 Scores of thousands of Hebrews, among them scores who fought in the Yishuv army, have traveled through the Yishuv on their way to the Holy Land, to take part in the Aliya. The people are waiting for news of their relatives and friends who have already arrived in Eretz Yisrael.

The people are waiting for news of their relatives and friends who have already arrived in Eretz Yisrael.

On October 13, 1939, the Hebrew newspaper Haaretz published a report on the Aliya. The report was written by Jacob Ben-Zvi, a well-known journalist and later the first president of the State of Israel.

The report begins with a description of the Aliya: "Thousands of Hebrews are currently en route to Eretz Yisrael, among them scores who fought in the Yishuv army. They are waiting for news of their relatives and friends who have already arrived in Eretz Yisrael."

The report goes on to describe the difficulties faced by the Aliyanim, such as finding housing and work. It also mentions the joy and hope that the Aliyanim feel in their return to their homeland.

The report ends with a call to action: "The people are waiting for news of their relatives and friends who have already arrived in Eretz Yisrael. Let us all do our part to assist them in their journey."

The report was published in the Hebrew language, and it was accompanied by a photograph of a group of Aliyanim on their way to Eretz Yisrael.
