Seanachas ha-Shafir Anuim

Abridged

"And rejoice not, my son, with the joy of the dance; and go not into the field to gather grapes, whilst the song is joyless; and the shout of joy be restrained."

And it came to pass, when the days of the song of Hannah were fulfilled, that sheendid her vow. And her son was called Shimea, the same is Shimea the Amminadav; and he was born to Hannah in those days. And when he was weaned, Hannah took a three year old burnt offering, and brought it unto the house of the Lord, and offered it. And took with her seven lambs, and three dozen ears of corn, and a full bottle of wine, and brought them unto the priest Jesse, the son of Shimea. And the priest took the offering, and laid it in the midst of the burnt offering that was on the altar. And he said, "Hannah, my daughter, why dost thou weep? and why is this to thee? shall it be that the Lord hath kept thee from having children?" And she said, "I pray thee, my lord, give me of the child, that I may nurse him, and that he may bless me." And he said, "It shall be as thy word hath been spoken, that thou shalt give me of the child." And it came to pass when she had given the child unto Hannah, that she laid her hand upon her mouth, and said, "Let thy hand be upon me that I may die, not seeing the good of the child." And she blessed Hannah, and said, "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, the God of your mother, who hath given thee this child."

And the child Shimea grew, and was strong, and was given unto Hannah. And she went and vowed a vow, and said, "If the Lord shall give me a son, then I will keep him whole in the hand of the Lord, for a Levite." And it came to pass after these things, that Hannah gave her son Shimea unto the Lord, and offered him a burnt offering, and made a vow unto the Lord. And it came to pass when Hannah had made the vow, that she went unto the house of the Lord, and offered a burnt offering, and laid it on the altar. And the priest took the offering, and laid it on the altar, and said, "Hannah, my daughter, why dost thou weep? and why is this to thee? shall it be that the Lord hath kept thee from having children?"
