us. The American teams should be better than the Japanese teams," he said.

He said American golfers are well received by the Japanese.

"It's a friendship match presented by the Japanese to see the American boys play. They bring us over there to learn," Loustalot said.
Creating own name goal of young golfer

By Carla J. Zanetos

Gary Nicklaus is not just the ordinary Joe Schmoe college athlete he would like to be. He is the son of golf pro, Jack Nicklaus.

But (Gary) Nicklaus is ready to make a name for himself, so people will know him for who he is, and not for who his father is.

Nicklaus, a junior from North Palm Beach, Fla., is one of the co-captains on the OSU men’s golf team. He has received two Vanities Letters and his lowest round this season was a 69 at Lagoon Park, Montgomery, Ala.

But his father’s success has had an affect on him, Nicklaus said.

"THERE’S BEEN TIMES when I’ve wanted to play golf and wanted to be good," Nicklaus said. "And there’s been times when I’ve despised golf. . .was very apprehensive about the game."

Nicklaus said he felt this way after the Sports Illustrated cover story on him when he was 16-years-old.

According to Nicklaus, the article basically said "He (Gary) would become the next (Jack) Nicklaus."

"The only reason I was on there was because of my dad,” Nicklaus said. "It was a great honor, but I didn’t deserve it."

Nicklaus said he was very negative about the whole matter. He quit playing golf for a couple of months after the article because people would bother him and say things about the story every time he went out on the golf course.

"I JUST WANTED to be left alone,” Nicklaus said.

But then he said he realized, "Hey, why am I letting a stupid Sports Illustrated article curvethe way that I think of what I want to do."

"My goal is to make myself Gary Nicklaus, not Jack Nicklaus’ son,” Nicklaus said. "I’m going to make a name for myself — and I will do that. "I don’t care what people say or whoever thinks I’m going to be or wants me to be. I’m going to do what I think I’m capable to do."

Would Nicklaus have played golf if his father had not been such a renowned golfer?

"That’s a hard question," Nicklaus said. "I didn’t grow up any other way."

"PEOPLE HAVE THE tendency to imitate what their parents do, and that’s basically how I got started."

Nicklaus said his father never pushed him into golf, but his parents were supportive of all their children’s decisions.

Nicklaus said he comes from a very athletic family. His oldest brother, Jackie, played golf at the University of North Carolina and his youngest brother, Mike, plays golf and football in high school. His brother Steve played football for Florida State University while his sister Nan was a volleyball player at the University of Georgia.

Gary Grout of the OSU men’s golf team said Jack Nicklaus has had a positive affect on his son by helping him with his game and talking with his son a lot on the phone about the game.

Nicklaus said his father is his main teacher.

HE SAID IF he is having trouble with his swing or needs some help with his golf game, his father is always there to help him out.

"Whether it takes him altering his schedule and just flying into Columbus for a day or so, he’s always there for the mental support or whatever," Nicklaus said. "And my mom — you know how moms are," Nicklaus said. "They’re the biggest defenders of the family, of their kids."

"You can mess with me, but don’t mess with my kids,” that’s my mom," Nicklaus said. "That’s a big thing about our family. We all support each other."

"We’re a very family-oriented family — the family comes first."

HE SAID THE second most influential person in his life was Jack Grout, who taught him some of the same skills that he taught his father.

Grout started teaching his father when he was 10-years-old and taught him throughout Nicklaus’ life until Grout died last year during the Memorial Tournament of cancer, Nicklaus said.

Nicklaus said he really enjoys playing with his father, and that "yes" he has beaten his dad.

"It’s like playing with my best friends (when I play with my dad)," Nicklaus said. "I think it makes him just as happy when I beat him as it does me because he likes to see us do well."

Nicklaus is not pleased with his performance this year. He has made some swing changes this season and worked on his game.

"HE’S WORKED A lot harder on his game this year," Brown said. "Whenever you make changes in your golf game it’s going to take a while before you really have it down and have confidence when you play in a tournament."

"Next year is his final. With the changes he’s made he’ll come back and be one of our better players next year, and that’s what we’re looking for."

Nicklaus began swinging at the balls when he was about 5-year-old. He said he played in his first tournament, Pewee, when he was about 7-years-old. He competed in two U.S.G.A. Junior Championships. The first time when he was 15-years-old, which was the third youngest of all time. His father was the second youngest, Nicklaus said.

He (Gary) also participated in four U.S. Amateurs.
OSU faces tough clubs in regional
8 of top 25 golf teams in tourney at Scarlet

By Bob Baptist
Dispatch Sports Reporter

It hasn't been a typical golf season at Ohio State.
By this time each year, the Buckeyes usually have a handful of tournament victories in their bags. When they defended their Big Ten championship last weekend, however, it was their first win of 1990.
The players told coach Jim Brown to give the trophy to his wife. Judy Brown has been battling leukemia since November and last week underwent a second round of chemotherapy.
"It's been a hard season," Brown said earlier this week.
The challenge continues today through Saturday in the NCAA Central Region qualifying tournament at OSU's Scarlet Course. The 54-hole event has the top 21 teams from three districts, including eight of the top 25 teams in the most recent poll by the nation's coaches. Defending NCAA champion Oklahoma and No. 1-ranked Oklahoma State are among the entries.
Tee times are from 7:30 a.m. to 12:28 p.m. the first two days and from 7:30 a.m. to 12:08 p.m. Saturday.
The top 10 teams and two individuals in the regional advance to the NCAA championships June 6-9 in Tarpon Springs, Fla.
"Sounds like a lot, doesn't it?" Brown said. "But it's tough. You've got five teams in there you know are going to qualify unless they fall flat on their faces. After that, everyone else is capable of going. We're in that group."
The Buckeyes also rode the bubble into the regional in Dallas last year, and it burst under them. They finished 14th and failed to make the NCAA tournament for the first time in Brown's 16 seasons as head coach.

"I think our team is playing better than we were last year at this time," said junior Chris Smith, who Sunday won the Big Ten individual title and yesterday was named conference player of the year.
"It's also a big help being on your home course. It will be hard for the guys from the South to come north and play on our bent grass, just like it was hard for us to go down there last year and play on the Bermuda."
Senior Doug Davis, junior Craig Kanada and sophomores Steve Runge and Chris Rule complete the OSU team. Junior Gary Nicklaus lost his spot in the starting lineup three weeks ago because of poor play.
"If we play like we can, we'll get out of here," Brown said. "But it's been Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde all year. Luckily, it was Dr. Jekyll last week."
The Buckeyes were good enough in the Southeastern Intercollegiate in Montgomery, Ala., in March to shoot a team total of 17-under-par 271 in one round. They were bad enough in April to shoot 307 each of the last two rounds and lose their Kepler Intercollegiate for only the fifth time in 22 years.
Four times in six tournaments, OSU finished second or third. "We just couldn't seem to get over the hump," Brown said.
"It was a lack of experience. We're old, age-wise. But experience-wise, in tournament golf, it just wasn't there."
Brown challenged the team after the Kepler to hurdle the hump during the "second season." It began last weekend with the 11-stroke victory in the Big Ten.
"Going into the last round, we had a five-shot lead," Smith said. "For us to play good the last round felt really satisfying. It's been hard for a lot of the guys who don't have a lot of experience to play well down the stretch when we needed to."
The mental strain hasn't been confined to the course. Judy Brown's illness has made it "a tough time for everyone," Smith said.
She is more than the coach's wife of 22 years. She has hand-lettered and numbered the main scoreboard at Scarlet for almost every tournament during her husband's tenure at OSU, and she has been a second mom to his golfers.
"She really does everything she can to make us all feel at home," Smith said. "We're all really close to her. She's a big part of the program."
Ohio State’s Craig Kanada sends a short chip shot onto the fourth green during the final round action of the Robert Kepler Invitational Sunday. The Buckeyes went on to capture the team title finishing 21 points ahead of second place Northwestern. Kanada tied for fourth place in the individual standings.

Ohio State golfers victorious, capture Kepler championship

The OSU men’s golf team, led by Chris Smith’s second straight tournament win, captured the 23rd annual Kepler Intercollegiate title this past weekend.

The tournament, which was played at the University Scarlet Course, proved to be a record-setting one for Smith as well as the team.

Smith, a senior from Rochester, Ind., fired rounds of 71, 69 and 70 for a 6-under-par 210 total, a tournament record. The previous record of 211 was set in 1991 by former Buckeye and current PGA player Joey Sindelar.

“I knew I had to two-putt the last hole (to break the record),” Smith said. “It’s really not that important at the beginning of the week but it just makes the win that much better.”

Smith’s 210 was three shots better than second-place finisher Steve Edgley of Northwestern. Last year’s individual titlist, Frank Lickliter of Wright State, finished third, seven shots behind Smith.

As a team, Ohio State had totals of 292, 298 and 293 for an 883 final score, a team scoring record. Head coach Jim Brown also said the Buckeyes broke the team scoring mark for each individual round.

“We set an 18, 36 and 54 hole record,” Brown said. “This tournament has been going on for 23 years and we shattered every record. Those scores would win the NCAA championship here.”

The Buckeyes lead the tournament from start to finish and finished 21 shots ahead of second-place Northwestern. Defending champion Miami (OH) finished in a tie for third with Ball State at 890, 23 shots behind Ohio State.

Ohio State has now won 10 of the last 11 Kepler tournaments and 18 out of 23.

“All we wanted to do was win and to win by this many is just a plus,” Smith said.

Individually for the Buckeyes Craig Kanada finished in a tie for fourth at 218, Gary Nicklaus tied for sixth at 219, Ken Vanko tied for 37th at 226 and Steve Runge tied for 48th at 228.

“We really played good and we got to keep playing good,” Brown said. “We have a tournament this week and then the Big Ten’s coming up and that’s what we’re aiming for.”
Buckeyes miss 20th golf championship

By Steve Walker
Lantern staff writer

Ohio State's bid for a 20th Big Ten golf championship, and third in a row, fell a little short this past weekend.

The Buckeyes finished second, 11 shots behind champion Indiana on the South Golf Course of Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind.

Ohio State held the lead after 18 holes and posted the best score of the day in the last round, but the second and third rounds were the deciding factors.

"We went over there with the idea of winning," OSU coach Jim Brown said. "We played excellent the first and last round but we didn't play anywhere close to our potential in the middle two rounds. We were outputted and outchipped."

Defending Big Ten champion Chris Smith of Ohio State finished in a tie for fourth with Steve Edgley of Northwestern at even par 284. Schaun Michele of Indiana won the individual title with an 8-under-par 276. He was followed by Ron Wuenste of Wisconsin at 280 and Trevor Beard of Illinois at 283.

"He (Chris Smith) was disappointed, but things happen like that," Brown said. "You're not going to play good all the time."

Even though Smith did not win the tournament, his efforts were good enough to earn All-Big Ten honors for the fourth consecutive year. Only three other Buckeye golfers have ever accomplished that feat.

Rounding out the scores for Ohio State were Ken Vanko at 286, Gary Nicklaus, 290, Curt Sanders, 291 and Craig Kanada, 297.

The Buckeyes will now travel to Bartlesville, Okla., for the NCAA Central Regional, May 23-25, where Ohio State has drawn the No. 1 seed. The field has 21 teams with the top 10 advancing to the NCAA Championships, June 5-8, in Monterey, Calif.

Two other regional qualifier sites will also send teams to the NCAA Championships.

"We gotta get pumped," Brown said. "That's the team's attitude and that's my attitude. You can't dwell on the negative, that's in the past."
Gary Nicklaus is playing in his last tournament for Ohio State

Gary Nicklaus has no regrets
Uneventful Ohio State career closing with NCAA

By Bob Baptiste
Dispatch Sports Reporter

It is possible for a Nicklaus to be in Columbus and attract no more attention than the guy standing next to you on the driving range. Gary Nicklaus is proof.

Seems it was only yesterday that Ohio State men's golf coach Jim Brown was announcing that the son of the program's most famous product would return to his father's hometown to attend the father's alma mater. But when the NCAA championships begin today at Poppy Hills in Monterey, Calif., it will be Gary's last tournament for OSU.

It also will be his last chance to win a college tournament.

"There are times when I think, 'Where would I be if I was a little more serious about it earlier?'" he said. "But then there are times when I say, 'Hey, I had a good time.'"

Nicklaus, 22, who is scheduled to graduate in August with a degree in finance, has earned a varsity letter each of his four seasons as a Buckeye, and has been in more often than out of the starting lineup.

But it wasn't until this spring that he began to consistently show the form that has been expected of him since Sports Illustrated, in a 1985 cover story two months after his 16th birthday, headlined him "The Next Nicklaus."

On May 4, in the Midwestern Invitational in DeKalb, Ill., he had the best finish of his OSU career, a tie for fourth place. Two weeks ago, he had a career-best 54-hole score, 2-under-par 214, in tying for eighth in the NCAA Central Regional in Bartlesville, Okla. His season scoring average of 73.4 strokes per round is the best of his career by a stroke and ranks second on the team to fellow...

senior Chris Smith’s 72.5.

“Gary has played fantastic,” Brown said. “This is the way I hoped it would be for four years.”

Some of why it hasn’t been, Nicklaus said, may be because he has always been working toward a point that lies beyond college golf.

“Part of the reason I didn’t play as well as I could have my first three years here is I was not afraid to fiddle with my swing and make changes in order to better myself for the future,” he said. “I’m not looking at what I can do next year. I’m looking at what I can do the next 15 or 20 years.”

The rest of the reason, he said, might be because he didn’t practice as much as he should have in his first two years at OSU. He was enjoying what could be termed the “total college experience” and wasn’t particularly concerned with what lay beyond it.

That changed late in 1989, when he decided that, with work, he could reach the level required to play the game as a professional.

“I didn’t play well last year, but I practiced a lot harder,” he said. “I really didn’t get much out of my practice until late in the summer. Then I got sick, and that kind of set me back again.”

Nicklaus was in Colorado preparing for the U.S. Amateur when he was hospitalized with myocarditis, an inflammation of the heart muscle and tissue surrounding it that likely was brought on by a virus.

He missed the fall season while recovering from the illness, but he returned to the lineup March 1 and has played in all nine of OSU’s tournaments since.

“He’s staying away from the big numbers,” Brown said. “He always made a lot of birdies, but then he’d put in a triple (bogey) or double (bogey) and he’d be at 76 or 77. Now he’s making bogeys when he’s in trouble.

“He’s playing with so much confidence now, I’d be shocked if he doesn’t play well in the NCAA.”

Nicklaus said he’s playing well enough to win. He was in position to at the regional, but three bogeys in the last five holes left him three strokes behind at the end.

“I didn’t finish that well,” he said, “but when you don’t get into contention too often, that’s hard to do sometimes.”

The regional also provided a glimpse of a situation Nicklaus has learned to handle — being the son of Jack, who showed up to watch the final round and, Brown said, “probably set a world record for autographs.”

For months after the Sports Illustrated article, Gary said he “wanted nothing to do with anybody that had anything to do with golf.” But he’s learned to handle the inevitable comparisons. Had he not, it’s doubtful he could have handled four years of not winning a tournament at OSU. He might not even have come to school here.

“I’ve always had the attitude that, ‘Hey, if you want to think of me as Jack Nicklaus’ son and I should be a great player because of my name, that’s pretty ignorant on your part,’” he said. “‘Treat me for who I am and what I do, not for who my father is and what he’s done.’”
A Great Golf Tradition

Ohio State University and there are many reasons Ohio State is the only northern team to have won a national championship. The Buckeyes did it twice: once in 1945 and again in 1979. Another reason for the rich Ohio State golf tradition is the golf course. The Scarlet course is by far the best collegiate golf course in the country. If you’ve ever played it you know why the OSU scarlet is ranked in the top 100 golf courses in the United States.

Another reason for the great OSU golf tradition may be the more than 75 golf courses in central Ohio available to budding collegiate players, future pros and recreational golfers. When PGA superstar John Cook visited Columbus and The Ohio State University he thought he’d “died and gone to heaven.”

Probably the number one reason The Ohio State University is noted for golf can be summed up in two words, “Golden Bear.”

Jack Nicklaus did for central Ohio golf what “Magic Johnson” did for professional basketball and Wayne Gretzky for hockey. Nicklaus has become the most recognized golfer in the game. Since winning the United States Open in 1962, Nicklaus has amassed more than 70 career wins on the PGA Tour. In his third year he already has five wins on the PGA Seniors Tour. His career earnings total more than six million dollars.

Jack now divides his time between both the PGA and the Senior circuit. When he’s not playing golf, he’s helping to improve the game. Nicklaus is an established businessman and golf course architect. He has designed numerous golf courses including Muirfield Village golf course in Dublin, home of the Memorial Tournament. Born in Upper Arlington,

Ted Tryba of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania was an Ohio State student from 1986 to 1989. Congratulations to Ted for gaining exempt status for the PGA Tour this year in his very first attempt. He did it by finishing fourth on the 1992 Ben Hogan Tour money list. Last year Tryba won the Shreveport Open to become the only player to win three consecutive years on the Ben Hogan Tour. His best finish on the PGA was a tie for 40th in the Chattanooga Classic. Ted was a four time All Big Ten and three time NCAA All-American. Ted Tryba now lives in Orlando, Florida.

Nicklaus started a tradition for all OSU golfers to follow

COLUMBUS (AP) — The trophies dominate everything in the house that Jack built. But not in the way they were intended.

At the already cramped pro shop at Ohio State's Scarlet and Gray Courses, trophies are everywhere — on the floor, stacked in corners, holding doors open. They've never been velvet or polished.

In a corner, a makeshift shelving sag from the weight of dozens of trophies. In the office of men's golf coach Jim Brown, four Big Ten team championship trophies sit atop an old bookshelf, collecting dust.

No one pays much attention to the clutter. Tradition is important at Ohio State, but not as important as the next trophy to be won.

“Our golf program has as much tradition as any in the country,” said Brown, whose teams have finished first or second in the Big Ten all 20 years that he has been the golf coach. The Buckeyes were second to Wisconsin just last weekend.

Ohio State, coached by Robert Kepler, won the men's national championship in 1946, back when college golf was the end of the line. There were few teams, and only a few players had the wherewithal to turn pro and travel around the country hoping at least to break even on expenses.

For all intents and purposes, Ohio State became a major player in golf on the day in 1960 an overweight pharmacist's son from nearby Upper Arlington enrolled at Ohio State.

On a wall of the pro shop is a plaque that reads: "The Ohio State University Golf Courses, Collegiate Home of Jack Nicklaus. The Greatest Golfer To Ever Play The Game."

Nicklaus went on to win the NCAA title in 1961, two U.S. Amateur championships, 18 Grand Slam events and 71 PGA tournaments.

He also shed the weight. But the list of professional stars with a Buckeye pedigree doesn't end with the Golden Bear.

There is Tom Weiskopf, winner of 15 tour events including the British Open and now, like Nicklaus, an accomplished course architect.

John Cook won three times last year on tour, was third in earnings with $1,165,606, and was runner-up in the British Open and PGA Championship. "There's history here," says Joey Sindelar, who has won more than $3 million on tour since leading Ohio State to a national championship in 1979.

"Nicklaus is the best who's ever played," Weiskopf had one of the best swings ever and Cook is one of the best modern players. It wasn't just a shot in the dark with Nicklaus landing there. He was followed by a lot of great players."

Six-time PGA winner Ed Sneed, senior tour players Dick Svyran and Jerry McGee and others such as Clark Burroughs, Greg Ladner, Brian Maggs, Chris Perry and Ted Tryba also left their mark at Ohio State.

As the list grows longer, the challenges increase. Ohio State, battling the year-round programs in the Sun Belt, is the last northern college to win the NCAA title (1976).

The women's team, which has won eight of the last 15 Big Ten titles, has upheld its end of the tradition.

Former Buckeye Meg Mallon, who captured two major championships two years ago, won the LPGA's Sara Lee Classic two weeks ago.

Rosie Jones, Karin Mundinger, Cathy Gerring and Cheryl Stacy have all played or are playing on tour.

Gerring, on hiatus from the tour after an accident at a tournament two years ago, is a volunteer assistant coach with the OSU women's team.

Some members of the men's and women's teams were drawn by the Nicklaus' legacy. But almost as important is the Scarlet Course, annually selected by major golf publications as the No. 1 college course in the country.

It was designed in 1932 by Dr. Alister MacKenzie, who also drew up the plans for Augusta National.

"If you can play Scarlet, you can play anywhere in the country," said Therese Hesson, in her first year as the women's golf coach after 12 years on the LPGA tour. "Your stroke average might be higher here than on some other courses because it's so tough. But that only helps you further down the road."

Scarlet has hosted the women's NCAA tournament 12 times and hosted the men's tournament eight times — more than any other course in the country.

This week, it will be the site of the NCAA Central Regional golf tournament, which will include teams from Texas, Arkansas, Houston, Oklahoma State and Ohio State.
OSU golfers survive terrible final round, get NCAA berth

By Ken Creutz
Lantern sports writer

It has been the same story all year for the OSU men’s golf team — no consistency at home. But this time it was lucky.

The Buckeyes shot a terrible final round in the NCAA Central Regional Championship Friday, but they were able to finish in the top ten, advancing them to the NCAA National Championship.

"It doesn’t take a rocket scientist to figure out that we haven’t been able to put it all together in one tournament," said junior Ken Vanko.

Ohio State went into the final round in sixth place after firing a stellar second round, and appeared to be taking charge, but Friday’s poor performance almost ended the Buckeyes’ season.

"It’s not like we had to play a spectacular round," Coach Jim Brown said.

"I was out of it all day," Sims said. "I started off bad and I never really recovered."

Ohio State finished ninth, shooting a team total of 897. Only the top-10 teams advance to NCAA’s.

Kent State won the tournament, firing a team total of 870, 13 strokes better than second-place finisher Texas.

"If you can shoot like that on this course, you can really play," said Oklahoma State Coach Mike Holder, whose team finished third. "Kent State was a little too tough to handle for everyone."

Kent State Coach Herb Page said his team’s depth has been the secret to its success.

"The nicest thing about this team is that it’s a different guy playing great everyday," Page said. "That’s what does it for Kent State golf."

Kent State’s Donnie Darr went into the final hole Friday needing a birdie to win and a par to tie. After a 20-foot birdie putt slid just by the hole, he was left with a 4-footer for par. He missed.

The miss gave the individual championship to Michigan State’s Heath Fell, who fired a three-round 69-72-73—214, leading his team to an eighth-place finish and a trip to the NCAA’s.

"I didn’t mean to hit it that hard," Darr said. "You always have to give the ball a chance."

Darr said it was the first time he three-putted on the 18th hole in his last six tournaments.

Darr finished in a three-way tie for second with teammate Kevin Kraft and Minnesota’s Joe Gullion. Darr shot a 70-70-75—215 for the tournament.

Fell said he’s pleased with his victory and is optimistic about going to the NCAA’s.

"I’m happy to be going, and there’s no reason why I shouldn’t finish high," Fell said.

The top-10 finishers in the tournament were No. 1 Kent State, No. 2 Texas, No. 3 Oklahoma State, No. 4 Oklahoma, No. 5 Minnesota, No. 6 Southwestern Louisiana and Arkansas, No. 8 Michigan State, No. 9 Ohio State and No. 10 Kansas.

The top-10 teams earned a bid to the NCAA’s on June 3-6 in Lexington, Ky.

Ball State’s Darrett Brinker and Colorado’s Bobby Kalinowski are the individuals who also earned a trip to the NCAA’s.
Three central Ohio golfers, Ohio State's Steve Anderson of Circleville and Kent State's Kevin Kraft of Granville and Eric Frischette of Carroll, have been named to the coaches' NCAA District 4 all-stars. Also chosen was Curt Sanders of Ohio State.
OSU golfer Curt Sanders, a junior from Conway, S.C., was selected to compete in the U.S.—Japan Collegiate Friendship Matches, which will be held June 26 through July 3 in Fukushima, Japan.

Sanders is one of eight male and four female collegiate golfers who were chosen by the Golf Coaches Association of America to play against Japan in the tournament.

Sanders placed in the top 20 in every tournament Ohio State competed in between March and May.

For the Buckeyes, Sanders was honored as Big Ten Player of the Month in April and earned all-conference for the second consecutive year.
Men's golf ends season with Regional tie

The OSU men's golf team almost made it to the NCAA Championships again this year but suffered a disappointing tie-breaker loss to Miami (Ohio) in the NCAA Central Regionals, putting an end to all hopes of Ohio State participating in the NCAA Championships.

OSU coach Jim Brown had taken the team to the championships 19 times, including 15 consecutive appearances.

This will be only the second year the team did not make it to the championships under Brown.

Brown was unhappy with his team's performance in the tournament but took solace in their overall season effort.

"We didn't achieve the goals we set forth, so it was a little disappointing," he said. "But the season wasn't a complete bust."

Brown pointed out that one tournament should not describe their season achievements and that next year is looking better.

"We won four tournaments and played with four freshman that got good experience for next year," he said.

The Central Regional tournament took place this past weekend in Oklahoma City, Okla., at the Oklahoma City Golf & Country Club. The Texas Longhorns took first place out of 21 teams as they finished with a score of 281-284-286-851.

The Buckeyes shot 871 for the tournament (293-292-286), finishing in a tie for 10th place with Miami, who shot a 287-293-291=871.

Individual medalist for the Buckeyes were junior Bobby Sims who finished in 21st-place with a 216, senior Curt Sanders at 23rd with a 216, freshman Chris Wollmann at 58th with a 221, freshman Didier DeVooght at 64th with a 222 and senior Ken Vanko at 71st with a 223.

Ohio State finished ninth in the Central Region last year, which led to an invitation to the NCAA Championships.

For the season, the Buckeyes finished fourth in the Big Ten, marking the first time the Buckeyes have placed lower than second in the tournament in the last 20 years.

The NCAA Championships will take place in Dallas, Texas on June 1-4 at the Stonebridge Country Club.
Men's golf places third in Kepler Invitational

By Bill Cassidy
Lantern sports writer

The Ohio State men's golf team took third place over the weekend as they watched the Kent State Golden Flashers waltz home with their third consecutive Kepler Intercollegiate title at the OSU Scarlet Course.

The Golden Flashes finished the tournament at 893, eight strokes better than the University of Iowa at 901 and nine better than the Buckeyes, who finished at 902.

OSU stumbled out of the gate on Friday, shooting a 24-over-par 312. They were tied with Miami of Ohio for eighth place after the first round.

Head Coach Jim Brown said the 312 was the highest first-round score he has seen the Buckeyes shoot at the Scarlet Course.

OSU came out rejuvenated on Saturday, firing a field-low 292, and putting themselves in position to make a run at the title.

After playing well on Saturday, the Buckeyes looked poised to make that run at Kent State on Sunday.

They had made up much of the ground and had a couple of players under par, but they could not overcome Kent State's lead.

"I knew that if we could put together two good rounds we could win the tournament. We had a pretty good day Saturday, and started off real well on Sunday. (But) we lost some shots to par on Sunday and that was it," Brown said.

Brown said he was disappointed with the loss because of the good play as of late and the home course advantage.

"I was disappointed because we had built some good momentum going into the tournament," he said. "When you play at home you have to get the victories."

Although it was a disappointing finish for the Buckeyes, at least one good event came out of the tournament.

Chris Wollmann, a sophomore from Parma, shot three consecutive 73's to capture the individual title with a 219 total.

Wollman was followed by Bobby Sims at 223, Ryan Armour at 230, Didier de Vooght at 232 and Jon Doctor at 233.

Wollmann has had a few runner-up finishes, but this was his first individual title as a Buckeye.

"It feels pretty good. I have played well for so many weeks and it feels good to actually win one," Wollmann said.

Conditions were not perfect for play all weekend, but Wollmann managed to stay pretty consistent over the three-day tournament.

"You just have to stay with it out there, because the weather is not going to change," he said. "I got it near the greens, got it up and down and made some putts. That was the key."

Brown said this victory is terrific for Wollmann and will give him a lot of confidence down the stretch.
OSU men's golf team wins Big Ten title

By David Fong

The tradition continues. The Ohio State men’s golf team continued a tradition of strong OSU golf teams as they captured their 20th Big Ten Championship at the University of Wisconsin this weekend.

The Buckeyes had little trouble taking the title. The Buckeyes fired a four-round team score of 1175, placing them 22 strokes of Purdue, who finished second with a score of 1197.

OSU was led by sophomore Chris Wollman, who finished second in the individual competition. Wollman fired a 289, five strokes behind Scott Rowe of Northwestern, who won the tournament with a 284. Wollman's score was good enough to earn him a spot on the all-Big Ten team.

Freshman Ryan Armour and senior Bobby Sims also made the all-conference team as they finished sixth and seventh, respectively.

In addition, OSU head coach Jim Brown was named Big Ten coach of the year. Brown, who has been Ohio State's coach for 22 years, has claimed 14 Big Ten titles. Brown, the winningest coach in OSU golf history, has produced 71 all-Big Ten selections.

Brown and the Buckeyes will head to the University of Houston next weekend for the NCAA Central Regional competition. The Buckeyes will host the NCAA Championship tournament May 31-June 3 at the University Scarlet Course.
OSU golfers named All-Big Ten

By Bill Cassidy
Lantern sportswriter

After claiming their first Big Ten team title in four years, the OSU men's golf team took home several individual awards as well.

Head coach Jim Brown, the winningest coach in OSU history, received Big Ten Coach of the Year honors. The tournament victory marks his 14th Big Ten Championship, and 21st time finishing either champion or runner-up.

Brown was not the only Buckeye to return from the championships with an individual award.

Bobby Sims, a senior from Jacksonville, Ill., Chris Wollmann, a sophomore from Parma and Ryan Armour, a freshman from Silver Lakes have been named to the 1995 All-Big Ten Conference team.

Sims, who finished 7th in the Big Ten Championships and is averaging 73.7 strokes per round, said that he is honored to be named All-Big Ten, but that the team's Big Ten title was more important.

"We have had a good year, and so has Ryan (Armour) and Chris (Wollmann). It was nice to have a few of us on the team," Sims said. "Being selected is great but winning the Big Ten as a team was more of a thrill for me than any individual honors."

Wollmann, who is averaging 73 strokes per round this season, was also happy with the selection but was still more impressed with the Big Ten title.

"We have been pretty successful, things have been building up for me and the team for a while. I am glad I was named to the team but the team victories are a little more meaningful," Wollmann said.

Armour, in his first campaign as a Buckeye and averaging a 75.6 in 26 tournaments, said that being selected to the all-conference team was never a primary goal.

"When I am playing for OSU, I never look at the game from an individual standpoint. Individual golf is for the summer, when you come home you think about the team," he said.

Men's golf team revels in Big Ten title

By Bill Cassidy
Lantern sportswriter

A Big Ten Championship brings a special feeling of pride, achievement and excitement to any team, but for the OSU men's golf team, it is an especially sweet victory.

The Buckeyes, who dominated the Big Ten from 1975 to 1990 with 13 victories and two second place finishes, had not won a Big Ten title since 1990. The victory gave OSU its 20th overall Big Ten Championship.

Team captain, Bobby Sims, a senior from Jacksonville, Ill. said that he had never won a Big Ten Championship and that it was as senior was great.

"The win feels pretty good. The guys have been playing very well and that was no exception in the championships," Sims said. "We won this one in style and put a pretty good hurting on everybody. The tournament really wasn't even close and that was kind of nice."

The Buckeyes ran away with the Championship by firing a four round total of 1175 to leave Purdue in second place, 22 strokes behind the Buckeyes.

This was Sims' last Big Ten Championship and he said he was glad he could end his college career with the title.

"The victory got the championship back to Columbus where it belongs. I would of hated to have left here and not have brought a Big Ten Championship back to OSU," he said.

Winning the championship as a senior was important to Sims but the title also means a lot to the younger players.

Chris Wollmann, a sophomore from Parma who placed second individually at the Big Ten Championship, was also excited about the win.

"This win feels real good. It had been a while since we won a Big Ten title and it was the perfect time," Wollmann said.

Wollmann said that this team has had a special feeling around them for a while now and the Big Ten Championship capped off a successful few weeks.

"This team has a good feeling right now. We have won the last two tournaments and have had some real strong finishes. You can kind of see the confidence building on this team by just being around us," he said.

Some success of the Buckeyes in the last few tournaments has led to this renewed confidence has been consistent play, focus, and the emergence of freshman Ryan Armour.

Armour, from Silver Lakes, finished 6th in the Big Ten Championship and thinks this victory will get the team ready for the rest of the season.

"It was a big tournament for us. To go up there and win, it is a lot of momentum going into the regional tournament," he said.

Armour said that the victory has been one of the teams goals from the beginning of the season.

"Coach (Jim) Brown has always talked about how we play all year for the Big Ten's, and the NCAA's. He was sure to instill in all of us that the championships are pretty important," Armour said.

A Big Ten Championship win has a different feeling than a regular tournament and with it comes a satisfaction of a special accomplishment, Armour said.

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

VARSITY GOLF

A PROUD AND UNIQUE TRADITION

Those golfers who have played or are now playing for The Ohio State University realizes that it is more than an individual pride. We have inherited something. We have inherited a program that has been made into something very significant and we must compliment it. We all must add to it and take from it. Everyone must contribute.

The making of this program has depended on a lot of people — L.W. St. John, Richard Larkins, Ed Weaver, Mike Godman, George Eckelberry, George Sargent, Francis Marzloff, Harold Olsen, Floyd Stahl, Rod Myers, Billy Gilbert, Johnny Lorms, Howard Baker Sanders, Tom Nieporte, Rick Jones, Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf, Ed Sneed, John Cook, Joey Sindelar, Chris Perry, Clark Burroughs, many others, most of all Robert Kepler — and they are all proud of it. They are proud of what they inherited. Many of us may not have been the best of players, but we must keep making a contribution to the golf program to keep it going.

The following pages have been compiled with the thought of providing you Buckeyes, past and present, with some factual data that is a part of this great heritage that you and I are a part of and privileged to continue to support.

Men's Golf Season Comes To An End

COLUMBUS, Ohio—The Buckeyes have concluded the 2000-01 season with an 11th place finish at the NCAA Central Regional Tournament last weekend at the par-72 Karsten Creek Golf Club in Stillwater, Okla. The tournament was hosted by Oklahoma State.

The Buckeyes tied with Tulsa, shooting a three-round total of 893 to fall just one stroke shy of being eligible for the NCAA tournament to be held in Durham, N.C., May 30-June 2.

"We've got to grow from this," Brown said. "We were still in there going in, only five shots behind the Big Ten Title, but we just didn't play very well in the second round."

Mike Austin (Sr., Burton, Mich./Flint Powers Catholic), in his final collegiate tournament, led the Buckeyes with a fifth-place finish, scoring 68-75-73=216.

Kevin Hall (Fr., Cincinnati, Ohio/St. Rita) recorded a 74-77-73-224 to finish in 50th place. Jason Oien (Jr., New Albany, Ohio/Westerville North) concluded the tournament in 55th place, scoring 76-75-74=225. Ryan Dennis (Jr., Stow, Ohio/Walsh Jesuit) finished in 97th place with a 231, while Justin Collins (Sr., Ironhton, Ohio/Ironton) carded a 233 for 111th place.

Lineup To Stay Strong

With Austin, the only senior lost from this season's lineup, Coach Brown said prospects for next year's squad are good.

"Next year we will have Collins, Oien, Dennis and Hall who played a significant number of tournaments this season," Brown said. "They have some good experience and we have some good freshman recruits coming up. We will have a smaller squad next year and I think this will work in the team's favor."

Season In Review

The Buckeyes took a while to warm up this season but won back their winning reputation with two tournament titles, a bid for the NCAA Regionals, and a third-place finish in the Big Ten.

The Buckeyes won the Marshall Invitational, April 6-7 and broke a tournament record. The Buckeyes also took top honors at the Kepler Tournament hosted by OSU.

Individually, the Buckeye squad contained some tough competitors with Mike Austin taking medalist honors at the Marshall Invite while tying the tournament record set back in 1997. Austin also finished second in the Big Ten. Freshman Hall proved to be an asset in only his second collegiate tournament, the Kepler, when he finished in second place.

2000-01 Buckeye Honors

The Buckeyes finished the season with many individual honors.

First, Austin was named to the All-Big Ten team. Austin also made the All-tournament team and the All-District Four NCAA team. Austin also received Academic All-American honors and a scholar athlete for the fourth year. Austin was this year's recipient of the Robert Kepler Award, the Scarlet and Gray Top Buckeye Award and received the Lowest Stroke Average Award, ending the season with a 73.3.

Oien also received Academic All-American and scholar athlete honors. Oien was honored with the Tom Weiskopf Award.

Other scholar athlete Buckeyes are Brian Williams. A J. Quinter and Scott Anderson.

Mike Austin Says Goodbye

Team leader, Mike Austin, has completed his last collegiate season ending his four years with the Buckeyes. Austin has been a huge contributor to the team. He won team captain for the second-consecutive year this past season, a well-deserved title.

Austin has competed in all 14 tournaments this season, making for 43 rounds with a stroke average of 73.3, the lowest on the team.

Austin won medalist honors at the Marshall Invitational and broke the tournament record for lowest score after two rounds and tied the tournament record for lowest individual score. As a team, OSU broke the record for lowest team score of the tournament.

Austin holds the record low round of this season with the Buckeyes, shooting a 65 at the Gator Invitational, Feb. 10. He has broken the season record twice for lowest tourney, scoring 208 at the Gator Invitational, Feb. 10-11 and at the Marshall Invitational, April 6-7.

Buckeyes To Host Preview

The Buckeyes will host three tournaments next season—the Ping/Golf Week Preview, the annual Kepler tournament and NCAA Regionals.

The Ping/Golf Week Preview will be Sept. 25-29 at the OSU Scarlet Course and will feature the top 15-17 teams in the country.

"The preview is here next season and we’ll have the chance to compete against the best schools in the nation," Brown said. "We’ll have a smaller squad next season and so we should be ready to go."

Each year the hosting school for the NCAA tournament also hosts the Ping/Golf Week Preview in order to have the hosting school’s home course checked to be sure it meets all NCAA regulations. This year the meet will be held at the OSU Scarlet Course.
